STRATHCONA CUP IS WON BY "A" CO. AT INSPECTION

High School Cadets Are Congratulated On Smart Appearance

WELL TRAINED

Medals Were Presented To Winners In the Shooting Competitions

Cadets inspected were the High School Cadets for their annual Inspection by Captain Heron, R.C.R., of Kingston, on the High School grounds this morning. Companies A and B, the band, and signallers all presented the smartest appearance and gloss that is possible as they swung past the inspecting officer. Captain J. Howard, a professor at the High School has had the training of the Cadet Corps under his care this year, and it is apparent due to his efficient instruction that the Belleville Cadet Corps has risen from grade II cadets, to Grade A this year. For the last four years the youthful soldiers have held a grade B since.

Sharp at 10 a.m. Captain Heron arrived at the High School grounds. Immediately upon his inspecting officer's arrived Cadet Commanding Officer Charles Galway ordered the cadets to Salute and with the band playing and the cadets at "Present Arms" the Captain took the Salute.

The Officers

Commanding Officer Charles Galway, Adjutant Raymond Ross. Cadet Officer Palmer. A Company: Cadet Officer F. Faulkner, B. Company: Lieutenants C. Lazers, A. Sprague, G. Lloyd, W. Prentice, V. Noakes, J. Cousins, M. Davison and K. Chadwick; Officer Cadets: Duff (observer) and Carmichaller and Officer Jack Redfern, the band.

Much interest was shown in the competition between companies A and B for the trophy donated by the companies. Both went through drill manoeuvers, parading past the Inspecting Officer several times and giving examples of Arms drill. Captain Heron stated that both companies were so good that he could not discriminate between them and ordered a toss-up coin, the winner to receive the Strathcona Cup, donated for the smartest company. Company A won this event.

Immediately after the competition, Captain Heron called cadets twelve men from each company to decide the one of smartest appearance in either one. Eugene Hamilton was declared the smartest soldier in A company, while Pat Dickson was found to be the

LIQUOR STORES OPENED TODAY

The New Law Was Inaugurated Without "Fuss Or Ceremony"

Toronto, June 1.—Prohibition in this province in the form of the Ontario Temperance Act passed out at midnight. This morning at ten o'clock the sale of liquor under the regulations of the Liquor Control Act became effective with the opening of eighteen Government stores in various parts of the province.

The Ontario Temperance Act was proclaimed as a war measure in 1916. Under this law sale of liquor legally was restricted to "medicinal requirements" obtained on a doctor's prescriptions. Under the new system inaugurated today any resident or resident of the province 21 years of age and over, who is armed with a permit, may purchase, small or spirituous liquors at Government stores for "beverage purposes" and carry it away or have it delivered by carter or mail, for consumption in the residence or domicile of the purchaser.

The new system came into effect without "fuss or ceremony" in the words of W. B. Hanna, Chairman of the Liquor Control Board. It was decided by the Board yesterday that state rooms on lake vessels will not constitute a residence where liquor may be consumed under law.

BELLEVILLE WAS VERY DRY FOR ONE NIGHT AT LEAST

As the Ontario Temperance Act was they were either "not at home" or in its dying hours last evening, it was their supply had been cleaned out. almost impossible to obtain liquor in this city. The druggists had interdicted their remaining stock and reported same and the bootleggers' supplies were unloaded which higher prices were obtainable, as today all holders of permits will be able to go to the Government stores and secure liquor at prices which are much cheaper than those asked by the bootleggers.

The Intelligencer sent two reporters on a round of all the known bootleggers last evening and found that already exhausted their supply.

The "vendors" interviewed stated that as June 1st drew near their source of supply was cut off and they did not anticipate any further demand of liquor from them.

The newspapermen then secured some "scrips" from a local doctor for which they paid one dollar each and upon going to several drug stores to have them filled, found that the druggists had either made a report of the quantity of their stock or had already exhausted their supply.

WAITING IN LINE

Bellevillian In Toronto Took Two Days To Get His Permit Honored

"I had to wait in line two hours to get my permit cashed at the Toronto Government Liquor Store" was the answer in a wire sent from The Intelligencer to a Belleville in Toronto asking him how the sales were coming on in the Queen City on the opening day of the enforcement of Government Control.

Montreal, Que., June 1.—The findings and recommendations based on the Ontario evidence taken by the Royal Commission will be divided under three heads.

First, there will be a general submission as to conditions in respect to Commercial smuggling on the Ontario Border. Then, there will be a special report on conditions in border counties where export liquor houses operate, with special application to the payment or non-payment of income tax on profits made in this business. Finally there will be a submission covering the Ontario Breweries.

This was announced by Hon. C. W. Rowell, K.C., commission counsel, at the opening of sittings in the province of Quebec, here today. He stated, however, that findings in respect to the export houses and income tax will not be ready until Monday. It is probable, therefore, that all findings will be asked for then.

Clearing Up Ontario

The commission devoted the morning to evidence of witnesses left over from the Ontario sittings. This witnesses who did not turn up in Toronto, were examined. H. F. Kuntz, managing director of the Kuntz Brewery, Waterloo, who was asked about the camouflage of cars of Kuntz beer for export purposes and E. Siegle, who said he is in the ice business at St. Thomas.

"How much did you pay for Goodfellow and Watt's shacks?" their commissioner Brown asked Mr. Seigel.

"About $30.00 cost."

"Who did you sell it for?"

"About $32.00."

"Pretty hard for us to believe that," commented the other commissioner.

"It's the honest to God truth."

Mr. Siegel denied that his beauty had camouflaged any cars of beer.

NEW TRAFFIC COP

Is Old Friend To Many Belleville Motorists But No Friend To Some

Major William Harris, who has been highway traffic officer around this city for the past few weeks received word last evening to report to Ottawa at the beginning of next week for duty there. Officer Frink who was here acting highway traffic officer during the year 1925 is succeeding Major Harris in this district.

Since coming to Belleville Major Harris has made many friends and his departure from this city will be sincerely regretted.

GEORGE YOUNG WILL TRAIN FOR RACE AT GLEN ISLAND

George Young, winner of the Santa Lake Ontario, which is probably the Catalina Channel swimming marathon will be a near neighbour of Belleville shortly, his trainer Henry O'Bryne has rented Glen Isle, five miles from Picton as training quarters for him during the summer for the $50,000 marathon at Toronto in August.

The situation chosen is owned by Mrs. Williams of Toronto who conducts a summer colony, renting the pretty cot tages in connection with a big dining room in which Toronto students act as waiters during the season. The attractive facilities are excellent. The water, being sheltered, is at all times several degrees warmer than that of

FIRE MARSHALL'S CRITICISMS ARE NOT JUSTIFIED

FORCE COMPETENT

Would Like To Have Larger Brigade If Council Is Willing

Next Wednesday afternoon at 3.30 the Belleville Fire Brigade will give a demonstration of fire fighting in the City Hall Square. This is partly in answer to the criticism uttered by Fire Marshall George Lewis at the Rotary luncheon on Monday last and partly to show the citizens of Belleville and surrounding towns an opportunity of seeing a real fire brigade in action.

The demonstration is staged in connection with the great picture "The Fire Brigade" which will be shown at the Belle Theatre on the three following days, June 9th, 10th and 11th under the auspices of the International Fire Chiefs' Association. The local parade will try to break the record in answering a call, laying a line of hose, erecting ladders, etc., and will also give a demonstration of life-saving from the upper stories of buildings.

Marshall Is Misinformed

Chief Brown this morning strongly resented the criticism of Mr. Lewis, claiming that they were founded on misinformation and general lack of knowledge of the local situation. The Fire Marshall condemned the local brigade under six main points:

(1) That the hose trucks are under power.

Chief Brown states that the three trucks which Mr. Lewis says are incapable of making fifty to fifty-five miles an hour, which is faster than they will allow them to travel. The new truck has not yet been extended to its full speed as it has not yet been driven five hundred miles, but is quite capable to making more than fifty when required.

(2) That the city needs a triple combination hose and chemical truck. The Chief declares that he can always get at least eighty pounds pressure on the water mains which is ample for the height of the buildings in Belleville and that a pumper would be rather a luxury than a necessity.

(3) That the steam fire engine is obsolete.

The answer to that is the engine is not used and not necessary. It is a piece of fire equipment which could be dispensed with.

(4) No fire alarm system.

Telephone System Works

The chief states that the present system of telephones from the city hall to the brigade at his house exactly where the fire is and saves time in reaching the scene.

(5) and (6) That the brigade is understaffed for a two stations system.

The chief admits that he would like to have more men but that while a two platoon system is in operation the men are always subject to call in case of a fire. Fire Marshall Lewis said that in a city the size of Belleville there should be seventeen men on duty in the hall at night. Twenty-three on night but Chief Brown weighs whether the taxpayers would care to have this recommendation carried out. He stated above the whole of the personnel of the force was efficient in case of fire and he considers that an such number of firemen is absolutely unnecessary.

Would Like Larger Force

Formerly there were five auxiliary men who were paid a monthly salary to attended dollars a year each, who could be called on in an emergency but the city council dispensed with their services on the grounds of economy. The fire chief would like to see this system here re-established.

Chief Brown contends that the fire losses in Belleville are not heavy. Last year they totalled somethjing over thirty-eight thousand dollars, of ever two-thirds, of which were ac-

PROVINCIALS ARE CUT IN STRENGTH

Many Good Officers Lose Places With End of the O. T. A.

Notice of numerous changes in the personnel of the staff of the Provincial Police in District Number 5, was received by Inspector Loughead at the local headquarters last morning. The alterations were made necessary by the inauguration of the new Liquor Control Act which became effective to-day. General V. A. S. Williams Provincial Police Commissioner notified the Inspecters in charge of each district and they in turn informed the officers of the recent rulings.

As a result several well-known faces will disappear from the ranks of the officers stationed in the local district but the Government measure necessitated the cutting down of the force. There is a possibility that the officers affected may upon application be given positions by the Liquor Control Board in the liquor stores, and breweries. W. B. Hanna, chairman of the Liquor Board may assign those dismissed from the Provincial Department Act forces to new positions.

Local Changes

The local headquarters staff remains as at present. Officers W. H. Nugent and Edward Hill rose to the best known of Hastings Provincial Police, service are among those whose positions auto matically terminate with the Government Control enforcement.

Officers W. Warren, of Haliburton County, Coodrich of Cobourg and Evejy of Napanee who served as Ontario Temperance Act Inspectors received notice that their services were no long er required.

Officer avid Sylvester who has been licence inspectre in the Belleville District becomes attached to the Headquarters Staff as a Provincial Constable and D. H. Porter and J. Stewart of Peterborough have also been transferred to the same service and remain under Inspector Loughreds inspectorate. These positions will be known as Grade A, and the officers will have the same power as the Provincial Constables.

It is believed that the Premier will present the reply to Lord Lloyd, British High Commissioner, within the next twenty-four hours.

While the newspaper Egyptian states that the Government will not fully agree to the British claims, it adds that the reply is so framed as to leave the door open for further negotiations.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

"I am persuaded that this union will inspire new confidence in our stability and exercise the most beneficial influence on all our affairs. I believe it will raise the value of our public securities, that it will draw capital to our shores and secure the prosecution of all legitimate enterprises."—from Hon. George Brown's speech on "Confederation," in the Legislative Assembly, Feb. 8th, 1865.

CHECK ON DRIVERS

The licensing of motor-car drivers is a regulation so obviously wise and even necessary to public safety that the long delay in introducing it in this province is rather strange. The need of it has often been urged by the press. The minister of highways has decided that such a regulation shall forthwith become effective and will prove to be a good thing, and it will come into effect on July 1.

There is to be a nominal license fee of a dollar, but it is not for the sake of the revenue that the regulation is to be introduced; it is to enable the public authorities to keep a check upon reckless or inefficient drivers, in order that the public—people on foot and in cars—may be protected.

All motor accidents will be reported to the highways department—the only those which are causes of criminal prosecutions and civil actions, but also those which, although not causing injury to person or property, are evidently caused by inefficient driving. The circumstances in each case will be investigated, and if the driver is to blame his license will be cancelled or suspended.

No one will get a license unless he or she is qualified either by experience or tuition. Six months' experience in driving will be accepted as sufficient qualification; but all applicants for licenses who have had no practical experience will have to pass an examination.

With a stiff penalty for driving without a license, this regulation ought to be useful in helping to make the roadways safer for humanity.

PATRONIZING U. S.

Speaking before the United States National Foreign Trade Convention in Detroit last week, Mr. John F. Tinsley, of Worcester, Mass., spoke of the trade between Canada and the United States as "a partnership." "Canada" he said, "furnishes an increasing percentage of raw material, and the United States sends to the Dominion the finished products."

As it was "Canadian Day" at the convention, and as Mr. Tinsley was speaking to Canadians, no doubt he meant to be complimentary. What we wonder is whether Canadians present thought the statement a compliment to Canada. Did they cheer when they were told, in this patronizing way, of the glories of a partnership which sees them as hewers of wood and drawers of water for the citizens of the rich Republic?

THE CENTRE

When the Earl of Oxford and Asquith was plain Mr. Asquith, a hamlet in Saskatchewan was named after him. He recalled this recently in a speech in London in which he said the centre of the Empire had been named after himself.

A few days ago the Board of Trade of Asquith decided to write to Lord Oxford, and get data from his lordship the foundation for his statement. If he can satisfy his correspondents, and he doubtless can, it will be recorded in concrete to be weather-worn by time alone. The Asquith Board of Trade will inscribe it on a plate, inset on a "large monument," testifying to "the thousands of tourists from the United States and other places attracted merely for the purpose of visiting the centre of the British Empire."

Meanwhile the claim that Asquith Sask., is the centre of the British Empire is not undisputed. For instance, an Irishman challenging the assertion said "Here we're all gathered in this riotous peace, after supping this drop of health, and wishing nothing less than that the curse of Cromwell be put on him who'd hurt the hair on the head of any living at the unrockable centre of the British Empire, which, as we all here in auld Mullingar don't mind feeling proud to know is at Mullingar, Sask., over beyond in Canada."

Mullingar, by the way, is not far from Asquith. Which of the two is "it" shall we decide it by the surveyor's rod and chain, or concede Lord Asquith's claim?

MOB STORM JAIL BATTLE 6 HOURS

Eleven Wounded By Sheriffs' Fire—Sought Confessed Murderer

Tampa, Fla., June 1.—A six-hour battle between police officers and infuriated civilians that counted eleven persons wounded ended this morning when a company of one hundred national guardsmen took up a position behind machine guns and tear-gas bombs in the Hillsborough jail here.

Throughout the night a mob of 2,000 persons had stormed the jail in an attempt to get to D. F. Levins, confessed murderer. Despite assurances of Sheriff Hiers that the prisoner had been removed to another jail, the mob remained in their attempts to break into the jail and were not deterred even when the sheriff ordered his deputies to open fire on the crowd. Nine men and two women are known to have been wounded.

Streams of ammonia, played by a chemical squad of the local fire department, were resorted to by the officers, but the mob refused to disperse.

END GOULD SUIT AFTER 11 YEARS

New York, June 1.—Settlement of the Gould accounting suit, ending eleven years in litigation, was approved to-day by Supreme Court Justice Tierney.

The suit, involving upwards of $100,000,000, was brought first in 1916 by executors and trustees of the estate of Jay Gould for a construction of his will to guide future administration of the residuary estate.

When Jay Gould died he left six children. The four are Edith, George, Edwin, Helen and Howard, were named as executors. Anna and Frank were minors.

The estate was appraised at $84,500,000, excluding Louisiana land, subsequently realizing $12,000,000.

It was not until May 26, 1922, that the estate was divided into six trust funds, as provided in Gould's will. Referee James A. O'Gorman has had under consideration the amount of these various trust funds, and it was his report which Justice Tierney approved to-day.

While no official price list of spirituous liquors, wines, and beer has yet been received, despatches from Toronto state that the price of whiskies will be about the same or slightly lower than in Quebec, with other spirituous liquors priced on the same level.

The staff of the present dispensary are preparing for the change. two extra clerks having been employed, while it will be necessary to put in many hours of overtime in order to take stock and complete the many details arising out of the transfer.

5000 Crippled Children
JUNIOR RED CROSS

In ways children love, they learn to keep healthy . . . to drink milk and lots of water . . . to go to bed early and get lots of sleep . . . to care for their teeth . . . to be clean and tidy . . . to avoid passing disease germs to others.

Teachers welcome Junior Red Cross with its voluntary pledge of Health, Service and Citizenship. It brings the spirit of play into the acquiring of health habits . . . it is an invaluable aid to the teacher. It develops consideration for others . . . the idea of service for the common good. A gospel of doing which succeeds!

That other children, crippled by disease and injury, may be made well, they earn or save money to provide needed treatment.

Red Cross Juniors are not allowed to ask their parents for money for this purpose. In countless little ways which they themselves devise, they provide the small sums which together do such great service.

Since the war over 5000 crippled children whose parents could not meet the cost have been restored to health by the unselfish efforts of Red Cross Juniors.

To inspire our future citizens with a passion for healthy living! To encourage them to help their less fortunate fellows! Isn't the job worth while? Teachers and health officials say it cannot be done so well in any other way. This is only part of the work the Red Cross is doing for the soldiers, women, children and settlers of Canada. To YOU the Red Cross appeals for support in carrying on this and its other work.

GIRLS WHO OUTGROW IDEALS OF MOTHER

By ELSIE MARLOWE

"Can a woman love—really love—more than once?" wails Constance. Constance is sure she can't. And yet—

Six years ago Constance married Ellery. She was nineteen—scarlet lips smoky hair, eyes like dreaming amoolg ering black pearls set in ivory. He was twenty-three—tall and golden, with a big laughing mouth and freckles on his little boy nose. And their love was a rainbow that arched the world.

The fragrant miracle of Constance —

The young laughing wonder of Ellery—

The fairy-tale marvel of that first tiny home—

And then, in one short year, heart-break and terror and despair. For Ellery lay dead. And Constance beat her maddened, helpless hands against the silence and the night.

That was five years ago. For a year she groped and fumbled her way back to life—hating the very struggle that she made—longing to die. Slowly she found her place again—took up the little tasks—taught girls to smile, dull ears to listen, darkened eyes to see. Slowly she made herself into a woman again, did Life helped. Life sent healing to the shattered nerves, strength to the drained blood, energy to the wasted body.

Dan who listened while she talked about Ellery and patted her shoulder and said: "there, there, little girl," when she wept.

Dear, comforting Dan. How good it was to have a friend like that. How could she ever thank him——

And then one night, as they sat together over a pamphlet supper of coffee and rhubarb pie, Dan told her how she could thank him. Suddenly his arms were around her, and his voice was stumbling, breaking with the hot rush of his love for her and he was begging her to marry him.

And in her shock and anger Constance pushed him away and ran crying and there herself on the couch in an agony of bewilderment and loneliness.

How had he dared to say these things to her? Didn't he know she was still Ellery's wife—just as much Ellery's wife as if he were still living? How dared he think that she could forget her darying, ever, ever, EVER?

So she stormed and wept while Dan watched her quietly, patiently, and then tip toed gently out of the room. But not out of her life.

He was back the very next night. Back with the same quiet, understanding comradeship, listening while she tried to make him see how she had loved Ellery—how she could never, NEVER love any other man. When she was all through he put his hand over hers and said: "All right, Connie. Love it your own way now. But some day you'll love me. No—don't look like that. I'm not saying you'll ever forget Ellery. I don't want you to forget him. But some day you'll love me also."

That was six months ago—and now Connie's heart turns this way and that in bewilderment. For what is this new, warm flood of tenderness for Dan? Still she is hearing the wonder of Ellery's laugh—still part of her is living in those sweet, lost days. But, side by side with all that sacred, grieving memory, this new yearning buds and blossoms.

"Can a woman love—really love more than once?" wails Constance.

Yes, Connie, dear, she can.

Love isn't a beautiful gift which, once broken can never be repaired. Love isn't a detached, particular experience. Love is like the sap in the tree, like the tide in the sea, like the sunset and sunrise, like birth and death and birth again.

Love won't be the same with Dan as it was with Ellery. Love with Ellery wouldn't have stayed the same. Life flows. Bubbling ecstasy past, the current deepens, a new and graver purpose comes. But oh! it can be so wonderful—even though the current is salted with tears, sister. And Love will be just as wonderful if you'll give yourself up to it. Do not reach for the old delight. Don't try to forget it. Just accept it as something the years gave which was inexpressibly sweet, and when then passed on trash you could not follow. And now step forward bravely, hopefully and follow this new trail. Take Love now, not as a joyous gift, but as a deliberate adventure—an adventure which you will make glorious if you will give and take with a brave and willing heart.

A-lvice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl of seventeen and am in love with a young man who pretends that he loves me and yet he goes about with other girls. I am very much upset. What am I to do?

DARKIE.

DARKIE: There may be no pretense about this boy's love for you, my dear. The fact that he has other girls should not lead you to believe that he does not care for you. It means only that he does not want to limit his friendships and in this he is right.

Go out with your friends and don't be "upset" if he does the same. It is the surest method of bringing both of you to the realization of your love.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have been going with a boy for some time. Now he has stopped coming and I know I said something that made him angry.

Would it be all right for me to call him and find out why he is angry?

LONESOME GIRL.

LONESOME GIRL: If you are certain that you said something to offend this young man, then it is up to you to make the first move toward reconciliation. I suggest that you write your friend a note asking him why he is angry with you and telling him that if you have done anything to offend him you want to apologize. If he is still interested in you, he will be only too glad to accept your apology and resume your friendship.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl a few months past eighteen and am engaged to be married.

The man I am engaged to seemed to love me. Recently he went to another State to see his folks. He has not written to me since he left. He has been gone almost three weeks and I have not heard from him.

His brother has not heard from him either, I would like to know what you think about it?

JUST WONDERING.

JUST WONDERING: If anything had occurred to prevent him from writing it is more than likely that you would have heard about it from your fiance's brother. Therefore it is rash to be hasty in forming conclusions. He may have some perfectly good reason for failing to write you.

Of course, it is just possible that he has had a change of heart and is afraid to write you about it. If you do not hear from him shortly, I would advise you to obtain his address from his brother and write him for an explanation. You might say that you construe his silence to mean a change of heart. Ask him to state definitely the status of your engagement.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Large lumps of unbaked lime plaster in damp corners of the cellar will greatly purify the air and absorb the moisture.

Marks on brown shoes can be removed successfully with a cork which has been rubbed over the inside of a banana skin. Polish with a soft rag afterward.

Again it is time to get out the sun parlor furniture and see what has to be done to make it presentable and cheery for the warmer months. First, a good scrubbing with a stiff brush and salt and water—not soap. Then a coat of shellac may be applied to give it a fresh appearance. New cretonnes may be added, using the old coverings as patterns and thus saving a big upholstery bill.

A scintillating effect is given to a new evening gown by Jeanne Lanvin by a number of small mirrors and steel spangles with which the black taffeta is embroidered and the large bow of mauve ribbon on the right hip with two streamers reaching to the ground, is another striking feature.

WHAT'S NEW
(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Collars and cuffs of clipped ostrich are being seen on new evening coats.

Crocheted coats were a smart novelty at the Devon Horse Show, and tan shades were favored in knitted sports attire.

London reports that the flat bow of ribbon on the "early-morning" hat should be caught down by a small bar brooch of silver filigree incrusted with sparks of cut steel, and the watch bracelet should match this bar.

Brown tones already have been indicated as leading fall colors, and it is hoped that variations, such as deep golden apricot and chestnut tones should be included, while one of the newest featured by many prominent Paris couturieres, is "Praline," a dark bois de rose, which has the appearance of cocoa tinctured with rose and Jenny Philippe et Gaston Premet, and Renee are among its sponsors.

From Paris comes the latest method of using straw, which is now so supple and so fine that it can almost compete with lace, and, since we prefer felt for our heads, we are offered straw for our collars and cuffs, for a set tuned recently was in cream and worn on a brown sports costume, flared slightly in cavalier fashion, and so like the Milanese lace were they that one had to look twice to discover they were really straw.

SINCLAIR'S

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN

By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER XXXI.

The Indifferent M. D.

Sybil sat at breakfast in the sunny window of her charming apartment and looked amoross the Park, crisp and sparkling that winter morning, at dozens like it gleaming heads flashed through it. The sunlight twinkled on the panes of thousand windows of fashionable apartment-buildings along Central Park West.

Sybil wore a delectable negligee of peach-colored velvet, edged with marabou. She was groomed and polished into such a product as only the skillful Hilda could turn out. The world looked especially good to her that morning, as she dawdled over her rolls and coffee.

For, she reflected, had she not two victims in the hollow of her hand, both crying for their own destruction?

Before her was a letter from Serge Patton, enclosing the program of his concert and a photograph of himself, languishing over his violin, on the cover. He said he would be in town that afternoon and asked her to have tea with him. "Just us, alone—so we can talk. I want to tell you of my success——" I was really a riot—but only you, of all the world, can give me the praise I crave."

In a vase at her elbow was a sheaf of dark red roses—a tribute from the latest flame—Lieutenant Sheldon. Sybil was lunching with him that day at the Ritz.

"How easy they are!" she thought, with a curl of her scarlet lip. "They are fairly ask for what they're going to get."

She sighed a little, wishing for a subject that presented a more sporting proposition.

As she looked back over the last few months, the brightness faded from her morning. She reflected, with dissatisfaction, that she, as yet, hadn't brought much havoc in the world of men. The Dan Brady affair had resulted in the reform of the victim and the banishment of Mrs. Brady, although the poor woman probably didn't know to whom she owed thanks.

Regarding Arthur Winslow, Sybil was undecided. Yesterday's glimpse of him had showed her that he was managing to get along, even though she had knocked his paternal support from under him. She had heard, through her mother, that Wilmlow, Sr., was obdurate and that there was no hope of reconciliation. The Children's Hospital was as good as possessed already of the Winslow fortune.

As soon she went out, groomed to perfection for young Sheldon's undoing. Her eyes were brilliantly hard with resolution, and her red lips lean and petulant.

As she waited for the elevator, a man emerged from the apartment opposite hers, closing the door sharply behind him. He carried a small black bag which, Sybil noted, bore in silver the letters: "D. M. M. D."

She lifted her gaze to his face and saw first a strong, definitely attractive profile, with a very straight well-cut nose and a firm chin.

He turned slightly and glanced at her inattentively. His gray eyes had a preoccupied look and his dark brows were drawn together in a perplexed frown. His face was lean and expressive of character.

"Doctor," thought Sybil idly, "as if he had a nasty temper. He seems to be angry now."

AN EVERYDAY STORY

Francis Henry Cook

London, Ont.—"I was in a general run-down state of health. I had poor digestion and my stomach was weak and so sore I could not bear to touch it. I got where I did not have any health at all and was not able to follow my regular line of work. I saw where Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was recommended for stomach trouble so I decided to try it and it relieved me of my indigestion and weak stomach, also the abdominal distress and built me up in health. I can highly recommend the 'Golden Medical Discovery' to anyone who suffers as I did. It is excellent!"—Francis Henry Cook, 471 Elizabeth St.

She wondered who her neighbor was and if he or she was very ill.

Just then the elevator rose in the cage, and the man stepped back to permit Sybil to enter. It was a mechanical gesture of courtesy, and she was pained that he seemed to be unaware of her presence. Men weren't usually indifferent, but this person's stray eyes passed over her abstractedly, without noticing her i nthe least.

Ever since the discovery of germs, and their relation to disease, men of science have been ever on the effort toward the development of preventive measures for combating infections at their sources.

The problem of securing a germicide which is strong enough to do this, but which will not harm the most delicate membrane, has been solved by the discovery of Dr. Chase's Every-Day Mouth Wash.

INTER-CITY CUP FOR LOCAL CLUB

Peterboro Kiwanis Brought Travelling Trophy To Belleville

Local Kiwanians now have possession of the interclty travelling cup, presented by the District for the promotion of Inter Club relations.

About twenty-two representatives of Peterboro Kiwanis came to town last evening and the presentation of the large silver cup by Kiwanian Jack Turner, of Peterboro, was but one outstanding event in the big luncheon at the Queen's. In the absence of George Lee, District Trustee, the Silver Cup was accepted on behalf of Belleville Kiwanis by Harry Brant.

Music, song and jollity gave the affair a true Kiwanis spirit. Charles Hanna, in charge of the local part of the entertainment, had his programme well prepared, and the local soloists Hugh Middlemiss and Roy Rickard never were better. Kiwanian Vern Morton of the visiting Club also made a big hit with his solos.

Past President Jack Marshall of the Petes, the speaker of the evening, delivered an inspiring address relative to Confederation, and the duties of Kiwanians to their country, in loyalty, true service and fraternal effort to aid. He "the other fellow, if the heritage of a great country handed down is to be treasured, and if Canada continue to advance."

A vote of Thanks to the speaker was fittingly moved by Peter McLaurin.

Members of the Peterboro Club were enthusiastic in the expression of their appreciation at the reception accorded them last evening and voiced the sentiment that the local Club would soon prepare some be their guests on the Limestock City.

Underground development on Wright-Hargreaves has been thrown into high gear. Twenty-five rock drills now at number at work three months ago. Ore is being developed at a much greater rate than the amount being sent through the mill.

Perhaps the more impressive feature in connection with Wright Hargreaves is the fact that the property is close to 4,000 feet in length and sitting entirely astride the main zone of mineralization. On the one end of Wright Hargreaves is the Lake Shore Mine, while on the other end is the Sylvanite.

The enlarged mill of about 700 daily capacity will go into full operation in June. From present indications the enlarged plant will be able to produce at a rate of around 2,500,000 annually and with net profits running over $2,000, a year. This indicates dividends at about double the rate prevailing during the past year.

MASSEY GETS DEGREE FROM U. S. UNIVERSITY

Lexington, Ky., May 31.—Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian minister to the United States, will address the English speaking Union of Louisville today. The Canadian envoy was entertained last night at the Ashland Gold Club at a dinner given by the Pi Sigma Alpha, political science fraternity of the University of Kentucky. Hon. Mr. Massey received the honorary decree of doctor of laws at the sixteenth annual commencement of the university yesterday, when 400 students were graduated. Addressing the students, Hon. Mr. Massey urged world peace through universal education and understanding. The Canadian minister said that University education is passe itself, because of the unifying forces that would result from complete under standing.

"Universities are united against diseases of the mind, against poverty and the spirit" said the speaker. "Spiritual things come together. There is no difference between Universities, a language indigenous, the language of understanding."

Physical Training

A new feature of this inspection was the 3rd" exercises presented by the cadets. Coats, hats and belts were peeled off and the old familiar exercises were carried out by the future soldiers of Canada. "

The entire proceedings took plenty two hours to complete and the hundreds who had assembled to watch enjoyed every minute of the affair. After the companies had finished their drills, the cadets were drawn up into a square and speeches and presentations took place. Medals were presented to the Commanding Officer, Charles Calway, Farley Faulkner and Mr. Palmer, D. C. R. officials and shooting were given to Cadets F. Faulkner, E. Hitchon, M. Davison, D. Chadwick, A. Twomey, A. Eggleton, H. Sprague, C. Mott, H. Young, D. Dalrymple and A. Young. The Hamilton cup for the smarter of the two companies was also presented to Cadet Officer R. Palmer.

Numerous speakers addressed the cadets, including Col. W. N. Ponton, Captain Herron, Rev. John Lyons, Rev. D. Bowman, Principal McLaurin and Mr. John Elliott. All praised the cadets in the glowing terms, remarking how much smarter every year they appeared to be. The two drivers, the Rev. Mr. Lyons and the Rev. Dr. Bowman exhorted the boys to live clean and godly lives and complimented them upon their smart turnouts this morning. Mr. Elliott spoke of the new addition and promised them a half holiday this afternoon. Principal McLaurin said how proud he was of the boys. Col. W. N. Ponton exhorted them to live clean and play the game.

Mr. Bowman, on the cadets' behalf, they had advanced from Class B to Class A for the first time in four years and hoped that they would remain in their higher position.

ASSAULT CHARGE GOES TO JUDGE

Magistrate Mikel Sends the Ketcheson Case To a Higher Court

William Henry Freeman Ketcheson was committed for trial on a charge of assaulting his wife Hazel Pearl Ketcheson on Monday May, 30th by Magistrate Mikel at the preliminary hearing in the Police Court room this morning.

The accused can either elect to be tried at the Session at the Court House on the 14th of June before a jury or by a County Judge immediately without a jury.

Hazel Ketcheson wife of the defendant was the only witness called. She stated that they were married in June 1925 and had lived continuously together until two days ago when the alleged assault took place. On May 28 Mr. Ketcheson called at the back door of her room and took possession. On May 30th after the last altercation took place she left, taking with her the only child and went to live with friends in order to ensure protection for herself and the babe.

All Over a Photograph

Recounting the events of the morning the witness stated that her husband came first and at 8.30 she went down stairs and proceeded to do some dusting. Apparently the domestic trouble had reached the stage where the couple refused to speak to each other and although living under the same roof, Mrs. Ketcheson said that, that, Mrs. Ketcheson said that she picked up a photograph of a lady and was in the act of dusting it and suddenly her husband leaped out of the chair on which he was sitting and attempted to gain possession of the picture and the slave it toward her head and in the scuffle her face was scratched on the right cheek. Mrs. Ketcheson came out and said that was the attack. Continuing her story she testified that she called a girl who was boarding at the house and asked her to stairs in answer to her screams. Her nerves were unstrung and she suffered from shock following the affair.

"What did your husband do then?" queried Mr. Denman.

"He went to the phone and called his daddy telling him to come right over that I accused him of striking me when he was entirely innocent of the offence."

Mr. Payne—"Did your husband not forbid your friend's presence at the house and did you not make a threatening remark to him when you picked the picture up?" "No."

"You weren't antagonizing your husband?"

"No."

"Was he faoing you?"

"I don't know."

More Respectful Answers

Mr. C. A. Payne the defendant counsel became irate at the answers to which, Mrs. Ketcheson answered some of his questions and Bryson Denman, Crown Prosecutor intervened, asking the witness to make her answers in a more respectful manner.

Mr. Payne submitted to the Magistrate that there was no evidence of intention on Mr. McKechnie's part in committing the act.

His Worship said that under the circumstances he could do nothing else but place the case in the hands of a Judge as Mrs. Ketcheson's face had been torn and in an effort to secure the photograph it is abundantly clear that he struck her.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

SWIMMERS TRAIN FOR DOMINION DAY EVENTS

Quite a number of local swimmers are taking advantage of the Y natatorium to get in condition for the Across the Bay race, the annual swimming feature of the Association, which takes place on July 1st. Last year saw the commencement of this event and it is the purpose of the physical department to hold this race every Dominion Day each year.

Last year the announcement of the event did not come in time for the entrees to do much training but notwithstanding that, fairly fast time was made by the winners of the various events. This year however, with the opportunity to get into shape for the race, it is fully expected that new records will be hung up in each of the four sections.

Already there are a number of the younger members in the Y who are able to pass the three quarter mile mark and the "Youngest Member" Section will doubtless provide quite a race on July 1st. The three other sections, ladies, senior and junior should provide keener competition than on the initial occasion. Last years record made by the junior section was slightly faster time than that of the senior swimmers but it is doubtful if such will be the case this year.

With the annual July 1st celebrations on this year, the Across the Bay Race will were in very nearly with the programme of the day and if favored with fair weather will no doubt attract a large following of interested spectators The entries this year will be the same as that of last year, from the Boathouse back to the Government dock at Belleville.

When your decorative is executed by Scanlebury it is not only promptly served for but is always better done while the cost is no greater for this superior service. J-31d

"Mr. Wu" featuring Lon Chaney, is at the Capitol Thursday, Friday and Saturday. A new Lon Chaney film that has just proven a record breaker in Montreal.

MAY HAVE SUMMER

Impossible To Predict So Far Ahead, Says Stupart

Toronto, June 1.—Sir Frederic Stupart, director of the local Dominion meteorological bureau here, in commenting today o nthe predictions of Herbert Browne, of Washington, to the effect that 1927 will be a summerless year, said that he does not regard such a prospect as probable, and that even if the year should prove to be summerless, it would be impossible to foretell the fact this far in advance.

"Even under the most favourable circumstances," Sir Frederic said, "it is only possible to forecast the weather with any accuracy a week in advance. At other times it is difficult to ... in accurate prediction twelve hours ahead. Therefore, it is impossible to say positively that the present year won't be summerless; but it is equally impossible to say that it will be, and I see nothing whatever to justify the theory that it will be."

EX-CHAMPION IS HEAVY WINNER

New York, N. Y., May 27.—Jack Dempsey is out of the horse racing game with a profit of $7,500 according to George Coburn, his trainer, who has bought the ex-champion's horses and will continue to race them under the name of the Canyon Stables.

The principal money winner of Dempsey's string was Old Rockport who won several races after being purchased for $3,000. Dempsey never went to extremes in betting on his horses, Coburn says, his wagers averaging less than $200. His biggest plunge was $500 on Old Rockport at 6 to 5.

Although he is selling his racers, Dempsey likes horses and plans to operate back with "a bigger and better stable" he told Coburn over the telephone from California. The wish to get rid of all excess baggage in his attempted comeback to the ring is given as his reason for disposing of them now.

ROYAL BANK HAS MADE GRANT FOR A CASH PRIZE

Toronto, Ont., June 1 (By Canadian Press)—The Royal Bank of Canada will grant a $1,000 Fellowship or a $500 Cash Prize to the graduate or undergraduate student at a Canadian University who writes the best paper not exceeding 3,000 words in length, on any one of certain specified subjects during the Academic year of 1927-28. The student winning the prize may select either the $1,000 Fellowship at any university in Canada or abroad, or $500 in cash. The papers must be submitted to the Economists Department of The Royal Bank of Canada before March 1, 1928, accompanied by a sealed envelope containing the name of the student. Preference will be given to papers which are non-technical in terminology and most practical in their treatment. The subjects for the 1927-28 Fellowship will be as follows: (1) Does Canada Need a Federal Farm Loan System? A study of the Dr. H. Tory report and Federal Legislation; (2) Canada's Optimum Population and How It May Be Obtained. In this context the word optimum may be defined to mean the total number of people of the type which will be most satisfactory for the building of the nation. (3) The Potential Development of Canadian trade in one of Canada's foreign markets; (4) Economic possibilities of the Maritimes. A study of the Duncan report.

The papers will be judged first by the Economist's Department of the Bank and five of the best will be submitted for final judgment to a committee of prominent men not connected with the Bank.

BELLE THEATRE

In order that the beautiful forest settings of Warner Bros.' production of "Hills of Kentucky," starring Rin-Tin-Tin, might be brought to the screen in all their natural loveliness, light was reflected by a new and clever arrangement of mirrors and reflectors. To reproduce the richness which natural sunlight alone gives, reflections were cast in this manner as far as half a mile.

"Hills of Kentucky," adapted by Graham Baker from "The Untamed Heart" by Dorothy Yost and directed by Howard Bretherton, is a tale of the simple chivalry of the Kentucky hill people and the noble part that a dog played in the lives and loves of the pretty teacher and two half-brothers who sought her favor.

ENTRIES POURING IN FOR HORSE RACES ON FRIDAY

Softball Tournament With Four Leading City Teams

Turf followers will get their first peep at harness racing in Belleville this year on Friday when a large field of horses will face starter Geo. Tice in the annual King's Birthday meet. These races promise to outdo others in past years judging from the list of entries and some fast horses are entered. Twenty-five entrants have already signified their intentions of coming here and Secretary R. H. Ketcheson is receiving more letters daily.

Hamilton Entry

Mr. Ed. Rowe M.P. for Simcoe has promised to send two or three good horses into the contest. Dr. Benson's Abbie Allison has been showing good time in his early season trials but at least six other good horses are entered in the 2/16 trot. The track will be in first-class shape following several weeks of preparation by workers and with good weather promised the races should be of high order. For those who are not interested in the horse races a soft ball tournament pitching four of the city's leading teams will be held.

Foster Ward and Prentenaes will play the first game at 1.30, followed by the Tigers in the second fixture. The third game will see the winners look up for the final game of the afternoon.

The Argyll Light Infantry band will supply the music.

Reserved house seats were placed on sale at Chas. Symons Clothing Store today.

Pittsburgh Victors; Brought Triumph Over Chicago Cubs 10-9

New York, June 1.—The fading Phillies were almost completely smashed at the Polo Grounds yesterday in what was practically a private affair. There were just enough spectators present to make a quorum. However, those who came saw Freddy Lindstrom just about win what started out to be a nice little pitching duel between Dutch Henry, the handsome left-hander, and Jack Scott, the North Carolina tobacco planter.

As long as those who did the pitching it was something of a contest, but after Jack gave way to a pinch-hitter with the score tied in the seventh, Freddy Lindstrom made his successor look silly. The Giants won by a score of 13 to 4, and their rivalries by the aforementioned Mr. Lindstrom were responsible for the majority of the wallops. He also succeeded with two on in the seventh, scoring both runners and breaking the game, and he doubled in two other instances filled in the eighth. Between those two clouts, Walter Maylland Dean, Hal Lee and Weeping Willoughby all passed before the public gaze.

Batting rallies in the four closing innings gave the Pirates a 10 to 9 victory over Chicago at Pittsburgh. Joe Harris' triple, followed by Spencer's single, showed the winning tally across the plate with one out in the ninth. The Pirates battered Bill Hearn and Osborn for 17 hits, including two triples, a double and two singles by Harris, Scott, Cub outfielder, also garnered four safeties including two doubles, for a perfect batting average. Tolsen's home run in the first was the only circuit drive of the game.

Bob McGraw, former Brooklyn right-hander, made his debut with the Cardinals at St. Louis today by holding the Cincinnati Reds to five hits and shutting them out, 1 to 0. The victory put the Cardinals in second place. The only score was Douthit's home run in the eighth.

POINT ANNE AT HOME TO DELORO

Smelters Invade Cement Town With Strong Line-Up

Baseball enthusiasts journeyed to Point Anne this afternoon where the Deloro team opened the season with Point Anne, last year's runners-up in the Bay of Quinte League. Managed by R. A. Elliott the Deloro team have always put a nifer for themselves in Intermediate ball circles but the Point Anne team, reinforced by Harry Blakley, Cretney, Hurley, Alex. Weir and several other good boys will give them a battle from drop of the hat.

The ball diamond at the Point has been rolled and levelled and conmences favorably with either the Belleville or Deloro ball fields. Excellent dug-outs have been erected and other improvements made.

It is a probability that Bill Ralph and Bennett will oppose each other on the mound.

Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, sailed on the Berengaria to fight Tom Milligan, British champion, at Blackpool, England, on June 30.

RUTH POUNDED TWO HOMFRS; IS AHEAD OF 1926

Detroit First-Sacker Retired Three Single-Handed; Cleveland Lost.

Philadelphia, June 1.—Two home-runs for Babe Ruth yesterday in the double-header between the Yankees and the Athletics at Philadelphia have put the Bambino a run ahead of his mark attained at this stage of the 1921 race when he set a world's record by hitting 59 circuit clouts. The Yankee has 16 four-baggers thus far against 15 in this same date in 1921. However, Ruth also had 16 homers to his credit a year ago today. In 1926 he hung up number 16 on May 25.

Hip Collins held the Indians to four hits in winning a pitchers' battle with Garland Buckeye. Besides pitching brilliantly Collins also was his own best support at the bat, getting three safeties in his credit.

Chicago bunched hits off Jones and Vangilder behind wild pitches on balls and closed their at-home stay with a 7 to 2 victory over St. Louis. Herb Blanken ship pitched a steady game.

Sensational pitching duel defeat sustained at Washington yesterday, the Boston Red Sox scored counting runs in the first inning of the game to beat the Senators, 4 to 1. Jacobson with a triple scored Tobin and Flagstead and crossed the plate himself on Bigney's wild relay of Bagshaw's throw. Lisenbee, sensational right-handed recruit, who filed won five out of six games for the Senators since he joined, today, was credited with the defeat.

LEAFS TRIMMED ONCE AGAIN, 7-5

Buffalo Smashed McLaughlin For Four Home Runs

New York, June 1.—The Stars gained the edge on the series and the season over Toronto by defeating the Leafs, 7 to 5, for the third straight victory of the series at Syracuse. To date the Stars have won four in seven from the Leafs. Baltimore, with five wins in seven games, is the only club in the league which holds the edge on the season so far over the Stars.

Lambasting Pitcher McLaughlin for four home runs which produced five of their eight runs, the Bisons made it three out of four over the Rochester Colts at Buffalo today. The score was 8 to 2. Fred Brainard, newly acquired utility man, who is playing second base in the absence of Andy Cohen, who is on the injured list, pasted one of the homers over the left field wall.

HELP KIDNEYS BY DRINKING MORE WATER

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; add a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. The famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

SOFTBALL NOTES

Local fans who were so elated over the pitching of "Babe" Vincent, when she appeared in Belleville last year with the Canadian General Electric team, will have a chance to see her performance again but this time with one of our own teams the Bewers.—Miss Mortimer, her clever catcher, will also line up with her to take care of the catching while she is pitching. Both will be on hand ready to take part in any of the three games of June 2rd and 4th.

For the game with Supremes of Kingston in the evening of June 3rd, Helen Lee, the good little pitcher of last year's Bewers is being groomed to have them to the plate.

Other Beavers who have been out to practice and are ready for Action are Catcher Whalen and Thrasher, Infielders, Cruji, Curry, Melchoir, O'Neil, Outfielders, Cook, Warham, Kellenber.

In addition to the above other players have been out to practice, and as there are three games in a row and there are some who will be out to remaining practices, the above will be well backed up with capable substitutes.

It is costing considerable to put on these games for the benefit of the fans and if they see them through, with general non-donations for the rags, more good games can be arranged.

It is coating the girls or three families money in order to cut down expenses for meals of the Toronto teams.

Games are as follows:

Friday June 3rd.—6.30 p.m. Kingston Supremes vs Beavers on lawn or if weather not permitting possibly inside at 7 p.m.

Saturday, June 4th. Belleville's National and 8 p.m.

ART TREASURES PROBLEM TO THE ART GALLERIES

Toronto, Ont., June 1. (C.P.)—"Art treasures," with neither artistic nor commercial value, are a never-present problem to curators of art galleries throughout Canada.

According to E. R. Greig, curator of the Toronto Gallery of Art, hundreds of persons, living for the most part in the rural districts, labor under the delusion that any picture which has been a family possession for half a century or longer is a collector's piece worthy of gallery prominence.

Many a farmer believes that the crude copy of a famous painting which has decorated his home and that of his father before him is the handiwork of the Old Master himself. And, by letter an and in person, they besiege the art galleries, seeking valuations up on atrocities in oil and water; in steel engraving and in cheap color prints.

"We feel that it is our duty to instruct the public in the true values of pictorial art," remarked the curator; "but naturally we cannot disseminate technical knowledge very widely among totally untrained laymen. I give every attention possible to the letters which pour in here following every exhibition, but I cannot put a price upon the majority of the pictures that are sent to me,—simply because they have no value whatever, save that which sentiment may attach to them.

"Of course we may come dog stumble upon a real 'find' among the flotsam and jetsam which comes to us from back parlors and dusty garrets. That possibility is always before us, but up to now it has not materialized."

The Irony of Love

By Charles Garvice

Rale nodded and turned away. It was hard to leave Glenlyre. As he was making his way back to the house he saw Mr. Gilfillan standing at the manse gates, evidently waiting for him Rale stopped, and the two men regarded each other in silence for a moment; then Rale said, very quietly.

"I'm going, Mr. Gilfillan."

The minister nodded, and held out his hand. "God go with you, dear lad," he said; and, with no further words they parted, but there was some thing in the minister's eyes which brought a gleam of consolation to the stricken man. He was going to do the right thing.

CHAPTER XXXII.

The Eldorado season was thronged, for the hour was that at which when Yorkshire Teddy humorously described as "our evenin'" ex-ams," was in full progress, and the light from the great solar paraffin lamp fell upon many faces familiar to us. Behind the bar was a moon-faced German, alias, a poor successor to Gertrude Jane, and, standing about the room, were many newcomers, for even a small mining camp like Jumping Jane Gap, soon gets stale and always changing. On his accustomed barrel, a sort of woolpack, sat Parchment Joe, surveying the crowd with half-shut eyes and the cynical twist of the lip which had perhaps grown a trifle more cynical and weary since Rale's departure. Seated at a card table near the old lawyer was Yates, noisy as ever, and, as ever, keen on chaffing his partner, Bill. A chestnut to say hilarious air pervaded the assembly, which indicated that Jumping Jane Gap prospered and did well. The calls for drink were frequent. Mingled with the odor of this was the perfume of cheap Havanas, a sure and certain sign that some of the boys had "struck it rich" for a genuine Havana at the Eldorado was well-nigh worth its weight in gold, and only the plutocrat could use to it.

Now and again, when there was a lull in the hubbub, could be heard the neighing of a high wind, and the driving of a heavy rain against the window. And when the door, which had taken the place of the old bat more drafty canvas flap, was opened, it admitted a furious gust, which set the lamp rocking and smoking, and caused these near the entrance to yell abuse at the encmies of any person who showed anything like tardiness in closing the door after him.

The Germanic proprietor of the Eldorado, assisted by Pincher, who was now employed as a bartender, was hard at work, filling glasses and rinsing empty ones; serving out cigarette coupons and distributing packets of tobacco and cigars; when an involuntary exclamation from Parchment Joe, who had taken up a newspaper and had been peering at it through the only remaining glass of his spectacles, caused the landlord to pause for a moment with a great air of surprise for endurance from Parchment Joe were rare.

"What is no matter, Mr. Joe? Some one has read to get you?"

"Parchment Joe, who had not yet forgiven Pat Fitz for daring to stand behind the counter which Gentleman Jim had adorned, cast a half-contemptuous glance at the landlord, grunted and, lifting the paper, sat upon it.

The paragraph which had wrung the exclamation from Joe was that announcing the engagement of Rale and Lady Maude, and, though Joe needed no reminder, the paragraph set him thinking of Rale. He stretched out his hand for his glass and, finding it empty, knocked on the counter with it. Pincher filled it, and Parchment Joe drank slowly and meditatively.

So Rale had found his line, lady-like was going to be married; there was no chance of their seeing him again at Jumping Jane. The last little gleam of hope faded into darkness in Parchment Joe's heart. Well, he was all the better off. Rale was a great swell now, had taken his proper place as his father had hoped that he would do, and it was just as well, perhaps, that he should come to forget the old life, the old rough and disreputable friends.

But he had not forgotten yet, for at intervals, Parchment Joe had received a letter, gladly written and worse spelled, but so precious in the old man's eyes, that though he did not show it round, he never failed to deliver faithfully the messages which it contained for Bill and Yates, and the rest of them, the men Rale had known and loved.

Presently, while Joe was dwelling fondly and proudly on this last bit of news of Rale, the door opened and a man came in. He was a "new chum" and not accustomed to the wild customs which sometimes lure accustomed to the wild customs which sometimes lure accustomed to the wild customs which sometimes lure

JAPS HAVE REAL WISH FOR PEACE

Tokyo, June 2.—Japan's acceptance of President Coolidge's invitation to the Trinoterrite conference on the limitation of naval armaments was inspired by genuine love of peace and a sincere wish to co-operate constructively with the other powers," said Admiral Okada, Minister of the Navy, in an exclusive statement to the associated press today.

He emphasized that his country was ready to reduce its navy to the minimum of defence requirements, but that with this end in view, would engage in frank discussion with the delegates of Great Britain and the United States. "If anybody thinks we simply jumped at this opportunity to limit armaments for financial reasons," he declared "he has never believed to appreciate our type feeling. Our naval institution, actually far from being of aggressive proportions, was never intended to extend beyond the measure justified by defense."

BIRD LOVER WON TRUST OF TINY FEATHERED MOTHERS

Having gained its confidence by approaching it in the manner in which he has taught the Girl Guides to become familiar with birds, Mr. Wallace Havelock Robb, Belleville's naturalist, yesterday had the unusual experience of caressing a little chipping sparrow as she sat on her newly hatched offspring. The little bird, which is one of nature's oldest feathered beauties, permitted Mr. Robb, after two days acquaintance, to put his forefinger on its back and finally to stroke her. The three flew at her parental family from a nearby branch and sat using the bird lover up as he examined her progeny. When he left the little domestic Mrs. Bird hopped back on the nest and would probably have asked him to return could they have exchanged thoughts. Yesterday was the third time Mr. Robb has caressed a bird sitting on the nest, he having at one time interviewed a mother night hawk and at another time a little lone sand piper.

Mr. Wallace Havelock Robb yesterday received a most flattering compliment of his work as a naturalist from the editor of one of the big American newspapers.

A QUICK RUSH ACROSS BORDER AND IT IS SAFE

Smuggling At Quebec Boundary General and Hard To Stop

ALL DOING IT

Night Patrol On Important Roads Might Stop Some Of It

Montreal, June 2.—Commercial smuggling, as it is carried on across the boundary between Quebec and the United States, was outlined to the Customs Commission this morning by R. L. Calder, K.C., Commission Counsel. It is a quick dash across the border, very much like the liquor movements in the United States at present" Mr. Calder told the commission. Merchandise, he said, was shipped to an important point in the United States near the boundary. There the shipments were broken up, some times even the wrappings being taken off the goods. When it was decided to make the dash across the border, goods were loaded into motor cars, an opportune moment chosen and the dash made. It was a quick movement and difficult to intercept. Once the merchandise is in Montreal it can be distributed all over Canada," said Mr. Calder.

Night Patrol is Needed

Inspector J. A. Bernier gave it as his opinion that smuggling went on across the Quebec line. He advocated the establishment of a patrol by night as well as by day. Staff Sergeant Philip S. Rocket, of the 200-mile Police, who has done some patrol work along the border in the Red Island Derby Lacs district, told of smuggling which he had detected. "Most of the storekeepers in Rock Island have stores on the other side of the line" he told Mr. Calder. One plumber admitted to me that when he was short of anything in his Rock Island store he went and got it from the Derby Line plant," said Sergeant Rocket. This plumber had admitted that he was smuggling, but said that "every one in Rock Island is doing the same."

HARRY IS DEAD—SADNESS REIGNS IN NO 2 STATION

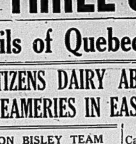

Old "Harry" is dead! After twenty years of faithful service with the Pier Improvement Co. he has gone to his last rest and is now, his firemen friends hope, carving about the happy hunting grounds.

For most of his life Harry was attached to No. 2 fire station and Belleville citizens well remember the dark chestnut horse, full of the pride and fire of life as he dashed madly to the scenes of most of the city's fires in the past two decades. But hoses have old and science advances. So at last Harry was superceded by an inanimate useless fire truck but December will no longer was permitted to answer the stirring call of the fire alarm.

In recognition of his services he was purchased by the Kiwanis Club and presented to his old comrades the firemen of No. 2 Station, who lovingly tended him in his old age. About a week ago he was put out to pasture for the summer and although away from the scene of his former activities he was frequently visited by his faithful friends. Last Tuesday some of the men were out to see him and he appeared to be in his usual good health but during the night the end of a long useful life came and his former friends will know "Harry" no more. He was twenty-eight years old. Funeral private.

MAY WAS COOL, WET AND CLOUDY MONTH

The month of May went down in observatory records as the cloudiest May in the past 46 years. No May has been marked by such a dearth of sunshine. Rain fell on 21 days, and Belleville experienced only 20 per cent. sunshine when the normal average should have been 50 per cent. records showed.

The lowest drop previous to this occurred in May, 1925, when we had only 32 per cent. sunshine. Last year there was 56 per cent. for the same period.

The May record this year falls below January 1927 record. In January 31 per cent. sunlight was experienced as well as 60 per cent. more than May.

Rain fell on 21 days during the month of May.

During the month about four inches of rain fell. The normal amount of rainfall for May should be three inches. The average temperature has been two degrees cooler than normal.

SPORT PROGRAM FOR TO-MORROW

The chief attraction for pleasure seekers to-morrow will be the horse races in connection with the 3rd of June celebration at the Agricultural Field. The stables are overcrowded and horsemen are having difficulty procuring accommodation for some of the finest - bred horses in this province that have been entered in the trotting turf meet of the season.

Both the Belleville and Bay of Quinte Golf clubs are preparing for the great holiday crowds. Special tour naments are being arranged by the officers.

The various tennis clubs in the city will hold their official openings which were postponed from the 24th of May on account of the rain. The County Club will furnish plenty of entertainment for aquatic enthusiasts.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

There is no darkness but ignorance.
SHAKESPEARE.

TROUBLE IN EGYPT

Amid all the troubles, domestic and foreign, coming thick and fast upon the British Government, recent despatches report a revival of the Nationalist agitation in Egypt. It appears that the headquarters of this insurgency is at Cairo, a citadel notorious for being the hatching ground of political plots. Significantly enough, the fresh outburst of anti-British propaganda coincides with the break between England and the Soviet, and it is to be kept in mind that the rumblings of revolt have gathered heat and impetus ever since Zaghloul Pasha was released from confinement and returned to Egypt. There can hardly be any question that this storm petrel of Egyptian politics and implacable enemy of British rule, has renewed his baleful activities and the "misunderstandings" said to have arisen in connection with the Egyptian army and the office of High Commissioner may be fairly accounted a part of his underground work. The situation is disquieting. The British Government has addressed a note to the Egyptian Prime Minister, Sarwat Pasha, requesting that he and his associates put forward their proposals as to how cooperation in the military affairs of the country can be best secured. An ominous feature of the crisis now developed is the fact that the Egyptian Government has adopted a truculent attitude, and three battleships have been ordered to stand guard by way of warning, two at Alexandria and one at Port Said.

The excuse put forward by the Nationalists for their virulent attacks upon the High Commissioner is that he has tried to play an overbearing part in local politics. This is an old story. But it serves the purpose of the ultra radicals who harangue the ignorant mobs and flaunt the red flag of so-called Egyptian independence. It will be fresh in the memory that the crusade of these fanatical agitators led to the brutal assassination of Sir Lee Stack less than two years ago. In point of fact, ever since Egypt was created a kingdom and became an electorate in its own right, parliamentary proceedings have been a dismal record of anti-British plottings nurtured by the Nationalists and aiming at the destruction of British interests and prestige. The Egyptian parliamentary war committee has set forth proposals that would bring the Protectorate Army entirely under control of the native Parliament and abolish the Sirdarship—in other words, oust from his position the British officer who now ranks, as commander-in-chief of the Egyptian forces. They know that such a programme cannot be sanctioned. The Egyptian army would be used against Great Britain for political purposes. It is all of a piece with the Nationalist clamor for absolute sovereignty in Egypt, for the right to possess and administer and guard the Suez Canal and the Sudan, right up to the sources of the Nile. And back of this scheme, all hail its dangerous forces and ramifications, lies the wily, astute and unceasing conspiracy of the veteran Zaghloul Pasha, who, with or without portfolio, is in Egyptian politics the greatest influence for evil and the acknowledged chieftain of the revolutionaries. Since 1912 Zaghloul Pasha has never ceased to clamor for the total expulsion of the British from Egyptian territory and for the annexation to Egypt of the Sudan.

What would happen should the Nationalists ever gain control is obvious. Egypt is dependent upon foreign money investments. The capital invested in Egypt and the Sudan is almost wholly British. Native investments are a mere fraction, practically negligible. The constructive work done by British administration during the past fifty years would be entirely wrecked. The Sudanese, who are of different race and blood, would be mercilessly exploited by the Egyptian Nationalists. There is not the slightest reason to suppose they would behave better than did the old-time Egyptian Pashas. And we know what this means. Above all, the Suez route to India and the Far East, and the Nile route to Central Africa, would both be effectually blocked. Great Britain will never sanction such a wild scheme.

SOVIET PROPAGANDA

Newspapers all over Canada irrespective of party affiliations, are calling on the Federal Government to follow up its action supporting the British Government in severing diplomatic relations with Russia by a vigorous campaign to root out Soviet propaganda in the Dominion.

How far the Communist movement has grown in Canada is hard to say, but the Communists themselves in 1926 claimed to have secured a member ship of 4,600 in Canada. They have the country divided for their purposes into nine districts, with branches as follows: No. 1, Nova Scotia, 6 branches; No. 2, Quebec, 9 branches; No. 3, Southern Ontario, 19 branches; No. 4, North Bay-Timmins, 13 branches; No. 5, Sudbury-Soo, 18 branches; No. 6, Port Arthur-Kenora, 23 branches; No. 7, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, 22 branches; No. 8, Alberta, 23 branches; No. 9, British Columbia, 14 branches.

This movement is aimed at the overthrow of all established institutions in Canada, the Christian religion included. There was recorded recently the instance of a mining centre in Alberta where, according to the evidence of a local priest, the Christian Church had been replaced by a "Temple of the People". In this temple the existence of God was denied, and one of the teachers actually set out to prove it by lying on the floor and challenging God to prevent him from rising. According to the Toronto Globe, a recent Communist speaker in Queen's Park made a speech outlining the religious views of his organization in which he said: "We are not atheists or agnostics, nor are we Christians. We are non-religious. We do not expect God to do anything for us. He helps the capitalists. What we can not do for ourselves nobody can do for us. They are claiming around this town that we are teaching the children not to believe in God. That is not so, because we are not teaching them anything about God."

The Labor Unions of the country have not been infected by the virus of these dangerous organizations as have certain sections of the Labor Union in Great Britain, but events in Winnipeg and in Glace Bay have shown how inflammable the doctrines of the agitators may prove. On the whole our Labor Unions have treated the Soviet agitators as a menace to political, industrial and moral life. But passive resistance is not enough; the information in the hands of the Government may show the need for an active rooting out of the subversive organization, in our midst.

AT DUSK

Already o'er the west the first star shines.
And day and dark are imperfect like,
The fences and pied fields grow indistinct,
Deep beyond deep the living light declines,
Still lingering o'er the westward mountain lines,
Pallid and clear; and on its silent breast
A symbol of eternal quiet rest,
Far and black-plumed, the imperturbable pines.
A few thin threads of purple clouds still float
In the serene ether, and the night wind,
Wandering in puffs from off the darkening hill,
Breathes warm or cool; and now the whip-poor-will,
Beyond the river margins glazed and thinned,

—Archibald Lampman.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

Elmer, thirteen, was puzzled over the girl problem and discussed it with his pal, Joe.

"I've walked to school with her three times," he told Joe, "and carries her books. I bought her ice cream sodas twice. Now, do you think I ought to kiss her?"

"Naw, you don't need to," Joe decided, after a moment of deep thought. "You've done enough for that girl already."

A small boy was sitting rather close to a fussy woman in a crowded car and he kept sniffling in a most annoying way.

Finally she asked: "Boy, have you a handkerchief?"

The small boy looked at her for a few seconds, and then in a dignified manner, replied: "Yes, I have; but I don't lend it to strangers."

RESOLUTIONS FROM BELLEVILLE TO GO BEFORE THE CONVENTION

Mr. R. J. Graham and Mr. John Elliott Expected To Attend

Col. W. N. Ponton has completed the draft of the resolutions which the Belleville Chamber of Commerce will present at the convention of the Federated Boards of Trade of the British Empire to be held in Southby form appears below.

Africa in October next. It is expected that Mr. R. J. Graham and Mr. John Elliott of the Standard Bank will attend this conference and present the resolutions in person to the meeting.

A committee consisting of St. J. Graham, John Elliott and J. O. Herity was appointed to pass on the resolutions after they were drawn up.

These conventions embracing the whole British Empire are held every three years the last one being in 1924 at London, England, when Col. Ponton and John Elliott represented Belleville.

The resolutions as approved are:

RESOLVED:—That for our mutual benefit, all Chambers of Commerce and citizens of the British Empire who are interested in the development of Inter-Imperial Trade and Imperial unity, should regard as one of the chief factors in attaining that end the principle of Free Trade within the Empire and Protecting against the rest of the world, which in the opinion of this Congress, is a practical ideal—ripe for action—if the cohesion and united power and resources of the Empire are to be maintained.

RESOLVED:—That all commercial and Company laws and legal procedure—with due regard to existing codes—should be as far as possible assimilated and unified as a contribution to the unity of the Empire and to the necessary facilities for enforcing judgments and protecting the legal rights of British Subjects in the Courts—by uniform methods, wherever the Flag floats and British law and equity are rightly administered.

RESOLVED:—That all commercial and Company laws and legal procedure—with due regard to existing codes—should be as far as possible assimilated and unified as a contribution to the unity of the Empire and to the necessary facilities for enforcing judgments and protecting the legal rights of British Subjects in the Courts—by uniform methods, wherever the Flag floats and British law and equity are rightly administered.

RESOLVED:—That throughout the Empire united and western action should be taken by uniform Legislation effectively enforced, to extirpate race and brands, and put down all disloyal and poisonous propaganda and revolutionary and traitorous speeches against the Government, the Administration of Law and the free and happy Flag of Britain, so that Bolshevism and Communism—the germs of a loathsome malady—may be deemed and declared universally throughout the Empire to be a felonious crime against the State and against the peace, prosperity and ordered progress of the British Race and of the Nations of the civilized world.

RESOLVED:—That in our mutual interest, for the protection of trade routes and of the lives and property of British citizens, the Empire's Naval strength and standard, should be adequately maintained, and that with this object in view, all the self governing Dominions of the British Empire should contribute equitably and proportionately to our National Naval Defence, so that our protected Highways of Commerce may be assured of safety in peace and in war, and Inter-Imperial traffic, trade and intercourse may be thereby encouraged and developed.

RESOLVED—That in the opinion of this Congress, migration of population between the Motherland and the British Dominions, Crown Colonies and Possessions Overseas, should be generously encouraged and supported by all our Governments by liberal grants, by educative Empire propaganda and by the removal of unnecessary restrictions; and that every Chamber of Commerce and Board of Trade throughout the Empire should be a Colonization Bureau recruiting for citizenship and retaining all immigrants under the Flag as permanent residents, thus adding to the wealth of all the constituent parts of the Empire, peopling the waste places, and making all immigrants realize that migration is not exile but opportunity, and that they are moving from one room to another in the Empire's great mansion.

RESOLVED:—That so far as possible and practicable all Industrial Raw Material—the natural resources of all parts of the Empire—should be manufactured into the finished products in the Country of Origin, before being exported to Foreign Countries, so that work may be provided for British workmen, the development of industrial wealth at home may be promoted, and the utilization and manufacture of our varied and world-wide resources within the family, may be assured for our mutual benefit.

RESOLVED:—That the thanks of this Congress, and its continued appreciation be extended to the London Chamber of Commerce and to the Imperial Council of Commerce, for their welcome extended to members of all British Chambers to their offices and quarters in London, and for and and assistance offered and rendered to all properly accredited British travellers by land and sea.

RARE BIRDS NESTING HAVE HOMES DESECRATED IN THE SANCTUARY

Discouraging Episodes Occur To Mar Efforts Of League

Mr. Walter Turner, President of the Jack Miner League has had some very painful experiences at the Don Bleeker Sanctuary.

Some wild birds of different species have made every effort to respond to his kindness, but it seems that every experience that promised success has ended in sorrow for the birds and for the Sanctuary.

There was a pair of wild Blue-winged Teal which for three weeks almost ate out of Mr. Turner's hand. Boys were seen annoying these birds by chasing all around the pond, and by invading their privacy, and the ducks are no more!

Other examples might be mentioned, the most serious of late being certain Mourning Doves. Two pair of these birds came to the Sanctuary and started to nest. One pair got so far on with nesting that everyone was happy, but about the time the eggs were becoming interesting with hopes of young in a few days, the eggs were stolen and the heart of the nest torn out.

Not content with this crime, another dove nest, away in a supposed safe place, was permitted to get to the point of near success when it too was desecrated and destroyed.

These are lovely birds and their soft whispering, mournful cooing in a sadgladness sort of sound was a delight. None have been nesting much near Belleville. They have been back north a bit and it was hoped this venture to take advantage of the supposed sacred ground would give them happy families and we would soon have more near at hand.

They are no more!

* * *

Who is to blame for the sorrow at the Sanctuary is unknown, but Mr. Turner feels it keenly, and upon the news getting to the ears of certain Government Officials with authority, several boys who have broken the law the threshold of hanging in court, but Mr. Turner appealed to Wallace Havelock Robb to "Do something about it," as Mr. Turner felt these boys should be guided and perhaps they would work for the safety of the birds and the success of the Sanctuary.

Mr. Robb felt very badly about the way things had been going at the Sanctuary, but it looks as though he has quietly managed to handle the situation so that the boys now know how serious a thing it is and how close they were to trouble. They all placed themselves in the hands of the poet of the birds, knowing his love and understanding of boys, and as far as Mr. Robb knows the slate is wiped clean, and he hopes no boys will ever gather stones again and, in pleading for the boys, expressed the faith, that they would stay out of the Sanctuary and would help Mr. Turner and all that sort of thing.

* * *

When Mr. Robb was asked about the details of how he tired up the trouble the boys got into, he just smiled and said "Everything is all right, and that is all there is to it now, but I felt it keenly in my heart, and if you will wait a few minutes I shall express my feelings and perhaps the feelings of others who grieve at this betrayal of the trust the birds placed in this Sanctuary.

The Mourning Doves are mourning.

And the bird-songs are unsung.
And the Sanctuary Silence

Tells of grieving for its young.

And the trusting birds, all watching,
Hide in fear and bitter woe,
For the Mourning Doves are mourning,
And they know not where to go.

Chicago, June 2.—Corn outstripped wheat early today as the active grain market leader. Big new jumps amounting to 3 3-8 cents bushel for corn were witnessed in some cases owing to fresh rainfalls and consequent further delay to planting. Initial quotations for corn were 3-4 cent to 3-38 cents higher and the market continued strong with oats and provisions also firmer. Wheat started unchanged to -4 cent off, rallied little and then sagged all around, crop estimates having been discounted.

BELLE THEATRE

Rin-Tin-Tin has become such an institution among screen stars that the announcement of another Rin-Tin-Tin picture, is always enough to bring out his faithful followers. But the Rin-Tin-Tin picture now showing at the Belle Theatre is not just another film-Tin-Tin picture, but a picture that stands one its own four feet, with a gripping story, excellent direction and a splendid cast.

The picture is "Hills of Kentucky", adapted from Dorothy Yost's story, "The Untamed Heart." Rin-Tin-Tin appears as "The Grey Ghost," a dog who leads a hungry pack upon depredation through the mountain hamlets. His story, which includes a wonderful dog romance, is entwined with the history of a young mountain school teacher (Dorothy Dwan) and two brothers of the Cain and Abel variety (Jason Robards and Tom Santschi). There are beautiful backgrounds, brilliant photography and a series of tense episodes. Howard Bretherton directed.

MOB CONTINUES TO STORM JAIL

Tampa, Fla., June 1.—With a roar-ty list standing three killed and more than a score wounded guardsmen today continued their defense of Hillsborough County Jail against the mob which has sought for 25 hours to reak lynic prison to get B. F. Levine, confessed slayer of five persons. The dead are Hugh Edward McRae, of Port William, Ont., H. Pfeifer, of Ocala, Fla., and Earl McGill.

Attempts of the sheriff to dampen the determination of the mob yesterday resulted in his ordering his deputies to open fire. National Guardsmen were ordered to the scene, but before they arrived eleven of the mob had been wounded. Last night rioting broke out again and soldiers fired on the mob and before the firing ceased the casualty list had mounted to three known dead and more than 20 wounded, some seriously.

Torturing Neuralgia
The Cry of Starved Nerves For Rich, Red Blood

Most people associate neuralgia with pain in the head or face, but neuralgia may affect any nerve in the body. Different names are given to it when it affects certain nerves. Thus neuralgia of the sciatic nerve is called sciatica, but the character of the pain are the same; the cause is the same, and the remedy, to be effective, must be the same.

The pain of neuralgia is the cry of starved nerves, for nourishment. Normally the blood feeds the nerves but if it is thin and weak it cannot do so. Hence neuralgia and other nerve disorders. Build up and enrich your thin blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and you are attacking neuralgia at its root. These pills supply to the blood just the elements that the nerves need and they have been proved to be the best possible remedy for the treatment of neuralgia, sciatica, anemia, and in fact for all diseases that owe their origin to weak nerves.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Every pile sufferer should benefit by his discovery and so that there will be no doubting or delay, J. S. McKown and all druggists are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it will do as stated or money back.

On that honorable basis every sufferer should secure a package of Mr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID today.

NEW FORD WILL BE TURNED OUT EARLY IN FALL

Sturdy and Flexible, the New Car May Have Three Speeds

HIGHER PRICE

Belleville Motors, Local Dealers, Make First Announcement

"Yes, a new Ford is coming but it will be autumn perhaps before we'll be able to display the new model" said F. J. Corcoran of Belleville Motors local Ford agents in discussing the recent brief announcement from the company's head offices at Ford, Ontario.

"It is characteristic of Ford policy to say not to hurry into the production of a new car. Ford experimented for many years before he put his first car on the company's word for it that it has speed, market, and he experimented for yearsmyle, flexibility and control in traffic, more before the famous Model T wasThat is just about everything that can be marketed. That the Model T could one could ask for, and when you add out sell all other cars for nineteen the benefit of Ford's experience, two years shows that when he experiments duction methods and traditional adher ence to standard of highest quality has been experimenting for years to you have a wonderful combination. get something more advanced than the "In the interim we will continue to Model T. Now that he has it, plans sell Model T cars and to give service have to be completed to produce it on a quantity-quality basis that will give the public the benefit of Ford economical manufacturing methods. Also while we will take orders for the new car "slight unseen" and deliveries will be made strictly in order of the time the sale was arranged. We will also continue for the present to sell the Model T. It always has been Ford policy to trade on Ford used cars and so the owner of a current model Ford will enjoy a preference when it comes to buying the new model. The Company's faith in this practice is based on the long life and durability of the product which holds its resale value at an incomparably high figure at any period in its life. This policy of trading on used Fords will be more apparent than ever when the new model is placed on the market some time this Fall.

No information is yet available respecting the mechanical details of the new car, the Dealer stated. The only definite information I have is that the new model will cost more than the present model. But that was to be expected if it was to be an improvement over the present model, as anyone who knows automobile values will tell you. The characteristic of Ford policy knows automobile values will tell you. not to hurry into the production of a There is every indication that the new car. Ford experimented for many car will be a sensation. We have the years before he put his first car on the company's word for it that it has speed, market, and he experimented for yearsmyle, flexibility and control in traffic, more before the famous Model T wasThat is just about everything that can be marketed. Now that he has it, plans sell Model T cars and to give service on them. They will never be orphan cars, for the Company will continue to produce parts for them as long as they are in use, and as they are the longest lived cars on the market this will be for a considerable time. The announcement that the new model will cost more to manufacture than the Model T should set at rest the rumors which circulated about a price cut. We know we'll have no difficulty in moving our one stock of Model T's for they are still the best value and we are expecting a time when the demand for Ford cars will be very much greater than the supply."

Taking Orders

S. R. Walsh, district sales manager of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, who is in town today confirmed the announcement that the company will produce a new car but added that it probably will be September before the new car is available for sale. In the interval, he said, sale of the Model T will be continued. The announcement that the new car will be more expensive to manufacture than the present model should set at rest rumors as to a price cut. Further, Mr. Walsh said, the established Ford policy of continuing trade-in business principally on cars of its own make will give owners of present Ford models a distinct advantage in procuring a new model when it does come on the market. This practice, he said is based upon the established high resale value of Ford cars. Many dealers are already selling the new car "slight unseen" and orders will be filled in rotation, so that the owner of a current model who puts his order in early will enjoy a distinct advantage when the delivery of the new car begins.

SMOKING IN OFFICES HAZARDOUS FOR GIRLS

By ELSIE MARLOWE

Do the girls in your office sneak out and smoke on the back stairway? Or meet in the washroom and exchange a fag? Yes? Then this should teach you a lesson.

DEAR ELSIE:

We're all "smoked up," as you say, and the worst of it is that two of the girls are SMOKED OUT. Here's how it happened:

We were five girls in the general office of an importing firm. There are four men in the same room with us. The men smoke all time with the smoke. All of us the time, in fact the air is always quite smoke, too. But, of course, none of us ever dared smoke in the office; we always sneak off to the dressing room or we sit on the narrow, cement stairs in back of the corridors where no one ever passes.

One day we girls got to talking about, smoking, and we decided that if we had to stand for the men smoking, there was no reason why they shouldn't stand for us smoking. Smoke is smoke, no matter who smokes, isn't it?

Well, Hester and Irene (those aren't their names, but we'll use them) lighted up one afternoon. The boss were just kidding them and laughing when the Big Chief strutted in. Elsie, the world stood still—I never tired through such a minute. He went out again and then served for his cigarcase. She came out of his office in a minute and said he wanted to see the girls.

This is what he said to them!:

"Young ladies, since your conception of the office proprieties is so limited, I feel that you can no longer be of assistance to this firm. You may consider yourselves discharged."

Now, wasn't that terribly unfair? Why doesn't the big cut it to the men if he would say it to the girls? Is it any worse for girls to smoke" than for men?

THE THREE WHO ARE LEFT.

Is it any worse for women to smoke than for men? Maybe so, old dear—but even admitting that, there's a very definite reason why it's much imprudent for girls to smoke in offices—even though the men employers do not.

An office is a place of business — a place where things are cold. Everything about the office contributes to that selling job. The condition of the furniture contributes to it—the attitude of the employees to each other and to the customers—all these things contribute. If the office is untidy, poorly lighted, badly ventilated, ane annoyed by carelessly dressed, disagreeable workers, customers will consider that office.

And they will have a right to criticize it, for they are the ones to be pleased. The business is run for them. If the proprietor expects to get the customers' money he must cater to the customers' taste.

And that's where your little smoking argument comes in, my dears. For public taste is dead set against females smoking in offices.

Your office isn't a social clearing house, nor is your Big Chief looking at this as an ethical problem. It's a plain matter of business to him—just as the condition of his furniture and the lighting and ventilation are matters of business. He doesn't care whether you smoke at home or not but he does know that feminine smoking in offices violates public sentiment. He may or may not approve of that public sentiment, but as a business man it is a cinch he is going to play in with it. He is not going to have an agent or a department in that office that imperils sales. For there are many, many people who would doubt the integrity of the whole business if they say such a sight.

So use your heads, girlies, and play the game! If you want to assert your feminine rights there are plenty ways to do it than by boosting yourselves out of a job.

WHAT'S NEW

(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Worth is even showing evening frocks in cuticle style.

Brown suede is the newest shoe shirred for sports or semi-sports in New York, while the reptilian leathers are vocalid.

Green and French nude lead all other shades at present in New York, but Dallas reports a demand for decidly darker shades.

Velvet flames are in great favor this season with the Paris dress makers for evening cloaks and one striking short, full skirt wrap is lined with pink velvet.

A chain strap for evening wear from Paris takes a large enough size to go with hands and embroideries of silver or gold, shaped so that it may be slipped over the head and around the shoulder in the usual manner.

Two types of black velvet hats are being noted at the French races, the one being a soft gathered pouch mounted on a fancy frame, probably of marcasite matched up by a marcasite mesh prism, while the other has the latest strap pouch which is also mounted on a narrow jewelry frame with fancy

By Mildred Barbour

In the lobby, as overdressed woman rushed up to him.

"Oh dear Mr. Maxwell—do tell me how she is? I simply flew in my clothes and rushed over the minute her maid telephoned me. She was perfectly all right at four o'clock this morning. We'd been at a party——"

The physician's crisp, clipped voice interrupted the flood of words.

"She'll be all right again in a couple of hours, if you can keep her from drinking that long. But I warn you, a few more attacks like this, and another year at this pace, and she'll be needing an alienist. Good morning, Miss De Reims." He nodded and followed Sybil out of the front door.

She saw him climb into a smart little coupe and drive off at a fast clip.

"Disagreeable creature!" she thought "I'd hate to have him for my doctor."

CHAPTER XXXII.

The Set Trap

During luncheon at the Ritz with Lieutenant Maddon, Sybil's thoughts returned to the man she had heard addressed as "Dr. Maxwell" in the Misky of her apartment-building that morning.

Perhaps it was because he suggested a personality so different from that of the young officer who gazed upon her with admiration. There was a firmness, no suggestion of temper, about Dick Sheldon. He was broad-shoulder-ed, laughing. He had fallen in love with Sybil on seeing her. To him, fresh from Camp Paris in his first post at Mineola Flying Field, she was something new and lovely and distinguished. He was nothing odd or dangerous in the fact that she lived alone in a small apartment in a great many other kinds of paradise swung gaily in their cages; that she had scruples from an unexplained source; that, though a year younger than himself, there was much wisdom in her beautiful head.

He made no effort to conceal his youthful admiration for Sybil. Her reason, he barely interested Sybil. Her only concern for him was to devise a way to keep Maddon from ever meeting him. She was confident that her set would seek out his vulnerable point. But that man in the elevator—the man addressed as Dr. Maxwell—he put her on her mettle. She felt that he would be a foeman worthy of her steel if he looked concealed, proud, sure of himself.

Sybil fairly itched to get him in her clutches. Maybe Maddon's interest in Dick Sheldon until he found courage to ask;

"I say, you couldn't manage to have tea with me, too? I've leave from the post until seven o'clock, and it would be great to spend as much of the day as possible with you."

Sybil shook her head.

He misunderstood, for he said promptly:

"Wouldn't it be all right for me to ask you and Mr. and Mrs. Patton to be my guests? I think little Mrs. Patton is a peach, and I'm anxious to meet her husband. She said she'd let me know, directly he came back to town, and she'd give me a real old-fashioned Southern dinner, with chicken and waffles, some night at their studio."

"It wouldn't be clever of you to tender your invitation. I don't think you understand that I'm having tea with Mr. Patton—alone."

He looked a bit dashed—and shocked.

"Oh, I say——" he murmured helplessly.

"Jealous?" queried Sybil amusedly. He flushed

"Yes," he added defiantly, "but it's not all that. Of course, for a minute I forgot that it was the New York thing—having tea alone with the husband of one's friend. It isn't done so much down south, yet. I wish you wouldn't."

"Why?" she asked, very crisply, a dangerous glitter in her lovely eyes.

"Because I don't think it's quite worthy of you," he declared courageously. "You see, I—I respect you awfully."

Sybil stared at him curiously.

"Really? I don't see why. We met under unconventional circumstances, that you'll southern sense of propriety could hardly condone."

"Nonsense. I butted in when you were being annoyed by a boor—and little Mrs. Patton told me herself that we are distant cousins. She knows a dozen people who could vouch for me. While all that does is make it that no one actually said: 'Miss Ross, may I present Mr. Sheldon?'"

"None whatever," agreed Sybil smilingly. "Nor does your objection to my having tea with Mrs. Patton's husband, I'm afraid."

He flushed again, seemed about to speak and then remained silent. He bit fathered up her gloves.

"Thanks for a charming lunch," she murmured. "And for the roses. I'd almost forgotten."

He stared at her for a moment, as if he were hurt, as if he were to feel the claws under the deceptive velvet. "I don't believe you're half as heartless as you seem to be," he said, at last.

"No? Well, time will tell. That is, if you should see more of me."

"You can just bet I'm going to," he declared fervently, and, at the flash in her dark eyes, he added contritely, "If you'll let me, I mean."

On a sudden impulse, Sybil said, because he looked so clean and honest and boyish:

"I warn you, I'm not a very pleasant person to know. I'm a ridiculous disposition."

He laughed so heartily that she knew her warning had been uttered in vain.

"Now why did I say that?" she asked herself, after she had bid him good bye. "What if he's young and seems nice, on the surface? He did Dick once, no doubt, and Ted and Jimmie and even Dan Brady, when he was a boy, I dare say. It's not a very clever way of playing my game to warn people against me."

But later, she realized that, with her face and charm, a warning was just so much added temptation. No one would believe her, or believing, care.

She had tea with Serge Patton in one of the new Russian restaurants. She didn't ask him if Eva knew—he would have resented it.

After a solid hour of recounting his triumphs at the recent concert, and at several others, Serge tossed a figure five bank into the middle of the table.

For a second or two, Sybil was astounded and speechless.

A-vice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens, and I am in love with a very nice young man. But my parents will not allow him to call on me.

He asked me to elope with him in about a month. Should I do this? LONESOME D. O.

LONESOME D. O.: Don't elope! This is a step you will regret all your life, my dear. What you must do, however, is to gain your parents' consent to your marriage. Ask them why they disapprove of the young man and try to convince them that he is worthy of your love. Talk the matter over frankly and don't act on impulse. Marriage is an important step, and it needs careful consideration.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I'm a girl in my teens and recently I met a young fellow I like very much. Not long ago, I met another fellow and went on a dance with him. Now, the first fellow is peeved I think over this, and I don't think he ought to be do you? A girl can't tie herself down to one fellow. The first fellow I like better than the second, and I want to be friends again.

LONESOME AND SORRY.

LONESOME AND SORRY: The first young man has no reason to be angry with you, for you are certainly right in saying that a girl cannot tie herself down to one fellow. Since you are not engaged to him, you are at perfect liberty to choose your own friends. Jealousy should never be encouraged so you should simply ignore the young man until he seeks you out again, which he will probably do immediately; and then you must have a sensible talk with him to avoid disagreements in the future.

Best, cheapest and goes farthest

We have always maintained that Magic is the cheapest baking powder because it goes the farthest. And that is also the opinion of the many thousands of housewives who use it constantly.

Mrs. B. Marsh, Prescott, Ont., recently wrote:—

"I have tried all kinds of baking powder, but I have found that Magic is the best, cheapest, and goes the farthest. My pastries are as light as a feather and I shall never use any other baking powder but Magic."

DELORO GRABS OPENING GAME OF BAY OF QUINTE LEAGUE FROM POINT ANNE—BENNETT WHIFFS 14

Smelters Show Better Display With Bat In Pinches

(By E. R. C.)

Playing the class of ball that is usually witnessed in mid-season the Deloro and Point Anne clubs pried the lid off the Bay of Quinte League on the new diamond at the suburban town yesterday afternoon. The several hundred cash customers left the ball field satisfied that the class of ball that is to be supplied in the intermediate loop this season will be of first-class order.

The Deloro team won by the close score of 3-1 through their ability to grab the opportunities to score. Had the home team bunched their hits as the visitors did they might now be leading the parade. Both of the smelters' runs came in the fifth inning when three "justy" clouts by Deloro hit-smiths sent them into the lead never to be headed. The Point Anne team garnered a loner in their half of the same frame when Jimmy Quinn, sterling little catcher with Manager Elliott's trouper beamin' his catcher with Bennett on third and threw a rod ball down to Jimmy Hughes at first and the runner scampered across. The cement boys caused the hopes of their supporters to rise in the 8th when Cretney shot a hot double to left field with only one man down but he remained at the keystone sack and the next two batters went out one by the strike-out route and the other via a foul fly to Jimmy Hughes.

Point Anne Strengthened

The Point Anne team presented a much stronger team than in past years and they are sure to provide more opposition for the other two than they have in past seasons. At least four members of the squad learned their baseball in Belleville while Harry Blakely, erstwhile Canadian National player, is holding down short-stop. These boys together with last year's remnants have been moulded into a formidable aggregation. One of the things made a favorable impression was "Jerry" Hurley, a graduate of the Belleville Collegiate Institute who helped himself to two juicy singles. Hurley is a big boy and puts plenty of "pep" behind the ball and should be a valuable addition. He was given no chances to show his worth as an outfielder as the home team made a clean sweep of their blows in another direction.

Harry Blakely who should fit well into the Deloro ball machine went hitless although he did pull off at least one sensational fielding feature. Cretney who was given his first test under fire plugs up a hole which has been wide open for several seasons.

The Point Anne diamond has been skinned, levelled and rolled and is a big improvement. There is one or two bad spots but these will be remedied. First class dug-outs have been erected and players are afforded some comfort out of the sun. The holes in the outfield have been filled in and those who patrol the outer garden are in no immediate danger of straining a tendon or spraining an ankle.

Manager Elliott fielded practically the same line-up that sailed through to the Ontario championship last year. Boudreau is back again and Wood, a Peterboro youngster who performs on the stib occasionally has been added to the staff. The ever-green "Billy" Degan was back at the post corner and Frankie Leal who refuses to reveal his age was among those present on the bench.

"Soup" Coyer who guides the destinies of the Point Anne Club from behind the bat put out the longest hit, a masterful smash to the fir trees in deep right. Frank was also robbed of another sure two-bagger when Boudreau backed up to gather in a long drive in the second.

Struck Out Fourteen

Frank Bennett, elongated sideman who serves them up from the port side was at the peak of his form and struck out fourteen batters. The lanky-eeson humbly aided Bennett in his brilliant display and he was winging them over in great shape. His last one was hopping over with plenty of stip and the Deloro boys were buffaloed at times. To strike out fourteen in the first game is an unusual feat and the Point Anne lad is going better than ever.

Bill Ralph, the good left-hander who hails from up Renfrew way was especially good in the pinches and subdued the homesters several times at the dangerous stage. He allowed only seven hits.

Two smart double-plays were engineered both by the Point Anne team, second base being the pivot of both.

Bennett got himself out of a nasty hole in the fifth in the ninth inning when a double killing cut off a score. Bennett issued two passes and Ralph one.

BASEBALL LOOP IS ORGANIZED

Six Teams Entered In City Hardball League — Officers Chosen

At least one hard ball league is assured under the city this summer following a meeting of the representatives of six clubs in the Moose Hall last evening.

Pres.—W. Gerow.
Secy-Treas.—L. Barrett.
Ice-Pres.—L. Barrett.

Protest Com.—Chairman S. Corman, Ken Colling and Allan Meagher.

The teams entered are Moose, Alemite, Hardware, Odontaria, Gorbyville and C. P. R. Trailers.

The meeting was adjourned until Wed. June 8th when the schedule will be drawn up. Umpires appointed, etc.

It is expected that the season will be opened about June 11th.

This shapes up as a real, evenly balanced loop and should provide plenty of keen sport on the sand lots around the city this season. With a live executive body at the head it should prove a successful venture.

PETE LATZO FAVORED

New York, June 2.—Wagers placed today showed Pete Latzo, welterweight champion, a 6 to 5 favorite over Joe Dundee, his Baltimore challenger, for their 15-round battle at the Polo Grounds, Friday night.

The champion has whipped himself into excellent condition and expects no trouble making the championship limit at 2 p.m. on the day of the fight.

EMPIRE PROTECTION

Chicago, June 2.—Personal assaults on umpires hereafter will be punished by immediate suspension or ineligibility for any period from ninety days to one year, Kenesaw Landis, commissioner of baseball, warned today in a telegram resignating, effective at once Player Brazill, of the Pacific Coast League.

DUGAN'S SINGLE WINS FOR YANKS

Meadows Pitches Brilliant Ball Until 7th When He Blows Up

Philadelphia, June 2.—Joseph Aloysius Dugan, the scourge of Scandale, unwrapped a very timely single in the ninth inning yesterday and gave the Yanks their fourth straight win over the racing Athletics, who were able to annex only one game in the series of five.

It was a most satisfactory game to win—most satisfactory. Miller Huggins sent his kid right-hander, Myles Thomas, against the Mackmen, and the little fellow with the quaint motion blanked the hostiles for six straight innings, held them to six hits and overcame a 2-1 decision over Rube Walberg.

Cleveland pounded out a 14 to 1 victory over the Tigers at Detroit, thereby gaining an even break in the four-game series. Three Detroit pitchers were hit hard, while Hudlin was effective and scored his sixth victory of the season. Cleveland made 20 hits, including seven doubles and two triples, for a total of 31 bases. The Indians settled the issue when seven of them crossed the plate in the third.

Boston gained an even break in the series with the Senators, taking the only game at Boston, 6 to 1. Harriss, effective after early wildness, kept Washington's seven hits well scattered, while his team-mates touched Marberry and Braxton for ten hits.

Oonly three games scheduled.

National League

New York, June 2.—Rube Meadows, hero-cheated mound star, allowed Philadelphia but one hit in seven innings of yesterday's game at Pittsburgh, but in the eighth the visitors bunched five hits including a homer by Leach, and two walks, and won the battle, 7 to 4, and kept the Pirates' 14 hits well scattered. Leach's circuit clout came with two runners on the paths. It was Meadows' first defeat of the season. He had won seven games.

Jim Elliott yielded only four hits to Boston while his Brooklyn mates gathered 12 off three Boston pitchers for a 6 to 2 victory. It was the fourth straight for the Robins who have won seven of their last eight games. Herman batted a homer into the right field bleachers with one on base in the first inning.

Cincinnati at St. Louis, postponed, rain.

SOFTBALL NOTES

The outdoor game of Ladies Softball will open tomorrow evening at 6.30 p. m. when the Belleville Beavers swing into action against the Supremes of Kingston on the Armouries lawn.

For opening ceremonies a battery composed of Major Keeler at the 15th Argyle Light Infantry and Alderman H.P. Duff, President of the City Association, will try to get the first ball by Miss Lettie Warham, President of the Beaver club. Then Umpires Woodley and Weir will get the battle under way.

The Beavers have been practicing faithfully and are raring to go, while the Supremes coming from Kingston will be anxious to hand them a defeat to start the 1927 season.

"Babe" Vincent and Dorthy Mortimer the clever Waterloo Battery will be on hand and ready to get in the fray if the locals falter. They may wear a couple of innings to give the local fans who canot see them perform on Saturday a chance to give them the once over. The Beaver coach has not said definately what his line-up will be but says you can rest assured of a real treat.

LEAFS ERRATIC LOSE TO BISONS

Toronto, June 2.—Scoring three runs in the ninth inning, Buffalo Bisons broke a tie and defeated Toronto, 7 to 4, in the first game of the series here yesterday. Jess Doyle was effective in spots and his own timely error played an important part in the defeat. Alexander also contributed two costly blunders. Elevated Lemoine batted safely in the last fourteen games.

Rochester won the first game of the series with the Syracuse Stars at Roch ester, 4 to 3. Merlyn Herron, diminutive Rochester twirler, pitched splendid ball, holding the hard-hitting Stars to seven hits, one of which was a home-run drive by Benson.

Despite tight pitching by Chambers, who held his opponents to six hits, right to the Indianapolis club of the American Association.

WINNIPEG PAPER PRAISES THE OLD ONTARIO CITY

Winnipeg, Man., June 1 (Canadian Press)—The Free Press says editorially: Good for Toronto! It has shown the world that it can best its bonnet for does not skow it? for the winning writer as well as for the conqueror of the Catalina currents. Miss Mann de la Roche, winner of the Atlantic Monthly $10,000 prize novel contest, has been presented by her native city with a silver tea service. It is interesting to know that the work of a Winnipeg woman writer in this competition and came up with the three finally held for consideration. Evidently Canada is doing quite well in the literary line, especially when one remembers that the winning novel in the first of these big purse competitions was written in this city and the scene laid in northern Manitoba.

Winnipeg may take some pride in the fact that the winner of the Dodge-Lean Magazine short story contest, confined to writers in Canada, was won by one of her citizens, Mrs. Gillian Beynon Thomas. The re-publish-ing rights have been purchased by the American Magazine, thus doubling the prize money, and delightful as is fame, coin of the realm does a writer no harm. Indeed contrary to popular opinion and practice, writers like ladies, must live.

The Irony of Love
By Charles Garvice

"Pretty kind of weather, boys, I don't think!" he grumbled.

"Weather!" retorted Bill, with an ironical and amused glance at him. "What's the matter with it? Why, this is only a little shower, man, a kind fo Scotch mist. You wait till what we call our 'wet season' begins; you will think the gulch is ten feet high in boiling water and you can't hear yourself speak for the rain on this darned old roof! This! This ain't nothing; it's what we call 'ere a kind of heavy dew."

"All very well for you to talk!"

There was a general roar of laughter at the consternation eloquently depicted on the face of the novice, and, with a blush at the facility with which he had been spooled by Bill, he pushed his way to the bar and called for his drink.

"All very well for you to chaff!" he said, half laughingly, half sullenly, "but I don't believe you ever got it much worse than this. Why, it took me all my time to get round here from my hut, and I'm glad it isn't any farth er than is is. Anyway, I wouldn't like to be out riding for any distance, like the chap I saw coming down the trail"

"What chap?" demanded Yates, absently, as he scratched his head and wondered whether he should play his only ace or keep it to demolish Bill later on.

"I dunno," replied the newcomer, "I just caught sight of him. He was riding hard and a bit reckless. A stranger, perhaps—and yet it couldn't have been, for he seemed to know the way, and that's a tricky trail over the rise."

"He didn't see no 'orse and rider boys," said Bill, in a loud aside and with a compassionate glance at the newcomer. "This little bit of a rain-storm has upset his mind, and he fancies he sees and hears things. They're like that when they've just come out of a nur-sing' home."

"Pursuit horse!" retorted the man indignantly, and, of course, a roar of laughter acclaimed Bill's sneer; but as the laughter died down, the man held up his hand, with a nod and smile of triumph.

"Fancied I saw it, did I? You're mighty clever, Mister Bill. Listen!"

A silence fell and as the boys listened, they heard the unmistakable sound of a galloping horse. It came nearer ceased just outside the saloon, the door was thrown open, and a tall figure

STAGE DESTROYED

Bath, June 2.—Back-firing when it was being cranked, the big stage owned by Mr. Robert McKendry, and used on the run from Kingston to Bath, was destroyed by fire late Tuesday afternoon, a few miles this side of Bath. Mr. Kendry was painfully burned about the face and hands in trying to extinguish the flames, and is at present at his home at Bath.

PREMIER CHICKS THRIVE

Ottawa, June 2.— Eighteen baby chicks resulted from the first setting of 20 eggs attempted by Premier King on his Kingsmere estate, and by the time World's Poultry Congress comes round July 27, he will have quite a sizeable lot of chickens to place in the Canadian live bird exhibit.

BANKING CONDITIONS

Kingston, Jan. 2.—Speaking of business conditions in Kingston and this district today, a prominent local bank manager stated that he could report that conditions generally, showed an improvement over three years ago.

"While the business in the city is quiet", he said, "the farmers in this district have had three good years, and everything points to another good year. The majority of the farmers are in good circumstances and this is shown by the fact that they are not borrowing money to carry on their work as they were forced to do a few years ago."

RED CROSS Nurses are Angels of Mercy to Frontier Settlers

DEATH threatened 19-year-old Clarence Helgerson. An operation might save his life. But no doctor was available . . . the nearest hospital was 100 miles away . . . no train for two days!

Helped by a railroad worker, the Red Cross Outpost Nurse put her patient on a "gas jigger" and started the same evening . . . It was 20 below zero!

The gas container sprang a leak . . . in the biting darkness, the nurse and her helper pushed their handcar four miles to a wayside station where the agent gave them food and another jigger . . . they arrived at the hospital early next morning. Helgerson was found to have a ruptured appendix and peritonitis . . . he was operated upon at once . . . his life was saved.

On the fringes of Canada's advancing civilization stand the 39 Red Cross Outpost Hospitals. In these remote districts doctors are few, skilled nursing attention is lacking. The Red Cross comes to their aid.

Each Outpost serves a population scattered over hundreds of square miles. To it the settlers come . . . ten, twenty, fifty miles . . . to find the skilled attention they must have if their lives are to be saved. Here the Red Cross Nurse is a true Angel of Mercy, serving with skill, courage and unflagging devotion.

Since the War THE RED CROSS has disbursed

7 Million Dollars

"STILL SERVING"

Last year 743 mothers gave birth to their babies under the Red Cross care . . . most of them must otherwise have gone unattended. In all, 3088 patients spent 30,896 days in the Outpost Hospitals. Operations were performed . . . fevers allayed . . . suffering mitigated . . . many lives saved to Canada. More of these Outposts are urgently needed, and will be established when you provide the funds.

Canada needs the Red Cross. It brings to thousands the skilled help and kindly attention no other agency supplies.

LOCAL AMATEUR PLAYS REAL GOLF

George Faulkner Displays Perfect Game In Match With Professionals

George Faulkner again showed his class as a golf player yesterday afternoon, when in a tournament at the Bay of Quinte Country Club with three professionals he made the best score, 78 for eighteen holes of golf. Mr. William Brasher and Mr. Fred Rickwood, professionals from Toronto played against Mr. Jock Mitchell, Country Club professional and Mr. George Faulkner, the match being declared a draw. George, however, made five score of the three players.

"This tournament was exactly followed by a large crowd of golf fans, the day being perfect for the modest and respected game. It is expected that Brasher and Rickwood will play at the Country Club again soon.

On the Belleville Course

The match on Thursday afternoon between the famous British professionals, W. Brazier and F. Rickwood, versus the Country Club amateur, Mr. George Faulkner and the Country Club professional, J. Mitchell, who both from Aberdeen, resulted in a closely contested game, which was followed by a large crowd of members.

Mr. George Faulkner played a brilliant game and in this young player Canada has a very likely contender for championship honors. Bill Brazier made a score of 72 for the eighteen holes which was a safe and very pretty game to watch. Fred Rickwood was more often in trouble than the other players but of course difficult the shot the better he appears to play it. His score was 76. Mr. George Faulkner also did the eighteen holes in 76. J. Mitchell in taking 77 did not have the best of luck with many of his approach shots. His driving was a feature of a most enjoyable match which resulted in a win of one up to Brazier and Rickwood. W. Brazier putts always have shown excellent improvement and his lecture on Iron Clubs which took place at the Club House on Thursday night was particularly well attended.

GREATEST SWIM OF ALL TIME IS BIG ATTRACTION

Over One Hundred Entries Including Champions Of All Countries

YOUNG FAVORITE

Many Women Among Competitors For $50,000 Cash Prizes

Toronto, Ont., June 4.—One hundred and twenty-four swimmers representing ten countries in seven nations are entered in the fifty thousand dollar marathon swimming race which will be staged in Lake Ontario, off Toronto on August 31.

United States will have at least 75 competitors while Canada comes next with 35. Sweden and Germany have two each, while England, Italy, France, Belgium, Norway, and Italy will have at least one representative.

George Young is perhaps the greatest of Canada's galaxy of natatorial stars and announcement this week that the Catalina Channel victor would establish training quarters near Perton, B.C., in the near future was received with considerable interest.

European Entries

Germany's strongest competitor, with one doubt, is Ernst Vierkotter, who is at present in this country. Vierotter recently swam the Montreal marathon course of approximately thirty miles, in four hours 57 minutes. Mrs. Dells Sullivan Herbert, established a record of 4.53 last year. She will compete in the Toronto marathon, accompanied by her husband, Dr. Herbert.

Madame Jane Sion, European, woman swimming champion, is at present in Montreal and has already begun training for the event. Edith Helmer, Austrian whose repeated attempts to swim the English Channel have been frustrated by subsequent disturbances, is in Cairn, but will soon come by this country to commence training.

Of the many United States enquiries, Ethel Herlie, Mrs. Sullivan Herbert, Charlotte Epstein and Cecelia Corcacan are perhaps better known and all can be relied on to furnish strong opposition. In addition, Honolulu is sending Duke Mello and A. Nawahi.

Awards will be as follows: Winner $50,000 second $7,500, third $2,500, fourth $1,000, fifth and sixth $500 each. First woman completing grind will receive $5,000, second $2,500 and third $1,000.

MAYOR CAPTURES FIRST 1927 RACE

Series For Intelligencer Cup Started On Holiday Afternoon

Although the contestants started off well yesterday afternoon, the Belleville Dinghy Club races slowed up considerably the second time around the buoys. The start of the day was the first of the 1927 series of races for the Intelligencer Cup.

Sharp at the crack of the gun seven dinghys sped down the bay towards Belleville, rounding the first buoy in fine style and taking a circular course back to the starting point.

Breeze was quite stiff and the dinghys made good time until the third time around the buoys when they were nearly becalmed.

Mayor Hartley Wilmot romped home first in the race, followed by Mr. J. Kingston and Mr. Hendry in second. Dr. Proctor came in third. Boats entered in the race included Mr. Robert Graham's, Mr. Bruce Graham's, Mr. George Graham's, Dr. Proctor's, Mayor Wilmot's, Mitchell Gillen's and Mr. William Schaefer's.

Men Prominent In Belleville Life

COL. BARRAGAR, V. D.

His entire life devoted to the instruction of others both in civil and in military walks of life, Lieutenant Colonel David Barragar, V.D., is one of Belleville's most noted teachers and principals. David Barragar first saw light of day on March 16th, 1861. He was born in Sophiasburg, Prince Edward County, his father being Samuel Barragar and his mother Charlotte Williams. The Colonel is of United Empire Loyalist descent on his grandmother's side.

Mr. Barragar received his primary education in the public schools of Prince Edward County, afterwards attending Belleville High School. After receiving his diploma from that institution he went to the Ottawa Normal School, from which school he graduated with honors. He entered the teaching profession in June, 1880, his first position being on the staff of a school in Thurlow Township. Approximately a year later he taught in a school in Sidney Township and for eight years in No. 6 Sidney.

On January 1st, 1891, Colonel Barragar was appointed Principal of the Cannifton Road School, followed by the old Octavia Street School, and upon the erection of the present Queen Mary Public School was appointed principal. He has had thirty-four years of continued service as a principal.

Colonel Barragar is well-known in Cadet work, being a pioneer in that branch of military life. The Queen Mary School Cadets have the difference of being numbered No. 5, and as there is some hundreds of Cadet Corps in Ontario, it is plain to be seen that Colonel Barragar has one of the first cadet organized.

His Military Life

On April 16th, 1900, David Barragar joined the 15th Regiment, Argyll Light Infantry as a Lieutenant. On December 25th, 1903, he was promoted to Captain and after some-like appointment as Adjutant on March 27th, 1909. In this position he served faithfully until December 11th, 1911. On November 3rd, 1910, Mr. Barragar was gazetted to the rank of Major. December 27th, 1915, just five years later, the Major received the welcome news of his appointment as Lieutenant Colonel in command of the regiment. In August, 1915, he qualified in a Militia Staff Course.

Colonel Barragar was in charge of the Provincial School of Infantry, Belleville, from October until December, 1914, the year that the Great War broke out.

On June 10th, 1915, he enlisted in the Canadian Expeditionary Force and was appointed Commandant of the Infantry School of Instruction, C.E.F., in Kingston and remained in that position until November 6th, 1917, when the school was closed. Approximately one thousand officers and non-commissioned officers have brought the school at Kingston, Ont., and Belleville and made a General Staff Officer, Barryfield Camp, Kingston, in 1917.

Colonel David Barragar is a member of Moira Chapter No. 27, Royal Arch Masons, and was a Past Master of Belleville Lodge No. 127 G.R.C., A.F. & A.M. He held the position of secretary from 1901 continuously for twenty-one years. On

LINGHAM APTS. ARE BEING SOLD

Deal Is Expected To Be Completed Late This Afternoon

Negotiations which are expected to be completed this afternoon are pending for the sale of the Lingham Apartments located on Turnbull Street. This property belongs to the Mrs. S. D. Lazier estate and is being sold to Mr. W. H. Middleton, District Inspector of electricity and gas, who for some years has been a tenant of this apartment. When speaking with the Intelligencer today Mr. Lazier said that the final agreements had not yet been signed, but expected that everything would be arranged before the day was out.

This property consists of four apartments and is one of the most constitution conveniently located to the main streets and is very desirable for business men.

RAINS SPOILED TODAY'S MARKET

Belleville's market this morning resembled London in a hevvy fog with most of the shoppers bobbering into stalls as they wended to between the rain showers from one stall to another in the lenvy downpour. Prices were consequently low due to the vendors desire to leave for home and better sold at 2 and 43 cents a pound. Eggs sold at 27 cents and cream at 30 cents a quart. Chickens varied from 31 to 1.50. On the outside market perishers were in plere evidence with 2.25 a bag bunch at 10 cents a peck, asparagus 2 and 5 for 25 cents. Meat remained unchanged from the price of several weeks previous.

MUST NOT PUT TOO STRONG FAITH IN HIGHWAY SIGNS

Motorists using the Trenton Highway should be wise not to place too implicit confidence in the road signs which are scattered for their guidance. It is true these signs are nicely painted fresh for the 1927 season, but in many cases they are misleading. To see a sign indicating a left hand turn and then run line a right hand turn is apt to be disconcerting. The man who put these signs up may have just returned from using his permit in Kingston, but it is no tithought that he had any intention of trying to create accidents on this much travelled piece of road.

TEMPLARS HEAR TOM ROBERTSON

Claims Liquor Injurious To Education Social Activities, Old Age

Mr. Tom Robertson, general manager of the Royal Templars of Temperance Insurance Company, conferred with the Royal Templars of Temperance addressed a small but enthusiastic anti-"booze" audience in the City Hall on Thursday evening. The Royal Templars insurance company insures 60 000 that is not a strict temperance person and sane an unerring fight against liquor.

Mr. Robertson took for his theme, "Is Alcohol an asset" He emphatically declared that it was not. He explained that the Royal Templars oppose liquor because it is injurious to the individual and to the life of the community and the nation at large. "We have no quarrel with the Government," stated the speaker. "Our quarrel is with drink. We do not care where it is sold, whether in a hardware store, an undertaker's parlours or a liquor store, it is the same old drink nevertheless and it does the same old damage."

Mr. Robertson claimed that the Order of Templars opposed liquor along three lines, because it is injurious to education, injurious to social activities and protection against the needs of old age.

Mr. Robertson, besides his fine oratorical powers is a cornetist of ability and favored his audience with several numbers on that instrument. Miss Wilder played the piano for the musical part of the programme and Mrs. T. Roberts, A.T.G.M. rendered several pleasing vocal solos. A pleasing feature of the programme was duet by Mr. Rose and Mrs. Roberts. Mr. Tom Robertson, local Children's Aid representative, was chosen chairman of the meeting.

MONOPLANE LEFT FOR AN UNKNOWN PORT IN EUROPE

SUPPOSE BERLIN

Roosevelt, Field, N.Y., June 4—Stated side by side in the Bellanca monoplane 'Columbia" designed for transtrans-oceanic tyring, D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, managing director of the Columbia aircraft corporation, hopped off at 6.05 this morning for their flight to an unnamed European destination.

The monoplane, its propeller whirling and motor roaring tasked down the runway and lifted clear of the earth about two thousand feet from where spectators stood. The start of the flight was accomplished by a false one. It taxied down the runway for about five hundred feet and then returned to its place at the western end. As the plane sped down the runway on it final start, Mrs. Levine turned pale and her hands fluttered to her face. She fainted a few seconds after the hop-off and was taken from the field.

The destination of the "Columbia" was not announced prior to its departure, but Chamberlain said yesterday that he would fly to New Foundland and follow the great circle. The destination was the farthest point from New York that he could pilot the plane The machine carried 455 gallons of gasoline and 20 gallons of oil. Mechanicians said enough fuel was carried to drive the plane more than four thousand miles. The occupants carried chicken sandwiches, oranges, two quarts of chicken soup and one quart of coffee and two gallons of water.

Wife Did Not Know

It was about this moment as they soar ed aloft from the sane runway, where on May 21, Capt. Lindbergh began his epoch flight to Paris. Levin sat beside Chamberlin, clad in an ordinary business suit. There was no hat on his head. Neither showed any emotion as they passed for the flight with spectators standing about the "plane not knowing who Chamberlin's companion really was until Levin climbed into the cockpit.

In a arden City Hotel several miles away, Mrs. Chamberlin, the pilot's wife was in great anxiety. She had said farewell to him and she knew her husband was taking his life in his hands. So she stayed away from the field to keep in her mind the picture of his that she treasured, saying good-bye to him at his hotel but Mrs. Levine, wife of the surprise companion of Chamberlin, was on the runway. She said she did not know she was going with Chamberlin and was much surprised when her husband stepped into the plane.

Passed Out To Sea

Plymouth, Mass., June 4.—A monoplane believed to be the Bellanca Columbia, was seen at 8.25 a.m. passing over Long Island Sound, it was reported today. Long Pond is about 20 miles northeast of Northwest Port, where the plane was reported sighted at right o'clock. The course being followed would bring the plane to the ocean in the neighborhood of Scituate, where Lindbergh struck out to sea.

Sighted At Northwest Port

New Bedford, Mass., June 4—Harry Reed, Northwest Port, reported that a aeroplane Columbia passed over that town at eight o'clock this morning, heading toward Scituate. The plane was flying about a thousand feet high and Mr. Reed said it was easily identified by its markings.

Marshfield, Mass., June, 4—Two aeroplanes, both flying at high that their numbers or other identifying marks could not be distinguished pass ed over the outskirts of Marshfield, on the shore side, about nine o'clock. Coast guardsmen who spotted the first machine about 8.50 expressed the belief that it was the Bellanca plane, Columbia. The second passed about ten minutes later.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

It never occurs to fools that merit and good fortune are closely united.

—GOETHE.

CANADA PROGRESSES

Canada's two chief railway executives have spoken within the past week upon national subjects, more especially upon the broad question of Canadian development. Speaking at Vancouver, Mr. E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, spoke very hopefully of conditions in the Dominion and of the outlook for future progress. Unless we are all very mistaken," he said, "Canada is entering a period of great prosperity and expansion, and new people and new money will materially expedite this expansion." He expressed the belief that immigration this year will more closely approach the number of 350,000 that Canada is capable of absorbing than in any other year since 1917. Mr. Beatty was no less reassuring in his reference to crop conditions in the Prairie Provinces, and it is to be noted that he has had the opportunity of studying these conditions at close range during his trip to the coast. Granted good weather during the next ten days, he believes that any increase in acreage, due to the heavy rains of recent weeks, will be more than offset by a heavier yield per acre. Moisture conditions are, as he says, extraordinarily good, and good harvests have been reaped in other years after late seedings.

Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National system, is also a believer in Canadian progress. He addressed the St. Thomas, Ont., Chamber of Commerce, on Tuesday, and he was decidedly optimistic. Canada is developing, he declared, upon sound and orderly lines. He stressed the importance of co-operation, of team work, in guiding the affairs of the country; he urged self-confidence and confidence in our neighbors and fellow-Canadians, and he appealed for a spiritual spanglamation, in which regard for the national welfare will supercede sectional interests and view-points. This is wholesome advice and the celebration of the Dominion's jubilee year will do something, perhaps much, to render that advice acceptable.

GLARING HEADLIGHTS

It is gratifying to all motorists and to pedestrians as well, to find that the Hon. G. S. Henry, minister of highways, is determined to put a stop to the use of glaring headlights on the highways and other roads of Ontario. Although glaring headlights have been contrary to law for some years, yet they still remain the greatest menace to motorists and others who may be using the highway at night. The passing of legislation, the enforcement of which has not yet been even attempted and the issuing of appeals to the motorists to bring their headlights within the anti-glare regulations, have had little effect, and the warning of the minister, that further restrictive measures will be taken if the nuisance is not abated, is one which is really needed.

Mr. Henry also suggests some remedies which he has in mind for this purpose, one of them being the reduction of the candle-power allowed in headlights. But does not the remedy lie in the hands of the motor manufacturers themselves. Surely they know the provincial regulations and can provide automobiles with lights of an anti-glare nature which will fully comply with the law. That would seem to be the simplest way to meet the difficulty of securing the co-operation of the motorists in making travel by car more safe at night, and the most effective way to place all motorists on the same safe and sane level.

GETTING OFF THE SEA

The Federal Government is calling for tenders for the purchase not only of the cruiser Aurora but also of the Submarines 14 and 15 which were presented to Canada by the Admiralty after the War and which are now obsolete. The two torpedo destroyers which were included in the gift from the Admiralty will shortly, if they have not already, come within the obsolete category. With their disappearance the last vestige of a Canadian Navy on the sea will have gone and there is not a single murmur of policy from Ottawa of what will be done in the way of naval defence in the future. The Liberal Government appears to be striving, by a policy of silence, to induce the people to forget that the fortunes of the country are in any way bound up with sea power. That Government in pursuing a policy of disarmament by the attrition of time. It lacks either the courage or the will to deal with the responsibilities of nationality, although it never ceases of talking of the rights which a national status entails.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

Maisie, or Men, No. 6, with a record of 351 eggs a year, will serve very well for the time being as a "national bird."—Winnipeg Tribune.

As a leader of public thought Miss Marshall seems doomed to live up to the last syllable of her name—Calgary Herald.

"In the province of Quebec the Empire Festival presents itself in a trinity of patriotic celebrations the relative incidence of which has been settled by fortuitous circumstances. Last week, on Victoria Day, we were it thought associated with countries which, united by no visible bond — at least, not until the last conference of their representatives in London—form the most vast and the most powerful association of nations under one flag, the British Commonwealth. What is to say on St. Jean Baptiste Day our French-Canadian province will evoke the memory of its origin, the venerable which it preserves for its past and its glorious traditions. A week afterwards, and this time with unusual pomp because it will mark the sixtieth anniversary of Confederation, and because the war necessitated passing the fiftieth anniversary unobserved, the whole Canadian nation will celebrate the occasion and make it one true national festival. By entering into the spirit of these three festivals we develop in this young country a patriotic sentiment which will aid the different races to blend in one Canadian nation and to realize our common ideal." — Montreal "La Patrie."

IT IS COMMON

So are the stars and the arching skies,
So are the smiles in the children's eyes;
Common the beautiful tints of the spring;
So are the songs which the wild birds sing;
Blessed be God, they are common!

Common the grass in its glowing green
So is the water's glistening sheen;
Common the springs of love are mirth;
So are the holiest gifts of earth.

Common the fragrance of rosy June;
So is the generous harvest noon.
So the towering mighty hills,
So are the twittering, trickling rills.

Common the beautiful tints of the fall;
So is the sun which is over all.
Common the rain with its pattering feet;
So is the bread which we daily eat;
Blessed be God, it is common!

So is the sea in its wild unrest,
Kissing for ever the earth's brown breast;

So unto all is the hope of heaven;
Common the rest from the weary strife.

STRATHCONA IS ONE OF BUILDERS OF GREAT WEST

Main Force Behind the Building of the Canadian Pacific

Donald A. Smith, Baron Strathcona and Mount Royal, was born in Forres, Morayshire, Scotland, August 6, 1820. In early life he was urged to study law or take up a mercantile career, but chose neither and soon became prominent, employed by the Hudson Bay Company and tales of their adventures thrilled his imagination and his thoughts were ever Westward Ho!

Donald A., as he was familiarly known, came to Canada in 1838 and entered the service of the Great Company spending several years "counting rats" in the posts in the interior of H.B.C., and of his fellow traders. His life here gave him courage, resourcefulness and self reliance. In 1862, he was made a chief factor and later a chief trader, but he still remained on the Labrador coast, and was there when Confederation was achieved.

In 1863 he was appointed chief executive officer of the Company in North America and was to be stationed at Montreal. He was scarcely installed in his new office when trouble arose in the North-West, the greatest field of he Company's activities. Rebellion broke out. The politicians were making a mess of affairs and he decided to journey to the Red River in the interests of the Company. Sir John Macdonald, recognizing his strength, appointed him a special commissioner of the Dominion to probe the situation.

At Fort Garry his life was several times in jeopardy, but he never flinched, and his shrewdness proved more than a match for the rebel leader, Louis Riel. He caused many supporters to desert Riel, and when the military force under General Wolseley arrived it found no insurgents in arms. Mainly through his influence Manitoba peacefully entered the Canadian Confederation. He was chosen a member of the first Executive Council and afterwards represented Winnipeg and Selkirk in the Legislature and Selkirk and West Montreal in the Dominion House.

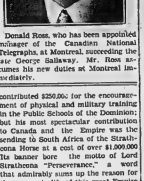

The great need of the west was transportation and he promoted boat and rail communication with the United States border. He then turned his attention to the project of a transcontinental line and was the main force behind the C.P.R. He received his reward—vast wealth and the highest honors from his sovereign. In 1896 he was sent to London as High Commissioner of Canada and held office until the time of his death on January 21, 1914.

Lord Strathcona was a generous giver and Montreal particularly owes much to his lavish gifts. In 1907 he contributed $250,000 for the encouragement of physical and military training in the Public Schools of the Dominion; but his most spectacular contribution to Canada and the Empire was the sending to South Africa of the Strathcona Horse at a cost of over $1,000,000 his banner bore the motto of Lord Strathcona "Perseverance," a word that admirably sums up the reason for the success in life of this great Empire builder.

After the opening exercises by the president, Mrs. Deroche, Mrs. Bishop, the leader of the group having charge of yesterday's program took the chair. She explained the method of working under this new system and outlined the duties of the leaders. Mrs. Abbott then gave a Bible lesson and Mrs. Hudson sang a delightful solo. Miss Ketcheson was the speaker of the afternoon and in an intimate and conversational way gave her audience an insight into the daily and weekly routine of a missionary's life with its perplexing problems and satisfying joys. SOMETHING ELSE?

Referring to the cases of illness resembling summer poisoning from which Bellevillians have suffered during the past year, Mr. H. B. Hector, who is engaged in a grocery business at Picton, told The Intelligencer today that many of such illnesses with canned peas are actually rare. Mr. Hector was in Belleville investigating the poisoning of the Mills family on Chatham street which, it will be remembered was thought, by the family to be a case of ptomaine, due to eating canned peas. Mr. Hector has made a close study of cases of this kind and is inclined to believe that the Mills case may be laid to one of the other forms of food, which eaten by the Mills at the evening meal. "It is just possible he said this tany of the other items eaten might have produced symptoms similar to those from which the family suffered.

CONFUSING MEASURING LOVE WITH WILD DESIRE

By ELSIE MARLOWE

Can a woman love two men at once? Can she cling with tenderness and respect to the good, honest man whom she has chosen to be her husband and the father of her children and yet, at the same time, turn longing thoughts toward some other man whom she knows to be unworthy?

That's what Twenty is asking in mingled fear and horror. How many other women have asked that same question! And how many will feel pity and tenderness catch in their throats as they read her letter and remember how their own hearts were once torn and their happiness almost wrecked by such a temptation.

DEAR ELSIE:

I'm in such trouble. Do you believe it is possible for a girl to love two men at the same time; or rath er, to love one man and be infatuated with the other?

I'm engaged to a perfectly wonderful boy. He is just a plain-looking, hard-working boy, but he has high ambitions and fine ideals. Before I met him I went with a handsome, charming boy, whom I loved so madly that I almost threw caution to the winds. He wasn't honorable. When he found that he could not have his way, "and that love for me meant marriage, he turned to another girl, who would go his wild way with him and not expect a wedding ring.

I suppose that should have sickened me with him. And I have given him up, and truly love the man I am going to marry. But I still can't forget the first man.

Why is it that I still remember When I do not see him it is not so bad, but when I see him, and speak to him I can hardly keep from crying in his face. My fiance has an inkling of how I feel, but he is patient, and we are to be married next year. He is so devoted to me that I wish with all my heart I could forget the worthless one, for I know now that he is really worthless.

He still goes with the girl that he turned to after he left me, although it is over a year ago, her marriage and a wedding ring mean little to her, and I know in my heart that he would turn from one who loved him so to a girl who is really no good." The worst of it is that I know the girl, and when she meets him it is as an though she was slapping me in the face. But I'm proud that I gave him up.

Tell me, do you think that it is possible to love one boy sincerely, as I love my fiancee, and be infatuated with another, for I think it is only infatuation that I feel for my old sweetheart.

My mother says that time will I'm to be married. I will know myself and that by next year, when our own mind. If I had sisters I could talk to them, but I have no sisters or brothers, so I want your honest opinion. - - - TWENTY.

Is it possible to love two men at once?

It is possible to DESIRE two men at once, and I think that in your case you are confusing DESIRE with LOVE for dear.

Love is a very high and difficult adjustment. Twenty. We think of it as a natural, spontaneous experience. It isn't. Desire is natural and spontaneous. It is not a thing of the soul. It is probably rooted in the chemistry of the body. Desire comes to men and women just as it comes to animals and has nothing to do with logic or ethics.

But love is something very different. We develop love. We nurse and fight for love. We must always struggle to retain love. Love is a gradual, unfoldment, a slow building up. We do it deliberately, with all that is finest in our brains and in our souls and discriminating in our bodies.

Love is a deliberate, controlled process.

Desire is an involuntary, impulsive process.

You really love this fine man to whom you are engaged. Twenty and in all probability you will be glad for that choice all your life. But even while you are married, you will probably yearn and tingle for the reckless forbidden charm of the other man.

But what of it? You'll yearn and tingle for a lot of things that would be extremely unpleasant for you to have, my dear. And you'll be sensible about this romance, philosophical about it. And after a while the feverish illusion of Desire with the blessed reality of Love.

Found A Health Building Tonic

A Nova Scotia Lady Was in an Anaemic Condition

Men and women who do not sleep well and are not refreshed and strengthened by a night's rest, are generally suffering from thin, weak blood. The nerves fail to get the nourishment they demand and headaches and a worn-out feeling is the result. Building up the blood is the one sure step to renewed health and strength, and for this purpose nothing else can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. From first to last they enrich and purify the blood, and in this way promote better appetite, better rest at night and renewed strength.

Mrs. Mary E. Uhlman, Williamstown, N. S., writes:—"I have received much benefit from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that I would feel very ungrateful if I did not let you know.

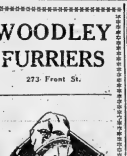

I was in a very poor state of health and reached the stage where I had to remain in bed. A doctor was called in and he told me I had no organic trouble, but was simply run down from overwork. I had been left with a family to support, which I did by dressmaking. The doctor said my blood had almost turned to water and advised a rest cure. I did not see how it was possible for me to take a very long rest, so I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Soon I found my strength returning and before very long I was able to go about my duties as usual again. This was a few years ago, and my health remained good until about a year ago, when I broke out with burner of the blood. Again I consulted the doctor, who said my blood had become so thin that it had really poisoned itself. I told him I had bought several boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and he told me to go on taking them as he thought they were just what I needed. I took eight boxes and again was in good health. I can therefore recommend your pills to all in a weak or run-down condition."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent by mail, post paid, on receipt of price, 50 cents a box. Try them to-day.

JEWISH WOMEN HAVE TOO MUCH MONEY, SUCCESS

Montreal, Que., June 1 (Canadian Press)—Jewish women of the United States are becoming glutted with success and ease, declared Miss Fredkraft before the council of Jewish Women. Miss Kraft has been for five years investigating conditions prevailing among Jewish women in Europe, Asia and America.

In Palestine a splendid type of Jewish woman is being evolved, she finds, who is a composite of the traditional daughter in Israel and the Occidental woman typified by the Hadassah, the Zionist colonists. In Egypt it is the Jewish woman who is leading the movements towards free and universal education and against the organized traffic in slave girls, while in Italy a Jewish woman is secretary of agriculture and another Jewish woman is doing excellent work in improving the conditions among working women, a career to which she has devoted the greater part of her fortune.

The Jewish women of Austria, Germany and France are prominent in the cultural life of their countries, and they have also maintained the religious life of the home. While, in the speaker's opinion, the English Jewish woman was almost the best type found anywhere, she was hampered by two dangers arising from her intermingling with the non-Jews—decreasing interest in and loyalty to her faith, and ultimate assimilation through intermarriage.

BEAUTY PARLOR FOR INDIANS OF ANCIENT AGE?

Hazleton, B. C., June 1.—While there may not have been beauty parlors in the pre-historic days, the Indian knew and belies who inhabitated what is now central British Columbia, had their own methods and appliances for enhancing their charm. The "rouge and cosmetics" used were obtained from natural sources materials that a discovery made here thoughthat land owners also possessed in those days. The discovery was made by a dominion archeologists' party in the prehistoric part of the ancient Gitksan village site, immediately below Hazleton of one of the extremely rare stone mortars known to have been used by the Totem Pole Indians of the Skeena river area.

The specimen is a thin slab of black stone, one end of which is narrowed for a handle and the other end has that surface hardly polished. One of the other Hazelton Indians demonstrated, to the archeologists how this was used. The mirror surface was wet and then thin is done, the finished surface actually reflects the human face clearly that individual hairs and even the color of the eyes are discernible. This Indian stated that such mirrors were used by the Indians when they were "making up" their faces for their dances and ceremonies and to-day, before white man introduced the present-day looking glass.

The specimen is expected to be forwarded to the National Museum at Ottawa for preservation among the prehistoric Indian relics.

U. S. WARSHIPS HAVE MOVED NEAR TO WAR

Washington, June 4.—Seven United States naval vessels in Southern China waters have sailed for Chefoo, on the gulf of Chihli, near Tientsin, presumably to be nearer the zone of operations in the contending Chinese factions.

Five which broke out in farm bolts of Soviet regiment near Warsaw, caused the death of eight and possible fatal injuries to 14 others.

Advice to Girls By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young girl in my teens and love a young man very dearly He has told me he cared for me very much, but about a month ago he left to go to another town. He has never written to me and a friend told me he had been going out with other girls. Please advise me what to do.

Should I write to him first?

BROKEN-HEARTED.

BROKEN-HEARTED: It is not your place to write first, my dear. If this young man really wanted your friendship, he would have gotten in touch with you. Since he has not, the wisest thing for you to do would be to forget him. Get out with your other friends, have a jolly good time and the task of forgetting won't be so hard.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl of eighteen and am deeply in love with a fellow of twenty-two. He appears to love me and is deeply interested in my actions, but he rave about with other girls, although he doesn't show more attention to them than me, yet I do not like it.

What would you advise me to do?

JULY.

JULY: If you aren't engaged to this young man there isn't anything you can do. And there isn't anything you ought to do!

Since he has not pledged himself to you, there is no reason why he should not see other girls, just as there is no reason why you should not accept the attentions of other young men. If you really like or think well of him, you will realize that you are being selfish in demanding a monopoly on this friend's time. Go about with your other friends and don't let the green-eyed monster get the best of you. Then, when you are engaged or married, it will be time "enough to ask your fiance to limit his friendships.

ANNIE LAURIE.

SINCLAIR'S

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN

By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER XXXIII.
The Victim

"You can't mean it," Sybil said at last, hardly crediting her own ears. It seemed she realized that she might have expected just such a decision from a man like Serge Patton. "Either you're going or you're trying to flirt with me again, as you did on the ship."

"I wasn't flirting—then, or now," he declared, with meaning, reaching his long white hand across the table and trying to grasp hers. "I'm in deadly earnest—was from the start—and never more than now. While I was away on my concert trip, I learned the need of you. Without you there is no zest in my playing; no music in my violin. It is a great thing, awaking the call of beauty. No one but you was in my thoughts, when I played before that thrilled and delighted audience. Not my wife—not any of the beautiful women I have known and—well, yes, loved. Surely you must suspect that I have loved many women and many have loved me." He added complacently.

"Really?" murmured Sybil, unmoved wondering if the man could actually be the bounder that he seemed.

"Of course. Without love there would be no art. And for me, for a man of my inner temperament, a man with my depth of soul, there must be always a love, new and glowing. I need to be inspired always because me; looking up at me from the audience, while I am playing; and I'm going to be inspired by giving beauty to the public, transforming my love into music."

"And that's the role for which you have picked me?"

He nodded.

"My art has to abound you."

"I suppose it honored Eva that way once," sneered Sybil.

"Never Eva as quite inadequate. She does not understand. She does not her fault that she's not a companion for souls such as mine. She's like a little brown mouse while you you are a gorgeous bird of paradise."

"I rather think that Eva would prefer plumes, if she had the money to do it with," remarked Sybil.

"She hasn't the temperament," declared Serge impatiently. "Why she wasn't even accompanying me on my tours, because she could get along with out a kitchen to mess around in."

"Perhaps she was not as fond of art and cheap lunchrooms as—er—some artistes," suggested Sybil wickedly.

He leaned the remark and tried again to capture her hand.

"You will marry me, Sybil?" he asked, "say that you will."

"But can't it a bit—premature?" she hesitated, the mockery in her eyes belied by the dimness of the room. "A proposal from a man already securely married is rather indelicate."

"Mine is gone," he declared eagerly. "Look here, I've got it all planned. I know just what I'll say to Eva. When she really understands what this means to both of us, she won't object to giving me up. And there's no one who can find any cause for one."

Sybil hurried. "I had lunch with a young man today who objected to my having to fly with you. By the way, it was your wife who introduced me, in the first place."

"You've seen her since I left town?"

He frowned.

"By Jove, I didn't know that. It complicates things a lot. You didn't tell her anything about—us?"

"What is there to tell about—us?" countered Sybil briefly.

"Well, you saw—on the ship—that I was getting quite crazy about you."

"On the ship!" Sibl laughed insincerely. "Who doesn't fall in love then? Such dangerous, unlikely lives are born—to dissolve into the mists along the New York sky-line."

"Can't you be serious?" he demanded, with a shade of anger. "Can't you realize that I'm in love, myself and not art at your feet?"

The mocking gleam in Sybil's eyes deepened.

"It seems almost impossible—almost more than I can bear," she murmured putting a deliberate sadness into her voice.

It didn't occur to him to be suspicious. He brightened visibly, feeling assurer ground. Scenes of longing, of violent declamation, of exchange of eternal vows, of relinquishment—rarely of renunciation—were his stock and trade in the theatrical world.

"But you must promise to let me see you as often as I wish. And, if I were you, I wouldn't see much of Eva. She's a clever little thing, where I'm concerned. She might suspect something."

"You can!" said Sybil, under her breath.

A few days later, Eva came to show her some embroideries she had just finished for a woman on East Sixty-Fifth street.

Sybil was lounging on a sofa in the living room, smoking, and as Eva came Hilda was brushing her black hair.

The bell rang while Eva was proudly displaying her work. Hilda went to answer it and returned, grim disapproval in her bearing. She handed Sybil a card.

It was Serge Patton's.

"The gentleman is in the drawing-room," she announced woodenly.

"You mean she didn't you say I was engaged?" snapped Sybil.

She looked at the unsuspecting Eva, and was she tell her that her husband was in the adjoining room? Would Eva trust her?

P. C. M'LAURIN TALKS TO Y'S MEN

Stresses Need Of Greater Spirit Of Patriotism In Jubilee Year

The members of the Y's Men's Club listened to a most impressive and interesting talk by Principal P. C. MacLaurin on "Confederation" at the weekly luncheon on Thursday evening. "We must remember that Ontario came into being only sixty years ago, and if we make as much progress in the next sixty years as we have in the past there will be just as many wonderful changes."

"It has been the concentrated effort of these pioneers who have gone before which has built up this country. It was those who opened the country up and made the investments from which we are drawing 100 per cent. dividends," declared Mr. MacLaurin.

"Politics were forgotten by our forefathers in their efforts to prevent Canada from being swallowed up by the great country to the south of us," continued Mr. MacLaurin, and when the radio, newspaper and railway train were unknown and the only means of transportation was the horse-drawn stage which took weeks to traverse the Province."

"What are we contributing to Canada during our span of life?" queried Mr. MacLaurin, "are we shirking our every-day duties to the Dominion.

He stressed the idea of making every day of this Jubilee Year a celebration in memory of our forefathers. Mr. MacLaurin pointed out that the flag should be flown everyday as a mark of reverence. "We must bury our mistake of the past and make it up with the successes of the future," Mr. MacLaurin said.

He was of the opinion that many of us fail to realize the wonderful heritage handed down to us. He spoke of the manner in which the people of the United States are taught to respect the flag and Dominion. He concluded his address with an appeal to Y's Men to instill into the younger generation the spirit of patriotism.

U. S. ATHLETES MORE SERIOUS

New York, N.Y., June 4.—United States college athletes take their competition "much more seriously than their English rivals, in the view of Lord "Jimy" Burghley, titled hurdling star and captain of the Cambridge University team that won laurels in the Penn Relay carnival.

"Your fellows go at their games much more intensely than we do," he said, "perhaps that accounts for the fact that so many of your American college stars 'burn out' after only a few years of keen action. In England we take track and field sports less seriously. We do not train so strenuously either. One of my leading rivals in the hurdles, for instance, is more interesting better at an age when nearly all your Americans have retired from competition."

Lord Burghley, an affable youth of 20, has improved steadily as a middle stepper in the past three years of competition here and abroad. He counts on being a contender for Olympic honors at Amsterdam next year.

Despite his youth, Lord Burghley has been mentioned as possible captain of the British Olympic team but the Cambridge star feels his honor should go to Douglas Lowe, famous English half-miler and Olympic 800-meter title holder.

England's other star Olympic champions—Harold Abrahams in the 100 meters and Eric Liddell in the 400 meter run—may not defend their titles next year in Holland, Lord Burghley revealed. Abrahams, a lawyer suffered the "100" at Paris and probably is out severe tendon injury after winning a competition for good. Liddell, the latter Protestant who gained his nickname "Flying Scotsman" after Great Britain's degree soon after the 1924 games, is now a missionary in China and will be able to compete next summer only by obtaining a leave of absence.

"From the way things seem to be going in China, Liddell's speed about next to him a lot of good. "Lord Burghley commented.

LEAFS MAY GET ROBIN PLAYERS

Philadelphia, June 4.—From a reliable source it was revealed here that the Philadelphia Dodgers are seriously thinking two more players in addition to Outfielder Hermie Jacobson to the Toronto club of the International League.

Wilbur Robinson, the portly manager of the Flatbush contingent, refused to talk on the subject, but it is understood that a pitcher and another outfielder may go to the Leafs.

It is rumored here that Robinson is considering letting Emil "Irish" Meusel, former Philadelphia and Giant apple-crusher, go to some fast minor league team, and it may be that Toronto is the club Uncle Robbie will eventually turn over the hard-hitting Californian to.

Thus far Meusel this season has found the National League hurling a tough proposition. He is at the present time being used only as pinch-hitter.

Then, too, there is a possibility that either "Jigger" Statz, the fleet-footed veteran, or Jack Felix, the erstwhile Brave, may be handed their walking papers. Statz has not lived up to the expectations of Robinson, while Felix never has been a real star in the big show.

The release of Jacobson was not unexpected. It has been rumored for some time that he was to be given the gate. For some diverse reason Robinson did not give him much of a chance. The former Baltimore Oriole never was offered the proper opportunity to show his real worth. He was very much peeved at being waived out of the two leagues, but says he will be back again next year.

Jacobson should be of much value to Toronto. Several years ago when a member of the Orioles, he was rated one of the best outfielders in the International loop. Despite the fact that he has been doing mostly bench duty for the Dodgers, Jacobson appears to have the same playing ability.

HOLIDAY RACES WERE ENJOYED BY LARGE CROWD

Three Thousand Swarm Agricultural Park For 3rd June Program

Another King's Birthday celebration has passed into history and it undoubtedly was one of the most successful ever held under the auspices of the Belleville Agricultural Society. The weather man was kind and favored the officials with a beautiful day and a fast track was provided for the races which were the chief feature of the day's program.

It is estimated that in the neighborhood of three thousand persons filled the grand stand and bleachers and surrounded the track fence as the beautiful west end park. The races were keenly contested and turf followers were delighted with the field presented. The midway attractions provided a fine afternoon of entertainment and the Prontenac ugly managed to capture the trophy after a hot argument with the Tigers who eliminated the Deseon team in the first game.

Vendors of soft-drink and ice-cream booths did a thriving business throughout the afternoon and many took advantage to patronize the ferris wheel and merry-go-round and various other forms of amusement. The Argyle Light Infantry Band under the direction of Bandmaster Reg. Hinchey were stationed on a platform erected on the grand stand in the infield and rendered several of the latest musical numbers.

Altogether it was a brilliant day and every event was run off in a business order and there was not a hitch in near the smooth proceedings. The crowd was well handled both by the Directors of Agricultural Society and the City Police Force who directed traffic in the downtown section of the city. The Directors themselves left every possible aid to make the day a pleasant one and no outside help was required. The officers of the Association Geo. Ostrom, Pres.; R. H. Ketchewan, Secretary; and H. B. Stock, are to be commended along with the Directors for the manner in which the day's proceedings were carried out.

The Races

The Horse Races brought out some of the best animals ever seen on a local track. Four speed contests were down on the card and everyone of these was a battle to the wire. The track was exceptionally fast and the time made in each was up to the stand ard.

Geo. O. Tice who acted as starter sent the horses away in each heat with precision, although there were always several times due to the fault of the horseman themselves. The crowd were not slow to express their disapproval at the decision of the Judges on one occasion at least.

The 2.20 class required four heats to complete before a winner could be declared. The races were concluded at six o'clock. The judges were Cephas Johnston, Napanee; J. R. Battersby, Campbellford; and Mark Syrance, of Belleville; Timers, Jack Lafferty and Adam Palmer.

Race Committee—J. Lafferty, Harry Ketchson, Adam Palmer, H. B. Stock R. H. Ketcheson and Geo. Ostrom.

The Flat system was introduced namely disqualifying horses who are not past a certain point when the winner crosses the line. This eliminates competition and prevents 'lagging' on the part of some drivers.

The Named Race

The named race was the first one called. Five heats were necessary to decide the money honors and Minnie Hall owned by E. Cowan, of Picton finally captured the contest. The Cowan horse ran second to McCrockers Click Sunday in the first two heats but the black mare showed her superiority by capturing the last three. The Picton entry was an especially good finisher and coming into the stretch stepped down to our distance the nearest competitor by a narrow margin. "Billy" Smith well known local driver occupied the sulky behind Dick Sunday. There were eight starters in this race, two of them afterwards being withdrawn. Lou Gratton, owned by C. Schooley of Peterboro, was awarded third money.

The summary:—

2.16 Trot

Eleanor Todd the fast little mare included in the Nesbit Stable, of Weston was clearly superior in the 2.16 Trotting the rail o losely she had no trouble to capturing all three heats. Fred Medium a fast animal pressed but the Nesbit horse was the best.

Abbie Allison, owned and driven by Dr. Benson, of Belleville, came in for third money while another Belleville horse Alta Silk ran a good fourth. Birdy Worthy who ran sixth in the first heat was then withdrawn.

Eleanor Todd, J. Nesbit, Weston 1 1 1

2.20 Race

The 2.20 class race was the best event of the day and five heats were run before petite money was awarded to Forest Ridge Bill, a fast horse owned by the veteran turfman. Vic Rowntree, of Weston. The speedy gray animal was the best looking entry of the entire day. Mr. Rowntree is noted throughout the Province for his fine stable and in adding Forest Ridge Bill he made no mistake.

The second heat was a thriller from start to finish. Day Star, owned by R. H. Baynor was the judge's choice but Yamuit reined in the stands for a few minutes following the announcement. Johnny fell that the Rowntree horse was the real winner. In this heat the Weston driver trailed Judy Smile until the third turn on the second time around and when the former rolled away from the rail a trifle Mr. Rowntree steered his horse into the opening and both horses came down the stretch neck and neck and under the wire almost opposite one another. Third and fourth money were divided between the owners, Just Jack and Belle Mahone. Every horse entered in this race was of the finest variety and some good racing was provided.

The summary:—

COOLIDGE GOING TO S. DAKOTA

Washington, June 2—Official announcement of President Coolidge's intention to spend the summer in the Black Hills of South Dakota, has been finally made at the White House.

SportOgrams By "The Observer"

Either the Point Anne or Bolero Club will supply plenty of trouble for the Belleville Canadian Natives' ala in Bay of Quinte. Yesterday's game was a close, hard fought battle and the verdict was in doubt until the last man was out. The locals are getting in plenty of practice in preparation for the opening of the season here next Wednesday, when Point Anne will be here. Both teams were playing still-edged ball on Wednesday with only a total of five errors being chalked up which speaks well for the calibre of ball that was played.

"Penny" Mills was an interested spectator on the side lines. He was there for the purpose of getting a little advance dope on his opposition. He holds a great deal of respect for both clubs and does not figure on any easy wins.

Manager Elliott ordered "Soup" Goyer passed in the 8th but Goyer crossed them up by batting for a high one and smacking it into left field. "Soup" does not like to be intentionally passed and the crack of the sphere is music to his ears.

The Canadian National shops have organized a soft-ball team and will enter the new city loop. H. Yeoman's is manager and W. Schreider captain. They have a smart team.

Says Manager Elliott "we won't be disappointed if we don't win the Bay of Quinte League, but believe the boys will be in there fighting every minute."

Bert Brown, husky outfielder, was the fielding star with two brilliant catches. One was a shoe-string catch of Weir's trase leaguer and the other was beautiful running catch of a hard-hit ball from the bat of the same player.

"Specs" Hurley does not discard his tortoise-shells either at the plate or in the field and following "Jerry's" performance Wednesday several team-mates have bled themselves to an optometrist.

Allan Meagher has his good Beaver team cocked and primed for their week-end games. Today's big double header with Toronto Nationals should be one of the season's best bills. The Queen City squad will meet the Beavers this afternoon at 2.15 and tonight at 6.15 and in the course of rain on the inside floor.

There's going to be opening ceremonies in everything. One of the features will be the appearance of "Babe" Vincent and her battery mate "Dot" Mortimer who will don a Beaver uniform for these tilts. For those who have not seen this pair in action it might be said that they will be acting unwisely if they turn down this treat.

R. A. Elliott who is one of the sponsors of Deloro's Jubilee celebration on July 2nd is anxious that there be one or two entrants from Belleville in the road race for young men under 20 years of age. Valuable trophies will be given and local runners will do well to get in touch with Mr. Elliott. The High School turning out some promising marathoners.

TORONTO TEAM ARRIVES INTACT

Nationals Hook Up With Beavers On Armouries Floor Today

The Toronto Nationals intermediate champions of the Province arrived in the city from Napanee where they played yesterday on their double header with the Belleville Beavers today. The interurban express has made it necessary for the officials to play the game inside the Armouries. The afternoon tilt will start at 3 o'clock and the evening affair at 8 o'clock. "Babe" Vincent who pitched a portion of last night's game will twirl in both games for the Beavers and "Dot" Mortimer, ace of Peterboro, will be on the receiving end. The Nationals who are the property of Dr. Babcock defeated the Belleville High School in the W. O. S. A. semi-finals last year.

In Major Ellerby and Miss Golden the visitors have two smart mound-men. Major Ellerby will do the catching with "Tiny" Seymour, Edna Crawford and several other well-known stars around Sunnyside diamonds will be in the line-up. Both are sure to be first-class games.

BEAVERS DROP THRILLING GAME TO KINGSTONIANS

Meet Toronto Nationals In Double Bill This Afternoon and Evening

By the narrowest of margins the Supremes of Kingston eased out the Belleville Beavers in the opening game of the season on the Armouries Lawn last night. The score was 16 to 15 and there was little to choose from between the two teams except that the visitors were a little heavy with the stick at times.

The Supremes gained a handicap by scoring six runs in the first inning and through a couple of errors, hung up five more in the fifth.

A monster crowd was on hand and the fence was lined two and three deep.

But let it be said that many of the so-called sports proved themselves to be of the "tin-ear" variety when the little ladies came around with the collection box. Those who do not see fit to drop a dime or a quarter in the hat and who are given the privilege of enjoying the game should remain at home and leave a little room for those who are more liberal. One surely is given enough of a thrill to enhance the collection when the box comes around.

The outside teams are brought here at no small expense and the club is responsible for the expenses and must, if necessary delve into the treasury to foot the bill. So much for that—let us open our hearts a little wider in the future.

"Babe" Vincent and "Dot" Mortimer of the Peterboro C. O. E. team made their initial appearance with the Beavers and they surely received a fine ovation. Miss Vincent assumed the mound in the sixth innings and the Supremes were limited to one run in the remaining four frames. Her mates had the Supremes batted and several of them went out via the strike out route.

Miss Vincent can drift them over as fast as plenty of male salesmen. Miss Mortimer is equally good behind the bat and works well with Miss Vincent. Both are good hitters and gained first base every time up.

Opening Ceremonies

The outdoor soft-ball season was officially opened by M. P. Duff, who ascended the pitching mound. Miss Lottie Warham was at bat and Miss Eric Keleher of the 15th Anglics was behind the bat.

Helen Lee was tendered the job of subduing the Kingstonians and the gallant little pitcher was forced to give way to her successor in the fifth although the fault was not all hers as Madeline Kelleher dropped an easy out in the fifth to pave the way for five runs. Other mistakes by teammates were rife and the Supremes made use of the opening.

The visitors are a nice well-balanced aggregation and many are of the opinion that they are a shade better than Allan Meagher's club. There are one or two players of exceptional ability and among these is Miss Mooney, a Belleville product, who held down right field. Miss Mooney will shortly return to the city and may be found in a best uniform before the season is far advanced. She can take a turn on the mound and is a finished batsman and patrols the outfield like a veteran. Four hits out of five times at bat was one of them a home run is not a bad average for any girl in one game.

The Beavers went into the last inning three runs down, but by dint of hitting safely and one of the last batter struck out, to end the rally. One more would have tied the score.

Miss Warham Starred

Twila Warham, the hard-hitting outfielder, copped a marvelous game and whacked out a home run, two doubles and a single besides having a perfect session in the field. In the opinion of the writer, she is the best all-round player in the city.

Clarinda Crueji covered herself with glory at first and was given a hand time after time for her smart work. She snared two or three hot liners and otherwise played a perfect game. Lauretta Curry, at third, and Laura Melchior supplied smart fielding features, the latter being especially good.

Miss Mortimer is equally good behind the bat and works well with Miss Vincent. Both are good hitters and gained first base every time up.

She can take a turn on the mound and is a finished batsman and patrols the outfield like a veteran. Four hits out of five times at bat was one of them a home run is not a bad average for any girl in one game.

The Beavers went into the last inning three runs down, but by dint of hitting safely and one of the last batter struck out, to end the rally. One more would have tied the score.

Miss Warham Starred

Twila Warham, the hard-hitting outfielder, copped a marvelous game and whacked out a home run, two doubles and a single besides having a perfect session in the field. In the opinion of the writer, she is the best all-round player in the city.

Clarinda Crueji covered herself with glory at first and was given a hand time after time for her smart work. She snared two or three hot liners and otherwise played a perfect game. Lauretta Curry, at third, and Laura Melchior supplied smart fielding features, the latter being especially good.

Miss Bates started in the pitching role for the Supremes, but she was derricked in favor of Miss Mooney, who was also yanked at a later stage.

Lena O'Neill, who is, as a general rule, a steady player, had a hard luck day and made a couple of costly errors. However she hopes to redeem herself in today's games.

EPIC OF SEA IS FINALLY KNOWN

London, June 1.—The full details of an epic of the sea have been drawn from a reluctant naval commander. The story of the gallant little destroyer Spitfire was never brought out fully until a representative of the Daily News the other day wrung from Lt.-Commander C. W. E. Trelawny, the Spitfire's commander, a modest account of the way in which the Spitfire with one of her torpedoes sank a big German cruiser and engaged with her 4-in. guns three German dreadnaughts each of which was 20 times her own size, blinding them by shooting their searchlights out and inflicting more than 50 casualties.

The Spitfire was ordered out from Scapa Flow until the 4th Destroyer Flotilla to escort the Grand Fleet out into the North Sea on May 30, the day before the great sea fight. They expected to be in action late the next day. The Spitfire was returning the flotilla being about five miles astern of the Grand Fleet, when German battleships took them by surprise.

Captain Trelawny, after hours of prompting, told the story. Two torpedoes had been fired when the torpedo crew and gear was wrecked by shell fire, leaving only three four-inch guns. Seeing two German battleships coming up, the Spitfire's commander turned his ship and collided with one. The big German ship fired a broadside as they collided. "After the blast of those heavy guns, I recovered consciousness to find myself hanging over the side, half-way along the deck. A signalman had his head blown off and a seaman's body was cut clean in two," Commander Trelawny said. "Another was dead and the others badly hurt."

"We had had 30 to 40 of those great shells aboard and we were lucky to be afloat. One of our sides was torn right away, and our bows were all smashed in, and the ship was taking water. Our bridge was gone, and we had to steer from the stern; we also had two fires aboard to extinguish." The Spitfire however, was getting ready to go into action again. With her little four-inch guns she battled the dreadnaughts inflicting heavy damage and 50 casualties. The next thing known is that 48 hours later the Spitfire crept painfully up the Tyne, her flag still flying.

WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT THE CANADIAN PRESS SERVICE

Under the heading, "Secrecy Beat" the Halifax (N. S.) Daily Star on May 12 last printed the following editorial:

"The story of incidents in France and the lack of news of the cruising airmen has the best proof of the value of secrecy in publicity page. French publishers, restrained by rigid martial rule, reports of the progress made by the fliers, was denied to angry reporters in the presence of their great anxiety.

"It is a matter of sincere congratulations that Halifax papers kept steady and sane, emphasizing that the reports were not confirmed. The Canadian Press here, with the co-operation of the Halifax wireless officer, checked up every report that came in, and soon proved them baseless, founded upon nothing more substantial than rumor and gossip.

"For such reliable service the Canadian Press has established a reputation which is the most highly recommended. It proved Halifax' ability to handle press matters, and it has given France no cause for being aggrieved with Nova Scotia.

"Such an undertaking as the non-stop flight from Paris to New York naturally aroused world-wide interest. Great things were at stake, and the lives of two men were involved. For this reason, of for no other, only the most reliable bulletins should have been put out.

"Realizing this, The Canadian Press here felt no stone unturned to verify every report that came over the wires. When the various news agencies reported that the fliers had been sighted near Cape Race, The Canadian Press at Halifax immediately checked up on this and five minutes later was able to inform New York, Paris and the world that this report was discredited by The Canadian Radio Service as no wireless station on the Canadian Atlantic seaboard had any such news. A dozen similar rumors were also proven by The Canadian Press at Halifax to be unfounded. When the plane was reported off the New England coast, The Canadian Press could no longer check up, not having news supervision in that territory. The Canadian Press has held a steadying influence on all the papers referring to the matter, of which it is itself responsible. It was due to the sound judgement and resourcefulness of the Halifax office tha. Paris learned promptly that the reports that the aviators had been seen off the New Foundland or Nova Scotia coasts were untrue. Accuracy always pays in the long run."

SINICAL SADIE SEES

The women of Belleville are still looking for the report of the milk investigation.

Can it be possible that the misleading curve-signs on the Foxboro Road were put up since Government Control came into force or was the man who erected them cross-eyed!

Pan at "Don Juan"—Say, if Mary Pickford ever sees Barrymore in this picture it's all up with Douglas. He's got Fairbanks backed off the map for stunts."

When it was announced that effort was a wild animal menagerie out on the Trent Road, a man at the Country Club who had been celebrating rather unwisely said this was no news to him.

AS KNE ANOTHER?

"1. Have you used your permit yet?
2. When is Dundas Street East going to be made fit for traffic?
3. Why doesn't Aggie McPhail go to China?

THE GAMBLE

Life is like a game of cards . . . .
When you're in love, it's hearts.
When you're engaged, it's diamonds.
When you married, it's clubs.
When you're dead, it's spades.

SELLING A DOG

An American, while travelling in Scotland, saw a very fine shepherd dog, and tried to induce his owner to sell him. "Wad ye be takin' him to America?" inquired the Scot. "Yes," replied the American. "I thought as much," said the old man. "I couldna part wi' Bruce." While they were talking, an English tourist came along and the owner sold the do gto him for a smaller amount than the American had offered. "You told me you would not sell him dog," sai dthe latter. "Na na," said the Scot. "I said I couldna parte wi' him. Ilene'll be back in a day or two—but he couldna swim the Atlantic."

Let Me Tell You

Always hang smoked meat from hooks in the larder; never let it be on a dish.

To cut new bread use a sharp knife dipped in boiling water and dried immediately.

Keep a piece of beeswax handy when sewing on buttons and rub the thread along it.

Before pouring hot water into a glass, put a spoon inside, then the glass will not crack.

Candle ends: Place a penny over the hole in candlestick and stand the candle end on it, when it will burn to the last bit.

An excellent iron stand can be obtained by using an ordinary hair-brush. It holds the heat, and does not cool the iron as quickly as the ordinary stand.

Broken China: Broken china should be mended as soon as possible after it is broken; if allowed to lie about the fine points or edges get rubbed or broken, and the joining will not be so close.

Chinnois Leather Gloves: When washing Chamois leather gloves, add a teaspoonful of olive oil to the water. It will keep the leather soft and pliable; and the gloves will be less likely to split under the strain of putting them on after washing.

Rhubarb Fool: Rhubarb fool is made by stewing some rhubarb with sugar and a very little water until tender, and then passing through a sieve. Whip some cream, add the beaten white of an egg, and fold in the rhubarb pulp. Serve in separate glasses with sponge fingers, or first place a ratafia soaked in sherry in the bottom of each individual glass.

Keep the Hands Soft: When creaming the hands put a small lump of whichever cream is used on the palm of the right hand and work it well into the back and fingers of the left hand and treat the right hand in the same way, using the palm of the left hand. This should be done every night, then the skin dosbed with the oatmeal, while if very neglected it is best to apply the cream night and morning, wipe off all the surplus with a towel. To whiten and soften the skin, a few drops of simple tincture of benzoin should be added to the water used for washing the hands.

A BOLD, BAD BUG

I am sitting by the river
Eloise,
Where the waters dance and quiver
In the breeze,
And the little boats are winging
Overhead and sweetly singing
Till their melody is ringing
Through the trees.

Here together we sat chumming,
Eloise,
While we listened to the humming
Of the bees.
And you said when I made money
As the little bees made honey
I would be your solid sonny—
O you tease!

As we sat beneath the willows
Eloise,
Rooms heavenly as the billows
Of the seas,
Oh! how fond the recollection
That by prudent circumspection
I was winning your affection
By degrees.

All is quiet a scream went flying
Through the trees.
Seemed to shatter even the silence
Of the breeze.
And the voice which erstwhile charmed me
Now with pitying fine alarmed me,
Till the very blood that warmed me
Seemed to freeze.

What a chill of fear came over me,
Eloise,
As you threw yourself before me,
On you knees.
And you said a boy that harm meant
Was between your back and summit
And you begged the dreadful vermin
I would seize.

But my modesty was riven,
Eloise,
And my blushes ran up seven—
Ty degrees.
And you called me craven coward,
Epithets upon me showered,
And alone left me, unhowered
'Neath the trees.

So again I here am sitting,
Eloise,
And the same old birds are flitting
Through the trees.
In the same old way they're winging,
And the same old song they're singing
And the same old music's ringing
On the breeze.
But I've grown a whole lot older,
If you please,
And I've certainly grown bolder
By degrees,
And it now I had occasion
I would step that long's tension
Without any hesitation
Eloise.

WINDING LANES

The winding lanes and crooked roads,
They beckon us to wander
By ferny banks and mossy beds,
Where little brooks meander.

They lead us through the meadow-weed
The grasses and the clover,
With bees a-humming all the day,
And bright wings on the hover.

They lure us to the hidden pool
Beneath the hanging willow,
Where reed and feathered bulrush grow
And iris, golden-yellow.

Oh, brother, of the roving foot,
Come, leave the metred highways,
To climb along the moorland track
And saunter down the byways!

Who will may tread the beaten road—
They know not half the pleasure
That lurks in little errant paths
And lanes that wind at leisure!
—Margaret Ormiston.

SPRING FEVER

Life! Do you think you're kind to me?
A gipsy woman I long to be.
With a caravan red and a donkey grey,
And nothing to do the livelong day
But travel the country roads along,
And carol a carefree gipsy song.

The almond trees are lovely now
With pale-pink blossoms on every bough;
The prune trees have blossoms white,
And chestnut buds are well in sight;
And, oh, life's a caravan for me,
And a laughing child for company.

I'd lee my bread along the way,
And prefer a thyme as gipsy pay;
If folks called out, "Good luck to you!"
I'd tell their fortunes, fair and true;
I'd give them a blessing and give them a smile,
Then travel along for another mile.

Life! Do you think you're kind to me?
A gipsy woman I long to be,
With a donkey grey and a caravan red—
And look what you offer me now!
A desk, a pen, some paper white—
And not an almond tree in sight.
—Wilhelmina Stitch.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

The Fate of Thesis

It was some two hours later when Rafe, tearing himself away, with many regrets, to his club, stumbled along the road, lighting inch by inch, against the wind, to Joe's but. They reached it at last, hammered on the door and Rafe sank onto an empty bench at once. Parchment Joe turned up the lamp and stirred up the logs into a blaze, then he turned and looked at Rafe.

"What is it boy?" he asked, his quaint grim voice softened by tenderness.

Rafe wiped the tears from his eyes and kept his eyes on the ground. "I've come back—to stay, Joe, he said slowly, quietly. "Something's happened over there; it's no longer any use for me—I had to come back."

Parchment Joe with difficulty dragged a sodden newspaper from his pocket and pointed to it. "I read it, just now, in the saloon. Is it that?

"That's so," said Rafe, softly. "You mean my—my marriage? There isn't going to be any marriage. It's off."

"Quarrelled?" asked Parchment Joe, as she took off Rafe's coat, wrung it, and spread it before the fire.

"No," replied Rafe, almost inaudibly. "Parted. It's no use, old man. I can't tell you. But it's all over between her and me—that lady you read of—and me. And when I say 'all over,' I mean all—for ever. There's no going back. Let it go at that, Joe. There's some things that hurt in the thinking of, but are never in the telling. I've got to think. I can't help myself, but I don't want to speak."

The old man nodded; his thin lips were working nervously, his eyes blank as the little bets made money I would be your solid sonny—

Joe did hunt a pipe filled it, and lit it and found—also can tell what I wanted to the couple unintelligible. "What are you going to do, Rafe?" he asked.

"Take up my old claim, carry on with the old life," said Rafe. "I've had nothing else. It's all there, in England, but I've done with it. I want to work; to get back to—myself, Sometimes I feel as if—as if I'd lost myself, as if I didn't know where I stand, as if I was a kind of shadow, moving among other shadows."

"You're thin enough for a shadow," said Joe, with a grim attempt at humour. "Let me his hand down Rafe's arm)".

"Oh, I'll pick up again pretty soon," said Rafe, with a resolute and yet weary gesture. "It's no use crying over spilled milk." Then suddenly, he asked: "Phenie? Is she—back, Joe?"

The old man nodded and ran a horny hand, puzzled glance at the young one. "Yes, she's back," he replied slowly. "She turned up one night—a week ago, or was it ten days —I forget."

"Is she—well?"

Joe shook his head and cast another glance at him. "No. She's off color and—queer. She keeps to herself—but I go up sometimes to see her—"

He knew. That's about all you could," said Rafe. "I want to see her; to talk to her. I'll go to the hut to-morrow, early."

SOLD AGAIN.

Those who went to see John Barrymore this week thinking it was Byron's "Don Juan," were sadly disappointed. It may be a Hollywood conception of a great lover, but nothing further from Byron's great portrayal could well be imagined! What a pity we've a Barrymore dressed to a Douglas Fairbanks' twist!

THE BIG ECLIPSE.

On June 29, 1927, England is to see a total eclipse of the sun. Now this is a rare occurrence over there. It is over 200 years since they had and the next will not be until August 11th, 1999. The total eclipse will be of course only visible over a part of England. The sun's disc will be totally obscured over a strip of country in South Wales and Northern England. Outside this region the observer will see a partial eclipse. Thousands of people will take advantage of the chance to see a spectacle as awe-inspiring and magnificent as any that Nature has to offer.

Parchment Joe asked no questions, but turned to the fire. Rafe, with an air of casualness, as if desirous that he should not be thought inquisitive by Rafe, to invite an unwilling confidence, he said:

"You'll find some changes at Jumping Jane Rafe. Some of us have struck it rich since you left; the gold's been thrown up in many, and we've become quite scientific."

"Yes, we're finding the stuff at deep levels, and we've got machinery to do it for us—engineering. A Scotsman, a chap we call Sandy, has taken the matter in hand, and he's got the pull and are using the water for working the machinery and washing the ore on a—a—I don't know the name of the top of the cradle? That's where the dust stretches. We've actually run a sewage across the valley, just above Phenie's hut. Oh, we've been doing it super style, and the claims are pretty, proud of it. They'll get on there if all be not murdered. Lord, how it rains, and it's been going on it since last night!" He stopped suddenly and listened. "Some one at the door" he said.

He went to it and opened it, setting his shoulder against it that it might not be blown in. A man, drenched to the skin, edged his way round it, while he fought for breath. Parchment Joe introduced the two men.

"Mr. Rafe Lindley—our shazer engineer, Rafe. This is Rafe—you've heard us speak of him, Sandy?"

The engineer gave "a swift nod to Rafe. "I'm glad there's three of us," he said. "Not that I'm superstitious, but—he shall want all the strength we can get. Joe, the dam's going!"

Joe's face became still graver, and Rafe spoke to his feet, for he knew by the full meaning of the engineer's short sentence.

"There's not a moment to lose," said Sandy abruptly. "The boys down here on the plain are warned, and there's time for them to get away, but there are some huts just below the dam. It mustn't hold out long enough—they'll be swept away—like a pack of cards."

The three men were outside before he had finished the sentence. The plunger of a moon behind the racing clouds showed them the swollen and rapidly rising river, and they forced their way along its bank. There was no use calling out, for their voices would not carry a couple of yards. Step by step, they struggled until they they could go more quickly, and after reached the shelter of the hill, then what seemed an age to two of them and to Rafe an eternity, they came

OYSTERS MORE SENSITIVE THAN A COY LOBSTER

London, June 3.—Oysters are much more sensitive than lobsters, says E. B. Boulenger, curator of the aquarium at the London zoo, who declares that oysters probably feel a lot worse when they are chewed or swallowed alive than lobsters do when plunged into hot water.

The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty of Animals has rallied to the defence of the lobster, and there is much speculation among London restaurant men as to whether the oyster had snail will now enlist a similar defence.

"The higher the form of life an animal has the more keenly it feels," says Mr. Boulenger. "Oysters and snails are a much higher form than lobsters. Snails must suffer when they are killed in salt water, and oysters which escape death when chewed by man undoubtedly has a painful time when plunged into the gastric juices."

C. M. A. CONFERENCE IN CALGARY CITY

Calgary, Alta., June ...—In an address which challenges the imagination of his hearers and reviewed the events of the past in manufacturing in Canada, John M. Taylor, of Guelph, Ontario, president of the Association, opened the first session of the fifty-sixth annual meeting of the Canadian manufacturers Association at the Palliser Hotel this morning.

With reminiscences of the past and accounts of present progress the speaker inferred picture of what the Canada of the future may become. Mr. Taylor reminded the delegates that not so long ago the industries of Canada were based on wood and wood working machinery whereas today they are based on steel. He spoke of advancements in the lighting, lumbering and other industries and, tracing the improvements since confederation, gave interesting statistics to show the rapidity of Canada's growth.

BUFFALO SAVED BY CHANCE FROM COMPLETE LOSS

Almost By Accident a Few Saved To Become Large Herd

One of the least creditable incidents in the early history of the west, after the coming of the white man was the near-extinction of the buffalo, one of the more creditable was the effective steps taken at the last moment to save the buffalo from utter extinction and bring him back, not to anything approaching his one-time numbers, but to a population that ensured the survival of this interesting and valuable animal.

At one time the buffalo ranged over the greater part of North America and we know from the narratives of many of the early travelers and fur-traders that a hundred years or more ago they travelled in such incredible numbers over the plains of what is now Western Canada that the country was literally black with them as far as the eye could reach. Nevertheless at the time of Confederation they were practically extinct in British North America as well as in the Western States, although it is estimated that they once numbered 75,000,000. How they were exterminated is not a tale to remember.

One of the most extraordinary links between the present and the past so far as the buffalo is concerned, is the veteran Canadian poet Charles Mair, still living in Victoria and approaching his ninetieth year. Mair knew well when the buffalo might still be seen occasionally in their native state and was so impressed with the tragedy of their extinction that in 1890 he published, through the Royal Society of Canada, an appeal that aroused the interest of thoughtful men. Some years later steps were taken to save his vanishing race of native Canadian mammals with such success as may be seen today in the west.

It so happened that, almost accidentally, a few buffalo had been saved when the rest of the race disappeared. A man named Michel Pablo finally built up a herd of some six hundred in Montana. The Canadian government bought these and had them carefully transported to what is known as Buffalo National Park, in Alberta, about midway between Saskatoon and Edmonton. In this area of one hundred thousand acres the buffalo have thrived and multiplied until even that large area became insufficient to support their numbers.

During the summer of 1925 the experiment was tried of transporting six teen hundred of these buffalo to the wooded country to the westward of Great Slave Lake, where there were already known to be about two thousand wood buffalo in a natural state. The experiment worked so well that last year over two thousand more buffalo were sent north from the Park; and this year the same number will be taken up to join their brethren. In addition about two thousand animals have been slaughtered from time to time, and disposed of in the public market, to keep down the increase of the herd. Nevertheless there will be about six thousand buffalo in the park.

In other words, the handful of buffalo that Pablo started with, or the six hundred that were first brought to the Park, have increased to fourteen thousand. That is surely a more satisfactory and a more creditable sight than the countless piles of buffalo bones that once marked the prairies of Western Canada.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. You can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray faded hair, though no disgrace as a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

Woman Suffered Nearly a Year. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Brought Her Health

Moose Jaw, Sask.—"I am going to try to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered very badly with dragging-down pains and inflammation, also pains in my right side over my hip and down my whole side into my leg. I had it nearly a year and I went to a doctor and he said I would have to have an operation, but my mother said to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it saved her life years before. I took two bottles and I found I was better, so I kept on taking it and also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I have had two more children since then and am perfectly well. I used to have to lie down two or three times a day, and now I do all my housework without trouble, as always keep the Vegetable Compound in the house as I find it does me and then helps me. I am willing for you to use this letter any way you see fit, and I will answer letters. If I can help any other woman I'd be only too glad to try."—Mrs. ESTHER HOUGERTON, 614 Morse Square, Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan.

REGINA POSSESSES YOUNG PRODIGY

Regina, Sask., June 4 (C.P.)—The remarkable memory of a little Hebrew Mary Secuin, of Regina, has provoked comment throughout the province. Helen can recite 40 poems, varying in length from four to twenty lines; repeat the alphabet and can also sing several songs. All this at the age of three and a half years.

Although at this tender age Helen is learning the French language and already she can give the correct translation of several elementary passages.

"We really don't know how many poems Helen has memorized," her mother said. "we certainly have never tried to force her." Thinking the child was too young and that it was NOT good to tax her memory, the mother stated that it had been rather a case of holding the child back." Helen has never attended school.

A wonderful memory is not "—" al this fair-haired tot can rightfully be proud of, for she possesses a ready wit.

"You're a little boy, aren't you?" she was teased. With a flash Helen replied: "Sure, my name's Johnny."

CANADA'S AID TO DISCOVERIES

Government Makes Provision For General Research Work

It is an almost impossible task to attempt to sketch in a short article the progress of science in Canada since Confederation. The subject is not only a very big one, but it can be studied from a great many variety of angles. There are first of all the two great divisions of science pure and applied, both equally important. One man or group of men, after years of research, makes an important discovery. What is to be done with it? Those or other men get to work and study its possibilities; how can it be applied to industrial or other uses, to increase the health or happiness, comfort or convenience of mankind. The two divisions' are interdependent; the discovery is nothing much more than a curiosity until its practical uses have been determined: on the other hand, these applications cannot be made until the discovery is available.

Canada has been by no means backward in the various departments of pure and applied science. Without attempting a long catalogue of names, one need only instance such comparatively recent achievements as Dr. Saunders' discovery of Marquis wheat, remembering all that is involved in that momentous discovery; Professor Banting's discovery of insulin, and what that means not merely to Canadians but to all mankind in the saving of human lives and human suffering; Dr. McLennan's researches in connection with Helium and what his discoveries meant to the Allies in the Great War.

"Some people," said an eminent Canadian scholar, "admit in a general way the value of abstract science to the world at large, but say that, in a new country like Canada, the opening up of the country to settlement and the development of its natural resources call for all available talent, and that expenditure on abstract science is a species of extravagance which may well be left to older and wealthier countries." His answer was: "It is the new country developing its resources that most needs the services of trained scientific men to deal with the new problems that are continually arising in connection with the development, problems of engineering and construction, of conservation of natural resources, of increasing the yield of the lands and the waters."

Although it may be true that in the early years of the country none of our universities was shortsighted enough to decline the services of Huxley and Tyndall, we have long perceived that kind of provincialism, and both Dominion and Provincial Governments, as well as other interests, have made fairly generous provision for scientific education and research. One need only instance the establishment and growth of such institutions as the Geological Survey of Canada, the Dominion and Provincial Experimental Farms, the Astronomical Observatories, the Biological Board of Canada, the National Museum and the various similar institutions throughout the country, the Geodetic Survey, the National Research Council, the Royal Society of Canada, the Royal Canadian Institute, the scientific departments of our great universities and the technical schools that have been established by the various provincial Boards of Education. In these and many other ways Canada has advanced a long way in the encouragement of scientific teaching and research since 1867.

Severino De Guzman, chief officer of Negroes, who commanded the life boats, in rescue, said the boat went down in three minutes. Confusion as a result of the rapid approach of disaster, caused panic and passengers stampeded for the life boats.

DOUBLE FUNERAL HELD

Smith's Falls, Ont., June 9.—Death stalked twice through the residence here of Isaac H. Garrett in the space of a few hours and today a double funeral was held for a grandfather and his little grandson.

METHODS OF CONTROL FOR APPLE APHIDS

(By William D. Reed, Dominion Entomological Laboratory)

Some of the questions which are commonly asked by Ontario fruit growers regarding the control of apple aphids are answered herewith:

IS A 3-4 LUBRICATING OIL SPRAY APPLIED JUST BEFORE THE BUDS BURST AS EFFECTIVE AS NICOTINE SULPHATE + LIME SULPHUR? At the present time there is no very definite information regarding the value of lubricating oil sprays for the control of apple aphids, and, in view of this, fruit growers would be well advised to continue to use the nicotine-lime sulphur mixture.

IS "APPLYING THE DELAYED DORMANT APHIDS SPRAY, IS IT NECESSARY TO COMPLETE THE SPRAYING OF THE TREE? It is. Each tree should be sprayed from all angles before passing on to the next, in order to coat thoroughly all parts of the buds. If only the windward side of the tree is sprayed, most of the aphids on the leeward side of the tree will be missed.

IS IT ADVISABLE TO ADD NICOTINE SULPHATE TO THE DELAYED DORMANT SPRAY IN ALL APPLE ORCHIDS? The only answer we can give to this is to advise growers to be guided by the following recommendations:

(1) In the case of young trees, do not use nicotine sulphate, unless black, shiny aphid eggs are present in conspicuous numbers on the wood.

(2) In the case of large trees, add nicotine sulphate to the delayed dormant spray in districts where the rosy aphids (the aphid responsible for the production of clusters of deformed, deformed apples) is injurious in most seasons.

(3) In orchards where aphids are destructive only occasionally, and in this applies to most Ontario orchards, it does not pay to use nicotine sulphate in the delayed dormant spray.

HOW CAN SUMMER OUTBREAKS OF THE GREEN APPLE APHIDS BE CONTROLLED? If the green aphid appears in large numbers and threatens to be destructive during the summer, the trees, particularly young trees, should be sprayed with nicotine sulphate ½ pint, ½ lbs. hydrated lime and 40 gallons weak lime sulphur (1-50).

In making this application, it is essential to hit the undersides of the infested leaves with the spray, and this can be done most satisfactorily by means of rods and angle nozzles.

A RED glare in the sky . . . the crackling roar of flames as they sweep from tree to tree . . . none but those who have been through it can fully sense the terror and suffering that a forest fire brings to Canada's hinterlands.

In a flash, a whole community may be homeless . . . without shelter, without food, suffering frightful injuries or mourning for dear ones caught in the talons of the red demon.

Such catastrophes wring our hearts. Fires . . . mining disasters . . . disease epidemics . . . happily they occur but seldom. But when they come, they find the Red Cross organised to render prompt relief.

In every Province, the Red Cross is prepared for instant action in such emergencies . . . In the stricken area confusion reigns . . . In the nearest Red Cross headquarters, the machinery for prompt, efficient measures works quickly and smoothly, drawing on a Canada-wide organization for help if need be.

Since the War
THE RED CROSS
has disbursed
7 Million Dollars
for the Soldiers, Women, Children and Frontier Families of Canada.
"STILL SERVING"

Medical supplies are kept ready. Nurses and doctors can be quickly mobilized. Tents, blankets, field kitchens, oil stoves, iron beds, mattresses from the Government's military stores are at the instant disposal of the Red Cross. As fast as trains can travel, aid is rushed to the sufferers . . . no confusion or delay.

When the town of Bowden, Alberta, was partially destroyed by fire, the Red Cross furnished assistance for some 88 families made homeless. . . . Similar aid was given to the village of St. Joseph d'Alma, Quebec. In the disastrous forest fires that swept Northern Ontario in 1923, and in the Cochrane typhoid epidemic, the Red Cross played an efficient part . . . In these and scores of other cases the Red Cross relieved and succored thousands of sufferers.

By supporting the Red Cross, YOU make efficient relief measures possible. If disaster should strike any community, the RED CROSS is YOUR AGENT to give relief.

OR YOUR MONEY BACK. That's the Plan on Which Emerald Oil Is Sold by Doyle's Drug Store and All Good Druggists.

Make up your mind today that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well.

You've probably heard, like a lot of other people, rumored that the only thing to use was an ointment or salve (some of them are very good) but in the vast majority of cases these sticky salves simply clog the pores and the condition primarily remains the same.

Get to Doyle's Drug Store or any other good druggist today and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil. The very first application will give you relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by sticking faithfully to it for a short while your skin troubles will be a thing of the past.

Don't expect a single bottle to do it all at once but one bottle we know will show you beyond all question that you have at last discovered one way to restore your skin to perfect health.

Remember that Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful, penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue and that it must give complete satisfaction or your money refunded.

BETTER SERVICE MAKES GROCERY BUSINESS GROW

Bargman's Inceasing Their Business By Real System

Today has become the era of the chain or co-operative store in modern merchandising. In grocery store, department store, drug store and in other lines, one may readily follow the rapid strides which have been made in co-operation within the past few years.

Undoubtedly such organizations are advantageous and the consumer is enjoying the lower prices made possible through the immense buying power of these stores.

Perhaps the field in which cooperative selling has spread to the greatest extent is in the grocery line. Year after year has witnessed the gradual reaching out of the cooperative grocery store, until the largest of these now reach from coast to coast, with an ever increasing growing list of stores represented in its numbers.

But what of the individual grocer who perhaps has found his business of years standing slipping away—a prosperous business which took years to build, dwindling. Most of the less progressive will disappear but the man who is up to the minute is taking advantage of the opportunities he has to maintain and even increase his business in face of the strong opposition.

In the first place, he can stress and improve the quality of his delivery service, as many of the cooperative stores work on a cash and carry system. Fast efficient delivery service is appreciated and together with a complete stock of quality foodstuffs a courteous staff and an attractive store all of these will combine to maintain the business of the individual grocer.

Among local grocers, Bargman's is one which is giving its customers service embodying all the above and that it is appreciated is attested to by an ever increasing business. A phone call will convince you that Bargman's offer is a genuine grocery service.

GUM DIPPING OF REAL VALUE IN TIRE BUILDING

Shoe Maker Used Same Principle in Waxing Thread

Did you ever stop to think that gum dipping, the exclusive feature of Firestone Tires, is a modern application of a well-known practice of the shoe maker. In the first place, a tire's worst enemy is friction. Internal friction creates heat and heat not only weakens the cord fabric but softens the rubber and causes premature deterioration. All pneumatic tires are made of rubber and a loosely woven Cord fabric, each cord of which is made of light strands of cotton. Every time these cords are forced out of their normal position friction results with the consequent heat, wear and weakening of the cords.

Gum dipping helps to lessen friction in Firestone Cords and in Firestone Cords only, is this cord fabric dipped in a rubber solution, holding the unit and greatly assisting the rubber strands of each cord together as one and preventing your flower garden inducing friction to a minimum and preventing the cords from fraying and weakening. The moisture proof cord used in a Firestone Tire saturated with a Gum Dipped solution thoroughly insulates with rubber every strand of every cord. Then with each strand of the cord impregnated with rubber the whole tire is strengthened and protected.

The Quinte Vulcanizing Co., George Deline, manager, next Queen's Hotel, on Front street, are local Firestone Agents and Tire Repair Specialists. Have them explain to you the merits of Firestone Tires before buying your next set.

WOLVERINE GOES CROSS - COUNTRY IN GREAT RUN

Established Record of Dependability on Par With Reo

A trans-continental trip whose sole object was to complete the proof that a new product was worthy of bearing the name of one of the country's oldest automobile manufacturers—a six-thousand-mile run in which phenomenal "records" were discounted in favor of swift, steady, unfailing performance—was the unusual cross-country dem onstration recently arranged by the Reo Motor Car Company as the final step in testing its new Wolverine model before it was ready for presentation to the public.

Before the test was made, Reo officials frankly stated that their only purpose was to add to the growing evidence, until the Wolverine would uphold the reputation of a manufacturer who for 22 years had kept faith with the American motoring public. For this reason, the Wolverine selected for the test was a stock car without any special features of construction or any special adjustment.

Six thousand miles of the country's worst roads—March mud, February blizzards, steep mountain trails and clinging desert sands—between the Pacific coast at Lansing, Michigan, and Los Angeles, California, failed to necessitate a single adjustment of the new Wolverine's motor, transmission, steering gear, axles or brakes. Whether riding a mountain's crest at an altitude of 8,250 feet, or ploughing through bottomless mud, the Wolverine's performance was uniformly up to Reo standard. The cost of the entire trip, which totalled 6,349 miles, was only a cent and a half a mile for gasoline and oil, while the average speed maintained was 38.4 miles per hour, despite the gruelling punishment the car received.

At the conclusion of the trip, Reo engineers stated that they were satisfied the new Wolverine could take its place in the markets of the world as a worthy ally of the Reo Flying Cloud.

Aselstine & Sons, local Reo and Wolverine Agents, will be glad to demonstrate the Wolverine to you. Simply call 229—they'll do the rest.

FRANCE HOPES TO WREST CUP

Paris, June 4.—France expects to wrest the Davis Cup, emblematic of world tennis supremacy, from the United States this year. Moreover, she expects to keep it, and is training young players in super tennis with that idea in mind.

Never has the racquet game aroused such popular enthusiasm in France as at present. The loss of Suzanne Lenglen from the ranks of the amateurs has served rather to stimulate than diminish the interest of all classes. Scores of youngsters, who a few years ago would have played tennis merely as a pastime, have gone into serious training for international events.

The successes of Lacoste, Borotra, Cochet and Brugnon have made it plain to most Frenchmen that 1927 is the French Davis Cup year. And they point to boys, barely out of knee pants but who already have tasted blood in the defeat of famous old-timers, as players who will defend the trophy in the future against all challengers.

FORCED DOWN BY A BROKEN PROPELLOR NEAR BERLIN

Changes Announced In Ministerial Stationing By United Church Conference At Oshawa

LABOR PARTY IS BRINGING RUIN TO AUSTRALIANS

Fifty Per Cent of Population Crowded Into the Six Cities

SHORT HOURS

High Wages Make Farming Unprofitable and Difficult To Carry On

"The people of Australia are just dancing on the top of a volcano, which will some day explode."

Rotarians today had the privilege of hearing Mr. R. J. Graham receipt returned from a trip around the world and give an extremely interesting and instructive talk on Australia and New Zealand. Mr. Graham and party went from Honolulu to the Fiji Islands, which are under British Rule, to Sidney, Australia. Mr. Graham told of the wonderful harbour, 125 miles of waterfront, the most beautiful harbour in the world, next to that of Rio de Janiero.

"All the Australian cities are governed largely by Labour governments and I believe the country will be bankrupt before many years have passed. Fifty per cent of the population live in the six cities of Australia." The speaker told of the introduction of a forty-four hour week for workers on the farms in Australia and the high wages paid to them, which he said, would lead to no good.

Sidney has a population of over a million, and there is no land within one hundred and forty miles of the city that can produce food.

New Capital in Wilderness

"From Sidney we went to the Blue Mountains", went on the speaker. "The famous caves here are absolutely the most beautiful in the world. From here we went to Canberra, the new capital of Australia. "There is no way of getting into the future city by train, and we had to motor. The city is built in a wilderness and is 150 miles from nowhere. It is laid out in circles. They get their water supply from a very small river, but one of the most beautiful dams in the world has been built here."

The Grahams went from Canberra to Melbourne, a very fine and beautiful city.

"The only manufacturing that can be done in Australia is for local trade," said Mr. Graham. It is a wonderful country, but they need rain badly and it looks as though they would never get it. The Australians are nice people to live with but I think they are dancing on the top of a live volcano."

New Zealand Prosperous

"New Zealand is just as good in proportion as Australia is bad. They have the most up-to-date methods in dairying of any country in the world today. Out 2-3 of the New Zealand land is useless." The speaker touched on Maoris, the natives of New Zealand. "The sheep industry is wonderful, and I believe that it will outlive Australia's. No country in the world has the opportunities like New Zealand's."

SMUGGLE BILLION FAGS ANNUALLY

Montreal, June 6.—From six hundred to a billion cigarettes are smuggled into Canada each year, announced to H. S. Bourke, Sales manager of the Imperial tobacco Company who appeared before the Royal Customs Commission here today. He estimated that the loss in revenue to the Dominion was from $7,800,000 to $10,000,000 per annum.

Chief Commissioner, Judge J. T. Brown, asked Mr. Bourke how the problem was to be solved if smuggling of cigarettes was so large and widespread. "Stop it by reducing excessive taxes on Canadian cigarettes" was the reply.

ANOTHER CIRCUS IS COMING TO TOWN

Seven advance agents of Sells Floto Circus are in the city today completing arrangements for their Circus which is the second largest in the world and will exhibit here on Wednesday, July 13th. The powers who control over the rest of the Queen's Realm are engaged today in posting bills announcing the coming of the monster show.

UNITED CHURCH IS UNALTERABLY OPPOSED TO ALL LIQUOR TRAFFIC

Final Changes In Ministerial Appointments Are Announced

Oshawa, June 6.—In calling attention to what is termed the startling revelations of the operators of the liquor traffic in connection with the customs investigation," the day of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada in session here reaffirmed its conviction that nothing short of its complete elimination from Canada's national life would satisfactorily solve the problem. The recommendation was passed that the conference urge upon the Dominion government that nothing less than the most vigorous and impartial enforcement of the law against all who have been proven guilty will satisfy an outraged public opinion and purge our country from the foul stain put upon it.

The conference went on record as disapproving of the Government Control legislation but urges upon its membership the necessity of conforming to all restrictions of the law and rendering all possible assistance to its effective operations. The Conference urged that an intensive and immediate process of temperance education be initiated and maintained by the United Church whereby the young people of the land may receive convincing and constructive instruction concerning the evils and harmful effects of alcohol.

Settlement Committee

Oshawa, June 6.—Several changes in ministerial appointments were contained in the report of the settlement committee of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada which was received by the Conference at its final session. Allan Laing transferred from London conference; Shoal Lake, Rev. F. G. Robinson of Wilfrid.

THREE DEAD FROM GAS ASPHYXIATION

Montreal, June 6.—Three children are dead and the mother, Mrs. Albert Cumming, is in a hospital in a dangerous condition as a result of asphyxiation by gas escaping from a stove here this morning. The father, Albert Cumming, left the house to go to work and a couple of hours later the fatality was discovered by neighbors.

OLD HOME WEEK AT FRANKFORD

Frankford sets out on a sea of celebrations tomorrow, the opening day of the Old Boys' Reunion and already many of the three hundred Old Boys who have accepted the invitation to return, have drifted home. Almost every form of entertainment has been planned for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, particularly the middle day when a Cuthbumpian parade of gigantic proportions in which many of the merchants and organizations are registering floats, and in the evening a dance to wind up with a pyjama parade. One old boy who is expected tomorrow will revisit the scenes of his youth after an absence of over twenty years.

RACKET WAKENED DUKE AND DUCHESS TOO EARLY

Washington, June 6.—His British royal highness the Duke and Duchess of York should not be awakened too early in the morning if they are to be in good humor for the day's festivities, according to a letter to the editor of the Washington Herald.

The navy knows the serious need of rest on board ship, the writer declared, but it has never become the habit of the British royal family to rise early. Ordinarily awaiting a 21-gun salute at sunrise to call her up from bed, but in this instance, when the Duke and Duchess are to be honored by the firing of the British Admiralty relative to a letter to the editor of the Washington Herald. It is an unhappy time by the din.

LOYAL TO KING BUT SITS DURING SINGING ANTHEM

Rev. J. R. Laughland Owes Fealty To Higher Power First

NO DISRESPECT

Wrong To Express Allegiance To Any Form Of Government

Stratford, June 6.—"I take second place to no man in my loyalty either to Church or Country," declared Rev. J. V. Laughland, of Stella, in the Presbytery of Kingston to the Presbyterian General Assembly shortly before adjournment of the morning session today. Mr. Laughland's statement was in explanation of his suggestion at the opening of the session that the customary singing of the Royal anthem, Mr. Laughland remained seated. "I believe there is a greater loyalty than that to Country, loyalty to Christ," the minister continued. "You may be subjects of Canada or of the United States, but the Church as an institution has one king, and one only, Christ. I had no desire to show disrespect to your relations as citizens, but I believe that we do wrong to express our allegiance to any form of government, for the day may come when Christ's Kingdom may dictate some other form of government."

SHED BURNED AT THE O.S.D. THIS AFTERNOON

A shed in the rear of the attendants' building at the Ontario School for the Deaf, caught fire this afternoon from some unknown cause. One line of hose was laid and after a few minutes the fire was placed under control. The building which, was of brick construction, was used as a store house and was partially filled with old barrels and other highly-inflammable materials. The blaze was quickly subdued.

The fire apparatus at the school was pressed into service preventing the arrival of the local department.

Ostend, Belgium, June 6.—Belgium's leading Rotarian, King Albert, welcomed visiting delegates in an address today before the eighth-ninth annual convention of Rotary International. The King addressed himself particularly to more than three thousand Canadian and United States delegates whose presence at Atlantic—is indeed an important event" he said. "It proves the strength of the Rotarian feeling and co-operative spirit. I am sincere exponent of international influence of our remarkable organization."

JEWS CELEBRATE FEAST OF WEEKS

Today and tomorrow mark the Jewish Pentecost, or Feast of Weeks, and the occasion will be marked with special services in local Jewish circles. Shabuoth or the Festival of Weeks, derives its name from the fact that the Mosaic legislation does not prescribe the date of this festival as being definitely on such and such a day or such and such a month which is the case with other festivals, but instead simply states that seven full weeks are to be counted from the time of the Omer (a measure of grain as an offering), is brought. Hence the name "The Festival of Weeks." Its designation sometimes as the feast of "First Fruits" as well as some of the features of its celebration is described in the Bible.

CHAMBERLAIN BROKE LINDBERGH'S GREAT NON-STOP DISTANCE RECORD

Broken Propellor Forced Plane Down Just Short Of Berlin

PLENTY OF FUEL

Flight About 200 Miles Further Than New York To Paris

Berlin, Germany, June 6.—Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, who flew from New York to Germany, will be brought from Klinge, where they made a forced landing in their Bellanca monoplane shortly before noon today. The propeller of the plane was broken in landing, but neither of the aviators suffered any injury. The flight had previously been broken at Eisleben, Saxony, about 110 miles southwest of Berlin, at five o'clock this morning when the Columbia, after 42 hours continuous progress from Roosevelt field, Long Island, was forced to descend by a shortage of fuel. While coming short of its goal, the Columbia in reaching Eisleben, sets a new record for long distance sustained flight, covering approximately 3,800 miles, as compared with Capt. Charles Lindbergh's New York-Paris flight of 3,610 miles.

The aviators will spend the day and night at Kastkau and will be brought to Berlin tomorrow afternoon. The Columbia was located by one of the Lufthansa scouting planes from Tempelhofer Field, Berlin, at the moment Chamberlin was making his forced landing in a marshy meadow, about seventy miles southeast of Berlin. The Columbia was first sighted and identified over German soil when Chamber lin flew over Dortmund, 200 miles from Berlin, swooping close to the ground and asking directions by shouting: "to Berlin or Hamburg?"

That was at four o'clock this morning. Then came conflicting reports. Aeroplanes from Berlin Berlin airfield, Tempelhofer, to welcome and escort the plane to Berlin returned without finding it. The welcoming committee gave up its vigil and went home, believing Chamberlin had been forced down at some isolated point. Then came the news of the landing at Eisleben. United States Ambassador Schurman went home, dressed in warm clothing and prepared to fly to Eisleben. Meanwhile however, it was learned that the Columbia had again taken to the air and then ushered her sighting over Magdeburg and forced landing at Klinge with a damaged propeller, putting immediate resumption of flight out of the question.

Martha Lesher's Birth Place

The longest non-stop aeroplane flight ever made ended in the town where Martin Luther was born and died. Eisleben, in the province of Saxony, where Chamberlin and Columbia alighted after its record breaking flight across the Atlantic.

When it became definitely known that the Columbia intended landing at Tempelhofer field, a crowd began gathering there. Early in the morning a brass band of Lufthansa (German Air Lines) appeared on the scene, ready for action, amid an outburst of enthusiasm from a group of Pioneer beer was 6 put on ice to welcome Chamberlin with a shot of foaming beer when he

LIQUOR STORE SITE IS STILL IN DOUBT

"I am awaiting a reply to the wire I sent to Toronto" stated Col. W. N. Ponton to the Intelligencer this afternoon when asked if final arrangements had been made for the signing of the lease between the Ontario Government Control Board and himself for his store on Bridge Street. It is expected that this matter will be definitely settled today.

When the liquor store is opened in this city, Mr. B. L. Hyman, chief ender, will be able to devote more of he is now constantly seeing approach ing on the street by women as well as men with the question "When is the store going to be opened in this city anyway?"

Dr. Malott Returns From Oshawa With Glowing Report

Delighted with the expeditious manner in which so great an amount of business important to the United Church in Canada was put through, Dr. F. E. Malott returned to the city this morning from the Bay of Quinte Conference at Oshawa.

Dr. Malott was particularly impressed with the outstanding addresses of Dr. Arnaud, of Chicago, who on Thursday gave an impressive address on the benefits derived to the 500 delegates in the General Motors building. Judge Lovelace, Kingston, also gave a remarkably able address. Friday night was devoted to young peoples work and an interesting session on sport, and on Saturday at the closing session the Settlement Committee brought in their report. Yesterday Dr. Malott attended the impressive ordination service at which seven young men were ordained to the ministry and the past presidents of Conference and moderators of Synod taking part in the interesting ceremony.

Dr. Malott preached in Simcoe St. church in the evening to a capacity congregation.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

All things I thought I knew; but now confess
The more I know I know, I know the less. OWEN.

WEED CONTROL

Nature does not leave the land vacant. If cultivated crops are not planted, weeds and grass take possession. A comparatively clean field left without seeding or cultivation will in a few weeks take on a green appearance. The weed and grass seeds or roots have been lying dormant waiting for an opportunity to spring to life. The more fertile the soil, the more aggressive are the weeds. Weeds increase the work, are unsightly, decrease crop yields, and lessen the value of the farm. They increase more abundantly than cultivated plants, and many are provided with means of spreading to new ground.

If the majority of weeds could be prevented from producing seed for a couple of years, the back of the weed problem would be broken. With a few weeds the root stalks spread out and send up new plants. When dealing with them the root must be destroyed.

In spite of sowing clean seed and giving good cultivation weeds continue to spread. The seed blows in from dirty farms, from uncut fence corners, and roadsides. It is discouraging to any man who takes pride in his farm to see the indifference with which weeds are dealt with. There are laws on the Statute Books governing the control of weeds through weed inspectors appointed by township councils. Too often the weeds have gone to seed before the control machinery is got into operation. Some municipalities are endeavoring to keep the roadsides clean and see that weeds are cut on farms, but too many of our roadsides are a disgrace and a menace to clean farming.

We are losing millions of dollars annually, because of infestations that could have been easily suppressed at the right time; and we shall lose many more millions because there is not sufficient public sentiment to make any real weed war effective. We have plenty of weed laws. What we need is weed control.

IT'S A HARD LIFE

The greatest conveniences in life often prove of exceeding inconvenience—many things considered indispensable being the cause of numberless trials and tribulations. Of other things than women it is said, "you can't get along without them and you can't get along with them."

Every thoughtful man wants to own his own home and acquire other real estate for reasons known to all, but for other very good reasons some, who may, do not. Possession of unencumbered real estate invites damage suits, attracts friends in trouble hunting tool and friends in need of money hunting an endorsement for a note, and places the possessor on the sucker lists of stock salesmen and contribution collectors. And there are the taxes to meet.

The ways are manifold in which the automobile gives its owner advantage over the non-owner. So many are the uses of the automobile that the average owner is quickly convinced of their indispensability. But the open road is not a path of roses. The way of the motorist is hard—stumbling in motor cops, beset with detours and speed traps, obstructed by accidents and damage suits, infested with punctures and empty gas tanks and apostrophized by dwarfe monthly payments and many

And yet, though there be evil seconds every minute, optimists predominate in this life and pessimism is forbidden by popular edict. Life will be 'fair to middling' or 'notable' as long as its advantages counteract the disadvantages and there remains some semblance of equality between the agreeable and disagreeable phases of human existence.

A RASH OFFER

"Ed" Howe, the American philosophical humorist, is in a rather awkward position. Somebody has dug out of the newspaper files a formal offer which he made as far back as 1910—an offer of a prize of a million dollars to the first aviator who would make a non-stop flight across the Atlantic ocean. Mr. Howe acknowledges that the offer was made; it was made when he thought the feat an impossibility, and he had forgotten all about it. When reminded of it he said he felt sure that young Lindbergh was too kind-hearted to hold him to his promise.

Probably the gallant captain will not demand that prize. And one reason why he will not demand it is that it has not earned it. For he knows that he is not the first man to fly across the Atlantic ocean. If the prize were to be bestowed upon anyone, it would have to be divided between Lieutenants Alcock and Brown, of the British Royal Air Service, who flew across the Atlantic from Newfoundland to Ireland in June, 1919.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

Its easy enough to court a girl while driving a car if she's one of the cooperative kind.—Oshawa Reformer.

Seven times a year are not reasonable affection from a husband, declared Judge Summerfield in awarding a divorce to a woman in a Los Angeles court. As the subject was young few male veterans will question the judgment, and all wives will be inclined to agree with the judge. A man a day at least may keep him a hard duty to some hubbies, but if it pleases the better half why not make the sacrifice and at the same time cheat the divorce court?—Montreal Gazette.

DEATH

I am the key that parts the gates of fame;
I am the cloak that covers cowardice and shame;
I am the final goal of every race;
I am the storm-tossed spirit's resting place;
I am the cloud that veils the face of heaven;
I am the brooding hush that follows strife,
The waking from a dream that man calls—Life!
Florence Earle Coates.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

Solicitor: "It looks as though I'll have no difficulty in getting you a divorce on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment but do you instigate your husband inflicting the suffering?"

Client: "Flight! Why, the little wretch doesn't even notice near me!"

Mrs. Douglas—What do you find the most troublesome part of housekeeping, my dear?

Mrs. Howe—(dryly)—My husband.

Jay: What do you call great occasions?

Howard: When I drink a cocktail.

"I think that girl over there dislikes me."

"Why so?"

"She just pulled down her skirt."

She was still rather new at driving a car and a little bit confused in traffic. She forgot to step soon enough at the signal and shot out into the middle of the street.

Pompously the traffic officer bore down upon her.

"Didn't you see me hold up my hand?" he shouted fiercely.

The culprit gasped a breathless "Yes."

"Didn't you know that when I hold up my hand it means—Stop?"

"No, sir; I'm just a school teacher," she said, in a timid, mouse-like voice and I thought you wanted to ask a question."

INQUEST UNNECESSARY.

Dr. W. S. Harper, M.D., C.M., coroner, Madoc, who examined the remains of Walter Tuchin, who was drowned in the Moira River at Deloro on June 3rd, has decided that no inquest is necessary. The little fellow's remains showed marks on the head indicating that he was carried to the rocks when he fell into the water.

William Gallagher appeared in police court this morning facing a charge of assault and battery laid against him by his wife. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to pay the costs of the court, amounting to $8, with the result Magistrate Mikel asked Gallagher why he had attacked his wife. "Well," the accused replied, "she was in a bad temper so I tried to slap it out of her." The Magistrate did not altogether approve of the procedure.

STORM HARMLESS

Outside of clearing out a lot of dead wood from the City's trees, Saturday's wind storm did little damage about Belleville. Most householders gratefully pulled large blackened boughs from the boulevards to the rear of their homes and chopped up a prospective fire.

Out on the Bay shore the cottages had visions of a flood such as the OOrieans has been through when the waves in the bay dashed high over the normal water line onto the verandahs but no real damage was done to any of the cottages.

WHIPPING WOULD DO GOOD

Whether they needed a shave, or whether they were hungry, is not definitely decided, but at 11:45 yesterday, Edward Childs and a youthful companion took some groceries, a razor, brush, bar of shaving cream, marmalade and other minor articles from a car owned by W. H. Longhurst, Cedar street, which was parked by the C.N.R. yards near the end of Station street. The articles taken were valued at about $10. The culprits were arrested by Officer Boulter and appeared in police court this morning, charged with theft. Both were remanded until tomorrow morning. "I think a good whipping would do both these boys a world of good," stated the magistrate. Edward Childs, 18 years old, and the other lad under 16, came to Belleville from Kingston.

BUSINESS PICKING UP

"Business is becoming very brisk and we are taking on a large number of new men in the transportation department" was the information elicited out to the Intelligencer this afternoon when asked how conditions were on the Canadian National Railway in this city.

MAY TAKE A REST.

"Is it only in order that I may obtain a long-needed rest," Mrs. Casement, Matron of the Claremont Hospital, replied, when asked why she contemplated selling the popular institution. Mrs. Casement said that after many strenuous years she felt that a complete change was absolutely necessary after which she would resume active work in her profession.

NO APPOINTMENT YET

There was a rumor current on the streets over the week-end that the new superintendent to the Belleville General Hospital had been appointed and that she is a graduate of the Toronto General Hospital. When the Intelligencer called upon several of the officials of the local hospital today they would not confirm this rumor, but stated that as soon as the appointment was definitely made they would notify the Intelligencer.

TODAY'S MARKET

Chicago, June 6.—Reports of delayed powwing and planting led to net price buying and to new upturns early in the corn market today where as wheat tended downgrade. Rains southwest and west were constructed as bearish concerning wheat. Open ing at 1-4 to 7-8 cent gain, corn reacted temporarily but soon rose highter than before. Wheat started at 1-8 cent to 3-4 cent decline and later showed further losses. Oats were easy, following corn support.

There were only a few soft spots, the most conspicuous of which were United States Rubber and the other rubber issues which were sold on reports of poor current earnings and talk of price cuts and Baldwin Locomotive which slid off sharply on the apporent withdrawal of pool support.

should arrive in accordance with the wish attributed to him in New York. It was shortly after noon when the officials announced to the waiting crowds at the air field that the Columbia would not arrive as it had suffered a propeller break seventy miles south east of Berlin and could proceed no farther.

Airmen Happy

Koltbus, Germany, June 6.—Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine arrived here by motor this afternoon from Klugs, where their trans-Atlantic plane Columbia was forced to land. They went immediately on to hotel where they had a good meal. The airmen were in a happy frame of mind and gave no indication of weariness.

Third Successful Flight

New York, June 6.—The daring voyage of the Columbia marked the third time the Atlantic had been spanned in a non-stop flight by heavier-than-air machines. Acok and Brown, English fliers, flying from Newfoundland to Ireland in 1919, were the original transoceanic trail blazers. Lindbergh's great flight came next.

Chamberlin used about 9 1-2 gallons of his 451 gallons of gasoline an hour, said Guiseppe Bellanca, designer of the plane. This consumption would permit forty-eight hours of flying, or fuel for flight some distance beyond Berlin. Mrs. Wilda Chamberlin, wife of Clarence Chamberlin, Columbia's pilot, does not expect her husband to give up dangerous air feats after his record flight from New York to Germany. When the suggestion was made, she laughed. "Not Clarence. I know Clarence. When this is done he will do something else that has risk in it," she said.

Five thousands dollars will be given Mrs. Chamberlin by the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce in recognition of her husband's trans-oceanic flight, Ralph Jonas, president of that organization, said today.

"A gift of some sort," will be presented to Mrs. Levine, Jonas said. Both women are expected to carry their gifts to their husbands when they sail to meet them in Europe.

PLATONIC FRIENDSHIP AND ITS COUNTERFEIT

By ELSIE MARLOWE

Suppose you were in love with a Perfectly Wonderful Young Man and claimed to return your affection 100 per cent. And you were naturally dreaming rosy dreams of a blissful future in his company—

And suddenly you found that he was receiving daily letters from a lady friend. What would think?

DEAR ELSIE:

What's Platonic Friendship? Do you believe in it? I'm interested to know, because a case of Platonic friendship is causing me a lot of worry at present. I'm in love and the man loves me and has told me so repeatedly. I believe in him and trust him. But — he receives letters from another woman at an average of one a day. He persists in saying that the only reason she writes to him is that they are interested in the same work. Naturally I feel doubtful. Don't you think I'm justified, or do I need a good scolding?

DOUBTFUL.

Is your opinion justified? I don't know, either. That depends on the man and the nature of his work. There might be work which would necessitate daily communications between two friends. But if it is merely a matter of common interest, rather than a common job, then I should certainly suspect unusual enthusiasm on the young lady's part and a most cordial regard on the part of the young man.

In fact, this particular demonstration of "platonic friendship" looks altogether too ardent to me to be classed as friendliness, and if I were planning to marry this young man I'd certainly postpone the date until he restricted his correspondence to more conventional lines.

Then isn't there such a thing as real Platonic friendship? There is. Many men and women have a deep and kindly regard for each other in which there is no element of physical desire. Sometimes this regard takes the place of all other attachments in their lives, and they find such friendship a satisfactory substitute for marriage. It is quite possible for a man and a woman to be devoted friends without marriage, or with one or other's marriage to a third party. There is nothing evil or abnormal in such a friendship. It is indeed one of the most beautiful things in life.

But the sort of thing that usually masquerades under the term "Platonic friendship" has about as much relation to friendship as a chilli pepper has to ice. And I have grave suspicions that your D. F. is trying to pull just such an alibi, my dear.

And here's another problem that has a familiar sound.

Ever have that Aimless Feeling? All fizzed one day and flat as a fallen omelette the next? Well, that's what ails Zena, and she thinks she has a brand new disease.

DEAR ELSIE:

I am just at sea about myself. I am an art student and I have been told by responsible authorities that I have a great deal of talent. And I have a real love for beauty, but it seems as though even this cannot hold me down to work. I'm just one more of those useless loafers who clutter up the world.

There hasn't been one period in my short life—I'm twenty —when I have worked hard and steadily. One morning I will awake full of life, ready for the battle, and put in a rip-roaring hard day's work. Then at the end of the day I will come home with a wonderful feeling of accomplishment. But the very next day I take a vacation. No pep or ambition.

It makes me terribly unhappy. I hate and despise myself. I am tortured by a futile feeling and am terribly discouraged, and yet I love to do some great thing.

What quality do people have who go to their work day after day in it will - power?

ZENA?

No, Zena. It isn't necessarily willpower. Its usually a hollow under their belts which they desire to fill three square meals. In other words, they work because they have to earn their daily bread.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Copper saucepans should be scoured with salt and half a lemon, washed well with soap and water then soaped over with a cloth moistened with olive oil and polished with a soft cheesecloth to remove superfluous oil.

When baking a rich fruit cake which requires long cooking, place the cake tin in one a size larger. This prevents the outside and bottom of the cake from burning.

And by the same token, you'll work when you have to, little girl. At present dad is paying the bills, and you have a lot of spare time to worry about your Hope and Buttercup. Things will be quite different when dad withdraws his bank-roll. You'll be too busy then to know whether your eyes are palpitating or not; and it will be the best thing that ever happened to you.

In the meantime, don't dramatize your laziness and get all puffed up, thinking that you're something rare and de-sparate. You're not. You're just a lazy little kid who doesn't like to work—which is the oldest feeling on earth.

A-dvice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

A very dear girl friend of mine wrote to a fellow out of town. Recently he came here for the Summer. He was introduced to me and since then he has asked to take me out quite a few times.

Do you think it would be fair to my girl friend if I went with him?

DOT.

DOT: If this friend of yours is not engaged to the young man there is no reason why you should not accept his invitations, Dot. Of course, I can understand that you are thinking of her feelings when you hesitate to do this, but she has no right to be angry with you. If you like this young man it is your privilege to cultivate his friendship just as it is here.

SINCLAIR'S

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN

By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 34

While Sybil crushed Serge Patten's card in her hand, his wife gathered up her needlework and laid it carefully back in folds of tissue-paper.

"I'll run along, Sybil."

"No, don't go yet!" said Sybil quickly.

The drawing-room door was jerked open. Eva, passing it would be sure to be seen by her husband. Eva's white she searched for an excuse for detaining Eva. Sybil was conscious of a plight amusement at the reversal of the usual situation. Eva mustn't suspect his wife's presence in the apartment, or Sybil's friendship for her.

"It's only my lawyer," Sybil fibbed easily. "He won't keep me a minute."

Serge was pacing impatiently up and down. He came forward and grasped her hands. His face was alight with excitement.

"Sybil, I have such news! I couldn't wait to tell you. I've a chance to give a concert here in New York! I'm on my way now to see about the arrangements. If I can swing it—it is going to take a pile of money—I'll be made!"

"You've never played in New York?" asked Sybil. When she had met him he had told her he understood that New York audiences fairly mobbed him.

"No—no. Not exactly. That is never a full program. Usually there have been other artists. They will be quite different. If I can bet a good backer — they're such robbers, these agents." He paused and looked at Sybil hopefully.

She knew that he was waiting for her to offer to loan him the money.

"You'll be so proud of me, dearest one," he was pleading tenderly, but she drew away from him.

"I'll help you, Serge," she said quietly "Go ahead and make whatever arrangements you wish. But you must excuse me now. I have a caller."

Jealousy flashed in his eyes.

"Who is he? Not that Sheldon chap that Eva says has gone off his head about you?"

She returned his gaze coolly.

"I dare say it would do little good to remind you that I don't receive men in my boudoir!"

Hauled if I know," he muttered. "You're such a queer whimsical creature, blowing first warm and then cold—"

She laughed and left him standing in the middle of the room.

Returning to her boudoir, she found Eva at the window, staring down at the Park. The girl turned around, and Sybil saw that she was rather white, and that her frank, honest eyes were troubled.

Sybil knew then that she had heard Serge's voice. She went over to Eva and laid her hands on the girl's should ers.

"You know who called, Eva?"

Eva sulped and nodded.

"It's — it's quite all right," she faltered. "Only I wish you hadn't told an untruth about it."

"Don't you trust me, Eva? Aren't we friends?"

"Yes, I trust you. But I don't trust Serge. You see, I know him so well. He always falls in love with beautiful girls—and you're the most beautiful one he's known."

Sybil's eyes softened. She felt a stab of pity, mingled with admiration, for Eva. Her candid confession was so typical of her frank honesty. Here was a woman who would pay tribute to another woman whom her husband fancied!

"Eva, you're entirely too good for Serge. He isn't worthy of you."

"Oh, no!" The girl protested. "It's I who am not worthy of him. Why he he's a genius."

"You're sure? Quite sure?"

Sybil sighed and sank into a chair. "Sit down, Eva. I want to talk to you. Shall I tell you why Serge came to see me this morning?"

"I — I think I'd rather you didn't," she faltered.

Happiness flooded Eva's expressive little face.

"Oh, Sybil, really? He — he told me at breakfast that he had a chance. If he could get hold of the money, and that he thought he knew some one who'd back him. But I never thought he meant you. I thought, when I heard his voice, that — Oh, Sybil, you've made me so happy!"

She sprang up and flung herself on her knees beside Sybil's chair and squeezed her hand ecstatically.

"I thought he was in love with you" she confessed. "Of course, he he's been in love with lots of other women, from time to time. But I never was tired much before, because they weren't lovely creatures like—you. I didn't see how he could help being mad about you. And yet I trusted you! Wasn't that queer and contradictory? But women in love are always absurd," she added naively.

Sybil stared at her thoughtfully. She was looking a long way across the years to her mother, to Daisy Vaughn, to old Mrs. Fields, to Janet Wayland, and the others.

"You really love Serge, Eva? You love him, in spite of the fact that he makes you live a life you detest, cramped up in a dark studio in an unfriendly city, with only half the money you need for comfort, and compelled to work from time to time to make both ends meet? You love him, in spite of the fact that he is unfaithful to you in thought, to say the very least?"

Eva's eyes glowed.

"Yes. I love him, in spite of it all. Nothing could make me stop loving him — even if he left me for somebody else."

Sybil sighed.

"Poor child!" she said gently.

"Poor child — poor!" echoed Eva. "I'm older than you. Do you know, Sybil, sometimes you talk as if you were very wise, and yet, I don't believe you are. You've never been in love."

"I should say not!" said Sybil briskly "And I never will be!"

Why is HOVIS the "Bread of Health"?

IT'S the Flour that makes the difference. No other bread flour is milled in quite the same way as HOVIS.

For it contains a large proportion of wheat germ, which is the most nutritious part of the wheat grain.

The result is that HOVIS Bread, baked by leading Canadian bakers, contains those precious, healthgiving vitamines and more of the true nutriment of the wheat.

That's why HOVIS Bread—"the bread of health" is so different and so much better for you.

What is the Secret of the HOVIS Flavor?

BETTER ingredients always make better bread. But there is one particular ingredient present in such abundance in HOVIS Bread as to give it a value no other bread possesses.

That ingredient is the wheat germ, scientifically combined in HOVIS Flour.

You have only to taste HOVIS Bread once, to realize the difference this makes!

And you are certain to enjoy it—just as thousands of others do.

Costs a little more—worth much more.

Why the name HOVIS?
It is colored from the two Latin words "Homini Vis" and means "The Strength of Man"

RE-OPENING OF ST. PAUL'S CH.

Wharf St. Edifice Redecorated—Rev. John Lyons Talks

With a congregation numbering eight-three, many of whom had worshipped in the little building all their lives previous to its closing about twelve years ago, St. Paul's Church, Wharf Street, re-opened yesterday afternoon for divine worship. The little building which will serve the residents of the city about Wharf street C.ircet, had, through the combined efforts of devoted members, been put into excellent shape and the interior totally renovated and thoroughly gone over in readiness for the service.

"It is by coincidence only, said Rev. John Lyons who assisted by Rev. A. L. Green, conducted the service, that the reopening of this Church took place on Whitsunday, the birthday of the Christian Church. He said that it was not his intention to preach a sermon but that had he so intended his text would have been from the 34th Psalm, "O Come let us worship and fall down and kneel before the Lord our Maker" dwelling upon the opening words "O Come" which he hoped would be the spirit prevailing amongst the congregation of the church on whose self identification depended the success of the St. Pauls.

He urged co-operation amongst the members and trusted that all would concern themselves more with the needs and welfare of the Church than of the future.

On instructions from Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the United States treasury, the size of American one or two dollar bills is to be reduced by one-third. Other bills will later be reduced to the same size. The American dollar bill is to be reduced by one-third. The dotted lines show how it will compare with our bill—which is not to be changed—and the present United States bill. Mr. Mellon says the old bill is unwieldy for many handling and hopes to save two million dollars in paper by the reduction. Canadian bankers are quite satisfied with the size and shape of Canadian money as in use at present.

Music for the service was supplied by Mr. Charles Skelcher, organist of St. Thomas Church and a solo by Alfred Evans was an enjoyable feature. Numbered amongst the congregation were several City officials who are most enthusiastic in hope of the success of the little church.

It is Serious When The Kidneys Go Wrong

For about half a century Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have been known to the public as an effective treatment for the relief of kidney ills. Before that they had been for years proven in private practice, Surely they have stood the test of time. And to-day they are more popular than ever before. Why? Simply because they produce the desired results. You know when you use them that you are not experimenting with an untried medicine.

Mrs. Fred Martin, Box 61, Bradford, Ont., writes:—

"I can highly recommend Dr. Chase's K. & L. Pills, as I used to suffer agonies with gravel in the kidneys and tried several medicines with no results, until one day I decided to try Dr. Chase's K. & L. Pills and obtained so much benefit from them that I am now never without a box in the house and one in reserve. I certainly wish Dr. Chase's Medicines every success."

Miss Mary Pettipas, 158, Upper Water St., Halifax, N.S., writes:—

"I suffered for two years with kidney trouble and tried a great deal of medicines, which did not help me at all. I was so nervous I could not rest at night. A neighbor advised me to try your K. & L. Pills and since taking them I feel like a new person and now sleep soundly at nights, thanks to Dr. Chase."

MOTOR WISDOM

During the season when sun and rain alone are flowing, there's little room for much of caution. But here's a rule or two you may keep in mind if your car hasn't had its spring overhauling:

Always take it for granted that the other driver is a fool. You can't get hit if you're out of the way.

Don't set the idea that your car is the fastest thing on the road. Death is very swift.

If you're late for an appointment, don't speed. You may never get there.

If speeding spells speed to you, have your car in the garage and go for a walk. Jail is unpleasant when the sun is shining.

Remember that gasoline mixes with fate no better than it does with liquor. Bad brakes bring bad breaks.

Let the other fellow be the reckless driver. You be the wreckless one.

The pneumonia is the most widely used single fruit of the far east.

THE future of Canada lies in the Home. In their honest and loving endeavors to build healthy homes, thousands of Canadian mothers are handicapped by lack of knowledge.

Three years ago, the Red Cross organized its first class in Home Nursing. Since then, 12,000 women and girls, in 800 groups, have received instruction.

They have gained a sound knowledge of the principles of good health . . . care of the sick . . . feeding of babies and children. They have become better managers of their homes . . . enabled to instruct less well-informed neighbors.

With the aid of local leaders, doctors, women's organizations, the Red Cross Organizing Nurse forms a class. The course of 12 lectures comprises instruction by a nurse . . . practical demonstration . . . talks by the local doctor. It is simple but thorough.

At Halifax, Quebec and St. John it maintains Seaport Nurseries. Here immigrant mothers and children are made welcome. For the babies and young children, nourishing food . . . baths . . . a restful sleep. For the mothers, a few quiet hours in a comforting home atmosphere . . . encouragement for the next stage in their journey.

A Registered Nurse notes any needed medical attention. "Follow up" cards are sent to the Province where they are going. On arrival, the Red Cross puts them in touch with health authorities . . . they are started at once on the road to healthy living.

During the past few years, the Nurseries have served over 84,000 women and children, with "follow up" work for over 12,000 families.

In these and other ways, the Red Cross supplementing and supporting the work of health authoritics and doctors, with untold benefit to thousands of Canadian homes. To YOU it appeals for support in this great task.

Since the War THE RED CROSS has disbursed 7 Million Dollars for the Soldiers, Women, Children and Frontier Families of Canada.

WERE PIONEER FAMILY IN QUINTE DISTRICT

Old residents of Belleville who remember the late J. W. Dunbar Moodie, who built and occupied the home now owned by Rev. A. L. Geen, and who was Sheriff of Hastings County for many years, will learn with regret of the death of his son, the late Alexander Dunbar Moodie who died on May 4th at Greely, Col.

Mr. Moodie was born August 26, 1834, at Doura (now Lakefield), Ontario, Canada, the eldest son of John Wedderburn Dunbar Moodie—cadet of the House of Meiselter, lieutenant of the 21st Fusiliers, Royal North Britons, captain of the Queen's Own of Canada—and his wife, Susannah, youngest of the six talented daughters of Thomas Strickland of Reydon Hall, Suffolk, England, of whom the historian, Agnes, was best known.

He was of distinguished British ancestry, being a lineal descendant of King Robert the Bruce, thru John, first Earl of Moray and Regent of Scotland; the Royal House of Stuart; the Earls of Mar, March, Moray, Randolph, and Home; and clans Macbeth and Macgregor.

The family name, Moodie or Moodie, is of great antiquity in Scotland, derived, it is said, from Mac Modah, one of the last of the old earls of Orkney. The family sent for more than 600 years being Meiselter House near Kirkwall, Isle of Hoye. Generation after generation of the males of the family served their king and country by land and sea in all parts of the world, cited oft for deeds of valor and, from time to time, granted augmentation to their coat-of-arms.

BELLE THEATRE

Imagine the situation in which a young man sits down at a piano and remains there all night composing a love ballad to his sweetheart—not knowing that in a room less than ten feet away lies the body of a friend who has been murdered!

Briefly, the story is that of four Bowery boys who have entered a "gang spirit" since childhood. All four attain maturity and branch out to make their own way in the world. One becomes a politician, two join a jazz band and the four develop into a professional gangster. Then, a shadow in the form of a woman comes between them. Miss Taylor finds it hard to hide her love for Cortez, but his mind is curraptured by a society belle. Cortez spurning her, she marries William Powell so that she may slay near his friend.

BEAVERS DIVIDE DOUBLE HEADER WITH NATIONALS

17 STRIKE-OUTS

Locals Captured Afternoon Game—Nationals Won At Night

The weather provided for the double-header between the Belleville Beavers and the Toronto Nationals on Saturday was not of the best variety and as a consequence it was found necessary to play both games on the armouries floor. The evening's attraction drew a much larger crowd than the afternoon affair and fortunately the management of the Beaver Club and officials were able to—away with expenses and had a little to spare. Both games were keenly contested, the timer still going to the locals with a 16-15 score and the after-supper game was captured by the Nationals, 6-0, in the best played game seen to date in the city. Cash customers who attended the 8 o'clock argument were astounded at the wonderful progress made by the local club and the great battle they put up. Here's the way one of the National's officers put it after the game, "No better game was ever seen at Sunnyside diamond either in the Senior or Intermediate fields than was witnessed here tonight." This speaks highly toward the Beaver club who are strengthened from last year and are playing better ball than ever. Allan Meagher is to be commented for his initiative in bringing the Provincial champions here and it is to be hoped the patronage will be sufficient to ensure further exhibition games here with fast outside teams during the coming season. Girls' softball advanced by leaps and bounds, last year and present indications are that the game has taken a greater hold than ever. The winter Indoor League has done wonders to improve the style of playing and keep the girls in trim. Saturday night's game proved that but within a short time the local girls will be able to step in and give any of the Toronto teams a real battle.

A Popular Girl

At least one girl certainly popularized herself with Belleville fans and the ovation that she received was surely well - deserved. It was no less than "Babe" Vincent starry pitcher from the Peterboro C. C. E. team who was brought here by Mr. Meagher to twirl for the locals against the K- and S. girls. Quiet and unassuming she surely endeared herself to Belleville fans and many of them were head to remark that it was too bad that she could not remain here. In truth Miss Vincent stated she would be very much delighted to come to Belleville and it would not be a great surprise if she would shortly don a Beaver uniform for the remainder of the season. Miss Vincent is not eligible for the Bay of Quinte League games but nevertheless her ability would be a great drawing card for exhibition title.

Her running mate "Dot" Mortimer, is a valuable aid to her and the latter is a fine catcher and holds the Peterboro pitcher up in great style. Miss Mortimer is undoubtedly one of the best receivers to be seen in action on a Belleville diamond and her clever work goes a long way towards making Miss Vincent the clever pitcher that she is. A sure catch, with an unerring peg, besides being an excellent batter, Miss Mortimer is a backstop of rare ability. She can take a turn in any of the infield positions with equally good success.

Dr. Babcock who was in charge of the visitors sent Thelma Golden to the mound in the evening affair and this elongated blonde alabaman went to work and struck out seventeen batsmen which is a new record for local softball circles. She has speed to burn with excellent control and was a mystery to the Beavers who have never before been up against a pitcher of her kind.

Not until the dying stages were the Beavers able to fathom Miss Golden's delivery with any amount of success. The ball sped by with unbelievable speed and the Belleville girls were sent back to the bench regularly with the strike-out route. She was saved especially for this game and in a large measure she was responsible for her team coming out on the long end of the score.

Only five players reached first base and two of these were given free tickets Miss Golden who is acknowledged as one of the sweetest looking prospects around Toronto is only a youngster fourteen years old, but her age certainly does not deter from her success in the pitching box.

The Beavers were only able to find

ber for three hits, two of these coming from the bat of Twin Warham who is rapidly coming to the fore as the lead ing player in Belleville. The same player connected for three hard liners drives out in centre field the equal of which is not often seen in men's softball circles.

The Nationals started off strong in the opening frame when "Babe" Vincent got off on the wrong foot and passed two walks, which resulted in a two run lead. They were blanked until the fifth when an error and a couple of hits gave them three more.

They threatened several other times but Miss Vincent's good right arm coupled with air-tight work on the part of the Belleville infield saved the day.

Miss Golden besides hanging up a pitching record managed to slam out two nice hits and led the parade in that direction.

The only double-killing was made by the Beavers, Helen Lee who was covering second base, snaring Kay Conacher's drive off the wall and tossing it to Miss Creejii who doubled Miss Golden at first.

Miss Creejii duplicated her previous evening's game by turning in another wonderful performance. This girl accepted ten chances without an error and shapes up as an exceptionally smart first-sacker. Not flashy, but starring she displays nice steady play ing throughout.

Marion Thain the visitor's first-baseman completed her one luncres and forty-third consecutive game on Saturday night. She covers first base like a veteran and teams up well with "Jerry" Stubeny at second. This pair cover lots of ground and very seldom does a hit go through. Between the two they had more put-outs than any other two players on the field. Miss Thain takes her baseball seriously and says she would rather play ball than eat.

Umpires — Woodley, Clarke and Colling.

Batting order — Beavers — Mortimer c; Lee p, Curry 3 b; Warham c f; Mooney 1 f; Kelleher r f; Creejii, 1 b; O'Neill s s; Vincent P; Thrasher 1 f; Cooke, s f; Miles 1 f.

Nationals — Conacher r f; Barr, 3 b; Wands 1 f; Thain 1 b; Crawford s s; Cassin c; Booty c f, Seymour c f; Stubeny 2 b; Golden p.

Beavers 16, Nationals 15

The afternoon affair developed into a swat-fest with the Beavers coming out on the long end. Helen Lee was started in this game and pitched equa ly well as her competitor Doris Tomlin The Nationals were held scoreless in the last two frames by Miss Vincent who succeeded Miss Lee.

The Beavers jumped into the lead by laying down a barrage of hits in the first inning for a total of five runs Twin Wella Warham was credited with three hits one of them a terrific 3 bagger to deep centre field.

Dorothy Mortimer got the only home run, a fine drive to the east end wall Nancy Barr, the champion rollicking third baseman helped herself to three hits as did Miss Wands. The latter is one of the National's best bets in the batting department and may advance to Senior company within a short time

Marion Thain poled out four hits all of them timely, one 3 banger and two doubles.

"Liz" Curry had a smart day at first base with thirteen put-outs. The Beavers collected fifteen hits as compared with the Nationals nineteen.

Score by Innings—

Beavers	5	1	2	4	0	0	3	1	16

REDS WIN FROM GIANTS IN 9TH

Ruth's Seventeenth Homer Helps Yanks To Defeat Detroit

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 6.—It sudden y develops that the Reds are full o rubber, not cheese. Twice yesterday the Giants had them convincingly rocked and both times they bounced back like a tennis ball. Somebody ought to start an investigation.

The boys from Broadway got away to a six-run lead, only to have the traditionally safe margin caught an overcome. Then the Giants went ut and to the naked eye apparently we again with a rally in the ninth. A that point everyone knew the Giant had won except the Reds. They we o slow to catch on, though, and be ore anyone had explained their pre dicament they had staged a three-ru rally and won by a score of 10 to 9.

The Brooklyn Robins came from yesday after an 8 to 0 drubbing by th world champion St. Louis Cardinal in the first game at St. Louis and wo the second 4 to 1. The Nationals won back games from the Napanee team on Friday by large scores.

Kay Conacher who played the outfield for the visitors is a cousin of the famous Lionel of football and hockey fame.

Dr. Babcock who managed the Nationals in the absence of Dave Fox does not appear to be at all popular with some of the girls. Some of the players in his charge are slow to obey orders but it must be remembered that girl players are often temperamental and feel keenly being ordered about in a boisterous manner and discretion should be exercised in this direction.

The girls of both teams were entertained as the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cooke west bridge St. after the game where dancing was enjoyed. Their hospitality was appreciated.

The Nationals are leading the Sunnyside League at the present time but were soundly trounced by the Marlboros last Wednesday evening.

It would not be unwise to get some of the good male soft ball pitchers out to practice with the Beavers in order that they may learn to hit fast pitching such as they were about against on Saturday night.

Marge Ellerby who twirled the Nationals in the Provincial championship last year went in for the last two innings of the afternoon fixture. She is just as effective as ever.

Emily Gault, the blonde catcher with the visitors was given a severe "roasting" by the crowd on Saturday night following her disputing of several decisions by the "umpire". She did not seem to mind it although the rather "plays to the grand" at times instead of leading to her knitting.

Miss Mooney donned the Beaver uniform for the first time and made an excellent showing. She formerly played with Kingston Supremes.

NATIONALS OPEN ON WEDNESDAY

Point Anne Coming Here With Strong Club To Meet Railroaders

The Canadian Nationals will open the Bay of Quinte season on Wednesday afternoon when the Point Anne team will be here. The opening game was originally scheduled for the Queen's Birthday but rain caused a postponement.

Manager "Percy" Mills has "Hoot" Gibson, "Chummy" Cerow and "Punch" Derry groomed for mound duty and any of this trio should go good against the cement-pikers.

"Big Boy" Harper, of Trenton, opened the eyes of the rail-birds in practice session the other evening. The former athletic star was offered a trial with the Toronto Leafs but turned it down. He plays first base but he may possibly be shifted to second or third as the initial sack is well-taken care of by the veteran Harry Mills.

Vern Weir, Flagler, Amo and Young Mills are also ready for duty in the infield.

The outfield of Hagerman, Ross and Scott snapps up as the finest set of outer-gardeners to don a C.N.R. uniform. The worth of the two first named is well known and this boy Scott, late of the Kingston Ponies covers acres of ground.

The Nationals will get under way at 3.15 with Ken Colling and Walt Cerow in charge.

The Irony of Love

By Charles Garvice

"She's in there!" gasped Rafe. "She's in there! She doesn't know her danger——"

Even as he spoke, the door of the out opened, a slight girlish figure was silhouetted against the light. It paused for a moment, then they saw it running toward the bridge just above the last.

As they hurried on, they saw her reach the bridge and step onto it. She had got to the middle, when, suddenly to their horror, the bridge began to move, with a hideous list, toward them. With an awful terror that rendered them incapable of movement, they stopped as if turned to stone; and the next instant the bridge collapsed, carrying the figure with it, and fell into the river.

Rafe was the first to recover from the stupor which deadened him. With a cry of "Hon, run!" he darted toward the stream. Parchment Joe, with a scream like that of a woman, made a grab at him, but Rafe shook him off easily and plunged in. They saw him sink down like a straw, notwithstanding the strength he exerted to stem the current, then they obeyed his command, and, turning, ran along the bank, the water roaring beside them, the wind howling behind them now.

As it rattled with its dire work the storm began to subside and presently ceased, the clouds cleared from the moon, and it poured its light on the scene of destruction. The reservoir had not been a large one, and the waters the broken dam had released had swept away only the huts and the buildings directly in their course; the Eldorado had gone, but the engineer's warning had come in time to save the men, who had now joined Parchment Joe and Sandy, and were eagerly looking for some sign of Rafe. At such moments speech is impossible and when the silence was broken by a man with keener eyes than those of the others, "I see him there!" cried with the startling force of a pistol shot.

They saw Rafe bathing with one arm only with the stream, for the other was bound round him, and it was evident to the spectators that he was trying to make for a spit of shallow ground just below them. Instinctively they ran down to it within rope, and each man gripping it, the lifesaver of them, Bill, waded out as far as he dare, so as to snatch the figures as they came within reach.

Rafe, with his phenomenal strength was fighting his way to the spot, and they hardened their hearts to cheer him suddenly the cheer was frozen on their lips, for they saw a huge black log hurtling down the stream, straight upon the pair. Parchment Joe shrieked a warning, and Rafe with fury in eyes behind him, saw the threaten- d danger and endeavored to avoid it, but the balk was on him before he could get out of the way; the two figures disappeared, a great wave rose from the crowd, but it turned to a sheer again as Rafe, still holding Phebe in his right arm, struck out from the surface of the torrent; but they saw that it was not swimming now, and every man's heart sank, and from the lips of one rose a stifled cry: "He is dead!"

Bill, now up to his thighs in water, rapidly tied the rope round his waist, and, without a word, flung himself forward; they paid out and walled breathlessly; then a cry arose, a shout of satisfaction, for Bill had gripped Rafe, and, notwithstanding the force of the stream that strove to tear away his grasp, held on. In the twinkling of an eye, the rescuer and the rescued were drawn ashore. Both figures were quite still, but Rafe's arm was still round poor Phebe, as he had left it on board, to great cash on Rafe's forehead, and shook was now mingling with the water which streamed from him. Phebe was untouched, but the blood no less sent over her cheek his head, and, gently laying her head down, turned to Rafe.

"He's still alive," he said, after a moment of anxious suspense for the watchers. "Stand back!"

They bore Rafe to Parchment Joe's hut, and there he lay, unconscious, the doctor and Joe fighting death as the days grew into weeks. Fever and delirium held him in its grip for a fortnight, which reduced Parchment Joe to a shadow and left the days in which anyone as Bill and every man was as jumpy as a cat, and could-nt tell the difference between water and whiskey. But at the fourteenth day, Joe, who was watching, with his anxious eyes fixed on the flushed and wasted face, saw a change; the straining eyes had closed, the working lips grown still. Trembling in every limb Joe bent over him and beckoned to the doctor, who had just entered.

"He's coming to," he said hoarsely. "He'll want to know what am I to say? What am I to say? You can't put off Rafe."

The question which Parchment Joe had dreaded came as soon as Rafe was able to speak, and came in one word.

Parchment Joe shook his head Rafe's eyes closed, he shut his lips tightly—and painfully turned his face away. Later on, when he was able to speak more clearly, he slowly stretched out his hand and closed it on Parchment Joe's.

"Tell me," he said. "I want to know."

Women's New Hygiene

Ends disposal problem—Discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND

Registered Nurse

THE old-time sanitary pad has been supplanted by a new and better way called Kotex.

It ends the embarrassment of laundry and disposal. You discard Kotex as easily as tissue.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads, and thus protects amazingly. You wear sheer gowns and gay frocks under the most trying conditions.

*Also deodorizes, and thus ends all fear of offending. 8 in 10 better-class women now use it. Used hospitals employ it. Doctors widely urge it.

Most stores have Kotex on counters wrapped in plain paper, ready to be picked up without even asking.

Package contains 12. Be sure you get the genuine Kotex, for only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

USE SULPHUR TO CLEAR SKIN

The Fast Application Makes Skin Cool and Comfortable

If you are suffering from eczema or some other annoying, embarrassing skin trouble you may luckily be rid of it by using Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist.

This sulphur preparation, because of its gentle, soothing properties, seldom fails to quickly subdue itching, even of fiery eczema. The first application makes the skin cool and comfortable. Rash and blotches are healed right up. Mentho-Sulphur is perfectly harmless. You can obtain a small jar from any good druggist.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom banish piles and for the very good reason that the cause is inside—bad circulation in affected parts, veins are flabby and bowel walls weakened.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must tree the circulation—send fresh, healthy blood to the raw, sensitive membranes. Internal treatment is one safe method. Ointments and other external treatments can't give lasting relief.

J. S. Leonhardt, M.D., a specialist, set at work many years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and it has proven successful in thousands of cases—so successful that now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists under a money back guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at J. S. McKeown's, who will promptly refund the purchase price if you are dissatisfied.

Board of Education Authorize the Signing of the Contracts

USE LOCAL LABOR

Trustees Fairbairn and Harvey Battle For Fair Wage Clause

The agreement between A. H. Holmes and Co. Limited, of Toronto, and the Board of Education re the erection of the new Collegiate, was signed, sealed and delivered at a special meeting of the Board held in the Council Chambers last night.

The contract provides that the whole of the work shall be completed by June 30th, 1928, beginning approximately June 11th, 1927. The roof shall be finished by Dec. 3rd, 1927. Completion of plastering March 31st, 1928, and the trimmers and finishing be completed by June 30th, 1928.

The owner shall pay the contractor for materials furnished and the work performed by the contractor under this agreement, the sum of $295,000. Should the contractor fail to finish the work herein contracted to be executed at or before the time herein agreed upon he shall pay to the owner $500 a week for so long as the work remains uncompleted.

A heated discussion arose late in the evening when Mr. W. Fairbairn, with a seconder in Mr. William Harvey, introduced the question of the fair wage problem. Mr. Fairbairn wished the contractor to set a minimum wage and to engage local labor. The Board felt, however, that they had no right to dictate to the contractor upon what wage he should set, and as he had agreed to employ local labor as much as possible, the trustees threw the motion out.

The position of the building on the site is shown on the small blue print marked "as approved by the Board of Education, Belleville, May 27th, 1927" and attached to the signed drawings referred to in this Agreement. This blue print shows the Front Elevation of the building facing Church St., and with the Boiler room and Coal Bunker on the north side of the Building, thus making all parts of the Building on-posite land to that shown on the said signed drawings.

It is understood and agreed that the said signed drawings shall, without expense to the Contractor, be promptly

DESIGNS PLANES FOR PASSENGER SERVICE ACROSS ATLANTIC OCEAN

Air Ships To Carry Forty With Sleeping and Eating Facilities

New York, N. Y., June 7.—A complete international passenger aeroplanes each capable of carrying 40 persons forty passengers, to Europe on a commercial basis is being designed by Giuseppe K. Bellanca, designer of the craft that carried Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine to Germany.

Mr. Bellanca and financial backing for the project has been secured, he declared in revealing the names of his associates.

Experimental work on planes will cost $175,000" he said. "The planes' operating cost of a 40-plane type will cost in production about $30,000 a piece, exclusive of motors, and we can't as yet say how many motors there will be.

To Carry 40 Passengers

Mr. Bellanca said although he is planning to send a small motor plane from New York to Rome late this summer, the future of trans-Atlantic flying is in multi-motored planes. His projected craft, he said, will have about 2500 square feet of wing space and will carry not less than forty passengers, allowing an average of 175 pounds per passenger and thirty pounds a piece for baggage.

"Ability to land in mid weather reach sets will be one of the essentials of the new machines," he explained.

The mail flight time from New York to Paris will be thirty-two hours' he continued. "There will be a stop at Newfoundland and another at Azores where gas will be taken on, bringing the total travelling time to 26 hours.

Tested in Comfort

"My plans will have cruising speed of 120 miles an hour. There will be room to walk around, comfortable chairs to lounge in and comfortable berths to sleep in. There will be a lounge and an observation room at the end."

The designer said it was too early to quote approximately before in "helping to say when the line would be "open for business."

LOVELY CORNER NESTLED IN DOWN TOWN DISTRICT

"Oasis" of beauty in the "desert" of commerce and industry are to be found at the homes of Dr. G. H. Bloble, Dr. E. Connor and the Daily Public Library at the Corner of Pinnacle and Campbell streets.

Only last week three men from Reid's Nursery, Dundas street, were employed for a number of days in laying out the southern portion of the Library grounds with perennial flowers and bushes of various types. In a few weeks these will present a beautiful appearance and will enhance the general appearance of this imposing structure.

Dr. Connor's lawn and bushes are among the beauty spots of Belleville with their continuous blooms of various flowers, which are evident from early Spring until late in the Fall. The grounds, located next to gas pumps, as they are, show that with care beauty spots can be cultivated almost any place.

We are taking Coal Orders now for Summer Delivery.

On the same corner is another place of beauty, the grounds surrounding Dr. G. H. Bloble's home, where one some of the city's best rose blooms. Here every year are also to be seen unusually tall hollyhocks of delphinium which grow along the southern wall of the house and form a striking contrast to the green covered garden walls.

Surrounded as these places are by scenes and manufactories, the beauty of their grounds give to passers-by a breathe of fresh air it sees, and relief great erotic upon their senses, which quite apparently believe in helping to say when the line would be "open for business."

Hon. Hugh Guthrie To Be Present With Many Other Speakers

Conservatives of South Hastings will flock to Stirling on Wednesday, June 22nd, for the annual meeting of the South Hastings Conservative Association which is announced to be held in the Stirling Agricultural Grounds and will take the form of a basket picnic.

For about an hour between one and two o'clock business will be conducted but the rest of the day is to be a glorious holiday with baseball, athletics and a concert and dancing in the evening.

Of course there will be speakers. The Hon. Hugh Guthrie, House Leader of the Conservative Party, will be there, and the following members of the Federal House will support him: E. R. Stinson, of Victoria; E. A. Peck, of Peterboro; M. M. Maybee of Northumberland; F. W. Bowen, of Durham, and John Hinbe, of Prince Edward.

Local Members Present

Then our own "Ernie" Tunnmon, Hon "Bob" Cooke, from the North; "Jimmie" Hill, the ever popular Provincial member from the East, and the genial "Billy" Ireland with the smile, from Trenton, are all coming. There will probably be others but that is more than enough to ensure one of the biggest days the Conservative party of this riding has ever held.

One of the chief items of business will be the election of delegates to the National Conservative Convention in Winnipeg next October. This riding is to send four delegates and the above will be the sitting member.

The speeches will be short so outside of Hon. Hugh Guthrie, only five minutes will be allotted to each man. For the rest there will be several thousand people from all parts of the riding and it each and every one of them does not have a good time, it will be their own fault.

A GLORIOUS DAY

Trustees Give Children Full Holiday On Friday To See All Of Circus

The trustees are not so bad! Last night at a special meeting of the Board of Education they took time to pow a resolution giving the children a half holiday from school so that they might see the circus Friday afternoon next. Then some trustee with a warmly vivid picture of his own boyhood in mind said, "How about the parade in the morning?"

Now most of the trustees are men and in the dim past they carried water for the elephants and followed the screaming calliope for miles. They were sympathetic. There was no opposition. The half holiday stretched itself into a full holiday.

So next Friday morning at 4 o'clock the kiddies may start one glorious day, which for many of them will end only with the last elephant is pushed into the last box car some time around midnight.

SOVIET MINISTER SHOT BY YOUTH

High School Student Assassinated Woykoff At Warsaw Station

Warsaw, Poland, June 7.—The soviet Russian minister to Poland, M. Wajkoff, was shot and killed by Boris Kowkeeds, 19, a young Russian monarchist, as he was about to leave for Moscow. Kowkeeds fired eight shots at the minister as he was boarding a train to accompany A. P. Berzozgol, former Charge D'Affaires in London. M. Berzogole left London when Great Britain broke diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia. Kowceeds was arrested.

The minister had gone to the station to meet A. P. Rovengole, enroute to Moscow. Immediately upon seeing M. Wojkoff and Rosengols had coffee and then walked up and down the platform. A few minutes before the train was scheduled to leave, young Kowarda approached and drawing a revolver, fired six shots.

Although mortally wounded, M. Wojkoff had strength to draw his own pistol, but collapsed before he could use it. The assassin, a 19 year old student in Vilna High School, surrendered his revolver, saying, "I killed myself." The minister was hurried to the hospital where he died.

Signed Czar's Death Warrant

London, June 7.—The Evening News, one of Lord Rothmere's newspapers, which has conducted an intensive anti-red campaign in Great Britain, today identifies the Russian minister, M. Wojkoff who was assassinated in Warsaw, as Pierre Voykoff, who, the paper says, signed the death warrants on Czar Nicholas and members of the imperial family.

"The fatal assassination at the hand of a Royalist, retribution has come to one of the chief perpetrators of one of the foulest murders in history," the newspaper says.

APPOINT ASSISTANT FOR SECRETARY NOW

At the special meeting of the Board of Education last night the Chairman and the standing committee were authorized to appoint an assistant to the Secretary in view of the extra amount of work involved in the construction of the new High school. Two names were suggested for the position, Mr. J. B. Findlay and Mr. H. Stork, city assessor. It is understood that if Mr. Stock should be selected that it will be only possible for him to give the evening time to the work. The committee however was left a free hand to appoint any person they saw fit.

A BIG TIME PLANNED HERE FOR JULY 1st CELEBRATION

July 1st, Confederation Day is going to be an even bigger time than was at first anticipated by the different committees who are in charge of the arrangements, who last night met for a thorough discussion of plans. The high points will commence in the morning, will continue throughout the afternoon and will culminate in a wonderful night of community dancing, fire-

DECOMPOSED BODY DISCOVERED IN TORONTO THOUGHT TO BE F. ERWIN

FORMER GOV.-GEN.

Lord Lansdowne

former Governor-General of Canada, who died suddenly in Ireland on June 4th.

Local Man Employed In Factory Here Left On May 19th

DESCRIPTION TALLIES

Was Supposed To Have Gone To Toronto For An Operation

The badly decomposed body of a man found yesterday on the property belonging to the Roger Miller Construction Company, Bathurst Street, Toronto, is believed to be that of Fred W. Erwin, formerly employed by the Springer Lock Company here. The description of the man found tallies in almost every detail with that of Erwin.

Fred Erwin who had formerly resided with Mr. Wm. Hyland, Everitt Street, left this city on May 19th presumably for Toronto after resigning from his position as preasman at the Springer Lock Company. He is described by Mr. Hyland as being about 45 years of age and when last seen in Belleville wore a blue shirt, white collar, size 15, dark grey suit of clothes. He was clean shaven and slightly grey. He at no time wore glasses. This description coincides in almost every detail with that given of the unidentified man found in the shed in Toronto.

He gave as his reason for leaving Belleville that he must undergo an operation and would consult a Toronto doctor in connection with this. He was at times an alcoholic, and suffered from moodiness. It is supposed that his wife resided in Toronto. A married slater lives in Peterboro.

MAYOR WILMOT TO BE ASKED TO ROCHESTER

Kiwanis will invite Mayor Wilmot to attend the big convention in Rochester on June 15th. As the occasion will be a public event in Rochester with the Mayor of that city participating in the exchange of National flags, the Club deems it most fitting to invite his worship as Belleville's Official Representative. The presentation of the Canadian flag to the Rochester club will be made on behalf of Belleville Kiwanis by Kiwanian Peter MacLaurin.

ALBERT ORATORS DISPLAY SKILL

Austin Histon Adjudged Winner of Annual Oratorical Contest

Austin Huston, pupil of Albert College, was adjudged by Rev. D. C. Ramsay, Rev. L. S. Wight and His Honor Judge Deroche, as winner of the annual J. McD Kerr oratorical contest, and was awarded the handsome cash prize at Bridge Street United Church Community Hall last night. The contestants, Austin Huston, George Wright, of Janetville, Frank Jenkins of Little Britain, and Robert Wray, of Clark, all pupils of Albert College, were each required to read a psalm, recite a hymn, and to give a ten minutes oration on "Canada's Future." Each of the orators ranked high in the minds of the judges who found it a difficult matter to choose amongst the talented young men.

During the evening which was sponsored by the Young Peoples League of the church, a solo by Mr. Jack Anderson was keenly enjoyed by all present, and Dr. F. E. Malott filled the office of chairman.

WAR MEMORIAL FOR BELLEVILLE

There is a possibility that the Belleville Kiwanis Club will sponsor the erection of a suitable memorial to be erected in honor of the memory of our youths who made the supreme sacrifice in the World War.

At the next meeting of the Club today, Kiwanian Fred Deacon introduced a motion to this effect. In practically every other locality, large or small, some tangible remembrance in the shape of monument or memorial kept fresh in the minds of the citizens the memory of those who had not returned. What better year than this, it was pointed out—the year of our Diamond Jubilee—to arrange for a memorial to the fallen.

The matter will be discussed at a meeting of the Club Directors.

ORANGEMEN PREPARE FOR GLORIOUS JULY TWELFTH

The Orangemen of South Hastings will commemorate the 237th anniversary of the Glorious Battle of the Boyne at McFarlane's Grove, just east of Shannonville on July 12th this year when lodges from all of South Hastings including, Trenton, Frankford, Bayside, Belleville, Foxboro, Plainfield, Myra Hall, Shannonville, Deseronto, Mohawk 29, and Ameliasr will participate in this festivity.

The event will be marked with a long list of speakers, addresses by outstanding speakers and a parade around the grounds. Belleville Kilties have been engaged for the day.

CHILD FELL 18 FEET NOT SERIOUSLY HURT

Oshawa, June 7.—Jane Blow, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morley Blow, 330 Albert street, had a miraculous escape from death on Saturday afternoon when she fell from an upstairs window a distance of eighteen feet to the ground. The child fell on a pile of loose boards which partially broke her fall. A nail was driven through her right hand. Apparently, however, she suffered no further injuries except for a few scratches and bruises.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

Ignorance is the curse of God,

SHAKESPEARE.

EMPIRE MARKETING

In the interests of inter-Imperial trade, the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research in London has devoted considerable time to the important problem of the storage of perishable goods. Upon the successful preservation of such commodities as meat, fruit, and vegetables depends to a large extent the development of British trade relations with various Dominions, and the evolution of new methods of refrigeration has already borne remarkable results in connection with the export of New Zealand and Australian meat to the Mother country, while concentrated attention upon packing has had a beneficial effect upon the apple industry in Canada.

Much remains, however, to be done, and the activities of the Department are therefore of the greatest significance. It has, it is understood, been following with very considerable success a new line of investigation—namely the preservation of fruit in artificial atmosphere both with and without temperature controls. The experiments which have been going forward constitute what was described to me recently as the first broad scientific attack upon the problem, although the investigation of the effects produced by varying amounts of oxygen and carbon dioxide in the atmosphere upon the ripening of fruit, and hence upon the length of time fruit can be stored in good conditions, were actually commenced in 1918.

Until recently progress has been slow; but the results achieved now justify the confident expectation that new methods will be put extensively into practice and that Imperial trade connections will be considerably strengthened thereby.

WHAT IS NEWS?

News is the abnormal. Fifteen years ago it was news if a man went up in an aeroplane. To-day it is only news if the aeroplane happens to fall. Actually, it is a much more wonderful thing that an aeroplane should remain in the sky than that it should fall from the sky. But that isn't the point. The point is that, to-day, the abnormal thing is when the aeroplane falls. Hence the fall, not the flight is news. And so it is with crime. Newspapers print crime stories not because they think crime represents life. They print them because they know, and because they know the public knows, that they are the exceptions in life. And it is the exceptional, always, that is interesting. If it were otherwise, if people were concerned solely with goodness, simple piety, honorable conduct, etc., then the circulations of the religious press would be doubled and trebled. But such things thank heaven, are too common to be news.

CANADA'S HISTORY

As a part of the celebrations in connection with the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation, the national executive committee in charge of the arrangements is offering prizes to students choosing the greatest proficiency in Canadian history. There could be no more fitting manner of heralding the anniversary. To make oneself acquainted with the leading facts in the development of our country from the time of its discovery to the present day is an agreeable way of combining fair it deals with facts, and for that reason is doubly instructive. The past is the teacher of the future; from past mistakes we learn to escape future error. To neglect history is to ignore what is very precious in national life—tradition. Now, tradition is a very important thing; it is, in a way, another term for reputation. We all know how valuable a good reputation is. Having acquired it, one strives constantly to preserve it and even to add to it. So it is with national reputation, or tradition. The standing of a country in the eyes of the world depends upon past glories—what those who have gone before have done. It is for the present generation—and especially the young—to see to it that the fame and honor which our forefathers have brought to the Dominion are not tarnished or diminished, but are kept bright and increased.

How can we live up to our traditions if we do not know what those traditions are? How can we make our country great if we do not properly understand the ideals and aspirations upon which it flourishes? History is not a dry study; it is not a matter of memorizing dates and learning the particulars of a few outstanding episodes. It is a fascinating, living pursuit. It makes us acquainted with the places and incidents with which all educated Canadians should be familiar, and at the same time introduces us to a company of celebrities, among whom are many noble, heroic souls, whose example is an inspiration. It is good for a nation that its youth should know its history; it is also good for the young students themselves. With the splendid free library facilities available in these days, there is no reason why any one should remain ignorant in this respect. Once the habit of reading history—including biography—is formed, it will be seen how very delightful and improving such reading is. Now, when Canada is about to celebrate the sixtieth anniversary of Confederation, is an excellent time to make a start.

THE BEST

I have lived and I have loved;
I have waked and I have slept;
I have sung and I have danced;
I have smiled and I have wept;
I have won and wasted treasure;
I have had my fill of pleasure;
And all these things are weariness,
And some of them are dreariness,
And all these things—but two things
Were emptiness and pain;
And Love—it was the best of them;
And Sleep—worth all the rest of them.

Greetings to a Neighbor

As Canada celebrates her Jubilee age only twenty-five a year, Canada of confederation (1867-1927) this has her political scandals. But such spring and summer, it is not mere material achievements to which she can most proudly invite the world's attention. To be sure, these achievements are impressive. Her sixtieth birthday finds the Dominion able to boast of a population of 10,000,000; of a foreign trade of almost two and a half billions of less unemployment than for many years; of an operating profit by her national railways; of a reduction of budgets and taxation that equals our own post-war record. But wealth and prosperity are natural in a country of vast resources and energetic population. We have them too. But we have some possessions and assets which our North American can slater is justified in holding up before envious eyes.

Our "little" neighbor, as we condescendingly think of her, presents certain object lessons of ingrained orderliness, tolerance and governmental common sense which we might well heed. Americans are prone, whenever observers point to some glaring defect in our national life, to say: "Oh, that is a heritage of the lawless, individualistic frontier"; or, "Oh, that is natural in a young fast-growing country." But Canada is more a land of the frontier than the United States; its population is as varied and the proportion of British stock is just about the same—53 per cent; while it is as young and as fastgrowing as we. Whereas we are lawless, Canadians have a record for law observance that approaches England's or Scandinavia's. Whereas we have grave and almost constant public corruption, Canada has little. Whereas we are religious and moral intolerance takes violent forms, in Canada it is but momentary fit.

Comparison in Crime

Canada has crime, but it is not the crime of the United States. The homicide rate for this country between 1920 and 1925 was 3.2 per 100,000 population; that of Ontario and Quebec for the same period was 4.3. The Canadian police force is efficient as England's and murder is swiftly punished, yet the death sentences for the whole Dominion averaged over the North American deficiencies.

ROTARIAN CRUISE CAPTAINED BY DR. M'CULLOUGH

New York, N. Y., June 7.—(C. P.)—Dr. Crawford C. McCullough of Fort William, Ont., who has been active for many years in the affairs of Rotary International will be "captain" of the Carmania, one of the six ships of the Rotary fleet which sailed from New York City May 23 and 26 for the Convention of the organization to be held at Ostend, Belgium, June 13 to 18. "Captain" McCullough will leave next Saturday by aeroplane to the ship representing the Cunard Steamship Company, but the tasks of seeing that the 500 Rotarians on the ship, from all sections of Canada and the United States, are acquainted with each other; that the various athletic contests on shipboard are run off according to rules and that each passenger gets the key to his hotel room at Ostend before he leaves the boat will be under Dr. McCullough's personal supervision.

Distributing the keys to the rooms in Ostend hotels before passengers touch foreign soil has been decided upon by those in charge of the migration in order to avoid congestion and mix-ups when the party of more than 13,000 from North America land at the Belgium seaside resort. The ship which Dr. McCullough commands will land its passengers at Flushing where they will take a conecting steamer to Ostend arriving June 4. They will be met when they arrive at Ostend by a reception committee of more than 3,00 Rotarians from the British Isles who have been appointed a reception committee for the North American delegation.

Big Reception Prepared In Capital For Chamberlin and Levine

Kotthus, Germany, June 7.—The new aerial heroes Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine, refreshed by their first night's sleep since leaving Roosevelt Field last Saturday morning, were made honorary citizens of Kotthus with solemn ceremony today. Shaved, bathed and keenly alert, the fliers were conducted to Rathaus, where the ceremony took place. On to Berlin Tonight

Berlin, June 7.—Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine, United States trans-Atlantic fliers, will arrive in Berlin at six o'clock tonight Central European time, near where they landed yesterday at the United States embassy announced today.

If the Bellanca monoplane Columbia is not forced to condition by fog, they will make the trip to the capital in a clear sun plane at an air speeding up to tension of the Berlin population, which is waiting to welcome them.

"Columbia" Flies Again

Kotthus, Germany, June 7.—Chamberlin's trans-Atlantic monoplane Columbia took to the air again for a brief flight over Kotthus today, after the propeller damaged in landing yesterday, had been repaired.

The plane was found to be in flying condition and the two aviators made the start for Berlin at 4.30 p.m. accompanied by a squadron of German planes carrying officials and newspapermen. Chamberlin and Levine have not yet decided whether they will go to Vienna or Rome, deferring their decision regarding their plans until their arrival in Berlin. They may make the trip incognito, if possible, and hope to be able to accept an invitation of London extended by Sir Alan Cobham, noted British flier.

SPECIAL SERVICES IN CANNIFTON CHURCH

Last Sunday, June 5th, was a red-letter day in the United Church on the Canniffon charge.—It marked the closing of a series of special Sunday services held in the different churches.

May 8th, Mothers' Day, was the first. That day the fathers of the congregations had charge of the singing, and the churches were filled to capacity. The music, like the day, was worth, took his text from Prov. 21: 14.

The next Sunday, May 15th, was Fathers' Day, and mothers had the singing. The text was from Genesis 6: 9—"Noah was a just man, and perfect in his generations, and Noah walked with God." On May 22nd, the congregations met especially for communion, and the pastor told the beautiful story of the Book of Ruth.

Last Sunday, Children's Day, May 29th Gideon and his great achievements, for the day, was the subject of the sermon and last Sunday, Children's Day, was the climax of the whole series—Rev. Mr. Parnaworth gave an interesting talk to the boys and girls, using the automobile, with its different parts, as the symbol of it. The children sang beautifully, and very much credit is due to the two teachers of the Public School in Canniffon, who have been so helpful in training the children in memorization and in singing. The congregations at this service were even larger than at any of the previous services.

MINING STOCK

International Nickel fell today below 62. Only regular dividend of 50c was declared for the quarter ended. This may have been a disappointment to speculators. Diamond drilling on their Frood mine, about which so much has been heard lately, has been extended to about 3,000 feet. Ore uncovered is estimated to contain about 200 lbs. of copper, 1 oz. of gold, 5 ozs. of silver and a good percentage of platinum to the ton, and it is indicated that the company can recover about 1,000,000 lbs. of copper a year plus the incidental metals as mentioned above. With the production of these metals the copper production cost may be made lower than that of anywhere mine in the world.

TALKING OF EXTREME FRANKNESS AND LOVE

By ELSIE MARLOWE

Do you think it would be just lovely if everyone would be perfectly frank to everyone else? Then get over it! That's what Pete and Panny thought. Now they're not speaking and their engagement is off.

Pete and Panny were the model lovers in our crowd. Simply crazy about each other. From morning until night Pete raved about Panny to the fellows down at the office. And three blocks away Panny was telling the other girls that Pete was the Most Wonderful Man in All the World.

The dreams they dreamed!

The vows they vowed!

"There's one thing we're always going to do, dar'," said Panny to Pete. "We're always going to be perfectly frank with each other."

Right there is where Pete should have come to and paid his first premium on a lot of life insurance. But instead he just grinned, did said "Uh-huh! Baby!"

"We're never going to store up little grudges and resentments," Panny babbled on. "If I do some little teeny thing to hurt you I want you to tell me about it, right away, and if something you do displeases me, I'll tell you. Don't you think that will be the best way, darling?"

"Begin what, honey-bunch?"

"Why, begin being frank, of course. We both must have a lot of little faults that bother the other one. And we'll be much happier after were married if we talk them over sensibly now and get rid of them. Don't you think so?"

"We-ell. I dunno. Cute. Lord here! Suppose—"

"Why, you foolish darling! You act just as if we were afraid to be perfectly honest with each other. You don't think for one minute that you could say anything that would hurt my feelings, do you? Do come on, let's begin. My turn first. You know how I adore you, darling, but there's that little trick you have of arguing with waiters when we eat in a restaurant — honest, darling you don't know how conspicuous it makes me feel. Now if——"

"Well, you don't suppose I'm going to let those guys put anything over on me, do you?" Pete's tone was distinctly hostile. "I suppose you expect me to sit there like a poor fish, while—"

"Why, sweetheart, I never——"

"Well, I ain't. That's all. And that's more, now that you talk about me making you feel conspicuous, how do you suppose I feel when I saw you flirting with that simp of a saxophone player the other night at Ninon's?"

"Pete, dear, how dare you? You know perfectly well—"

"Oh, yeah, you didn't think I saw you but——"

And so it went. Before that cozy little session was over Peter learned that Panny had always loathed the kind of suits he wore and shuddered at the way he bent his nails and detested his folks and wanted to tell every time he told that story about the two Scotchmen. And Panny was informed that she made him feel like ten cents when she spent that scarlet one-piece bath suit and that her brother was an awful ham and maybe she thought it was smart for a girl to smoke in public but it made a guy feel farce. And who told her she could sing?

So one perfectly good love affair went bang! and now there are two sad young people who are Off Frankness for the rest of their natural lives.

But isn't the Truth a beautiful thing?

Yes. It is also a mighty dangerous thing, for very few of us know how to handle it. As a matter of fact, most of us are quite unable to tell the truth about ourselves or other people. What's the Truth about YOU? —the deep down Truth? You don't know exactly why you do the thing you do. Then it's a cinch, pal, that nobody else Truth about yourself how can you know the Truth about anyone else? knows. And if you don't know the And if you can't know it, how dare you criticize?

The perfect art of loving includes a lot of silence, my dear.

WHAT'S NEW

(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Plaits is reviving pote.

Tweed faille and krasha coats with contrasting dresses are now the vogue among smart New Yorkers.

Rust color, after being laid on the shelf for a season or so, seems to have returned to favor, and, of course, the fluorescents welcome it back.

Paris manufacturers, never slow to catch up a public enthusiasm, have put out a new hat ornament, consisting of a little silver airplane and these are worn on turbans and small felts.

White supple moire silk jackets are much seen at the Ritz in Paris, and they are in hip-length and are worn either with black or a contrasting skirt in a range of materials, care being taken to have the jacket match the millinery.

The season's rage for pink has resulted in a vogue for ping jewelry from manufacturers in rose quartz and from old-fashioned coral jewelry to rose pearls.

Paris reports that primroses have emerged from the many flowers offered for buttonhole bouquets as the popular spring posy for 1927, and to answer the edicts of latest fashion the bunches must be small and the color gay.

Chanel is exploiting heavy stiff satin for formal evening gowns, cut low and usually unembellished.

Mrs. James Litchfield, now past 77 years of age, is the oldest woman in the state of Maine to hold a motor driver's license, but she is absolutely fearless, having taken a trip in an airplane and cruised in a submarine.

CREW ALL WOMEN

When a Russian freighter, the Karl Marx, put in at Leghorn, Italy, it was found that the crew was entirely composed of women except the captain, the only man on board. The women sailors wore men's uniforms and had their hair cut short. No explanation says he never had a more diligent or active crew.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

When Onions sprout the flavor is injured and they should be used at once as they will soon become unfit for use. The sprouts should be utilized for soups and salads.

Breton baked beans will be more savory if you use two-thirds soy beans and one-third navy beans.

Pour boiling water on raisins and let them remain overnight. They will be easy to clean and the stems will not tear the fruit.

Sieves should always be cleaned immediately after use, as it is very difficult to remove any substance which has been allowed to harden on them.

The washing is performed with a brush, hot water, and soda, and the sieves must be dried thoroughly with a cloth before they are put away in a dry place.

A-vice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I've gone with several different boys this last year, and sooner or later one becomes serious and we quarrel because I won't be serious too. Do all boys become serious after a certain time?

I would have liked to continue going with all of them, if they had not wanted to be serious.

I have tried telling them, but they're all alike — say it's only playing with them, fooling them—and then we quarrel. What shall I do?

UNHAPPY.

UNHAPPY: You must be somewhat to blame of the situation in which you now find yourself. No doubt you have encouraged and flirted with the various boys who have been your companions. If you had not done so, they could not accuse you of having "played with them."

From now on, you must be very careful that you assume an attitude of impersonal good-fellowship toward the young men you meet. Many girls are tempted to test their powers on every young man they know. Probably you have done that. Surely you are endowed of those powers by now, and can control the impulse to flirt. You really must do that, if you want the light-hearted and carefree companionship of boys.

An electric circular band saw has been devised for butchers. It is used for every operation from cutting chops to breaking bones.

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN

By Mildred Harbour

"Touch wood," commanded Eva haughtily. "That is, if you really don't want to be. I don't blame you in a way." She sighed, as she rose to her feet. "It's hard and torturing in love."

"Mostly torture, I should say, judging by the people I've seen," said Sybil. "Eva," she added, with startling abruptness, "what would you do, if somebody told you that Serge had fallen in love with another woman and wanted to marry her?"

"I'd put blame and cry my eyes out," answered Eva promptly. "And I'd probably die."

"You wouldn't stop loving him? You wouldn't hate him and plan his destruction — with all your heart?"

Eva shook her head.

"If want his happiness, first of all, before my own. That's loving."

"That's madness!" shrugged Sybil. "Oh, dear, you must be awfully heart less, Sybil. If you can't understand," cried Eva. "I dare say you've hurt a lot of men, but I do hope you won't break poor Dick Sheldon's heart. He's such a nice boy, and he has such beautiful ideals. I'd hate to see him made bitter and disillusioned."

"Would you?" she murmured evasively. She was thinking: "One at a time. I haven't disposed of Sergeyet!"

But she had seen a way! If only it worked out as she hoped!

CHAPTER 35.

THE FORGED CREDENTIALS

One morning soon afterward, when plans for Serge Patton's concert were all in train, Sybil received a letter upon the long-suffering New York pub lic, as Sybil termed — began to look forward with commendable speed. Sybil received a telephone call.

A pleasant male voice, mellow and cultivated, said:

"I haven't yet had the pleasure of making your acquaintance, Miss Ross, but I hope to, very soon. My name is Oliver Dearborn. I recently returned to New York from a business trip to your home town, and I was fortunate enough to be given a letter of introduction to you from an acquaintance — May Taylor."

"May Taylor!" echoed Sybil, in surprise. Taylor worked in the Winslow bank, and had known him only in the casual way that she had known other employees there. She wondered what on earth had made Taylor give any one a letter of introduction to her.

Through her surprise, she knew that she was still a subject of gossip in the town, for on one had quite found out what had happened in the Winslow affair, and her present state of affluence was set down to various causes—most of them derogatory.

"Yes," said Dearborn glibly. "He thought of you once, when I mentioned New York. May I have the pleasure of presenting the letter some day? Are you going to be at home this afternoon?"

"Yes," said Sybil, her curiosity considerably flicked.

"Around five o'clock?"

Sybil assented again.

At five o'clock, Oliver Dearborn was ushered in by Hilda. His gray hair lent distinction to a figure decidedly overweight, and a close-clipped graying mustache toned down the florid color of his heavy face with its sensual mouth and eyes set in a fine net-work of wrinkles.

He bowed over Sybil's extended hand.

"You are too kind, Miss Ross, to receive me so soon." His shrewd eyes appraised her, and she noticed snobbery in the graceful phrase.

She felt that she had been slain before.

He presented the letter of introduction.

Now she knew where she had seen Dearborn! He was the florid man who had stared at her during her brief encounter with Arthur.

She read the letter calmly. It was the usual note of introduction, and bore May Taylor's name.

How stupid of Arthur, she thought! As if she, who had been his secretary, wasn't familiar with his sprawling hand!

But she was very nice to Oliver Dearborn. She wondered if he knew that the letter was a fake, wondered why Arthur had done such a thing.

Then he was pleasant and entertaining. Sybil gave him tea. But all the time, she felt that he was gauging her measuring her — was even a bit puzzled by what he saw.

That was Arthur, has probably told him rotten things about me," she decided.

Oliver Dearborn was definitely added to a list of acquaintances that had increased mightily during her month in New York. Now, besides the Patsons and Dick Sheldon, she had a host of others, less intimate, who kept her days and evenings filled.

But Eva Patton was her only real friend. Sybil sighed with regret when she thought that soon she might lose her!

She went to the opera that night, to a dinner-party at the home of a smart matron who was a member of one of her literary clubs. There was supper and dancing afterward at the Plaza. She arrived home shortly after one o'clock and sleepily prepared herself for bed. Hilda was attending the wedding of a friend, somewhere in Jersey, too far away for a return journey after the festivities.

Sybil dropped off to sleep almost instantly in her beautiful soft bed, canopied with rose and silver brocade a copy of one of the Pompadour's many vagaries. No affairs of the heart troubled her serene slumber; no thought of the morrow's provision marred the perfection of a beauty-sleep that was set in the least tempered.

Suddenly she found herself sitting up in bed, wide-awake. Some sound must have disturbed her slumber. Yet the silence of the sthall hours, after the supper-dance revellers have gone home, and the night club crowd is still holding forth in secret lairs, wrapped the entire street. She raised the shade, and the rays from an arc-light in the park shone dimly into her bedroom. She looked about, but could see nothing that could have caused the noise.

She was about to curl up under the silken comforter once more, when she heard a sound that set her heart beating loudly. It came from the rear of the apartment, from the direction of the kitchen and pantry.

Sybil held her breath.

Hilda? But Hilda was far away in Jersey. Sybil was alone in the apartment.

The sound! Footsteps — the heavy footsteps of a man. Sybil opened her mouth to scream. Then:

"Sybil!" whispered a familiar voice.

Another Discovery in Canadian Laboratory

May even rival Insulin as a blessing to mankind - - Relieves Indigestion

THIS new product of a Canadian laboratory is known as Renzyme. Like insulin it is a natural treatment taken from animals and administered to humans.

For some years it has been known to the medical profession that indigestion or dyspepsia is caused by a drying up of the digestive juices in the stomach.

● The active principals of these fluids are known as enzymes. Many efforts have been made to obtain combinations of drugs which would restore the digestive powers of the stomach but without much real success.

Now a method has been found of obtaining enzymes from the stomachs of calves and of making up a bottled solution which keeps indefinitely for administration to the human stomach.

● By using Renzyme you actually supply to the human stomach a new stock of enzymes. In other words, you restore the digestive ferments which carry on the process of digestion in the stomach.

No treatment can be so simple and direct. No treatment can be so prompt and effective in affording relief from indigestion and all the disagreeable symptoms which accompany it.

Years of laboratory work and numberless experiments have been necessary to perfect this product. Medical doctors have used it in all kinds of cases of indigestion and with marked success.

Renzyme is now available to the public through the druggists. While it does not contain drugs, you will find the druggist enthusiastic in recommending it, because of the splendid reports he gets from his customers. Relief is soon obtained even in the most chronic cases.

CELEBRATE HERE FOR THREE DAYS

P. C. MacLaurin Urges Adequate Recognition of Canada's Progress

That the city of Belleville, realizing to the full the tremendous significance of Canada's Diamond Jubilee of Confederation, should mark the events not by a single day's celebration, but by a fitting three-day affair, was the principles made toady by Kiwanian Peter MacLaurin, in the course of a magnificient address on Confederation, before the members of this local service club.

And when Kiwanian MacLaurin, looking back over those sixty years, and dwelling on the seemingly Providential course of events which the efforts of the Fathers of Confederation had brought about, showed the condition of our country before and since the Union of the colonies, there was not a listener who did not agree that this monster three-day celebration as suggested by the speaker would be a most fitting recognition of our progress, and of our heritage made possible through Confederation.

Seventy-five years ago not a mile of railroad in Ontario or the West; individual families with pitifully poor means of communication; a few small cities with rapid Bytwile-Open which required day of travel; a bottle people to the South, looking with envious eyes on our territory; a Motherland whose representatives reported Canada for the most part as a barren waste, and of little value. This was the country which a group of far-seeing men had joined together, and whose genius made possible the Canada of today.

And a new era was dawning. Kiwanian MacLaurin declared, an era of prosperity and of progress, which would only be great as the individuals—and incidentally the Service Organizations would make it. The leaders of today must direct the efforts of the youth into the possibilities of the future, that our wonderful progress continue.

COLLEGE BOYS WILL SOON BE HUNTING WORK

Toronto, Ont., June 7 (Canadian Press).—Early in June, a new army of work-seekers will be turned loose in the country. Between 15 and 20,000 college students will be looking for vacation employment in order that they may help pay the expenses of their education. The University of Toronto alone will release 5,000 young men, the majority of whom, according to the registrar of the university expect to earn at least enough to maintain themselves during the holiday period.

Of course a certain number of these students taking such technical courses as engineering, forestry and agriculture will be provided for by positions in charge of these industries, some will be absorbed by the government forestry services. A few of the theological students will go to mission stations on the fringe of Canadian civilization.

But this represents only a small percentage of the would-be workers, stated the registrar. Many thousands will remain to fight for temporary niches in the wage-earning circle or city society.

Strange and various are the positions into which these collegians annually drift. Many a freshman, rich in the brand new veneer of sophistication painstakingly acquired during his first year, finds himself officiating as bell-boy in a summer hotel; or napkin on arm, precariously balancing the 36e meal so loudly advertised by a restaurant, which a month before he would not have deigned to patronize.

Twenty years ago every college boy whom necessity drove to holiday employment seemed to take up book selling. The rural districts were overrun with young men who sought to wheedle the thrifty agrarians into purchasing sets of Stevenson, or Decades of the Holy Land, or profusely illustrated accounts of the Chicago fire to aid them in their laudable pursuit of learning. The college student of today is less restricted by convention. He may drive a taxi—or stoke on a harbor tug without suffering any loss of scholastic dignity.

CHANGED HIS MIND

New York, June 7.—Complaining that Captain Charles A. Lindbergh had not occupied so much of the front pages of newspapers that like was no longer worth living, Joseph E. Seton, 18 years old, attempted suicide today by jumping into the Hudson river. After he had jumped he changed his mind and climbed up on a pier to safety.

IMPROVEMENT IS CONTINUING

Winnipeg, June 7.—A bulletin issued from hospital here today stated that Sir Hugh John Macdonald, Canada's veteran magistrate, who underwent an operation last week, for the amputation of his right leg, continues to show steady improvement.

ELEPHANTS WOULD DRINK RIVER DRY

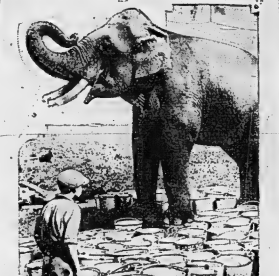

Herds With Sparks Circus Consume Enough To Float Battleship

Did you ever carry water for the elephants? If so, you can easily imagine that the accompanying illustration is the dream of the youngsters on the night before the circus.

One of these huge beasts consumes in a single day more water than is required for the boilers of a power plant. The two herds with Sparks Circus drink in a single day more water than the average family or would man would require in twenty years. In a year their combined capacity would be almost enough to float a battleship.

Carrying water for the elephants, however, is no longer necessary in a show-the size of Sparks Circus, which has its own sprinkling system to lay the dust on the grounds, and its own fire department.

Sparks Circus, coming to Belleville, next Friday afternoon and night, has what are conceded to be the most intelligent trained elephants now being exhibited; and the huge beasts are handled in two arenas and on the track by dainty women trainers. Intelligent as the elephant is, it requires unlimited patience to train him to become a performer, though once he has mastered what is wanted of him he may be depended upon to "do his stuff" whether he is in the mood or not, for he is not given to temperamental as many of the animals of the menagerie. There are several baby elephants with Sparks Circus, the sons and these juvenile members of the herds never fail to delight the children.

Fortunately the elephants will said to have the most intelligent elephants now being exhibited, comes to Belleville next Friday for afternoon and night performances.

INDIANS LOYAL TO NATIVE LAND

While by the terms of Confederation the Federal parliament was given complete control of "Indians and lands reserved for Indians," it may well be contended that the proclamation issued by King George the Third on the 7th day of October, 1763, contains the Magna Charta of the Canadian aborigines. This proclamation, made public shortly after by the Hon. Sir William Johnson, Bart., was described as the Northern District of North America: Colonel of the Six United Nations, their allies and dependents, etc.," among other inwards and abuses had in the past been committed in the purchasing of lands of the Indians; and, in order "that the Indians may be convinced of our justice and determined resolution to remove all reasonable cause of discontent," it was declared that no private person should in future purchase any lands from the Indians except for His Majesty and at a public meeting or assembly held for the purpose. Many decades have since rolled by; but the present day method of acquiring Indian lands differs but slightly from the procedure set forth in this Royal document of 1763.

Contrary to general opinion the Canadian Indians are not decreasing in numbers. A slight increase is noticeable year by year. The Indian population as given in the 1926 Indian census is 104,894. These are located on 1,574 reserves throughout the Dominion, containing an area of almost five million acres. The administration and control rests in the Department of Indian Affairs at Ottawa, and the relationship between the Department and the Indians is that of guardian and ward. The following concise facts and figures indicate the importance of this wards-ship. Real and personal property realized at $74,512,629, and the total income of the Indians for the fiscal year 1925-26 was $10,189,654. The capital of the Indian Trust Fund during the same year amounted to $12,118,466, an increase over the previous year of more than a quarter million dollars.

Due to the clearly defined policy of advancement followed by the Department, the Indian of to-day differs but little from his white neighbour. In private and in the finance there is liberal and generous provision to assist needs to reason by the local Indian agents, and tuberculosis and smallpox, these dreaded foes of the Redman, are being successfully combated and controlling causes removed or restricted.

Educational facilities are modern and thorough though under the control in all cases of the various religious denominations. Throughout the Dominion there are for Indian use exclusively 74 residential educational institutions with an enrolment of 6,325 pupils; and the cost of Indian education for the year 1925-26 was close to two million dollars. Two hundred and fifty-four day schools and 16 combined schools were in operation during the year.

In religion the great majority of the Indians today are Christians, only 6,960 retaining some form of aboriginal belief. The Christian element is given as 49,621 Roman Catholics, 22,557 Anglicans, 7,939 Methodists, 2,475 Presbyterians and 1,173 Baptists.

Originally fishermen and hunters, the Indians today follow varied occupations, and in western Canada some have by Departmental instruction and assistance developed into substantial farmers or raisers of fine stock. In the three prairie provinces 2,500 are employed in agriculture and 196,097 acres of land are under cultivation. It is estimated that the Indians of these provinces own 26,000 head of cattle.

The Indian population of Ontario is

ROYAL FAMILY READS NEWS TOO

London, June 7.—Even if member of the British royal family cause no regret after their day's official work, and keep track of various doings, they can at least read about them in the newspapers next morning.

One morning recently the king, queen, Prince of Wales and Princess Mary were all able to read in their favorite papers something about each others doings on the previous day.

The king and queen had visited a gramaphone recording factory and it was recorded that the king noticed a mirror about to make a prompter, as a dance tune played by a well-known band.

"Let me try," said the king taking the lever. "There," he exclaimed, "I hope it's a good one."

"It is a perfect press," replied the workman. "That's fine," said the queen, "Let me try too." and she did.

While this was going on the Prince of Wales was declaring Northcliffe House officially opened. In the photographers' room he wanted to see the photographs which were taken when he fell during a recent point to point race.

"That was a jolly good one and I want a copy," he said.

"How the deuce did I do that," he said audibly.

Princess Mary in the meantime was at Bristol at a school function and a journal said very little in the way of a speech. She was, however, interested in a poem of a 12-year-old ragabay and had she used to write poetry.

"When I was your age, my parents told me it was not very good and I am quite sure it was not a patch on a good as this," she said. "You must write me another in a year or two."

BIG ART SALE IN MONTH JUNE

Toronto, Ont., June 7 (Canadian Press)—The most important art sale ever held in Canada with the exception of the collection of the late Chester Daniel Massey will be offered for sale by the Massey estate. The event, ranking in importance with some of the great sales of London and New York auction attract art dealers and connoisseurs from Great Britain, the United States and Europe.

A private view precedes the public auction of the late Mr. Massey's treasures. Immediately after the Massey sale, the same galleries will dispose of the collections of the late Sir Edmund Walker and of the late Sir William Mackenzie. The three sales will last a week. It is declared to be an innovation to have a sale of this magnitude in Canada.

CAPITOL THEATRE

A big double feature programme which proved an immense hit with the large audience last night marked the opening of the Imperial Players Stock here in the Capitol. Their presentation "Forget Me Not" was a play which is out of the ordinary. As explained the story is some fifty years old and deals with the affairs of a French aristocracy in Rome, provides Miss Bigden with ample opportunity to display her unusual talent, as well as every member of the cast. It is a play replete with dramatic situations, pathos and with it all a little comedy mixed in, and last night proved one of the biggest success of the Imperial Players to date.

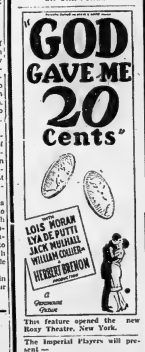

The feature screen offering "God Gave Me Twenty Cents" is one of the few Paramount Pictures, and a romance with a well chosen cast including Lois Moran, Lyale Putt, Jack Mulhall and others a tale of the waterfront, it depicts realistically the life of sailors in port and is packed full of thrills.

BELLE THEATRE

Richard Carle, Lois Wilson, Estelle Taylor, William Powell and Norman Trevor all helped Director Luther Reed in his endeavor to make "New York" a picture worthy of the city for which it is named. After seeing Paramount's latest at the Belle last night, we can do no more than assure you that Paramount has "done right" in our Melting Pot.

"New York" opens in a Bowery dive. Carter, Powell, "Streets" Gallagher and Lester Scharff are introduced as a quartet who have grown to manhood on the city's East Side. The first has become a jazz drummer, Gallagher making a very acceptable screen debut in his pianist, Powell has developed into a typical gangster and Scharff is entering politics. All is then that Carter meets Lois Wilson, a girl of the "four hundred" who determines to raise himself to her level.

Five years later Lois finds that chanced Carter is now a well known "Tin Pan Alleyist." And all this time, when the son of the Bowery greets the daughter of Park Avenue, it is she who proposes to him. Then, the old sweetheart is found murdered in his room and—! See "New York." It's bigger and better than ever.

ACROSS THE BAY SWIM JULY 1ST

Aquatic Enthusiats Prepare For Annual Water Event

Although no entries have as yet been received, nor will any be taken until the fifteenth of the month, there are quite a number of the local aquatic enthusiasts who have signified their intentions of entering the "Across the Bay Swim." For the past week or two a group of the younger members of the Association have been training for this event and by July 1st they will undoubtedly be in fine form to go the whole route. At the present time, a number of this group are doing the full three quarter of a mile several times a week and almost without exception, they are cutting down the time with each succeeding attempt.

The fastest time for last years Rossmore to Belleville race by one water route, was twenty-seven minutes and fifty seconds but indications point to a considerable reduction in this time on July 1st, providing of course ideal weather conditions prevail. Given favorable weather conditions it is expected that some marks will be made which will prove the "acid test" for the swimmers of future years over the same course.

Last year which saw the commencement of this feature race, the regulations governing the race called for residence in the city at least three months previous to the race. This ruling will apply again this year with but one exception which is as follows: Members of the Belleville Y.M.C.A., whose place of residence is outside the city limits will be allowed to enter the "Across the Bay Swim" held on July 1st of each year. Due to the fact that the Across the Bay swim is sponsored by the Association, the committee deemed it unfair to bar out members of the Association in good standing because of the fact they happened to reside outside the city limits and accordingly this last amendment was made to the governing rules.

TOO FEW CURVE BALLS PITCHED

The rather unkindly manner in which Grove has been treated in his last few starts gives rise to the thought.

When Rube Waddell was at the top of his game, as the greatest southpaw in baseball, he boasted a most deceptive curve of which he made much use. Waddell's fast ball was his best bet, but the curve more or less made it so.

Waddell threw almost as many curve balls as he did fast ones. There was no getting a toe-hold with Rube pitching; he mixed up his stuff in the most approved style.

Grove has a curve that compares very favorably with that used by Waddell, yet Grove is content to throw three or four fast ones to every curve.

There is a bit of a parallel in the case of "Lefty" Grove and Walter Johnson.

When Johnson joined the American League he had as much stuff on his fast ball there was no need for him to resort to anything else. He literally threw the ball past the batters.

Likewise, Johnson was noted for his excellent control. In later years when his speed began to fall off a little, batters who were once easy for him began to take liberties with his fast ball.

The reason is easy of explanation—the batters, knowing Johnson didn't have a world-while curve, that his control was excellent as to speed was quite up to standard, began to step the plate and take a toe-hold, anticipating his fast ball.

It didn't take Johnson long to realize this, so he worked hard to develop a curve and a change of pace. When he acquired these two very necessary assets, he added many years to his pitching career.

IF EVERYONE WORE GLASSES WHO SHOULD

—It might seem as if humanity were losing the ability to see well.

But at present only a small percentage of people who need glasses wear them. That has always been so. And an increase in the number of those wearing glasses would mean that more attention is given the subject of eye welfare than formerly. If you need an eye service, I am ready to render it.

TORONTO BOWS TO LOWLY KEYS

New York, June 7.—Harry Mackin's batting with Moose Swaney's fine relief pitching was largely responsible for the 8 to 6 victory the Braves scored over Syracuse at Newark. The game was a long drawn out affair with seven pitchers working. The victory put the Newark Club in sixth place.

Reading pounded Jess Doyle's former Detroit hurler for sixteen hits to take a 9 to 3 decision and even the series at Reading with Toronto. Dave Barbee and George Quellich again hit home-runs, the second for each on successive days. None was on base each time the four play blows were awaited.

Moore's single in the last half of the ninth inning scored Daly and Brame with the runs that aided the Skeeters to even the score with Rochester at Jersey City, 2 to 2. The Tribe had sent over two runs in the first half of the ninth to take the lead 2 to 1, but were unable to check the locals in the last half.

Only three games scheduled.

SCIENTIST HAS FOUND ANTIDOTE FOR SNAKE BITE

Philadelphia, June 1.—Dr. Alfranio De Amaral, formerly chief of the St. Paulo Serum Institute of Brazil, has perfected a serum which is declared to be effective against the bites of all three types of poisonous North American snakes—rattlesnakes, moccasins and copperhead. The serum was perfected after research as a snake farm at Glenolden, a suburb.

The serum is described as effective if injected within 12 to 24 hours of the bite and as the first of its kind equal-y potent against three distinct species of snakes.

End of a 60,000 racehorse's Picaroon, once regarded as a Derby "hope," but failed through illness, has been destroyed by A. E. Cox, who, at the end of the colt's career as a two-year-old, refused $60,000 for him.

LYON'S PITCHING WINS FOR SOX

Pirates Overcome Phillies' Lead—Connie Mack Shifts Line-up

New York, June 7.—Ted Lyons pitch d his second victory of the series and the tenth of the season at Boston yesterday and Chicago defeated Boston, 10 to 2. It was the fourth straight win for the White Sox, cleaning up their first series played here this year. They have now twelve out of their last fourteen starts. Lyons' record for the season now is ten and two decisions, the same as that of his teammate Thomas. Clancy made five hits in five times up. The Red Sox fielded sparingly.

With a revamped line-up the Athletics defeated Cleveland at Philadelphia, 4 to 1, scoring three runs on Burke, the Indian pitcher, in the first inning. Ehmke was invincible for eight innings.

Manager Connie Mack replaced Boley, his first baseman, in the third inning earlier, and benched Bill Lamar, left-fielder, in favor of the veteran Zach Wheat. Lamar will probably come through with run-producing hits but Wheat made a spectacular catch with the bases filled in the eighth.

Only two games were scheduled.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

New York, June 7.—The Pirates defeated the Phillies, 7 to 5. The visitors outhit the Pirates, but their mistakes helped the former to gain the victory. With the count dead-locke at three each, and bases full on top by Traynor, Joe Harris then singled. A sacrifice by with scored Traynor. Harri trotted him on as Wilson fell short.

The Cardinals defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers this afternoon in the final game of the series at St. Louis, six to two.

Bob McGraw, former Dodger, outpitched Jess Barnes, and helped to win his own game by driving in two runs to break a tie in the seventh inning. In the third he hit a triple that was turned into a run.

The Cubs batted Larry Benton off the hill in the eighth inning to tie the score against Boston, later landing on Kingdige in the eleventh inning to win the final game of the series at Chicago, four to three, thereby breaking even on the series. Bethlehem, won the round for Chicago, the first game he has finished this season.

AUTOMATIC TRACTION PLOWED FIELD WELL

Unguided by human hand, except when the first furrow was plowed to make a guide row, the machine, equipped with an automatic guide trevined by P. L. Zibach, of Grand Island, Neb plowed a 20-acre field.

The tractor runs in an irregular circle, rounding the corners. Except for replenishing the gasoline and oil it needs no attention. The electric control stops the machine should it leave the furrow, and when the work is completed.

The invention was first tried in 1921 Zibach said. Tiring of riding a plow he attached his device to his tractor filled the machine with gasoline and turned it loose.

Montreal, June 6.—An agreement has been reached which is satisfactory to the Dominion Government as to the amount which is due the Government by the O'Keefe Beverage Co. of Toronto, on both palesugar and sales tax. The O'Keefe Company was refused a renewal of its license last March because it failed to produce the books and records required by the commission.

BALL SEASON TO OPEN TOMORROW

Railroaders Cocked And Primed To Meet Point Anne Team

The Nationals put in a useful hour of practice last evening in preparation for tomorrow's opening tilt with Point Anne. The locals expect to take the visitors into camp but "Doug" Coyer has a much stronger team than last year under his wing and the cement mixers will give a good account of themselves.

Harry Blakely at short-stop, Alex Weir at third, Cretney at first base and Jerry Hurley in right field materially strengthen the team. Bennett who fanned fourteen in his first appearance may be sent to the mound against the railroaders. Manager Mills has a trio of first-class hurlers to fling into action, namely "Punch" Derry, "Chummy" Gerow and "Foot" Gibson with the latter favorite to start in the opening game.

Harry Mills will likely be at first base. Amo at second, Flagler at short-stop and Weir at the hot corner. Scott, Hagerman and Rose will patrol the outfield and these three shape as a strong combination. The three teams in the Bay of Quinte loop are evenly matched and fans are due for some red-hot contests.

With good weather provided, tomorrow's game should be a humdinger. Ken Colling and Walter Gerow will be in charge and will send the boys on their way promptly at 3 o'clock.

RADIO POPULAR AT NORTH POLE

Winnipeg, June 7.—In far away Okalavik, somewhere near the Arctic Circle, in the North West Territories, the Eskimos no longer huddle of nights in their igloos.

For in Aklavik 100 miles north of Winnipeg, voices from Canadian radio stations make interesting broadcast entertainments when Aurora Borealis is in good humor. Then the dogs cease to howl at the painted sky and their Inuit flappers and sheiks gather on the frozen snow to dance to chants of Winnipeg orchestras.

The lieutenant has a loud voice and with a loud speaker, and on nights when conditions are favorable 15 tunes in. Reception is usually good, he says, and the concerts are much enjoyed.

The eskimos, he telegraphs, see keen fans and look forward to the evening of the "voice from the sky." As the Eskimo as a rule, is keenly appreciative of white men's music and quickly learns to dance in the modern way, they thoroughly enjoy the concerts and dance music. Lieut. Kluit writes.

The Irony of Love

By Charles Garvice

Parchment Joe, facing his other pal, leaned on Rafe's washed out, pressed it tightly. "I'm sorry for you, Rafe, honestly. You'll have to know, sooner or later. It's no use fretting, Rafe, she's dead. She died. You did your best—God knows you did your best—you risked all that a man can risk, but it was no use. She won't hurt Alice you, there wasn't a bruise on her, she was just like a little child. Little Phen Jo!"

There was silence for a moment or two, then Rafe said in a low voice: "I want to see her."

"See her? Why, poor lubbie, she's buried!"

"How long have I been here?" Rafe asked, after a pause. Joe told him, and Rafe turned his face again. "I'd like to have seen her; I'd like to have told her what—what I'd come to tell her."

"Whatever it was, I've a kind of fancy she may have known, Rafe. I think that she knew you were trying to take her part, for there was a look on her face—ah, well, it was a happier look than I've ever seen on it when she was alive. Yes, you may have known, Most women are quick to guess at a thing, and Phenie was the cutest girl I ever met. She may have known that you were fond of her."

"We gave her a big funeral, Rafe. If you'd seen the box—Aquill, one of them cried like children. Oh, the wreaths—— Yes, little Phenie had a great send-off. We buried her beside your dad, Rafe."

The big hand closed quickly and tightly on Parchment Joe's, and Rafe's lips moved, with the almost inaudible: "Thank you, Joe."

So more was said, and Rafe lay very still; but the old man knew that he was not asleep, but thinking of the old life he had failed to save, the girl who lay beside his dead father.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

CHANGES AT JUMPING JANE

With grim irony, the fervent that had borne Phenie's life away on it had brought an increased prosperity to Jumping Jane, for the rushing water had revealed fresh treasures. The dam was quickly repaired and straightened, and long before Rafe was sufficiently strong to walk to the camp, work was again in full swing. A new saloon has risen on the site of the old one, a glorified saloon, with a wide veranda and an interior glittering with Dutch metal and plate glass; indeed, at such a pace was Jumping Jane progressing that hotel was rapidly raising itself on the hillside, to accommodate the visitors who would be attracted to a spot described by the advance advertisements as "an early paradise for the tourist, the invalid, and the intelligent business man."

A by no means significant party in the camp was in favor of closing the saloon; and for several months Jumping Jane was enlivened by an exciting discussion over suggestions which ranged from the eminently practical to the fatefully comic; among other names proposed, and fought over, were "The Happy Valley," "Millionaire's Gulch," "Angels' Abode," "Land of the Blest," and—this came from Bill—who was now a professed humorist—"Whiskyville." But the wealth of the materials and the tenacity with which the proprietor of each suggestion stuck to it rendered selection impossible, and so "Jumping Jane" held its own.

Amid all these signs of prosperity, Rafe moved as one who had lost all it is worth in which he has no part. He went back to his own hut, and spent most of the time in a silence and stolitude broken only by Parchment Joe and one or two of his old friends. The whole camp respected his grief, and, in sympathy with his desire to be left alone, waited for time to alleviate it.

To Rafe it seemed as if his life had stopped short, as if the past had slipped away from him and he had never held no promise. He did not forget that the barrier which had been raised between him and Maude had been swept away by Phenie's death, but another barrier, more terrible, yet impenetrable — stood between them; for, though he was a free man, he felt that Phenie's wraith hovered between him and Maude. He had never been worthy of her, but that which he had done had rendered him, in his eyes, all the more unworthy; the story of his clandestine marriage would inevitably leak out; he had dragged Maude into something which her world would twist into a scandal; he had besmirched her name in short, he was not fit to go to her, to ask her for a renewal of her love, her truth.

Now that he was back again in Jumping Jane, crushed down by the heavy burden which Travers' hate had set on him, the distance between him and Maude seemed lengthened and intensified. He craved for her every hour of the day and for many of the night, but he could not go to her. Though several letters were lying awaiting him when he came back to health, he had replied to none of them; it was better, he thought, that he should let the past go, that he should vanish from her life.

One evening when Parchment Joe and he had sat in the hut, smoking in silence for some time, Parchment Joe, clearing his throat, said, with a subduing glance at Rafe, and a matter-of-fact air:

"I s'pose you'll be going back soon, Rafe? You're pulling round fast, though you're far off your old form." He looked wistfully at the thin figure, the haggard face, the lack-lustre eye. "The voyage will do you good, and

MAY EXTRADITE YOUNG ASSASSIN

Polish Fear Russians Will Want Boris Koweeda, Slayer of Minister

Warsaw, June 8.—Although the assassination of M. Wojkoff, Soviet Minister to Poland, was committed by a Russian refugee, who is not a Polish citizen, yesterday, it was causing much anxiety in Poland today. It is feared that Soviet Russia might demand extradition of the nineteen-year-old assassin, Boris Koweeda, to which Poland could not possibly agree without loss of prestige and violation of the principle of not surrendering political offenders. Members of the Russian colony in Warsaw repudiate connection with Koweeda and fear deplorable consequences.

Notwithstanding Soviet denials, the Polish public connected M. Wojkoff when he was sent here in May, with murder of the former Emperor Nicholas of Russia. When he arrived in Warsaw the Premier Office granted him active him special protection but he refused and appeared offended at the proposal.

Deplores Act

Moscow, June 8.—The Polish minister at Moscow, M. Patek, called on Maxim Litvinoff, acting Foreign Commissar this night and expressed the profound condolences of the Polish government for the murder in Warsaw of M. Windsor Lawyer For Ex-porters Contends Canada Should Not Worry

Montreal, June 8.—"I honestly think that Americans are not at all desirous of seeing the provisions of the anti-smuggling treaty lived up to" J. H. Clark, a Windsor, Ontario lawyer declared to the Royal customs committee, today. Mr. Clark was arguing on behalf of certain Windsor liquor export houses against the submissions made by Hon. Dr. W. Rowell, counsel for the commission.

"If the United States wanted to stop the flow of liquor across their sixteen miles of water front, it could be done very easily" Mr. Clark said, referring to the Windsor situation. Commissioner W. H. Wright asked Mr. Clark is he was suggesting that Canada should follow the example of the United States, assuming that country's contention to be right. The treaty was a solemn agreement between two countries and should be fulfilled.

While agreeing with this Mr. Clark said that if people of the United States ignored the treaty, the question arose as to whether Canada were bound to continue observing it. The whole of the morning sitting was occupied with submissions by counsel and argument thereon.

CITY MERCHANTS OBJECT TO THREE DAYS' HOLIDAYS

Front Street Business Men Practically Unanimous In Their Opinions

BAD FOR BUSINESS

Customers From Surrounding Territory Come In On Saturday

Belleville merchants are decidedly in favor of closing their stores on Saturday, July 2nd, in opposition to the Proclamation issued by the Dominion Government declaring the day a holiday. July 1st to be included as a public holiday.

An Intelligencer reporter made a canvas of the Front street merchants this morning and all quarters found the consensus of opinion tending to keep the stores open and ignore the general proclamation insofar as business is concerned.

It was learned that the experience of many of the merchants showed that over one-third of the week's business is done on Saturday and from these receipts the proprietors depend for the clerks' salaries.

In Peterboro the merchants have agreed to observe the holiday, like-wise Toronto, Lindsay and other leading centres. Trenton business men will close up for four days because which a gigantic celebration will be staged.

Several of the merchants stated they would be willing to close providing the move was made unanimous. It was pointed out that Belleville is at the centre of a rural population and merchants depend on the Saturday visitors for a great deal of their income. Several of the merchants were non-committal in the matter. Following are the opinions expressed:

Almost Unanimous

Harry Green, butcher—"We certainly won't close here on Saturday, July 2nd." He was of the opinion that the stores should be closed all day Friday and open on Saturday.

J. Foster & Sons, grocers—"We will remain open on Saturday because we must look after the farmer's trade, as one half of the business of the week is done on that day. We are absolutely not in favor of closing that day."

C. N. Sulman, "Beehive"—"I think the idea of closing the stores on that date is a good one."

C. J. Symons, haberdasher, was emphatic in his reply to the query. "We will be open on Saturday if we're the only store in town," he said. He stated that Belleville is a farmer's town

WILL MARK WAY TO GRAVESIDE

Casual Visitor Could Not Find Grave of First Premier

Kingston, June 8.—Plans are being made for the erection of the necessary signboards to direct visitors to and mark the grave of Sir John A. Macdonald. Under present conditions it is almost impossible for visitors to the cemetery to locate the last resting place of Sir John and many stand amazed as they are fairly frequent visitors to the spot.

In this year when Canada is celebrating the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation, the historical and epoch mak ing career of Sir John A. Macdonald is obscured in which Sir John was an outstanding figure in the affairs of all political thought, this grave will doubt less be visited by hundreds of Canadians and visitors from the States. The request will be held at the Church-ill home.

PROTEST LODGED AGAINST RULING

Canada's Reply To U. S. Note Objects To Sudden Termination

Washington, D. C., June 8.—Canada's reply to the United States' note on border immigration was delivered to Frank B. Kellogg, United States secretary of State today. It submits that the termination of the long standing arrangement whereby Canadians and Americans have freely commuted across the border in pursuit of their business is a ground for concern, points out that there is no precedent for the application of the term "immigrant" to citizens legally domiciled in Canada temporarily or retaining their citizenship in that country. It submits that six months cannot be called a "reasonable time" in which non-native Canadians can secure quota visas in United States and that the sudden dislocation of long established border crossing privilege cannot fail to have grave results in the Windsor area where the community has been permitted to build itself up on a basis of freedom of movement across the border in daily business.

EARL CARROL STARTS HIS YEAR'S SENTENCE

Walmsley to the Intelligencer today, when asked when the Bridge street Methodist Church to succeed the retiring pastor, Rev. H. B. Roney, would be appointed. LAWN BOWLERS IN JITNEY TOURNAMENT

Owing to the circus being in the city on Friday the tournament on that date will be cancelled but another one will be held on Tuesday night and if the enthusiasm exhibited last night is any criterion, the entry for next Tuesday will be the largest in the history of the club.

On July 1st the management proposes to stage a local tournament, the nature of which has not yet been decided upon but it is to be hoped that every member of the club will take part in the day's pleasure, a special feature for encouragement of new members of the club.

HAVE HARD DAY AHEAD OF THEM

Berlin, June 8.—The new aerial heroes, Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine, were up fairly early this morning prepared to undergo a round of entertainment which yesterday's welcome at Tempelhofer Field was but the beginning.

Today's day did not retire until late they were up at 9.15. Chamberlin and Levine had but little rest as the first newspapermen got in touch with Levine. "We didn't get to bed till the wee hours of the morning," he said. "I don't know just when, but it was already daylight. We were up long after long through hundreds of cables that it was very late before we went to sleep."

The two fliers were met after an informal dinner at the Embassy with "hochs" and songs of all Berlin ringing in their ears, for had they flown directly from New York to Berlin the welcome given them could hardly have been more enthusiastic than the demonstration when they landed at Tempelhofer field last evening.

D. E. Clark Feared To Have Suffered Some Internal Injuries

LOCK SNAPPED

Serious Accident Mars The Demonstration of Local Brigade

When the fifty foot extension ladder collapsed during the fire fighting demonstration this afternoon, Fireman D. Edward Clark, of 93 Gordon Street, was hurled to the ground and suffered apparently serious injuries. Falling a distance of approximately thirty to thirty-five feet he struck the cement pavement with terrific force lighting on his face and chest. His comrades rushed him to the hastily summoned ambulance and he was taken immediately to the hospital for examination, as internal injuries are feared.

The local fire department had made record time putting up the long ladder bringing to the new hook and ladder truck against the south side of the city hall. Fireman Clarke smartly reached the top of the ladder where he stood perched waving smilingly to the large crowd which had gathered for the exhibition.

Suddenly the long ladder buckled car ring Clarke with it and when it reached the first joint it jolted him from his precarious foothold and he crashed to the earth. When picked up blood was gushing from his mouth and nose and it was feared he was fatally injured.

Extent of Injuries Unknown

Speaking with Fire Chief Brown at 2.30 this afternoon, he stated that Fireman Clark did not sustain very serious injuries, "Of course he has a bruised right knee, a black eye and lost a couple of teeth in the fall" he informed the Intelligencer.

When the reporter tried to get in touch with the attending physician at the hospital, the authorities there stated that he was still in the operating room with the injured man.

Hospital Report

Dr. J. J. Wannamaker and Dr. S. R. McCreary who attended the injured man stated to the Intelligencer at 3.45 this afternoon that upon examination of Clark at the Belleville General Hospital they found that he was suffering from shock, cuts about the head and face, a fractured jaw and fractured left knee.

Lock of Ladder Snapped

The firemen claimed that the accident was due to the lock, which held the second section of the ladder, not snapping. Clarke telescoped with the first section. Then as the first interection, his hold was jarred loose and he crashed to the ground.

Blanking Fire Marshall Lewis' charges that they were inefficient, the Belleville fire department were staging a fire fighting demonstration in the Market Square. Sharp at 2 o'clock the fire bell rang and with the equipment from both stations rushed to the Market Square. Within minutes and twenty-six seconds after the arrival of the trucks, hoses were connected and water was played upon the square. Approximately two minutes later the hook and ladder gang had the ladder propped up against the City Hall and Clarke was standing at the top of it.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

Truth in the end shall shine divinely clear,
But end the darkness till those times appear.

CRABBE.

FILCHING RIDES

Every mode of travel has its parasites. As sea it is the stowaway, and his tactics have remained the same from the era of sailing vessels down to the modern liner and the days of restricted immigration. On land there has been more variety. Thirty years ago the railroads were the main highways for the hobo, who was content to view the country from a freight car door. Once these wanderers were numerous enough to be a pest to trainmen. Now they are heard of occasionally, sometimes being listed as "unknown" among the victims of a freight wreck, but they have mostly disappeared.

Have they taken to the automobile? With their instinct for wandering, they may have seen that the great provincial and national systems of highways offer them the best opportunities. They depend on the good will of the autoist to "get a lift," and on the long stretches, away from the populous districts, they are generally successful.

The spread of this habit of accepting or soliciting rides is an imposition on the good nature of auto owners. Their real object of course, is to save carfare home. The whole thing amounts to a petty hold-up and should be stopped. The hobo's way of stealing a ride does not differ so much after all from the more up-to-date method of begging a ride.

DIG DEEP

Dig deep if you would have the richest treasures. One may wash gold dust from the shallow stream, but the coveted nugget of gold is found buried deep in the bowels of the earth. Those who would find diamonds must move mountains of earth and "full many a gem of purest ray serene the dark, unfathomed caves of ocean bear."

The profoundest beauty in a great painting, or the work of sculpture, and the rarest jewel of wisdom on the printed page will not be found on the surface. Art does not surrender its true self to those who will not "drink deep."

One may wear gold and jewels without descending to "unfathomed caves" or burrowing underground, but for the richest treasures in literature, painting, music and sculpture one must do his own prospecting. Others may create it, but the individual must discover it for himself. Art is the one absolute commonwealth. Though the common property of all, it is enjoyed by the few. Numbered among the natural resources of the earth are coal, gas, and the various minerals. Art is an artifical resource but of them all it alone is inexhaustible.

What applies in the field of art and treasure-hunting is equally applicable to more workaday affairs. Deep digging pays in business, industry, labor, house-keeping, farming or study. It is modern phraseology this a universal truth is expressed in the counsel of the experienced to youth to "get out and dig" if it would accomplish something in life.

HENPECKED HUSBANDS

(Percy the Baltimore Sun)

—There are three kinds of henpecked husbands. In the first the husband is supreme and the wife a clinging vine. In the second husband and wife enjoy a dual control, nicely balanced so long as neither weakens. In the third the wife holds the scepter and the husband bends the knee.

Henpecked husbands, from the days of Socrates have been objects of both ridicule and sympathy. Yet, as a matter of fact, no class of husbands is more to be envied. Theirs not to reason why, theirs but to obey. Domestic problems give them no concern. They have no need to look beyond the morrow. Everything is planned and considered and debated for them. Every decision is made without their assistance.

Like Peter Pan, henpecked husbands enjoy the delightful sensation of never growing up. Their status is that of a child. If, on the one hand, they offer lip-service to their spouses, on the other, like children, they are permitted to feel the thrill of being naughty, of stealing off, of thinking up clever excuses for arriving home late from the office. If they come in for a scolding, long suffering has made them impervious to the sting of shafts and darts. And how they enjoy themselves in summer when the cat is away! The one drawback to being henpecked is the ridicule of a man's male associates. For this he has only himself to blame. While an autocratic husband is proud of the fact and boasts about it to his friends, an autocratic wife likes to give the impression that she is the opposite. An oppressed husband may rest assured that his wife will never divulge the oppression. If a henpecked husband is spotted, it is because he himself has let the cat out of the bag.

Of the three types of home rule the third certainly would appear to be the most ideal. Far more men realize it than would willingly admit it in public.

MELANCHOLY

I read once in an ancient and prosed book
How beauty fadeth,
How stale will Helen or Leucippe grow
When custom jadeth,
When the black ox has trodden on her toe,
Beauty will alter,
And love that lives on beauty, so it said,
Will fade and falter.

Old Robert Burton),
Lifted the dargon-guarded lid and—lo!
Faint and uncertain,
Frail rose-ghosts of rose-gardens all in blow
Haunted the room;
The spangled dew, the shell-tints and the moonlight
Lived in the fume,

And still shall linger in the leaves until
The jar shall perish,
So the true lovers in their memories still
The things they cherish,
And loose them in the tender alter-glow
Of life's long day,
Till memory dies, and the world with all its passion
Passes away.

—Duncan Campbell Scott.

PAINTINGS SHOW CHILD'S ABILITY

Creative Impulses of Every Child Brought Forth By Canvasses

Toronto, Ont., June 8.—(Canadian Press)—Pictures painted by Austrian children and brought here by Dr. Harry C. Kollar have, during the past two weeks, been viewed by seven hundred school children at The Grange, Toronto. They are colored fruit of an experiment in art education which was fathered thirty years ago by Franz Cizek, and which endeavors, by giving the children imagination free rein, to bring forth every creative impulse. Every child thinks in pictures and here we see how he expresses his thoughts when given the maximum of plastic material and the minimum of instruction.

Of course these pictures must be judged as the results of an experiment and not as works of art; but in viewing them one is inclined to forget this fact and to marvel at their decorative quality and at the fine sense of design and color displayed in many of them. There are a score which would make delightful murals for a nursery, others which might brighten the pages of some fantastic fairy tale.

Parents and teachers, as well as the younger visitors, find their imaginations stimulated by the imaginations of these children, thousands of miles away.

We do not expect all the children who paint in this Vienna studio to develop into great artists" explained Dr. Kollar. "That is not our aim. Few of them will continue to create art after they are sixteen years old.

"But we are fighting the standardized systems of education which kill the child's imagination and encourage imitation: the systems which have culminated in the intelligence tests now used in many schools. The child's imagination does not need stimulating; it does not need directing. Turn it loose with plenty of paint, crayons and paper, and it will reproduce its impressions of the world about, and of its inherited memories. That is what Cizek has done in Vienna.

"During the period of puberty, the creative fire dies away in almost all cases; that imagination lingers with only the chosen few. These few continue to paint or to carve—and then become great. They do not need to be taught; we learn from them. For the rest, when the desire to create has faded, it is time enough to think of their instruction. They can then be trained at the Government School of Industrial Arts and become, not artists, but craftsmen."

Dr. Kollar lays stress on the importance to the world-be artist of discovering thus early whether he be real by one of the "chosen few." Often he learns too late that he is not a creator. Then he becomes discontented with the world and with himself and develops into a neurotic. The child has no need for perspective or color formulas, maintains Franz Cizek the whimsical old people, the dancing children, the weird animals row running riot, in a tangle of brilliant color around the walls of The Grange, seem to bear out his theory. From here the paintings go to Montreal and thence to England.

SILVER TRAY IS FOUND IN DUMP

Anything From Hams To Diamonds Received At Incinerator

Kingston, June 8.—Every person is careless at times—that is one of the reasons why rubber erasers are put on the ends of pencils by the manufacturers—and this trait of humanity is conclusively proved by the number of articles of value found among the garbage collected in this city from house to house.

The articles found at the Kingston incinerator plant, where the garbage is burned, range from good wholesome hams to diamond rings, the great majority being returned to their rightful owners.

At the present time Eugene Sleeth, the Sanitary Inspector, has in his possession a large silver serving tray which was found among the garbage a week or so ago, having evidently been dropped into the receptacle by accident or mistake. No claimant has yet come forward for this article.

A whole case of beautifully fresh pork sausages was found some time ago among the refuse, this being among the most curious among many, these sausages being returned to the rightful owner when he was traced.

Green, then Superintendent, the soldier saying, "I have instructed the Pension Office to forward my pension in care of this Office." Shortly after the first and only cheque was received, and has not been called until recently, when Mr. Green made inquiries of his whereabouts through the Minister of Pensions at Ottawa, and in London, England, receiving the news today direct from the soldier that he is living in the Province, now at Knockennelie, Kirkendbrightshire, Scotland, where he will be joined by his wife, it was one of the finest cities in Canada, in fact when I was there I always called it the Canadian Home, everybody seemed so kind to me," says the writer.

Y.M.C.A. Notes

The R. J. E. Graham Shield donated to the Y.M.C.A. by Colonel Graham for the annual "Across-the-Bay Swim, has attained to it the names of the four winners in last years race. These are as follows: Ladies section—Miss Jessie Bartlett; Senior—Elmer La Barr; Junior—Lawrence Oliphant; Youngest Member Kenneth Childs. As Lawrence Oliphant, the winner of the Junior section last year, is illegible to enter the Junior section again this year it means that all of last year's winners will be able to compete again this year. The question which naturally arises is how many of last year's winners will be entitled to have their names placed on the shield again this year. July 1st will decide this question.

Undoubtedly the competition will be keener this year and the committee in charge of the race look for a reduction in the time in each of the four groups Most of last years entries will try their luck again this year and besides these there will be some new faces on the scene when the starter gives the signal and some of these latter will require watching by the winners of the event last year.

and the merchants are better to them as well as city residents.

J. W. Cook of Eagle & Cooke—"We have talked it over and propose to remain open on Saturday. It may be alright to close the stores in the larger centres but not in a rural city like Belleville."

J. A. McPee, Jeweller—"I will abide by the decision of the majority of the merchants and will do whatever seems most popular." Mr. McPee stated that he had given the matter little thought. "If the farmers are notified through the press that the stores would be closed it might be all right."

C. H. Vermilyea of the Oak Hall—"What's the use of closing, the Celebration is on Friday only and it will mean a big loss to us if the stores are closed."

W. G. Adams, shoeman, stated that ordinarily Saturday's business equalled that of any other four days in the week. The merchants will make up Friday's business if they remain open the following day.

Morris Lavoie, of Latimer and Lavoie Druggist—"We certainly could not see our way clear to close on account of the tre evean business. It's up to every merchant to look after his own interests."

One In Favor

R. Tarlington, Confectioner, "The Confederation Jubilee is celebrated but one day and I am in favor with what business would be more brisk in the first four days of the week to make up for Saturday." Mr. Tarlington said he was heartily in favor of co-operating with the merchants.

Chas. Hanna stated that he was personally opposed to the closing. He told the inquirer that at a meeting of the Executive of the Quinte Hospital the matter was taken and it was found that with the exception of Lon don and Toronto, the delegates were all in favor of the stores remaining open. Mr. Hanna stated that he was a member the Confederation Committee in reference to the matter at Ottawa tomorrow.

Chas. Dolan, Druggist,—"It isn't fair to ask the druggists to close as they will be open part of the day anyway".

Mr. Stewart Robertson, of Quirk and Robertson's—"We will cooperate with the rest of the merchants in the matter."

P. Moore.—"We will remain open both days."

Meagher's Clothiers—"We will abide by the decision of the majority." Mr. Chas. Meagher said he hoped the time would come when the stores would close on Saturday evening." George Meagher said the stores should be oblized to close and those who disobey the law should be fined."

C. M. Reid, Manager of Rogers store recently amalgamated with The Quinte Dairies Limited—"The merchants should certainly open their doors on this occasion."

C. T. Woodley — "The merchants should remain open for the sake of the country people." Mr. Woodley expressed himself as being heartily in accord with the majority.

J. S. McKeown—"I hadn't put any thought on it but whatever the merchants decided to do I will fall in line."

SUPPORT OF HOMES MEN'S OBVIOUS DUTY

By ELSIE MARLOWE

Nellie can't understand why Jack hasn't any pep any more, or any pride. Why, he watches her go out to work while he sits idle, and lets her pay the bills without blinking an eyelash. But when they were first married, if anyone had suggested to him that his wife should work, he'd have gone right through the roof.

How radiant life seemed the day they were married. She was twenty-two. He was sixteen months younger—just enough younger to give her a little mothering feeling toward him. Wistful dreams they had! And for years those dreams all seemed to come true. They furnished a little four-room home, and the buying of each new chair or table was an adventure. They danced and laughed and schemed and had "love spats," like the two healthy happy youngsters they were.

And then, so suddenly that the girl couldn't believe it, the boy grew cold. She found that "a girl in the office" had fallen in love with Jack."

So Nellie immediately took command. "As soon as I learned of this," she writes, "he quit his position in order to free himself of the temptation, and to prove to me that he loved me best. We then sold our furniture for a small sum and left the State. Since then everything has gone wrong. He won't stick with any job. He gets discouraged easily, and I make the living most of the time. I have been working all through these years, and he depends on me whenever he quits a job. I work terribly hard and put every cent I own into the house; but he never gives me a word of gratitude or appreciation. "I'm getting so heartsick over it all—our love seems dead—sometimes I think I will just leave and divorce him."

Nellie doesn't understand how it has all happened.

You made it happen, Nellie. I know it hurts, but it is the truth.

You were sixteen months older than your husband when you married him, and six years older in actual maturity; for a boy who isn't twenty one is still pretty much of a child, whereas a girl of twenty-one is well matured. So you started handicapped. You were the older and the wiser, and probably the more capable You both knew it, although you have by thought of it in the joyous rush of those happy days.

Then came the first hard test. A situation arose in which your husband was tempted. He was then nearly twenty-four. It was His problem and he should have faced it. He was old enough to face temptation and conquer it. But you didn't let him face it. There were tears and scenes, and you let him quit his post—in to "prove that he loved you best." Then, to make bad matters worse, you helped him run away from it all, sold your furniture, moved out of the State.

You helped him to become a coward.

You paid for your spurt of jealousy and unhappiness with the precious gold of his manliness. You helped him throw away his courage and his honor.

You didn't know that you were doing all this, but you did it just the same. And now you are paying for your dreadful mistake by being tied to a man who no longer has any self-respect.

That's what it the matter with your husband today. He has lost his self-respect, and you helped him to lose it. Managing, jealous wives often work such tragedy, my dear.

Yet it is not a hopeless tragedy. Self-respect can be built up again. Stop carrying the load and make him carry it; sacrifice that little secret feeling of superiority which you have carried in your heart and push your husband into his true place in the family life—the place of the breadwinner.

A Advice to Girls

By Ann Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl eighteen years of age While at a dance I danced with a charming young man, although I wasn't introduced to him. He wanted to escort me home, but I decided not to go, as I wasn't acquainted with him. He has asked me for a date.

Would you consider it proper for me to go with him?

LONESOME AND BLUE.

LONESOME AND BLUE: In the first place, you should not have danced with the "charming young man" my dear. If he wanted the pleasure of dancing with you he should have made a mutual acquaintance to present him. At any rate, since you have already committed one breach of etiquette there is no reason why you should add others to it. Tell this young man that you cannot accept his invitation. He will understand why, and if he really wants your friendship will ask a mutual acquaintance to introduce him to you—you can accept as many invitations from him as you choose.

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN

By Mildred Barbour

THE MIDNIGHT VISITOR

Sybil could scarcely believe her ears when she heard her name spoken by that familiar voice.

Shivering slightly, she sought to pierce the gloom of the hall where the midnight intruder lurked.

"It's she—really—?"

"Yes. Are you alone?"

"Of course, I'm alone," she snapped. How like the imbecile, she thought, her former fear subsiding.

"I mean—is there a servant around anywhere?"

"No. Come here and let me see you."

Her brother Ted stepped into the room.

She wouldn't have known him, except for his voice. A cap was pulled down over his eyes. Only the lower part of his face was visible. His clothes were nondescript—not fat lynn disreputable.

"I'm in disguise," he grinned—Ted's audacious grin. She could see it by the glow of the arc-light. "Borrowed this outfit from another guy to make my getaway. Sybil, I'm in trouble!"

"Again?"

"It's serious this time," he declared. "I'm wanted by the police. I had the drop of a time escaping and getting up to your place. You've got to help me, Sybil, for—well, for the sake of the family, if nothing else. I'm tired and broke—and hungry, too."

She considered for a long minute. "How did you get in?" she asked.

Sybil mentally chalked up a black mark against the cook.

"Go back to the kitchen and draw the shades before you switch on the light," she ordered. "I'll come, as soon as I put on a kimono."

When she reached the kitchen, he was already rummaging the ice-box in the pantry, as nonchalantly as if he belonged to the household. He turned and gave a low whistle.

"Gosh! You call that a kimono?" She was clad in a negligee of mauve brocade, edged with taupe fox. There were silver sandals on her slim bare feet.

She seated herself, a trifle wearily, and watched him dig ravenously into cold roast beef, bread and cheese.

"Got anything to drink in the house? Hard liquor, I mean?"

"No," she said shortly. "But there's near-beer in the compartment where the ice is. Hilda drinks it."

"Who is Hilda?"

"My personal maid."

He whistled again.

"You've sure flown high, my beauty!" He uncorked a bottle of beer and poured it into a tall glass, making a wry grimace. "Window told me—but I didn't know how high."

He nodded.

"I got your address from him. He seems to know a lot about you. I see him before I knew the police were on to me, on my trail. Then I had to go in hiding for three days, and tonight I borrowed this gentleman-burglar outfit and sallied forth to find you, my dear sister!"

He made a face at modeling home, raised his glass high, and drank with his old audacious grace. She stared at him, without any trace of feeling in manner, he was the same Ted who had slipped out of town under cover of night to escape the wrath of the defrauded Mrs. Fields. But in appearance, he had coarsened. His good looks were lost under the marks of reckless and profligate living.

"Not at all, dear lady," he assured her sarcastically. "But a certain gentleman lurking in an alley in the wee sma' hours of the morning would be suspicious, sight. But a cop lumping me would say to himself: 'there goes the janitor or the night-watchman!' "Ted, what have you done now?" Sybil demanded, brushing aside his facetiousness.

"Well——" He lounged back in his chair, his restless gaze roving about the kitchen. "I say," he interrupted himself suddenly, "you haven't got a cigarette about you, have you?"

Sybil rose and handed a silver receptacle from the drawing room. He lifted the lid suspiciously.

"Perfumed, I suppose," he remarked gloomily. But when he saw the brand, his eyes brightened.

"Ah! This is something like it. Your sweetie has expensive tastes, evidently."

"How dare you!" flashed Sybil. "Even if you are my brother—and heaven knows I'm not proud of the relationship—you've no right to insult me!"

"Calm your-self, my vicuous little girl!" he laughed. "Don't you suppose I know you're all right? I heard long ago about Cousin Agatha coming across. Otherwise, you'd not be having the pleasure of my company tonight—or this morning, rather."

"You haven't told me yet what you've done," Sybil reminded him.

He waved a negligent hand.

"A mere trifle. An old story. You'd think the police wouldn't get so excited about a case as trite as mine.

Dentists Endorse New Antiseptic

Plenty of good words from the profession for Dr. Chase's Every-Day Mouth Wash

For a year the dental practitioners of Canada have been trying out this new antiseptic lotion in private practice and the results they present on its merits is one of high appreciation.

Letters such as the following from a prominent Ontario dentist are frequently received. "Referring to Dr. Chase's Every-Day Mouth Wash, dear sir, beg to say I have been welcome to my patients, especially following extraction. It is a fine sedative, analgesic, deodorant and antiseptic."

Another dentist writes: "I might say I have used Dr. Chase's Every-Day Mouth Wash in my every battle at the chair and a great number of patients have spoken about it in a most complimentary way. I have used it personally for sore throat and found it good."

Dr. Chase's Every-Day Mouth Wash, dear by breath sweet, is sold by dealers or The Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

WHAT'S NEW

(From a Woman's Standpoint)

The ivory or dead white is the newest shade in sunny evening frocks.

There is distinct tendency in Paris to introduce a note of mauve or purple into other shades, and Patou is featuring for fall clothes a shade of chocolate brown with a dash of purple in it, which he strongly coats with dresses of rose-lavender shade also indicate the tendency to introduce purplish tones into the fall mode.

Sport ensembles of linen or jersey are very smart and an affective one seen in New York had a white linen jumper frock handkerchief and a coat of linen with a hand-blocked design in blue and yellow, and the latter was lined with plain white linen.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Hoffe milk is warmed before adding the eggs there will be no water at the bottom of the dish in which baked custard is cooked.

I merely dipped my fingers unwisely in the oil of the firm I was working in in Kansas City. I was going to make a million on the market and put it back in the mine. They all do." His eyes twinkled. Sybil could have shaken him.

"And you let it?"

"Every red copper!"

"That means——"

He calmly finished the sentence for her.

"From fifteen to twenty years in the Pen—if they get me. But they're not going to get me. Here's the chance for you to do the state act of your life, Sybil, saving the gray hairs of our mother and father from sorrow and disgrace——"

She cut into his melodrama.

"I wouldn't lift a finger to save Dad from anything. But for Mother's sake, I suppose I'll have to help you."

"How generous you are—how monumentously generous, dear sister!" he exclaimed mockingly.

"Do you think you can manage a getaway, if I provide one watching?"

"Trust me! I can manage all right, he told her, with boastful confidence. "All I need is my passage and money enough to stake me, once I've arrived."

"Where do you want to go?"

"I've decided to honor the Argentine with my presence," he announced grandiloquently. "Meanwhile, will you get busy like the dear, sweet, docile little girl you are and don't think and rake me up a passport and reservations on the earliest boat that's sailing?"

"I don't see how I'm going to do it, but I dare say I'll have to try," she said resignfully. "But where will you hide, when you wait?"

"Right here—in this cute lil' flat!"

If you intend cooking the spinach immediately, give it several washings in hot water instead of cold. It will be much more effective in removing sand quickly than cold water.

MISS M. SHORE SUBMITS REPORT

327 Local Visits Made During Month of May

The statistical report of the Victorian Order of Nurses for the month of May shows a total of 60 cases nursed, of these 33 were new cases, 26 were carried over into June, of these dismissed, 11 were paid, 2 part paid, 7 were free and 13 were Metropolitan policy holders.

327 visits were made during the month of which 274 were nursing visits.

From May 2nd to May 16th, Miss Craig one of the students taking the Public Health course in connection with Toronto University, was with us, she expressed pleasure at having spent time in a small center, she also contributed to our equipment having built a house of health for school demonstration which was on exhibit in St. Thomas' Parish Hall where the members of the Dorcas Service Circle presented the Victorian Order of Nurses with a layette which will be kept to loan where and when necessary and is on exhibit at the baby clinic.

The nursing committee decided it would be wise to have a fund from which we could draw to meet certain demands in connection with the clinic work. A successful tea was held at the home of Mrs. Nation last evening. The proceeds to be applied for this purpose.

It is always an inspiration to the nurses to meet at convention and compare notes and many problems were discussed at the round table conference which have a bearing on the nurses work particularly.

Respectfully submitted.

Mary B. Shore.

TIME was, when Home was East, and Adventure lay West. Civilization had a Frontier in those days, sometimes not far behind the great centres of population. The railroad has changed all that. Whether heading towards the Atlantic or the Pacific, today's trains are always carrying the Outward Pilgrim as well as the Homeward Bound.

The Canadian Pacific has fostered travel, not only for business, but for pleasure and education. Its elaborate passenger service has often included special trains for those who desire to know more about their own country.

Personal contacts and first-hand information promote that wide sympathy and appreciation, that breadth of thought, which must underlie national harmony. Travel aids too and a better understanding between the people of our widely separated areas.

What empathy it was that built spacious hotels in the just-reclaimed wilderness, and what energy it was that promptly filled them!

Moreover, the Canadian Pacific, by thus providing comfortable transportation and attractive resting places, and by acquainting the world with the wonders of the Dominion, has induced thousands annually to visit this country, carrying back to their own land, a personal knowledge of Canada; investors and settlers have been created; and, thus, a deeper sympathy has been established between Canada and other nations.

And the Canadian Pacific has stimulated Canadians to travel in foreign lands, and has provided Canadian ships to convey them to the port of the world, and to carry the Canadian flag over the seas.

BELLE THEATRE

"Tears are useless in playing upon the emotions of an audience when used indiscriminately."

This statement rather upsets the old fashioned idea that an actress must cry her eyes out to strike a responsive chord in her audience, but when it comes from such an actress as Eugenie Besserer, trained for years in stage and screencraft, it bears a certain weight.

Miss Besserer, remembered for her work in "Scarlet Days," "The Rendezvous," "The Circle" and dozens of other pictures, has the greatest role of her career in "The Fire Brigade," the super-production coming to the Belle Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Matinee and Night. The, a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, directed by William Nigh.

The part of "Mrs. O'Neill" in this picture is said to be the most emotional role she has ever portrayed, yet she resorts to tears but once.

"Resorting to the psychology of emotion, one soon discovers the cause of tears," said Miss Besserer in discussing her part. "As everyone knows, one always feels worst just before she begins to cry. In fact, one seldom cries when in a great crisis. It is when the situation is decided one way or another that the tears come, either for happiness or as a sedative to pain. I have seen many mothers go through the death of a child dry-eyed; but after the funeral release their emotion in a veritable torrent of tears.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day; also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and you have spells of biliousness. To neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's poisonous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

ANOTHER LOSS FOR N. Y. GIANTS

Jakie May Twirls Masterful Ball and Reds Win

Pittsburgh, June 8.—Some day before the passing season is completely past the Giants are going to win a ball game from the pounding Pirates of Pittsburgh. They can practically count on it. But yesterday wasn't the day. The boys from Broadway dropped their fifth game in five starts against Donie Bush's backwhackers, 8 to 6, and incidentally slipped another notch in the National League standing.

There may be some strategy in their descent to fourth place. Perhaps they're getting behind a few of these western teams in order to see what makes them go. But there was very little, if any, strategy in this particular pastime. On more than one occasion there had a chance to take the lead, but all they could do was come close most of the time, though they did tie the score once.

The Boston Braves landed on three Cardinal pitchers at St. Louis for 15 hits, including several for extra-bases, and won, 12 to 5. Jimmy Ring was taken out after six runs had been scored in the fifth. High got two home runs.

Bursting five hits in the eighth inning doubled the Cubs' score three runs, and overhaul the Robins to tie the first of a series at Chicago by 7 to 6. Brooklyn batted Root out of the box in the fifth when five hits counted the plate. The Robins were hard to score in the ninth and had the bases filled with one out when Hack ended the struggle by hitting into a double play.

Jakie May outpitched Lefty Prnett today and the Reds won the opening game of their home series with Philadelphia 5 to 1. Both pitchers got away to a bad start, but after the first settled down to steady work. May let the bases get full in the first inning and Thompson scored Philadelphia's only run while May was throwing Wilson out at first. Three singles off Pruett in the opening frame also gave the Reds a run. May held the visitors to six hits.

WHEN THE EYES ARE YOUNG

—they are able to overcome considerable errors of vision. For that reason the errors are not known to exist. But when middle life comes it is different. The muscles of the eyes are no longer equal to the strain, and relief must be secured in glasses. Every person who should be a wearer of glasses but who is NOT would be wise to act promptly. Glad to help you.

KEYS TRIUMPH OVER TORONTO

Cellar-Champions Tack See and Consecutive Loss On Leafs

Reading, June 8.—Virgil Davis' single, scoring Harry Wilkie, who had led off with a double, gave the Keys an 8 to 7 1-2 inning victory over Toronto a Reading yesterday afternoon. Reading used six and Toronto three pitchers in the contest. Freddy Carls finished stopping the Leafs. Dave Barbee hit his third home run on successive days in the first inning. He drove home two runs ahead of him.

Herb Thomhalen bested the team re sentative his home town in the first National League game yesterday and Thomhalen took the lead in the series at Jersey City. Today's score was 6 to 1. Jersey's scored all her runs in the first frame, but Rochester kept peckling away at Parks and Buckales to win the game.

Sensational pitching by Al. Mamaux and Jack Bentley gave the Newark Club two victories over the Syracuse Stars. The scores were 3 to 2 and 2 to 1. The two wins placed the Newark Club in fifth place. Wes. Kingdon, Newark shortstop, won the first game, with a home run and two-bagger, in the second Bentley pitched invincible ball. Yer the first frame, when the Stars scored their only run. . Cliff Lee's two-bagger and his fine fielding featured the second tilt.

YANKS CONTINUE ONWARD MARCH

Detroit Rallies In 9th But Red Sox Maintain Scant Lead

New York, June 8.—The irresistible Yankees met the immovable White Sox yesterday and we are happy to report that much light has been shed on that astonishing scientific question. The immovable will move. It moved back several kilometres to a previously charted position, leaving the irresistible in clear possession of the field and a 4-1 victory.

To his career Mr. Alphonse Thomas leading pitcher of this American League, learned that Herman Ruth and Lil Louis Gehrig do not lug their hats to the plate merely in order to conform to the rules. Mr. Thomas has been meeting some of the lesser batsmen of the league lately and registering great success and he came to the stadium yesterday with a record of only two lost and ten won, including five in a row.

The Athletics defeated St. Louis at Philadelphia, 11 to 9, although the former gathered 18 hits to Philadelphia's 14. St. Louis knocked Walberg out of the box in the third inning, making five runs with six hits. The Athletics pounded Gaston for four runs in their half of the third. Wingard relieved Gaston in this inning and as the latter walked towards his bench he leaped into the stands and punched a spectator who had been "riding" him. Police and umpires dragged the fighter out of the stands and escorted him from the field.

Detroit made a ninth-inning bid for victory at Boston, scoring four runs, but failed to overcome Boston's earlier advantage, and the Red Sox won, 6 to 5.

The big stick of Oehringer paved the way for the Tigers' rally when the Detroit infielder drove out a home run with two men on base. Wilson held the visitors to two hits until the ninth, when the opposing batters found him and he was relieved by Welzer.

Timely hitting gave the Senators a 10-8 victory over the Indians at Washington. In the second inning singles by Speaker, Ruel, Bluege and Reeves, a base on balls and a homer by Thurston added up to six tallies. A four-run rally followed in the fifth. Cleveland looked dangerous in the ninth when a last-minute rally produced four runs. Three of them were due to Hodapp's home run.

TENNIS CHAMPION NOW GOLF CHAMP.

Paris, June 8.—Seventeen years after winning the tennis championship of France, Andre H. Gobert has become the closed golf champion. At the age of 37, he turned back Andre Vagliano, ranking number one golfer among the French amateurs, to win his first title in his new sport. Only a few years ago, Gobert was just a duffer with a tennis past and no great promise of a golf future.

Although but three years on the sprightly side of forty, Gobert may go to greater things in golf. His gait and spirit are still youthful, and his tal figure is still slender.

Gobert won his first tennis championship in 1910, when he was twenty. Two years later he beat the brilliant Australian Anthony Wilding, for the British Covered Courts Championship. At Wimbledon he was a finalist. Then came the war, and he became an observer in the aviation corps. The war over Gobert went back to tennis, won the championship in 1920 and the doubles title in 1921.

Since then the great new school of French youngsters have ruled the court in tennis. Gobert has gone in for golf. In 1925 he reached the finals, but Vaghano beat him. The other day at La Boulie he avenged that defeat and became champion for the first time.

TRIMMED LAWYERS

New York, June 8.—It's impossible! In spite of all that's said about brilliant lawyers, shyster lawyers, and law guys who know every quirk of crookedness, there is one layman who doesn't know the difference between a tort and a felony, yet made his living by tricking lawyers. J. Annini, with half a dozen aliases, posed as a destitute veteran with a claim for $4,000 back pay. He'd give the case to an attorney and then "borrow" on the money he was supposed to receive. But they hauled him into court the other day and confronted him with several complaints. "Do you want a lawyer?" he was asked. "Who could I hire?" asked Annini despondently. "I've trimmed them all."

The Irony of Love

By Charles Garvice

"What for?" demanded Joe, with a troubled frown. "You say you haven't lost your money—what is there to work for?"

"Forgetfulness," said Rafe, rather to himself than to Joe. "I'm going to join the boys again. There's dad's chance. I'll work that. Oh, it's no use, Joe"—as the old man opened his lips, to remonstrate—"I'm going to Jumping Jane after all, and it's the best place for me."

Joe said no more and Rafe went down to the camp the next day. There was a momentary stir-up in the saloon as he entered, and every eye was turned on the tall, thin figure and grave face, with the hollows and lines which had not yet left it; then, with an affectation of carelessness, Bill jerking his head toward Rafe, said:

"What ho, Rafe! Sit down and watch me beat Phil Yates, here. He's got all the cards that I've got all the play. How's at Lyre?"

Unceremoniously he swept a man off a chair and so created a diversion to cover Rafe's entrance.

"I suppose you've heard the latest," he continued. "We're going to have a church. That day pilot you was so taken with, before you left, has been over and on, and the last time he came, he said that what we wanted was a church and a devil, dodger in regular attendance. I suggested Phil, as being more needful, and we made the matter; but as we couldn't agree to a conclusion, he offered to fight me, for it; fair or gospel shop."

"He was joking," said Rafe, with the nearest approach to a smile that had been seen on his face since his return.

"Well, he may have been," drawled P.-S. "but I wasn't taking any chances. A man who can walk twenty-four miles through the snow hills to see a sick kid, and then go through a full service afterward, isn't a man to fool about with. But, my! fancy Jumping Jane with a church!"

"And fancy Bill planking down a thousand dollars as a contribution," said Parchment Joe quietly.

At fear Lumber greeted Bill's blushes and confusion, and muttering: "I told the fingers not to let on about it; that's the worst of these big gifts; they're always looking for a good man to sample," he drew a folded paper from his shirt pocket and flung it on the table.

"Well, I may as well make a clean breast of it. In a weak moment the second gentleman got me to promise that I'd hand the brief round, and here it is. A church is a high-class luxury, and if you're all so darned proud, you've got to pay for it. Here, Rafe, put your name down; you've always encouraging the parson, you know. As for me, I don't go much on religion, but, if I've to invest in a sky pilot, give me a muscular one like this chap of ours."

Rafe took the paper and mechanically put down the same amount as Bill, and was beginning to write Barnard's, the name which had now become familiar to him, but he checked the pen and wrote "Rafe" instead; and, as he did so, it seemed to him as if he were making a formal surrender of his rank and position and stepping back into his earlier one, that of an ordinary miner.

The next morning he was at work and was surprised to find how weak he was. The tools appeared to be twice as heavy as they had been in the old time. After a very little while his back ached and the sweat poured off him, but he stuck to it, and he dragged himself home at night to sleep soundly for the first time since his illness.

A week or two afterward the minister paid one of his flying visits to the camp, and found Rafe at his claim. From their first meeting, the two men had regarded each other with mutual respect and liking, and the sturdy young minister ruffled a chair as he took hands and noted the change in the man whose strength and courage he had always so greatly admired.

"I've come to thank you for your generous contribution," he said, "and to tell you how glad I am that you have recovered from your illness. And you may, I have a word with you—you won't think me presumptuous and intrusive?—it is all well with you, Rafe? But what about yourself? Is it well for you to be here? Do you hear news from the world you gave left? There's something on your mind, Rafe—let me help you, if I can."

Rafe shook his head; the wise man after calling it to his and at once changed the subject to that of the new church.

The days slipped into weeks, the weeks into months. Rafe worked on with great persistency; he took his share in the camp's play also. To the casual observer he differed from the Rafe of old, but Parchment Joe, who watched him covertly, saw that he was weary and unhappy, but not ever by the cheek of Rafe's friend, made bold to penetrate the reserve in which Rafe had drawn himself. Parchment Joe could only wait and hope, either that Rafe would forget whatever it was that had happened, or were there," or find some way out of his secret trouble.

Notwithstanding his reserve, Rafe's popularity remained undiminished; he was still the uncrowned king of Jumping June, the man to whom the women and children turned when they were in trouble or wanted help. It was the children who brought most comfort to Rafe, though now and again, when he was reminded of Eva the comfort was alloyed by pain.

The winter had come and gone, the spring had passed, the summer heat had nearly burned itself out and one day in September Rafe realized that twelve months had gone since he left England and Maude. He had received numerous letters from St. Ives and Mr. Cuxton, letters of business, into which St. Ives put little scraps of news, and always wound up with: "Maude and I are quite fit." St. Ives had long ceased to ask Rafe to return to England, and sometimes Rafe wondered why their requests, which at first had been almost commands had stopped. Once or twice, as he brooded over the question, his heart had grown heavy with the thought that perhaps Maude was going to marry Sunborne.

Hollywood, Calif., June 9.—Miss Doris Dore, 21-year-old actress was branded with the letter "K" on her forehead, chin, breast, arms and hands with a razor blade wielded by an unidentified man who forced an entry into her apartment early today.

The man, about thirty years of age, believed by the police either to be a degenerate or motivated by revenge, entered Miss Dore's apartment when she opened the door in response to his knock about two o'clock this morning. She told the police that the razor wielder held her powerless while he slashed the letter "K" on her seven places. Hollywood police who questioned the young actress said she had been followed to Denver from New York City several months ago and that when she left Colorado City she was trailed here. She hinted also of some "trouble" in New York City several months ago but did not disclose its nature.

FRANKFORD HOLDS CARNIVAL FOR RETURNING SONS AND DAUGHTERS

Baseball, Parades, Horse Racing, Hot Dogs and Dancing

Frankford threw open its doors to the four winds, closed every business place in the town and entered whole heartedly into the carnival spirit which has prevailed for the past week anticipating and enjoying the Old Boys Reunion.

Naturally yesterday, the middle of the celebration was the biggest day of the reunion and after the excitement of the Calithumpian parade had subsided every one up to fever point of excitement and the cheers for the winning float, that of "Confederation" with Mrs. Ross Turvey as Queen, had made every corner of the town re-echo, the entire population grabbed a bite of lunch and trekked to the Fair Grounds where the keenest midway which has visited the town in years was in progress.

Motor cars which reached for blocks dovetail their human burdens, corps who made assemblarity for the last dog omths and with faces liberally bemeared with mustard, mothers, grandmothers, children, old boys and young boys promised through the ingression of hit the mirrer, cances of chance and the countless other attractions a carnival usually offers. The Frankford band perched high aloft on the band stand furnished music to be and calcey and to the delight of the throng as they watched the exciting horse races and sports generally.

BRITISH TO GO AFTER THE NON STOP FLIGHT RECORD

London, June 9.—Another British effort to establish a non-stop aeroplane record, says the Daily Mail, probably will be made next week. The plane to be used as described by that paper, will carry enough gasoline for about 4,500 miles. The flight will be made to Asia and it is hoped not only to make greater distance than that covered by Chamberlin and Levine in their New York-Germany flight, but, if the wind is helpful, to fly nearly five thousand miles.

CAPTURE SPY?

Claim To Have Confession From English Air Force Captain

Moscow, June 9.—Soviet indignation at the assassination of the Soviet Minister in Warsaw on Wednesday last has turned against Great Britain almost to the exclusion of Poland. The Soviet Government has issued a communique alleging British complicity in terrorists' plots and outrages in Russia while the entire press today, following the tone of the Government's declaration ascribing Russia's counter revolutionary difficulties in the past few years to British leadership, directed verbal batteries against Britain.

The Government communique makes reference to an English spy, described as Sydney George Riley, Captain of the Royal Air Force who is declared to have confessed to having been sent on a terrorist mission to Russia and that Winston Churchill Chancellor of the Exchequer, personally had given him his instructions.

KEEP STREET CLEAR

Chief of Police Requests the Help of Motor Drivers In Avoiding Accidents

To-morrow morning when the circus parade comes down Front Street the police would like the co-operation of the citizens and visiting motorists in guarding the safety of the general public.

Chief Kidd requests that as far as at all possible cars be kept off the route of the parade for a couple of hours in the morning. If motor drivers generally will help in this way there will be less possibility of accidents to small children and everyone will get a much better view of the great annual spectacle.

It is a simple thing that the police are asking and the assistance required should be freely granted.

NON-STOP FLIGHT AROUND WORLD

Chamberlin Thinks It Possible But Not Probable Yet

Berlin, June 9.—Clarence Chamberlin, pilot of the Trans-Atlantic monoplane Columbia, told newspaper correspondents today what he would have done had his engine failed or had he for any other reason, been forced to descend on the ocean, "in the first place" he said, "we had the landing gear so adjusted that we could have dropped it quickly. Had we done this, we would have turned turtle the minute we struck water. "Secondly, we planned to let out all our fuel through a valve at the bottom of the tank and then close the valve again. The tank, filled with air, would then have kept us afloat indefinitely, provided the storm was not too bad and the waves too high." Chamberlin does not think that a non stop flight around the world is out of the realm of possibility, but that it is a long way off.

Many Unique Attractions

There were all kinds of unique attractions, arranged by Mrs. Radnus Shaffer Matron of the Chapter, and Mrs. W. C. Mikel, which proved a delight to both young and old and which formed a midway during the earlier part of the afternoon before a dainty down pour forced the lace assembly to take shelter in the spacious house where every facility was provided for their entertainment. Mrs. Clifford Clarke cleverly disguised as Mrs. Wazo of the Cabbage Patch looked after a wonder ful cabbage patch in which every one could obtain a pretty gift from any of the assistants, Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. K. Walsh, Miss Grace Haines, Miss Nellie Alford and Mrs. Fleming. Other attractions arranged were a progressive tea tent of great men acrobats and Bluebeards Wives. During the evening four wee gypsies foretold wonderful futures for scores of patrons and a most lucrative time was spent until the late hours.

HAIG SAYS BRITAIN WOULD HAVE WON THE WAR ALONE

London, June 9.—The belief that the British armies would eventually have gained the victory in the World War even if the United States had not interfered, is held by Field Marshall Earl Haig, Commander in chief of the British Expeditionary Forces in France and Flanders from 1915 to 1919. Addressing the British Empire Service League last night he strongly protested against what he described as a pessimistic tendency to belittle the part played by Great Britain in winning the war. He referred gratefully to the share of the allies but contended that although without United States' intervention, result might have been delay it would have been the same.

WILD CHASE DOWN KINGSTON ROAD IN THE NIGHT AFTER STOLEN CAR

Officer Evans and Stanley Hagerman Badly Hurt In Smash

Crowded Off Highway When Police Attempted To Stop Runaways

Chasing some men in an alleged stolen car about 3.30 this morning, Mr. Stanley Hagerman and Police Officer William Evans were injured severely when Mr. Hagerman's car was forced into the ditch by the automobile they were chasing about five miles east on the Kingston Highway. The automobile shot past Officer Evans who was standing at the corner of Bridge and Front streets, at an estimated speed of 45 miles an hour. At the same time a local citizen returning from Prespellie reported that the occupants of a suspicious looking car bearing no license plates had asked them the way to Ottawa. The informant claimed that there were four tough-looking men in the car.

Commandeering the automobile of Mr. Stanley Hagerman, Officer Evans gave chase, followed by a reporter from the Intelligencer in another car, about three miles out the highway they came across the alleged stolen car, stopped by the side of the road, with the occupants talking to an old man beside the car. Officer Evans jumped out of his automobile and started to approach the car, a big coupe, believed to have been of Oakland make. Suddenly without warning the blue car shot forward east along the highway, nearly running Officer Evans down. The automobile driven by the Intelligencer reporter immediately took chase slowly gaining on the coupe when Officer Evans man's car passed, going at a terrific rate. Drawing up behind the other automobile, Officer Evans pulled his gun out of its holster and shot at the front of the swiftly fleeing car, doing no damage. The small coupe at this juncture started running from side to side on the highway, evidently trying to stop the Hagerman car from drawing alongside and forcing it to stop. Suddenly Hagerman, putting on a burst of speed slowly came up beside the coupe and, it was here that the pursued car quickly swerved, sending the Hagerman car into the ditch and crashing over on its side.

Stopping only for a second to tell the officer that he would follow, the

TODAY'S THOUGHT

To know thyself—Is others self discern;
Would'st then know others? read thyself and learn!

SCHILLER.

WORTH WHILE

When Mr. H. H. Stevens launched his customs charges in Parliament a member of the King Government characterized them as political muck-raking and said that the Parliamentary inquiry was a useless expense. Yesterday, however, the O'Keefe Beverage, Ltd., of Toronto, agreed to hand over to the Government $250,000 in sales tax and gallonage which, if the customs probe had not been launched, would not have been paid.

And that isn't all. Because of what was revealed by the customs investigation the whole Department of National Revenue has been reorganized and rejuvenated, and it is certain that millions of dollars are now coming into the national treasury that were previously lost. It is, in fact, a new customs and a new revenue department that are now functioning; and the credit for it must go primarily to those who, despite abuse and vilification, had the courage to stand up in Parliament and make the Government face the facts.

GREAT INDUSTRIES

It is interesting to study a list of Canada's forty leading industries, issued by the Bureau of Statistics, and based on production in 1925. They show some curious changes in the process of our industrial development. Slaughtering and meat packing, which was, until comparatively recent years, the chief of all our industries, was down in fourth place in 1924, but third by an impressive margin in 1925. Pulp and paper production which less than ten years ago took insignificant rank, forged ahead of flour and grist mills, and headed the 1925 list. Sawmills, while only fourth in the value of production, lead all Canadian industries in the number of employes. The first six industries of the Dominion, ranking by value of products in 1925, were as follows:

	Capital Invested	Value of Products
Pulp and paper	$460,397,772	$152,902,937
Flour and grist mills ..	60,104,258	187,944,731
Slaughtering meat packing	54,316,043	162,816,810
Sawmills ..	204,134,003	134,412,847
Butter and cheese ..	37,292,100	119,833,360
Automobiles	74,678,651	110,833,280

It is worth noting that of these six leading industries that two are of the forest, paper and sawmills, and that only one is concerned with metals. In the United States, on the other hand three of the six chief industries have to do with metals—automobile, iron and steel and foundry production. The six leading United States industries in 1923 (the latest figures available were:

	Place on List	Value of Products in U.S.
Automobiles ..	6	$1,482,720,000
Iron and steel ..	26	3,154,223,000
Slaughtering, packing ..	3	2,585,804,000
Foundry, machine-shop ..	11	2,585,804,000
Printing, publishing ..	13	2,021,356,000
Cotton goods ..	9	1,901,126,000

In the United States the pulp and paper industry ranks nineteenth; in Canada it ranks first. Flour and grist mills rank second in Canada, fourteenth in the United States. Sawmills stand fourth in Canada, eighth in the States. Dairying ranks fifth in Canada; eighteenth in the States.

It is interesting and gratifying to find that the flour, meat and dairy production still gives Canadian agriculture three out of the first six places in industry. Only one of these industries can boast a similar rank in the United States.

CHILD DELINQUENCY

The problem of child delinquency, which is generally agreed to be a problem more of education and guidance than of punishment, was presented in a serious form at Guelph, Ontario, this week, when seven ringleaders of a band of boy burglars, ranging in age from ten to fifteen years, were arraigned before the local magistrate charged with breaking into a number of stores in that city. If an infant of ten was a "ringleader," what were the ages of those who were criminally led? The nature of the offence obviously called for some exemplary discipline, and in the circumstances the magistrate's refusal to spare the rod was perhaps best calculated to prevent further "spoiling" of the errant child; if it is followed up with proper guidance to reform, for, manifestly, children of such tender years need protection and training. Maladjusted childhood remains one of the chief recruiting grounds for crime. The Toronto chief of police, in a public address on juvenile delinquency, recently laid at the door of the home the main blame for crime amongst children. Many modern homes today, he declared, are merely parking places between shows and dances. He advocated the curfew bell as one means of keeping boys and girls off the streets, and the Guelph magistrate has put into practice Mr. Dickson's advice that the administration of a spanking for offences committed is likely to be more effective than ordering confinement. Certainly, young delinquents should be saved from becoming acquainted with prison life and its contaminating influences.

Whilst there is evidence that a break down of discipline in the home has led to a growth of delinquency on the streets, there are those who would attribute the evils children commit to the moving pictures. "Testimony was given on Monday before the Royal Commission sitting in Montreal that almost all the offenders who appear in the Juvenile Delinquents' Court are habitues of the cinema. "As a result of watching lurid tales of robbery and crime," said the judge of the Juvenile Court, "small boys went out and emulated doings of their favorite movie villain." Fortunately, the moving pictures do not all depict lurid tales of robbery and crime. If the picture-houses are closed to children, there are other influences and associations which corrupt the young, and though the striking word-picture drawn by Toronto's chief of police of the home as "a parking place between shows and dances" may be applicable in many instances, there are still in the majority—where improved standards of living operate against juvenile misdemeanor. Sensational reports to the contrary notwithstanding, statements have been published which indicate a decrease in the child delinquency rate in the United States during the last ten years, and there is reason to believe the trend holds good in Canada. Otherwise, admirable efforts made in dealing with this very important part of the social problem have been in vain. Conditions, where they are bad, are not discouraging, and outstanding instances only emphasize the necessity for the continuation of the care that is now directed to the reformation of children who have done wrong. No more finely humane work has been undertaken.

WOMAN'S WILL

That man's a fool who tries by art to skill
To steal the torrent of a woman's will:
For if she will, she will; you may depend on't—
And if she won't, she won't — and there's an end on't.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

A labor Journal says that if all the communists in China were piled together they wouldn't fill a dustpond. Perhaps not, but a lot of people are in favor of trying the experiment.—Punch

Those who speak about the independence of the farmer, says the Stratford Beacon-Herald, should take a little trip out where he works just now—or rather where he would work if he had a chance. The farmer is not independent. He is absolutely dependent upon the weather, which is the most uncertain element in the world.—Chatham News.

HOLLANDER IS CONTEMPLATING A LONG FLIGHT

Amsterdam, Holland, June 8.—With a plane fitted out to make a cosy air home, Van Lear Black, wealthy resident of Baltimore, is preparing for a 10,000 mile flight from Amsterdam to Batavia, capital of the Dutch East Indies, to investigate for himself the possibilities of the development of commercial air routes.

The trip has been accomplished previously only once, when Dr. Wolfe by the Dutch airman Van der Hoop, who took 25 flying days to accomplish it nearly three years ago. This did not include the 30 days that the aviator was tied up in Bulgaria because of engine trouble. The flight was then regarded as a great feat, but with the giant strides in aviation made since then, it is believed that Mr. Black can make it in the next week or two with he plans.

He plans to leave Amsterdam or Rome in June 16, stopping at the following thirteen intermediate points; Budapest; Constantinople; Aleppo, Syria Bagdad, Asiatic Turkey; Bender Abas Persia; Karachi, India; Delhi or Amballa; Allahabad, Calcutta; Rangoon, Burma; Bangkok, Siam; Sengcom Lower Siam; and Singapore, Straits Settlement.

Mr. Black proposes to return overland by plane starting on July 3. For the flight he has secured an airliner known as Pokker No. 7 of the Royal Dutch Air Service, whose chief pilot Scholte, will navigate the plane.

Mr. Black, who says that he has no intentions of making a first hand investigation of the possibilities of the development of commercial air route already has made a number of flights from London to various European capitals such as Rome, Belgrade, Leipsic and also Cairo.

The plane, which he will use, is specially adapted for long distance flying, being equipped with extra fuel tanks in the wings. The usual eight seats in the body have been replaced by five large ease reclining chairs with a small table, plenty of cushions and other fixtures to make life comfortable.

In the running race the results were Charles Plumpton 2.12, Blake Terry 1.21 and Gene White 2.33.

All races were filled with excitement for the hundreds of onlookers and some real thrills were included in the after noons fun.

The Ball Games.

Numbered amongst the several ball games was the Brighton-Frankford contest and after one of the most brilliant struggles which have yet been seen in the Northumberland County League, Frankford was finally vanquished in a score of 2-1. The girls ball ball games were filled with more than usual interest in as much as most of the players were parental. Mary Pickards and Gloria Simmons combined with being really excellent players.

After the sports were over and the race receipts for the afternoon had been estimated at $400.00 the majority of the hundreds took a couple of hours off before the big dance in the rink which with brilliant music furnished by Belleville talent proved another huge success and every one would be dancing yet had nearly feet not given out at about three this morning.

A Unique Incident

A unique incident was connected with the ambulance parade. Heading the weird procession of Indians, lovely Hiata, cereic cars, etc., rode a tall and stalwart negro dressed like Solomon in all his glory. Every one speculated as to his identity but not even his mother recognized him until she spied his Queen University ring turned wrong side out and Dr. Jack Simmons owned up that it was himself.

The celebration will continue until this evening when Frankford will bring down the curtain on one of the biggest three days she has ever known.

SHOT "MAD" DOG AND OWNER SUES TOWN FOR LOSS

Napanee Man Sore Because Police Shot His Pet Bull Dog

ALL A MISTAKE

Only Dazed From Blows Given To Stop a Street Fight

The dog question, which has raised such controversy in Kingston for several weeks past has taken on new form in the town of Napanee and a prominent dog owner, according to the story related to The Whig-Standard on Wednesday morning, is attempting to recover damages for the loss of his prize bull dog, which was shot by a policeman last week, following a dog fight.

The dog in question figured in a row on the street with another dog and the unfriendly relations resulted in a furious combat being waged by the two canines. The fierceness of the one slaughter and the accompanying commotion attracted considerable attention and a large crowd gathered to witness the fight and endeavor to tear the fighting animals apart.

The bull dog stood by the old tradition that characterizes its particular breed and hung on to his opponent with all the tenacity with which a bull dog is endowed. Coaxing, pleading, threats and minor slaps failed to induce the dogs to separate and none person conceived the idea of clubbing the dogs apart. Clubs were accordingly brought and the two dogs beaten. The bull dog was unable to stand the rain of blows directed at him and finally let go, the other dog immediately betting a hasty retreat.

But the force of the blows had knock ed the dog quite silly and in a daze it began a search for its master. Fearing thought the dog had gone mad and like the dog's opponent, beat a hasty retreat as well and in less time than it taker to tell, the particular street on which the battle had been staged, was deserted, people peering out from vantages of safety to see where the dog had gone. One man in particular became quite frightened and tore madly into a billiard parlor, seeking a safe retreat on one of the billiard tables. The dog went into the billiard hall where was induced to leave. Still search for his master, the dog was met by a little boy, who stopped to pat the dog, which took the proffered display of affection with the appreciation of kindness which a dog shows on such occasions.

But the dog's life was destined to be short-lived and the people, believing that the dog was mad, soon had the policeman on hand and he shot the dog, asserting that it was mad and unsafe to be at large.

According to the story, the dog was most certainly not mad and was just knocked silly from the beating he had received from the clubs of the bystanders at the fight. The news of the fate of his dog soon reached the owner and when the story had been told him, he at once set about to recover damages for the loss of his dog.

It is understood that the case is arousing considerable controversy in Napanee and the owner of the dog is determined that recompense shall be made him for his loss. The question is still being fought out but how the owner of the dog will fare in his action, remains to be seen.

WILD CHASE

Intelligencer reporter hushed his car into a high speed and gave chase.

The small coupe travelling at a speed of twenty miles an hour slowly outdistanced the reporter's automobile and when the latter took his car over a speed of sixty-five miles an hour, and about a mile farther on passed the coupe. He turned about and came back to the scene of the accident just as the police officer and Mr. Hagerman were climbing out of the wreckage of their smashed automobile. Mr. Hagerman was bleeding profusely from a cut about his face and hands and had a badly wrenched knee. Officer Evans was also cut severely and had suffered a blow on the head. Stopping a passing automobile, the reporter put Mr. Hagerman, who had fainted, into it and had the driver take the injured man to a doctor in Belleville. He then took Officer Evans back to Shannonville, about two miles down the road, and here the police officer telephoned into the local police station and made his report. Night Desk Sergeant Harman immediately telephoned to Kingston to endeavour to have the car stopped there.

Napanee Also

The Chief of Police at Napanee reported that he had seen a small blue coupe travelling through that town at a terrific rate of speed shortly after the ditching of the Hagerman car. He also notified Kingston.

Speaking to Mr. Hagerman this morning, the Intelligencer learned that he was suffering a badly hurt knee cap, and had to have several stitches taken in one of his fingers. Officer Evans, besides a bad shaking up suffered no serious injury.

Officer Evans returned to the scene this morning and made a thorough search of the vicinity and placed Stewart McLeod, 45, who claims Oshawa as his home, under arrest. McLeod, who was still very much under the influence of liquor stated that his other name was Lee and that him up between Oshawa and Toronto late last night. McLeod who is a tough-appearing individual bearing a week's growth of beard states that he is employed by the General Motors.

Appeared a Week

He appeared this morning to answer a charge of drunkenness and was remanded in jail for one week in order that the police may look up his past record. McLeod, according to his story says the men were dumping him out of the car when Hagerman's car drove in and upon the latter's approach they beat a hasty retreat.

When Officer Evans came along he pushed McLeod who was very drunk into the ditch near the place where he was picked up this morning.

The officer's badge was cut almost in two and it is due to that that his head saved him from being badly cut about the head. One of Hagerman's fingers on his left hand is lacerated. The car which took to the left side of the road, is damaged about the radiator and fenders. Hagerman may be lost to the C.N.R. baseball team for some weeks. He played yesterday in the game against Point Anne.

The description of the car coincides almost with that seen in Toronto yesterday afternoon. It was learned that the men stopped another motorist on the highway and inquired the way to Ottawa. They said they were race-horse men and evidently were headed for the Spring meeting at Connaught Park.

TODAY'S MARKET

New York, June 9.—Confused price movements again characterized today's stock market. Call money was again in plentiful supply today and the rate dropped to four per cent. after renewing at 4 1-4.

Rails showed surprising strength in the face of another decline in car loadings and the denial of reports that the New Haven railroad had sold or given an option on its New York, Ontario and western holdings. Atlantic coast line was bid up seven points, but an early gain of 4-2 points in Lehigh Valley was cancelled by the end of the third hour. New peaks in that group were registered by Reading, Rock Island, Norfolk and Southern, Texas and Pacific, Illinois Central and several others.

American Smelting, Hudson Motors, National Biscuit and Pennsylvania Boiler electrical supply changed hands in large volume at advancing prices. American Brake Shoe and Foundry, Union Tank Car, Remington Band, Erie Steam Shovel and Gas Steel preferred were among the score or so of highs in the industrial group.

Chicago, June 9.—Influenced by scarcity of offerings wheat swerved higher today to another early climax.

Indiana reports of Leaf Rust counted as bullish factor. Opening unchanged to 3-8 cent off wheat subsequently scored material gains. Corn showed weakness starting at 1-8 to 1-4 cent down and afterward, declining still more, despite transient upturn. Oats were easier. Provisions ended downward.

Chicago, June 9.—Opening—Wheat July 144 1-4, Sept. 142 5-8. Corn July 106 3-8, Sept. 103 1-4. Oats, July 49 Sept. 47 3-4.

DEATHS & FUNERALS

MRS. JANE HENDERSON

The death occurred on Sunday night, June 5th of Mrs. Jane Henderson at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Donaldson, Dundas Street, Trenton, following a short illness. The deceased was in her 87 year. Born in Quebec, a daughter of the late Squire Smith, formerly of England. Her early girlhood was passed at Valcartier, Que., where she received her first education being educated later in Quebec city. Many years after her marriage to the late Thomas Henderson, a well known railroad pioneer, the family moved near Kingston where they resided for many years. But after her husband's death 26 years ago, Mrs. Henderson resided with different members of her family but in her latter years lived with her daughter in Trenton.

The deceased alsbo of a reserved disposition, had many friends, she was a lovely and sympathic mother, never happier than when surrounded by her children or grandchildren. She deceased is survived by three sons and three daughters, viz: Mrs. H. of Deseronto; Thomas, Belleville; Herb. Kingston; Mrs. E. J. Cassells, Kingston; Mrs. J. A. Donaldson, Trenton; and Mrs. A. J. Potter, Kingston. Her eldest son, John, of Brockville died some years ago. Also one daughter, Mrs. Wm. Hannett, of Kingston.

The funeral cab casket was covered with flowers, wreaths, pillows and sprays and the lovely asters-a-la-mod at the head of the casket. A lovely heart of roses, lillies, and carnations came from her three great grand children, Billie, Hazel and Helen Hammett, of Belleville, also a wreath from the O. D. B. of Trenton.

The funeral took place Tuesday morning from the home of her son-in-law at the service being conducted by the Rev. Mr. McTear, Trenton. During the service Mr. Coblin sang in a sweet voice, "Nearer My God to Thee" accompanied by Miss McTear on the piano.

The pall bearers were her three sons, two sons-in-law, and one great grandson. Interments were received by motor to Cataraqui cemetery, Kingston, for which place the funeral was of a private nature there were many who stood around the grave with the relatives, to pay their last respects to a dear old lady who was esteemed respected by all.

Trenton papers please copy.

MRS. MICHAEL CONNELL

The funeral of the late Mrs. Michael Connell was held this morning from her late home, 101 South John Street, to St. Michael's Church where Rev. Father Killeen officiated at a requiem high mass in the presence of many relatives and friends. The interment was made in the family plot, St. James' Cemetery with Rev. Father Kinlin conducting the committal. The wealth of floral and spiritual offerings together with the many in attendance at the obsequies were silent testimony of the sorrow felt for the bereaved family.

The bearers were Messrs. P. Cole, Jr., Gilbert Bedell, C. Bawden, P. Gill and B. J. Black.

GILBERT S BEDELL

All that was mortal of the late Gilbert S. Bedell of Belleville was laid to rest in the family plot, Belleville Cemetery yesterday afternoon following an impressive service at Cannilton United Church which was conducted by Rev. F. Farnsworth minister of that church and Rev. Dr. W. J. Wilson, of this city. The standing of the deceased in the community was evidenced by the many in attendance at the church service and the long funeral cortege, also by the beautiful floral tributes.

The bearers were Messrs. A. Palmer, W. Jones, J. Bush, W. Reynolds, C. Bedell and H. Tweddy.

James S. Hill, residing at the corner of Victoria Ave and Chatham Street, died last evening at the Belleville General Hospital, following an illness of some duration, in his 43rd year.

The late Mr. Hill was born in Scotland but had been a resident of Belleville for the past sixteen years and was a member of John Street United Church.

Besides his widow, there are three sons, David, Jack and Thomas, also three daughters, Dorothy, Patricia and Florence all at home, three robbers, David and Robert, of Scotland and Thomas of Yonkers, N.Y., three sisters, Misses Elizabeth and Delia and Mrs. G. Ramsay also of Scotland.

CIRCUS EMPLOYEES TRAVEL IN BOND

Some idea of the tremendous responsibilities which rest on the shoulders of the management of a large circus such as that which will be in Belleville tomorrow may be gathered from the fact that the whole organization, including even the thousands of employes, are practically travelling "in bond" while in Canada.

The actual property of the organization is admitted into the country under a "blanket" manifest with the approval of the Customs Department, every article included on this manifest being checked at the port of entry and departure, a tremendous task in itself.

As regards the employers of the organization, these men and women are also admitted as temporary residents to Canada under almost similar arrangements with the Department of Immigration, the security officers of the circus being responsible for their return across the border on completion of the tour.

COLEMAN AIR-O-GAS STOVES

THE ONLY STOVE THAT

Burns 95% Air 5% GASOLINE

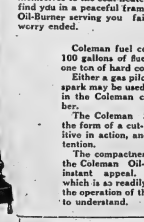

The Latest and Only Cooking Stove of its Kind, Means

Gas Service in Your Home

Right in your own home you can have the convenience and service of City Gas. A Coleman Cooker brings this service to you and you have it without the expense of gas pipes or a meter. A Coleman Cooker is a minature gas plant which makes its own gas from gasoline under pressure, vaporized and mixed with air in the correct proportions to give complete and proper combustion. There is no material difference in the gas made from gasoline and the gas made from coal.

Coleman Cookers are backed by more than twenty years of successful experience in designing, manufacturing and selling gasoline lighting and heating devices. They maintain the Coleman standards of quality in construction and service to the users. They are popularly priced and distributed through the retail trade.

The Smooth Operation and Perfect Combustion of the Coleman Oil Burner

Eliminates all smoke, odor and carbon, and gives more heat at less cost.

You'll appreciate an Oil-Burner after years of shovelling and carry out ashes, or tracking soot through the house. Many such unpleasant duties attach themselves to the coal-scuttle and furnace. Let this winter find you in a peaceful frame of mind,—your Coleman Oil-Burner serving you faithfully and your furnace worry ended.

Either a gas pilot light or electric spark may be used to ignite oil mist in the Coleman combustion chamber.

The Coleman Safety Control in the form of a cut-off switch is positive in action, and requires no attention.

The compactness and solidity of the Coleman Oil-Burner makes an instant appeal. This simplicity which is as readily apparent makes the operation of the oil-burner easy to understand.

INSTALLATIONS PROMPTLY MADE

Changes need not be made in your present furnace, as the Coleman Oil-Burner is adapted to apply in all furnace models.

K. SHACKLETON FAMOUS ARTIST

Calgary, June 1.—A little girl once dreamed in an Irish nursery of Indians picturesque redskins; she pictured in her mind warriors who guided their canoes down the white capped rapids of Canadian Rivers or speed across the western prairies after their buffalo quarry. Her first attempts at art were a crystallization of her dreams about Indians. When she found a pen cil in her hand she drew Indians.

That was the dream of Kathleen Shackleton, noted British artist, sister of the famous explorer, who is now a visitor to Calgary.

During sixteen years this year Miss Shackleton's dream of childhood will come true. Not only is she going to see Indians, talk to Indians, sketch Indians, but she is to be adopted by the Blackfoot tribe, representatives of the mighty redskin confederation that once wielded undisputed sway over this section of the prairies.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance, and there's no reason why your hair should not have the appearance of youth. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Wyeth's Sage Tea and Sulphur enchances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," for only 75 cents. While is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By nigrning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

CLAIMS SONGS OF ESKIMO ARE WORLD'S OLDEST

Montreal, Que., June 4 (C.P.).—In an interview here Miss Juliette Gaulier de la Verendrye, who sang Eskimo songs at the Canadian Handicraft and Folksong Festival in Quebec, said: "The songs of the Eskimo are the oldest songs in the world, and I think they are the most fascinating. They are the songs that the cave-men away back in the Stone Age sang to keep the evil spirits away, to heal the sick or waylay a storm." The Eskimos are an intensely musical race. They sang from morning till night, and had one of the largest collections of folksongs of any race. It was strange, however, that amongst these there was not one single love-song. All their songs had a religious and mystic flavor.

For the past three years Miss Gaulier has devoted her time to the study of the Eskimo language, the most difficult one spoken by any human being, in order to be able to learn the songs that were brought from the Arctic Circle by Diamond Penurse, of the National Museum, who accompanied Stefansson on his Arctic expedition in 1913-1916. Miss Gaulier has also made a study of Indian songs in the Mootks and Kootenay dialects.

A native of Canada, Miss Gaulier is a direct descendant of Pierre Gaulier de la Verendrye, the famous explorer, who was the first white man to see the Canadian Rockies. She won a travelling scholarship at McGill for violin and studied at Budapest for two years under Hubay, and later under Vincent Lombardi, director at Carona at Florence, returning to Canada for folk song study she found in the National Museum at Ottawa a vast, unexplored field of Esquimaux and Indian music.

Frocks Let Their Fabrics Trim Them

BETTINCK 1469

A well known dancer once said that half the success of his exhibition lay in his partner's frock. That is easy to understand, for one not only looks better but actually seems to dance better when one's frock alternately floats out gracefully and falls softly into position. This simple frock of Georgette, crepe satin or faco suits expressly well on the face dance and is of course smart in any other evening setting. Nervous lies in the square neck and in the pleated bow of self material with its long scarf ends. The free circular swing of the wrap-around skirt falls at the left gracefully into a pleated lower edge.

The Irony of Love By Charles Garvice

He was thinking of her, and scenes in the past were very vivid before him, as, on this forenoon morning he went down to the work which had now become again quite easy; for his bodily strength had come back to him, though he was still thin, and his face bore the marks of the conflict he had waked with Pate.

He was so absorbed in the toil that he was behind her, and he told himself that the face he saw dimly held but a chance or fancied likeness to the one that was always in his heart and mind. He straightened himself and, still holding the pick, shaded his eyes with his hand and peered at her. Under his gaze, she moved slightly and then spoke.

"Stranfyre!"

The name was breathed faintly, it was like a sigh on the wind, but it set him trembling; the pick dropped from his hands and he stood, motionless, still gazing at her, as if he could not believe his senses of sight and hearing. His stupor lasted for only a moment, then he leaped up and stood beside her his face white and working, his eyes glowing.

"Maude!"

She turned her face to him and held out her hands, and he gripped them in his hard, sooted ones and looked into her eyes as if he feared that she would slip from his grasp and disappear; a vision only.

"Oh, Stranfyre!" she breathed pantingly, and as if her legs had lost the power of supporting her, she sank into the heap, her hands still clasped in his.

"It's —you, Maude!" he said hoarsely, as if still doubtful of her reality.

"Yes, it is," she said, fighting for composure and trying to smile, though her eyes were wet with unshed tears. "But — but — how, how did you come here?" He had almost said "Why?" and perhaps she read the unspoken word in his eyes; for she blushed and drew her hands from him, as she replied:

"We are staying at the hotel there." In a bewildered fashion, he followed the direction of her eyes, and stared at the glistening white buildings, as if he had never seen it before; then his eyes came back to hers.

"Father and Eva," she said, answering mute inquiry. "Won't — won't you sit down, Stranfyre?"

He sank down at her feet, and still gazed at her confusedly.

"It was — Eva," she said, with a strange shyness and almost apologetic sily. "She did not get strong; we took her away, but — but it was of no use. She was fretting."

"Fretting!" he echoed, as if he were trying to follow the thread of the significance of her words, as if he were still too bewildered to understand them. "What was the fretting about?"

"About you," she faltered.

"About me?" His voice soft, he looked at her questioningly.

"Yes, the poor child thought that something she had done—that, in some way, she had been the cause of your blinding us. She tried to reason with her, to dispel the fancy, but I don't think, indeed, I am sure, we did not succeed. I know, because she would never speak of it. If you remember, during her illness, she was always anxious about something she thought she ought to conceal from you?"

He paused and hesitated, for she saw Rafe since, as if her words had brought back the past to him.

"Sir James said that we must take her out of England; that she must have a complet change. And, so—" She stopped, and lowered her head. "Stranfyre, I knew that if she could see you now with you, she would get well and strong again. And so I—father— we've brought her."

"And she's there!" said Rafe, looking at the hotel. "I must see her. I want to see her at once."

He rose and passed his hand over his face, but Lady Maude, again, his eyes fixed on the ground; after a while, he raised them again and looked at her.

"Everything," she replied, after a pause, her eyes downcast. "Oh, Stranfyre, why did you not write yourself to tell us?"

"I couldn't," he said simply, then he looked at her awfully. "Who was it wrote to you?"

"A friend of yours. He sent it through Mr. Gordon. He signed the letter strangely—"

"Parchment Joe!" said Rafe, under his breath.

"Yes," she murmured. "It was good of him!"

"He told you—everything, that I never saw her alive, after that day at the castle?"

"Yes, and how you had risked your life to save her," said Maude. "But you would do that, Rafe. I've—I've just been to see her grave. I have come straight on from there."

There was silence for a moment or two, then he uttered the commonplace words: "You're looking well, Maude. But no, now I see that you are thinner —Oh, Maude!" He covered his face with his hands and sat bent forward, his elbows on his knees.

"Why have you come?" he demanded hoarsely, dropping his hands from his face and turning almost fiercely to her. "I hadn't forgotten you, but—but—"

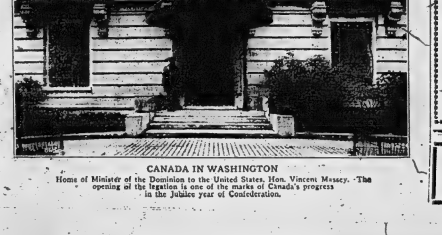

"You were trying to forget?" she said, with a world of tender reproach in her voice, the tears blinding her eyes.

"Yes," he said, "and trying to remember at the same time; to remember the difference between us, the harm I'd done you, the way I'd dragged you down to my level. Why have you come here, Maude? You could have sent Eva with your father—"

She turned her head away, so that he might not see the crimson that flooded her face and neck. Love may slay pride, but in such a woman as Maude St. Ives, pride dies hard. But suddenly the crimson faded and she turned to him, her face very pale here eyes glowing like stars, her lips quivering.

"Can you ask, Stranfyre?" she whispered. "Oh, can you ask?"

NEW ROAD SIGNS IN LONDON, ENG.

London, June 9.—The British Automobile Association has erected new road signs incorporating the principle that (direct) overtaking a red light shall keep to the right of it, and meeting a white light shall keep to its left. They claim that the new safety posts and lights will do away with the necessity of carrying powerful headlights. The posts are constructed of sheet metal, are about three feet, six inches high and are fitted with reflectors capable of catching the beams of medium-powered headlights at a distance of 200 yards.

The posts are marked on the "red" side with black and white horizontal stripes, which give in fog or half light the impression of red light warning; the other sides are plain white, corresponding with the white reflectors seen by drivers approaching from the opposite direction.

QUEBEC POLICE USE SCIENCE IN CRIME DETECTION

Montreal, Que., June 8.—(Canadian Press)—The science of "technical police and legal medicine," which forms so important a part of police administration in many European countries is only officially recognized to one province in Canada. Quebec has a modern equipped and efficiently staffed department devoted to this science situated in Montreal.

Here, the inevitable incidentals of crime, — blood stains, finger prints, traces of poison, — are analyzed and their significance interpreted. This unique laboratory is directed by Dr. Wilfred Derome, an European-trained expert and the author of several treatises on criminology.

"Every city should have a laboratory of legal medicine as a part of its police department," declared Dr. Derome recently. "The ordinary training of a police officer does not fit him to read aright the inadvertent traces of his handiwork which almost every criminal, however careful leaves behind him. Men are required who have made thorough study of chemistry and medicine and who are specialists in this young science.

"Again, each city police department should have its own medicolegal expert, in order that it may be independent of the provincial and federal forces in the eventuality of a crime which calls for scientific study.

"My position is entirely provincial and I am not obliged to co-operate with the Montreal police; yet, because Montreal has no department of technical police of its own, my services are frequently called upon in strictly municipal cases.

When it is remembered that Dr. Derome's testimony has been a vital factor in many such sensational trials as that of the gunmen who carried out the Banque de Hochelaga holdup,—a trial which sent four men to the gallows—the force of his words may be better appreciated. Dr. Derome is usually the first witness called at the coroner's inquest into any mysterious fatality.

Bullets and firearms have been a particular study with this scientist; his laboratory contains intricate pieces of apparatus for the exact measuring of bullets. It holds much else of interest to the lay visitor, such as instruments which measure the thickness of paper; instruments for the analysis of handwriting and ink; and, of course, the cameras with which photographs of great price to print of footprints and other spoor are taken. Beyond doubt, however, the most striking feature of Dr. Derome's domain is his museum, a grisly chamber, where he preserves mementoes of his more interesting cases. Along the walls are glass cabinets containing rows of firearms of every pattern and calibre, knives, hammers, razors,—even a rusty garden hoe. But his most treasured souvenir is an aged musket with which an Indian trapper was killed, far in the northern wilds, and which the medicolegal expert carried more than 100 miles on his shoulder and 200 miles by canoe to the city

WILL RAISE HULK OF 1812 BRIG

Toronto, June 8.—The hulk of the brig "Nancy," sunk near the mouth of the Nottawasaga River, will be raised by Government workers this summer, Hon. G. S. Henry, Minister of Public Works, announced today. When raised, the relic of the war of 1812 will be placed on a suitable site somewhere in Simcoe County.

N. Y. SERVANT IS MEMBER OF SORT OF PROFESSION

New York, N.Y., June 8.—New York society leaders expect to train their own household employees and elevate domestic service to the dignity of a profession. Scientific Housekeeping Bureau is a co-operative organization formed by a group of society matrons, every one of whom is listed in the Social Register, is the medium through which the effort will be made.

A test kitchen and training school will be maintained where all domestic workers will be required to qualify before they are declared eligible for service. Under the scheme each domestic employe will be "Miss" to her employers and members of the household. "We are convinced that the solution of the domestic problem lies in giving employees a recognized rank and standing with other workers," said Mrs. Richard Boardman, the president.

"The domestic worker of the future will be strictly a professional worker. She will be expected, as a result of the training she will receive, to approach as closely as possible to perfection in personal appearance and deportment and efficiency of service.

"On the other hand she will have recognized standing, work no more than nine hours a day, with a fixed scale of pay for overtime, and will live and take her meals out, unless other arrangements are made, in which event she will pay the mistress of the house an agreed upon sum for her board and lodging. In other words, she will live exactly like her sisters in offices, stores and elsewhere."

The mistress of the house will bid dull vare bepone inador as household burdens are concerned if scientific housekeeping takes over the assignment.

"Once a cook, waitress, or maid, or any entire staff of domestic employees has been engaged," Mrs. Boardman pointed out, "we will do the rest. Our supervisors will oversee the work of the staff, look after the proper uniforms, keep an eye on expenditures in the kitchen and adjust all differences that may arise between the mistress of the home and her employees. We will even pay the staff, if desired, and render a bill at the end of the month."

Scientific Housekeeping is prepared to look after the needs of bachelors. Mrs. Boardman said, taking a duplicate key to apartments and seeing that they are kept in order.

FRENCH JUSTICE ENJOYS GLITTER

Paris, June 8.—President Doumergue enjoyed all the fuss and trappings of state of his recent three day official visit to England-he has confided to his intimates.

Although the French Chief Magistrate is a man of humble origin and given to simple tastes, being rather irked by the pomp of the Elysee Palace, he nevertheless found the series of ceremonies he went through in Great Britain gracious and pleasant.

It was learned that the President had an entire wardrobe prepared, including an Oxford Doctors gown and a mortar-board and was really disappointed last summer when the fall of the Briand Cabinet coupled with the general strike in Great Britain forced him to postpone his scheduled visit at that time.

He personally supervised the selection of his shirts and various articles of clothing and when he arrived in England as the house guest of the King and Queen he had a wardrobe that even the fastidious late Lord Curzon might well have envied.

GOSSIP AROUSED BY HELEN WILLS CHANGING GAMES

London, June 9.—Gossip about Helen Wills turning from tennis to golf has aroused keen discussion in England as to the qualities of the two games. Experts agree that tennis players often become good golfers, but that good golfers rarely make their mark in the tennis world.

For example, it is pointed out that the late Doherty brothers, highly successful on the tennis courts, turned to golf and in a couple of years one of them played from two handicap, whereas there is no record of a great golfer starring at the net game. Cyril Tolley, former British amateur golf champion, the experts declare, essayed tennis several years ago, but without marked success and soon returned to his first love.

The general opinion among those who have discussed the two sports is that tennis demands youth, speed and agility, while supreme concentration and conservation of body power "and nerves, and perfect synchronization of mind and muscles are necessary in golf.

BOYS WHO BORROW FROM GIRL FRIENDS

By ELSIE MARLOWE

Estelle is Thoroughly Disgusted with Her Boy Friend. She thought he was such a perfect gentleman. She was so proud to be seen with him.

All the other girls envied her because he showered her such grand times and gave her such lovely things.

And now what do you suppose he has done?

TRIED TO BORROW MONEY FROM HER!

DEAR ELSIE:

For the last year I have been going with a young man who I thought was a perfect gentleman. We both work in the same office and he is the sweetest fellow there. At least, I thought he was until something happened recently. He was certainly wonderful to me last year. No fellow in the office spent as much on a girl as he did on me. He gave me a lovely wrist-watch for Christmas, and also imported a beaded bag for my birthday. He was an awfully clean fellow, too, and kind to everyone. I am very fond of him, and everyone said I'd was awfully lucky.

We were as good as engaged until something happened last Wednesday night. He asked me if he could see me that night, as he had something special to say to me. He was so serious that I was sure he was going to say something about our getting married. I was very excited.

Well, you can imagine how I felt, when instead of talking about getting married, he gave me a long hard-luck story and asked me if I could lend him twenty dollars.

He said his mother had had an operation and he had to hand over nearly everything he had to her, and he needed twenty to get by with. He knew I had some money in the bank, because I had told him I had, and he said he would pay the loan right back.

I asked him why he had come to me, and he said because we were such good friends, He seemed surprised that I had even asked him. So I said didn't he think it looked pretty funny for a fellow to ask a girl for a loan. Then he acted even more surprised, and said he had always thought I was a modern girl and believed in acting fifty-fifty. Then, to make matters worse, he reminded me that I had borrowed a little money from him a couple of times last year and hadn't paid it back, but he said he didn't mind.

Well, you can imagine how I felt. And I told him what I thought of a fellow who would try to borrow money from a girl. It made me pretty sick to think that I had been going with a fellow who wasn't any more of a gentleman than that. He got awfully mad, and acted as if I had insulted him! Can you beat that?

Of course, we aren't going with each other any more, and all the others girls are wondering what has happened, but I would rather die than to tell them because I feel so cheap. Don't you think it was awful?

Yes, it was certainly awful. And I don't wonder that you feel cheap. In fact, a plugged nickel is like a Kohinoor diamond in COMPARISON TO YOU!

What am I saying? Am I blaming YOU? I certainly am, dearie.

Just stop and size yourself up. Here you are, a modern young woman, enjoying all the modern opportunities. You are educated with men, you work with men, you receive the salaries of men, you demand and receive the liberties of men. And if anyone should try to deprive you of any of these advantages, you'd raise a civil war.

But as soon as somebody calls your bluff and expects you to shoulder some of the responsibilities of your new position, you yell your head off and act like an injured clinging vine!

You let this young man think you were a Regular Fellow. You borrowed money from him, as one man borrows from another, even though you were earning your own money. You accepted presents which your grandmother would never have dared to accept, and in every way indicated that the old conventions meant nothing to you. And then, when he took you at your word, and turned to you in a pinch so you had turned to him, you become effeminist.

Alpaca, mahatmay of our grandmothers, is back in favor, and Paris dressmakers use it for many tailored suits for summer, and Jean Patou shows a simple summer suit of fancy black alpaca with a slightly draped skirt and a conventionally tailored one-button jacket, while a white blouse embroidered in silver thread is introduced for it, and a light beige hat completes the simple costume.

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN

By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 37.

THE COMPROMISING GUEST

In spite of her dismay and disgust, Sybil was forced to accept the plan, lightly, but none the less definitely, mapped out by Ted.

She couldn't turn her own brother adrift to be nabbed by the police, much as he deserved it.

"It would teach him a lesson!" she thought wrathfully. "If he gets off a second time, he'll spend all his life getting into scrapes." But she quailed at the thought of the fifteen or twenty year sentence that Ted would receive, if he were caught.

So, for the sake of patient, long-suffering Mary Ross, Sybil agreed to do what she could to get her brother safely out of the country. Meanwhile he had to remain hidden in her apartment.

Hilda was trustworthy, and Sybil merely told her, when she returned to work the following morning and found an unexpected guest, that her brother was ill and staying with her for a while. The fictitious illness accounted for Ted's remaining indoors all day long.

Of the cook, Sybil was not so sure that she could trust her, but as she left the brass buttons of the law. So, under the fact of a locked kitchen door as an excuse, Sybil dismissed her and went out for her meals. Hilda, on these duties with Ted's tray, all was not averse to preparing a tray for the supposedly ailing guest, when she got her own meal, but Sybil was virtually thought about the situation didn't trouble Sybil in the least.

But what did trouble her was the problem of keeping Ted's presence hidden from his friends. There was Madge Patton, whose concert preparations were well under way, and who was forever wanting to drop in to consult her, more as a pretext for seeing her than anything else. There was Dick Sheldon, who had been accustomed to coming in for tea on his afternoons away from the field. There was also, Oliver Dearborn, who was paying her marked attention, they had dined and danced several times; he took her motoring in his high-powered car, and they had begun to ride in the Park.

Sybil realized that all these men must, sooner or later, think it strange that she suddenly met them elsewhere than in her own charming apartment. But she could not depend upon Ted; he rebelled at remaining in the room assigned him. Several times, when she returned home, she found a cigarette smoldering on an ash-tray in the drawing-room, newspapers scattered in unmistakable masculine fashion around the floor, and once, a discarded collar and tie on the grand piano.

She determined to get rid of Ted as soon as possible.

But obtaining a passport for him was a dangerous affair, she felt. However, she went through with it. Fortunately, Ted had not been using his own name, when he dipped his fingers into the firm's money. So it was not Theodore Ross for whom the police were searching. On the occasion when Ted had to appear to sign his name, and to have a photograph made for his passport, he wrote heavily mustified, leaning on Sybil's arm, pretending illness. When they had returned safely, Ted breathed a gusty sigh of relief.

"Well, it's all over but the shouting. Next Monday I'll be on the lazy days thumbing my nose at the cops!"

"Thank Heaven!" said Sybil testily. "If you don't want to get out of here, I'll have nervous prostration."

He chuckled.

"You're such a loyal, devoted little sister," he declared mockingly. "I wonder you can bear to see me go."

She left him abruptly and went to dress for dinner with Sheldon. They were going to the theatre later. When she came out of her room, wearing an evening wrap of black velvet with a collar of sable, Ted, lounging in the drawing-room, looked her over, one eyebrow quizzically raised.

"I hope you haven't spent all your money on frills. Remember, you're counting on a stake to see me through till yet work down in the Argentine."

"I haven't forgotten," she answered, with tightened lips. Her eyes were scornful.

"I hate him!" she thought savagely, as she made her way down to a waiting motor. "I hate all men—one man more—every day I live!"

But she found it hard to hate young Lieutenant Sheldon. He was so clean and boyish, so trusting, so confident that life was beautiful, and that every body was as decent as he, or she, appeared on the surface.

After the theatre, he drove her home in his own car which he used for business back and forth to town from Mineola.

"It's not late," he said, as they stopped in front of her apartment-building. "May I come up for a cigarette?" His eyes begged her wistfully. But Sybil, mindful of Ted—she could see a light in the drawing-room—said said hastily:

"Oh, I'm so sorry, Dick, but I'm fright fully tired to-night, really."

She saw the surprise in his glance. "But you look as fresh as a rose, and you've been scrubbing all evening."

She descended from the car and said gaily:

"Haven't you learned yet, Dick, that women are deceptive creatures?"

"Not you!" he answered stoutly, as, to her dismay, he followed her to the door.

"Good night!" she gave him her hand hastily.

"I'll see you in your apartment, at least," he declared stubbornly.

After all, just to the door was safe enough, she reflected. But, as they stopped from the elevator, she saw, to her horror, that the transom above her door was wide open. A faint blue curl of smoke drifted outward with the draft.

A glance told her that Dick Sheldon had noticed it. While she fumbled for a satisfactory explanation, reckless ly determined to blame Hilda, if there was the sound of a cough—an unmistakably masculine cough—just in side the door.

And as if that wasn't sufficient, Ted chose that moment to cross the hall to Sybil's boudoir. For a second, his shadow fell upon the transparent, but covered glass panel of her front door.

When Sybil stared in silence at Dick Sheldon, she saw that his face had gone very white. There was a new grimness about his jaw. He looked at her—and his glance was quite expressionless.

"Good night," she faltered, realizing that an explanation was totally impossible.

She didn't hold out her hand, but he grasped it anyway.

"I don't believe what—I've just seen Sybil," he said gently.

She stared at him mutely.

"Do you understand? I love you,—it was his first declaration—and therefore, I know you tell trust you. I don't believe even the evidence of my eyes."

Sybil's heart came nearer to softening than ever before in her life.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a man well past the age of indiscretion, and in all my past experience, through college life and otherwise, I have never met with such a problem as the one which now confronts me. During the last year I met and became intimately acquainted with two sisters twins in fact, and I am now quite sure that one of the two is the only woman that can ever enter my life. However, I do not know which one it is. Each appeals to a different side of my nature, and sometimes I think I love one, and then at other times I am quite positive I love the other.

They are not so much alike as one might suppose, and, although both are very comely, one seems much more attractive than the other, having that grace which makes everyone her admirer. The other, however, has virtues equally as admirable, being keenly interested in home life and possessing those qualities which are indispensable in a wife.

Tell me, please, how I can decide between them.

H. L. H.

H. R. H.: You certainly have a difficult problem before you my friend, and I think you can solve it only in time If each of these charming girls makes a strong appeal to you and you can't decide between them you must wait until one of them becomes so important in our life that the decision will be almost involuntary. Go on with their friendship, but don't rush things until you are sure.

Sir R. M. Hodgson, Charge d'Affaires to Moscow, left for home on June 2.

WHAT'S NEW
(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Tucks serve a double purpose in many a smart summer frock inasmuch as they are used both for trimming and to shape the gown to the contours of the body, but one particularly smart effect is obtained by a "pinched-in" effect around the hips which very much resembles the girdle effect of Egyptian inspiration, and at the same time serves to give fullness to the skirt and a blousel effect to the bodice.

Among the striking models seen at Longchamps was a sheer tucked coat dress of grey georgette trimmed with horizontal folds, while a two-piece tub silk frock a blouse of allover diagonal pin-tucks.

They Tell How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Stood Between Them and the Hospital

MRS. SUSAN DAYMAN

Colborne, Ontario.—"When I was first married I was very thin and weak. I suffered all the time and doctored and took medicine. Life became a burden, and doctors said an operation could help me, but my husband was opposed to that. I had seen Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine advertised, so I told my husband that I thought I would try it, that I might get some relief. I had not taken one bottle when I could feel it helping me. I took five bottles and had better health. Now I have three girls and a boy, and do all my work. I am now at the Change of Life and owe my good health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." —MRS. SUSAN DAYMAN, R. R. No. 5, Colborne, Ontario.

Another Bad Case Remedied

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I am writing to let you know what the Vegetable Compound has done for me. My first baby died at the age of four and one-half months, and it was a year and nine months later that I had my second child. When my first baby died I was in a very weak condition with pains, headaches and weakness. I went to the doctor and he said I would have to be operated on. I did not want to be operated upon, for I had been in hospitals. I spoke to my mother about the operation, and she said, 'You do not need it.' I was told the same thing when I was young, but I got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used the Sanative Wash. After taking the first bottle of Vegetable Compound I felt fine and when I was taking the sixth bottle I was on the road to recovery and my pains had disappeared and the weakness had ceased. Now I have three healthy boys and am very well done praising your medicine."—MRS. CAROLINE NAGY, 2717 Sears Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

FIERY, ITCHY SKIN SOOTHED WITH SULPHUR

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is refined, fully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur almost always breaks it right up.

NO FEMALES IN ITS CONFINES

Athens, Greece, June 9.—Mount Athos, or "The Holy Mountain" as it is called throughout the Levant, is pure an ecclesiastical republic under the new constitution granted by the Greek government giving the area autonomous powers. No female—human or animal—is allowed in the republic in which Greek and Slav monastries have existed for many centuries.

By an annex to the treaty of Sevres in 1920 the peninsula of Mount Athos became a monastic republic under Greek sovereignty. The new charter confirms the right of the monks to settle their own affairs, but appoints a Greek governor of the peninsula with the rank of Prefect, directed upon questions affecting the monasteries to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. It is to depend directly upon the Ecumenical Patriarch at Constantinople.

Their lands are declared inalienable, and all the property will be exempt from taxation. There will be a force of gendarmerie under the orders of the Governor. Every novice or monk who returns to any of the monasteries even to the famous Serbian monastery of Chilindar, will automatically become a Greek subject.

SUFFRAGISTS PAY TRIBUTE TO 1ST PLMTRY. LEADER

London, June 9.—Women suffragists recently paid tribute to John Stuart Mill, their first Parliamentary champion, on the 121st anniversary of the birth of the famous economist. A procession went to Temple Gardens and deposited a wreath on the Mill statue there.

Dame Millicent Fawcett, eighty-year -old suffrage leader, delivered an address in which she recalled Mill's words: "Fear not reproach of quietism or fanaticism, but after you well weigh what you undertake and are convinced of its justice, go forward even though you risk violent hostility from the very men through whose changed hearts your purpose will one day be accomplished."

Great crowd some sinoing the "Red Flag" and some "God Save the King," were at Victoria Station to see departure of Soviet officials.

New Treatment for Indigestion

This new treatment is after the nature of insulin, since it supplies to the stomach the active principle which brings about the digestion of the food, just as insulin carries on the work of the pancreas.

Again it is like insulin because it is taken from the digestive organ—the stomach—of animals and after suitable preparation administered to the human stomach.

Digestion is brought about in the stomach by means of digestive juices, which attack the food in the stomach and break it down into ingredients which can be absorbed by the blood.

For one reason or another, these digestive fluids become dried up and you suffer from indigestion. The active principles of the digestive fluids are known as enzymes. By introducing new enzymes to the digestive fluids of the stomach, you positively remove the cause of indigestion.

This is exactly what this new discovery, which is known as Renzyme, does. It supplies enzymes to the digestive fluids and therefore immediately restores their effectiveness in digesting food in the stomach.

Someone has said that the soul of man is in the pit of his stomach. One thing certain, one cannot accomplish much or enjoy life while suffering from indigestion.

For centuries scientists have sought relief from stomach troubles. All sorts of drug combinations have been tried without affording more than temporary relief.

Now the problem has been solved by the discovery of Renzyme. It is only after years of work in the laboratory and almost endless experiments that this product has been perfected in a form that will keep indefinitely when bottled.

The merit and effectiveness of Renzyme has been thoroughly established in hundreds of cases, and medical doctors who have watched its action in chronic indigestion are most enthusiastic in its praise.

It is nature's relief for indigestion. It is immediately effective and cannot fail because it transfers from one stomach to another the active principle which brings about digestion of the food.

NATIONALS GRAB OPENING GAME FROM PT. ANNE

Visiting Players Contribute Costly Errors In Intermediate Fixture

DELORO TOMORROW

Locals Show Better Class And Top Cement Boys

Better games have been witnessed on the local ball field than yesterday's tilt between the Point Anne Club and the Canadian Nationals when the Bay of Quinte Intermediate League was formerly opened in the city. The game can be summarized briefly as a hard hitting, loose fielding and heavy scoring affair with the Railroaders coming out best in the argument, on the long end of a 14-6 score. Approximately four hundred dyed-in-the-wool fans occupied the stands when Ken Colling officially announced the batteries and sent the boys on their way. It was no game to get enthused over except in one instance when the Point Anne club threatened seriously in the fifth inning sending over five runs to knot the score. After that it was a legal battle with the radishers having things pretty much their own way while piling up a big lead on the visitors. It was not nearly as interesting as the opening tilt between Point Anne and Deloro last week.

Belleville with their hitting strength were clearly superior to the Cementsters although several members of the latter team certainly spent a miserable day in the field and many of the runs chalked up by both teams were not of the earned variety. Glaring errors paved the way for at least seven runs.

Two boys who generally turn in a good game in their respective positions, "Sunny" Green and Alex Weir divided seven errors between them, the former leading the parade with four costly bobbles.

Frank Goyer was the only member of the suburbanites to show anything like real form and the burly catcher did his utmost to encourage his team-mates by whacking out three ringing hits in four times at bat. Probably the Point Anne team were up against superior pitching and again the new diamond may have had some effect on their poor display, but their is no doubt but what they can give a better account of themselves than they did yesterday.

Each team used two pitchers in the fray, "Hoot" Gibson starting on the mound for the homesters and Lawrence Goyer for Point Anne. Five innings were sufficient for the Belleville hurler, who was driven from the mound in the fifth following a piercing onslaught by the visitors. Gibson was exceeded by "Punch" Derry, veteran Kingston and Cobourg player who held the visitors scoreless for the balance of the piece.

"Olly" Goyer retired in the sixth to make room for Frank Bennett although neither was sent in as a pinch hitter. Bennett received an unmerited pelting in his first chucker when the Nationals got to him for four runs. However, he was much better form in the remaining two frames.

The New Faces

Several new faces were presented to the sporting public yesterday and all three by their performance showed that they will be valuable men to have around.

Lionel "Big Boy" Harper formerly of Toronto Athenaums was sent in at short-stop and he turned in a rattling good game. With little effort Harper scooped a couple of hot ones out of the dirt to complete a nice play at first in each case. He came through with two clean hits, one of them a beautiful double to deep centre field. He does not speak as though Harper is playing deep enough in his position. There were several flies which dropped back of short which would have been easy outs had he been playing a few feet deeper. But he knows the game and plugs the hole to a nicety.

Scott who made his initial bow to fandom had little to do in the line of fielding although he made one pretty running catch over the right field foul line. His hitting was a trifle low but watch him closely when he receives his batting eye.

"Punch" Derry stepped into the box and opened the revival of a few when he started to exhibit his assortment. Derry still has oceans of speed with a fast-breaking curve and should win plenty ok ball games before the season ends.

Cecil Post a graduate of the Ameliaites was at second and took good care of all and sundry sent in his direction.

The Batting Crown

"Stan" Hagerman, whose hitting average has been hovering around the .500 mark for the past two seasons bloomed forth with three hits and may be due for a nruuuut season. He was chosen as the star of the day yesterday and shared equal honors with Manager Mills each of them poling out the same number of hits.

Murney Green, swarthy centre field ace drew a hand when he dragged down Harry Mills' terrific drive with a lovely one-hand running catch.

The Point opened strong with "Sunny" Green opening proceedings by sending a nice double into right field which was followed by another double by Frank Goyer, the former opening the scoring.

Vern Weir walked and Alex Weir bounced Ross' infield roller. Harry sacrificed the pair and both counted on Cretney's error. In the second frame the Nationals grabbed another pair following Hagerman's sharp single. The latter was forced on Post's ground ball but an error by "Sunny" Green helped the worthy cause and Ross came though with a single and Post and later Gibson crossed the plate.

In the third frame "Peeney" Mills dropped a neat Texas Leaguer back of short stop and Harper doubled to right and scored on another error by Green.

The Point Anne team commenced a rally in the fifth, Cretney, "Jerry" Hickey and Lawrence Goyer hit safely in a row. Harper dropped Green's pop fly and then Harry Blakely smacked a pretty one to right field for a two bagger. Then "Soup" caused Olsen' exit by scoring two more runs with a clean single. The total amounted to five.

The Nationals in their half went into the lead Alex Weir mussed up Cretney's hit and Blakely took Scott's drive but threw badly to first. Harper singled and Hagerman and Post did likewise with the result that the scorers chalked up four more.

Point Anne were allowed only one hit after the fifth, a neat Texas Leaguer which "Soup" dropped back of second base.

In the sixth Bennett was wild and Hagerman came into a bad jam by hitting two batters and walking another and an error by Cretney and a safety by Hagerman accounted for another three tallies.

The Nationals play in Deloro tomorrow afternoon.

WHEN THE EYES ARE YOUNG

—they are able to overcome considerable errors of vision. For that reason the errors are not known to exist. But when middle life comes it is different. The muscles of the eyes are no longer equal to the strain, and relief must be secured in glasses. Every person who should be a wearer of glasses but who is NOT would be wise to act promptly. HORNSBY'S HIT WINS FOR GIANTS

Cincinnati Captures Fourth Straight By Defeating Phillies

Pittsburgh, June 9.—The only difference between what happened at Forbes Field yesterday and what had happened hundreds of times in fiction is that this is a true story.

In three previous appearances at the bat the mighty Hornsby hadn't made a hit off Vic Aldridge, the Pirate burgh pitcher, could he come through in the pinch? Was he really the great star he had been pictured? Some 15,000 fans leaned forward to learn the answer.

It all depended on our hero. Failure meant defeat. If he hit a homer the two runners would score ahead of him and the Giants would win. To make a long story short, he did, they did and the Giants did. Hornsby saluted the ball far over the left field fence, circled the bases behind Devormer and Lindstrom and came home run limp gave the Giants an 8-7 victory—their first of the season against the bounding Buccaneers.

Hack Wilson's home run in the seventh broke a tie between the clubs and gave Chicago a 3 to 2 verdict over Brooklyn at Chicago. Webb hit a homer, his ninth of the season, with one on in the first.

Sharp batting in the seventh and eighth innings at Cincinnati gave the Reds a 5 to 4 victory over Philadelphia. Both clubs made four straight hits. The game was scoreless until the seventh.

The Boston Braves pounded Rhem, Alexander and H. Bell for fourteen hits at St. Louis and defeated the Cardinals 11 to 8. Rhem was wild, allowing four bases on balls and forcing in one run in the second inning. Four Cardinal errors also helped the visitors The Cardinals had one big inning, the third, in which Bottomley and Schulte each got a home run with one on.

TORONTO EVENS READING SERIES

New York, June 9.—Toronto evened the series with Reading by taking the second game here, 12 to 8. Four Keystone pitchers worked against the Leafs, three being ineffective. George Quellich hit a homer, his third in four days, with one on base in the fourth inning. He also hit a triple, the ball falling by inches to clear the left field fence.

Great pitching by Chick Davies, who held Syracuse to four hits in seven innings, enabled the Sears to win the second game of a double-header at Newark, by a score of 1 to 0. Harry Mackin's single and Cliff Lee's double scored the only run of the game.

Erratic pitching by Joe Zubris and Cy Twombley, and switched fielding behind them gave Syracuse the first game by the score of 8 to 1.

The Orioles won both games of yesterday's double-header at Baltimore, with the Bisons, 10 to 3 and 8 to 4. Three runs in the first and six in the third innings put the locals far ahead of the visitors and clinched the first game. In the second game heavy hitting in the opening inning of both put the locals ahead. Hohman, Bissonnette and Porter hit for the circuit.

Sensational twirling by Dick Coffman gave the Sweeters an even break with the Kansas City Yankees' day afternoon. The locals took the first game, 1 to 0, but Rochester won the second with a late rally, 3 to 2.

Jersey City Yankees' pitchers turned in a double victory over the Indians at Washington. Lisenbee, rookie pitcher, was generous with hits, but tightened up in the pinches, and in addition aided in scoring the winning tally by singling with Reeves on first. Reeves scored later on Rice's single.

LAZZERI HERO OF YANKEE VICTORY

Clouts Three Home Runs To Defeat Sox Single-Handed

New York, June 9.—In a story book finished that made Dick Merrivell look like a pallid piker, the Yankees scored five runs in the ninth inning yesterday, tied up a game that had looked hopelessly lost and then beat the White Sox in the eleventh, 12 to 11.

The fine Italian hand of Signor Anthony Lazzeri was plainly to be seen in the gala proceedings. In fact, it would not be stretching the truth to say that he wrecked the White Sox Signor broke out into a ruby rash of home runs—one in the second inning, another in the eighth and a third in the ninth.

At Philadelphia, the Athletics won their third straight game and their second in a row from the St. Louis Browns by a score of 7 to 5. The Mackmen clinched the game by centering their attack on Stewart in the first four innings, pounding him for 13 hits and all their runs. Joe Boley led the attack with four singles. Jimmy Fox hit a home-run in the fourth inning with none on base.

Fothergill's home-run over the left field fence started the Detroit Tigers on a three-run rally in the sixth inning at Boston which gave them the game, five to three over the Red Sox.

Boston fielded raggedly while Detroit was Stoney brilliant support.

A ninth-inning rally gave the Senators a 2 to 1 victory over the Browns at St. Louis.

The letter was a reply to inquiries from the British mission as to whether the consul should obtain the names of any Russian firms willing to buy chemicals from British firms. The letter stated that the writer would endeavor to obtain the information asked. A facsimile of the letter, with the British consul's signature, appeared later on the front page of "Izvestia."

FARM HAND PAID SMALL PITTANCE

Magistrate Mikel Places Lad On Probation—Gets New Job

Two theft charges appeared before Magistrate Mikel this morning and in both cases the accused pleaded guilty. The first charge was that of a young girl about twenty years of age who had stolen money from her employer, to the amount of $1. On the charge of theft of this amount, and in consideration of certain things.

Crown Attorney Masters said Ceorge Freeman, a young Englishman who has only been over in this country about a year, took the sum some money that belonged to his employer, a farmer, that he was working for on the farm he is settling. The amount he absconded with was $62.40. He said that the farmer only paid him $4.00 a month wages. The temptation must have been pretty great. He was also charged on probation, and a local citizen has secured a position for him in the city. It will no doubt pay better than $4 a month.

"Long before the stars ceased glimmering and as dawns first shafts of light shot across a beautifully transparent sky, small boys and big ones had gathered in speculative knots about the siding at the north C.N.R. station hoping to stand closest to the first opened mysterious circus car. The train steamed into the city at 1.30 but as every one was asleep activity did not commence until 4.30 when some big husky Dixie Coons rubbed great sleep clouded eyes and sprang into routine service. Immediately while small boys that morning had scattered their heads aloft.

Everything was put through in most methodical fashion and the presence of some of the city police proved effective in preventing any accidents or inconveniences so all stood ready for the big show by the time most of the show clocks in the early risers bedrooms com menced to boom the unwelcome news that the circus had arrived.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

That which before us lies in daily life,
Is the prime wisdom.

MILTON.

HERO WORSHIP

Colonel Lindbergh earned all the praise and applause he has found beyond the Atlantic and will find upon his triumphal return home, but the public here and abroad has on many other occasions demonstrated its inability to distinguish between real gold and dross when it would acclaim some one or something.

Channel swimmers, victors in the prize ring, movie stars, visiting royalty, marathon runners and skiers, fiddlers, racing demons, football stars, murderers and mountebanks can and do draw about them more admirers and curiosity hunters than do most men and women who do something to create something of real service to humanity and who have exhibited real genius.

Certainly society owes more to its inventors, creators of works of art, philosophers, captains of industry, scientists and great builders than it owed to those other popular heroes whose fame is as short-lived as it is spontaneous and demonstrative.

Ed. Howe, Kansas sage, begs a bit of public applause for those men and women who create beautiful landscapes, design furnishings and fixtures for the home and garden and in other ways make domestic life more beautiful and comfortable.

However, the fact that those lacking in genius are made popular heroes does not necessarily prove the public lacking in appreciation of true genius. True genius does not incite the mob to impolite hero worship. The emotion it arouses are deeper and more enduring.

JUST A NOSE

Mr. Justice Riddell having ruled that a woman's nose comes from the Lord and that if its shape is altered in a motor accident, even for the better, the owner is entitled to collect damages, the whole subject of facial decoration and improvement seems to have been cast into the realm of theological dispute. "The plaintiff," said His Lordship in giving his decision in a suit for damages, "is entitled to have her nose as nearly as possible as the Lord gave it to her, without regard to what some might consider an improvement in the plan," and placing a valuation of $2,067.25 on the injured member he awarded damages accordingly.

His Lordship should approve of the intent, at least, of an order issued recently by the French Government which provides jail terms for those of her African colonies who indulge in the beautifying devices of lip stretching, nasal alterations, and tooth filing. Moral suasion having failed to make the natives conform to the use of the conventional powder and lip-stick the force of the law has been invoked, but the Lord is not mentioned in the matter. Rather it is the same mistrust of the extraordinary which has sought to put the heathen races in trousers and calico shirts.

Probably there are plenty of women who will consider the Toronto girl lucky in the acquisition of an improved nose and $2,067.25 out of a mere automobile accident. Many of them go to a great deal of trouble, pain and expense in an effort to improve on the work of nature, and a Toronto girl gets the job done for nothing, and a bonus with it!

IMPORTANT FIND

Dr. H. M. Tory, chairman of the National Research council, announces a discovery of "great scientific importance" in regard to wheat rust Though no details have as yet been given out, Dr. Tory promises to make "an early announcement" on the subject. The problem of combating this costly enemy is one which has been engaging the attention of experts for a long time, not only in the Dominion rust laboratory, but in all the western universities. If success, or ever partial success, has been attained, the importance of the discovery cannot be overestimated. This is another example of the practical nature of the investigations carried out by the Research council. Another matter engaging the attention of the researchers is the standardization of Canadian electrical equipment. It takes trained specialists to deal with problems of this kind, and it is work which must be undertaken on a national scale if results are to be satisfactory. Those who question the value of research work should consider the nature of the problems upon which these scientific experts bring their knowledge to bear. There are few investments which could turn out more profitably for the Dominion than money appropriated for the study and solution of special problems affecting the nations interests. Canada, as one of the most important wheat-producing countries of the world, already boasts of many scientific achievements in that particular industry—Marquis and Garnett wheat, for instance. If to the record can now be added the conquest of wheat rust, the Dominion will have just cause to be proud of its contribution to scientific progress.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

It is difficult to determine the best way in which to celebrate Father's Day, but one suggestion is to let the old fellow open the pay envelope himself.—Toronto Saturday Night.

London reports say that it is highly probable bridesmaids will charge for their services at society weddings in future. There is something practical about the idea. A bridesmaid has to incur considerable expense in the purchase of a new toilette for the wedding. True, she is supposed to receive, and generally does receive, a handsome present from the groom, and often presents from the best man in addition. But these do not compensate for the expenditure she is obliged to make. A bridesmaid, after all is doing a distinct service in attending upon the bride. Doubtless in many instances both bridesmaids and best man would infinitely prefer a cheque equal to the value of the presents they got. A clergyman has no scruples about charging a fee for marrying people. Why should those who attend them on the occasion of marriage be any more scrupulous or sensitive?

DEPARTURE

Swiftly the world retreats,
The wind blows cold, and the beats
Of the heart's red rising and falling, sea grow slow.
And the weary, experienced bird makes ready to go.

For deep in her clouded eyes
Is moving the first gray gleam of a loneller tide;
She can see a forsaken rock, under wide
And shadowy skies.

Her spirit is stirred
As pale new sunbeams lace the hurrying sea:
An exhilaration waker in the heart of the bird,
She remembers a fortunate island far in the West,
The best of predestinate wings, the spray on her breast.

Then her eyes light suddenly up, and her wings unfold;
The dark dreams fall away;
Earth is forgotten and faded, the last faint hold
Lost in a rendering throb and a shower of spray.

FURTHER EVIDENCE

Further color has been lent to the belief that the napthha lauret sand, which has been missing since May 9, went down by the finding on the beach of J. H. Vallean's farm at Consecon of a badly worn lifebelt bearing the word Alma in barely decipherable letters. The Alma sailed from Niagara for Belleville on May 9 with Harry Porteous and Thomas Hughes on board. Nearly three weeks ago Charles B. Elliott, fisherman, picked up the hatch of the launch out in the lake.

S. of A. by their delightful rendition of selections put on by the talented quartette that Montreal which was listening in reduced it to keep the wonderful concert up as Canada could not hear it "caught on" to the wonderful artists. The bridesmaid, Miss Florence Duncan, was prettily gowned in pale blue taffeta, carried Ophelia roses and pink sweet peas, and wore a pink tulle hat trimmed and tied in a pretty rose taffeta, carrying an old fashioned bouquet, made a charming flower girl. BLEECKER AVE. HOME IS BEAUTY SPOT

Mr. Reginald Bumpstead's home 175 Bleecker avenue, is one of the beauty spots of the city today. The owner who has studied landscape gardening in England, has transformed the really lovely grounds into his handsome home into a positive fairy land with the carpet like velvety beautiful old trees trained to just the right height and shape and spires have placed at just the right angle on the lawns and adorable summer house nestling amidst the shrubbery. There is never is no glaring or blatant show of flowers as at times other dislikes the most cleverly arranged grounds but Mr. Bumpstead having studied the art of arrangements, has placed them in the corners for all kinds of beautiful perennials were in evidence. One lovely feature of the home, regrettably missing in so many city homes is the depth of the lawns which run over one hundred feet back to the white brick building at the back which too are cleverly screened with lovely vines. Mr. Bumpstead has demonstrated with his endeavours, what may be done to any of Belleville fine old homes with judicious study of the possibilities of the grounds and perfect refreshing of the house.

TODAY'S MARKET

CLOSING QUOTATIONS

New York, June 10.- Confused price movements continued to sweep through today's stock market but generally the market sold off sharply during the morning and had irregular recovery during the afternoon. Extensive readjustment of specialties accounts took place in preparation for double holiday this weekend.

Call money renewed at 4 1-2 percent and again dropped to four with funds in plentiful supply. The decrease of 925,181 shares in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corp. brings them to the lowest level to which they apparently had been discounted. No stock held steady.

Early selling of rails was in sympathy with break in Baltimore and Ohio on the announcement of new stock financing at $107.50 share. Rails gathered strength in the afternoon when strong buying movement appeared in seaboard air line common and preferred which were quickly bid up four and two points respectively.

Chicago, June 10 — Wheat prices went up with a bang today. Big general buying resulted from the radical bullish showing of the government crop report but heavy profit taking sales caused reaction from top figures. Opening at 2 7-8 cent to 4 1-4 cents advance wheat scored some further gains before the market began. Also quickly turned downward after an initial rise, during half to 1 3-8 cents up and down swings well below yesterday finish. Oats were firmer, provisions made irregular advance.

Winnipeg—Wheat, July 1 7-8 cents to 2 7-8 cents higher at 171 3-4 to 167 3-4. Oct. 1 7-8 cents to 2 7-8 cents higher at 149 to 150. Dec. 2 cents to 2 7-8 cents higher at 149 1-2 to 150. Oats July 1 1-8 cent higher at 64. Oct. 1-8 cent higher at 55. Dec. 1 5-8 cent higher at 52.

WHEN MARRIED MEN FIND "BRAIN MATES"

I have been asked to pass on this problem. I can't do it. I am going to tell you the story and let you decide.

The Blairs have separated. No, Helen hasn't stopped loving Fred. But she says she "loves him enough to give him up." And she thinks that she is "doing the right thing by Fred" in giving him up.

The Blairs have been married for ten years. They have a nice home, many friends and two little children. Little Helen is eight and Junior is six. Everything seemed "just right" with the Blairs. They were often held up as THE model couple of the neighborhood. They were until Marion came along. But now that she has come, the Blairs are going to separate.

Marion isn't a vamp. She's a quiet friendly girl, very intelligent, with the most sensative ideal of honor. She is a librarian, and Fred met her while he was doing some research work in chemistry for his firm. It was a difficult job, involving a great many reference books. Marion was interested and helped him.

Helen had known Marion for years and was grateful for her help. Often Fred would bring Marion home, and Helen would have a pot of chocolate waiting and a plate of sandwiches. A fine, friendly, three-sided companionship with no thought of evil in it.

Then Marion went away on her vacation—

And, in the sudden ache of loneliness, Fred realized to his horror how much he cared. And Marion, too, saw with terror the longing in her own heart.

They couldn't keep it from each other when they met again. They tried desperately not to see each other. But they longed for each other as starving men long for food and water. They spoke each other's language. They saw life from the same slant. There was a joy in each other's company, a zest, adventure. They had never found it together before, with any woman.

Helen—Helen was good. All Fred's sickened heart clamored how good she was. All Marion's shrinking soul reverenced how good she was. But life for Helen meant boiled dinners and report cards and Junior's sore throat. And life with Marion was like a trial that mounted and mounted into freedom and glory.

The pity of it! What would they do?

They did the thing they thought was honorable. They went and told Helen the truth, for already she was suspicious and resentful at the struggle she sensed but could not understand.

That hour carved a gulf for them for life. They will be examples in anguish; but somehow, they Carlsons, aging and bewildered, will keep them like black wings at a sane conclusion.

Marion and Fred will go their other.

But they couldn't go on as before. One week, two weeks, a month—and the misery increased. Would it have ceased if they had stuck it out?

I don't know. For Helen had suddenly brought matters to a head by deciding to divorce Fred.

"No, I'm not doing it in anger," she says, with the pain of it withering her face. "I love him as much as ever, and I think he is just as fine as he was when I married him. But this thing has happened and it can't be undone. And I won't hold him if he is unwilling, so I'm giving him his freedom."

That's how it stands today.

What do you think of it?

What would you have done if you had been in Helen's place?

Do you agree with Helen that it's better that two should be happy than that all should be miserable? And what about the children? What is their right in this problem?

A-lvice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl seventeen years of age, and have been going out with a young man of twenty, for one year. He has told me he loves me.

Five weeks ago we had a little quarrel on account of some of my relatives talking against him. He told me he'd come back when this talking would be over. I met him and he asked me to forget what they had said. The following week I didn't hear from him, but learned he had been calling on another girl several times. I've been trying to forget, but cannot, and feel very lonely without him.

Please tell me what would be best to do.

LONESOME HEART.

LONESOME HEART: If you have already spoken to this young man about quarrel, then I'm afraid there isn't anything else you can do, my dear. This young man would want to continue your friendship if he really liked you, regardless of what your relatives say of him. So wait until he takes the first step toward a reconciliation. It is his place to do this.

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN
By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 38.
COMPLICATIONS

"Good night," Sybil said again to Dick Sheldon, realizing that an explanation of the drifting cigarette smoke, the cough, and the masculine shadow on her door was impossible.

"I don't believe what—I've just seen, Sybil," he repeated gently. "I love you."

It seemed incredible that Dick Sheldon should trust her, knowing her as slightly as he did, and being aware also that Serge Patton, her best friend's husband, was paying her attention.

"You're—you're a very sweet boy, Dick," she said, in a low voice.

His eyes seemed to implore her to say more—to offer some explanation for the presence of a man in her apartment after midnight.

She could cheerfully have wrung her brother's neck, but she returned young Sheldon's gaze with eyes as blank as her seething fury would permit. Finally he broke the awkward silence by saying:

"If you ever want to confide in me, Sybil—if you're ever in trouble, and need a man to lend a hand—will you promise to come to me, no matter what it is, or where I am, or what obstacles may stand in the way?"

She said:

"You're very, very sweet and kind and generous!" That was something she had never said in any-man before.

"Good night."

He accepted his dismissal, running down the stairs, instead of waiting for the elevator. She couldn't know that he was running away from a chance of hearing the sound of her voice when she should address the man in her apartment; nor did she guess that the fact that she waited to enter, until he had reached the landing below, stung after his chivalrous look of surprise in his moody eyes.

She didn't care whether she had injured him or not. Just the fact that he knew she didn't care only increased his infatuation. He was not at all accustomed to such indifferent treatment. He took an oath that, sooner or later, she'd be eating out of his hand—like Eva.

"And that, considering that you already have a perfectly good wife, denies you the right to question me as to my conduct at any time," interrupted Sybil crisply. "If I didn't wish to admit a visitor last night, it was my own affair."

She turned and left him abruptly, abruptly, without a good bye. He remained standing in the middle of the cabin, staring after her with a hideous look of surprise in his moody eyes.

Nurse Tells How To Relieve Eczema

Mrs. Wm. Campbell, a graduate nurse of Minden, Man., reports a very interesting experience she had recently with a distressing case of eczema. The patient was a lady who had suffered keenly both mentally and physically because of the way her face was disfigured and by the itching, burning sensations of the skin. She had become discouraged because doctors considered her case incurable.

Mrs. Campbell had known of similar cases and by patient persistent treatment was able to obtain complete relief and restore the natural beauty of the skin.

Mrs. Campbell writes:—"A patient under my care was so severely afflicted with eczema on her face that the doctors considered it incurable and said that nothing for it. I decided to try Dr. Chase's Ointment and never found anything like it for the first application stopped the itching. By continuing the use of the Ointment, the eczema was entirely removed and the complexion greatly improved. No one would ever know that my patient had previously been so disfigured by this annoying and torturing ailment."

Dr. Chase's Ointment is the recognized standard treatment for eczema. It should never be confused with ordinary salves for it is a medicinal ointment of proven merit and effectiveness. 60 cents a box, all dealers, or The Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Limited Toronto.

KIWANIS PRESENT RESOLUTION TO ROCHESTER CLUB

History will be made at Rochester next Wednesday when the Excursion of the Kiwanis Rotary and Knights of Columbus visits that City. The following resolution will be moved by the Mayor of Rochester and seconded by Magistrate Mikel on the arrival of the visitors at the City Hall, Rochester:

"Whereas the United States of America with a population of about 125,000,000 and an area of about 3,000,000 square miles, and the Dominion of Canada with a population of about 10,000,000 and an area of of about 3,500,000 square miles, border each other for 3,000 miles, separated only by an imaginary line without a fortress, gun or soldier on either side to defend it, and

Whereas these two countries have existed side by side in peace and concord for 112 years, and

Whereas the people who inhabit these two countries are, for the most part, the same kind of people who inhabit Europe where bitter wars have been waged during the last 112 years, and

Whereas many controversies have arisen between these two countries during the last 112 years which have always been settled amicably, and

Whereas this condition constitutes a great peace lesson, which if followed by the rest of the world, will eliminate the ravages of war,

Therefore, this gathering of citizens of the Dominion of Canada and of the United States of America at the City of Rochester in the State of New York do hereby suggest that this great peace lesson be given to the world with the request that it be studied and applied by everyone."

LAWYERS CANNOT SUE THEIR CLIENTS

Paris, June 10.—French lawyers can sue everyone except their own clients, and not all of them like the situation. Young Maurice Barrese, newly come to the bar, has brought this state of affairs to light, by blowing the dust off tradition and demanding that lawyers should have the right to collect their fees, just as they collect debts due others.

The Council of the Order, governing the bar Association however, still stands fast to the ethics of the profession. It shows no inclination to allow the law profession to sink to the level of mere trade, in which a business man sues when his customers fail to pay.

CONSIDERING THE MINISTRY FOR THE OTHER SEX

Montreal, June 1.—The ministry of women in the church is discussed exhaustively in the Canadian following a reference to the fact that the General Synod of the Evangelical Church in Berlin, Germany, reached the latest decision that women may now be ordained into the church ministry though rite or ordination is not to place them upon a footing of absolute equality with clergy of the stronger sex. Some important restrictions are prescribed. It is held by the General Synod none of woman's qualities can equal that of motherhood, and motherhood and pastoral work, the members declare, cannot go together. Therefore when a woman in Germany becomes a minister of the gospel she may continue so long as she remains celibate. She must resign her clerical office if and when she marries. More than this, though it is provided that training for the ministry shall be the same, and equally ample, for both sexes, women clergy may not perform marriage ceremonies, or baptize, or conduct funeral services, or preach, or administer the sacrament. Women ministers will be assigned specially as teachers to girls' homes and hospitals, homes for the aged and prisons, and they will conduct religious services for household rank.

The subject was debated by the General Council of the United Churches at an assembly in Montreal last autumn, when it was decided to refer further consideration to a committee. The question therefore will come up again this year. The challenge has been made and, however sincere opponents of admission of women into the church ministry may be in their arguments that the proposal is devoid of reason and logic, it has got to be answered, and the decision of the Evangelical Church in Germany this week will be accepted by many as significant of a growing tendency to answer it in the affirmative.

ROYALTY MADE MANY VISITS TO DOMINION

Members of the British Royal Family have made some more visits to Canada than many people probably imagine. The first recorded visit, by the Duke of Clarence, goes back to 1787, when George II was on the throne. The Duke of Clarence was captain of the frigate Pegasus, and is chiefly remembered because he was with Nelson in the West Indies, and acted as best man at his wedding. The Duke of Kent, father of Queen Victoria, arrived in Quebec in 1791 from Gibraltar, as commanding officer of the 7th Royal Fusiliers. He made his home at Quebec for three years, occupying what was known as Kent Lodge near Montmorency Falls. He returned in 1799 to act commander-in-chief of the troops at Halifax. There is a fine bit of description, in one of Haliburton's novels of his home near Halifax, also known as Kent Lodge.

The Prince of Wales, afterwards Edward VII, visited Canada in 1860, and laid the corner-stone of the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa. His brother, Prince Alfred came here in 1861, as a naval officer. In 1890 the Duke of Connaught travelled north of the Dominion on his way home from a visit to Japan. He returned to Canada as Governor General in 1911 and remained until 1916. Princess Louise, daughter of Queen Victoria, spent the year 1877 in Ottawa while her father the Governor General, the Marquis of Lorne, afterwards Duke of Argyll. The Duke of Cornwall and York (afterwards George V) and his wife visited Canada in 1901. The present Prince of Wales made his first visit to Canada in 1919, and has returned more than once. He has shown his interest in the country by buying a ranch in Alberta, where he can occasionally escape from the cares of state.

Some of us who are not as yet royal as we used to be can remember the delightful hospitality of Lord Lorne and the Princess Louise at Rideau Hall in Ottawa, and the simplicity of their home life. The Princess was always a warm patron of art in Canada, and was herself an artist of no mean ability. Her husband will be remembered, among many other memorable acts, by the fact that he was chiefly instrumental in founding the Royal Society of Canada. His ability he notably overshadowed his ability as a poet, but it will not be forgotten that he wrote that splendid hearty lyric-inspiring:

"Unto the hills around do I lift up My longing eyes."

The influence of each member of the British Royal Family in the Dominion, the Duke of Connaught and the Prince of Wales upon public and private life in Canada, although always exerted unobtrusively and with characteristic tact, must be regarded as a very real factor in the development of the country. All three of them have known how to win not only the respect but the affection of the Canadian people. That thought was very happily expressed by Lord Byng in January last, at the Wolfe Banquet in London when, turning to the Prince of Wales, he said: "I know you individually and I am not going to indulge in flattery, but I should like to say this: We respect you, sir, for your position, but, dinner, sir, we love you for yourself."

Empire's Largest Locomotive Built in Canada

The biggest engine in the British Empire. The new "Northern" Type locomotive of the Canadian National Railways, which has just been completed at the Canadian Locomotive Works at Kingston, Ont. This locomotive weighs approximately 325 tons, and has an overall length of more than 95 feet. It is the first engine of a typically Canadian design, and is specially built for speed, economy of operation, and hauling capacity. When it goes into service it will establish a new record for long-distance trains in Canada, being assigned "The International Limited" from Montreal to Sarnia, 521 miles. This is the first time that Canadian railroads have attempted a single locomotive operation of this distance.

THINK WORST NOW OVER IN FLOOD AREA

New Orleans, La., June 9.—Residents of Bayou Black section in lower Atchafalaya basin were awaiting with more confidence the passing of the greatest flood in history of the valley as a result of the blowing up of the Slim Widow's bend back the flood of late yesterday.

Bayou Black, part of the intra-coastal waterways system and principal route of water travel between Houma and Morgan City, was dammed up several weeks ago when it was feared that the flood waters would inundate the fertile farm lands below. Four hundred men labored day and night closing the dam and the waters piled up behind it six feet higher than the level below.

These men have been sent out on section work and to extra gangs. Of the number mentioned 778 were new arrivals from continental countries.

YANKEES GRAB 8TH STRAIGHT

Detroit Stages Rally In 9th Frame To Overtake Boston

New York, June 10.—Mr. Ted Blankenship, the third constellation in the four-star pitching staff of the White Sox, tried his hand at fooling the Yankees yesterday and met with as much success as his unhappy predecessors brothers Thomas and Faber. In the seventh inning the Yanks rallied around and six boys toddled over the plate before the Chicago fire-fighters could put out the blaze. The Huggins won their third straight in the series, 6 to 3.

The game was full of a number of things—a homer by Ray Morehart, triples by Cedric Durst and George Ruth, a steal of home by Mr. Ruth, and a uphill climb by the champions.

The Athletics won the fourth consecutive game and their third in a row from the St. Louis Browns at Philadelphia by a score of 9 to 3. The Mackmen hit Nevers hard from the start, but could not bunch their blows effectively until the fifth and sixth innings when they bit him for four runs that broke a 1-1 tie.

A four-run rally in the ninth inning at Boston brought Detroit from behind, and enabled the Tigers to defeat Boston, 6 to 4. Singles by Bassler, Warner and Schang, together with an error by Regan and Fothergill's sacrifice fly, accounted for the final inning run. Fothergill had a perfect day at bat with a home-run, a double two singles as well as his sacrifice fly. Catches by Manush and Chance were thrilling features.

Hammering the veteran Walter Johnson for six hits in five innings, the Indians won from the Senators at Washington, 7 to 1. Jamieson opened the game with a triple, Burns walked and both scored on Joe Sewell's double. Cleveland added four more in the fourth on Hodapp's triple, singles from Joe Sewell, and Uhle and Jamieson's sacrifice fly, after Summa had been hit by a pitched ball. Uhle was steady on the mound, allowing the Senators five hits.

PIRATES FAIL TO HALT GIANTS

Jess Haines Twirls Brilliant Ball and Braves Lose

Pittsburgh, June 10.—Instead of a setback tinitch the Giants made a running start against the Pirates yesterday and found it much more satisfactory. What's more, after making a flying get away, they didn't slow down at the turns, but just kept on going. The numerical results sounds more like a doctor's lunch hour than a baseball score. It was 12 to 1.

There has been a faint suspicion that he Giants didn't have any pitchers to speak of, but there is plenty that might be said concerning the performance of Freddy Fitzsimmons against these sounding Pittsburghers. He held them to just one bit in the first five innings. At that point he found himself enjoying a ten-run lead to the utmost and eased up. But even then he Pirates could collect only seven more.

Three of these seven were bunched in the sixth inning, and saved the Pirates from a shut-out, but they didn't disturb Freddy in the least. He just kept on firing away at the plate and in the end the Buccaneer brig was sunk.

Chicago made it three in a row from Brooklyn by denying Jesi Petty off the hill at Chicago in an eight-inning rally to win out by 4 to 3. After the Robins had blasted Grove out of the pen in their half of the eighth to take the lead, Petty was unable to hold the advantage. Beck started the southpaw's downfall with a walk. Wilson singled to bring Beck in with the tying run, and after Wilson stole second, Stephen son slapped a hit to right. Wilson registered with the deciding tally.

Jess Haines held the Boston Braves to seven hits at St. Louis and the Cardinals won, 8 to 1. The Cardinals landed on Rochester for eight hits in the first four innings. Lester Bell got a triple and a double. John Schulte, Cardinal catcher, suffered a slight concussion of the brain when hit by a ball which slipped from the hands of Watty Holm in batting practice prior to the game.

The Reds worked rearin hic hoodlum against fifteen single for Philadelphia to stage a nip and tuck fight at Cincinnati. Wrightstone broke it up in the ninth with a triple to give Philadelphia a 6 to 5 victory. A rally in the fifth inning, featured by a double steal in which Dressen made the plate safely, gave the Reds four runs to tie the score. Philadelphia scored again in the sixth and then two Philadelphia errors and a walk filled the bases.

Aore is the late William D. Williams, one time star of the English Bolton Wanderers and for years widely known as an owner of race horses on the Canadian and U. S. turf. His dead body was found in Lake Ontario after he had won at a recent Toronto race meeting. It is believed he was beaten, robbed and drowned by race-track touts.

HOME RUN AIDS LEAFS TO WIN

New York, June 10.—Piling up a 3-run lead in the first with the aid of a walk, an error and a home-run by Lamotte, the Toronto Leafs easily took the first game of the series from the Orioles at Baltimore, 6 to 4. A rally in the third, featured by Porter's homer with one on, netted the hosts 3 tallies.

Syracuse took the first game of the series at Jersey City by a score of 9 to 6. The Skeeters scored two runs in the first frame, but the Stars tied it up in the fourth and then went out and won in the sixth and eighth frames.

Horn's airtight pitching gave the Rochester club the first game of the series at Newark by the score of 2 to 2. Horn held the Newark club to three scratch hits and outside of three innings retired the side in order. Newark used three pitchers, Chivers, Walkup and Williams, and they all looked the same to Rochester.

Allan Russell aided Walter Leverett in a pitching duel at Reading and Reading took the first of the series from Buffalo, 3 to 2. Each team got seven hits. Russell's stick helped the Keys to win, his double and single driving across two runs.

SPARKS' CIRCUS PLEASES CROWD

Thousands See Big Parade This Morning — Tents Filled At Matinee

Sparks' Circus parade, moving promptly at 11 o'clock this morning, as scheduled, fully justified claims made in advance, and thousands witnessed the afternoon performance, with the indication that another capacity house will fill the great tents to see the night show, which began promptly at 8 o'clock, with doors opening an hour earlier so that the patrons may leisurely inspect the menagerie.

Hundreds witnessed the unloading of the circus from its special trains early this morning, and its transfer to the lot, located at Pine St. and Bleecker Ave.

With general admission and reserved seat tickets are on sale at Doyles Drug Store at the same price as at the ticket wagons on the grounds.

The performance is properly started with a semi-barbaric fantasy called "Ulora the Jungle Queen" and it embraces the services of 400 human and animal performers headed by Alec Sohn, prima donna, and Geo. Sohn, concert baritone.

Outstanding features of the performances in the three rings and on the elevated stage are the famous Alexanders, a troupe of acrobats, seven in number; the Aerial Walkers; the Imperial troupe of Japanese wonder workers; the Riding Bedinis; the Sells Trio and Zander Trio of aerial feats; the world's largest group of performing tigers, exhibited by their trainer, Frank Wicks; Captain John Guilfoyle and his Tarzan of the Apes fighting lions; Miss LaVern Hauser's Indian leopards; the Polar Bears; Sparks' rope-walking seals; three herds of performing elephants exhibited by Miss Babe Pope, Miss Vivian Clarkson and Walter McLain; and the Sparks' three groups of "Liberty horses" handled by Bert Mayo, John Smith and Miss LaVern Hauser. The fancy gaited animals, twenty in number—are ridden by a galaxy of pretty girl riders headed by Lorain Castell and LaVern Hauser, each of wide fame in horse show circles. Besides these featured acts there are twenty other displays in which feats of daring and skill are interspersed with novelty and comedy numbers.

Jack Phillips' concert band, one of the largest and finest with an traveling organization, gives an hour's concert in the main exhibition tent, both afternoon and night, before the big show starts.

The concluding number on the two-hour program is the massive and imposing spectacle "Historical Oasis," in the production of which 70 people and 500 horses are employed, the human participants including a big band of Sioux Indians headed by Chief Iron Bluff.

The Irony of Love By Charles Garvice

"You mean," — he said, with a long breath—"you mean that——"

"Yes, I mean that," she said, "I mean that I want you, Strandyre; that I can't live without you."

He sprang to his feet and, catching her up to him, looked down into her eyes; and hers met his fearlessly, steadily, through the mist of tears.

"Oh, Strandyre, why didn't you—— But I won't ask you—I know. They said you would come back, but I knew you wouldn't. You are as proud as I am—no, prouder, for see what I have done. I have come to you, Strandyre."

Meanwhile, Eva stood at the window of the hotel, looking out vacantly and curiously and beating an impatient tattoo on the pane with her finger tips. Like Maude, the maid was thin, for she had not wholly recovered from her illness; but her eyes were bright at this moment and there was a healthy flush on her cheek. She turned swiftly as Sir Ives entered the room. He was looking slightly worried, but only slightly, for though he had grumbled at the journey, he had secretly enjoyed it, as he was enjoying this new experience of a place which was at once a mining town and a health resort. As usual, he was beautifully dressed, and his immaculate tweed suit and cyclass had already attracted the attention of the few persons he had met in dumping Jane.

"All alone, kiddie?" he asked; he had appropriated to his use this one of Rafe's modes of addressing her.

"Yes, I'm all alone," she said, knitting her brows. "Auntie Maude has gone out. She said I was to stay here till you came down. I don't know where she's gone, and if Auntie Maude weren't such a dear, I should say that it was unfair. Oh, Uncle Plasty" — Sir Ives' Christian name was Plantagenet—"can't you and I go out? I want to see the place—— Oh, it's no use trying to pretend—I want to find Strandyre. He is here, isn't he? He hasn't gone away, again?" she asked eagerly.

"He is here, right enough; I fancy," said Sir Ives. "Don't you worry, kiddie. We'll go and find him. If you ask me my opinion of this wild-goose chase——"

"Oh, Uncle Stanfyre isn't a wild goose," she said, half laughingly, half indignantly.

"Oh, isn't he," retorted Sir Ives. "If he isn't, he's precious near being so. But come on"—with an injured air—"we may as well get the thing through. Go upstairs and get your hat."

"Oh, no," she remarked shrewdly "Directly I've got out of the room, you'll forget all about me and go away. Give the smoking room or somewhere and refuse to budge. I don't want a hat."

She caught hold of his hand, and as they walked across the veranda, and down the path, toward the river, Sir Ives thought it well to utter a word or two of warning.

"Look here, kidvie," he said, going warily; for Eva had grown so pretty naturally sharp of late that Sir Ives had become a little afraid of her. "When you see Strandyre, don't you go and shriek a lot of questions at him."

"I never shriek," said Eva, with dignity.

"What I mean is, don't ask him—well, why he left England, what he's been doing, and—and things of that sort. Just meet him as if—as if he'd been gone only a week or two."

Eva laughed, and the laugh was so disconcerting to the man of the world that he shook his head, sighed, and said no more.

"Isn't it a beautiful place?" said Eva forgivingly. "I don't wonder at Strandyre's coming here. I should like to stay here—oh, for quite a long time. I suppose they wouldn't let me do any digging for gold, Uncle Plasty? Do women dig?"

"No," replied Sir Ives dryly, "they generally get it with a good deal less trouble. So far as I've gone, my experience is that we men do the digging and you women do the spending."

"And that's quite right," said Eva decisively. "Because you buy such ugly things, and we women are the pretty ones. I often wonder what you can find to buy."

"So do I," said Sir Ives, "and when you come to think of it, it's pressing little we buy for ourselves. I find when you grow up——"

"Oh, Uncle Plasty, look! There's Auntie Maude walking with a — workingman — No, it's——"

She snatched her hand away, and darted off toward the two figures climbing the hill; and in another instant in his arms and had her up and "as she was upon Rafe. He caught her turned her eager kisses, then, with a little shake, he put her down and held her from him.

"Say, now?" he said. "Who is this young lady? I thought it was a little kiddie I used to know. Beg pardon, miss, I'm sure——"

Strandyre his arm, he looked up at him, her face beaming. "Oh, Blunder here, how duty you are! And you look so strange in these clothes, and you're all brown, right down to the cheek. Is that all you've seen? Don't you have a coat ever?"

FREE STATERS RETURNED WITH SOUND MAJORITIES IN IRELAND

Republicans Refuse To Leave Polling Booth And Police Interfere

Dublin, June 11.—Returns given out today in the balloting for the new Dail Eireann on Thursday last, show that William T. Cosgrave, President of the Free State Cabinet, has a lead in his constituency and is assured of success.

The same is true of Kevin Obrien, Minister of Justice, in South Dublin. Edward Duggan, one of the elimination of the treaty with Britain, creating the free state, whose seat was thought shaky, headed the poll in Meath.

Ernest Blythe, finance minister, is elected in Monaghan. J. J. Walsh, minister of posts and telegraphs, headed the poll in Cork. There is anxiety in government circles over the position of Peterboro Hughes, war minister, who is fighting with James Murphy, another government candidate, for the seat in Louth. Murphy is backed by Frank Aiken, formerly republican army chief, was elected in Louth.

A Disturbance

Alfred Byrne, independent, scored a sensation in North Dublin with seven thousand first preference votes, Capt. William Redmond, son of the former Irish leader, was re-elected in Waterford. A scene occurred at Black Rock, County Dublin polling station, when the counting of ballots were completed. Republicans refused to leave and had to be hustled out by the police in the early morning.

London, June 11.—The Dublin correspondent of the British Press Association, says the Irish elections have taken a surprising turn. The latest returns, he adds, indicate that the government party cannot obtain a majority and a coalition government appears possible.

Dublin, June 11.—Raising their coalition on the preliminary returns thus far available from Thursday's ballotings, the government quarters today expressed belief that there would be no marked change in the political line-up of the new dail eireann. The government candidates, it is said, appear to be holding their own or to have suffered but slight decrease in

CONFERENCE IS RESUMED TODAY

Immigration Problem Involves Many Points And Needs Close Study

Washington, D. C., June 11.—Negotiations between the Canadian legation and United States state department to clear up the border smuggling difficulties were resumed unofficially today. Further diplomatic correspondence is not likely, the United States having replied to Canada's note and Canada having none on record two years ago.

There are a few points arising out of the present problem such as question of what will be status of Canadians who qualify as border commissioners in the United States and United States side. Will they be already qualified as Americans, immune from further question by United States immigration officers. The Canadian Press is informed by students of the situation on both sides that much study of the constitutional and legal clouds will be necessary before problem can be completely cleared up.

STRAWBERRIES PROMISED FOR MARKET NEXT WEEK

Threatening skies almost decimated the market this morning as far as the strawberry crop was concerned. Not as plentiful as usual and prices were slightly lower than last week. Sizes were fairly plentiful and sold at 22 and 30 cents a dozen, 36 being asked for extra choice large white ones which for some unaccountable reason are not wanted by the buyers. Butter sold at 40 and 42 cents a pound or 80 cents a two pound roll. Chickens sold at from 30 cents to 42.5 and were as plump and tender looking specimens as have yet been offered. Cream sold at 25 and 30 cents a pint and was very plentiful. Asparagus was brought in green basket lots and sold at 10 and 15 cents a bunch with a substantial cut for larger quantities.

On the outside market potatoes sold at $1.50 and $2 a bushel, the highest price asked in several weeks. A few bushels of apples were on sale at 50 cents and all kinds of spring vegetables such as lettuce, onions and radishes were offered in profusion at 5 cents a bunch. Rhubarb which has lasted its popularity sold at 3 bunches for 5 cents. Several farmers promised strawberries for next Saturday's market and none were on sale today.

TURMOIL THREATENS IN STREETS OF MOSCOW OVER 20 EXECUTIONS

Consternation Among Russian Aristocrats At Soviets' Action

HELD SINCE 1925

George Sidney Riley Reported Killed Not In Published List

Moscow, June 11.—The execution of twenty persons accused of counter-revolutionary activity against the Soviet regime, announced in an official communique made public yesterday, has raised consternation throughout the Soviet Union among former members of the Russian nobility and ex-army officers, many of whom are still within the borders of the Union.

Tonight there was evidence of suppressed excitement in Moscow, an excitement that was not allayed by the frequent passage about the city of police wagons and the presence of reinforced guards at important Government institutions.

Riley's Name Not on List

Contrary to reports in the United States, the name of George Sidney Riley, believed its have been a Captain in the British Royal Flying Corps, does not appear on the list of those executed as given out by the authorities. Inquiry aboard is to the effect that Riley, who was arrested on the Finnish border in 1925, and has previously been reported dead, is still in prison.

Riley was wounded at the time of his arrest, and a report went abroad that he was killed. He carried a Soviet passport under the name "Robinberg". He was apparently a Captain in the Royal Flying Corps. His name was mentioned in a statement of the executions given out by the State Poli tical Department only as associated with Colonel Edgeron, a former Czarist officer, who was among those executed.

D. R. Poole

M. ARNOLD.

BRITAIN OR U. S.?

British airplane manufacturers are said to be "troubled" over the action of the Canadian government in ordering six Fokker airplanes for survey work from the United States, when there is a big supply of such machines which the makers in the Old Country are anxious to find a market for. The great problem for the British manufacturer in these abnormal times is to find purchasers for the goods they produces. The quality of British products is unrivaled and there is no question that the dominions, wherever possible, should satisfy their requirements from within the Empire. The Old Country has for a long time been preaching the doctrine of buying imperially and the several campaigns put on to persuade the British public to patronize dominion industry have resulted in a considerable increase in orders. There is a reciprocal obligation on the part of the dominions.

Since many of the foreign markets, upon which the Mother Country formerly relied for her trade and prosperity are now more or less closed to British enterprise, the duty of supply their place in all the more important of the dominions. There surely could be no good reason why, in this instance, the preference should have been given to the manufacturers of the United States. The government should set a good example in the matter of developing imperial trade.

REACH AGREEMENT

There will be much satisfaction over the announcement that the dispute between the Canadian Pacific management and certain of its employees has been settled in a manner acceptable to both parties. The minister of labor, Hon. Peter Heenan, speaks of a "basis of agreement," but details are lacking beyond the statement that the freight handlers and checkers concerned, to the number of 10,000, will receive a substantial increase in wages though not all they asked for. It is gratifying to know that the two sides have been brought together in friendly discussion of the final terms of settlement, and that the threatened ruinture has been avoided. The railway men set a good example in the matter of industrial dispute. It is only a few weeks ago that a compromise prevented a walk-out which would have had the most inconvenient consequences for the traveling public. These precedents could be followed most advantageously on all occasions to the mutual welfare of the community. Sooner or later all disputes must end in a compromise; the longer the deadlock lasts, the worse it is for all. That truth is often lost sight of in the heat of controversy, but it is an irrecognition that the future of industry depends.

NOT TRYING

J. H. Clarke, a lawyer of Windsor, appearing before the Royal Customs Commission at Montreal yesterday, gave it as his opinion that the people in United States were not very keen in their efforts to stop liquor coming into the border at Windsor.

The answer to that may be that a good many people at Windsor were not very keen either to plug up the contraband.

Allowing for that condition, there still remains some considerable point in what Mr. Clarke had to say.

There are some 16 miles of river front there, and a country with the resources which are at the disposal of the U. S. authorities should be able to put up a pretty successful struggle to stop liquor from coming in.

Docks are things the locations of which are known, and trucks are things which can be seen and heard. It is a little hard to believe that U. S. authorities could not put enough armed men along the river bank to stop the traffic if there were a very serious notion to do so.

STRONG, SILENT MEN?

"What has become of the strong, silent men?" asks the New York Times probably thinking of its ten columns of cable tolls on Mussolini's last speech But the truth is, of course, that the strong silent man or silent strong man was pretty much of a myth. Only the other day, as the Times somewhat ruefully points out, the strongest of them all, Benito Mussolini, feeling impelled to "make a few remarks, tossed off a trifle of something between 12,000 and 15,000 words. Calvin Coolidge used to be the darling of the "strong, silent men" school, but when some industrious correspondent took the trouble to add up the sum total of Coolidge's speeches and messages he found that they put Wilson and Roosevelt into the shade. And so it is in England. Winston Churchill and nickeled and Lloyd George are strong men, and they are also stalwarts of a notable fluency. And Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, by no means a weakling, has not been famous for his taciturnity.

The strongest and most autocratic of Europeans before Mussolini was Lenin, and he talked as much as he acted. Trotsky created the Red army by flaming speeches three hours long; and Stalin, Trotsky's successful rival, flings words about with the utmost ruthlessness and abandon. All the Russian men of iron, in fact, are keen of silver as regards the tongue. In one debate at Moscow, Trotsky expressed himself to the extent of fourteen newspaper columns, but Stalin not to be outdone, poured out a flow of eloquence that took up twenty columns.

The facts are that all great men of action have been great talkers. Napoleon was a mighty master of words. Pitt was not quite the victim of an engrowing aphasia; Gladstone was, according to Disraeli, "inebriated by the exuberance of his own verbosity;" Roosevelt sloughed words about with an industrious fury—and so to the end of the chapter.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

Not yet, even, have British men and women equal rights. It is man's privilege still to change the tire.—Ottawa Journal.

The reduced prices of liquor under Government Control will put a crimp in the bootlegging business. The cost of various beverages will be less than that demanded heretofore by government dispensaries. Liquor will be far from cheap but considering the high federal tax upon alcohol the prices quoted are not exorbitant.

These rays of flighty weather, one has a tough time keeping the coal shovel and lawn mower blisters from overlapping.—Border Cities Star.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

Gardener: "Them birds are playin' woe wi' the sweet peas, sir, an' the scarecrow I put up don't seem to 'ave any effect. I do believe if you yerself stood in the middle o' them beds you wouldn't frighten them off!"

White: "Green's marriage is quite a romance. He made his wife's acquaintance by running over her in his car."

Brown: "Hm. And the poor beggar told me he was insured against all risks."

"Why Mrs. Brown, you're not going home so soon? I thought you were to be here for another week!"

"I did intend to stay; but my husband has just sent me a cheque for a hundred dollars without grumbling at all, and I'm going home to see what's the matter with him."

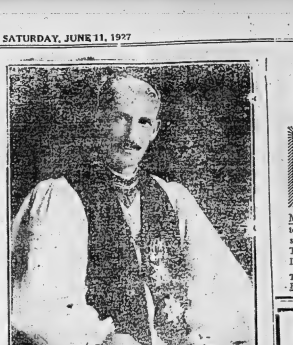

SILENCE

I know you: solitary griefs,
Desolate paroxysm aching hours!
I know you: tremulous beliefs,
Anguished hopes and ashen flowers!

The winds are sometimes sad to me:
The starry spaces full of fear;
Mine is the sorrow on the sea,
And mine the sigh of places drear

Some players upon plaintive strings
Publish their wistfulness abroad;
I have not spoken of these things,
Save to one man, and unto God.

That it is only a matter of time before the Nationalists will control all of China proper is the opinion of Rev. Hev. W. C. White, reformed, Bishop of Henan, China, now in Canada. He has been in China the greater part of his life, since 1907. The bishop warns that the hand of Moscow is actively at work in China.

RUTH SNYDER IS IN POOR SHAPE

Spirit and Poise Collapse In The Shadow Of The Chair

Ossining, N.Y., June 10.—The spirit and poise, which carried Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder, have collapsed under the deadening influence of Sing Sing death cell, and attendants are seriously concerned over her condition, it was reported to-day.

Dr. George Smith, Dr. Joseph W. Moore and Dr. Paul Tuddiken planned to examine Mrs. Snyder. Penitentiary attaches said she had talked little and refused to read in the last few days. She sits on the edge of her cot staring at the wall, they said. The attendants also will examine Henry Judd Gray convicted with Mrs. Snyder.

The Prudential Insurance Company has started its fight to avoid payment of policies on the life of Snyder totaling £50,000. A court order was obtained authorizing the company to return to Mrs. Snyder the premiums she paid on the policies.

Attorneys for the woman said she would refuse to accept the premiums and that they would carry to court the fight to force payment of the policies.

YOUNG LAD SHOT THROUGH HEAD

7-Year-Old Jack Sweeney Accidentally Killed By Farm Hand

The request was held last evening at 8da when circumstancer surrounding the death of seven year old Jack Sweeney, was fully investigated.

The child was instantly killed near Port Hope, when a shot gun in the hands of a farm hand, Jack Elliot, was accidentally discharged. Coroner H. A. Turner, of Millbrook, was in charge, and Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr, K.C., of Cobourg, conducted the examination of witnesses.

Further details of the tragedy show that the little lad was playing in the kitchen of his parents home, preparatory to leaving for his home for Sunday.

Playing With Boy

Elliott was changing his clothes in his bedroom, which adjoins the kitchen. The bedroom door was partly closed and the little boy started to play "peep" with Elliott. They played for some few minutes and then Elliott in fun told the boy to go away or he would shoot him with the shot gun, which was in his bed room. With this, Elliott picked up the shotgun and was pointing it at the boy when the trigger was accidentally pulled and the child was shot in the side of the head, being killed instantly. Some of the pellets pierced the table at which Mrs. Sweeney was sitting.

Members of the family said it was the first time the gun had ever been left loaded. Mr. Sidney Wednesday had gone to the orchard to kill some crows but when he got there he could not find them. He had loaded the gun and when he returned to the home put it in its usual place in Elliott's room, forgetting to unload it.

Chief of Police T. W. Murphy, Port Hope, and Provincial Constable J. H. Fewtrell visited the scene Thursday afternoon. A preliminary inquest was held at which the remains were viewed.

ELABORATE STOP FOR AEROPLANES

Toronto, Ont., June 11 (C.P.).—A unique stone to mid-Atlantic transcontinental aeroplane traffic, to cost about eight million dollars, and completed with hotel, weather bureau, wireless and aviation field equipment, has been planned by Italian naval officer, says a special cable from Rome to the Mail and Empire. The plans were completed ten months ago.

The island would be made of reinforced concrete in a horseshoe shape with a submarine structure across the open end, leaving about 18 feet of water over the "bar". Seaplanes would alight inside, and hangars would be constructed in convenient places. It would be turned in accordance with wind and water currents to protect the opening, and being twice as long as the longest wave, should retain stability. A hotel for passengers, weather bureau, beacon lights, hangars, wireless apparatus and other facilities would be installed on the island, which would be about 1,200 feet long by 750 feet wide.

ROCHESTER IS PREPARING FOR LOCAL PEOPLE

Ceremonies Planned By Kiwanis Club For "All Canada" Day

The Rochester Kiwanis Club are evidently laying plans to entertain royally as many as possible when the excursion boat arrives in that city next Wednesday. In addition to the peace ceremony to be conducted by the Mayor of Rochester and Magistrate Mikel in the presence of the excursionists, there will be a Flag presentation ceremony—drive around the city—in fact a real royal welcome as the following letter would indicate:

The Kiwanis Club of Rochester,
725 Commerce Bldg.-Rochester, N.Y.
June 7th, 1927.

Mr. H. Greenleaf,
15 Station Street,
Belleville, Ontario.
Dear Fellow Kiwanian:—

Your telegram to Mr. Roberts duly received, and we note that you ask us to prepare for eighty.

We take it that you mean by this that there will be about eighty Kiwanians and their families, but from previous correspondence we understood that there would be about 500 who would come to Rochester on this excursion.

Here is what we would like to do. If possible we would like to have as many of your folk who are coming to Rochester attend this ceremony. We plan to meet you at the train, march to the Powers Hotel, where you will be greeted by the Mayor of Rochester and where the flag transfer will be made. After that we plan to take you for a little trip around the city, and that we are prepared to care for around three hundred on this trip.

As we understand it there will be Rotarians, Knights of Columbus, Y's Men and members of other organizations in your party, and if it can be arranged so that they will attend this short session we will have representatives from their organizations on hand.

We are very anxious to make this a real Kiwanis event, and the more members of your party that you can get into line the better it is going to be. We will assure you that they will be all taken care of, but to play safe we would appreciate advice as to how many you expect to take to the hotel with you so that cars can be arranged.

We want you to extend an invitation to everyone in Belleville to come to Rochester.

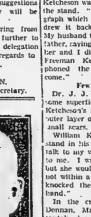

For the benefit of those who might want to do some shopping be advised that the auto trip to Rochester is about an hour and a half which will give them plenty of time to go through the stores as they are not close until six o'clock.

For your information be advised that your flag arrived this morning from Chicago and we will have it all mounted and ready for you when you get here.

If there is any further suggestions that you can make they will be gladly appreciated.

Looking forward to hearing from you by return mail, and further to seeing you and your large delegation on the June 15th, I am with regards to every member in your Club,

Very truly yours,
JACK CORRAN,
Executive Secretary.

He was first elected to the Nova Scotia legislature, and in 1900 was elected in the House of Commons. He was re-elected in 1908, 1911, 1917 and 1921. NOT GUILTY ON ASSAULT CHARGE

W. H. F. Ketcheson Acquitted Of Counts Laid By His Wife

Judge Deroche found W. H. F. Ketcheson not guilty of assault and battery against his wife, Mrs. Hazel Ketcheson at the County Court House today. "I think I must find on the evidence that Mrs. Ketcheson's face was scratched by the accused. I have some difficulty however, in deciding whether assault was intentional. I cannot find him guilty of an assault. He struck at the picture (the photograph of a close personal friend of Mrs. Ketcheson) intentionally but the scratching was accidental."

The whole case rested upon the credit ability of witnesses. Mrs. Ketcheson claimed that her husband deliberately struck her, scratching her face, while the accused stated that his hand didn't come within a foot of her cheek. Mrs. Ketcheson was the first witness to take the stand. She related that the photograph which I had in my hand and I threw it back. He clawed my face. My husband then went and phoned his father, saying 'Daddy, she says I struck her and I didn't. Just before Mr. Freeman Ketcheson arrived I telephoned the police and they didn't come."

Few Minor Scratches

Dr. J. J. Robertson said he found some superficial scratches on Mrs. Ketcheson's face, starting on the outer layer of flesh, and leaving some small scars, still apparent today.

William Ketcheson then took the stand in his own defence. "I tried to talk to my wife and she wouldn't talk to me. I wanted to talk things over, but she wouldn't do it. My hand was hot within a foot of her cheek. I just knocked the photograph out of her hand."

In the cross-examination by Mr. Donnan, Mr. Ketcheson said—"She tantalized me with the photograph". The accused stated emphatically again that he did not strike her face.

H. F. Ketcheson next took the stand. "When I arrived Mrs. W. H. F. Ketcheson said "That thing of a son of yours struck me." I looked at her cheek but could not see any sign whatsoever. She then gave me "Paul Columbia."

Mr. D. C. Donnan and the counsel for the defence, Mr. Chesley Payne both agreed that the case amounted to mere by the credibility of witnesses.

Bishop of Pulham flew across the Baltic in a seaplane to enter Russia to visit British residents.

TODAY'S MARKET

Chicago, June 11.—Wheat scored an early advance today after wavering during the forenoon session and in Indiana. The Canadian Government crop report was construed as bullish and Liverpool quotations were firmer than expected. Opening unchanged to 1-2c up, wheat underwent slight general setback and then rose well above yesterdays finish. Corn and oats also developed strength, corn starting at 1-2c decline to 7-8c gain and later showing general upturn. Provisions were easy.

LYONS CAPTURES 8TH CONSECUTIVE

Athletics Make Clean Sweep Of St. Louis Series

New York, June 11.—Playing the title role in that stirring old tableau, "the worm will turn," the White Sox laid the Yankees over their knees yesterday and gave the collegiate a sound spanking at Colonel Ruppert's Stadium, where Ted Lyons hung up his eighth straight victory, 4 to 2, in the finale of the erstwhile crucial series.

Many a ball team would have been discouraged by the situation in which the White Sox found themselves at 3.29 p.m. today. Three of their best pitchers had sallied forth against the Yanks and had been thrown for lengthy losses. The farmers had smacked the Chicago twirling to practically every corner of the lot. What had started out to be a very crucial series had become virtually null.

The Athletics made a clean sweep of their three-game series at Philadelphia with St. Louis and won their fifth in a row by a score of 4 to 2. Eddie Rommell pitched a good game until the 8th. Cob hit a home-run in the third with Collins on base. Ernie Wingard, Brown pitcher, hit for the eighth in the eighth inning.

Pulling blew up in the twelfth inning at Boston and Detroit in consequence defeated the Red Sox 10 to 5. It was the third straight victory for the Tigers, the first time this season they have rolled up three consecutive wins. The four-game series here resulted three to one for the Detroit club. The visitors made three runs in the ninth to tie Boston and carry the game into extra innings.

Tris Speaker, with a double in the thirteenth inning, paved the way for a six to five victory today over his old team mates the Cleveland Indians at Washington. McNeely running for Speaker was advanced to third on Judge's carriage, and after Blue had walked he scored on Reeves' single. Washington oversome a four-run lead in the sixth, putting five men across the plate. Cleveland tied the count in the eighth. The win gave the Senators three of the four games in the series.

PIRATES DEFEAT GIANTS IN FINAL

Buccaneers Grab Last Game Of Series By One-Sided Score

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 11.—The proud hook leaches that half a loaf is to be relished far more than none at all, and the same goes for a series around the Pirates. So the Giants left behind the smoke of Pittsburgh under day, and departed satisfied if not completely contented.

In view of the pounding they took from the Pirates yesterday at Forbes Field they probably would have been glad to leave under any conditions, but with half the series on their side of the ledger there was a spirit of real levity among the athletes even though the bounding buccaneers got the last laugh and it was a real guffaw. The score was 12 to 4. It was a fitting conclusion to a slugging, but not sluggish, series. In the four games the two teams amassed a total of sixty runs, divided as follows:

Giants 30, Pirates 30. What could be fairer?

Remembering the precedent that had been set by both clubs in the preceding games it was worth any pitcher's regimen to step in the box, but Bill Clark son, who hasn't made a reputation yet, and Carmen Hill hiding behind his spectacles, were herded out to the mid dle of the diamond and told to do their best duck.

Clarkson not only ducked but completely disappeared in the fifth inning when eleven Pirates came to bat and seven of them scored, but Hill stayed in his same place through the turmoil and seemed to enjoy it. Perhaps because it was his seventh straight victory. Darkness and rain descended on the scene and the Pirates stopped running from base to base like a fleet of submarines with the revolution on, but rather darkness, dampness and dismers could hide the fact that, except

It isn't altogether a question of eyes. The eyes are the cause, but as the function of seeing is closely connected with the nervous system, eye strain usually causes a disturbance thereof.

NOTED AVIATOR DROWNS

Montreal, Que., June 10.—When his plane broke in two as it alighted on the water of Lac Puche in the Laurentian Mountains last night, Driddell McKee, of Pittsburgh, Pa., famous for his record land flight with a seaplane and other aviation feats in Canada, was drowned.

Two boats laden with $2,000 worth of beer, which left Lasalle and then put back, are being held at Windsor for a test case.

for Fitzsimmons' performance today, the Giants were desperately short of winning pitchers.

WOMAN TENNIS PLAYER DID NOT WEAR STOCKINGS

London, June 10.—Miss "Billie" Tapscott, of the South African women's lawn tennis team that recently arrived in London, appeared at the visiting team's first practice on the grass courts of the Hurlingham Club wearing no stockings. There were many speculations among the onlookers on whether the mode would be copied by tennis players generally in this country.

The other members of the touring South African women's lawn tennis team are Mrs. Peacock and Miss E. L. Heine. Miss Heine is only 17 years of age. The South African ladies will compete in the French hard court championships in Paris and in the championships at Wimbledon.

On the question of British women tennis players discarding their stockings the Daily News interviewed Miss Evelyn Colyer, the English international, who said she thought it a very sensible idea. "On our court at home," she said, "I usually play bare-legged in hot weather. I am not sure whether I am brave enough to follow Miss Tapscott in public—but I'd like to."

The lawn tennis authorities see no objection to bare legs. "If Miss Tapscott likes," said Major D. R. Larcombe, secretary and manager of the All-England Club, "she can play at Wimbledon not only in bare legs, but in bare feet as well."

Miss Tapscott, it appears, likes bare legs chiefly because she has "never played in anything else."

THE NEWEST IDEA IN VACATIONS

During the past two or three years the newest development in the realm of travel, the all-expense personally conducted tour, has grown in popularity until it is now an important and well-recognized feature of vacation traffic.

The attractions of such tours are manifold. They abolish all worry as to itineraries, reservations, time tables, baggage, what to see and what not to see, and above all fix a definite all-inclusive cost—a feature which enables many to realize long-cherished dreams of delightful and entrancing travels—travels which but for this feature must ever have remained dreams.

The Canadian National Railways offer a choice of such delightful tours for the summer of 1927, full particulars of which, together with descriptive illustrated booklets may be had from H. C. Bourlier, General Passenger Agent, Room 607, Royal Bank Bldg., Toronto. J11-114

WHERE DOES THE CASH COME FROM?

Edmonton, Alta., Jun. 11.—"One of the puzzles of my life is how the man or woman of moderate means manages to provide silk stockings for the members of school age," says Edna Kells, in the Journal. "Few there are these days who have not learned by bitter experience that a perfectly new stocking of the very best variety may become a total loss within an hour after it is donned—and through no fault of the plucking or actual carelessness on the part of the wearer. Even barring accidents it requires a fair sum of money to keep oneself in silk stockings for a year. It is not to be expected that girls in the 'teen age or upward should on through the days as sedately as older girls or women. Nor is it natural to suppose that they should be as careful of their clothes. Consequently we cannot hope that the cost of providing silk stockings for a school girl will be less or even on a par with the cost of supplying similar stockings for her mother or older sister. Yet in spite of this, the silk-stocking-ed school girl is with us in large numbers. How does father stand it? Or mother, should she be the wage earner?

BELLE THEATRE

Our scene is the deserted darkened stage of a theatre. The characters—a pretty Russian performer and a wealthy wording who is enamored with her. Considering this the logical moment for a bit of wooing, he speaks of his love and devotion.

She, who has just that afternoon witnessed the seeming death of her real sweetheart, renuses him. Repulsed, he becomes a madman. In desperation, she jumps into the large magic cabinet, formerly used by her true lover.

As the villain rushes toward the girl, a tall, powerful figure glides from the folds of the curtain. In his hands are a dozen gleaming knives. Dexterously flying, they pin the pursuer to the wall. The last blade, aimed for his heart, is poised in midair.

What happens? Who is the rescuer? This may be taking advantage of the reader's good nature, but if you want to know what happens in that tense moment, go to the Belle on Monday. "You Never Know Women," starring Florence Vidor, and featuring Lowell Sherman and Clive Brook, is the attraction. William Wellman directed or Paramount.

CASTROL MOTOR OIL FAVORITE IN CANADA NOW

Famous English Oil Now Available For Local Motorists

Motor owners of this city and district will be delighted to hear that the famous English motor oil, Wakefield CASTROL, is now being sold by local garages and independent service stations.

Travellers abroad; in fact, in all parts of the world, have found everyone using this famous oil. It is used by millions of motorists in Great Britain, and all over Europe, India, Africa South America and Australia.

Last summer, producers of this motor oil, C. C. Wakefield & Co., Ltd., opened a Canadian office in Toronto and are now marketing their oil from Quebec right through Canada to British Columbia.

CASTROL is the lubricant used by Major Segrave recently when he shattered all world's speed records, travelling at 207 miles an hour over the Day tona Sands. Major Segrave insisted on CASTROL as his lubricant, because when he climbed into his monstrous Mystery Car to make this trial he was staking his life most certainly in the attempt and could run no risk in the vitally important matter of lubrication. It is a matter of interest that 99 out of every 100 speed and reliability tests in Europe are won by cars using Wakefield CASTROL Motor Oil. It is interesting to know that CASTROL was the lubricant chosen by the Royal Air Force, Royal Navy and Army during the War, and thousands of Canadians first made its acquaintance. Commander de Pinedo, the great Italian flying man, Sir Alan Cobham, Raold Amundsen and other famous airmen all insist upon CASTROL.

The Canadian manager of C. C. Wakefield & Co., Ltd., is Mr. Charles D. Browne of London, England, who served with distinction in the War, attaining the rank of Captain in the Royal Field Artillery and being decorated with the Military Cross and Russian Order of St. George.

The firm of C. C. Wakefield & company was formed in 1899, its founder being Sir Charles Cheers Wakefield, who was until then the Managing Director of another oil concern and a pioneer of the lubricating oil industry. Associated with him in the inception of the new enterprise was Mr. W. H. Graham, the present Managing Director of C. C. Wakefield & Company Ltd., while the third Director of the present Company (who is also its Secretary), Mr. James Browne, has been with the firm from its earliest days.

The keynote of the business associated with the name of Wakefield has always been "quality," the firm's high standards in this respect having been maintained throughits career.

Tremendous Expansion

The firm's first Works were at Liverpool, and the premises have three times been enlarged and rebuilt to cope with the growing business. With the further expansion which took place after the War it became clear that the Company's Works alone could no longer cope with the increased business and that another factory would be required. Land was purchased and a factory built at Hayes, Middlesex. Here the new Works were opened in the Summer of 1926.

Almost immediately fresh extensions were put in hand and are now almost completed, whereby this modern plant will be able to deal with more than twice the volume of business that was contemplated at the outset.

Wonderful Reputation

The firm's special product for Motor Car, Cycle and Aeroplane lubrication is the famous "Castrol" Motor Oil, and this has from the date of its introduction, about twenty years ago, taken its place as the supreme lubricant for its purpose. Before the War it had already established itself.

Prior to the War the Company was represented abroad almost entirely by agencies, but in 1919 it was decided that a necessary accompaniment of the growth of the world-wide reputation of the Company's products must be the opening of direct Branches. As a result of this policy branches in India and Australasia were inaugurated at once, followed by Branches in South Africa, France, Brazil and the Argentine. A few months ago the Canadian Branch was established with headquarters in Toronto. By the establishment of this direct representation and by the means of active agencies in other parts of the globe, the Company has been enabled to contribute materially to the success of practically all the great Motor and Aviation "round the world" journeys and flights that have been undertaken in recent years.

In the development of Aviation "Castrol" has been a pioneer among lubricants. The firm was represented and "Castrol" almost exclusively in use at the early "flying meetings" at Doncaster and Bournemouth, and it has been used in practically every important event ever since, from long-distance cross-Atlantic flights to Light Aeroplane trials. It was used by the first aeroplane and the first airship to fly across the Atlantic and by Sir Alan Cobham in all his record-to-continental flights.

Local Castrol Dealers include Axel-dine and Sons, J. B. Boyce, Riggs Garage, Belleville Vulcanizing, McLaughlin Motor Car Company, Limited and J. T. Warren.

Peterboro, June 11.—Although no official statement has yet been given out, it appears certain that Frank L. Bradburn will be appointed Government vendor at the Peterborough liquor store. The Board refuses to make a statement, but Mr. Bradburn spent today in the liquor store at Lombard and Church streets, watching operations and getting instructions.

It is believed that Mr. Bradburn's assistants in the liquor store will be Frank Pratt, county constable, and Patrick Kenny, with two other clerks.

The furniture was placed in the store including desks and counters, but no stock of liquor has yet been brought in. Rumors have the Peterborough store can not possibly open before Wednesday next, and that it will probably be later.

THE FAMILY PAGE

The Irony of Love
By Charles Garvice

"Only on Sundays, Cinderella," replied Rafe, in the old, dry, half-cynical tone which Eva loved. "You wait till I'm cleaned up and got my Sunday togs on. I look so like that you'll be proud to go out walking with me." "I don't know. I rather like you as you are; you look more like Blunder bore than ever." Then here eyes darted to Maude, who stood by, looking from one to the other ,with a smile it would be hard to describe. "And so you found him, Auntie Maude? And—and have you been good urging, too, for look, there's gravel on your dress——"

"And there's gravel on yours," cut in Rafe, as Maude crimsoned.

"Yes, and for the same reason," retorted the little imp.

"And, now, perhaps you'll permit me to shake hands with Stranlyre," said Sir, Ivor, for the two men had not been able to exchange a nod and a smile. "You and Auntie Maude go up to the hotel and tell them to get some lunch for four."

She went to Maude, but ran back to give Rafe another kiss, heedless of the "gravel." When the two men were left alone, Sir Ivor said: "I suppose you and Maude have fixed it up?"

"That's all," said Rafe simply.

"Very well, then; there's no need for any powwow—I mean talk. All I've got to say is that I'm sorry you cut this and got back to England, the better; that is, if you want to save Ovendon from a lunatic asylum."

"That's all right," said Rafe, with a nod and a laugh. "I'll be back with you. You know that there's no reason now why—why we should not be married at once?" he added, in a lower and a graver voice.

"I sincerely hope not," said Sir Ivor, with emphasis. "For Gurdon's and the only man who's in danger of a lunatic asylum. But there, therno no need for any more words. I say"—as he surveyed Rafe up and down and grinned ruefully—"are you coming up to lunch in those togs?"

"I am so," said Rafe, "it's a goodish way from my hut——"

"Hut!" good lord!" groaned Sir, Ivor. "And I can't spare the time. Every minute is precious. You understand?" said Rafe, looking at Maude's back.

"Well, I suppose you'll wash your hands," or isn't that etiquette?"

"Well, I don't mind washing my hands," drawled Rafe.

Somewhat as Sir Ivor surprise and amusement, Rafe's appearance caused no astonishment to the landlord or the waiters. Indeed, they greeted Rafe as if he were an honored guest; and while Eva was delighted with the novelty of sitting next to a real man in his real working clothes, Maude was as proud of Rafe's muself-consciousness as he was Eva with most of the talking, in fact, she never ceased during the meal, but when it was over, she looked from Maude to Rafe and said:

"Now you'll take us down to see the wicked old man, you've been giving me a long taste"

"Shy no more, madam," said the old man grinning, "I've become fully acquainted with your voice, so Mr. Guy tells me, and I'm sure I shall know you at once. I have the letter you wrote

GIRLS KEEPING PACE WITH MODERN MEN

By ELSIE MARLOWE

. I had to get out my gum boots and wade through Reilly's letter, it was so slushed up with tears. . . I think that Edward has treated her so!

After she has loved him so madly for six lovely years; ever since she was nineteen!

And she's never look.s at another boy, nor had another interest in the world

Except Edward!

Morning, noon and night she has thought of Edward.

She wouldn't go any place if Edward wasn't going.

Lots of times the girls in the store formed hiking clubs and sewing clubs or swimming clubs and wanted her to belong, but she would never belong because Edward might want her to get somewhere with him on the night of the day that the club was going to meet, and of course, Edward came first.

Why, she just lived for Edward.

Every day she phoned him. Every night, unless she saw him, she wrote him a little note. She always wore his favorite colors and she hemstitched all his hankies.

And now—

After six years of such faithful, marvelous devotion—

Edward has up and jilted Emily and married a pert, flippant little widow who doesn't give a hoot about Edward's pet colors and who keeps him hoodwinked trying to keep up with her.

So Emily wails and cries that her heart is broken. And at the center of ten of her letter writes that her life is utterly ruined because—

"Love is of man's life a thing apart—

'Tis woman's whole existence."

Is that so, girlie?

Well, if that's the kind of stuff you believe it's no wonder you were left waiting at the church. I admit that the slogan went big envy in the world. Love was, indeed, "a woman's whole existence" when woman dated in with the cows and sheep, the kitchen range, the hayrake, and other domestic chattels. But that time has long since passed and today the woman who has no other interests save love ought to be ashamed of herself.

Moreover, she stands an excellent chance of losing that very love upon which she has centered her life.

The women who have the happiest lives in 1927 don't achieve them by sitting around writing sentimental notes and wondering forget-me-nots on suspenders. They achieve them by leading full, normal, busy lives which embrace as many interests, amusements and responsibilities as the lives of men.

Successful sweethearts of to-day swim, hike, play tennis, vote, read interesting books, dance, play cards, cook, sew, attend lectures, belong to clubs, work in offices, take correspondence courses, study French and in every way possible will their lives with color and purpose and force.

They don't merely Desire.

They inspire.

They make themselves desirable.

You have spent six years, Emily, in sighing and yearning, dreaming and palpitating for your Edward.

The other little lady has filled those six years full of fun and adventure, full of cheerful, healthy little pets on so tinging with charm and magnetism.

And in six years she undid your six worshiping years.

Naturally! For, as a matter of fact, she really offers Edward more than you offer him. She will make life more colorful than you could have made it. She will make him step livelier and work harder and think faster. . She will be much better for Edward than you would have been.

It's tragic for you, Emily; but people who get in the way of the sweep and the recoup of life usually meet up with tragedy.

And so it isn't too late yet to learn your lesson if you will. Stop making love your whole existence and get out and LIVE. Then your love will be a vital, magnetic thing, instead of a flat tire.

According to the last trade census New York leads the states in the production of trunks, travelling bags and suit cases. Pennsylvania ranking second and Illinois third.

New York reports that the newest period frocks have skirts that dip at the side rather than at the direct back as has been the case recently.

Little by little the solid ranks of sports clothes are giving way to allow for the growing popularity of daytime frocks that are simple and smart without being strictly of the sports family. Such is the jersey frock above which may be made in one of the silk or cotton crepes or in a light wool material. The interesting yoke descends into two stitched points at the side-front and into a third point at the center of the back, while a simple little collar falls into tie ends at the front. A-dvice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I do not know whether you have ever received a letter like the one I am going to write you, but I would appreciate it very much if you would tell me what you think. Here is the question: Do you think it possible for one person to fall in love with some other even though they have never met?

I have known this girl ten months now, yet I have never seen her, only by pictures. My cousin gave me her address and I wrote to her just for fun. We talk to each other every week, though—long distance—and one morning we talked two hours and fifteen minutes.

Your reply means so much Annie Laurie.

HOPEFUL.

HOPEFUL: Any two people who can talk for two hours over the telephone MUST be in love! But, seriously, Mr. Hopeful, it does seem difficult to believe that one can fall in love with someone one has never seen. However, why don't you remedy this quickly? Arrange a meeting, and then you will know whether or not your love is real.

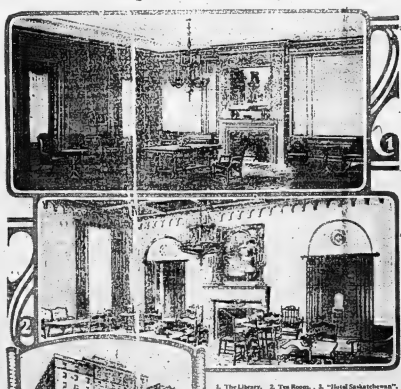

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am nineteen and in love with a man of thirty-five. He loves me, too. But my parents object to the match. Since he came back from France he has been a wanderer. He has settled in one position. Do you think he would be the man for me to marry?

BLUE-HEARTED.

BLUE-HEARTED: There are sixteen years between you and the man you love. That in itself would be a serious difference. But the difference of age is not the most serious drawback to your marriage with the man you have chosen. A man who has been a wanderer to the five ages of the earth is rarely capable of settling down thereafter. I can well understand your parents objections to the match. They fear a never-do-well as a son-in-law.

Regina's New Hostelry

1. The Library. 2. Tea Room. 3. "Hotel Saskatchewan".

The latest addition to the chain of Canadian Pacific Hotels, the "Hotel Saskatchewan," which was officially opened by President Beatty, on May 24, is a modern hotel of a character in keeping with the importance of the Capital City of the Province which furnishes 50 per cent. of the Dominion's wheat output. Regina—"Queen City of the Prairies"—which has had a rapid development during the first fifty years of its existence, has long felt the need of a new hostelry. As long ago as 1912 the erection of an hotel was actively started, but when the War came to be the guest of honor at a dream of a splendid new hotel was banquet given by the Canadian Club of the Canadian Pacific.

The new hotel was conceived and designed with two considerations always uppermost in the minds of its creators; the maximum of comfort and convenience for its guests and a pleasing architectural effect. With the desired result in mind the architects have developed a design which is singularly pleasing and which may be regarded as one of the most beautiful buildings in Western Canada.

The exterior of the building is designed in Georgian style, the first two storeys above the street being faced with Tyndale stone, quarried near Winnipeg. The main entrance has been treated with Corinthian pilasters.

The Hotel is an eleven-storey building, containing 216 bedrooms with baths and many beautiful public rooms and administrative offices. Two storeys with space for more guest rooms have been left unequipped.

One of the most pleasing rooms in the Main Lobby is overlooking the Park. The treatment of this room has a Spanish character, the antique decorated plaster, and large carved fire-place giving it a pleasing effect. The ceiling is heavily beamed and panelled.

The Ball Room, of a George Adams design, is on the first floor, as are also the Lounge, the Library, and the Writing Room.

The mechanical equipment is of the most modern design, all the services being provided self-contained. The hotel has its own refrigeration and electrical generating plants.

Varicose Veins Reduced or Money Back, Says Doyle's

Simple Home Treatment That Is Giving Amazing Results.

The world progresses. Today ailments that took weeks to treat can now be ended in a few days. If you have varicose veins or bunches you can start today to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required.

After a few days' treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and by regular use will soon reduce to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is also a marvelous healing agent. One application for instance stops the itching of eczema, and after a few days because the eruptions do dry up, scale off and completely disappear. It is equally as effective in borber's itch, salt rheum, redness and inflammatory skin trouble.

People who want to reduce varicose veins, or get rid of eczema, ulcers, or piles in a few days should not hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is so powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time. Any druggist can supply you. Doyle's Drug Store sells lots of it.

SINCLAIR'S

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN

By Mildred Barbour

Sybil went home, wondering if she'd live through the two days until they sailed, without being ill. Later that evening in view of an unexpected and unforeseen happening, she believed it would be impossible.

CHAPTER 39.

THE PACE OF GUILT

Coming home after her encounter with Serge Patton, Sybil found Ted sprawled comfortably on the sofa in the drawing-room, his head, with its mop of untidy black hair, resting on a cloth of silver cushion. Illustrated journals were strewn about, and a cigarette was burning its way toward the mother-of-pearl inlay of a teakwood tabouret.

Sybil eyes him grimly as she sank into a chair and, tossing aside her hat ran slim white fingers through the sleek coiffure.

"Well, you've certainly succeeded in getting me thoroughly suspected by three men!" she remarked. "I suppose it wasn't enough for you—along with Dads and Jimmie—to ruin my reputation when I was a girl back home? You had to drag your wretched slime into my life here."

"Rubbish!" he scoffed good-naturedly. "You couldn't outfit your reputation, as you call it, by running away with Arthur Winslow, did you? And as for these chaps that dance around you like monkeys on a chain, I don't believe you care a hang for any of them."

"Not for them—personally. They only amuse me. But what their opinion stands for—that's a different matter. I get tired of being stunned by every decent person back home. Here I hoped to have a life of my own where wasn't forever pointed out as the daughter of Fred Ross and the sister of the unforgivable Ross boy."

Ted regarded his sister curiously.

"Don't you honestly care what these fellows think of you? Is it only the idea of being suspected that makes you sore?"

"I have my self-respect," she flared illogically. "That's all that matters. The men don't."

"You're a queer fish!" Ted salvaged the cigarette, for which Sybil had forgotten to reproach him, and returned to his papers. "You certainly seem to have it in for anything that wears pants. Its an obsession. Better watch yourself, old girl, or, if you fall for some guy, and he turns you down, you'll be found floating in the river."

Sybil smiled on, seemingly unhurt her hat and bag, and repaired to her dressing-room.

"Only two more days!" she comfort ed herself, thinking of Ted's welcome departure.

She had no engagement for the evening and went to bed early to read. Hilda had been given permission to spend the night with her friends in Jersey, and Ted had the apartment for once, to shut himself in his room.

The apartment was very silent. Sybil heard a clock strike twelve and was dropping off to sleep, when her doorbell began to ring violently.

The police! Ted's presence had been discovered!

With her hand in her mouth, she sprang out of bed, dragged on a negligee, thrust her feet into sandals, and went, softly down the hall. Ted poked his head out of his door.

"Don't let them in for Heaven's sake! Say you're ill or—"

"Who is it?"

"Let me in. I tell you I will see her myself! You can't fool me."

"Florine! You're crazy! Listen to reason, honey! Listen, I've sent for Dr. Maxwell. You won't want him, Dr. Maxwell to see you like this—"

It was another voice that argued. On hearing the name of Dr. Maxwell, Sybil thought. Ew to the encounter she had had one day in the hall. The young physician the over-dressed woman whom he referred to as "Miss de-Vere" was not quite right. "If you can keep her from drinking for a couple of hours—or—since she'll need an alienist."

Reassured, Sybil opened the door. She was instantly seized by a girl in an evening negligee, her eyes wild, her face flushed.

"Get me in!" the girl panted. "I must see for myself! She," pointing to her companion, who was endeavoring to restrain her, "she says he's not in your apartment. But you can't fool me! I know you're hiding him there! He wants to get away from me—see? He says he's going to leave me—" her voice was rising hysterically.

"Who is in my apartment?" Sybil asked her quietly.

"My John, that's who! He thinks he's going to get away. He said, if I ever drank again—" she began to sob, and each sob rose on a higher note.

"Oh, if only Maxwell would come!" panted Miss de Brodes. "I don't know what to do. She's had delirium tremens. She thinks her friend is hiding in your apartment. We were all having a few cocktails, as quiet as could be, when she and her friend had a row. He went away, and now she's sure—oh, Dr. Maxwell!" She turned with relief as the young physician emerged from the elevator.

He took in the scene with a single glance of his keen gray eyes. Sybil saw that his dark brows were drawn tautly. Quite plainly, Dr. Maxwell had no patience with such happenings. He looked furious. Sybil thought, with a curious and inexplicable little thrill. But his voice was very gentle, as he said, taking the hysterical girl's arm in a firm grip:

"Now Miss Florine, let's go back to your apartment, and you shall tell me all about it."

The girl began to sob again; to reiterate that her "John" was in Sybil's apartment; that she'd got to see him. She'd kill herself, if they wouldn't let her in.

The physician's glance turned abruptly to Sybil. He addressed her, yet he seemed not to see her.

"Will you be kind enough to humor the whim of a young woman who is suffering from a delusion?" he asked of Sybil. "I think the quickest way to end this painful scene is to allow her to see for herself that her friend is not in your apartment—if that is not asking too much."

Sybil flushed to the roots of her hair. How could she let these people in—with Ted there? Not for his sake but for—

RUN-DOWN AFTER BIRTH OF BABY

Ottawa Woman Made Strong by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ottawa, Ontario.—"I was terribly run-down after the birth of my third baby. I had awful bearing-down pains and was afraid I had serious trouble! I was tired all the time and had no appetite. My sister-in-law is taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and cannot praise it too highly and asked me to try it. I have had splendid results and feel fine all the time now. Any one who needs a thorough pick-me-up soon learns from me what to take."—Mrs. ROSE PAQUIN, 218 Cumberland Street, Ottawa, Ontario.

Terrible Backache

Hamilton, Ont.—"After my baby was born I had terrible backache and headaches. I could not do my work and felt tired from the first minute I got up. But worst of all were the pains in my sides when I moved about. I had to sit or lie down for a while afterwards. I could keep my house in order, but many things had to go unchose at the time, because of my ailments. I was told by a neighbor to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as she said it would build me up. I was relieved before I had taken the first we bought and have not had any trouble like it since."—Mrs. T. WALES ONE OF BEST HUNTERS IN THE FIELD

Melton Mowbray, England, June 11.—Although scarcely six years have passed since the Prince of Wales made his debut in the hunting field he can more than hold his own in any company.

It was in November, 1921, that he underwent a strenuous and strict schooling under Captain George Drummond. The prince then owned but one horse, an aged black mare, said to be valued at only a few pounds. Today the royal stables at Craven Lodge, Melton Mowbray, contain some of the finest hunters in England.

"Passport Two", the prince's favorite, who figured in many steeplechase events last season, is next in line. "Son and Heir," "March Maid," "Hard to Find," "Pakenham," and "How's That," are among the four-teen animals.

Overlooking the stables is the prince's hunting flat, one of the plainest abodes in the hunting town. The walls of the staircase leading from the small entrance hall to the royal suite do not possess even a coat of plaster.

THOUSAND TWINS OUT FOR SHOW

Liverpool, June 8.—Twin day at the Shakespeare Theatre here brought out 1,020 twins for the performance of "Two Little Girls in Blue," in which the two sisters Berry appeared.

The manager of the theatre conceived the idea of inviting Liverpool twins to see the twin actresses, figuring at the most not more than a hundred would respond, but much to his surprise 510 pairs appeared, each pair with a birth certificate which settled any doubt of admission. The majority of the ghests were girls. The oldest pair was seventy, and the young est four years old.

WORD "STOP" IS USED BY FRENCH

Paris, June 9.—The English word "stop" has crept into the French language by way of motoring much to the disgust of one irate Frenchman who says he will refuse to obey the injunction whatever the consequences.)

Many car-owners have adopted stop-lights, or bought them before the French article was put on the market. The word "stop" is as often flashed in red light on the back of French cars as is the French equivalent "halte."

A special writer for a French newspaper recently declared his intention of ramming every motor which carried the "stop" sign. He was not expected he asserted, to know the meaning of a foreign word.

Here and There

It is estimated that 23,500,000 acres will be sown to crops this year in the West, an increase of 2,500,000 acres over 1926.

Tobacco-growing is flourishing in Western Ontario, and this year the acreage will likely run to 15,000 or double that devoted to the production of this plant in 1925. The crop last year was valued at $6,000,000.

One of the most powerful radio stations in Canada will be erected at Red Deer, Alberta, in the near future. Stations will be operated in Calgary and Edmonton by remote control to the main station.

New Zealand will be officially represented at the World's Poultry Congress at Ottawa, July 27 to August 6. R. W. Hawke, one of the Island Dominion's best known poultry breeders, will represent that country.

Besides the game fish hatchery which will be established by the Dominion Government in the Waterton Lakes district of Southern Alberta, a commercial fish hatchery will be established in the north. The latter will also handle certain species of game fish suitable to lake waters.

The Canadian Pacific steamship passenger traffic through the port of Saint John during the winter season of 1926-7 was over 40 per cent. greater than that of the previous season, and it is expected that the summer traffic through the St. Lawrence port will show a still greater increase.

The last addition to the chain of Canadian Pacific hotels is the "Hotel Saskatchewan," located at Regina, opening on May 24. It is one of the finest of the chain of a character in keeping with the importance of the capital city of the Province which furnishes 50 per cent. of the Dominion's wheat output. The hotel is 12 stories, containing 216 bedrooms with bath, and many beautiful public rooms and administrative offices.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company reports from Winnipeg the marketing of grain at the present rate of 180,000 bushels daily, as compared with 123,376 for the corresponding season of last year. Manitoba's 100,000 compares with Saskatchewan's 533,000 and Alberta's 366,827. Loadings are also above last year's record with 220 cars daily.

The greater portion of the bells forming the carillon to be installed in the Victory Tower, at Ottawa, were shipped from England on May 7 by the Canadian Pacific steamship "Balfour." The carillon, consisting of 53 bells, is regarded as the finest in the world, and have been cast at the famous bell foundry at Croydon. The bells are a portion of a national memorial to thousands of Canadians who fell down their lives in the Great War.

The Province of New Brunswick is rising in importance as a farming province. The report on the fur farms of Canada just issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics shows New Brunswick at the head of all the provinces in the matter of the yearly gain in the number of fur farms. These increased by exactly 100 in the year ending March, 1926, nearly doubling the number of the year before and standing in the later year at 206. Prince Edward Island still leads the Dominion in the number of farms, having 570 out of a Dominion total of 2,232, the latter figure comparing with 2,130 the year before. The provinces rank as follows: Prince Edward Island, 570; Ontario 495; Quebec, 456; New Brunswick, 206; Nova Scotia, 192; Alberta and British Columbia, each 120; Manitoba, 83; Saskatchewan, 42, and the Yukon Territories, 29.

Glandular Treatment for Indigestion

Renzyme is a scientific combination of all enzymes and ferments necessary to the digestion of food—A natural and effective digestant.

It is a common knowledge that by far the greatest number of ailments for which physicians are consulted, may be classified as belonging to disorders of the digestive organs. This may be the result of improper diet, overeating, or to disease of the stomach or digestive organs, or may also be secondary to other diseases or illness such as nervousness, anaemia, debility, etc. The number of people who suffer from dyspepsia, indigestion, flatulence, regurgitation of food, heartburn, loss of appetite are countless and in fact, at times every person his suffered from some such digestive upset or disorder.

The means of relief offered to the public has up to the present time been merely temporary and unsatisfactory and has in the main consisted in the administration of chemicals and drugs of various forms. In Renzyme there has been discovered the most rational and effective treatment for disordered digestion that has as yet been offered to sufferers of this complaint. The action of various animal and vegetable enzymes and ferments in digestion has long been known to scientists and for years has been utilized commercially in the preparation of various foods. We know that the food is acted upon by these enzymes and broken into simpler compounds so that these may be easily assimilated by the body and used for heat, energy and replacing the worn out tissues.

Renzyme is a scientific combination of all the enzymes and ferments necessary to the digestion of all kinds of foods. It consists of the natural animal and vegetable ferments such as are secreted during digestion by the healthy digestive glands, unadulterated by any chemical or drug. The process of digestion does not vary in different individuals as it is an exact scientific biochemical process. The digestive disturbances enumerated above are largely the result of absence or deficiency of these enzymes. The rational treatment for these disturbances, therefore, is to supply these ferments to the human organism. Renzyme supplies this deficiency and note how it does it furnish lacking ferments but it acts as a hotspur stimulating the natural flow of juices in the digestive organs and thus gradually restores these organs to their proper functions.

In recent years the treatment of disease by means of glandular preparations has advanced rapidly. For need only recall the benefits that have followed the discovery of insulin. We believe that in Renzyme there is found a glandular enzyme, which will prove equally as successful in its own field.

It is recommended in all cases of overeating, faulty diet, disordered digestion or where there is a deficiency of the natural juices as is evidenced by symptoms of flatulence, heartburn, sense of fullness after meals, lack of appetite etc. It will also prove invaluable in restoring and aiding the weakened digestive functions of invalids, convalescents and aged people.

Arrangements have been made whereby Renzyme is supplied by the druggist at the nominal charge of $1.50 a bottle.

FAMOUS LIBRARY IS A CURIOSITY

Vancouver, B.C., June 4 (Canadian Press).—The "Cottonian Library," compiled by Robert Southey during those industrious years of his life spent at Greta Hall, Keswick, remains one of the most intriguing curiosities of bibliography.

The greater number of these slim little volumes, several hundreds in all, stitched together and bound in white ship of these specimens, together with much other interesting Southeyana, of course, preserved in libraries and museums in Great Britain; but half a dozen have found their way to Canada and are at present in the possession of William Anderson, of Vancouver.

Southey was a tireless reviewer of books; and it was his habit to copy brief extracts from the volumes which came before his judgment. It is this intellectual gold, the reward of his pick-and-shovel work, which is preserved in the precious booklets comprising his Cottonia Library.

Mr. Anderson came into the ownership of these specimens, together with cotton by the hands of the poet, are, through his grandmother who was a close friend of Edith Southey, the poet's niece. Chapters ninety-nine and one hundred of a "Life of Bacon" never completed, form an item of this collection which also includes a snuff box and ink well used by Southey and two letters in his hand.

One of these epistles offers pious consolation to a daughter on the occasion of the death of her younger sister Its paragraphs are crammed with excellent advice and are rich in a Biblically parental love, but the more mundane feelings of the natural father are held in strict restraint

GOOD SPEAKING UNION GROWN TO VERY LARGE SIZE

New York, N. Y., June 9.—The membership of the English-Speaking Union of the United States has grown in several years from 2,500 to more than 12,000, according to a recent announcement by John Daniels, national secretary. The society now has some thirty branches extending from Maine to Georgia, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and out beyond to Honolulu and Manila.

"At Manila the society comes within hailing distance of the Australian and New Zealand branches of our British sister society, the English-Speaking Union of the British Empire, with headquarters in London, which has a membership of about 20,000 and twenty-odd branches," Mr. Daniels said. "Thus between the two there are now more than fifty links in a friendly chain that encircles the globe.

"This is by no means an exclusively Anglo-American, Anglo-Saxon or Nordic movement. It is based on the self-evident fact that people who speak the same language, whatever their racial stock or descent, are able to understand one another and to work together, toward the end of helping to establish and maintain lasting peace throughout the world."

Asked if the movement had taken organized form in Canada, Mr. Daniels said no organization work had been done yet, although there were many individual members scattered over the dominion.

"Any branches which may be launched in Canada, through the initiative of the Canadian people themselves, would of course be affiliated with our British sister society," Mr. Daniels said.

SOLAR ECLIPSE WILL BREAK UP OLD TRADITION

Oxford, England, May.. 27.—Ancient Oxford University is proud of its aged traditions, precedents and habits, and it has taken a solar eclipse to change one of them.

For centuries Oxford's Commencement Day has been unalterably scheduled for the last Wednesday in June. This year, however, the Wednesday falls on June 29, on which day there is to be a total eclipse of the sun. Consequently the governing body of the university at a solemn session, decided to postpone the commencement exercises until the next, Thursday.

Conservative Oxonians are alarmed at the change, but console themselves with the knowledge that nothing less than a solar eclipse could alter the university's routine.

CANADA'S GREAT NATURAL WEALTH

It has been said that Canada as a whole is really much younger commercially and politically. Her total surface area of land and water amounts to three and three-quarter million square miles. The Prairie Provinces produce nearly over 600,000,000 bushels of wheat and oats as a contribution to the food supply of the world, and little more than one-fifth of the total 300,000,000 acres believed to be fit for agricultural purposes have been placed under field crops. The remaining four-fifths are capable of sustaining many added millions of population and they include an immense acreage already ripe for settlement.

The forest areas stand second only to arable lands among the basic resources of the Dominion, and forest industries have been surpassed by agriculture alone in fostering commercial growth. Even the work of ascertaining the actual extent of her commercial forests is still far from complete; at a rough estimate approximately one-quarter (600,000,000 acres) of the total land area in the Dominion is covered by forest growth. British Columbia contains over two-thirds of the merchantable sawtimber of Canada; the forests of the Middle West will probably be required to supply the local demand; two-thirds of the newsprint paper consumed in the United States is either of Canadian manufacture or is made from wood or woodpulp imported from Quebec, Ontario, New Brunswick, and British Columbia.

The actual extent of Canada's water-powers, like that of its forests, has been by no means fully ascertained, but the available and developed horse-power (water-powers is reckoned to be over thirty million, over four and a half million of which are already installed, namely in Ontario and Quebec—Ontario having the largest hydro-electric distribution system known. The figures that that Canada ranks second only to Norway in the per capita utilization of water-power and the average is more than three times that of the United States. There are millions of water horse-power of such rivers as the Nelson and Churchill, to say nothing of those in northern Saskatchewan and Alberta, run into more millions, which will, one day, be harnessed and transmitted far and wide.

Few countries possess greater coal resources than Canada, which is estimated to possess one-sixth of the total amount of coal in the world. Long before the exceptional production stimulated by the War, the Dominion had become the world's principal source of nickel, asbestos and cobalt, and an important producer of gold, silver, copper, lead, zinc and a number of rarer metals. Five of the nine provinces of the Dominion share substantially in mining activity, although Ontario leads her sisters by a considerable margin.

Not only on the Atlantic but also on the Pacific Coast and in her fresh water areas Canada possesses fisheries of exceptional value. Two of the four great sea fishing areas of the world border on the Dominion, and, in addition, her lakes and rivers constitute approximately one-half of the fresh water of the globe, while the great inland sea of Hudson's Bay, still practically untouched, can be regarded as a reserve. The Atlantic coast line measures over 3,000 miles; the Pacific shore line, over 7,000 miles; the fresh water lakes of the interior constitute an area of 220,000 square miles.

Every province shares substantially in the returns derived from fur resources, and every effort is being made through the enforcement of trapping restrictions, the creation of sanctuaries, the supervision of the fur trade and close study of the annual catch, to guard against depletion.

GUM-DIPPING
Builds Extra Miles

The Firestone process of Gum-Dipping is one of the most important of the many Firestone contributions to more economical highway transportation.

It thoroughly saturates and insulates every fiber of every cord with rubber, minimizing friction and heat, so destructive to tire life.

On the cars of hundreds of thousands of motorists, in the service of the largest truck, bus and taxicab fleets, in the battle of tires on race tracks, Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires, because of their greater stamina, are delivering longer mileage with added safety and comfort.

The Firestone Dealer in your locality will gladly explain to you the extra value of Gum-Dipping. He is prepared to demonstrate how the cords of the carcass are saturated in a rubber solution, insulating every fiber of every cord with rubber, which minimizes friction.

Beauty Spots are near you no matter where you live

On less frequented roads are many lovely places, not far from your home

Not on the main travelled highways, but out along the county and township roads the most beautiful natural scenery in Ontario will be found.

Not far from you, no matter where you live in Ontario, are beauty spots you do not know of, for like other motorists you have an inclination to stick to pavements.

Around you is geography you have never seen. Get out your road map and locate these lovely places. Don't be timid about turning on to lesser roads and then to byways not much frequented.

County roads in Ontario are good—the best of them rival some of the Provincial Highways, and the township roads are becoming better every year. Of all the roads in old Ontario, 60% have road "metal" on them, that is, they have been improved in grade and width and built up with stone. You have a surprise and a pleasure in store if you have not explored these lesser roads.

Far and near, the highways bring you to new scenes and new people.

The association with fellow-citizens in other parts of Ontario is one of the greatest opportunities they offer you. This association will give you a broader view of life in your own Province.

There's no better way to travel. None by which you see the country so well, or become so intimate with the people.

Plan to get about the Province in your car this summer. Take the family with you. Use the highways. They belong to you and to the other taxpayers, and you are paying for their construction and maintenance

If you want to enjoy roadside beauties you will drive moderately. High speeds are for those who want to get there, not for those who are out to see the country. But whether fast or slow, remember your driving must be cautious. The faster moving traffic under the new speed limit thrusts greater responsibility on you. In seeking to preserve the safety of the highway, the Government asks for the support of all motorists.

Through villages and past roadside schools, where pedestrians are using the road, at cross roads and rail roads, at curves and bridges — BE CAKEFUL.

At all times, BE COURTEOUS.

The offence of recklessness or carelessness on the highways is not mitigated one degree because the speed limit has been increased. Disregard of the law will continue to be dealt with as The Highways Act provides even to the extent of imprisonment and loss of car license.

Women Who Are Weak

Gain New Vitality by Building Up the Blood

There are many women who pass their days in a constant state of weakness. They have barely sufficient energy to enable them to perform their manifold duties. Often they have an aching head, a miserable pain in the back, and limbs that feel as heavy as lead. The whole trouble is due to bloodlessness. No woman need suffer in this way. It is easy to obtain a supply of rich red blood by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The new blood created by these pills rapidly builds up the system; headaches and backaches disappear, energy returns and the joy of living is felt once more.

Proof of these statements is given by Mrs. Ed. Lanore, Stoney Point, Ont., who says:—"For a long time I had been in a very miserable condition, always feeling tired out, sleepy and weak. The least work about the house would leave me helpless, tired and nothing that I did seemed to give relief. Believing that a rest might do me good we moved to town, but, contrary to expectations, instead of getting better I was growing steadily weaker. About this while talking to a neighbor, she urged my taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, telling me that her daughter had been in a condition much like mine. This persuaded me to try this medicine and I have much reason to be grateful that I followed her advice. After the use of a few boxes of the pills, there could be no doubt that they were helping me, and as I continued their use gradually my strength came back and now I am doing all my own work and feeling in the best of health. For this splendid condition I must give my thanks to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

The pills are sold by all druggists or you can get them by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

15-year-old Russell Smith was killed in the Market Square at Meaford when the top of the Memorial Fountain broke off and pinned him to the ground.

LOW TRAM FARER PLEASE SCOTCH

Glasgow, Scotland, June 10.—Merry-go-rounds and even the donkeys in the children's playgrounds have been hard hit by the bargain rate fare of the city's new tramways, which give a two-hour ride for a fraction less than 4 cents.

Baby carriage manufacturers, too, have been affected by the cheap rate tickets. Their business has fallen off considerably owing to mothers having found it convenient to allow the nurse to take baby for a street car ride instead of pushing the youngster about the park. This innovation also has a tendency to make the nurse more attentive with their tasks and cause them to lose leather heads.

Since the 21 mile was inaugurated for two copper last July more than 70,000,000 passengers have made use of it and an increase of 13,000,000 over the previous year, and given the corporation an additional revenue of $2,000,000 pounds.

Automobile and motor cycle dealers who specialized in little family cars designed for the average working man say their business has suffered more than the baby carriage trade because there is now cheaper than buying a car.

The ride extends from a beauty spot on one side of the city to a picturesque terminus on the other, the corporation advertising wonderful views of Cleuch Fed Braes, of Alba Craig and the vast field of Drumsheg, "all for tuppence."

BRITISH STAGE SEXUALITY SINK

Bristol, England, June. 10.—The British stage is in danger of becoming a "sink of sexuality," says Jerome K. Jerome, who has been an actor as well as a writer.

In future, he blieves, depends on the little theatre.

"Authors must choose between pandering to the popular taste or being content with a decent wage in return for good work," he said in an address from the stage of Bristol's Little Theatre. "With a little theatre in every town a good play could be sure of a year's run, or even more.

French River Home of the Fighting "Muskie"

"Muskies" are so plentiful at French River, Ontario, according to J. G. Strathdee, who runs the French River Bungalow Camp at this Ontario resort, that he and his brother, while paddling down the River, past the golf course, struck a muskellunge at least four feet long which was sunning itself near the surface of the water. The muskie, which was as surprised as the canoists, leaped several feet out of the water, then vanished from view.

French River station is on the Canadian Pacific Railway, 218 miles north of Toronto, 60 miles north of Parry Sound, and 45 miles south of Sudbury. The Bungalow Camp is attractively situated on an elevation commanding a magnificent view of the main channel of the French River and within 200 yards of the station. In addition to the Bungalow Camp, an outlying sub-camp is situated at Pine Rapids, at the head of Eighteen Mile Island, little farther off the best fishing waters of the upper French river.

It has as an adjunct Pine Rapids Camp, which is 25 miles up the river. These two camps accommodate ninety people, and there are plenty of fish—muskellunge, Great Northern pike, pickerel, and small and large mouth black bass. There are things well built and comfortable bungalows at the main camp, while Pine Rapids has canvas houses built on wooden floors. French River is 218 miles North of Toronto.

Here is a tale told by Mr. Strathdee, about a "muskie" with a tackle-sche. In August, this big iron water tiger needs a fish dentist. Last year a visitor to French River hooked a 20-pounder which immediately dropped to the bottom of the river and sulked. The knowing Indian guide tapped the rod with the knife; the vibrations went through the pole, down the line to the mouth of the "muskie", and irritated or-ged its sore teeth. The muskie then leaped clear of the water, and proceeded to give the fisherman a fierce fight lasting three-quarters of an hour!

The muskellunge at French River run from 10 to 46 pounds, and one was caught in this well-known angling resort which weighed 55 lbs.

ROYAL FAMILY'S HAIR DIFFICULT TO REPRODUCE

London, June 10.—The Prince of Wales, all of his brothers and Princess Mary have hair of a color which is very difficult for portrait painters to reproduce, says Albert H. Collins. He has just completed a study for the prince for one of the Indian governments.

"I had great trouble with the prince's hair," the painter asserted. "It is of a color peculiar to the royal family."

At times the hair of the younger members of the family appears lovely in dull lights, but there is a yellowish tint which is noticeable in brighter light. The hair of the queen mother generally seems darker than that of their sister, as they apparently make more use of oily preparations to keep their hair in place.

Mr. Collins's new portrait of the Prince of Wales is three quarter length and shows him in full dress uniform of the Welch Guards standing with one hand on his hip and the other on a sword.

ENGLISH WOMAN GIVES MONEY TO 4 UNIVERSITIES

London, June 10.—A large sum—stated to be $50,000 pounds—about $1,250,000—is understood by the Daily Sketch to have been bequeathed for the establishment of scholarships at Yale and Harvard and Oxford and Cambridge by Lady Henry, widow of Sir Charles Solomon Henry.

Lady Henry, the eldest daughter of the late Leonard Lewisohn, copper magnate, was born in New York City but had made her home in England since her marriage to Sir Charles in 1892. She was always deeply interested in promoting good understanding between the peoples of Great Britain and the United States, and her last quest was made in furtherance of this ideal. It provides for facilities in the U.S. universities for British students, and for facilities at Oxford and Cambridge for Americans.

Lady Henry, who died in London recently after an operation for cancer, had long been prominent in society and politics and gave much of her time to charitable movements.

CITY HARD ON GIRLS' MORALS

Florence, Italy, June 8.—Keep your daughters out of the cities if you want to save their morals, is the warning Cardinal Dalla Costa, archbishop of Florence, is sending to the farmers' wives in his Archdiocese in an official communication Bishops immediately dressing.

"If the spring in a forewarning of what the summer has in store," the Cardinal tells his clergy in the communication, "need your pastoral aid. One cannot take a step in the cities and towns without seeing young girls of eighteen with short dresses, often indecently showing half-naked legs which shock anyone with any sense of shame, decency and decorum.

"Although I know that it is vain to try to fight the tyranny of fashion or the vanity of women, I hope the Parish priests will fight public sexual lewdness immediately outside of the churches. Country priests should warn mothers against allowing their daughters to come to cities if they want to retain their honesty, reputations and futures."

ROUMANIAN WILL BE COMMANDER OF EXPEDITION

New York, N.Y., June 10.—An Arctic exploration designed to study polar-weather influences on North Atlantic navigation conditions will leave Copenhagen for the north about July 16, it was announced by Dr. Constantin Ionescu, 29-year-old Rumanian glaciologist and explorer.

The party will have its base camp a mountain 1,000 metres high, on the district of Angmagssalik, just at the edge of the Arctic circle on the ideal eastern coast of Greenland. The members will study glacial conditions within the Arctic circle with relation to storms of the navigable North Atlantic, supplying shipping with radio warnings and dynamiting of icebergs that imperil navigation.

EGYPTIAN QUEEN'S TOMB DISCOVERED

Cairo, Egypt, June 10.—Discovery of the Tomb of Queen Meresankh, a grand-daughter of Cheops, builder of the great pyramids, has been reported by Professor George A. Reisner, Harvard Egyptologist, who has been carrying on excavations in the vicinity of the pyramids at Giza.

Dr. Reisner, whose most recent work has been on the tomb of Queen Hetep-heres, wife of Sneferu and mother of Cheops, said that the new discovery had been made on the last day of the season's labors.

Queen Meresankh was a daughter of Prince Kawab and Queen Hetep-heres I. who was the daughter of Cheops.

The excavators found a chapel of three rooms cut from the rock. The chapel contained the statue and statuettes in niches in the walls. Around the northern part of the main room were painted reliefs whose coloring was vividly preserved.

Toronto, Jun. 10.—Max Rappaport, 28, was shot and wounded in the hip early today within short distance of his home by a man who had trailed him in an automobile. He was unable to give the police any description of the man.

Friends of Terrorist, Past Grand Master of Italian Masons, are anxious fount his fate since he was sent to a penal colony some weeks ago as an enemy of Fascism.

W. J. GREEN NOW CITY AGENT FOR CHANDLER MOTOR

Canadian Chandler Business For May Shows Big Gain

Motorists of Belleville and District will be interested to learn that the local agency for the well known line of Chandler Motor cars has been taken over by Mr. W. J. Green, who until recently was manager of the Quinte Motors Limited.

During his several years residence in this city, Mr. Green has become well known in the Chevrolet motor world; since coming to Belleville, he has been associated with Belleville Motors, Wills and Crebble, the McLaughlin Motor Car Company, Limited and Quinte Motors.

In assuming the Agency for the Chandler Car, Mr. Green has taken over a line which in the past few years has advanced rapidly in the list of really good motor cars on the market today. An indication of this may be seen in Chandler shipments for May 1927, when the Canadian business of the Company showed an increase of 212% over the corresponding month for 1926; each month has been showing a corresponding increase. May shipments were in fact the largest single month's ship ment in the company's history.

PRODUCTION OF NEW KITCHEN TOOL IS LARGE

Belleville Electric and Supplies Limited, producers of the new ly invented "10 in 1" Handy Kitchen tool, announce that production of the new tool is proceeding satisfactorily at the local plant, and is rapidly as possible. The Company has been pleased to find a hearty welcome accorded the new tool on the part of the buying public and orders already received have given rise of immense popularity for it. As described on this page some issue ago, the tool consists of ten tools in one, viz., hammer, screwdriver, bottle opener, corkscrew, scraper, grater and tool with rule and others equally handy around the kitchen.

Production of the new tool will not in any way affect that of the regular lines in the Company, Reds-Heat Irons, Heaters, Toasters etc., a line which is fast becoming famous throughout the province.

HOUSTON LUMBER BUSINESS NOW THRIVING HERE

Local Manager Predicts Big Growth With Lower Prices

Belleville has been indeed fortunate in securing this year a firm which when fully equipped promises to add fourth to the industrial activity of the city. The business in question is the Houston Lumber Company of Tweed, which has now opened in the building formerly the premises of the Steel Company on Wharf Street.

A visit to the new plant reveals the extent of the business which the Houston Company anticipates developing here. While being manufacturers and dealers in all kinds of building material, the company specializes of course in the wholesaling and retailing of lumber of all kinds.

The local plant is under the management of Mr. Fred Houston, who explained to the writer that with the big equipment made possible with the two plants that is, the Head Office at Tweed and the Belleville Branch, specially attractive lumber prices would be available for local builders.

The plant here occupies a very considerable floor space, two large buildings being utilized for storage, and a third at the rear will house the twenty five odd pieces of machinery, still to be installed to complete the equipment. The boiler-room lies at the East End of this latter. In a separate cement building, of the various machines six of these will be installed during the next two months, and the remainder during the slacker season that generally follows towards winter. Altogether the property presents great possibilities for future development of the business, and the local manager states that, judging from present business, prospects are excellent for the rapid development of the company locally.

Established in Tweed in 1895 by Mr. R. F. Houston, father of the local manager, firm was known as Vanduzen and Houston until 1902 when it passed completely into the hands of Mr. Houston. In 1900 Mr. John Houston joined his father in the business and in 1910 the business became an incorporated company. During these years the business had grown from a small beginning into a large and prosperous lumber firm, and continuing to expand since that time, the Belleville Branch was opened this Spring with Mr. Fred Houston in charge.

TINTED GLASSES GREAT AID IN SUMMER DRIVING

Afford Real Protection From Sun's Hot Glare

Old Sol will single this summer, the sun will have two and one half times the violet ray intensity of 1923, according to Dr. Edson Pettit, astronomer at Mt. Wilson Observatory.

Sun spots operate in cycles the astronomer explains, and in 19.2 they reached their greatest ebb. Since that time the spots have been increasing in states, and the ultra violet activity has been increasing in direct proportion.

These violet or "actinic" rays are very irritating to the human eye. The latter also knows of their power in the form of sunburn. Sun glare is not only harmful to the eyes but also detracts from the pleasure of one's vacation or outing.

Edwards has special tinted glasses that afford relief from all annoying heat and chemical rays of light, and at the same time give as distinct vision as clear lenses.

At the seashore, among the mountains, in the country, on the open road golfing, fishing, boating, camping, for every outdoor requirement, Edwards special tinted glasses will protect your eyes from harmful light rays, free you from sun caused headaches and fulfill the function of sight savers. Call at Edwards Eyesight Specialists at 288 Front Street, and see these glasses.

Way back in 1913, Car No. 2 rolled off the production line of the Chandler factories in Cleveland. It is still going strong today, despite its fourteen years existence.

Old No. 2 has travelled well over a half million miles since the above photograph was taken, and has been in demonstrating service in the hands of private owners, as well as being used as a service car for several years.

Since No. 2 was built the Chandler organization has grown to be one of the dominant factors in the automotive industry, with an investment of more than $10,000,000 in land, buildings and equipment; and a local of $35,561 square feet of floor space on a land area of over 21 acres.

Old No. 2 has the honor of being the very first Chandler ever sold, for No. 1, is a experimental model, is still in the possession of Chandler officials. Recently owned No. 2 is owned by the Chandler-Cleveland Motor Car Co., Chandler distributing organization in Toronto, the successors to Chandler Motors of New England, Inc., the concern who first bought the car on July 25, 1912.

NEW WELDING SHOP OFFERS GOOD SERVICE

In this present age of rapid motor transportation, with its oft, resulting bumps and accidents, the motorist who is wise can very often save himself a good deal of money on his metal repairs by taking advantage of the service a good welding shop offers.

It is a fact that broken springs, broken axles, bent frames, and fenders can be repaired at little cost, and in most instances thereby avoid the purchase of a new part.

At 86 Pinnacle Street, below the tracks is located the firm of Howard Brothers a recently established business and successors to the Sherry Welding Company. They specialize in Electric Oxy-Acetylene Welding and cutting, re-babbiting, blacksmithing, and in fact, metal work of all kinds.

Years of experience at this work enable Howard Bros. to offer a unique service along these lines. Next time your car frame or fender is bent, a spring broken, or other metal work damaged on the car, take it in to this firm and have them tell you honestly whether the part can be or cannot be repaired; such advice will cost you nothing, and if the injury can be repaired to advantage you will be told so, and the job done right, and at low cost rates.

City and State Strike Special Medals For the Occasion

New York, June 13.—Charles Lindbergh dropped out of the skies (onto the waters of Lower New York Bay at Quarantine to-day after a quick flight from Washington and a change of planes at Mitchell Field. He received his first formal welcome to the metropolis from Grover Whalen, 'chairman of Mayor Walker's welcome committee, city officials and aeronautical celebrities.

There the municipal tug, Macom, received it's distinguished guest for the trip to the Battery. Over the course there formed a fleet of about 160 vessels, representative of all water craft, booming and screeching their welcome, while in the air 175 aeroplanes followed the cruise toward Mid Hatian. At the battery Lindbergh was assigned a place in the first automobile in a great parade through the streets. His mother was listed as a passenger in the second car. With 10,000 troops ploding triumphant recompaniments to the roar of thousands in the Broadway canyons the parade route led to the City Hall where Mayor Walker present ed the aviator with the City medal.

Through streets of brilliantly decorated buildings the parade was next directed up Fifth Avenue to Central Park where Governor Alfred Smith presented the daring adventurer with the State's Medal of Valor.

Holiday Spirit

A spirit of triumphant holiday pervaded the city for days before the start of the celebration. The millions in New York were swollen by thousands of visitors from adjoining states. A special detail of 10,000 policemen was stationed along the line of march. Thirty thousand boy scouts volunteered to aid in maintaining the lines along the route. Everyone who could, took the day off. The Stock Exchange was closed for the day, something of a record in itself.

After the reception at Central Park, the young flier was to enjoy a short rest. A reception will be given in his honor to-night at the Long Island home of Clarence E. MacKay, president of the Postal Telegraph Company. To-night, to-morrow, Wednesday, and Thursday mother and son will share jointly the combined greetings of New York. Col. Lindbergh will be a guest of honor at the City of New York dinner to-morrow night. Brooklyn is planning to present the aviator with a massive silver bowl carrying an inscription in tribute to the trans-Atlantic hop.

COALITION GOVERNMENT POSSIBLE NOW FOR THE IRISH FREE STATE

President Cosgrave Does Not Seem Likely To Have Clear Majority

Dublin, June 13.—From results in 94 constituencies out of a total of 152 given out this morning the Government and Fianna Fail, the De-Valera party, each had secured 25 seats in the election to the new Dail. Labor had elected 16 Canadians, Independents eight, Farmers seven, National league five and Sinn Feiners four.

It is useful to predict that this proportion would hold when all results are known. An adherents of De-valera made denunciation of the constitution based of the Anglo-Irish treaty creating the Free State the government position in their campaign they face defeat on this point on the basis of known results, so all parties except Fianna Fail and Sinn Fein support the constitution. This fact however will not preclude President Cosgrave to form a cabinet independent of the support of some of the Labor men, but he will not be maintained when the returns are complete. Thus the prospect of coalition government is being considered.

NEW HOSPITAL HEAD APPOINTED TONIGHT?

The new superintendent for the Belleville General Hospital to succeed Miss Margaret Tait has not yet been appointed. Just now the Board of Directors are meeting in Toronto in connection with the superintendency of the local institution. Speculation as to who will be the phone this afternoon, he stated that he expected an appointment would be made to-night.

These dinghy races always attract a great deal of interest and a large turnout of spectators is expected.

DISMISSES HIS ARMY AND SURRENDERS TO THE POLICE

Paris, June 13.—After three days of entrenched defiance of the authorities, Leon Daudet, Royalist leader, under sentence for libelling a taxi cab driver in connection with the death of his son, Philippe, several years ago, surrendered to an army of policemen and firemen surrounding the building this morning. He had been holding out against the authorities from behind a barbed wire screen set up about the office of his newspaper, "L'Action Francaise." He was supported by hundreds of Royalists.

"In the name of the blood you mourn," said Prefect Chiappe, breaking the massed police in Daudet's camp, he appeared on the balcony, "will you allow more French blood to be shed?" Answering, Daudet said he did not want to start a civil war and ended with the words closing "Long France." He sent his troops out of the building in military columns and then he and his newspaper manager walked out like commanders of an honorably defeated army and entered the police automobile.

GORED TO DEATH BY SAVAGE BULL IN WIFE'S SIGHT

Byron Reynolds, Picton Farmer, Meets Horrible End Sunday Afternoon

VICIOUS ANIMAL

Suddenly Enraged, Beast Inflicted Brutal Injuries On Helpless Owner

Byron Reynolds, one of the best known farmers of Prince Edward County lost his life yesterday afternoon from injuries received' after being gored by a ferocious bull in the barnyard at his home about one mile from Picton on the Belleville road.

Mr. Reynolds had taken the animal from its stall about 4 o'clock to a watering place and as he was leading it back to the barn the bull became enraged and brutally attacked him inflicting severe injuries to his head and breaking several ribs. Mr. Reynolds was rendered unconscious. His wife who had witnessed the affair from the house was horrified and ran to the assistance of her husband.

Dr. Platt of Picton was immediately summoned but Mr. Reynolds never regained consciousness and died shortly after the arrival of the physician. The animal had always been handled carefully due to its ferocious nature, although never before had the bull actually attacked him.

Mr. Reynolds is survived by his widow and three children, one of the latter a student at Picton Collegiate Institute.

He had always resided near Picton and was well and favorably known. He was reputed as a leading farmer in the community and the buildings on his farm were regarded as the finest in the district.

Mr. Reynolds was a regular attendant at Picton United Church.

ABSENT MINDED TRAFFIC COP FORGOT THE SIGNALS

An absent minded policeman directing traffic was evident in Belleville on Saturday, when the officer who was in charge of the traffic signal got the directions mixed up and halted Dr. G. A. Morton who was coming up Front Street and when he saw the signal turn "Go" facing him drove past the officer.

After Dr. Morton passed the traffic officer, he was hailed by the latter who commenced lecturing him for not obeying the regulations. However, the driver of the car, complacently asked Officer Booth to take a look at the sign himself and upon doing so, he apologized and stated that he must have unconsciously reversed the signals.

Later in the day Dr. Morton again drove past the officer who stopped him and again apologized for his mistake and jocularly told him that the next time he passed he would just him without waiting for the signal.

BEER WAREHOUSE ON PINNACLE ST.

Will Use Part of Old Canning Factory For Bond Storage

It was announced exclusively in the Intelligencer last week that Belleville was to have a bonded warehouse for beer and today it was learned that this would be located in a section of the old canning factory on Pinnacle Street, just south of Dundas Street.

The Intelligencer tried to get in touch with Mr. D. L. Hyman this afternoon to have this rumor confirmed, but he was out of the city. However, the information was secured from an authoritative source. "Although," stated the informant, "I can not just say for sure that the final agreements are signed."

CAR LEAVES ROAD LANDS AGAINST POLE

The occupant of a car owned by a man named Drouin, residing near Stirling, had a narrow escape from serious injury when the motor car leaped from the highway on a steep hill at Oak Lake and turned turtle in a deep ditch finally landing against a telephone pole.

The accident occurred between six and seven o'clock last night and persons passing this morning noted that the car had been stripped of its accessories. The radiator was damaged, one wheel broken and the top crushed from the impact. The Intelligencer when speaking to residents of the locality this morning were unable to learn if any of the persons in the car were seriously injured.

HE WANTED HIS TAXI ALL ALONE--OBJECTS TO OTHERS

The trouble all started when Alfred Robinson rented a taxi all to himself and was bound he was going to have it. An elderly man and Mr. Robinson both came into Belleville on the 4.27 train from Montreal and at that time of the morning wanted a taxi. According to the arrested, he went to the ticket agent and asked him to send for a taxi, only to be told that Robinson had ordered one. When the taxi came he went to get in with Robinson only to be met with some abusive language, he alleged. Robinson wanting the taxi to be private. It was due to a word that Robinson called him that the elderly man left.

Robinson immediately came in to the city and laid a charge of assault against his fellow traveller and they both appeared in Police Court this morning. The traveller was fined $1 and $6.50 costs and Robinson laid a counter charge of bad language against Robinson. The case will come up later in the week.

An amusing feature of the case was the denial of Robinson that he was a Jew, claiming to be a Parisian. The accused, who is of Memetic origin, and proud of it, was willing to swear on the Bible, the Koran, the Talmid, or anything at all that Robinson was a Jew. "I know his family and they are all Jews," he said.

GALLANT YOUNG SWIMMER GOES TO DEATH IN ATTEMPT TO SAVE PAL STRUGGLING HELPLESSLY IN WATER

Carl A. Eisenring of Stirling Heroically Went To Comrade's Aid---Former Belleville Men In Boat Effect Rescue---Body of Dead Hero Recovered After An Hour's Search---Inquest To Be Held---Cecil Dodwell None the Worse For His Experience.

Heroically attempting to save a comrade, Carl A. Eisenring, a Norwegian chap about twenty-four years of age, residing in the village of Stirling, sunk to his death a few rods off the shore of Victoria Park here yesterday afternoon at 2.45. His chum, Cecil Dodwell, 23 Octavia Street, City, was rescued and was sufficiently recovered to leave the Belleville General Hospital to-day. The two lads had been visiting at the home of Dodwell's mother and after eating a hearty meal proceeded to Victoria Park where they donned their bathing suits and pre pared for an afternoon's fun in the harbour. .

A younger brother of the Dodwell boy was rowing in a boat from which the two were diving, and it appears that Eisenring had dived into the water and swam to shore, his companion following him, when suddenly the former noticing his pal was in trouble and hearing calls for help, proceeded quickly to the spot in an effort to effect a rescue. Dodwell who was somewhat exhausted grappled with Eisenring but the latter stuck nobly to his purpose and their repeated shouts for assistance attracted the attention of Messrs. T. J. P. Powers, Dr. S. R. McCreary and J. V. C. Truaisch who were on route for Mr. Powers' camp by motor-boat. They had passed the two boys but quickly turned around and came back. A rope was tossed to Dodwell who was almost exhausted, but managed to grasp it and was safely pulled aboard. At this time Eisenring was splashing about of the surface and when Dr. McCreary who assisted Dodwell into the boat, had turned around, Eisenring had disappeared.

Search Unavailing

A crowd soon collected and an attempt was made to recover the body. William Clarke and his son Fred were summoned with grappling hooks and after an hour's search finally managed to locate the body of the victim at a point about fifty feet from where Eisenring disappeared. Coroner Dr. McCreary had rendered artificial respiration to Cecil Dodwell. The ambulance was summoned and he was taken to the hospital.

As far as could be learned Eisenring immigrated to Canada from Norway some two years ago and had settled at Stirling where he was employed in the blacksmith shop owned by Robert Wilson. He was a strong muscled healthy chap and had always been regarded as an excellent swimmer. He was well thought of by the people of Stirling and was a steady and conscientious worker. It is not believed that he has any relatives residing in Canada.

Inquest Opened

Coroner Dr. Boyce was called and after viewing the body and noting the circumstances, he ordered an inquest which was opened at Tickell's Undertaking Establishment today at 3 o'clock. The body was taken to Tickell's mortuary and after the proceedings the burial was shipped to Stirling where interment will take place.

Sergeant of Detectives Fisher and Truaisch who has been acting as Coroner's Constable, has empanelled the following jury:—S. Fisher, Chas. Woodley, R. Wetten, S. Wedden, C. Wetten, Alexander H. Morgan, E. George, Geo. Bell.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON SUNDAY

Albert College Students Hear Fine Address From Dr. Kilpatrick

Albert College Memorial Chapel, was utilized yesterday afternoon for one of the most interesting ceremonies which have yet been performed within its walls when, the beautiful building was filled to capacity by interested friends who heard Rev. O. G. S. Kilpatrick, pastor of Chalmers United Church preach the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class at the College. Dr. Kilpatrick who is one of the foremost divines of the United Church of Canada, in his sermon based upon the text "Henceforth I call ye not servant but friend" John 15, set a very high standard for the youthful graduates to follow and impressed upon them the heavy responsibility which was theirs in safeguarding their several callings

During the impressive service Rev. Dr. Baker, Principal Emritus of the College said the lengthy prayer ended led in the morning and Rev. H. A. Kemp read the Scriptural lesson. Dr. C. W. Flanders was in charge of the music during which a solo "Hear my Cry Oh Lord" sung by Rev. H. Rickard was rendered. Dr. Flanders trained and led and by Prof. Anglin, the choir of the College was heard in excellent selection in "Brightly Gleams the Banner" which was a real musical treat to all who attended the service.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

A short life is given us by nature, but the memory of a well spent life is eternal.

CICERO.

WESTERN CROPS

The wheat fields of the Canadian Prairies are being planted under severe handicaps. Late snows overtook early seeding, and in recent weeks prolonged rains in many districts further have delayed operations. In the fine intervall, however, work proceeded rapidly and it is now reported that wheat seeding in the three provinces is practically completed, while in some instances farmers are working with tractors and seed drills by night with the aid of searchlights.

Given a fair chance for the next few months the West with characteristic optimism predicts another good crop. The ground is full of moisture, and even in Southern Alberta, where drought is prosperity's greatest enemy there has been a rainfall which makes the outlook most promising in years. The date of seeding, within reasonable limitations, is itself of relatively small importance as compared with fine weather after seeding is done, and there still is ample time for the production of a billion-dollar grain crop as part of the year's contribution to national wealth.

For the Prairie Provinces the black post-war days are far in the past and there is a new spirit of confidence generated out of improved economic conditions. There is a better understanding by West and East of the other's peculiar problems, and the action in holding their annual convention in Calgary a week ago was a step marked by wisdom and foresight. There was a time not so long ago when the Western politician needed little ammunition save denunciation of the "Big Interests" of Montreal and Ontario. Happily that condition largely has passed, but a demonstration of the profound interest which manufacturers of Western market cannot but be of good effect to all parties.

DIVORCE IN CANADA

In his annual address to the Anglican synod of Toronto diocese, Bishop Sweeny deplored the increase in the number of Canadian divorces. "The alarming increase of 10 per cent. in the number of divorces throughout Canada in 1926, representing 606 divorces granted that year, over 100 of which were in the province of Ontario must," said the bishop, "cause us grave concern and alarm." Unless checked, he warned, divorce will "threaten and strike at the very roots of the Divine ordinances of social order and of domestic well-being."

But the real evil to be combatted is not divorce; that is only a symptom of the disease. Let it be considered that in this country the law governing divorce is rigidly restricted. Annulment of the marriage bond cannot be obtained in Canada for any trivial reason. The only ground for a Canadian divorce is the scriptural ground—violation by husband or wife of the marriage vow to remain faithful to the partner chosen for life. When a husband or wife proves false and unworthy of confidence, should this infidelity be condoned? Often it is; and sometimes magnanimity and charity do the part of the innocent party are successful in winning back the erring one of the right path and restoring peace and happiness in the home. But how often the exercise of magnanimity and charity are worse than useless!

The evil is not in the institution of divorce; it is in the cause of divorce—the moral looseness which is all too common in all grades of modern society. Bishop Sweeny wisely suggested one of the best possible remedies when he emphasized "the grave importance of wise and suitable selection of life partnerships." There are too many hasty and ill-considered marriages. Often the parties hardly know one another, and rush into matrimony after a brief and superficial acquaintance—only to become speedily disillusioned and to repent at leisure.

SECRECY A DETERANT

Clarence Darrow, most militant of the opponents of capital punishment, attacks the argument that it is a deterrent to the commission of murder.

He made something of a point when he said that if the execution of death sentences for murder does stop men from killing their fellows by showing themselves of such crimes will be, then in consistency the country should return to the practices of medieval times and not only have executions performed with the greatest possible publicity, in the presence of all whom inclination or compulsion could draw to the scene, but exhibit in the public square the heads of malefactors or leave their bodies suspended over publishing ways.

But even from the deterrent standpoint, there is something to be said in favor of executions carefully veiled from all except a few mere or less necessary witnesses.

When executions were public affairs and the occasion for a community holiday, they offered to wrongdoers a day of glory, gratifying their conceit and making them heroes in the eyes of themselves and not a few others. The secret execution, with its mystery or horror, may be even more effectual in making men think twice before committing a capital offense.

The World War demonstrated the efficacy of the modern policy of silence and privacy. When British ship sank German submarines they made no public report so relatives of those who sank with the submarines could not learn of their fate. It lowered the morale of the submarine crews by denying them public recognition a war heroes and the comfort that their families would know where and how they died.

One-fourth of the rain that falls in the forest is caught by tree leaves and branches and most of it never reaches the soil.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

The marketing and slaughtering of animals is not a gentle business, but it ought to be conducted with as little cruelty as possible. It is rather disconcerting to learn that more than 30,000 animals shipped alive in one year, arrived at the shipping destination dead because of carelessness, neglect or accident.

The laws upon this subject if enforced are inadequate.—Detroit News.

A scientist declares it is possible to become intoxicated on water. No doubt, but there are much quicker and more reliable recipes.—Ottawa Journal.

Men and women do not get along well. The quarrel is mainly about money. A woman never seems to care much because her husband isn't as much of a lover as when they were first engaged. She doesn't expect it; and realizes she has looked off, too. We have learned that these things are natural, but men are still shocked at the extravagance or women, and women are still shocked at the stinginess of men. Is there any way of coming to a better understanding on this subject of money?—E. W. Howes Monthly.

"Dear, dear! You wants a couple o' them aspirates!"

Ole: "Tillie, will you marry me?"
Tillie: "Yaas, Ole."
A long, deadening silence falls.
Tillie: "Vy don't you say something, Ole?"
Ole: "Vell, Oi toink Oi say too much already."

The railway line was flooded on account of the heavy rainstorms, and the traveller was obliged to break his journey at a village. He made his way in the pouring rain to an inn, and said to the waiter there: "Is it like the Deluge?"

"The what?"

"The Deluge. Haven't you read about the Deluge—Noah and the Ark and Mount Ararat?"

"No, sir," said the waiter; "we have had no papers here for three days."

A girl was asked to write an essay on "man" and submitted the following: "Man is what woman has to marry. He drinks, smokes, swears and doesn't go to church. Both sprang from the apes, but woman sprang the farthest."

AT CLOSING

What shall it do—the sunset colored grove,
When my eager feet no longer wander there,
When I no longer seek the birds I love,
Nor watch the shy grace of the wood-land deer?
Shall the joyous silver creek dance and sing
When never more I worship and adore?
Shall the late evening magic still enchant,
The violet heavens where the moon ghostlike looms,
And that white orb robes each tender plant,
Changing the golden petals into silvery blooms?
Dear grove, dear creek, dear starry-blossomed tree,
Keep still a quest for the lone spirit of me!

CITY'S HEALTH GOOD

This is the crucial moment for the Belleville doctors to show their vaccinations according to Dr. O. S. Cronk, M. H. O., who told The Intelligencer this afternoon that the general health of the city is excellent. As to contagious diseases there are but two mild cases of scarlet fever, none of small pox or diphtheria. The water is excellent decreasing the chance of motorists returning from Kingston, using an idiot that spirits were used to kill possible germs.

DISPLAY OF MEDALS

An interesting collection of medals is on display in the window of the Walker Hardware Company which were won by Allan Dempsey, former High School boy at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. Mr. Dempsey was prominent in track and field athletics besides being a member of the gymnasium team. While at B. H. S., Allan was one of the finest prospects and since going to O. A. C. has certainly made a name for himself in the fields of sport. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dempsey, Ameliasburgh. It will be remembered that Allan completed a walk to Toronto during the celebration here some years ago and carried an invitation to Government and city officials to attend the function.

Taylor Statten of the Rotary Club of Toronto and, internationally known boys' worker addressed the local Rotary Club at their Monday luncheon at the Quinte Hotel to-day. He told us his subject the proper rearing of children, how to develop their personality, the growth and development of their character and the law that we should work with children.

"A boy learns what he practices" said Mr. Statten . He practises the things that he wants to do. If we want a child to really learn something we must not just tell him.

There are three important things to observe in the up-bringing of boys and girls and they are positive suggestion, faith and co-operation."

No Corporal Punishment

Mr. and Mrs. Francis each made suitable reply, thanking the donors for their lovely gifts. Mrs. Francis will be greatly missed in Centenary Ladies' Aid where she was always willing to do her bit.

IS A VALUABLE OLD MANUSCRIPT

Chicago, June 11 (C.P.)—Described as highly important in a study of the psychological and cultural history of the early ages, the only copy ever made of the valuable Kalila and Dimna manuscript has been received by Professor Martin Sprengling, University of Chicago, from the San Antonio monastery of the Maronite Monks of Mount Lebanon. The copy, in the Syriac alphabet, is of ancient Arabic folk tales, some of them 2,000 years old, and was made in 1701. "In these tales," says Professor Sprengling, "are found the sentiments and ideas that peoples otherwise would hide. This manuscript is one of the few which are still fullest possible test of the stories."

DRAGGING DAD ALONG INTO THE BRIDAL HOME

By ELSIE MARLOWE

How angry we'd get if anyone tried to hang a ball and chain about our feet; and yet how writhely we drape ourselves with handcuffs and fetters!

Fetters of sentimentality—they're a thousand times more terrible than prison shackles, and we forge them for ourselves.

Instead of tackling Dad, his business proposition and using all commonsense and sense to solve its problems, we try to turn it into a pretty fairy tale and attune it to our heart-desires. And then, when life insists on being rudely real and most inconveniently earnest, what a howl we raise!

Now, here's Mrs. R. H. E.

She loved her splendid dad who had brought her up. She was Daddy's girl! Which was lovely for some eighteen or twenty years. But then—

Read how One Beautiful Dream has gone floory, as Beautiful Dreams will, when we work them overtime:

DEAR ELSIE:

I have never read a problem just like mine in your column, and I do need your help so much.

There are three of us in my little family—my husband, my dad and myself.

I wanted my dad with me after I married, Elsie, because my mother died when I was a little girl and he had taken care of me, or seen that I had proper care until I was able to take care of myself. He had stuck by me through every experience that a motherless girl has to face, and so we were regular pals.

So, of course, I wanted my dad with me always.

Last year I married, and at first we were so happy; but somehow our happiness is not the same any more. Please don't think I am blaming my Dad, for if the fault is mine I want to take the blame. But here's the situation. Dad is continually finding fault with things around the house, and with all my housekeeping. He is always saying that the silver should be polished or the basement cleaned or the windows washed.

Now, I'm not a careless housekeeper. I do try hard. But he always finds fault and telling me I am not doing right by my husband.

I didn't mind at first, but when it kept on I began to feel that there wasn't anything I could do right for Dad. Of course, I always obey him, but he still finds fault. As for my husband, he tells me to do the things rather than make trouble, and that Dad means it for my own good.

I resent it all. I want to run my home in my way I like it. I long to make them both happy, but I feel as if they were treating me like a child. Won't you please tell me what's the matter?

MRS. R. H. E.

They're treating you like a child, my dear, because you have treated yourself like a child. You have tried to stay a little girl and carry out a little girl's program when you should have faced the fact that you are a grown woman, and that little girl promises should be at an end.

"Keeping Dad with you" was part of your little girl life. It was a very lovely part, and his guardianship of you and your dependence on him made life a beautiful relationship. But such relationships must come to a normal end. Baby birds leave their nest and if they don't, their wise parents boot 'em out. The time came for you to leave your nest and proceed to make a new home with your husband. But instead of leaving the old nest behind you, you dragged it with you, with papa still on the job, acting as if you weren't yet able to hustle for your living.

It isn't Dad's fault or your husband's; it's your own fault. If you will cease to regard yourself as a nest ling they will cease to treat you as one.

I realize that it will be hard work now to undo the mistake, but unless you do straighten matters now you're headed for a much worse condition in the near future. You should have a frank talk with your father and ask him to live elsewhere. This will hurt both of you, but it will save much greater pain. Nor will the pain last long if you have the courage to do this. For, when you have established your lives on a normal basis you will all be happier than you ever have been before. But until you do this, you can never know any real happiness or self-respect.

Youth Honors the Style of Its Elders

Were the last day of kindergarten finally past, one at last has time to consider one's summer wardrobe seriously. A number of cool little frocks must of course be had at once, and what could be smarter than the square collarless neckline, so very much in vogue just now, and a bow of pell material? This sleeveless frock of silk or cotton crepe or voile has its bow and neck-bands in harmonizing color; when a printed or novelty fabric is used the neck is bound with plain and the bow is ribbon. The brief skirt flares daintily all round below the fine tucks.

A new ermine stole has the skins worked diagonally all around the coat.

A hat that is half black and half white is the latest creation of Paris millinery, and is very striking and one model in felt is in the two contrasting tones, and is trimmed with two long black upright osprey mounts.

Though she is 80 years of age Mrs. W. C. Cornish, widow of the former vice president of the Union Pacific railroad, is making an automobile trip through Africa with only a woman companion.

Brushed Angora yarn embroidery is a favored trimming on recent Paris models and Worth uses it frequently on his frocks and coats in lightweight woolens as this embroidery adds a dull white yarn in a pattern imitating lace serves to introduce his deep yoke of embroidery covering the entire upper half of both bodice and sleeves.

A Paris house of fashion is featuring a novelty eye veil which is of cream lace hanging from the brim of a hat, but different from the nose veil in being separated between the eyes.

Flannel is now very much used for sports wear and the collarless flannel sports coats, usually three-quarters length, to second only to sweaters in popularity.

A Paris fashion authority declares for the last time in modern history Englishwomen have evolved a definite English fashion in the neat tailleurs which are a uniform among smart women this year. The two-button models and felt hats bound by ribbon to match make a costume as chic as it is walkable.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Pumpkin will keep nicely after it is cut if you dip the cut ends in melted paraffin. You can easily remove the wax when ready to cook it.

Boil pigs' feet with vegetables. Bone them and serve meat with horseradish sauce. Add the skimmed liquor to the scraps of left-over meat and put into a mould. When cold it can be converted into a salad or sliced and served with a little lemon juice and relish.

In sauce and desserts that require several eggs, cornstarch can be substituted. Use two eggs, and for every other egg the recipe calls for use two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch.

A-lvice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Is it proper for a girl going away to school to wait for a boy to write to her, or should the boy ask permission to write?

Should a girl invite a boy-friend to call to see her, or should the boy ask if he may call?

BROWN EYES

BROWN EYES: It is the boy's place to ask permission to write. In the matter of calling, the boy should also take the initiative and ask permission to call.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have been going with a boy whom I like very much. He tells me he doesn't care for any one else but there is another girl whom he sometimes sees.

He tells me he doesn't like her. Will you please give me some advice of how to act in the situation?

BLUE EYES.

BLUE EYES: It is rather difficult to understand his going with a girl whom he "doesn't like." I am inclined to doubt his sincerity. It would seem rather that he hasn't quite made up his mind which girl he prefers. Or it is more likely that he does not wish to tie himself to any one girl.

Give him and the situation time. There is nothing that you can do but make yourself as interesting and companionable as you know how. Perhaps what you wish may come in time.

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN
By Mildred Barbour

He saw her flush. He saw her lips quiver, the distress in her eyes. She was suddenly painfully conscious of her sketchy toilet, the negligee over her thin chemise, the silver sandals on her bare feet.

She was only too conscious of the interested glow upon her relative's face. She knew what he was thinking. He had leaped to the conclusion that there was a man in her apartment.

"Never mind!" said the doctor. "We'll not have to disturb him after all. I think sterner methods are in order."

He took the hysterical girl in his arms and carried her, screaming and kicking, to her apartment.

The other girl followed helplessly, and the door closed behind them.

Sybil crept back to bed, utter irritably reassuring Ted, but she lay awake for a long time nursing with shame as she recalled that penetrating and disgusted glance the young physician had given her.

It puzzled her that this shame weakened her fury at his misunderstanding. How could he have helped misunderstanding? And then she became aware of Ted's voice, and of him round, until she fell asleep.

CHAPTER 40
"The Genius"

As the hour approached for Ted's departure, Sybil's distress to see him go was mingled with increasing appre hension. She had promised to see him off at the boat, since he has to keep up the fiction of an invalid traveling for his health. And Sybil shivered as she pictured him walking onto the gang-plank, and the hand of the Law descending upon his shoulders.

On her shoulder, too, she told herself resentfully, wondering if she was never to finish pitying for the sins of the masculine members of her family.

But, on the morning that the steamer was to sail, Ted, with a loud shout of glee, burst unceremoniously into her boudoir, waving a newspaper above his head.

"Didn't I tell you I was a fool for luck? Look at this. Jim Malone, the fellow who was with me in new York and who loaned me the outfit I had on when I showed up here, made a getaway to Scotland, and the police nabbed him there yesterday. I forgot to tell you he was wanted, too. Well, he's here safe and sound, you know. Anyway, good old Jim's given the cops a fake tip that I'm in Cleveland. Say they're looking for Ted Sloan—that's the name I was going by—in Cleveland this morning—not around Pier What's-it's-number on the East River."

Several hours later, she stood in a cold drizzle on the dock and shivered after him, as she watched the slim lads into the mists of the harbor. Ted was safe for a time, at least. Her re lief had ended.

In the lobby of her apartment-building she was accosted by a flabbily dressed girl. After a moment, Sybil recognized her hysterical neighbor. Bright spots of rouge flamed in the centre of each hollow cheek, and the eyes that regarded Sybil were purple ringed and feverishly brilliant.

"Say," the girl began, "my girl friend tells me I raised an awful row in front of your place the other night. I'm sorry. Gee, I musta been pie-eyed to want to run into another girl's apartment in the middle of the night, looking for my boy friend. Ain't that the ee-ucation? Ha-ha! Say, Doc Lewis said you turned all kinds of tricks. Wasn't Doc. Maxwell a scream? He got so mad at me that he took back some pet names I'd gotta call him. Can't they be wasn't coming any more. He's a swell looker, but I don't seem to have much use for men."

Sybil got away finally.

So the story disappointing Jason doctor didn't care for girls, was reflected. She had forgotten the shame she had experienced that night, remembering only her anger at the contemptuous glance he had turned on her when, because of Ted's presence, she had refused Maxwell and his patient admission to her apartment.

More than ever, she felt that she would like to get him in her toils just to pay him back for the humanity of that glance.

Serge Patteri concert was scheduled for the following night. Eva had Sybil dined together, while Serge, in the solitude of the studio, went into executive session with his "soul."

"He never does before playing," declared Eva proudly. "And he always sits alone and thinks—before appearing in concert."

"If he thought twice, he wouldn't appear at all," said Sybil to herself. She was under no illusions about his ability, even though her money was footing him on an unexpectedly public tour.

It lacked fifteen minutes of the scheduled hour when she and Eva arrived at the fashionable auditorium. The great room was nearly empty. A scattering of people here and there proclaimed that the "concert" element was already accounted for. A few people stood about in the lobby, and one or two drifted in from the street to the box-office.

Eva's pretty little face wore a worried air.

"Do you suppose there's been some mistake about the hour?" she whispered anxiously to Sybil.

"I hardly think that's possible," Sybil answered. "We set it at nine purposely, so that there would be no crowding to distract Serge. If there was a mistake, it would be the other way, and people would have arrived earlier."

"Oh, dear! Serge will be upset, if the house is half-empty," wailed Eva.

Half-empty was putting it mildly. When Serge came out on the stage and made his bow, he made it to an almost totally absent audience. The vast auditorium echoed hollowly to the mild and scattered round of applause by which the few seats advertised their appreciation.

Sybil almost found it in her heart to be sorry for Serge—if he hadn't played so execrably, and if he hadn't been so abominably conceited, and if he hadn't been making love to her behind his satchel little wife's back.

"Maybe this will teach him a lesson" she thought. "Oh, surely it will teach him a lesson. Even his conceit can't stand up under this defeat.

But she didn't know Serge.

When the last selection was wrung from his violin—Sybil actually felt sorry that so beautiful an instrument was forced to emit such villanous tones—Serge made his final bow as suavely, as confidently, as if a vast audience clamored its thrilled appreciation.

UNITED CHURCH CELEBRATES HER 2ND MILESTONE

Special Union Service Held At John Street—Inspiring Sermon

A church filled to overflowing greeted the Second Anniversary Service of the United Church of Canada held in John Street Church, yesterday evening, when the Rev. G. O. D. Kilpatrick B.A., of Chalmers United Church, Ottawa, preached his inspiring sermon Special music featured the entire service, a duet by Mrs. Leo Riggs and Mrs. Glen McKinnon, a quartette composed of Messrs. Moorman, Thomson, Stillman and Dr. Haffner, and a solo by Mr. James Bankier, were all thoroughly appreciated by the assembled worshippers.

The ministers present were the Rev. D. C. Ramsay, M.A., John Street; Rev. F. E. Maiolt, B.A., D.D., Bridge St.; Rev. R. B. Kenny, Tabernacle Church; Rev. L. S. Wight, B.A., B.D., Holloway Street United Church, Rev. J. G. McMillan, Dundas Street Church, Rev. C. E. Bishop D.D., and Rev. E. N. Baker D.D.

The service opened with a call to worship and was closed with Benediction. The various ministers all took part in the service at different times.

An idea of the packed congregation may be gained from the fact that though the church seats only 750, fully 900 worshippers were present, requiring the use of fifty chairs.

The Rev. D. C. Ramsay, M.A., in a few words welcomed the visiting ministers and the Rev. Kilpatrick, of Ottawa.

Sermon—Rev. Kilpatrick

"He saved others; Himself he cannot save." With these words did the Rev. Kilpatrick start his sermon. He told how this taunt had first been a gibe, a sneer, but later became one of the finest things said of Christ.

The speaker told how the people had been rather nervous on the road to the Crucifixion, but after some time and nothing happened, they began to taunt him. "He saved others; Himself he cannot save."

"This is the principle of the Cross," said the Rev. Kilpatrick. "He saved others; Himself he cannot save." The speaker told of the others that he had saved, of the lonely witnesses walking around the streets of Jerusalem, witnesses of his great love for mankind.

The speaker told of the spread of Christianity, the song of the Redeemer that spread throughout the world of "He saved others; Himself He cannot save."

"There was a supreme dignity in Christ's hearing at his trial," said the speaker. "There is a suggestion that things might have been different." He might have saved Himself, and I cannot help but wish that He had saved Himself. But He could not save Himself, and still be a man among men. If Christ had taken an easier way, the last and greatest thing about Him would not have been said, "Greater love hath no man—"

"Self sacrifice is the price you always have to pay for helping your fellow-man. Yes, self sacrifice," continued the speaker. "The principle of sacrifice has its way in all life and ordinary things. Thousands of men are doing their duty, helping you and I. We who have the luxury brought by Christianity often forget it. In a world ruled by God, this is the ultimate principle of life."

"There are no Golden Deeds in the records of human courage than those connected with the shadow of the Cross.

The speaker told of an heroic missionary who died in a strange country for Christ's sake.

"The Epitaph of those men who fought for their country in the last great war shall be—"They saved others; themselves they could not save." All life rests upon the principle of the Cross.

BELIEVES AIR TRAVEL WILL BE COMMERCIALIZED

Garden City, L. I., June 10—Anthony Fokker expects the opinion that within five years Paris-New York flying will be on a commercial basis.

But non-stop flights, such as are be attempted now, will not be the order of the day then, he thought. These men are trail blazers, and those who follow will tread an easier road.

"I think the great circle course will be followed by these commercial planes," he said. "And there will be stops at New Foundland, at Ireland and at London on the way. The whole trip should not take more than 36 hours, as by that time engines will have been improved and ordinary speed raised to 150 miles an hour."

Development of better instruments and safety devices in the immediate years, Fokker asserted, would result in practically eliminating the difficulties which weather now places in the way of long distance flying.

The first poultry show held in America was at Boston in 1849.

SCREEN TEST IN TRENT THEATRE

Winner Will Take Part In Ontario Finals At Toronto

One of the most interesting contests ever staged in this part of Ontario, will open at the Trent Theatre, in Trenton, next Thursday, when by popular vote a young lady will be chosen as queen of Trenton District in a fancy dress contest in July in Toronto. The Famous Players Canadian Corporation is going to send some lucky young lady from Ontario to California all expenses for herself and chaperon to be paid and screen tests made.

The contest begins in thirty Ontario theatres on Friday next, June 17th. At the Trent Theatre, Trenton, elimination contests will be held each evening for a week commencing on that date. Then the winners will journey to Toronto where they will participate in the final judging at the Uptown Theatre, the week beginning July 9th.

The purpose of the event is of course to select a possible screen star, and while the Famous Players Corporation does not guarantee a place in the movies to the winner, you may be sure that the winner will stand a good chance of acquiring fame in the movies.

Competitions will of course, be judged on beauty of face and figure, poise and personality, carriage and general appearance combined with the character parts of a screen star. Moreover, they allege every contestant will be photographed, then when the lucky contestant will be named. During the actual ceremony the child was an object of his profession and the final scene of the ceremony is pronounced. During the baptism it finished the child. Lapse of time from the child and not be handled by the parents during the ceremony.

The celebrant was Jimmy Adams of the city, and the godmother Mrs. Thomas Pelan, sister of Mrs. Fox's boy. BAPTIZED IN A STRANGE MANNER

Ontario, June 12.—With all kinds of experiences, bizarre in character, being part of the usual ritual of the Greek Orthodox Krasy-Russian Church of Montreal, little John Yarchuck of this city was baptized by a Monk of Jesus in a large galvanized tub which never before had been afterwards disturbed. They say it was the tub that Jesus' mother washed her child in, and has been kept in the ground. After a nine month ritual with water being sprinkled on, from the Holy Bible, the child was placed in a sheet held in the celebrant arms. They the priest dipped the child, head and tissue the body into the tub, after which the child was removed to another room to be dressed, then given the baby certificate by the priest. During the actual ceremony the child was an object of his profession and the final scene of the ceremony is pronounced. During the baptism it finished the child. Lapse of time from the child and not be handled by the parents during the ceremony.

The celebrant was Jimmy Adams of the city, and the godmother Mrs. Thomas Pelan, sister of Mrs. Fox's boy. CASH'S SPORTS CLUB OFFICIALLY OPENED SEASON

Mr. F. Goodchild, Company's Vice-President Here

The beautiful grounds surrounding the J & J Cash factory were a centre of happy activity last Saturday afternoon on the occasion of the official opening of the Tennis Season. This function had been delayed in order to secure the attendance of the Club's Honorary President, Mr. Frank Goodchild.

A pleasing feature were the flags kindly lent by Mr. Charles Hallett of the Walker Hardware, under one of which was flown the Club's attractive new pennant, made by Messrs. Middlemiss and Young and Miss Allison in the Club Colours, Royal Blue, Orange Gold and White.

The different matches were mainly Sunking List Games for the Goodchild Cup, and the following results were recorded:

Singles

Miss M. Hedger vs. Miss V. Hobson, winner Miss V. Hobson.
Miss E. Mason vs. Mr. A. Wesley, winner Mr. A. Wesley.
Mr. H. Middlemiss vs. Mr. F. M. Webster, winner Mr. H. Middlemiss.
Mr. F. M. Webster vs. Mr. A. Wesley, winner Mr. A. Wesley.
F. M. Webster, Miss H. Hammersley vs. Mrs. Wesley, unfinished.

Doubles

Miss C. Marsh and Miss H. Kemp vs. Miss I. Hedger and Miss V. Hobson, winner Miss I. Hedger and Miss V. Hobson.

The Tournament was played in sun shine but with a strong wind blowing, which made the ball difficult to control. For this reason, the set was played in the factory instead of in the open, as was originally planned.

At the conclusion of the delightful tea, Mr. Webster, the President of the Club, made a few remarks, thanking all who had helped by their work and presence to make this the most successful affair that had ever been held at the factory. He then presented Mr. Goodchild on behalf of the Belleville staff and employees with a souvenir of his visit, in the form of a framed Tinted Etching, showing one of the clocks in the Wall of the old City of Coventry, Mr. Goodchild's native city, as well as the home of the original J. & J. Cash factory established over 100 years ago. Mr. Goodchild was then given three hearty cheers.

In his charming acknowledgment, Mr. Goodchild referred to the strong ties of friendship as well as interest, which bind the various J. J. Cash units together, and stated that the etching was just another evidence of this another link in the chain. He then handed over a fine photograph of him self to be hung in the local office.

Mr. Goodchild also formally handed over the Goodchild Tennis Cup to the Secretary of the Club, Mr. Wesley, who made a suitable acknowledgement. The event concluded with three hearty cheers for the ladies who had provided the enjoyable tea and "Auld Lang Syne."

The Tournament arrangements were in the hands of Mr. H. Middlemiss assisted by Miss Helen Kemp.

The tea was in charge of the Entertainment Committee consisting of Mrs. L. Whiffen, President, Misses K. Allison, Hattie Hammersley, Gertrude Marsh and Margaret Hedger.

It will be noticed that the title of the Club has been changed from Cash's Employees Tennis Club to Cash's Sports Club. This was recently decided upon by the Committee in view of the inclusion of Badminton and possibly, later on, other games in the activities of the Club.

The Club is erecting a flagstaff in the centre of the grounds on which will be flown the Club Pennant, surrounted by the flag of Canada.

BELLE THEATRE

The vaudeville world evidences a fine spirit of co-operation when the picture industry needs aid.

When Paramount was preparing to put "You Never Know Women," an original story by Ernest Vajda, into production, the placing under contract of what is equivalent to a complete vaudeville bill was one of the essentials.

Nothing but "headliners" were wanted and this brand of act is always in demand on "the big time."

Through the co-operation of vaudeville booking agents, Paramount obtained internationally known vaudevillians, including Fortunello and Cirnilli; The Mitford Troupe of Acrobats; Louis and Freda Berkoff, international ly famous as Russian dancers; Rita Rose, the "frog woman;" The Nelson Troupe of Aerial Performers; The Russian Balalaika orchestra and a troupe of staple dancers.

To assemble this glittering aggregation it was necessary to realize bookings on the pars of vaudeville executives and to make many replacements so that the entire personnel selected might be in Hollywood for the picture.

"You Never Know Women," which arrives at the Belle today is Paramount's first Florence Vidor starring vehicle. Featured players include Lowell Sherman and Clive Brook.

HUGE NUMBER OF YANKEE CARS ENTERED CANADA

Detroit, Mich., June. 10.—The open gates to Canada admit yearly to the Dominion more passenger automobiles from the United States than there are in the whole of Europe.

Last year 2,500,000 American motor cars were given entry permits, and within a single month of 1926 more than 500,000 tourists were admitted through a single port of entry—Niagara Falls.

Each year thousands of tourists from the United States go down the St. Lawrence river along the Canadian side of the Great Lakes to the head of Lake Superior, a journey of 2,300 miles Between 1919 and 1925 the number of motorists obtaining permits to enter Canada for 30 days rose from 58,000 to 481,000, while the number permitted to enter for a day increased from 177,000 to 1,945,000.

The trade rat, common in the south west, is so called because when it takes an article away it leaves something else in its place.

CITY LEAGUE IS OPENED WITH DOUBLE - HEADER

Moose and Alemite Grab Close Games In Newly-Formed Circuit

The City Baseball League got away to a fine start on Saturday when a double-header was played at the Belleville Exhibition Park. The Moose won the first game 7-3 and the Ciacos and Alemite staged a close game at 4-3, the former emerging victorious on a 7-6 count. The calibre of ball played in this League is high-class and them tilts are bound to attract crowds if they continue to dish up the brand of ball that they did on Saturday. The players all have had experience in local ball ranks and the teams are evenly matched and it should be a race to the wire all the way. The Umpires' Association have charge of these games and those in charge on Saturday kept things moving and the games were completed in rapid-fire order. Both of the exhibitions were staged at the Fair Grounds but commencing with Saturday they will be played at the Alemite and Fair Grounds alternately. The schedule for the season appears in today's issue.

Moose 7—Hardware 5.

The Hardware boys after trailing the Moose for five innings came from behind in the last half of the ninth to score four runs and slip into the lead, but the herd not to be outdone, came back in the seventh and final frame to notch three more. The Hardware lads could do nothing in their frame and the Moose walked off with their first victory. It was air-tight, stil-estof ball and the meagre crowd who put in an appearance enjoyed it. Worse games have been seen in an Intermediate League than was witnessed on Saturday.

"Ab" Young was sent in to do the flinging for the Moose and he made a good job of it all the way. Young allowed but six hits during his reign on the mound and held the Pinnacle Street aggregation scoreless with the exception of the first and sixth frames. "Dinny" Doran opposed him and was equally good, getting himself out of some bad holes. Some glaring errors at critical times cost runs and had his infielders given him any kind support, especially in the seventh, he would have come out ahead. Doran has a peppery battery-mate in Harris who holds up Doran in great style.

Jack Casey was on the receiving end for the Moose.

"Babe" Casey, Napbin and Young all played nice ball for the winners. Robinson, Barnett and Palmer starred for the lock-makers.

Score by innings—

Alemite 7—Ciaco 6.

It required eight innings before the Alemite finally managed to nose out the Corbyville squad. The Alemite grabbed four in the opening frame but the Ciacos managed to creep along until the teams were dead-locked by the lobsticsers had the extra punch to come through in the last frame.

Pitchett went the full route for the suburbanites while the East Enders used Mundell, Smith and Kemp in the box. Darrach who patrolled centre field for the Alemite helped himself to three hits. The Ciacos for only seven hits and McDonald and Cummings had four between them.

ROOT DELIVERS CUBS TO EIGHTH STRAIGHT WIN

Bell's Home Run Defeats Phillies—Perfect Day For Mokan

Chicago, Ills., June 13.—Another item man has arrived. For the seconc time in as many days, Charlie Root, the square-jawed, square-shouldered pitcher pitched the Cubs to victory over the Giants. The man who mowed Mc-Graw's mighty maulers here Saturday came to the rescue of Hal Carlson in the eighth inning with the score tied yesterday and repeated his performance, while a crowd of 45,000 howled with delight.

When Root toured out Hornsby to end the game the crowd that had packed the grand stands and bleachers blocked the aisles and runways and overflowed on to the field so that ropes had to be stretched along the turf and ground rules enforced, went home with the knowledge that their favorites had won their eighth straight game.

Relief Pitcher Norman Plitt won a ball game for himself and the Robins at Brooklyn yesterday when his single in the eighth inning drove in the run that gave Brooklyn a heetic 11 to 10 victory over Pittsburgh. It was the second time in two days that Brooklyn came from behind in the closing innings to conquer the league leaders and, oddly, today's score was the same as yesterday. Harris and Cooch, of the fielded had a perfect day at bat, getting five hits out of five trips to the plate. Southworth, Cardinal right-fielder, also got three hits out of three times at bat. "

PRAISED WOMAN'S BUSINESS SENSE

Brompton Ont., June 11 (C.P.)—Yet County Women's Institutes was addressed recently by Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture of Ontario, who dwelt for some time upon women's special adaptability for a business life, her ability for detail, excellent memory and attachment to that which she takes as an occupation. As stenographers, Mr. Martin said he preferred women to men on account of their possession of these qualities. He urged their branches take as a special nature of their work the starting out a home making of new citizens, who frequently come to Canada with very little personal equipment in the way of clothes.

EARLY LEAD WINS FOR CLEVELAND

Ruth Wallops Ball For Season's 21st Home Run

New York, June 12.—The inebriated sailor who sentenced largess with a reckless hand, was a prudent and economical citizen compared to the Yankees yesterday. Our extravagant champions gave the Indians a seven-run start, and then spent the remainder of the afternoon in fruitless attempts to catch up. It was a lot of fun but expensive.

Not even O. Ruth's twenty-first home run could loosen the strangle hold which the Indians had on the game. Herman the Great laruped the ball midway up the right field slope in the seventh and tickled the 45,000 fans mightily, but the Yanks were too big silly in arrears and lost, 8 to 7.

If Yat was nothing if not very bad. His aim was poor all the way. He either missed the plate or hit the enemy bats, and even when throwing to zero he tossed one so miserably that it bounced off the foot of Sinner Lazzeri and carained into left field.

At Detroit, three successive singles in the ten'h inning gave Detroit an 11 to 10 victory over Boston. It was the Tigers' 14th winning game in a row. Boston gained a seven run lead in the first four innings, but Detroit drove both Wiltse and McFayden out of the box, taking the lead in the ninth. Boston came back in the eighth in the ninth. Carroll, who relieved Gibson was a big factor in the Tiger victory, batting in three runs with his triple and two singles and scoring two runs himself.

Held to five hits by Lisenebee at Washington, the White Sox dropped their second straight game to Washington, 6 to 1. The Senators touched the veteran Faber for thirteen hits in seven innings, getting two more off Cole in the eighth.

ARE UNCOVERING ANCIENT WALLS

Pierre, S.D., June 11. (C.P.)—Walls of stone, with broken joints like brick walls, are being uncovered by Donald Crabtree and a force of helpers in the Black Hills, several miles south of Rapid City. He has revealed a wall built of stone in regular rcier for more than 100 feet, and has come across an other "wall" meeting the first at right angles. Indications are that there is also a stone floor in the enclosure, laid with the broken joint effect. Mr. Crabtree is continuing in his endeavors to discover whether these walls are relics of a prehistoric race that built with stone, or are merely a peculiar natural formation.

Canada's Newest Locomotive

The illustration depicts the new "6100" class locomotive, the latest product of the mechanical department of the Canadian National Railways. Forty of these "Northern Type" engines have been manufactured in Canadian plants for use of main line fast passenger and manifest freight service. They are 93 feet 10½ inches over all. The tender has a capacity of 11,300 imperial gallons of water and 20 tons of coal. In working order the total weight of engine and tender is 418,000 pounds. Note the new position of the whistle, located on the left hand of the smokebox near the stack. This is to save the driver's ears. These engines are designed for power at speed and it is estimated that they can make 90 miles an hour with a heavy train.

Who uses IMPERIAL ETHYL and why?

IMPERIAL ETHYL Gasoline is an exceptionally high grade motor gasoline treated with Ethyl brand of anti-knock compound, the chemical ingredient used by General Motors to make gasoline a more efficient fuel for internal combustion engines. The chief advantages of Imperial Ethyl are:

Elimination of "knock" under all driving conditions—transformation of carbon from a liability into an asset—more power on hills and heavy roads—quicker acceleration—less gear shifting—reduced vibration—freedom from the trouble and expense of carbon removal.

Imperial Ethyl thus combines every feature of the ideal gasoline—amply worth the small premium the motorist pays for it.

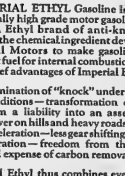

IMPERIAL ETHYL

AEROPLANES
The Royal Canadian Air Force and the Canadian Government Forest Patrol both use Imperial Ethyl Gasoline to get the most power and efficiency of the engine.

RACING CARS
Motor Boats and Speedsters use Imperial Ethyl Gasoline to get the most power their engines are designed to deliver.

CARS, BUSES AND TRUCKS
Business concerns operating cars and trucks use Imperial Ethyl because its superior performance reduces running and maintenance costs.

Throughout Canada, passenger-car owners like yourself are turning to Imperial Ethyl Gasoline for exceptional engine performance and smoothing satisfaction. Whether your car is a service-worn veteran or a brand-new automobile, you will see a marked improvement in its power and flexibility immediately after a tank-filling of Imperial Ethyl. Put it to the test today . . . we know you will acknowledge our claims to be moderate . . . once Imperial Ethyl has a chance to prove itself to you.

WEST HASTINGS W. I. CONVENTION AT GLEN ROSS

Mrs. W. Grass of Foxboro Is President For Ensuing Year

The annual District Convention of West Hastings W. I. was held in Rosebush pavilion, Glen Ross, Thursday, June 2nd. The morning session being purely business was opened by the Ex-President, Mrs. B. Pinkle. She opened it by singing of the Institute hymn followed by the Lord's prayer. About 60 ladies were present for the session, and a larger number attended afternoon session. All six branches were well represented and delegates all gave very gratifying reports of their year's work. The chairlady made a very appropriate address and left a few subjects for discussion, for work in the district. There will be discussed among the individual branches for decision. The report of the district and district branches combined, were given by the secretary and were found very satisfactory. A few well chosen words were given by Mrs. W. Grass, the newly elected president, who welcomed office in the branch from North Hastings into West Hastings District. This being seconded by Mrs. Geo. Nicholson, of Wallbridge branch, who stated that the district was pleased to welcome such willing workers among them. Election of officers took place and the following were appointed for the coming year:—President—Mrs. W. Grass, Foxboro. 1st vice—Mrs. J. Snider, Frankford. 2nd vice — Mrs. B. Vandervoort, Trenton.

Secretary—Mary E. Vandervoort, Stirling.

Auditors—Mrs. C. McGee, Stirling; Mrs. M. Bine, Stirling.

Representative to Convention— Mrs. B. Pinkle.

Mrs. B. Vandervoort, president of Bay of Quinte branch, gave a cordial invitation to meet with that branch next year at Trenton, which was unanimously accepted. The meeting adjourned for lunch. River Valley served lunch at noon and this closed the forenoon session. Proceeds of afternoon, $16.70, one-half for district funds.

The afternoon session opened by singing the opening ode. Mrs. Ladner, of Woodcross, the Provincial Representative for this Division, gave a very inspiring and helpful address on Federated W.I., speaking of it as the real Institute. She also gave a paper which titled "Neighbors" which was very well prepared and very interesting. It impressed the importance of being unselfish neighbors and to offer kind words and helping hands, and love your neighbor as thyself.

Miss Perkins, a trained nurse of Frankford, was the next speaker, giving a ten-minute talk on first aid and emergency calls. She stated, first of must have presence of mind and self-control, and then we should be directed what to do. She gave remedies that may be given quickly for burns, drownings, hemorrages, fainting spells, etc., this being a very helpful address to the organization.

Mrs. Waldron, of Trenton, delighted the audience as usual, with her Scotch solo. Mrs. P. McDonell, of Stirling, also pleased the crowd with a humorous reading in her usual fine style.

The Irony of Love
By Charles Garvice

Eva laughing delightedly, nodded at the upturned faces; then, suddenly remembering her manners, she disengaged herself from Rafe's arms and, taking her little stint in both hands swept the ma curry, and said demure ly, her lips tightening with her laugh ter: "I'm very glad to see you."

At this, the men, fascinated and thrilled by the little mite and her elfish curtsy, gave way and cheered until Pat Fitz, staring, with eyes like saucers, glanced fearfully up at the roof and wondered whether it would stand it.

The morning after the day Rafe and Maude returned to the castle from their honeymoon, Rafe and Mr. Gur don were in the library, with the in tention, on Mr. Gurdon's part, of having business." There had been a tremendous fuss the night before, for Glenfyre had given such a "homecoming" to its lord and mistress, and had kept it up so late that Rafe and Maude, as they stood in the hall at the open door, listening to the last sound of the departing revelers, had heard the clock, striking three, mingle with the retreating strains of Donald's pipes; and this morning Rafe was more disinclined even than usual to discuss business with Mr. Gurdon. But Gurdon was obdurate, and Rafe, lighting a pipe, settled himself into a chair which had often been one of torture for him and turned his face from the window, from which he could see Maude and Eva walking on the lawn.

"You will see, if you look over these accounts, Loyd Strantyre," Mr. Gurdon was handing him a paper with a horribly formidable row of figures on it, "that what I may call the estimate of settled expenses—I mean, charges that are necessary and inevitable—are very much the same during year, to the total I have set down on the other sheet. You will see, I think, you have it upside down. Thank you. Deducting these necessary items, you will have left—"

Rafe, who had taken the proffered paper with marked reluctance and distaste, laid his brown and fierce a face sigh. "That's all right," he said. "I know you don't want me to read it up, do you? My dear chap, I couldn't add up four rows of figures, leave alone all this jumble of 'em. What you say goes every time and all the time."

He stopped suddenly, for he had noticed that one item had been crossed out—lines—with the pen on the table, and put his finger on the cancelled line.

"What does that mean?" he asked, quietly. "He's to have that amount of money for a year, I thought I made it plain to you when you wanted me to make it out. You haven't altered that, he's my brother. No matter what he did, he's that, he's my own flesh and blood, and I can't forget it."

Gurdon put the paper aside, took off his spectacles, and polished them slowly. "I have cancelled that item, Rafe," he said, "because it is no longer necessary. Mr. Travers is dead."

Rafe turned away and stood by the window. There was silence for a moment, then on he said, in a low, quiet tone, ing out at the November sky, he said very quietly, "When did he die?"

"On the second. You were on your honeymoon, Lord Strantyre, and I thought it better to postpone the news. I intended telling you after we had gone over these accounts, for I knew—"

Rafe nodded. "How?" he asked.

"In a strange manner," replied Mr. Gurdon. "The confidential clerk and in search of him tracked him to a little room on the Seaside Estate. The wretched man was under the impression that he is being pursued and he fled from the hotel. He bolted up to his room when my clerk appeared at the door, and he was just about to escape through the window and be off to Continent. The rope was extended of course. It was in Spanish Bay way and Travers fell to the ground on his own on the Seaside Estate. Dr. Gunton, "The confidential clerk said, "Everything that could be done was done. My own and made arrangements for the funeral, and waited for it. I knew the relations here. It was a terrible end—but—"

He shrugged his shoulders and shook his head, as if his confidence in a wise Providence had been shrunken; and by the turmoil of his countenance a person as Travers.

A Rafe opened the window and went out. Eva ran to him. "Oh! you are my new pony. Stranded! How good you're out and—and—the laughing, mischievously. "Have you seen Mr. Gurdon, as you're, often threatened to do?"

He smiled down at her, as he took her hand, but Maude, who knew every expression of his face, drew near to him and whispered, somewhat anxiously:

"What is the matter, Strantyre?"

Rafe opened his lips, but checked himself. "Presently," he said, with a glance at the happy child, elusive to him.

A School Girl's Nerves

Lost year's time from school with St. Vitus' Dance.—Completely restored by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

The anxiety and strain in connection with high school life and examinations are too much for many girls who are naturally of a nervous temperament or have become so as a result of growing too fast or some physical condition.

Nervous conditions are most difficult to overcome and these seems to be no treatment to compare with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to restore exhausted nerves. Children's health responds quickly to this well known nerve restorative treatment.

Mrs. George A. Moot, St. Anne, Lisbon, Cat. Ont., writes:—

"Our daughter, who was never very strong from birth, at nine years of age became all broken down, suffering from what the two doctors we consulted called "Midnight St. Vitus" which we learned from experience at school. She seemed to show symptoms of St. Vitus' Dance and had spells, sometimes, during the day, at nights. She was out of school for a whole year, as her nerves were so bad. Acting on a friend's advice, we gave her Nerve Food and after a few months' time we began to see a noted change in her, so kept on with the Nerve Food until she was completely relieved and for the last year she has been absolutely free of the old trouble, sleep well and is doing fine at school. Now we are never without Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in our house, as we own our daughter's health to it."

New rich blood, steady nerves, new energy and new vigor come with the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. 60 cts. a box, all dealers or The Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

All the necessary details of the Annual Day Camp are being looked after by the committee in charge and on Wednesday the entry forms for the event will be procurable at the Association office on Campbell St. And at this stage it is difficult to predict how large an entry there will be, yet there is every indication that the entry list will greatly exceed that of last year. Enquiries concerning the race have been numerous, all of which promises well for the annual swimming event.

Interviewed several days ago, his worship the Mayor gave a very practical demonstration of his interest in the event by the presence of one of the Trophies. The Y's Men's Club, which donated the ladies' trophy last year, created their intention of bettering after the polo, again this year, and they voted to donate another trophy at the Friday night's meeting. NAPANEE MAN IS INSTANTLY KILLED BY LIVE WIRE

Man Drowned at' Bancroft--Hospital Board Appoints Superintendent -- City's New Sweeper

MEETS DEATH AT WORK ON HYDRO ELECTRIC POLE

John Kinkley of Napanee Instantly Killed Yesterday Afternoon

2400 VOLTS

Married Man Employed With Commission Since January

Electrocuted immediately by 2400 volts John Kinkley fell about thirty feet from the top of a Hydro pole at the corner of Centre and Bridge streets, Napanee, yesterday afternoon at 2.45. The man had been engaged in repair work on the pole when he came in contact with a live wire which was strung across the bar. He dropped to the ground instantly and one of his fellow workers rushed to his aid but life was extinct. Earl Loucks and Jack Burns who were with Kinkley at the time immediately summoned Dr. Galbraith, coroner of Napanee. Kinkley was thirty-five years of age and a married man. He was born in Napanee and had resided there always and had been in the service of the Hydro Electric since January of this year. His wife and four children survive. He resided at Roblin's Hill on the Kingston Highway, Napanee East.

Inquest Ordered

In speaking to Mr. C. A. Walters, manager of the Hydro at Napanee, the Intelligencer was unable to learn whether Kinkley wore the required rubber gloves. It is thought probable that he would have taken the precaution as he had been engaged in the same line of work, wire repairing during the past six months and was cognizant of the precautions required.

A lineman who was up on a pole at the opposite side of the street saw that Kinkley was in trouble and immediately went to his assistance. He was about half way up the pole when Kinkley fell, but was able in some measure to break the fall. Kinkley struck the ground on his shoulder. The body was moved over to three hours, but without avail.

Dr. Galbraith examined the body and ordered an inquest which will be opened in the Town Hall this evening.

The funeral will be held tomorrow from the Church of England, Napanee, of which deceased was a faithful and consistent member.

CITY PURCHASES LATEST DESIGN OF STREET-CLEANING APPARATUS

TO PREMIER'S STAFF

New Machine To Replace Present System—Cost $8600.00

VOTE 7 TO 5

City Engineer Outlines Advantages of Elgin Sweeper

The city will purchase an Elgin motor-driven pick-up sweeper at once on the basis of offer embodied in a letter from Mussens Ltd., Montreal for $8600.00 F. O. B. Belleville, the duty and sales tax paid and payment of the $8600.00 to be made six months from date.

A vote was taken on the matter with the following result: Yeas—Mayor Wilson, Ald. Duff, Corman, Coupy, Walker Proctor and Cherry, Nays—Ald. Collins, Hyde, Sinclair, Thompson and Wallen.

Mr. Campbell cited the names of several other cities which have purchased the sweeper and found it to be most satisfactory. The machine in Halifax is serving its ninth season, St. Catharines officials have found the sweeper to be modern and adequate.

A comparative statement of the cost of street cleaning by man power was presented by Charles Campbell, city engineer, at the City Council last night. For 1923 the total cost was $5835.15, for 1924, $6537.80, for 1925, $6731.35, for 1926, $6468.80 and for 1927 to May 11th, $1214.00. Due to inadequate equipment during the years 1924-25 and 26 the work was only partial and the cost totalled $18,418.05.

"The estimated cost for cleaning the pavements for 1927 is already expended, $1200, water waggon charge to Nov. 30th, $1788, labour $3600, removal of snow from storage piles $125, totalling in all $6843, which is chargable to repair frontage $6000 and city at large $843, a total of $6843.

By the use of the sweeper the purchase of which was authorized the charge may be reduced from $7000 yearly to $2000 and better results are assured. The cost of 1924-5-6 sweeping by the mechanical system would have totalled $6000 leaving $13000 to be applied to the cost of the machine which is $8600. The city would, according to the City Engineer's estimate now have the machine paid for in the second year.

The following are the costs under the present system for all of which are now charged to the appropriation direct:—water used $400, labour sweeping water cart, team and men $2249, removing refuse $125, cleaning catch basins $400, flusing storm drains $1000, total $6843.

Under the Elgin sweeper system the following would be the cost:—labour $800, gas and oil $800, broom $200, Total $1200. In addition the following would be required:—depreciation $600, interest $430, parts $100, rpitrement of depreciation on the cost of the machine $1144, Total $2944.

Benefits Derived

1.—Extensions of pavements may be taken care of with practically no increase in cost.

3.—The cleaning of Front Street south hose can be abandoned and the dirt kept out of storm drains. Earlier start of cleaning and later finishing date available. All streets can be cleaned every day by 9 o'clock in the morning, not all on day alday. Streets can be cleaned for oiling without the awful dust storm being raised and the nuisance removed from the street not left as at present.

Rev. L. S. Wight of Holloway Street Heads Association

Belleville's Ministerial Association had a real day out yesterday when, regardless of clerical collars and the dignity "the cloth" commands, they packed their baskets and motored to Moira Lake Community Camp for an all day picnic. Twenty-five in all the clergy and their wives enjoyed a picnic lunch in the open directly after they arrived at the grounds and at the conclusion of this the ministers challenged the ladies in the party to a soft ball game and with Mrs. D. G. Ramsay as pitcher for the ladies and Mrs. C. F. Clarke as catcher the gentlemen defeated the men whose pitcher was Rev. L. S. Wight and catcher Rev. C. E. Clarke to a score of 9-8.

Baseball was followed by pitching quoits in which Rev. D. C. Ramsay and Rev. Mr. McMullen won.

Election of Officers

After the games the Association settled down to business and the election of officers during which Rev. L. S. Wight was elected president, Rev. J. A. Black of Plainfield, vice-president and Rev Hilliard Jones, secretary-treasurer. The meeting then journed until the 2nd Monday in September.

STORK PAYS FLYING VISIT TO OTAWA-TORONTO TRAIN

Whether the windows of C.N.R. train No. 7 were left open last night or how the stork made his entry into the car he absolutely sure, but at any rate he left a new little citizen in the home of Mr. Clara Fendimore who was travelling from Hawkeston with two small children. The mother and babe were tendrly cared for by a Salvation Army woman until arrival in Belleville when they were taken by ambulance to the Belleville General Hospital where both are doing well. The little new comer will always have the satisfaction of being born on a train as it was travelling from Hawkeston with every hope that it was "somewhere between Ottawa and Belleville."

TODAY'S THOUGHTS

Truth is as impossible to be soiled by any outward touch as sunbeam.
MILTON.

SCIENCE AND RELIGION

An extremely interesting statement was made during this week by the British scientist, Sir Oliver Lodge, speaking at Oxford university, to the effect that the creation of living matter, by artificial means, in the laboratory, was not only a possibility of the future, but "inevitable." Such a declaration would have been regarded as blasphemous not long ago, and will be regarded as blasphemous by some people even today. God alone can create life, we are taught. But the opinions of a thinker of Sir Oliver Lodge's authority are not to be lightly dismissed. The chemical ingredients of protoplasm, the vital substance of the primitive life cell, are known in a general way, if the exact proportions of the elements composing this mysterious material are determined, then it is conceivable that it can be reconstructed by artificial means. But even so, that fact does not make man sufficient; it still demands a Creator and it does not in the least explain what life is. Sir Oliver Lodge himself was very careful to emphasize human limitations and direct the attention of his hearers to those realms of the spirit, about which we can only speculate, but from which we derive our power to think and to act.

If the scientists succeed in doing what Sir Oliver thinks they can do they will not be originating anything but merely imitating. They will be working too, with gases and solids which they find ready to hand. Whence come these essential elements. The problem is not simplified by breaking down living compounds into their constituent parts and putting them together again. The deeper we delve into the secrets of nature the more insoluable the riddle of the universe becomes. It is a common but a very great mistake for young people pondering these deep mysteries and to suppose that all the old ideas have modern speculations regarding them been destroyed; that there is no longer any reason for religion at all; that things just happen, and that we now know why they happen, and nothing more is necessary than our own human ingenuity working in an environment which we are getting to understand and to master better and better. Let Sir Oliver Lodge answer that presumptuous thought. Life, he says, is still altogether incomprehensible; what we call the mind is something apart from matter; the soul of man is a part of the great spirit which "permeates and infuses everything." Science probing around can give us no answer to the eternal mysteries of our being and of the wonderful and beautiful habitation in which we are placed. We have to fall back upon faith—the most learned and the simplest of men alike; to abandon our belief in and reverence for that which is immeasurably greater than ourselves is not to show the scientific spirit, but to ignore the very truths which science is establishing. Increased knowledge brings increased wonders; it is still only the fool who says in his heart that there is no God.

LEGAL VAGARIES

Orators tell us the world is getting better. We are rebuked that criminals are treated humanely, progress had been made in the war on disease, the infantile death rate has been brought down, every other family has an automobile and a telephone and even farm houses have electric light there are child labor laws and work men's compensation and old age pensions and service clubs. It is all most impressive. Then we read that in a neighboring city's police court a man was fined $20 for selling ice cream and matches on Sunday" and we stop to wonder.

It is the law, of course, even though the law is an ass, as someone has said. The purpose of the law is not very clear. If the eating of ice cream on Sunday is an evil deed in itself why is consumption permitted so long as it takes place within the confines of the premises where it is sold? If the wrong-doing is in the financial transaction of purchase and sale, it is difficult to see why the discrimination is made between the deal which involves putting a quart in a bag to be taken away or putting it in dishes for immediate consumption on the shop. The law is queer that way. Presumably a man could buy a meal at a restaurant on Sunday and take it away with him on a tray in utter legality, even though it included a plate of ice cream, but if the ice cream in unaccompanied the law says "No" in its twenty-dollar voice.

We are permitted to buy gasoline on Sunday, and if all the people who drive cars picked out the right to buy ice cream also on that day and eat it where they wish we suspect the law would be made to conform. We may buy Sunday newspapers but not bananas—unless we eat them on the premises. If we were logical we should have to read the paper where we buy it, and use the gasoline driving 'round and 'round the service pump.

It may be that the man who uses his last match on Sunday afternoon and thereafter must perish for a smoke unless he finds a neighbor at home is brought to a highly devout state of mind, but we doubt it.

BUSINESS CONGRESS

At the end of this month there will be a meeting of the business men of the world in Stockholm, under the auspices of the International Chamber of Commerce, over 800 delegates from various countries having already signified their intention to attend. The subjects to be discussed are of prime international importance—tariffs and trade arrangements of all kinds, the settlement of international debts, the treatment of foreigners, industrial agreements and understandings between different countries. The importance of propaganda and other matters of interest, not only to those engaged in commercial life, but to the public in general. It is expected that the results of the conference will be just as instructive as the deliberations at the recent Economic conference held at Geneva. It is the contribution of the practical man of affairs to the consideration of problems of almost international importance. Because they occupy such a leading place in international diplomacy, the questions cannot be satisfactorily debated except when divorced from politics. The International Chamber of Commerce does the world a great service in arranging for their free discussion on the part of expert economists, among whom will be Prof. Maynard Keynes, Prof. Baudhuin, Dr. Henry Chandler, Prof. Charles Rist and Dr. Herman Bucher.

Harry Lauder tells the story of two men, one of them a Scotchman, who applied for a berth on a sailing vessel that was moored at a Liverpool wharf. The ship's captain examined them and asked to see their credentials. The Scotchman's companion displayed his, and the captain turned to the Scotchman.

"I'll tell ye, captain," said the latter, "I was in a shipwreck recently an' I lost all ma belongin's."

The captain seemed impressed by the honesty of the pair and he signed them both for the voyage. Several days later at sea a heavy storm arose and the Scotchman's companion, who was carrying a bucket along the deck was swept overboard by a large wave and was seen no more. In the forecastle it was decided that the Scotchman was the man to inform the captain of the mishap, which he did.

"I say captain," he began, "ye mind that feller who shipped wi' me—the chap wi' all the credentials?"

The captain nodded.

"Well," said the Scotchman, "he's away wi' your bucket."

WIND FROM THE FAST

Alone, I hear the wind about my walls,
Wind of the fiery night, southwest and warm—
Rain-burdened wind, your homely sound recalls
Youth and a distant countryside takes form,
Comforting with memory-sight no town-taxed brain.
Wind from familiar fields and starr-tossed acres,
I've send me wafts my lonely through dark and rain
Voice I long my greatest ecstasies.

Wind of the city-lamps, you speak of home
And how into this homelessness I've come
Where all's uncertain, but my will for power
To ask of life no more than life can earn.
Wind from the past, you bring me the last flower
From gardens where I'll nevermore return.

ANOTHER COMET IN LATTER END OF THE MONTH

London, Eng., June 14. (C.P.)—On June 27 another comet will temporarily "rise into our ken", Pons-Winnecke's comet will on that date make a record close approach to the earth, rubbing shoulders with us, in terms of the celestial universe, at a distance of 3,500,000 miles. Viewed like the tail of this wanderer of the heavens will probably look any sensational element for the layman—it is not likely that it will be visible to the naked eye—it may be of great scientific importance by helping in the astronomers' herculean task of measuring the distance of the earth from the sun.

Recent observations have shown that this comet possesses an almost pointlike condensation of brightness. Dr. H. L. Waterfield points out that, if the central condensation of light remains point-like when the comet is nearest us, it will serve a very useful purpose.

"The distance of the sun is determined by measuring the distances of the nearest planets when they are very close to us," writes Dr. Waterfield in the News. "Both Mars and Venus have in the past been employed in this way; and in recent years the minute planet Eros, which comes much nearer to us than any body except the moon, has given us the most accurate of all determinations of the sun's distance.

"Now it has been suggested that if only the comet retains in its centre a definite point of light, by means of which its position could be accurately determined from day to day, there would be an unparalleled opportunity for measuring the distance of the sun; for the comet will come a great deal nearer even than Eros. And this is of great importance. It is the keystone of the most fundamental measurement in astronomy. It is the line with which we make all our soundings of the universe."

One eventuality may frustrate the hopes of the astronomers, leaving the gauging of the sun's distance still dependent upon the diminutive Eros. Pons-Winnecke's comet may possibly fade out altogether before June 27. In 1013 the comet Westphal played this trick upon terrestrial scientists, after its advent had been widely heralded. For a single night it suddenly sank to the borderline of visibility in the largest telescope.

One reason why Pons-Winnecke will not interest the lay public is that it possesses no tail. No matter how useful a comet be in the matter of charting the heavens, it must possess a tail to win popular applause.

MERRY MORNING

"It's Always Fair Weather When Two Jews Get Together."

The sequel to the little tiff between two Montrealers at the Upper Station cropped up in the local Police Court today. The Jew, and the other who defies he is a Jew, Robinson by name, provided a good half hour's amusement for all who were present in the courtroom today. The gentlemen of Semitic origin laid a charge of using foul language against Robinson and endeavoured to prove to the Magistrate that Robinson had called him a certain name.

The language that each man claimed the other had used would have shocked the proverbial trooper, Robinson stating that it was the Jew who had used all the bad words, he never, never, using anything worse than "darn", "gee", and "you fool". The Jew was unable to prove that Robinson had called him the name he alleged had been spoken, and the charge against the accused was dismissed.

When asked whether he was a Jew, by counsel for prosecution, Mr. Ed. O'Flynn, Robinson said that he was a French Canadian. His mother and father were Russian Jews. The accused was asked where he had been born and replied "in my heart", causing the few spectators in the court room to simply sit with silent. Upon being asked for an explanation he said that he was born part in France and part in Germany, evidently having as his place of birth either Alsace-Lorraine or some border point. Mr. Charles Payne appeared for Robinson.

Digging to a depth of 25 feet, the British excavations have established the various levels of the hippodrome, laid bare the outer walls on the north west side, unearthed more than a hundred coins dating from the 4th to the 15 th century, large fragments of marble architectural elements finely decorated with reliefs, and much material for a study of Byzantine ceramics and early Turkish faience, as well as brick inscriptions of great value for chronological purposes.

Nearly half of Holland's famous windmills have been destroyed or removed in the last four years. The number has been reduced from 2,604 to 1,976 in that time.

CARD OF THANKS

FAMOUS RUINS BEING DUG OUT

Constantinople, une 14.—The first excavations of the famous Byzantine hippodrome of Constantinople which were begun on March 26 under the auspices of the British Academy, by Stanley Casson, Fellow of New College, Oxford, have resulted in the discovery of monuments used as fountains, obelisks, quantities of coins, brick inscriptions and other important finds.

The hippodrome, begun by Septimus Severus of the second century A.D. was completed by Constantine the Great in 324 A.D., as one of the glories of his glorious "New Rome." Throughout Byzantine history, the hippodrome was the centre of intrigue, political events as well as of great races, athletic feats, and festivals. It was the chief setting for the Nika Revolt under Justinian, the death place for thousands of rebels, and it was there that the pillagers of the Fourth Crusade ran amuck.

WHAT WINS A BOY? HERE'S THE SECRET

By ELSIE MARLOWE

Remember those first, terrible dumb years when you "didn't know what to say to a boy?" You could chatter like a magpie with the folks at home or the girls at school, but let a boy brave in sight—forthwith and immediately you saw stars, and your conversation got all tangled up with your tonsils.

DEAR ELSIE:

I am always perplexed as to what to talk about with boys the first time that I meet them. I can attract their attention easily enough, but I cannot keep them in interested in me, unless my girl friend is with me. I was introduced to a strange boy today. Four of us went riding, but I could not find anything of interest to talk about. You have helped so many people that I'm sure you can help me in this matter.

JANE.

I'm going to tell you a secret, Jane. All the great charmers of history have known this secret, and have used it overtime in their conquests of hearts. And always the Other Woman stood around and wondered how they did it.

They did it very easily. They lured and held men, for they had discovered one simple, vital fact about men—ALL MEN—irrespective of age, size, disposition or nationality. They had discovered the one object which is of supreme interest to every man.

And that subject is THE MAN HIMSELF.

And they had also discovered that in discussing their subject, most men like to be their own broadcasting stations.

It is not necessary, little sister, that you should learn to talk to boys. You need only learn the trick of starting the boy to talk about himself, and be ing a good audience. Clever words are not needed. In fact, clever words have lost more lovers than they ever won. But friendliness is needed, and sympathy, a comradely smile, a ready laugh and an understanding silence. If you have these to offer, every boy you meet will want your companionship.

So smile, little sister, look interested, ask him a question or two about himself, and then let nature do the rest.

Here's another Young Love Problem.

No, you're wrong. It isn't from a girl. It's from a boy—and he's Regular, even if he is only sixteen.

DEAR ELSIE:

I am a boy of sixteen and I am going with a girl of fourteen. We both love each other inseparately I know we are too young and are foolish, but really, we do love each other. Do you think it is wrong for us to go with each other? I would do anything I could to protect and show my love for her.

I am an honest-boy. I work after school and go to high school.

We have been going together for nine months and have had only four quarrels. Sometimes the neighbors talk and this makes M. think it is wrong. Is it Elsie?

Please tell us what you think.

B. and M.

No, it isn't foolish, son. Love is never foolish, and love is always real, whether it comes when we are sixteen or ninety. But we may use it foolishly.

This love which has come to you two is a very beautiful thing, little friends. If you use it rightly, its memory may sweeten and brighten all your lives. Indeed, it may blossom into a lasting tie. BUT ONLY IF YOU USE IT RIGHTLY.

What do I mean by using it rightly?

Using it so that it will help you grow, help you to be happier and healthier and more useful to yourselves and all the rest of the world. Just now is the busiest Growing Time of both your lives. A tremendous strain is being put on your minds and bodies. You need the right amount of play and exercise, new interests, adventure and fun, just as you need the right amount of food and sleep.

If you don't get enough of all these things, you will grow up maimed in mind and body. And the great danger of Young Love is that it will shut you off from taking your normal place in the life around you.

If Love keeps you from going in for basketball with the other fellows, or joining their clubs, or sharing their interests, it is then that love is bad for you.

If Love prevents you from swimming with the other girls, or sharing their parties, or shuts you out from happy companionship with your own folks, then love is bad for you.

But if Love makes you a jollier person in the home, and a better chum, then Love is good for you.

If Love is doing this good thing for you, it will help you, too. But if it is making you morbid and mean and unsociable, then Love will go away from you. Love doesn't stay in such spirits. And that's the truth about Love, whether you're nine or ninety.

A-lvice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

A short while ago we met some boys at a friend's party. Since then we have invited them to another party.

Although they seemed quite ordinary, they haven't asked us to go out with them yet. Now we would like to have them at a picnic which we are giving. Do you think this is proper or would it seem as if we were "chasing them."

BABE, RUTH, LORRAINE.

BABE, RUTH, LORRAINE: I think it would be well to wait since the young men evinced more interest in you before you extend another invitation to them. Otherwise, I am afraid they WILL think you are "chasing them."

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young girl of eighteen and am engaged to a man twenty-nine years of age. My parents object to our marriage because of the difference in our ages. This is their only objection.

I feel that eleven years is not too great a difference and I also feel that I have a right to live my own life.

Would I be making a mistake by marry thn man, whom I love very deeply and who returns my love a hundred-fold? Please advise me.

CLEONE.

CLEONE: If your interests are mutual and your temperaments compatible, I don't think that the difference in your ages should be a bar to your marriage.

I am sure that if your parents were convinced that you could find happiness with the young man you love they would not stand in the way of your marriage. It is for you to assure them that you could be happy with no body else. However, you must realize that you are young and that your parents probably think that you are too young to have found a real and lasting love. Perhaps if you agree to put your love to the test of time, they would look with greater favor upon your fiance.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am in love with a man whose wife is hopelessly insane. Can he obtain a divorce in any State?

LONESOME AND SORRY.

LONESOME AND SORRY: Your lawyer can best advise you about this matter. He will be in a position to give you the information you wish.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have been going with a young man for almost four months. I love him and he says he loves me. But he has been going with another girl for a long time and seems to love her, too.

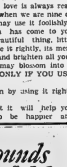

It will break my heart to give him up. What can I do to win his love?

LONESOME BROWN EYES.

LONESOME BROWN EYES: Of course, if he imagines he loves both, he really doesn't love either of you. Be as interesting and companionable as you know how. Keep him as a friend. Perhaps in time he may find that you mean enough to him to drop the other girl.

In the meantime, I must caution against suggesting that he break with her. Don't show any jealousy. A friendly indifference on your part may pique him to greater interest.

Semi-Formal Coats Are Always Needed

As every smart woman knows, there is nothing like a straight-line black silk coat for a thousand and one different occasion of morning, afternoon and evening of summer, spring and fall, and even of winter when a warm twill lining is added. This style lends itself readily of course to any other color that you may prefer, and may be made in satin, ribbed silk, moire, wool crepe or cashmere with harmonizing lining. The flat-haired fur that faces the long collar may be replaced by metal ribbon, and the fashionable looped bow of self-material may be placed at the shoulder rather than at the closing.

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN
By Mildred Barbour

Sybil, out of sympathy for Eva, fair advertising. He didn't give her any personal boost at all. Why, will you believe it, I heard several people asking, as they left the auditorium that night, what I was! They'd never even heard of me before—fancy! How the device could that fool people be put good money when they didn't know they were to hear me?"

Sybil had no answer to that—openly —but the mocking flicker in her eyes could have told him much.

"We'll have to do better, Sybil," he told her briskly. "I've been thinking that it would be a good idea for me to give a series of concerts outside of New York, to work up a good audience for my next appearance here. Once these people in the outlying districts have heard me, they'll jump at a chance of attending one of my New York recitals."

"You think these people want to hear you—badly?"

"Of course, they want to hear me play," he declared impatiently. "The point is, should I be good for them."

"I wonder if they think you are," said Sybil, with a wicked glitter in her eyes.

"By that I mean that I'm too much of an artist for them," he went on earnestly. "Audiences today have no soul for real music—classical music. They want jazz, something snappy. When you give them the work of the great people masters, they don't recognize it."

"You—you're sure it's not because of your interpretation?" asked Sybil, dangerously meek. "You're a trifler—or extraordinary in your reading, you know."

"I'm original, of course," he agreed lightly. "I don't copy any of the other fellows. Now, what do you say, Sybil, about helping me launch the series of concerts I've just spoken of?"

"I'm very much afraid you'll have to count me out," she murmured. "I don't mean to be—er—ungenerous, but it's rather too expensive an experiment for me, particularly when I know so little about music."

He looked deeply injured.

"You're not suggesting that you haven't faith in my ability, I hope?" he said stiffly.

Her manner not at all reassuring.

He came close to her, took both her hands and said, wheedlingly:

"Sybil, darling, you must want me to succeed. You deserve a famous husband."

"Husband!" she laughed. "Serge, we'd better settle this right here and now. Haven't you understood—yet?" He dropped her hands.

"Understood what?"

"That I haven't a scrap of affection for you—nor admiration—nor respect, even."

She drew away from him, her red lips smiling, but the smile was as cold and merciless as the blade of a knife.

"What are you talking about?" he demanded violently.

She laughed again.

"Serge, are you really as dumb as all that? Does your ego blind you to everything but your own impulses and desires?"

A blank look came into his eyes.

"You—you mean you've just been playing with me, Eva—and Sybil?"

"Exactly," she assented dryly, "I thought you must have seen it long ago."

That wasn't entirely the truth, but Sybil was feeling mean this morning. She kept seeing poor little Eva Patton crying because of her husband's disinterestedness. The husband who was secretly planning to cast her aside.

"You—you mean that you never loved me?" Serge asked, dazed. "I thought he couldn't possibly believe his own ears.

"Certainly not. Did I ever intimate that I did?"

"But you let me see you—you didn't refuse me, when I asked you to marry me. You know I gave me the money to go across my concert—"

She made an impatient gesture.

"Serge, can't you realize yet that I'm Eva's friend, no matter? You told me often enough that you loved me, and yet you could believe that I am the sort of woman who would take you from your wife? Her voice was cutting in its scorn.

But Serge didn't flinch. He was becoming to look like a bewildered child. His jaunty assurance was falling from him.

"Sybil, you can't be so cruel. You are everything to me. But I see now that you've been too engaged up in my self, haven't given you the attention you deserve. I didn't understand, dearest one, but I'll do better. I swear I will. I'll give all my time to you. I'll put you first, above my art. If—"

"Youll do nothing of the sort," declared Sybil, with weary exasperation. "You'll go home to your wife and children and be good for being unfaithful—even in your thoughts."

To her dismay, he flopped on his knees before her. He tried to grasp her gown.

"Sybil, I love you. There is nothing else in the world but you. If you do this cruel thing to me, you will rob me of my life, of my soul. I'll never be able to work my vision again."

She drew back from his clutching fingers.

"If I were sure you'd keep that last threat, I'd know I hadn't lived in vain" she said cruelly. "Serge, can't you see yourself? Didn't last night teach you anything? Don't you know yet that you're nothing but a conceited poseur, dabbling with an art that is beyond you? Don't you realize that all this talk of 'soul' and the ultimate in beauty is nothing but a cheap way of evading the ugly truth—the fact that you're weary of your wife and want to have affair with other women?"

"Sybil!"

"Oh, don't pretend you don't know yourself!" she went on. "If you were clever enough to build up this poor, you were clever enough for self-analysis. You knew very well what you wanted—an easy, free life that would give you a lot of cheap adulation and unlimited opportunity to amuse your wife under the name of art. And you are a creature that they call a male."

On his knees, his mouth indecently open, he stared at her.

The sight made her laugh.

"Why—why did you do that to me?" he stammered. "Why did you lead me to believe——?"

"Because you had the money to go to Europe," she said, but I picked you as being a little more of a cad than most."

He stared at her, still unbelieving.

"You don't believe in me—in my genius? Sybil, surely you can't say that! Tell me that."

She pointed to the crumpled morning paper on the floor,

"That's what I believe—what that critic said, and more. That and more. As a violinist you're a wash-out! That's what I think, and I'm not alone in my opinion."

"But women have loved me for my art—for Eva's sake—"

"Applesauce!" said Sybil inelegantly. "Some women may have been fools enough to love you because of them—but it wasn't, and never will be, for your art."

He got to his feet painfully.

"You've killed me. You've given me my death blow."

"I hope I've given your vanity its death-blow," was the crisp response.

WOMAN COULD HARDLY WALK

Mrs. Horn Tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

Hamilton,Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it did so much good I would not be without it now. I had a female trouble so badly I could hardly walk, and I was all run-down and could hardly get around to do my housework. I would be in bed for two or four days at a time. I was advised by a friend to try your Vegetable Compound, I did, and by the time I took two bottles I was beginning to get strength again. I have taken bottles in all, and now I am all right again and can do my own work. I have six grown-ups to work for, so I have plenty to do. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, and I think it is good. So I owe my health to the Vegetable Compound, and I think if more of it was tried women would be better off. I would not be without it if it cost much more."—Mrs. NELLIE JAMESON, 502 East Cannon Street, Hamilton, Ontario.

Do you feel broken down, nervous and weak sometimes? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is recommended to take at such times. It always helps, and if taken regularly and persistently, will relieve this condition, as

MRS. WILMOT IS AGAIN PRESIDENT

Lady Members Of Country Club Organize For Coming Season

Mrs. Charles Wilmot was re-elected President of the Ladies' Section of the Bay of Quinte Country Club at their organization meeting yesterday afternoon and Mrs. Bray Dawson was elected Secretary.

The business meeting was preceded by a luncheon attractively served by the Club's chef in the club-house. An encouragingly large number of the members attended.

Mrs. Douglas Reid was the unanimous choice as Captain of the Golf team, with Miss St. George Wills as Vice-Captain.

The committees appointed for the season are:

Entertainment—Mrs. P. S. Wilson, convenor, Mrs. W. C. Springer and Mrs. J. P. Wills, with power to add to their number.

Games—Mrs. (Dr.) Branscombe, Mrs. Stewart Robertson, Mrs. Russell Carman, Miss McIntosh and Miss Simmons.

A resolution of sympathy with Mr. R. J. Graham was passed.

Mrs. F. S. Wilson accepted responsibility for the attendance at the Monday Club luncheons. It is necessary for the chef to know how many are coming, so the ladies are asked to kindly let Mrs. Wilson know when they are going. She will also arrange for members' transportation when necessary.

There are 1,200 lights and other aids to navigation on the Great Lakes.

Report By Wynne-Roberts

Wynne-Roberts after making a study of the location of the Gas mains found it possible to divide the City into nine large districts in such a manner as to be able to test each area independently. Some of the areas were subsequently sub-divided for the purpose of better locating excess losses.

The lengths of gas mains in each area were measured and then converted to their equivalents of three inch pipe, the total being found 12,000 feet of 3 inch mains.

The average daily make was 52,693 cubic feet, although it was provisional by assumed that 2½ per cent would be the loss. This loss was proved located each foot of main in the city so as to have some standard by which to compare the results of the tests. The pressure at night was 2 inches, whereas in the daytime, it was much more and the latter will be exactly. The quantity of gas sold in April was 1,111,000 cubic feet. The daily sales cannot be ascertained for some days yet.

The make of gas during April was 2,452,960 cubic feet. Details are about 1,132,000 cubic feet to account for.

The gas passing into the different areas was tabulated in a portable test meter on the early hours of the morning when it was anticipated that the consumption was at a minimum.

Area 1. 1170 cu. ft. ..... per day
" 2. 825 cu. ft. ..... per day
" 3. 1567 cu. ft. ..... per day
" 4. 329 cu. ft. ..... per day
" 5. 2141 cu. ft. ..... per day

A line was found to occur between the station and the test meter in the gas lane and this installed under observation at the rate of about 17,000 cubic feet.

But it is quite evident, that in the absence of careful observations, this loss would be much more. So we estimate it at 250,000 cubic feet. The test meter was located in the gas lane to ascertain the quantity passing into the City and it was found to be about 600 cubic feet per hour, or at the rate of about 432,000 cubic feet per month. Some of this must have been used by consumers. The individual tests are, however, practically confirmed, with the result that we think the most serious loss must be at the gas works, which will be in the vicinity of 20,000 cubic feet per day.

The worst area was along Station Street, No. 5, and it is important that Mr. Hasden should devote every effort to find out the reason. This No. 1, Richland Ave., area should receive attention and No. 4, West of Dundas and Hallowe'en North of Bridge Street West and South of Moira Street W.

If Mr. Harden can reduce the losses in Areas Nos. 1, 4 and 5 to 2½ thus 15 per cent. of the make he will do good work. The rest of the City appears to be fairly good. The loss should be reduced to under 100,000 cubic feet per month, or part of 2 inch mains.

In conclusion, I have to state that Mr. G. W. Allen has made an excellent effort to trace where the gas goes to, and it is evident from the results that the greatest loss occurs within the Gas Co. limits.

DUNDAS STREET WILL BE OILED

Council Turns Down Proposal To Pave Main Thoroughfare

The Council have ordered that East Dundas St. be clarified preparatory to oiling operations. This puts to an end the suggestion of paving this main thoroughfare. The street as well as being oiled will be repaired and filled in and placed in better condition for the heavy traffic during the summer months.

A letter was received from Chas. Campbell City Engineer in connection with the introduction of the by-laws covering the cost of road oiling.

A recommendation to have Dundas St. East from Church St. to the Eastern City limits was brought up in Council some weeks ago which was referred to committee and Mr. Campbell requested some action in the matter. It was his Campbell's intention to clarify the street preparatory to oiling but the plans were changed until the proposal was disposed of. Mr. Campbell states that Dundas St. creates an unfavorable impression to tourists. He also proposed that Campbell and Patterson St. be paved as these thoroughfares are in the heart of the City.

A committee composed of Ald. Wallbridge, Hyde and Sinclair will deal with the matter of the proposed early closing by-law for the City of Belleville and report back to the next committee meeting.

It has been recommended that if it is found that the proposed sinking fund on the issue of debentures for the gas improvement will exceed the 25 mill rate as provided by the statute and the application be made to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board for the approval of said increase.

A letter from Mrs. Savage secretary of the Ladies Aux. G. O. B. A. asked the Council permission to sell tickets on a spelling match on the Chief Gidley. The money derived will go towards a fund for the building of a new Orange Hall in the future.

To Lay Gas Main

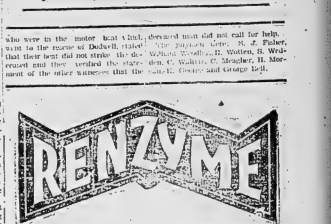

The recommendation for the application of gas service submitted by W. S. Cook and Sons was granted providing the terms of the agreement are lived up to.

W. A. Harden, Manager of the Gas Department has been investigating the question and states that Mr. Cook will guarantee the $250.00 worth of gas but judging from last year's consumption should use $50.00 worth.

It will cost $196.60 to lay the gas main and covering the cost of laying it.

LITTLE EVIDENCE

Albert Dodwell stated that he with his brother, Cecil, and two other friends visited the Park in the afternoon of June 12th and hired a boat. His brother and the deceased went in swimming, both were fair swimmers and soon after going in the water his brother cried for help and Kearney went to his rescue and was in the act of bringing him to safety when a panic-stricken man grabbed Kearney and Cecil up. "At that time not much attention was being paid to Drowning as he was considered a good swimmer and was not acting as though he was in danger," said the witness.

Lou Preston and Arnold Wilson who were also with the Dodwells and Kearning, corroborated the evidence of Albert Dodwell as did Cecil Dodwell, for whose sake the deceased sacrificed his own in attempting to save. The gist of their evidence was that they were not at all concerned about Kearning's safety, because they all thought he was a good swimmer and was not in any danger, also no alarm was heard from him.

S. H. McCreary and T. P. J. Power who were in the motor boat which, deceased man did not call for help. Sent to the rescue of Dodwell, stated that their boat did not strike the deceased and they verified the statements of the other witnesses that the latter, Cecil and George Bell.

When Soil Is Ready

Perhaps those persons who are making a garden for the first time should be warned not to dig in the ground too early. Many a garden has been ruined for the season by plowing or spading the soil before it has become sufficiently dry. A test is easily made. It is necessary only to take up a handful of soil and squeeze it. If it compacts into a lump in the hand—it is too wet to work. If, on the contrary, it crumbles when squeezed it probably is just the right condition for plowing, spading and planting.

With a little patience of soils one can make up for a late spring. As soon as growth begins apply at the rate of one tablespoonful to the square yard, repeating at intervals of ten days throughout season.

1ST TIME WOMAN EVER PRESIDED OVER MEETING

Edmonton, Alta., June 13—Miriam Ellis, writing of Mary Smith, says: "For the first time in the history of the British Empire, a woman has presided over a political convention. Heretofore the leadership of a political party, like the office of church warden, was reserved for men alone. At the recent provincial Liberal convention held in Vancouver, British Columbia, Mary Ellen Smith, acting president of the association, held the chair, and so well did she do the job that she was later unanimously elected president of the association. It was a very important decision since the provincial election will probably be held during her regime.

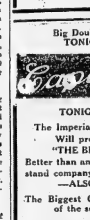

"It was not a tame convention, but the lady chairman asked for no odds and received none—as a woman—but as a chairman she was accorded a tribute of having been fair to all. She held the meetings at all times in check, allowed every one to express his or her opinion freely—if it had to do with the question in hand. Otherwise the delegate had to contain himself in patience until it came his turn to speak. Mrs. Smith has been a member of the British Columbia Legislature for ten years, has gone through three elections, and is chairman of the parliamentary caucus, but for her, public life began many years ago.

Who would have suspected tactful Ernest Valde of the rashness and temerity involved in naming "the perfect woman?"

The noted Hungarian dramatist who is now writing original screen stories at Paramount's studio, has decided to brave the indignation of scores of women without flinching a mental inch.

Perhaps, he has essayed the possible consequences.

At any rate, here's his opinion:

"The perfect woman, while not the world's most beautiful woman, is exceedingly pretty.

"She is not more talented than a great many, yet she has a wealth of talent.

"While not the most famous woman she is becoming more and more renowned each day.

"Here is the most balanced composite of quality, charm and ability. The name? Florence Vidor.

"Miss Vidor has a delicate, wistful beauty; a brilliance of mind and temperament subdued by superlative refinement and culture; and an absolute lack of pretentiousness in bidding for recognition, relying solely on her own merits. As an actress, she has the incomparable quality of dramatic restraint, using significant gestures where others gesticulate, transmitting profound feeling where others abandon sincerity for affection.

The picture entitled "You Never Know Women," is showing at the Belle.

PASCHAL HELPS YANKEES TO WIN

Eddie Collins Pinch-Hitting Starts Athletics' Successful Rally

New York, June 14.—Three feet aren't much in a ten-mile race, but they were enough yesterday to keep Benjamin Paschal, Yankee sub-outfielder, out of a reserved seat in baseball's hall of fame. There have been men who sneered at the little matter of three feet, but not Benjamin Paschal, who was only one yard short today of hitting four homers in one game.

While Crowder was holding the White Sox at Washington to three hits and a shut-out, the Senators batted Blankenship and Jacobs hard for a total of ten runs. Every man in the Washington line-up made at least one hit and one run.

Vangilder pitched an old-fashioned game against the Red Sox at Boston and St. Louis won the second game of the series, 2 to 0. The pitcher held Boston to five hits and his all figured prominently in the result. In the fifth inning Vangilder knocked a home-run over the left field fence. In the third his single started a one-run rally for the Browns.

A ninth-inning rally started by a triple by Eddie Collins, pinch hitting for Joe Boley, enabled the Athletics to overcome a one-run lead and land a 7 to 6 verdict over the Detroit Tigers at Philadelphia Collins who had been out of the game because of an injury to his hand, scored the tying run on a sacrifice fly. Max Bishop's double, Wheat's infield single and a pass to Cobb filled the sacks and Cochrane, who had hit a homer earlier in the game, ended the fray with a hit to centre that scored Bishop.

CLAIMS CONDITIONS IN CHINA VERY BAD

Montreal June 1.—Conditions in China are very much worse than dispatches are leading the public to believe, Mrs. A. Wowatt, of this city who has just returned from a five months' visit to the revolutionary area stated in an interview recently. Even a personal tour of the country fail to disclose the poverty and disorganization that have followed in the wake of the military regime, unless the tourist departs from the scheduled itinerary, she declared, for China is putting its best foot forward to impress those who will take word of its affairs to the outer world.

As an example of the type of thing that is being done, Mrs. Mowatt told how she had been travelling about the country in baggage and freight cars or in discarded railway carriages where the only seating accommodation was the floor. When her party crossed that of an around the world tour, how ever, she discovered that luxurious trains had been placed at their disposal so that they might go back to America and laud the efficiency of the modern Chinese railroads. "In some places they have collected taxes five years in advance, in addition to which the taxes are exorbitant. I know of one case where the grain produced by an acre was valued at eight dollars and the tax on this piece of ground was six dollars. As a result the people are trying to get away from the land."

BOBBY JONES TO TRY ONCE AGAIN

Rev. Dr. A. Burris A. Jenkins, of Kansas City, prominent in sport circles, has accepted appointment as a member of the Missouri Boxing Commission.

New York, June 14 (A.P.)—Bobby Jones launches his eighth drive for the National open golf championship at June 16, 15 and 16 at Oakmont free hardearned of record stroking which has no parallel in links history.

The twenty-five-year-old Georgian, who last year accomplished the remarkable feat of winning both the British and American open titles, already has opened his 1927 campaign with a smashing card of 281 to win the southern open crown. There are still some records ahead of him to tempt the magic of his clubs, and in this early season performance he has breathed a warning of new flights to arrest all which may realize his chief hope of the current season—acquisition of he open and amateur crowns in the same year.

Only one golfer in history has been able to bring off this feat. Chick Evans, the veteran Chicago amateur, accomplished it in 1916, nosing out Jock Hutchison for the open at Minneapolis and defeating Bob Gardner in the final round of the amateur at Merion.

Bobby missed an even greater performance last September at Baltusrol when he was toppled from his amateur throne by George Von Elm of Los Angeles after winning the American and British opens. But his 1925 scoring stands stand out as a brilliant achievement in sheer stroking. To this tournament triumphs he tacked two remarkable qualifying rounds for the British open, scoring in 36 and 68 for a sensational total of 134 at Sunningdale. Later he won the qualifying medal at Baltusrol.

Bobby's amazing performances last year are somewhat impressive than his consistently low scoring record in the open, where for seven straight years he has averaged a fraction of a stroke less than 71 a round for 27 rounds of championship play.

HOUNDS CHASE JACKRABBIT RUN BY ELECTRICITY

London, June 14.—The sport of Greyhound racing with electrically controlled hares, which was introduced into this country from Canada and the United States, has caught the popular fancy and become firmly established in England in a remarkably short time. Many sceffed at the idea becoming popular, but the majority of those scepics now are keen enthusiasts and attend the numerous meetings in various parts of the country.

Considerable space is given to the racing in all the daily papers, with betting odds and distance between the first, second and third greyhounds, just as horse races are recorded. Experts are engaged to tip up the form of the various dogs for the information of followers and the training of the animals has become a real business.

Society people not only attend the racing together with middle class and working people, but also own and race greyhounds. The Duchess of Sutherland has won several minor events with her dogs.

ROYALTY LIKES CERTAIN TYPE OF THE DRAMA

London, June 14.—Theatrical managers who have made a study of the playgoing of the King and Queen say it is clear they both like straightforward, well-constructed drama with action in it rather than psychological and problem plays.

Both the King and Queen have been to see Sir Gerald Du Maurier in "Interference." In fact, they almost always go to the plays at St. James' Theatre, where the acting and production are under the direction of Sir Gerald Du Maurier and the cast is always capable.

Eden Phillpott's plays are popular, with the royal family. "The Farmer's Wife" pleased the King and Queen so much that they went twice to see the amusing comedy of Devonshire. Many members of the royal family also went more than once to see "Rose Marie" during its long run.

Mystery plays, if they are well acted, appeal to King George. "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" and Edgar Wallace's "The Ringer" were both seen by the King.

On the whole King George's preferences do not seem to be essentially different to those of his more discriminating subjects. The plays he has enjoyed in the last twelve months were chiefly those which had long and profitable runs, and all of them were free from smut and suggestiveness. The average musical comedy makes little appeal to the King, and he does not share in the enthusiasm of some of the younger members of the family for certain pictures.

Louisville, Miss., June 14.—Jim and Mark Fox, negro slayers of Clarence Nichols, sawmill superintendent, were taken from Sheriff Fermenter, near Sonnapather, early to-day, brought to Louisville, and burned at the stake by a mob estimated at 1,000, after they had been paraded through the streets.

CUBS CONTINUE WINNING WAYS

Sherriff Blake Pitches Fine Ball Against McGraw's Maulers

Chicago, Ills., June 14.—There seems to be no apparent reason why everybody shouldn't beat the Cubs one of these bright and sunny days except that nobody has done it in over a week.

The Giants tried again yesterday afternoon and again they failed. The Chicago cyclone rumbled right along with added fury and the 6 to 2 victory was the Cubs' ninth in a row. The Giants would not mind that so much but they object strenuously to the fact that the last three Chicago victories have been New York defeats.

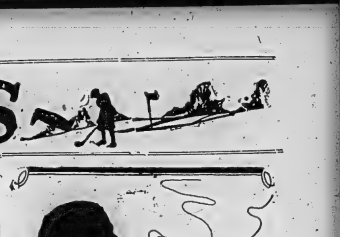

The Cubs needed the aid of neither the umpires nor Charlie Root's strong right arm to accomplish this last triumph. Sheriff Blake and Hal Wilson did just as well. Blake held McGraw's mighty maulers to a term which is fast becoming a jest, to eleven hits well distributed from the first inning to the ninth.

Wilson cavorted around centre field, and without the aid of roller skates dragged down eight drives that might have provided a different story if they had eluded his tenacious grasp.

The celebrated sluggers from Manhattan were doing devious things to the Sheriff as indicated by the fact that Charlie Grimm, the Cubs' first baseman had only four put outs, but the long drives were either so high that Wesh or Stephenson could get under them or else Mack Wilson hauled them down as he roamed the field from deep centre to the right field bleachers.

Paul Waner's home run in the sixth inning with Rhyne on base gave the Pirates a 4 to 2 victory over Brooklyn at Pittsburgh. Kremer pitched seven innings for the National League leaders and then gave way to Hill in the eighth with one out and two on bases. It was Kremer's first start on the mound since being injured a month ago in Brooklyn. Brooklyn outhit the Pirates, 13 to 7, but failed in the pinches.

YANKEE CONSUL ALMOST CANUCK

Married Canadian Girl—Also Practised Law In This Country

Washington, June 13.—Irving Nelson Linnell, the new United States consul-general to Canada, is almost a Canadian.

Sixteen years ago he took up a law practice in Prince Rupert, B.C. There he married a Canadian girl and there two children were born in the British Columbia town. It was in Prince Rupert that Mr. Linnell entered the American Consular service. In 1915 he moved to Vancouver to accept a higher post in the United States consulate there. Altogether he spent about eight years in British Columbia.

Mr. Linnell has held consular posts in five different cities, all of them British. From Vancouver he went to England, where he lived in London and Plymouth and then went to Cardiff, Wales. He returned to Washington four years ago to take charge of the Western European Division in the State Department. This division handles Canadian affairs.

"I shall be only continuing the work I have been doing for years," Mr. Linnell told the Canadian Press. "But now I shall be able to specialize in what has always been of greatest interest to me—the history of relations between Canada and the United States. In the last four years I have made a very close study of this history and it gives me great pleasure to know that I shall be able to watch more closely the working out of the problems common to our two countries and perhaps to assist in the solution of our problems, too. With the establishment of the direct diplomatic connection between our countries, the consular-general will be occupied more with business affairs and less with emergencies, but I hope shall be able to make practical use of my Canadian experience and my knowledge of Canadian affairs."

One of the most interesting incidents in oth American history, Mr. Linnell thought, was the negotiation of the Halibut Treaty between Canada and the United States. It had provided one of the most successful treaties of modern times, he said, and he believed it would be even more successful in the future.

Mr. Linnell said the happiest and most interesting of his days were spent in British Columbia. He looked forward with keen relish to the prospect of visiting Vancouver and Prince Rupert again when his work would permit. Mr. Linnell goes to Ottawa about July 1, when the veteran Col. John G. Foster, consul-general for the United States there for nearly 25 years, retires. One of the posts Mr. Linnell will leave vacant here is that of lecturer on consular practice at the Georgetown University.

His staff in Ottawa will be unchanged by the establishment of the direct diplomatic connection through the new William Phillips. The consular service is separate and take some of such matters as immigration, passports, witnessing of international business transactions, and so on. Mr. Linnell will occupy a separate office from the Canadian section of the United States legation, which will be under Mr. Linnell direct. Asked if he anticipated any trouble from this quarter, the new consul-general said humorously pleading innocence, knowing he said nothing of both of the matter.

LADY TAYLOR IS ACQUAINTED WITH FAMOUS PEOPLE

Montreal, June 12.—Most interesting reminiscences of noted people whom she had met were given by Lady Williams-Taylor at a gathering of Pen-Hellenic Club, in writing. In her childhood she knew Mark Twain and George Cable, later, she was one of the few to hear Tennyson read Maude his favorite poem, in the garden of his Isle of Wight home. She lunched once with Sir Arthur Sullivan and Sir W. S. Gilbert, whom she described as "two great gentlemen, and so disarmingly unself-conscious."

"O, K. Chesterton often comes to luncheon with me in London, accompanied always by John Lane and W. J. Locke," she said. "One day Locke didn't turn up and never did again. He had married without a word to any of us. I saw him often at Ais last year—a happy man who loves people and living, and who reaps a huge reward from his innumerable friends. Chesterton told me his secret—the candle flame that illumined the moon, and the precious theatre was ablaze. The huge man became panicky; he seized his wife's greatest treasure, a large vase, and regardless of the fire, carried it frantically out his burning toy. She screamed. He threw it over her best green silk dress and scooped up the horrid mess. We, the Hann Kennedys and I, cried with joy."

RADIO, AUTO AND MOVIES MENACE TO BOOK LOVERS

Toronto, June 10.—Commenting recently on Canadian public statistics for the past year, Dr. George Locke, chief librarian of the Toronto library, remarked that the factors proved conclusively that the automobile, the moving pictures and the radio are not preventing the serious consumption in reading which many people feared they would.

"Canadians are reading more assiduously than ever before, and they are reading better books," said Dr. Locke. "While of course, the demand for the cheaper popular fiction continues to be heavy, reports from all the libraries show a steadily increasing demand for investigative and books of travel. People are demonstrating an ever-growing curiosity concerning those few sections of the world which are not yet fully known; and such books as Lawrence's 'Revolt in Arabia' are being eagerly sought after."

"The more expensive products of the bookmaker's craft are treated by library users with a greater respect than are the cheaper editions. Of course a certain number of volumes are lost, stolen or mutilated each year but it is clear that the public's regard for books is on the increase.

"We may lose 20 books out of a year of a million in circulation," continued Dr. Locke, 'but book vandalism is dying out. The grafter who used to spoil writing cements such as 'notten' or 'great stuff' in the margins of borrowed volumes is no longer on constant a source of annoyance.

"The child particularly gives a beautiful book the care which it deserves. He quickly learns to realize the part which artistic binding and illustration, good paper and fine illustrating play in the worth a volume. We can feel more secure in trusting children with expensive editions than adults."

Juvenile readers also display better taste in the reading matter which they prefer, according to the librarian. The patrons of the Boys' and Girls' Home connected with the Toronto Library, manifest an omnivorous appetite for solid British classics which are not generally supposed to appeal to the childish taste. Exactly the public appetite and Stevenson, then call for more in the line of the latest books of travel and science. They often display a superfluous scorn for the more frivolous fiction consumed by their elders. They appear quite partial, particularly when combined with vivid action.

So, through the seats of the public libraries, the rather overstatement of Canadian families, in the matter of discriminating readers. Certainly there is no indication that reading as a pastime will be overwhelmed by the more lovely amusements which, during the past decade, have become available.

Another interesting feature of the memory was a luncheon with Meister-Hook and his wife when the former said that the great writer would read one of his new poems in the garden. "It was a divine day—Meister in perfect accord with the languorous peace about us. Mme settled for before, even perched in the tall sea grasses and shed scented petals. We were almost impressed. Then, with a fiend appeared, a tall, half-naked man-beast, bald-necked monster with a red beard. Close behind him, five ugly ball an hour to save pay. In fact he disdainfully, and ignored and left us without a word. It was his young master."

VALUE OF A NATIONAL SENTIMENT

From the Orange Sentinel

The observance of Empire Day serves not only to commemorate the good Queen Victoria, but it is an occasion for local demonstrations that have important educational value. In the City of Toronto fifteen thousand school children paraded to Queen's Park, where they decorated the monument and erected to the memory of those men who laid the foundations upon which our Dominion rests, and to those who gave died in this country's service. The Public and High School Cadets formed the most striking part of the procession, although the Girl Guides and Boy Scouts were interesting features.

All over the Province of Ontario similar demonstrations were held, testifying to the loyal spirit that animates the youth of Canada. At Belleville, for instance, seven hundred school children gave a patriotic concert that was attended by the citizens generally, and was a pronounced success. At many other centres the day was observed in the same way.

The kind of thing is highly objectionable to the pacifists and communists who form the merest fraction of the Canadian people. Their opposition is readily understood. The development of national sentiment here means millionaires leading to war. This perverted view they cherish like an article of religious faith. But the common people, the most active group in opposing cadet training, are moved against chiefly by an unthinking fear of militarism. And if institutions were favorable they would start a bloody revolution to overturn the Government to set up the Soviet system. There is another type of Pacifist, who while not so sanguinary, play into the hands of the revolutionaries. These are well intentioned, no doubt, but do not look to the end to which their agitation leads.

There is less danger in the world's very likelihood of war from the revival sentiment of British peoples than there is from the pacifist and communist. From every standpoint, therefore, it is sound policy to create in the school children a belief in and a love for, their own country and the Empire. It is encouraging to observe that that is being done pretty well.

PESSIMISTIC OVER FAILURE OF DISARMAMENT NEGOTIATIONS

Britain Does Not Share In Hopeless View of German Minister

Geneva, June 15.—A serious blow will be delivered at the prestige of the League of Nations unless the disarmament negotiations are given a new impetus, Foreign Minister Stresemann, of Germany, declared in a vehement speech before the league council today when M. Benes presented a report of the preparatory disarmament commission. Dr. Stresemann stated that the report clearly indicated the cause of disarmament had not been advanced. He warned the council of the urgent need of reaching an accord on the vital disarmament problems when second reading is given in November to the draft treaty prepared by the commission.

The solution of the disarmament question which appeared so simple a few years ago now seems to be definitely deferred" he said. "The very existence of the league depends upon a general reduction in armaments". Foreign minister Vandervelde of Belgium agreed with Dr. Stresemann that political conditions at this time made a solution of the problem imperative.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, said Lord Cecil the British disarmament delegate, did not leave in the possible pessimism over the results of disarmament negotiations.

RECTOR RAISES ROW BY DEFENSE 'FLAMING YOUTH'

San Francisco, Calif., June 15.— The tendency amongst the younger generation to indulge in "sex experimentation" was defended by Rev. Henry Lewis, rector of St. Andrew's Church at Ann Arbor, Mich., in an address before the National congress of the Protestant Episcopal Church yesterday. The speech created a sensation. The Right Rev. John J. Gravatt, of Marlboro, Maryland, Bishop of the Episcopal Church followed immediately with an impassion ed defence of the sanctity of the home.

Bishop Edward L. Parsons, of California and two other clergymen also took issue with Rev. Mr. Lewis, one of the latter, however remarking that the Ann Arbor rector "deserved the centennial medal for his frankness". Many of the delegates on the other hand were quoted as approving Rev. Mr. Lewis statements.

DISMISS ACTION OVER DOG'S BITE

The action brought by Mrs. Raymond Vickers against Mr. George Saunders whose dog attacked Mrs. Saunders, biting her severely, before Judge McLean at the County Court was dismissed by his Honour late yesterday afternoon.

In charging the jury Judge McLean asked them three questions. (1) Was the dog dangerous to the knowledge of the owner, (2) Could the owner to have known that the dog was dangerous, and (3) In event of these questions being answered in the affirmative, what were the damages suffered by Mr. and Mrs. Vickers? The first two questions were answered in the negative by the jury, and the action was dismissed. Damages were estimated at $67.00.

STERN HUNT FOR STRANGLER WHO ELUDED POLICE

Has Left Trail of 21 Garroted Women In The West

GOOD DESCRIPTION

Commits His Murders Mostly In Transient Boarding Houses

Winnipeg, June 15.—A squad of Dominionwan provincial rouce have left Saskatoon for Elsbow, a short distance away, where it was stated "Strangler" wanted for the murder of a Winnipeg woman and girl was seen last night.

Winnipeg, Man., June 15.—An intensive hunt is being pressed all over the province for the "stranger" who is wanted here for two murders, a demoniac who has left a trail of twenty-one garroted victims from the Pacific coast to Chicago. The man arrested last night at Raebourn and brought here for a few hours, found he is held until an inquiry into his mental condition can be made.

Good Description

The fugitive is described as a southern European, about forty, dark and swarthy, 5 feet 8 inches tall, thick set figure, dressed in a gray overcoat and weighing about 170 pounds. While coming east from San Francisco he drove a dilapidated car.

Last Friday he entered the home of Mrs. Emily Patterson and strangled her to death. Her body was found under a bed.

Yesterday the body of Lola Cowan, fourteen, school girl, was found nude on a bed in a Smith Street rooming house. She had been attacked and then strangled and the evidence indicated she was held a prisoner in the room for a day.

Began In San Francisco

The stranger found his first victim in San Francisco in February, 1926. Eight women in and about the coast city were done to death.

Then he moved to Portland, Mrs. Florence Hudson was the first there to die. He robbed her of $5,000 in jewels. Her body was found hidden in a trunk in the house basement. Two other Portland women lost their lives in his deadly clutch.

Kansas City was next to report a series of throttled women. Mrs. Bessie Foster, separated from her husband, was found choked to death in her home. The husband was arrested but later released. The same day W. K. Harpin, a war veteran, was found dead in his wife's and infant son strangled to death.

A check-up showed that almost all the women and next death had advertised for lodgers or had "for rent" signs up at their doors.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, was the next scene of the suffocation's devilish work. Mrs. Almira Beard was attacked and choked to death. The murderer drove up to the Beard home in a shabby car and the woman was killed in a room that she evidently had been showing the intruder.

Night Owls And Lovers Were Sole Witnesses In Belleville

Chicago, June 15.—Total eclipse of moon lasting twelve minutes was visible in North and South America and Europe early to-day. Total eclipse began here at 2.37 a.m. and ended at 3.53 a.m.

Locally the eclipse was not a complete one but to a few night owls and lovers who were out around 2.45 a.m. a partial eclipse was plainly visible. The round shadow of the earth was cast across the face of the moon increasing gradually until in half an hour the greater portion of the moon was obliterated. Thirty minutes later the black shadow disappeared and at 3.45 the full moon appeared.

LAWNS CLEARED FREE FOR LUCKY OWNERS OF MAPLES

The fortunate owners of lawns on which grow soft maple trees are lucky indeed when there are any gaps to be filled without any charge by employees of the Forestry Experimental Station and which have been located at the Sandbanks for the past few years and where about twenty-five men are employed.

Several of the employees of this station visited Belleville today, looking over the city and at residences where they noticed soft maple trees growing went to the door and asked the owner if they could clean up the yard, inform ing them that there would be no charge for same.

At this startling offer the owners of the lawns naturally became inquisitive and were informed that the officials of this station required about thirty bushels of soft maple seeds for their work, they already have eighteen bushels and are seeking the balance. After receiving the consent of several householders today to clean their yards gratis "free" they stated that they would be back on Friday to do the Appeal To Tariff Board For Increased Protection For Industry

NO HIGHER PRICES

Not To Cost Consumer More—Labor Cheaper In Europe

Ottawa, June 15.—Representing Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers in their application for increased tariff before the Tariff Board today F. H. Phipps declared that there was a market in Canada for approximately $40,000,000 worth of cloth and that Canadian Mills produced only 30 per cent. of the clothing consumed He claimed that by working days only, the mills now operating could produce 70 per cent. of our requirements and said there would be no difficulty in producing 65 per cent. of requirements The reason, he argued, why Canadian Mills did not obtain a greater proportion of the home market was that production costs were lower in Europe than in Canada and that Canadian duties were not sufficient to allow for this. Increased duties, Mr. Phippen asserted, would result in increased employment in Canada and would not increase the cost to the consumer.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

I defy the wisest man in the world to turn a good deed into ridicule.

FIELDING

PURPOSE OF PRISONS

The address of Geo. H. Rioux, chief of detectives at Quebec, at the International Police Chiefs' Convention at Windsor, raises a point which has often been discussed by criminologists and social reformers. In his address, Chief Rioux declared that the prisons were being made too comfortable and that less comfort and more stringent methods should be introduced into them. This raises the points as to the purpose of prisons. It is generally admitted that the purpose of these institutions are not confined to simply the punishment of a man who commits a crime. If that were the only purpose, then the whole system is working in the wrong direction. The imposition of punishment in its most severe form may act as a deterrent to some who have not yet embarked on any course of law-breaking, but its effect on those who are being punished should also be considered.

Punishment for crime is, of course, essential, but the prisons should have another aim, that of so influencing the inmates that they will seek to follow useful careers on their release. In other words, reformation, as well as punishment, should be the watchword of the prison authorities. The imposition of the strictest forms of punishment in many cases simply creates in the mind of the person being punished a feeling of resentment against the jail officials and against society in general, which sends out a bitter and vengeful man when the term of imprisonment is over. Kindness can be overdone, and sentimentality should have little place in the prison system, but surely it should be possible to have a firm discipline without driving the criminal to desperation by the severity of the punishment. There are extremes on both sides and the discovery of the happy medium of restriction which may assist in reformation, should be the goal of those who are interested in this problem.

CRIME AND JAZZ

The national convention of music publishers of the United States is now being held at Chicago. More than 5000 delegates are in attendance. Music lovers, of course, hope that this isn't a musical convention et all —that the product of most of the publishing houses of the United States is a "blight." But, be that as it may, there seems to be a market for the stuff that is being turned out. One of the speakers of the convention will be Michael Hayes, chief of police of Chicago. His thesis will be that jazz music is one of the causes of crime. It is an old charge, a running mate to the stock complaint against the movies. There are critics who hold that any pastime which causes merriment or the slightest semblance of enjoyment is a source of potential evil, but when the chief of police of a city like Chicago, which is overrun by criminals, makes an assertion of this kind it has enough weight to warrant its being looked into. It may be true that jazz is not a primary incitor to crime, but a secondary factor entirely. There have been scores of investigations into the causes of crime within the last few years and the only noticeable result has been a continual increase in the thing that the investigators are working to suppress. Multiplying and adding to the theories of the cause of crime is at this late date somewhat idle talk. If the Chicago police chief and the music publishers can and will combine forces, abolish jazz and present to the world a crimeless city, it will be something to cheer about. What is needed is a cure that works—not just another theory to be tested out. The suspicion will not down that the chief of police of Chicago knows some of the real reasons for the increase in crime in his city. He is unlikely to be invited to read a paper, however, at any of the political conventions!

Presented by the junior and intermediate pupils of Miss Jessie B. Tulle in the Memorial Chapel at Albert College last night, "The Princess in the Sleeping Wood" was a most charming, delightful and thoroughly successful production and was enjoyed by a capacity house. Miss Tulle's pupils in their several parts depicting the characters in the immortal story of the lovely princess charmed by the wicked witch Malicia to sleep for sixteen years demonstrated the excellent results to be wrought by careful tuition in the art of speak correctly and naturally. Each enunciated every line and sentence clearly and distinctly, expressed themselves perfectly and their work reflected the greatest credit upon the talented tuition they have received at Miss Tulle's hands and proved conclusively the inestimable value of the study of elocution. Rev. M. McMullen delivered the address of welcome.

The Characters

So excellently did each of the long list of young people taking part, assume the role assigned severally that it would be difficult to differentiate between them. As the King Miss Eleanor Cox who possesses a particularly regal carriage and clear voice brought down storms of applause. Miss Rhea Wagar as the Queen was most charming. Miss Helen Ackerman made a delightful princess Celandine and Miss Ruth Redcek of Trenton a convincing and adorable Prince. As the Fairy Queen Miss Jean Dingwell did some excellent work and the fairy godmothers Ivagauen and Dorothy Caina of Trenton Mary Cory, and Grace Charlton were dainty and talented altogether adorable. As the Wicked Malicia who condemned the lovely Princess to her long sleep, Miss Annie Mason met every demand for splendid acting and was thoroughly appreciated in the old fresh part. Fred Fenner who is undoubtedly a budding comedian and as sophisticated an impersonator as could be found on the stage made a lively Tricot the jester and brought down storms of mirth. Miss Jean Croft was really splendid as Trusty John. Miss Margaret Mason was a convincing Kitchen maid and Miss Dorothy Caina of Trenton was very bright and clever as Shade Malicia's servant. Miss Catharine Smith and Miss Martha Gilbert two courtiers and Miss Jean Ramsay and Anna Sheley as ladies of the Court each appreciated the role undertaken by them and added greatly to the general success of the play.

The Programme

Pupils of Miss Flanders and Mr. Ang lin added much to the evening by delightful vocal and instrumental solos including the following:

Astringent Relieves Sore Bleeding Gums

Pyorrhea relieved and prevented by this new antiseptic and astringent

Pyorrhea is a serious disease which demands careful treatment by your dentist.

But if you have tender gums which show a tendency to bleed you can prevent pyorrhea by the regular use of Dr. Chase's Every-Day Mouth Wash.

Your dentist will corroborate this statement for very many dentists use this new antiseptic lotion and recommend it to their patients.

Used regularly, Dr. Chase's Every-Day Mouth Wash tones up the tissues of the gums, hardens them and keeps them in a clean, healthy condition. Being astringent in effect, it stops bleeding and heals the sore gums, massaging the gums with the finger tips dipped into the lotion encourages the circulation and helps to restore the health of the gums.

Dr. Chase's Every-Day Mouth Wash is pleasant to use and leaves the breath sweet. All dealers or The Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

DOESN'T LIKE MOVIES

A civic touch was given to the Royal Theatre Commission today when Montreal's Chief Magistrate was called to testify and took occasion, while on the stand to voice his lack of authority in matters affecting municipal affairs.

With his familiar mass of silvery grey hair topping his sun-burned features and his inevitable red rose gracing the button-hole of his coat, Mayor Mederic Martin displayed all the appearances of being prepared for a royal reception.

The mayor is evidently not a moving picture enthusiast for he has not been to a theatre more than four times during the past fifteen years. A notable feature of his rare visits to the theatre was one to the ill-fated Laurier Palace, from the disaster which spurred the actual inquiry to which he had been summoned to give his views.

COPYRIGHT LAW APPLIES AT SEA

Amsterdam, Holland, June 15— The law of copyright applies at sea, says a decision just given by an Amsterdam court, which holds that a performance on board a liner entitles a composer or author to his fees.

A German composer discovered months after it had taken place, that some of his music had been played during dinner on board a ship, and promptly claimed his royalties. In granting them, the court made two interesting decisions, first, that it was a public performance, and, second, that extra-territorial waters could be brought within the scope of national laws.

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

Most folks forget that the kidneys like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, sore joints, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean.

A well known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

GIRLS ON THRESHOLD OF LIFE AND LOVE

By ELSIE MARLOWE

It's her first job. She's the New Girl in the office. And it is all so thrilling—and just a bit terrifying.

She had been going to Hi down in sleepy little Greenfield, where the rose tumbled into the school window and the birds chattered at her when she took the cut across the wood lot. And now, she is in the roaring, clanging heart of a big city, and her cheeks are like dawn with the rest of her excitement, and her eyes like twin golden stars beneath the lovely tumbled fuzzet of her hair.

And already Prince Charming has appeared on the horizon!

From the very first day she knew 'it was he.

The way her heart caught and her pulse tingled when she looked at the wide, quiet strength of his broad shoulders and weighed the friendly understanding of his smile.

They told her he was twenty-five, but already there was a romantic strand of gray in his hair—just such a strand as every really, truly Prince ought to have.

And she knows that if she lets herself go the least tiny bit she is going to be head over heels in love with him! Sometimes it looks as if the Prince knew it too, for he looks at her with such a long, deep look, and he is beginning to linger about her desk and ask small questions.

But Amy is wondering.

There are five other girls in the office—five lovely city girls who seem ever so much wiser than Amy—dashing girls, who know how to wear their clothes and "sling a line," and who whisper jokes to each other which they won't let her hear.

The men cluster about four of those girls. They laugh with them, and give them cigarettes, and make dates and take them out to lunch. Now and then they steal a kiss when the boss is out of the office. There's a good deal of loud laughter, and hints which Amy can't understand.

But the men don't play that way with the other girl. She is pretty, too, and her name is Mary. But her clothes aren't as dashing and she doesn't smoke or make as many jokes or allow any petting.

And Amy wonders why.

She has heard men talk about the sort of a girl they admire and Mary seems to be that sort of a girl. But it isn't Mary who is getting the attention and the dates.

Why? Wonders Amy.

Doesn't it really pay to be modest and quiet and careful, as mother told her to be before she left Greenfield? Is such proper "lady-like" behavior old fashioned and out of date? Will people think she's a "kick" if she doesn't joke and smoke and pet like the other girls do?

So Amy has written and told us about it. And her letter ends with a little country girl's wail—"Does it pay to be a lady?"

Yes, dear, it does.

And the "lady-like way" is the only way in true love and beautiful proud, quarried life, little girl.

You may laugh and pet with the other girls. They may whisper risqué jokes and share a hip-flask. And often, indeed, they marry these very same girls. But they do not in their hearts look down and worship such heroes. They do not share with them the wistful little-boy confidences and dreams which are hidden in the hearts of even the worst men.

So live up to the old, sweet ideal which has been set for you, Amy, but as you do so, remember this:

A REAL lady isn't a stiff, intolerant, sniffy, affected, stand-offish proposition.

A REAL lady is the jolliest companion on earth, and the most democratic. She is the best of good sports, and the most unselfish and sympathetic of friends. Kindliness burns in her like a lamp, and with chuckles in her like a song. She is dainty and heart and her brains to add to her charm.

Full coat collections reveal the favor shown the modified dolman sleeve, made in intricately joined sections, as interpreted by Paquin, and the colours discovered in coat import collections include black, sapphire blue, and slate gray.

Long Sleeves May Readily Be Added

SUPPLIED 1462

Wen can forget the time when the sweet envied and admired little girl at dancing class was she who wore the barest pink or blue sash tied smartly about her stomach in the most breath-taking of bows? Despite the opportunity such devotion afforded one's partner for hanging on securely while steering one about, the sash-belt today finds a narrow ribbon belt the mark of fashion, particularly if it runs through bound slashes in the back and ends in a soft bow. Very smart also is the shirring all around this slightly full-skirted frock of plain or printed silk or cotton fabric. The ribbons match the print, while the neat little collar and the narrow finishes of the short kimono sleeve are of a plain material in harmonize.

A-dvice to Girls By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl seventeen years of age. I think a great deal of a young man in a neighboring town.

As this young man works every evening, and it is impossible for him to get away, he has asked me to come to his home town two evenings a week that we might see each other.

Would it be proper for me to do this?

MIONA: I think this young man certainly has his nerve! If he has two evenings a week free, why doesn't he call on you then? Certainly he has no right to ask you to come to see him. Invite him to call on you, and if he feels this would be an inconvenience he will just have to forego the pleasure of your friendship.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl nineteen years old and have been going with a boy twenty-three years old, for the last three months. He told me that he loves me.

Last week he told me that he was going to work from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. and he will see me in the mornings. He hasn't come to see me at all. I love him more than anything in the world, and I am miserable.

Please tell me what to do.

SPANISH GIRL.

SPANISH GIRL: If this young man has made no attempt to get in touch with you, I'm afraid there is very little you can do, my dear. It may be that it is impossible for him to see you in the mornings, but in this case he should have telephoned or written you. I suggest that when you see him you greet him cordially, but do not rub him why he has not called. Perhaps he will volunteer the explanation himself.

ANNIE LAURIE.

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN

By Mildred Barbour

"Sybil!" He made one last appeal with outstretched arms, but she waved him away.

"Go back to your wife—if she'll have you."

"You'll be punished for this—some day," he warned. "Some man will do this to you, and you'll learn what suffering means."

Her scornful laugh followed him out of the door.

CHAPTER 42

A Brand From the Burning

"Well," said Sybil reflectively, as the door closed behind Serge Patton "there's another one disposed of. He goes to join the ranks of Dan Brad and Arthur."

She heard no word from Eva, although the girl had promised to step her up around luncheon time. Was Eva busy applying balm to the spiritual hurts of her large lord, Sybil wondered?

In the late afternoon, she went to see her dentist, telling herself that she rather deserved a twinge or two after dealing out so many hurts that morning.

"It wasn't exactly sporting," she retorted, as she rounded the corner of the Park. "I think I've heard that one shouldn't hit a man when he's down. But Serge was so distinctly not down although he ought to have been, after last night. And then, too, I had to strike while the iron was hot, if I wanted to do any harm at all."

Eva had recommended the dentist with whom Sybil had made an appointment over the phone. She never had been to his office. When she reached it, she was bewildered by a multiplicity of neat, brass signs, each announcing that Dr. This and Dr. That —— dentist, surgeon, and general practicner—had offices within.

She found her dentist's door and was about to enter, when she glanced at the one opposite it. There, in bold letters, was the name: "Douglas R. Maxwell, M.D."

While she stared at the sign, the door opened abruptly, and the young physician himself stood on the threshold, bag in hand, a trim nurse beside him.

His keen gaze fastened on Sybil, as he raised his hat. His handsome mouth grew stern.

"Were you coming here?" he asked briskly. "My office hours were over at four."

Sybil flushed crimson. Her heart increased its beat with her mounting temper.

"I was not coming to see you," she snapped. "I am looking for the office of Dr. Furrer."

"The opposite door," he said briefly, his gaze turning indifferently from her.

Why, she wondered, when she was in the chair and so engrossed in her thoughts that she failed to notice the world bustling under her nose, did this odious physician always inspire such fury in her? He wielded all men's but more or less passively, until, like poor Serge Patton and Brandy Bradwell, they deliberately delivered themselves into her clutches. But the mere thought of Dr. Maxwell raised a tumult of hatred in her soul.

She wished vindictively that it had been this self-assured Douglas Maxwell, M.D., instead of Serge Patton, who had been on his knees to her that morning in her drawing-room. He wouldn't have been walking out of his office with such jaunty confidence, such maddening indifference, that afternoon.

When she returned home, just in time to dress for dinner and the opera with Oliver Daydown, Hilda told her that Mrs. Patten had phoned twice and asked that Sybil call her back.

Eva's voice came joyously over the wire.

"Sybil, I've got such news. I simply can't wait to tell you. If I come up-town in a taxi right away, you can spare me a moment, while you're dressing?"

Fifteen minutes later, Eva was ushered in and running straight to Sybil flung both arms around her impetuously. Sybil urged her to be seated and continued dressing.

"Home?"

"Yes. Isn't it too wonderful? I can't believe it yet, even though Serge has just gone to see the agent about subletting our studio. Oh, Sybil, I'm so madly happy—and so excited about getting home, where I belong over there and where we have the most wonderful big house that was Serge's father's so more dinkly studios and cooking in a cupboard and washing one's bath in you can't turn around in when he door's closed."

She hugged Sybil again, and Hilda left the room, while before such enthusiasm patiently repaired the damage to Sybil's coiffure.

As soon as this detail was completed Sybil told Hilda she would manage her frock alone and sent her from the room.

"Now tell me what happened to lead up to this sudden decision? she demanded of Eva with an incredulous air of innocence. "Was it the artificial?"

"It must have been—although Serge didn't seem very depressed about last night" confessed Eva. "He said it was due to the fact that the concert wasn't advertised enough and also the weather was a bit unpleasant you know. Anyway, when he went out this morning, he was saying something about a series of concerts. But, when he came home——"

"Yes?" Sybil was intent on hooking her own gold lace with its lovely cut decolletage. "When he came home, he had changed his mind?"

"Exactly," Eva nodded, her pretty little face very solemn. "He didn't come back for hours and hours. I'd kept lunch waiting. And he looked so queer that I was frightened, but he said he was all right. He'd been walking in the Park and thinking things out, and he'd come to the conclusion he'd never play again. He said he didn't know why, but the soul seemed to have gone out of him. He'd lost confidence in the message of his art, the sight of a violin would nauseate him. He wanted to break all his instruments but I wouldn't let him. I told him we'd probably have to pawn them to pay our fare home." She laughed, but quite bravely. "After we're home, everything will be all right, because Serge can take back his father's business from the man who's got it now, and—and we'll really be happy."

"Everything has worked out for the best then, Eva? said Sybil thoughtfully.

"Yes, oh, yes!" bubbled Eva. "Of course, it's terrible to think of Serge's art but of course to the world, but it did make me frightfully unhappy at times. You see, as I told you before, there were always so many beautiful women around, and I was so jealous as could be. Now I'll have him all to myself."

"And you want him back, really?" asked Sybil curiously.

"With all my heart," breathed Eva fervently, not suspecting that she had Sybil to thank.

"Well," sighed Sybil, under her breath, "there's no accounting for tastes."

WHAT'S NEW

(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Sleeveless dresses in white and pastel shade are reported to be in great demand in New York's exclusive specialty shops.

Paquin is sponsoring a new blue called "Paquin," which is like royal, but has more green in it, and brave brown shades are being stressed in newest Paris models.

Silver and red foxes were emphasized repeatedly, for separate scarfs or as trimming on the newest coats in Paris.

Chanel is exploiting black and Nile green in daytime dresses, while Lanvin continues the black robe de style which she promoted so much last season.

Probably the only woman in the United States to be a glass-eye manufacturer is Miss Dorothy Davis, of New York, who, when her father, Albert H. Davis, a noted optician and specialist in artificial eye manufacture, died when she was barely 17, carried on her father's business.

FOR Acid Stomach PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better than Soda

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this soothing waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

GIANTS BLAME UMPS FOR LOSS

Cubs Take 4th Straight From Sliding McGraw Men

Chicago, Ill., June 15.—If anyone should conduct a popularity contest among the Giant players today, they might do so with complete confidence that neither the name of Barry McCormick nor that of Peter McLaughlin would receive prominent mention.

Those two National League umpires are about as popular with the boys from Broadway as a first-class ticket to Tulsa, Okla. It so happens that the Giants lost their fourth straight game to the Cubs, here yesterday 4 to 2, in eleven innings, and it doesn't take a great deal of coaxing to make the members of McGraw's club admit that they consider the gross injustice of decisions by the aforementioned umpires the direct cause of three of those defeats.

McLaughlin was blamed for the loss of both the first and second games of the series, but today McCormick rendered the verdict which completely exhausted the patience of the New Yorkers.

When he called a ball smacked down the first foul line by Pick in the eleventh inning fair. Beck trotted in with the winning run. The Giants charged at McCormick with snarling teeth and many other things and the crowd galloped out of Wrigley's Field with glee.

For five minutes after the game was over according to the repeated assertions of Mr. McCormick, the Giants raged around him in protest and from the stands it looked as though their wrath was justified. The ball apparel foul by three feet by the angle of the press box and it must have appeared the same way from several other angles also, as the fans were taken completely by surprise and even the Cubs waited until they verified the report before leaving the field.

That decision meant the tenth victory for the Cubs and a clean sweep of the series over the Giants. It also meant relief to 10,000 frozen fans, who sat through a full game and two extra innings besides—while the ancient umpires struggled through a pitchers' battle.

The Reds made it two out of three from Boston by defeating the Braves 1 to 0, at Cincinnati. Jakie May gain ed the verdict over Henry Wetzel. The Red hurler allowed only four hits and struck out nine batters, two of whom fanned in the ninth, with a runner on second base with one out. The contest was attended by the smallest crowd that had seen a ball game at Redland Field in years, totalling about 900.

The Cardinals bunched hits off Alex Ferguson, veteran righthander, in the first three innings at St. Louis and won from the Phillies, 6 to 4, for a clean sweep of the series. Grover Cleveland Alexander relieved Flitz Rhem in the sixth after he had also fanned three singlers and forced in one run with a walk. Cy Williams hit his seventh homer of the season.

New York, June 15.—Jack Sharkey, aspirant for the heavyweight boxing honors, is sure to be on the card for Dempsey whom he will meet at the Yankee Stadium on July 21st, the winner to face Tunney for the title. He is already indulging in light training for the event. Dempsey however is confident he is the marine's master.

Sharkey is 25 years of age while the ex-champion will be 32 on June 24. Dempsey declared to day at Los Angeles that he is in the best shape of his career.

McGRAW TRADES YOUNG SHORTSTOP

Chicago, June 15.—John McGraw at last has managed to put over his big deal just three days before the open season for exchanges of ivory pawns between major league clubs.

The Giants get three players from the Braves, Pitcher Larry Benton, Catcher James "Zach" Taylor, and the midget infielder, Herb Thomas, in a swap for their great young infielder, "Doc" Eddie Farrell, and Pitchers Hugh McQuillan and Kent Greenfield.

The Reds, to whom McGraw threatened to trade McQuillan a week ago, do not seem involved in the deal. McQuillan was charged with Sunday's Giant defeat by the Cubs, though he pitched only one inning during which the Giants were the victim of what many said was a bad piece of umpiring.

There is real regret at the Giants losing Farrell, who on Sunday pinch-hit two runs over for the Giants to tie the score in the first of the eighth, and who all year has been one of the leading batters.

So there is speculation whether McGraw really got the better of the deal. But Taylor he gets a good catcher, and certainly the Giants' back-stopping needs improvement.

FRONTENACS WIN FROM POINT ANNE

The Frontenac girls defeated the Point Anne lassies in an exhibition softball game last evening by a score of 11-7. The visitors who are sponsored by the Canada Cement Company showed exceptionally good ability for their first year in the game and after a little experience will give the City Clubs a fast game battle.

Miss Sheppard did the pitching for the visitors and Miss Bly for the homesters.

The Belleville Canadian Nationals are pastiming in Point Anne this afternoon where they expect to repeat last week's victory over the cement miters.

Frank Goyer's lads were away off color on Wednesday and are capable of far better exhibitions.

"Sunny" Green at second base starred in a miserable performance as did a couple of the other members of the staff. Word from the Point is to the effect that the Canadian Nationals are due for a trimming. Bennet and Derry are slated to do the hearing.

Have you secured one of the Intelligencer's schedules for the Bay of Quinte League? They are free of charge and may be obtained at the office. The schedules have been provided to baseball fans by the sporting department. Look over the list of advertisers and patronize them—the best of service is guaranteed by each.

Saturday's games in the Industrial League were both high-class affairs and showed that the class of ball as played in this loop is of an excellent brand. These games will supply amusement for the factory fans who relish the Saturday half holiday. All star teams are evenly matched and some fine contests are in store for the fans. The Canadian Asbestos Company, who meet the Moose at the Fair Grounds on Saturday, are strong in quantity and have promised to trot out some dark horses. The one concern are certainly starting out on the right foot by getting money in behind the sporting activities among the employees and this puts a great step towards fostering a cooperative spirit in the plant.

The Moose, who took the field in brand new suits and team uniforms are lead by the well-known "Babe" Casey who is holding down a new position at Second-stop.

"Ab". Young, a High School product, is their main-stay in the box. Around these two we built a smart looking array, notably Cy Young Ann, Jack Clegg and "Nig" Ross. This aggregation will take some trimming before the season ends.

The Alemite who join their first stars will stack up against the Belleville Hardware at 4.30 at the Alemite Park, Bleecker Avenue. The Alemite too, have a smart team and are to be feared by the others. The East Enders always manage to provide plenty of opposition in any line of sport.

Silver collection is taken today the League's expenses and fans are to be reminded that every little bit helps.

Allan Meagher's Beavers have been practicing faithfully following their games with Toronto officials. The locals are now dickering with a fast Montreal team for a couple of games here, but nothing definite has been done up to the present. It is a probability that a return game with the Toronto team will be arranged shortly.

There is a current rumor to the effect that the Bay of Quinte League is a dead issue for this year and fans may have to rely on exhibition and City League games.

The Deseronto Ponies gave up their franchise which left three teams and now it is said that Jos. Hugh Belleau team have withdrawn due to the fact that Jean Gauvau's will not be available for pitching duty. It seems too bad that this League should go on the rocks after such a splendid season last year. The City League fans are not as lost but the games are closely fought from the start.

Bill Hull, who is in charge of the girls' game at Point Anne demonstrated that he had some fine prospects in the exhibition game with the Frontenacs last night. They will likely join a city loop next year after one season's experience.

Race horse lovers gathered in Picton today for the postponed meet. It is reported that a fair card would be presented.

"SHAG" SUCCESSOR TO TORONTO PILOT

Baltimore, June 15.—Jack Dunn, Orgale boss, is disappointed in George Earnshaw, whom he has been grooming for the majors. "Ernie hasn't been in good shape all year and no longer is hailed by the fans as he once was."

Merpin Jacobsen, of the Leafs, play ed a great fielding game Sunday, as he did during the entire series. In all the time Jakz played for Dunn he never played left field, yet in this series he has proven the best left-fielder seen here this year. Jake cuid down many hits by grabbing them on the rebound after they hang the fence.

Shag Shaughnessy, former manager of Syracuse, Providence and Reading teams, was a spectator at Sunday's contest. The rumor-mongers immediately fastened on him as the successor to Fohl, who if is reported is having trouble with the Leafs.

Frank Bower, of the Orioles, turned up with a lame knee. The bone run king crashed into the stand in taking a fly ball Saturday and his knee and chin bore the impact. He will be out of action for several days.

ONTARIO

IN variety of climate, natural resources and physical conformation, Ontario is one of the world's choicest regions. Its great fruit garden, the Niagara Peninsula, is in the same latitude as Italy, while, over 1,000 miles due north, its boundary comprises the shores of Hudson Bay. Every agricultural product common to the temperate regions of the earth can be produced successfully within its borders, and in addition, it has resources of minerals, forests, water powers and navigation which have already carried it far in manufacturing progress and which presage an industrial future of illimitable expansion.

Agriculture • Of 36,000,000 acres suitable for agriculture, field crops in 1926 covered 10,434,401 acres and produced crops of the value of $561,264,000. Dairy products have an annual value of around $95,000,000. About 166,000 acres are covered by orchards, small fruits and market gardens and vineyards with an investment of over $30,000,000.

Water Powers • The water power resources of Ontario are tremendous, and, in the development of Niagara power and others, has set the pace for the world in hydro-electric expansion.

The water powers developed total close to 2,000,000 h.p. and there is an additional 6,800,000 h.p. undeveloped. It is chiefly due to her water powers that Canada has taken first place as a manufacturer and producer of newsprint, the supply of reasonably priced and dependable hydro-electric power is almost as essential as its supply of wood pulp.

Minerals • Ontario leads every other State or Province on the Continent in gold production and produces 80% of the world's supply of nickel. It has wonderful silver mines and a variety of other minerals. Of gold alone, this Province is now producing over $35,000,000 per annum.

The production of the mines of the North also has been greatly stimulated by the use of hydro-electric power, without which they could not have been commercially developed.

Forests • The area of forest land is estimated at 260,000 square miles and Ontario shares with Quebec the distinction of being one of the world's largest newsprint producers.

Industry • There are over 9,400 manufacturing establishments, with invested capital of $1,800,000,000, an annual production of over $1,400,000,000 and a pay-roll of around $300,000,000 annually.

The development of hydro-electric power has hastened the industrial potentialities of Ontario. The Northern Electric Company is contributing to this industrial expansion by supplying much of the electrical equipment necessary.

Information

This announcement appears in the press throughout Canada this month. An outline of Ontario's contributions to the national wealth and resources will be published during July.

COOPER LIKES BRITISH PRESS MORE THAN YANK

London, June 15.—Kent Cooper, the executive head of the Associated Press of America, which has a reading public of sixty million people, and supplies news to 1,200 newspapers in North and South America, has arrived in London.

"Our newspapers are changing," said Mr. Cooper to a press representative.

"Forty years ago, when I was a boy newspapers were delivered to about one house in every five, but now every body reads newspapers, and everybody wants to read what people in their own walk of life abroad are saying and doing.

"I am making some important changes in our service. We used to date our despatches from European capitals, but now I am going to have despatches dated from the towns and cities in which events happen.

"A carpenter in Chicago will know what a carpenter in Manchester is doing. By dating our despatches from towns with names unfamiliar to our public, we shall be giving them lessons in geography."

Mr. Cooper emphasized the fact that the native language newspapers in the United States are dying.

"The next generation of Americans he said, "will all read and understand English, and, although they will want to know what is happening in the countries from which their forefathers came, they will want to read it in English. I must—at the risk of being accused of less majesty towards my own press—say I prefer your newspapers to our own."

CARSON WISHED TO BE ENGINEER

London, June 14.—(Canadian Press)—Lord Carson has made the confession that his youthful ambition was to become a member of the engineering profession, but his father was determined that he should become a barrister, whether he liked it or not. Lord Carson was speaking at the dinner of the Institute of Structural Engineers. "It is not necessary that all the knowledge of construction should be merely of structural engineering," he said. "Construction is the one thing that gives pleasure in the whole of life. My own interest as an advocate is a case, and it is exactly 50 years since I was called to the Bar—was in constructing the case. The moment I had finished constructing the case I found it difficult to keep awake. But when the other man began to construct his case, then, with the instincts of a true-born Irishman, I at once became destructive."

SIR JOHN WAS NOT BORN IN KINGSTON, ONT

Moose Jaw, Sask., June 15 (C.P.)—Correcting the general impression that Sir John A. Macdonald was born in Kingston, Ont., the city which he represented in Parliament for 30 years, the Times says:—

As a matter of fact, Sir John Alexander Macdonald was born in Glasgow, Scotland, Jan. 11, 1815. His father, Hugh Macdonald, was a manufacturer on a modest scale, who failed to make his business go, and who emigrated to Canada in 1820, when the future Premier of Canada was five years old. The family travelled to Kingston, then a town of about 2,500 in a province of 120,000. Things did not go too well there, so they moved to Adolphustown, afterward to the Bloss Mills, and then to Glenora. The Macdonalds returned to Kingston in 1826, where Hugh, the father died in 1841.

John A. had an ordinary Grammar School education, and entered upon the study of law in the office of George Mackenzie in Kingston in 1830, at the age of 15. In 1836 he was called to the Bar, and opened an office in Kingston. A year later he shouldered a musket in the Rebellion of 1837.

The Parliament of 1844, in which John A. had his first seat, was held in Montreal in the old Legislature build ing on the site of the St. Ann's Market. That building was burned by a mob, and the Capital was moved from Montreal forever. In 1847 young Macdonald was offered a Cabinet portfolio by Hon. W. H. Draper, and accepted. His political advancement was rapid. He soon became Premier of United Canada, and, in 1867, at Confederation, he became the first Premier of the Dominion. He was a famous figure in the Empire from then until the day of his death, on June 6, 1891.

He rests in the cemetery at Kingston, where the faithful among the Conservatives journey to his grave on each anniversary of his death to do homage to a great Canadian and firm believer in the British Empire. "A British subject I was born; a British subject I will die," was his last great message to Canadians.

If Sir John A. Macdonald was not born in Kingston, he spent some of his happiest years there, and to the last he never forgot the old city and the Bay of Quinte district generally.

WOMEN ARRIVE IN BR. COLUMBIA BY AEROPLANE

Victoria, B.C., June 15 C.P.—Because they rebelled at fate that made them miss the boat in Seattle and because they "just made up their minds to get here," two unescorted young women arrived in Victoria one afternoon recently after adventures as dramatic and thrilling as any movie melodrama —involving a night ride in an aeroplane, a forced landing in the dark waters of the Strait, inclusion in a farewell party to fishermen staged in a lighthouse, and their eventual arrival in this city aroad a tugboat specially chartered to bring them here from Port Angeles.

Outfitted with helmets and goggles and wrapped up warmly, the one in a leather flying coat, the other in a fur coat, they embarked aboard the aeroplane at 7.30 p.m. The pilot said later that his compass would not work, but at any rate he got lost and the aero plane was bumped about in air-pockets. At last they saw a light and the pilot circled around it, shut off his engine and carefully felt his way down, through the mist and the darkness. The water rose suddenly to meet them and with a gigantic splash which deluged the occupants of the plane with water, they made a "landing" not far from the lonely Dungeness Lighthouse. Shivering with the cold and dripping wet, the two passengersd out on the wing of the plane and jumped to the beach. This was at about 9.30 p.m. "And we walked right into a party," said one of the adventurers. "The room was filled with five or six fishermen whom the lighthouse keeper and his wife were entertaining on the night before one of them was to go away. They were all sitting around and keeping time with their feet as one of them played the mouth organ.

"The lighthouse keeper's wife was a Belgian, who had persuaded her husband to give up the sea as a calling. Then the husband had become keeper of the Dungeness Light. The life was a lonely one, the wife had confessed to her guests, and during the five long years she had been there she had often wished something would happen to relieve the monotony. She had even wished that a seaplane might be forced down near the lighthouse and had pictured herself rescuing its occupants." The fishermen produced a repast and one of the girls danced the Charleston and the cook, who was once in a circus, did a clog dance.

Indians of South America made surgical use of the powerful jaws of leaf-cutter ants by marking an ant's lake hold of the two sides of a wound and draw it together. The ant's body was then cut off, leaving an automatic clip.

We know a Thoughtless Man

HE'D no more think of going into a cigar store and asking for just "cigars," or of walking into the pro's shop and asking for just "golf balls"! Not he! He's mighty particular about his cigars, golf balls and most other things.

Yet that same man will drive up in his expensive motor car to a service station and remark to the mechanic "I think I need some oil!!!"

Ordinary "oil" will give his car about as much satisfaction as an unbranded cigar would give him. Plain "oil" will give his car just about as good results as he himself could expect from a cheap, unknown golf ball.

Don't subject your car to the inferiorities of poor oil. Don't just ask for "oil." Ask for "CASTROL", which is becoming so tremendously popular in Canada.

Millions of Users

CASTROL is used by millions of motorists all over the world. It not only provides faultless lubrication, but gives 2,000 miles to the filling, not just the usual 500! CASTROL is sold by leading garages. Write for pamphlet, "Lubrication Wisdom," to

FATAL ACCIDENT ON KINGSTON HIGHWAY NEAR NAPANEE

No Trace Of Nungessor And Coli---Brampton Man Severely Injured When Car Leaves Road

NO GOVERNMENT SEARCH WILL BE UNDERTAKEN AT PRESENT FOR THE MISSING FRENCH AVIATOR HEROES

More Signals of Distress Seen By Forestry Tower Men

REPORTS DENIED

Stories of Rescue Sent Out Yesterday Prove To Be False

Quebec, June 16.—No aeroplane will be sent out by the Quebec Government to search for the missing French airmen, Nungesser and Coli, until instructions have been received to follow such a course by the French consul-general in Montreal, Baron DeVitrolles. At noon today, Avila Bedard, assistant chief of the forestry service, telephoned to Baron DeVitrolles telling him that the government was being urged to send a plane up to the mountains of the north to search for Nungesser and Coli on the strength of the reports of flares being seen and an aeroplane motor heard by a trapper on Monday, May 9 in the neighborhood of the Sisemarque-ille river.

The consul-general said that it would not be wise in his opinion to send a plane at the present moment as the reports received did not warrant the sending of an aerial expedition. He said that as soon as further definite news was received from forest rangers in the region, he would advise the government and ask what steps must be taken.

No Flares Stolen

Quebec, June 16.—Avila Bedard, assistant chief of the Provincial forestry service, stated today that no reports of thefts of flares from Bedford air station have reached him. Even if the theft of flares, which has been reported, were true, he said, no person would go from one to two hundred miles in the woods to fire them. Robertvalier air station is about 35 miles from River Bend from which emanated an erroneous report yesterday that Nungesser and Coli, missing French aviators were found alive.

'Ullaculla' Formerly Owned by Ralph Boulter Seized by Revenue Officers

It is not known whether the Belleville boat, 'Ullaculla' which was seized near Oswego on Tuesday of this week was found with a cargo or whether it was returning home light. It is rumored that this boat is now the property of Archie Goyer who already has two boats that runner to the United States Federal Officers who confiscated them for smuggling liquor into that country illegally. This boat was formerly the property of Ralph Boulter, Front Street South, who disposed of it recently. Two Frenchmen were on the vessel when acted. It is reported that Archie Goyer is at present in Rochester endeavoring to buy back the confiscated boats.

Mr. Ralph Boulter was actively engaged in the Provincial election last fall when the two vital issues, Government Control vs. Ontario Temperance Act were being campaigned upon. It will be remembered that Mr. Boulter was an enthusiastic supporter of the Prohibition candidate in Prince Ward and held an organization meeting in his home during the election.

Escaped Once After Being In Jail For Fifteen Minutes

DESCRIPTION TALLIES

Whole Countryside Joined In Man-Hunt For Slayer

Winnipeg, Man., June 16.—Man who escaped from Killarney jail last night after being arrested on suspicion of being "the Strangler" was recaptured today by posse of citizens and police.

Shortly afterwards Chief of Detectives Smith of Winnipeg, in a long distant telephone conversation stated that he was confident the man answered the description of the "Gorilla" who is charged with strangling Mrs. Emily Patterson and fourteen year old Lola Cowan a week ago.

Winnipeg, Man., June 16.—In wooded country offering excellent cover for the fugitive, provincial and town police aided by scores of citizens, armed with every conceivable kind of weapon, are searching for the man who escaped from Killarney jail last night. Suspected of being "The Strangler" who killed a Winnipeg woman and girl, the man was arrested at Wakopa, five miles from International boundary last evening. Seven miles south he being lodged in jail he had picked two locks on the door which confined him to the cell and was free again. He disappear ed into the bush.

Bloodhounds are assisting the police from Winnipeg, Brandon and nearby points, members of Royal Canadian Mounted police, provincial police and a posse of citizens in the search.

Killarney is about 160 miles southwest of Winnipeg. Shown press description of the man arrested at North Portal, Sask., yesterday afternoon, chief of detectives Smith of Winnipeg said he did not think he was the killer.

Made No Resistance

Police believe that the perpetrator of the two crimes in Winnipeg is the same person who is wanted in a score of cities in the United States for com mitting identical murders in that nature. Surrounded by a cordon of provincial police the fugitive was ensnared in the woods two miles west of Killarney. He surrendered without resistance.

Cheers rent the air when it was falsely lodged behind the bars of jail. Many excitement ende hunt for the "Gorilla man" is believed to have ended with the man's capture. The prisoner when arrested was wearing a straw hat and blue overalls which farmers in the vicinity of the slaughter is last reported to have donned. He was haggard and hungry with a heavy growth of beard and covered in fear before the crowd of farmers who had gathered in front of the town hall.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

They are never alone that are accompanied by noble thoughts.

SIR P. SIDNEY.

A POOR ADVERTISER

Great Britain, or the British people have become noted for being the most reserved of nations when their own accomplishments are before the public eye, and a striking instance of this was given only a few days ago. Recently, when Colonel Charles Lindbergh made his flight of 3,600 miles from New York to Paris, he was given a wide and enthusiastic reception and tens of thousands of people crowded around his aeroplane when he arrived in London. It was a wonderful reception of a great feat. But Charles Lindbergh was not a Britisher; he was a citizen of the United States.

Two weeks late came the contrast. Two British airmen, Lieuts. Carr and Cillman returned to England after making a non-stop flight of 3,415 miles within two hundred miles of the distance covered by Lindbergh. Even if they did not reach their objective, India, but were forced to land in the Persian Gulf, theirs was a notable achievement and was worthy of being given almost as much recognition as that of Lindbergh, particularly by the people of their own country. Yet, on their return, they slipped into the London railway station unheeded and unsung, unrecognized save by less than a dozen people. There was no applause for their wonderful flight no cheers for the success which they had achieved. But then, they were Britishers, and the Britishers are truly poor advertisers in spreading abroad their pride in their own achievements. Had these two men been Americans they might have received just as enthusiastic a reception as did Lindbergh or as did Chamberlin and Levine on reaching Berlin. But the manner in which their arrival was ignored was a typical example of how the Britishers live up to the old tradition.

HUMOR'S VALUE

The bequest of half a million dollars by Payne Whitney to Finley Peter Dunne, author of "Mr. Dooley," is said to be unprecedented as a personal recognition of a writer. If, as Sir Oliver Lodge and others assure us, the spirits of the departed in ethereal world are aware of what transpires in this world, then poor Edgar Allan Poe must have had a moment of bitterness. For on the day that Whitney's gift to Dunne was announced, the papers also told that the manuscript of Poe's "Raven" had been sold to a collector for $50,000. Poe, unrecognized, half starving, and suffering physical and mental anguish, sold the original manuscript for $10; and even its publication, while it brought him a measure of fame, never brought him riches. He died, as he lived, in comparative poverty.

We are often told that the world is going to the devil. That it has become materialistic, sordid. The recognition of Finley Peter Dunne contrasted with what the world thought about Edgar Allan Poe seventy-five years ago, shows back triumphantly to such pessimism.

And Dunne has been worth the half million. He has had successors and rivals and imitators, but for sheer cleanliness of delicious humor, for high dexterity and nobility of the wisdom that is imbedded in everything he writes, he stands alone. Millions have been spent on things inconsequential while his writings in power for good.

The genuine creative spirit is so evident in Mr. Dunne's work that no pleasure he can buy with his new half million can possibly be more enjoyable to him than continuing the homely philosophies of "Mr. Dooley." Were it otherwise the world would would have no reason to thank Mr. Whitney for his generosity.

A REAL JOB

Discussing the case of teachers in rural schools of the United States Thomas Minehan, in an article in The Nation, declares an agreement not to smoke, not to fall in love, to sleep eight hours a night and to take an active part in Sunday School work is expected nowadays of the average teacher. The writer cites a contract received by a woman from a sea-coast village in North Carolina which had the following clauses:

"I promise to take a vital interest in all phases of Sunday School work, donating of my time, service and money without stint for the uplift and benefit of the community.

"I promise to abstain from all dancing, immodest dressing and any other conduct unbecoming to a teacher and a lady.

"I promise not to go out with any young men except in so far as it may be necessary to stimulate Sunday School work.

"I promise not to fall in love, to become engaged or secretly married.

"I promise to remain in the dormitory or on the school grounds when not active engaged in school or church work elsewhere.

"I promise not to encourage or tolerate the least familiarity on the part of any of my boy pupils.

"I promise to sleep at least eight hours a night, to eat carefully and to take every precaution to keep in the best of health and spirits in order that I may be better able to render efficient service to my pupils.

"I promise to remember that I owe a duty to the townspeople who are paying me my wages, that I owe respect to the school board and the superintendent that hired me, and that I shall consider myself at all times the willing servant of the school board and the towns people and that I shall co-operate with them to the limit of my ability in any movement aimed at the betterment of the town, the pupils or the schools."

"This, remember," comments Mr. Minehan, "for a job paying $85 a month for seven and a half months in a little town of 300 or 400 persons, located in the mosquito and fever district of North Carolina where half the inhabitants cannot read or write." Such a contract surely cannot be typical, but it is interesting as an illustration of the possibilities of official meddling.

BEHIND THE LAMP

Behind the lamp that pours a rosy tide
Thro' an uncurtained window on the night,
I see an aged pair, whose heads are white,
Sitting at a deal table, side by side.
Before the man a book lies open wide,
Whereon he reads, and as he turns each page,
I see the tale of life from youth to age,
Revealed in looks that cannot be denied.

Youth, love and laughter, care, and toil and tears,
The vanished things that still have power to wake
The longings and desires of after-years.
These on their brows by turns their shades take;
Then the book is closed, the lamp expires,
And to their rest each silently retires.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

A Kitchener magistrate sentenced nine young men to be in their home every night by 8 o'clock. If parents would put this same rule into effect with their children, there might be fewer grown-ups facing the magistrates in the future.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

Last Saturday a "hands-off-China" mob staged a demonstration in front of the British consulate in New York. One woman carried a banner on which was inscribed something about the "opium war" of 87 years ago. It is to be hoped that our Miss Mapphail can produce an alibi.—Hamilton Herald.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

Where did you get that fine new hat from?

I bought it ten years ago. Seven years ago I had it newly pressed. Three years ago it was dyed black. The year before last I had a new band put round it. Last week I exchanged it at the restaurant.

Doctor (breaking news)—Your husband has met with an accident, but I think his face will resume its normal appearance in a few weeks' time.

Wife—Heavens, how awful!

The costermonger smiled happily at the thought that his donkey was enjoying a free feed. "You're a good little girl to be so kind to a dumb friend," he said. "But who gave you those carrots?"

The little girl also smiled happily. "I took them from the back of your barrow," she said.

Ray Atkin Announces Judging Competition Among Boys and Girls

County Council resumed this morning at 11 o'clock and several communications were received.

Mrs. John Blue acknowledged the letter of condolence sent to her by the Council deploring the death of the late Reeve of Huntingdon Township.

The account of the Bancroft Red Cross Hospital was referred to the ways and means committee.

A communication was received from the Clerk of Norfolk County asking the Hastings body to concur in a resolution stating that the Provincial Government should assume all of the costs of building the Provincial Highways. The County Councils of Ontario have nothing to say in the matter but are forced to bear part of the cost. The matter was thoroughly discussed.

Mr. H. T. Miller, Reeve of Frankford has opposed in concurring in the resolution as the cost would be ultimately taxed on the County anyway. He stated that the good roads brought the tourists here and they left a considerable amount of money in Ontario.

S. B. Rollins, Reeve of Tweed, was in favor of concurring in it. It was moved by Reeve Bailey and seconded by Reeve Airhart that the Council concur in the matter.—The motion carried.

Ray Atkin, Agricultugal representative addressed the members requesting a grant of $100 to be used as prize money for the winners of the Judging Contests which will be held among the County students.

Mr. Atkin announced that on July 18th a competition in the judging of domestic science and home economics will be held at the Ontario Schfool for the Deaf. Over one hundred girls have already entered the contest.

A similar competition among the boys for the judging of live stock will take place.

It is expected that judging teams from Hastings County will be sent to the Ottawa and Guelph Winter Fairs.

He urged the assistance to young people's work.

The request was referred to the ways and means committee.

Mr. C. S. Rollins addressed the County Council yesterday afternoon in regard to the establishment of a Red Cross Hospital outpost at Coe Hill and solicited a grant of $1500.00 for this purpose.

Mr. John Elliott on behalf of the Red Cross Association addressed the Council and supported the movement to establish a branch at Coe Hill.

On motion of Reeve Gilroy, seconded by Reeve E. L. Reid, a grant of $1500.00 was given to assist the Red Cross work at Coe Hill and that further consideration of this matter be placed in the hands of the ways and means committee.

Mr. Jas. A. Moore, Chairman of Roads and Bridges read his annual report which was adopted.

Mr. Geo. A. Bailey, Chairman of the Finance Committee, presented and read his report which was adopted and a statement of expenses was laid on the table.

The chairmen of all the committees along with the Warden, County Treasurer, Clerk and Reeves Metcalfe and Wright are a committee to draw up the 1927 estimates.

A special grant of $200.00 has been given to each of the following municipalities: Rawdon, Wicklow and Marmora, Lake, Elzevir, Grimsthorpe, Lake, Mayo and Carlow. This money is to be spent on Township roads. These special grants were given because of the isolation of these municipalities from County roads.

able address recalling the naming of the Magna Charta o nthe same day just 712 years ago, and which had been the foundation on which had been built the freedom and happiness we now enjoy.

Kiwanian A. B. Belle in turn presented the American Flag to the local Club, terming the event an "indication of international goodwill and good fellowship." District Trustee George Lee accepted it on behalf of Belleville Kiwanis.

This came the drive around Rochester, which was enjoyed by everyone, through the courtesy of the Rochester Club and—all too soon—time for the return journey. Mr. O'Connor of the Canadian National Railway, who was in charge of the transportation, put the entire boat at the disposal of the excursionists and a perfect trip home ward, completed in the small hours of the morning, rounded out an ideal day.

Too much credit for the success of the outing cannot be given Chairman Harry Greenleaf, who worked hard to make it an enjoyable day for all. The Bon Ton and Kiwanis Orchestras alternated in supplying snappy dance melodies both going and coming, and their efforts were appreciated by everyone, along with the dancing, community singing served to keep everyone feeling happy, and the Kiwanis spirit of good fellowship prevailed throughout the "big family."

EASE AND CONVENIENCE IN FARM WORK

The compact builder of the Fordson enables it to be operated anywhere. The overall length is but 102 inches and the width 61 3-8 inches. It can be turned in a 21 foot circle. The controls are so easy and convenient to manage that a twelve year old boy can operate the tractor.

With all tanks full, the Fordson weighs only 2950 pounds. This light weight results in easier handling on every farm job. Soil packing is minimized, being actually less than one-fourth as much per square inch as when packed by the hoof of an average size work horse.

No other tractor at any price has all the features of the Fordson.

Are You Sleepless?

Some Hints on How to Overcome This Most Serious Trouble.

Some people lie awake for hours before they can fall asleep. Others waken suddenly in the small hours and worry over trifles, while some doe fitfully all night and never feel rested on rising. Sleeplessness is caused by a disordered condition of the nervous system. It means that the nerves are not getting proper nutrition, and not the quiet of night, when the muscles relax and heart action down to repair the system, the nerves grow restless and cry out for the nourishment the blood cannot supply.

It is very unwise—more, it is danger ous to rely on narcotics. What is needed is a good tonic to build up the blood. For this purpose no other tonic is so highly recommended as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This because they assist the digestive organs to take blood making ingredients from the food, and so supply the nerves with the nourishment they need. With satisfied nerves sleep comes easily and naturally.

Not only do Dr. Williams' Pink Pills help the nerves. Their main function is to enrich and increase the blood, and so build up and strengthen the whole body, new life is given to the entire system. Better sleep, steady nerves, improved appetite, increased vigor—all these can be yours by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Begin them today. Sold by all medicine dealers, or by mail post paid, at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

New Filing System

Geo. Bailey, chairman of the Finance Committee, reported that a survey of the County Filing System was made and a contract awarded the Office Specialty Company for 545 dy for system in the County Crown Attorney's office and the Sheriff's Office. These will be installed in the near future.

The contract for stationery supplies was given to Newsome and Gilbert, Toronto and supplies to Gem's Drug Store, their tenders being the lowest. The forms for the local offices and the auditors report was done by the Stirling News Argus. The Globe Indemnity Co'y was again awarded the Public Liability Insurance of the County Tie rates are the same as in the past.

The offices in Shire Hall has not been cleaned or renovated for some years and it was believed it was essential they should be. The cleaning of the County Clerks and Treasurer's offices was done for $100.00 and the Court House offices for $100.00. Volumes have been laid in the main corridor of the Court House.

The Finance Committee have proposed that the County buildings be painted on the outside and repairs made.

The roof, a strange-looking pigeon on the Island of Mauritius, became extinct in the seventeenth century.

STRAP HANGERS TO BE HUMOURED

Will Soon Be a Pleasure For Street Car Riders

Nanaimo, B.C., June 16.—William Wilson and Sam Tembery, local engineers, have been successful in obtaining pattern rights for a device designed to make strap-hanging in street cars a pleasure.

The object of the device is to assist street car patrons in moving about the car while in motion, in comfort, and in safety. To accomplish this they have two endless ropes travelling overhead in opposite directions, driven by an electric motor. A person upon entering the car, takes hold of the right-hand rope and is thereby assisted forward to a seat.

Upon leaving he takes hold of the rope which is travelling in the opposite direction, and is assisted to the exit. It will, they claim, prevent people from being thrown off their balance due to the variations of speed, and side swing of the car. It will also enable them to move in safety and assist in speeding up transportation. Nanaimo has no street cars.

TRUCK RUNS AMUCK

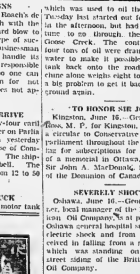

Tweed, June 16—The big motor tank which was used to oil the streets on Monday started out for Bannockburn in the afternoon, but had the misfortune to go through the bridge at Moose Creek. The contents, about four tons of oil were drained into the water to make it possible to get the tank back onto the road. The machine alone weighs eight tons, so it was a big problem to get it back onto solid ground again.

YOUNG CHINESE IS NAMED AFTER CAN. GOVERNOR

Nanaimo, B.C., June 16—One of the first young Canadians to be named after Viscount Willingdon is a Chinese. Ah Wah, a local Chinese, called at the registrar of births and when asked the name of the child replied, "Call him Governor."

The registrar was bewildered and all the more so when after putting down "Governor" Ah Wah shook his head. Finally after considerable explaining and little interrogation, the official guessed right. "Willingdon", you mean? Ah Wah nodded, and his newly arrived son was duly registered as Willingdon Wah.

ELECTORS WILL SOON MEET IN PROV. MANITOBA

Winnipeg, Man., June 15.—C.P.R.—Electors of Manitoba will go to the polls on June 28 to determine the composition of the eighteenth legislature of the province and incidentally pass upon the record of the Bracken Progressive administration which has been in power for the past five years.

Devoid of any outstanding political issues the campaign has resolved itself into straight party appeals for the confidence of the electors with government candidates asserting that details of the Bracken government will bring about group system of government or coalition of two or more minority parties.

At dissolution the government appointees numbered twenty-eight in a house of fifty-five members, a majority of one over all. Progressive control of the legislature, however, has at no time been endangered during the five years of the government's tenure in office as on every important division the Progressives have been sustained by substantial majorities.

The standing of other parties at dissolution was: Liberals 7; Conservatives 6; Labor 4; Independents 4, while two seats were vacant.

On all vital issues in the legislature the majority of the Progressive party fallen in line with the government's stand while other groups have withheld its assuring passage of bills that encountered opposition. The most serious threat that was since existed the government was during the closing days of the last session when Liberal-Conservative and Labor members combined in a series of shifting tactics which ended however, in a clear-cut victory for the government.

In the Progressive election manifesto a strong appeal was made to the electors for return of the government on its past record which was described as "in keeping with every pre-election pledge and then in 1922."

Firing the opening gun of the government campaign at Winnipeg, Premier John Bracken issued a challenge to the city to join hands with the Progressives in forming an administration that would recognize neither city nor country; neither rare nor creed, nor economic creed. What the province required, he said, was a government that had as its primary object the welfare and prosperity of Manitoba as a whole.

The Premier emphasized the need for a well-balanced programme of industrial and agricultural development; retrenchment where the normal progress of the province was NOT affected; settlement of the natural resources question and appraisal for the right to complete the programme undertaken by the government since it was placed in power in 1922.

REV. FATHER IS RETURNING TO SCENE OF WORK

Winnipeg, Man., June 16.—(Canadian Press.)—Rev. Father A. G. Morice O.M.I., missionary, anthropologist, author, explorer and musician, is returning to his work among British Columbia Indians which he was forced to abandon 35 years ago because of ill health.

For some time members of the tribes he taught to write have been sending him letters, urging him to return. One reads: "The shadows are falling over you, and you will have to fall asleep pretty soon; so before that we wish to tell you a last good-bye."

Father Morice, now 68 years of age, desires to live with the Indians again for a time to make sure of a few of the fine points of his combined dictionary and grammar for the use of Indians. When printed it will have 800 pages. Some years ago he prepared an English-Indian dictionary which required 13 years to complete. This was destroyed when his cabin at Duck Lake, B.C., was burned.

When the priest had charge of 14 mission stations in British Columbia, he explored and mapped large sections of the province, discovering 13 lakes, the largest of which is 60 miles long. His maps are used by railways and the government of British Columbia.

Father Morice has written and published 17 volumes including the History of the Catholic Church in Western Canada, crowned by the French Academy, and History of the Northern Interior of British Columbia. In addition, he has himself printed five books and many pamphlets in his own original language, which is still written and spoken by hundreds of British Columbia Indians.

It was among the Stuart Lake Indians, where he spent 18 years, that Father Morice did his greatest work for the red man by inventing some kind of hieroglyphic language which could be understood by many different tribes who belong to what is termed the Dene family. Books and newspapers were published in the new tongue on a small printing press, operated by a foot treddle.

Born in France in 1859, Father Morice came to Canada in 1880 and was immediately assigned to missionary work in the coast province. Many Indian boys passed through his hands and he taught them everything from catechism to music. He was expert on all wind instruments and knew enough about fringed ones to teach his pupils to play.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Daily Intelligencer,
June 16th, 1927.

Dear Sirs,—

If notice an article in the Intelligencer of the 16th, re. the young Welshman, Geo. Freeman, who was given one year probation on that date for trying to make a getaway with money which was not his own.

I take you say he was a young Englishman out in this country a year and hired to a farmer at $4.00 a month, and that the temptation must have been great. This is not the true facts of the case. I do not know how long he has been out in this country but he has only been in my employ not quite two months yet. He was not employed on a farm, but as a second assistant in the cheese factory at Wellman's Corners. Also he was not paid $4.00 a month as you stated. He is a young Welshman who came out for we find when he made his first call station and came to me direct from there and under contract from the Dominion Organizer of the British Immigration with whom the bargain was made and not with the lad at their usual wage.

On application for a lad, George Freeman was sent to me and consequently later the Dominion Organizer sent to me a contract to be signed by myself and the lad. This was done and returned to the British Immigration Association.

I conduct a general store at Wellman's Corners and as milk started very slow to the cheese factory the first month found I had no employment to give the boy until such time as the cheese would become heavier and I would need a second helper. So we organized two egg routes for Thursday and Friday of each week and George Freeman was placed in charge of the routes to buy the eggs at the farms and pay for them at the time of purchase, and for this reason he was given the amount of money he had with him the day he tried to make a getaway.

On previous occasions George Freeman had returned with his route at the time of leaving and made up for we find when he made his fur call he left the groceries ordered by the farmer, but told them he would pick up their eggs in the evening leaving another box of groceries outside their door belonging to a farmer farther on the route without telling them he left them there, and on he went. The next call he told the lady he would call later and one place he said his cases were full and he would be back in an hour. He drove beyond Anglo-Junction leaving the horse and wagon to take care of itself and went to the above station but found he was too late for any morning train. He had himself in an out-building to await a later train, but being found on the farm of Mr. Albert Dunkley, from whose phone he was talking he was sure and said he knew he'd get him while he was getting a basket of eggs, but he was going to go back and finish the route.

He drove once more over part of the route and then bought some small box of eggs and paid for them, putting the time until nearly the next train time at which he again left the route and himself and went to Anson station and bought his ticket for Belleville.

Mr. G. Merglean and Mr. G. Walter found the horse and rig and put them in Mr. Weaver's barn, and phoned my store that they were there and upon showing down we found the lad there with the ticket already purchased. The agent was told he had the money and in turn he told the conductor, which conversation the lad overheard and on being of getting on the train and through the guide, a certain party was soon after him and the conductor came to my store and reported that he was captured on Mr. Fred Anderson's island, here he put in a month and rather for help, for the fifty-two also rescued him knew of once who he was and phoned me up that the man was there. He was brought back to Wellman's Corners from where Inspector Lougheed and Constable Weaver-all got him and took him to Belleville for trial.

Thanking you for your space and hoping this contradiction of the facts printed in the Intelligencer of the 16th act to my having him employed on a farm at $4.00 a month, will clear up this misunderstanding.

I remain,

Yours truly,

L. E. McCAUGHEY,

Cheesemaker, Wellman's Corners.

SARATOGA RACE WILL BE INTERNATIONAL NOW

New York, N.Y., June 16.—An international aspect will be given to this year's running of the Saratoga Cup race late in the summer at the famous upstate track by the announcement that some of the outstanding thoroughbreds of England and Germany will be included in the high-class field. The race is a mile and three-quarters weight for age event for three-year-olds and up.

The European thoroughbreds to be brought here in plenty of time for acclimatization and raced against such U.S. nominations as Crusader, Mars, Dunboyne, Boot to Boot, Sandy Disposan, Dalmyo and Mendora from England and Laufjungo from Germany.

While little is known of the German colt, the English entries have uniformly good records and pedigrees. Disposan, a son of Diadumenos and Venturesome, is to bear the silks of William A. Read who has been racing him in England. Dalmyo will represent Albert C. Bostwick, who bought him in England last winter, and Mendora the Brunckley stable of J. F. Byers.

Little difficulty in getting the foreigners accustomed to the climate here is foreseen by their trainers on the basis of experience with Papyrus and Zionist in 1923 and 1924.

SANDOR FOUGHT OVER 100 DUELS

New York, N.Y., June 14.—Pat Sandor is a member of the Hungarian Parliament, who has fought 101 duels most of them in defence of the Jewish race. He has arrived here for a study of affairs and conditions.

He said Jewish duels recorded less than 0.5 years ago were to be as 65 years old and lacked Sandor's numbers, considered a record for duels in Hungary since the Napoleonic wars. His opponent was M. Bercsik, the Hungarian Food Minister.

Mr. Sandor, who has created duels in his native Hungary legislated against the practice, defended duelling as "very good for hot ways of making friends."

"I have never cut off a man's head in my life," he said, "but in the effort to cut off heads I have made many friends. When you have made a man about some partial issue you love him more than before. He is your friend."

LYONS CAPTURES 12TH WIN OF SEASON

New York, June 16.—Chicago repelled the Athletics at Philadelphia yesterday by 2 to 4 in the first game of a series and strengthened the hold on second place. Al Simmons accounted for all the Philadelphia runs by crashing the ninth homer of the season in the first inning with the bases filled. He won his twelfth game this year and his ninth in succession. Ted Lyons limited the Athletics to four hits and did not allow a hit after the third inning. Only three of the Athletics reached first base on Lyons after the first stanza and none travelled as far as second. Lyons served up his own game by whacking a triple off Grove with two on base in the eighth. The twelve victories for the Chicago pitcher stands as the best mark in the majors thus far. He has been defeated twice.

The Floral Assets of the C.P.R.

Upper—Gardens and fountain at Kenora Station.
Lower—Woodstock Station grounds.

Flowers are among the assets of the Canadian Pacific Railway. It is the policy of the Company to establish permanent flower gardens at every station along the long line of track stretched across the continent.

In the very early days of the railroad the pioneers were too busy attending to the task of opening up new roads to give much attention to flowers, yet even back in the early days some of the C. P. R. employees produced a few varieties of flower seeds in his own plot and exchanged them amongst their friends at some of the stations with the object of starting flower gardens along the line. This took place over 30 years ago, and to-day the Company spends a considerable amount producing and distributing seeds and shrubs of all kinds to stations scattered along the line. The Company maintains a floral department with headquarters at the Windsor Street Station in Montreal.

In carrying out this work a great number of trees, shrubs and perennial plants are used annually. Suitable trees such as ash, elm and maple, are supplied, and shrubbery such as honeysuckle, lilac, barberry, weigelia, snowball and many other varieties, together with a long list of bed flowers. Vines are also supplied to cover buildings and fences surrounding stations. For this purpose Virginia creeper and Japanese ivy are considered best.

During the past thirty years the encouraging influence of the C. P. R. gardens has materially assisted in the inauguration of floral parks all over the country, many of the officials of the Company being members of these beautiful spots. It is pleasing to remember that the work in connection with the gardens is creative, and that the Company is not merely in the situation, for it is carried on mostly in their own time, and in fact rather against it, in beautifying the stations of which they are in charge. Yet C. P. R. recognizes this effort and generously fostered it, arranging for annual competitions on both eastern and western lines of the Company for the finest station gardens. Valuable awards do not enter into the contest but the prizes that have created the most enthusiasm during the past are the ones that carry off the honors. Representatives from the floral department form the judges each year, examine the gardens and shedding the winner. Medals and money prizes are awarded each year.

The floral department of the Canadian Pacific is constantly in touch with horticultural institutions, individuals, seedsmen and nurserymen, and the last annual report left unturned to keep up to the very latest standards.

GOTHAM TO BE POSSESSOR OF GALLERY OF ART

New York, June 14. A pledge of $1,000,000 by an anonymous patron for establishment of a National Gallery of Contemporary Art is announced here. Rockwell Kent, who recently criticized the Metropolitan Museum for its lack of interest in the work of American artists, said incorporation of a National Gallery of Contemporary Art was planned.

He declined to identify the million dollar donor or to name those associated with him in the new enterprise.

Initial plans for the institution, Mr. Kent explained, do not include building a modern art gallery but call for acquisition of contemporary paintings and sculpture which probably will be displayed in some temporary building in New York pending erection of a permanent structure.

The Luxembourg Museum in Paris, he said, will be the model for the projected gallery.

NATIONALS HANG UP SECOND WIN AGAINST POINT

Railroaders Extended To Limit To Win From Cement Mixers

FOUR PITCHERS USED

New Players Show Up Well —Cy Young Gets Three Hits

Belleville Canadian Nationals copped another game from Point Anne yesterday at the cement boys' town, but it was far different from the last time these two teams met, this time the game being closely fought, and the issue was in doubt until the last man was out. The locals finally emerged on the long end of a 6-4 score.

The Pointers play a much better brand of ball on their own diamond than on foreign fields as shown by both the game against Deloro and the Railroaders.

Several hundred lined the grounds a fair percentage of these taking advantage of the Wednesday half-holiday to enjoy the jaunt.

The home team who looked like a bunch of 'also-ras" last week against the Nationals, were just the opposite yesterday and were in excellent form. They out-hit Mills and Company and had less errors and turned in every bit as good a game.

Frank Bennett, the lanky port-sider had an off day and in the second inning developed a streak of wildness and walked four batters which rather minced matters for himself and resulted in his ultimate departure from the box. In this chukker the locals scored a brace of runs which sent them out in front.

"Sunny" Green, who was some years ago nearly as successful pitching hard ball as soft ball, assumed the mound and had the visitors fairly well in check although they managed to nick him for eight hits and four runs during the balance of the piece.

"Chummy" Gerow, who made his first bow to the fans this season, breezed along nicely until the sixth when he commenced to waver and Manager Mills promptly motioned him to the dug-out. Gerow had been in deep water a couple of times but managed to extricate himself with no serious damage.

"Punch" Derry, the chunky Irishman, who learned his baseball on the Kingston cricket field, was rushed to the rescue and although in a bad hole he did spot the "dust-eaters" a pair of runs and went through to hold them scoreless during the last three frames. Derry is going to be a mighty useful individual around the Belleville camp as in both games to date he has been called in to stem the tide and did it in apple-pie order.

3 Hits Per Young

The line-up was rearranged due to the absence of Post and Hagerman and the combination worked fine. The latter will not be in shape to play for some weeks yet following his accident.

Lionel Harper was moved from short-stop to third base and Vern Weir was shifted to second while "Dusty" Flagler, a junior graduate, was sent in at short. Cy Young went along and covered right field with Scott going to left to fill Hagerman's shoes.

Young led the whole parade in hitting and was chalked up with three nice singles and a walk in four trips to the plate which is clipping the pill for a high possible average. It might not be a move in the wrong direction to keep Young with the team following his showing yesterday.

Flagler bears all the ear-marks of a smart short-stop and although cared for with one error, he redeemed himself by completing a couple of other smart plays.

Harper had little to do at third but did it well and Vern Weir is at home in any infield position.

Harry Blakely, Alex. Weir and Frank Bennett for Point Anne, helped themselves to two hits apiece. Blakely's three bagger in the ninth inning was the longest hit of the day, a terrific wallop to deep left field that sent the sphere skimming over the knoll into the "thicket."

"Wicky" Ross made the only real good fielding feature of the afternoon when he ran around behind Scott to snare Frank Goyer's long hoist in the seventh.

Weir started off auspiciously by pounding a single but Ross flied to Hurley and Harry Mills went out to the same route to Blakely. "Perny" Mills walked but was out attempting to steal second.

Green and Blakely both grounded out to Flagler and Cretney flied to Ross.

The second spasm was Belleville's big harvest. Bennett opened by forcing Scott to hoist one to Sonny Green but Harper, Young and Flagler all walked filling the bases. Gerow slashed one down toward third that Alex Weir messed up and Harper operfed the scoring. Vern Weir walked and Young was forced home. Flagler was out at the plate on Ross' tap to Bailey Green who went into the box.

Frank Goyer in the second inning drove one into Weir's hands. Bennett singled neatly and "Jerry" Hurley sacrificed and Alex Weir grounded out to Flagler.

The Nationals went out in order in the third when Perny went out via Alex Weir, Scott rapped to S. Green and Weir took Harper's smash.

The Point Anne crowd were roused to excitement in the third as Gaulin doubled and Murney Green scored him with another smart clip. Brother "Sunny" sacrificed him to third but Blakely and Cretney tried hard but both went out to Gerow.

Young singled to open the' fourth but Flagler grounded to Green. Gerow hit out at Harry Mills and Weir fanned.

Frank Goyer again sent one down to Weir and was tossed out. Bennett dropped one in front of the plate and was thrown out by Perny. Hurley got a life on Weir's poor throw to first but Alex Weir hit into Gerow's hands.

Ross got his only hit, a nice single, H. Mills grounded out to short, Perny sacrificed and Scott grounded to Weir

Gaulin was safe on Flagler's error Green hit to Weir and Gaulin was forced. H. Green hit to Weir and his brother was forced. Blakely singled and Cretney lifted one which Flagler gathered in.

Harper flied to Cretney. Young singled but Flagler hit into a double play when Blakely took the grounder and started the double killing.

The sixth saw Gerow's exit. Goyer singled to left and Bennett diitued to centre. Goyer scored when Perny passed a ball. Hurley hit to Harry Mills who was playing deep and Bennett was forced. Weir singled. Gaulin flied to Ross and Hurley gathered in Green walked populating the paths. E. Green singled and on the play Weir came home although Perny nipped him but dropped the ball. Blakely went out to Harry.

Derry singled to open the seventh. Weir sacrificed and Ross was hit by a pitched ball. Harry went out to Gaulin. Derry scored, Perny got a single scoring Ross but was forced at second on Scott's grounder to Weir.

Cretney and Goyer both flied to Ross and Bennett the same to Weir.

Harper grounded to Blakely and Young got his third hit. Flagler out to Gaulin and Derry to Weir.

Hurley sked one to Scott. Alex Weir got a lovely 3-bagger to left field. Gaulin struck out and Green went out to Vern Weir.

Vern Weir singled in his last time at bat. Ross grounded to Gaulin and so did H. Mills. Perny singled and Scott was out on Green.

"Sunny" Green sked to Scott and Blakely got his three bagger. Cretney struck out and Goyer sent another one down to Weir and Blakely was left stranded on third.

GIANTS DOWNED BY CARDINALS

Jess Haines Holds Manhattanites To Two Hits On Hornsby Day

St. Louis, Mo., June 16.—The fans of St. Louis designated yesterday after noon as Rogers Hornsby day. But they had their dates mixed. It was Jess Haines' day instead. The fans of St. Louis presented Hornsby with a watch as a token of their gratefulness for leading the Cardinals to their first world championship last year. The Giants, not to be outdone in generosity, presented St. Louis with a ball game. The citizens of this fair city did something to orrwby. Roy managed the Cardinals in their first successful campaign in the National League. But the Giants didn't owe St. Louis a thing. When they gave Frankie Frisch and Jimmy Ring for the great Rogers last winter they paid their debt in full.

So there's no explanation of why Burleigh Grimes walked three men in the second inning today, forcing a run, and Don. Songer walked another, giving the Cardinals one more tally. Obviously the Cardinals did not have to exert themselves to win 3-0 victory, but Mr. Haines wasn't taking chances. He held the Giants to two slim hits and as far as the mighty maulers from Manhattan were concern ed third base was no man's land. Only two got as far as second. In the face of this kind of pitching it really didn't matter how many runs the Giants presented the Cardinals with after they got their first. One would have been sufficient and they made three in the first inning. An error by Hornsby, a double by Bottomley and a home run by Southworth did enough damage for the day right there.

Carmen Hill, bespectacled Pirate hurler, won his eight consecutive game at Pittsburgh by turning back the Boston Braves, 7 to 4. Hill was touched for 12 hits, but was invincible in the pinches until the latter innings, when the Braves scored all their runs. Robertson held the league-leaders in check until the fifth, when Harris' double and L. Waner's single scored one run. Two more came across in the sixth and Robertson made way for a pinch-hitter, Edwards relieved him, but lasted only two-thirds of an inning, the Pirates scoring four runs. Goldsmith finished the game. Harris continued his sensational batting streak with three hits.

Charley Root turned in his eleventh victory when Chicago hammered two Philadelphia pitchers all over the Chicago lot for a 12 to 5 win, making it eleven in a row for the Cubs. The visitors were blanked with five scattered hits until the ninth.

Dazzy Vance took the decision in a pitching duel with Ryan Rixey at Cincinnati, Brooklyn downing Cincinnati by 2 to 1. All the runs came in the Seventh, Partridge leading off with a double for the Robins, taking third on Carey's sacrifice and coming in on another sacrifice by Herman. Felix made first on Dressen's fumble and Rixey singled to left, scoring Felix while was from first base. In the same half of the inning, doubles by Walker and Critz produced the lone Red tally.

Unaided by human hands, an electrically controlled tractor, plowed 20 acres of land near Lincoln, Neb.

One of the history books of ancient Egypt is a papyrus roll of 133 feet long three times at bat.

TORONTO DROP, TWO TO NEWARK

New York, June 16.—The Bears defeated the Toronto Leafs in two tunes at Newargk yesterday. The first, a slugging match, was won by the Newark club in the seventh and eighth frames when they scored eight runs to win by the score of 10 to 8. Both clubs used four pitchers. Air-tight pitching by Davies, who won his sixth straight game, gave the Bears the second till by the score of 7 to 1. Outside of the fifth when Toronto bunched two doubles for one run, Davies was never in trouble.

The Keys earned an even break against Rochester at Reading, taking the second game, 3 to 2, after losing the first, 4 to 3. Harrison stopped Rochester in the second game after Carls weakened in the sixth inning. Quellich, who had hit safely in twenty consecutive games, was stopped in the second game by Herb Thormahlen and Ralph Head. The Reds in outfielder faglied to hit safely in now comes in a Handy Container

Advantages of buying Motor Oil in this SEALED QUART CAN

1 When you are going on a trip the sealed Quart Can—carried under the seat or in the package-compartment—is available as a replenishment of the same good oil that is already in your crank-case.

2 Keep a few Quart Cans in your home garage at all times—you will find both convenience and cleanliness in using them to replenish the oil supply in your car as needed, as well as with a big clumsy can—no funnel—no oil drip. You just pour in the contents of a Quart Can and the job is done.

3 It is just as important to have your car lubricated with the correct grade of oil as it is to have in your crankcase the proper brand of oil. Therefore, you should always keep in your car several of these sealed quart cans of Marvelube Motor Oil—to provide against the possibility of being suddenly so placed for a long country run as to find the grade you use not immediately obtainable.

4 This Quart Can is an absolute protection against substitution—it is sealed, and the seal must be broken before the contents can be poured out. If you wish to be absolutely sure you are getting genuine Marvelube, the sealed Quart Can is your safeguard.

MARVELUBE MOTOR OIL is now obtainable in an attractive Quart Can—selling at an advance of only 5c per quart over the "bulk" price.

Marvelube—whether in large steel drums, in small cans, or in bulk—always adheres to the high standard which made it the choice of 200,000 motorists within twelve months of its introduction.

Not only is the quality of the oil rigidly maintained; the dependability of Marvelube extends to the designation of its six distinct and separate grades.

Every container holds the exact grade that is marked on the outside. A careful system of grade separation ensures this very important safeguard—so that every motorist, no matter where or how he buys Marvelube, can be sure of having in his crank-case the exact grade specially selected by our engineers as affording the highest form of protection for his particular engine.

SHADOW OF SIREN IN ONCE HAPPY HOME

BY ELSIE MARLOWE

She had been so sure of him—so sure; she had never stopped to think about her surely.

Other women's husbands might change, love might be lost or home wrecked; but it could have nothing to do with her life. Always such things seemed unreal, like some pitiful picture she was watching on the movie screen, interesting, thrilling but something that could never happen to her and Jim.

She and her husband—they were DIFFERENT.

For nine years it was like that. Nine years of peace, jogging along. Roast beef on Sunday, hash on Monday, steak on Tuesday, screen doors to mend, jankets to bind, furs to store in the summer—placid years, slipping along, with never a pain or fear.

And then things began to change, as though a gray film were filtering slowly over the sunlight of her garden.

She hardly realized it, only there was a vague discomfort. Jim was away from home oftener, seeking a little more absent-minded when he was at home.

And then, suddenly, like a jagged knife leaping at her, from ambush, came the gossip. A friend whispering—little forked whispers like the darting tongue of a snake—"I think you ought to know for your own good, dearie—"

So poor Alice woke from her paradise

Here is her letter—all of it that I could print. In between these scattered lines lie the fragments of a broken dream.

DEAR ELSIE:

Fed a long time I have read your column and wondered at the terrible letters. I'll confess I thought you made them up. I didn't know that such things could be true. And even if they were true, I was so sure that they could never come near my life.

For nine years we have been married—one of those real old-fashioned, quiet, cozy marriages. I could scream when I look back at it now, and know that that happiness is all over forever. If anyone had told me that I could lose my husband's love—why, we were so used to each other, so sure of each other, that we didn't even talk about love any more. We just LIVED it. And then—

Yesterday I discovered that my husband is having a violent flirtation with a woman in his office. Not a great love affair. Honestly, I think I could stand it better if it was. But one of those silly, cheap, love affairs that every one snickers about. And he is my

HUMAN MARVEL EATS NAILS AND TACKS AS DIET

Professor William Bartell Amazes Audience With Demonstration

How would you like to exist on a breakfast of carpet tacks a bunch of nails and a dinner of safety pins? Well, that's just what Professor William Bartell of Harry Lastrigo's Carnival has been doing for the past twenty-three years and that's why he's known as the "Human Ostrich," and classed among the seven wonders of the world.

Bartell's remarkable feats have puzzled the medical and science world for a score of years and none have been able to reach a satisfactory conclusion which would reveal this human marvel to the rest of the world.

Bartell not only does this but other superhuman acts such as bathing his face in a bowl of ground glass, holding a blow torch next to his bare face and body, and strange to relate his health is not effected in the slightest degree.

Yesterday afternoon an Intelligencer reporter was invited along with several others to Dr. McCrea's office to meet this extraordinary individual and witness the examination.

Professor Bartell is but 37 years of age but 23 of these have been spent on the stage or with carnivals demonstrating his powers before millions of people. He is rather short, thin of build, possessing well built and muscular. He chatted freely with his visitors and answered any questions that were asked.

Vesting himself of his coat and shirt the professor took a position in front of the X-ray plate holding a handful of such articles as tacks, nails, bolts, safety pins, etc. As the powerful rays outlined his body, clearly showing the ribs and other inner organs he swallowed the collection piece by piece and as the spectators watched closely they could follow the course of the articles as they passed through his body.

Bartell relishes the iron diet as an ordinary individual craves for such delicacies as ice cream or candy. A recent investigation proved that Professor Bartell has no less than one hundred and twenty articles secreted in his stomach.

He commenced his career as a small boy when he interrupted a game of marbles by swallowing the little round pellets and since that time he has been occupied in that line of work.

Physicians have examined Professor Bartell and declare that he is beyond them. For some time he was employed as a subject with the Mayo Research Institute at Rochester, Minn.

Bartell's original home was in the County of Perth, Ontario, but at the present time his parents reside at Arnprior, Ontario. He has travelled to every corner of the earth exhibiting his prowess. He bears a long linear scar on his abdomen which is the result of an operation to remove the accumulated load.

Bartell carries a scrap book filled with clippings and photos. He is known to have pulled an automobile load of people down a street by his hair. He can apply a torch with a 110 pound pressure to his body without any conceivable effect. He gives seven shows on the average each evening besides his afternoon demonstrations to newspapermen and physicians Professor Bartell will be at the Memorial Park on Station street, for the remainder of the week.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray

Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. For only 75 cents. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hair have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

I.O.D.E. HAS DONE INFINITE GOOD

Toronto, June 15.—It was at the annual meeting of the National Chapter of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire held at Montreal in 1919 that the Order decided on its half-million dollar fund as National War Memorial to those from Canada who had sacrifices themselves in the Great War. And now after seven years and when the raising of this huge fund is almost completed, what has been accomplished so far? A National officer of the Order is authority for the following facts: It has sent some 80 boys and girls, sons or daughters of men or women who were killed or died of wounds in the Great War, to a university education, one each year from each province in Canada giving a university in her or his province. Each has received the amount of $1,200 towards a higher education and the Order has succeeded in taking to a slight degree the place of the lost parent.

Secondly it has afforded some 30 young British men and women scholarships in British universities or recognized schools, post-graduate work with financial counting of $1,400 each. Preference has always been shown, wherever the occasion arose, to returned men or their children. Lack of funds rendered it only possible to award this in each province every other year, but beginning with 1927 one is being awarded each year in each province. This is the Order's agency, not only to show appreciation for services rendered to the men themselves, but also to provide a means of promoting a better understanding all the needs and spirit of the British Empire.

Thirdly: the bestowal of 1,000 sets of War Memorial pictures for presentation purposes to schools, the greater number of which have already been placed throughout Canada. Each set consists of 18 good-sized colored prints depicting Canada's part in the Great War. These are copies of the large paintings in the Senate Chamber at Ottawa and of other Nationally owned famous paintings.

TELLS WHY THEY ARE NOT NAMED

Ottawa, Ont., June 15 (Canadian Press).—A correspondent of the Journal explains why those celebrated names, Charles Tupper and Duncy McCee, do not appear among the thirteen in the first cabinet of the Dominion.

These men attended both the Charlottetown and Quebec conferences and at both gatherings were among the outstanding statesmen there. Tupper also after the Quebec conference introduced the resolution favoring confederation in the legislature of Nova Scotia where it was carried by a large majority, and to him must be given the credit of bringing that province into the Dominion. On account of the popularity and ability of these two men it was confidently expected they would be given important cabinet positions.

Cartier insisted that he could not carry Quebec unless he had two French Canadians beside himself in the cabinet. Galt had to be considered as the representative of the Protestant minority of Quebec, and McGee as the representative of the Irish Catholics. This would give Quebec five members of the cabinet, while Ontario on account of having a larger population than Quebec insisted on having one more member. The maritime province, thus giving Ontario six members, which with the four from the Maritime provinces would make a cabinet of fifteen members. Macdonald insisted this was too large a number.

A deadlock lasting for a week ensued. John A. Macdonald that he could not form a cabinet and he had decided to resign. Lord Monck to summon the first Ministry, and that Hon. George Brown, who had previously had a quarrel with Macdonald and refused to having anything to do with the new government.

Dr. Tupper knowing the difficulty MacDonald was in went to McGee and said: "The union of the provinces is going to end in a fiasco unless we give way. We are the only two men Dr. Tupper as a maritime province who can avert that calamity." He member. The Ontario representation then proposed that McGee should was then reduced to five, thus making stand aside in favor of Edward Kenny of Halifax, as the representative of the Irish Catholics, and that he (Tupper) would likewise surrender his claims to a portfolio. To this proposal McGee readily agreed.

This would reduce the Quebec representation in the cabinet to four, but the Irish Catholics would still have a member in the person of Mr. Kenny who would take the place of a cabinet of thirteen members.

Committees Amalgamated - Under Chairmanship of Chas. Hanna

PARADE AND SPORTS

Religious Service on Sunday Under Joint Auspices of All Churches

All committees interested in the Confederation Celebration amalgamated last evening at the open meeting, into one strong organization with Chairman Charles Hanna and Vice Chairman Harry Greenleaf and having done this most ambitious plans for the three day celebration were formulated.

On Friday July 1st, the beginning of the observance of Canada's Diamond Jubilee, the school children will take part in a joint ceremony either in the open or under cover when patriotic songs will be sung by the massed choir. In the afternoon a Calithumpian parade of monster proportions will proceed about the main streets of the city winding up at the Pair Grounds where sports of every kind will be held. Prizes for the parade will be donated to the person showing the best float, the best decorated bicycle and other features. A community dance will end the day.

Stores Stay Open

Upon the decision of the merchants of the city to remain open for business on Saturday, the celebration will be continued in the evening when Front Street will be roped off in some section for a community dance.

On Sunday afternoon the religious organizations will unite in a place yet to be selected to take part in commemorative service, the ritual for which Ottawa authorities have been responsible. Mayor Wilmot will probably preside at the gathering and will speak.

A program suggested by Chairman Hanna was adopted by the Committee and arrangements are being made for a thanksgiving service which all churches are being requested to support.

This service would be held in the open, on July 3rd at 2.30 P.m. a program of events will be published in a few days.

All committees will meet again on Monday night in the City Hall.

Marmora Man In Court Charged With Driving While Drunk

Hugh Crawford of Marmora appeared in Police Court this morning facing a charge of driving an automobile while in an intoxicated condition. He was arrested yesterday afternoon by Officer Prince, who picked Crawford up on the Kingston Highway. The accused had a case of Dry Gin in the rear of his car, and one of the bottles was opened and nearly empty. He was remanded until Monday morning by the Magistrate.

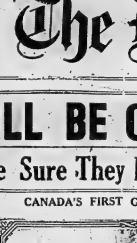

A point of law came up in the case when Crawford asked for his permit but the Magistrate refused to return it, keeping it until the outcome of the case was decided.

WILD RUMOR CAUSES SOME EXCITEMENT!

A wild rumor was current on the streets yesterday afternoon and evening that the Kingston-Belleville bus formerly owned by J. Vaughn of this City had turned over near Napanee and seventeen people were killed. However, some persons evidently became confused with the report of the accident of the day previous and that town and in re-telling it were responsible for the rumor.

The report, coming as it did near press time caused a lot of excitement, in the Intelligencer Office as the editorial staff, who always have the last minute stories appearing in the current issues of this paper, telephoned every possible place where some information could have been secured but the accident happened so late that all along the line that "we have not heard anything about it here."

COSGRAVE REFUSES TO FORM NEW GOVERNMENT WIT-HOUT MAJORITY

Will Not Bargain For Support From Various Independent Groups

Dublin, June 17.—William T. Cosgrave, president of the Free State executive has issued a statement that he does not intend to form another government, on the ground that his party will be in a minority in the Dail Eireann, as a consequence of the general election, in which his party received 61 seats, Republicans, 44, Labor 22, Farmer 11 and other parties a total of 15.

His attitude is said to be, that, seeing the President is elected by a majority of the Dail, as his party is in a minority he and his colleagues will be unable to form a government without surrendering rights and duties of the majority which they have neither the power nor the wish to do.

When Mrs. Cosgrave speaks of the opposition being in the majority, it is said he does not refer to the Republicans led by DeValera but to the four other parties, who will actually sit in the Dail. Even if the Labor deputies, National League and Farmers acted as a bloc it is believed he could still count on sufficient independent support to carry on, but the farmers are considered more likely to ally themselves with the Ministry than otherwise.

Mr. Cosgrave, it is reported, does not want to secure their support by any bargain before hand. The Ministry will not take office in "leading strings" and therefore efforts are under way to bring about a general request that Cosgrave carry on.

It is pointed out that this anomalous position must continue while the Republicans adhere to their determination to stay outside the Dail, rather than take the oath of allegiance to the King.

The Westminster Gazette suggests that President Cosgrave's refusal to form a Government probably will result in the other pro-treaty sections of Dail inviting him to resume office.

FREEDOM OR DEATH CRIES SIXTY THREE YEAR WIDOW

Berlin, June 17.—Frau Thum, aged 63, has formally requested permission to cross the Atlantic in an airplane preferably with Chamberlain. The late deceased herself as a defender with one, mentality and physically sound. Her idea in making the flight is to acquire money to free herself from the clutches of her daughter-in-law, who holds a heavy hand on her spending money. "Freedom or death" is the slogan of this girl 63 summers young.

If the trip is successful she is sure she would gain her liberty from relatives with the money which would flow in to the first woman to fly across the Atlantic.

HOPE DISAPPEARING OF FINDING FLIERS

Quebec, June 17.—Hope of finding the missing aviators Nungesser and Coli in the Lake St. John district of Quebec is fading fast, but despite the fact that it has been proved that flights seen in St. Germain Township were not flares from the fliers, reports are still coming to hand of lights being seen and appearing to be unusual.

CONCORD OF ALL PROVINCES NOTED

Quebec Bench and Bar Welcome Royal Commission to Capital

Quebec, June 17.—The bench and bar of the Province of Quebec united today in welcoming the judges and counsel of the Royal Commission. The welcome on behalf of the Bench was voiced by Chief Justice Francois Le Mieux of the Quebec Superior Court. That on behalf of the Bar was spoken by Elzear Baillargeon, Batonnier General of the Quebec bar. Sir Francois welcomed the commissioners to the city "which I am glad to recall was the cradle of civilization in North America."

Mr. Baillargeon found inspiration in the fact that judges from Saskatchewan, Ontario and Quebec were seated together on the bench in the ancient capital on the eve of the celebration of the Confederation Jubilee. This was an omen of unity of race and creed in Canada.

Chief Justice Rinfret, head of the Commission, referred in his reply to the fact that Sir Francois Le Mieux had been the first chairman on the customs commission. It had been a disappointment to him, said Judge Rinfret, not to be associated with Sir Francois in the work of the commission.

Telegram From W. H. Ireland Says Arrangements Are Completed

TO BE DELIVERED

Quinte Brewery Is Ready To Fill Any Orders Received

"Every thing arranged for sale of beer from the Brewery, commencing Monday morning."

Above is the telegram which the Belleville vendor Mr. B. L. Hyman received from Mr. W. H. Ireland member for West Hastings who is in Toronto. While the message is not as clear as it might be apparently the thirsty ones of Belleville will be able to go to the local Permit Office, bright and early at the beginning of next week and order a case of real honest-to-goodness beer. And not only will they be able to order it but the stuff will be delivered.

Anticipating a rush to secure permits Mr. Hyman will keep the office open until 10 o'clock Saturday night so that there will be no excuse for every one not being prepared on Monday morning. The officials in charge of the office advise that every one wishing to procure a permit on Saturday so as to avoid a tie up on Monday morning.

While no definite information could be procured to-day it is presumed that orders placed in the local office will be filled from the Quinte Brewery in this City. The brewery people have bottling equipment installed and are prepared to fill orders.

RUM RUNNERS IN ROCHESTER JAIL

U. S. Revenue Officers Made Record Haul From Belleville Boat

Special to The Intelligencer.

Oswego, N.Y., June 17. 1927.—With the Naval land forces of the U. S. Customs Border Patrol co-operating, the largest seizure of the season was made at Lesher's Landing, Port Day, six miles north of Wolcott and 25 miles west of Oswego, on Lake Ontario, Tuesday morning by Main forces are under the direction of U. S. Customs Collector Andrew Weidenmann, of Rochester, but supervision were operating independently at the time.

The hauls of the capture were 2400 bottles of alleged Canadian ale aboard the motorboat, "Rosella," running out of Belleville, Ont., the boat itself, two automobiles, a horse and haystack and the arrest of five men, two on the boat and three on land.

According to statements made by Collector Weidenmann the land patrol has been watching Lasser's landing for more than three weeks and surprised the party in waiting there early Tuesday. The motorboat was moored to the rear boat discovered the "Rosella" from which the bags were being carried to shore and lined three shots across her bow as is the custom. The boat was stopped immediately and customs officials were aboard. Attempts by the land party to escape were stopped by armed men who formed a barrier road. One man run but was captured. The "Rosella" was towed to Rochester.

The men taken into custody gave their names as follows, Clarence Robinson, Hilbert, B.C.; and John Brewer, Port Dupper, N.S. on the boat, held in 25,000 bail for alleged smuggling; Edward Jones, alleged ring leader of the land party, a one legged man, held in 15,000 bail. Roy Van Horn $5,000 and Orville Coffey $1,000 bail. Jones and Coffey gave Locona, as their home.

Van Horn lives in Wolcott. The only Locona in the State is in Oswego County. In default of bail the four were committed to Monroe County jail, Rochester.

The Intelligencer was informed this afternoon by Mr. Ralph Boulter that the "Rosella" which is owned by Dr. Hambleton was not seized by the United States Revenue Officers but at the time it was tied up to his dock at the Belleville Harbor. However, the rum boats are understood to have made more than one trip and the boat seized by the U. S. officials is no doubt the "Ulla Cullula" as reported in yesterday's Intelligencer.

Remanded Until June 23rd For His Preliminary Hearing

HEAVILY GUARDED

Not Asked To Plead—Public Excluded From Court Room

Winnipeg, June 17.— Haggard and unkempt, Virgil Wilson, alias Earl Nelson, held by the Winnipeg Police as "The Strangler" was formally charged today with the murder of Mrs. Emily Patterson, 27, mother of two young children and Lola Cowan, a 14 year old school girl who last week fell victims to the violence of an imbecile killer. The suspect who was not asked to plead was remanded until June 23 for preliminary hearing. The corridors along which the accused was escorted, were heavily guarded and the public was barred from the court room. Will son was identified as the detective and followed by armed police officers.

The prisoner appeared completely crushed and evidenced little interest in the proceedings, glancing up only once as awhile as the clerk of the court rapidly read over the indictment. Without any sign of fury sullo, light blue shirt and carried several days growth of beard on his face. His hair had been cut recently and on the scalp near the forehead were visible several scratches. A swarthy complexion gives the accused a pronounced foreign appearance. He has very powerful shoulders but his manacled hands were hidden from view.

Winnipeg, June 17.— The alleged brutal slayer of Lola Cowan, 14-year-old schoolgirl, and Mrs. Emily Patterson, 27-year-old choir singer and mother of two young children, strangled to death here last week, is confined in a cell at Central Police Headquarters, heavily guarded and manacled. He was declared by police to have been positively identified as the murderer of Mrs. Patterson and Lola Cowan. He was identified by 17 persons this evening when paraded at headquarters," said an official statement issued by Chief of Detectives George Smith of the Winnipeg City Police Department.

Identified Often in Winnipeg

The identification was made positive when he was confronted by W. E. Chandler of Winnipeg. Chandler stated that on June 8 he picked up the man on the outskirts of Warren, Minn. He gave him a ride to Winnipeg.

Mrs. J. W. Hill, landlady of the rooming-house where Lola Cowan's body was found last Sunday night, four days after she had been murdered, has not yet confronted the prisoner. Police state that the testimony and identification by Mrs. Hill, to come later, will be merely corroborative of other proof of identification they already have.

"Our wives are going bankrupt with the scarcity of weddings this month" one of the local clergy told The Intelligencer this morning and it was ascertained at the City Hall that the City Clerk, Mr. W. Mr. Holmes observed however that the number of licenses issued is by no does not signify absolutely the number of approaching weddings as said to be by them as a harvest,"

HUGH MILLER.

IRISH ELECTIONS

Of the 153 seats in the Irish Free State legislature, the dail eireann, less than a third will be filled by declared supporters of the Cosgrave government. The counting has been finished in 147 constituencies. The remaining six seats are to be filled by representatives of the universities, who are likely to increase the government's following. At present Premier Cosgrave is sure of only 45 supporters. Of De Valera's followers members of the dail Fianna Fail, 44 have been elected. When to these are added the five Sinn Feiners elected, there will be 50 who are irreconcilably opposed to the Anglo-Irish treaty and in favor of an Irish republic. But at least double that number are supporters of the present constitution. This majority constitutes of the government's 45 likely to be increased to 50 or perhaps one or two more); Laborites, 33; Farmers, 11; Independents, 12; National Leaguers, 3.

If the Cosgrave government is to carry on, it will have to gain the support of some of the minor groups. A coalition government is likely to be the outcome of the general election. Things would be made comparatively easy for Mr. Cosgrave if De Valera and his followers were to continue their boycott of the dail eireann, refusing to take the oath of allegiance and therefore absolving themselves from the legislature, and no doubt the premier would not be sorry to see the enemy confirmed in their disloyalty in the constitution for their absence might give him a free hand.

The results of the voting present un welcome evidence that the elements of revolution are still strong among the people of the Free State. That a third of the electorate has pronounced against the Anglo-Irish treaty and are in favor of complete separation from the empire and the establishment of a republic is a disturbing fact. These people would not hesitate to forsake the policy of peacefully promoting the material interests of their country and to throw it back into the ruinous turmoil, perhaps even civil war, from which it has just emerged. It is discouraging to the best friends of Ireland.

WELLAND CANAL

On the occasion of his recent visit to the Niagara peninsula, Hon Charles Dunning spoke of the greatness of the new Welland canal as an engineering achievement. He also dwelt eloquently upon the future importance of the canal as the means by which heavily-laden deep-sea vessels will be enabled to bear the products of foreign countries into the heart of the continent.

Evidently, then, the minister of railways and canals believes in the St. Lawrence seaway project and looks forward to its completion. For the great new Welland canal would be a monumental folly, and the hundred million spent on it would be largely wasted, if the St. Lawrence canals were not to be similarly enlarged to permit the passage of deep-sea ships. Of what great benefit would it be to this country to make it possible for the large upper-lake vessels to pass into Lake Ontario if they could not go on down the river? If the St. Lawrence canals are not to be enlarged, the operation of the new Welland will injure Canadian interests instead of promoting them, for the bulk of the produce coming down the lakes would find its way to the sea through American territory—diverted from the St. Lawrence route. This is so apparent that we believe it would be good policy to postpone the completion of the Welland canal until a fair start has been made on the great transportation system of which the Welland canal is only a link.

SUN AND HEALTH

Another great triumph is recorded for scientific research. The country awaits further particulars of the discovery, officially announced, by which it is hoped to conquer wheat rust which makes so heavy a toll in Canada. That would be a most important achievement economically, and one which would have a beneficial effect throughout the world. The latest announcement also concerns the conquest of disease, but in this case it is not with grain, but with human health we are dealing and especially the health of children. Dr. Frederick F. Tisdall has conducted a series of experiments at the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, under the instructions of the provincial minister of health, to determine the curative effect of the sun's rays in diseases of rickets. According to information given out at a meeting of the Society for the Study of Children's Diseases, held in Toronto yesterday, these experiments have proved eminently successful, the results being "of tremendous public health value." It has long been known, of course, that sunlight plays an important role in the maintenance and restoration of health, and modern medical practice takes full advantage of the fact.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

The head of the English Federation of Merchant Tailors, who predicts that knickerbockers will be worn not only by golfers but also by motorists, hikers and devotees of outdoor sports, ought to see some of the motor tourists on this continent and take warning.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

It is said that nearly 2,000,000 letters wrongly addressed found their way to the dead letter branch of the Canadian Post Office department last year. Most of these were due to sheer carelessness in writing the addresses. It is a curious feature that more than 1,000 were registered. It is said that 819,450 were rescued from dead letters in Canada last year. Carelessly directed letters bring to the individual inconvenience and sometimes loss, but the increasing number of dead letters is also causing the Post Office officials a great deal of trouble and extra work. Citizens can assist by taking pains to address their mail properly.—Brantford Expositor.

LILACS

(Miriam A. Sickafoos, in Saturday Night.)

O, lovely lilacs, suave, and purple white,
Of magic perfume, fragrance, half divine,
I scarce can bear your beauty, this bright morn,
It dims my eyes with tears, I know not why.
Whence comes your sweetness, only for a day?
What is your spell, this glory o'er the land?
Breathe you some message from the world afar
Where soft winds blow, and it is always Spring?
Sometimes I've wondered, if long, long ago,
Some essence exquisite of flowers unknown,
Pure blossoms scented, in God's garden grown,
Came drifting down through silver haze and gold,
Through shadowy cloud, and sunlit depths of blue,
To where, in clusters fair, the lilacs grew
And, seeking, found in them a place to dwell
And made to us, on earth, the air of heaven.

JUBILEE BROADCAST

Biggest Link Up Ever Attempted On This Continent

Ottawa, June 17.—Arrangements are rapidly nearing completion for the most extensive broadcasting on Confederation at Ottawa ever attempted on this continent. The plan is to link up not only all the Canadian broadcasting stations, but also a very large number in the United States. There will be three broadcasts, one as soon as dusky dawn is at the Pacific afternoon and one at the evening. The announcements are being made by the Bell Telephone Company in co-operation with the radio branch of the Department of Marine and Fisheries.

The last of the bells for the great carillon in Victory Tower were hoisted to this afternoon.

HOSPITAL GRANT IS LAID OVER

Council Advised to Dispose Of Lots In Monteagle Township

Ex-Warden Wiggins addressed the County Council this morning in regard to six, fifty acre lots in the Township of Monteagle and Herschel which the County now owns and which he advocated selling to another party. There is a gravel pit on the property which according to Supt. Simeon Fox has already yielded two thousand yards of gravel which has been utilized on County roads. He offered a price on the land the County to retain the right of way and also the privilege of reserving the gravel and stone.

The Warden and Supt. of Roads will look over the property and report to the Sales Committee.

The matter of granting $1500 towards a Red Cross Hospital at Coe Hill was laid over until the December session of County Council. It was felt in some quarters that the proximity of Coe Hill to Bancroft did not necessitate an other Hospital being erected in the North Country.

Special grants of $300 each were made to the Townships of Dungannon, Monteagle and Herschel and Limerick, the sum to be expended on the improvement of the roads.

A letter was received from the Kingston General Hospital referring to several accounts of County residents at the Institution which have not been paid. The cases were discussed individually regarding their ability to pay.

S. C. Donnan, Crown Attorney, addressed the Council in reference to John Fitzgibbon who is an inmate of the County House of Refuge. An effort was made to effect the transfer of the farm of 100 acres to the Township of Monteagle and Herschel. However it was later discovered that Fitzgibbon had already transferred the property to his wife. The stock and chattels amount approximately to $150. The matter was referred to the House of Refuge Committee.

NO ANNOUNCEMENT AS TO CHANGE OF DATE

Ottawa, June 17.—Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Conservative house leader, denied today that any decision had been reached to advance the date for holding of the Conservative National Convention in Winnipeg on Sept. 27 instead of Oct. 11. He declared that the reference he made in an address at Spencerville last night to a possible changing of the date was only to the effect that the proposal was to be considered by the convention committee regarding calling of the Winnipeg convention at the earlier date, thereby securing cheaper transportation rates.

STRIVE TO GUARD EUROPEAN PEACE

Danger Signals Flare On The Russo-Polish Frontier

Geneva, June 17.—Three steps to preserve the peace of Europe in the present troubled situation have been decided upon by representatives of the Locarno treaty powers attending the League of Nations Council here. The spokesman for the German delegation said today that Britain, France, Germany, Belgium and Italy had decided to make friendly representations to the Soviet and Polish Governments not to endanger the peace of their countries, to point out to Soviet that wholesale executions in Russia were creating an unfortunate impression abroad and to advise both Jugo-Slavia and Albania to adopt a conciliatory attitude and settle amicably the rupture of diplomatic relations.

The German spokesman denied that Foreign Minister Stresemann had been sounded by Sir Austen Chamberlain concerning the possibility of troops passing through German territory in case Russia attacked Poland. Germany, he said, was more anxious about the Franco-German relations than about the Russo-Polish situation.

Pan Troops Through Germany

The British delegation likewise repudiated the report that Sir Austen had sounded Dr. Stresemann regarding the passage of troops. However, it is deemed likely that there has been a general discussion concerning the operation of the League covenant and military or economic penalties in the event of any flare-up of war in Europe.

Military contributions by the League States is left to individual members but it is believed that the day will come when the jurists will be asked to study Germany's exact position in this respect as a League member and to determine whether the Locarno Pact particularly relieves her from permitting German territory to be used for the passage of troops which have the League's mandate to maintain peace.

MARKET SPOTLIGHT

MOWAT M&M SPECIALIZED STOCKS

MINING STOCKS

AMULET has been heavily bought in Rouyn, where traders have amassed sufficient buying power to make their influence felt in the market. The news on Amulet is constructive and enthusing. The new ore has been located on the 150 level. It begins to appear the most important thing on the property. Area may pick it up any day. It is hardly likely they will fail to get some of it. We expect this stock to go to $3.00.

TECK is higher on general rumors of "something doing" in the stock. It is quite possible that the 3 cent interim dividend will be made regular, quarterly. Argonaut lost considerable ground marketwise, on delays in getting ore to the new levels, and in realization that the future of the enterprise demands a change in capital structure.

KIRKLAND LAKE Gold Mines was off, despite the most substantial news yet to come from the property.

ST. LOUIS WILL WELCOME LINDY

Possibility That Aviator Hero Will Come To Canada

Mitchell Field, N. Y., June 17.—Col. Chas. Lindbergh hopped off at 8.17 a.m. to-day for St. Louis in the monoplane which carried him on his memorable flight across the Atlantic from New York to Paris. A great crowd outlined the runway and the large squad of police had a difficult time keeping people from the path of the plane.

Col Lindbergh hopes to reach St. Louis at 6.30 (Eastern Daylight Saving Time) this evening.

Addressing the aeronautical Chamber of Commerce last night Col. Lindbergh said "after a few days in St. Louis and two weeks, I hope, in Canada or some place like that, I'm coming back to New York to meet some of my old friends."

It was suggested in Ottawa yesterday that Lindbergh be asked to fly from Washington to Ottawa, on July 1.

DEATHS & FUNERALS

JOHN J. SHEA

The death occurred at Chicago yesterday of Mr. John J. Shea, a former well known resident of this city. Mr. Shea was a member of the 15th Battalion, Pioneer Corps and was overseas with the 59th Battalion, being in Germany when the armistice was signed. His wife, who was Miss Mary Fitzpatrick, survives, also his mother and three sisters. He was a member of St. Michael's Church. The funeral will be held on arrival of the noon train on Saturday to St. Michael's Church, thence to St. James cemetery.

LINDBERGH MAY COME

Suggested He Fly To Ottawa On Confederation Day

Ottawa, June 17.—Col. Lindbergh, our hero of the United States, will fly to Ottawa and arrive here the morning of Confederation Day became a message from the President of the United States to the people of Canada, if a suggestion already advanced by the committee in charge of plans for the celebration here is adopted. It has been passed on to the Department of External Affairs for communication to the authorities in Washington.

Such an event would add tremendously to the drawing power of the Jubilee celebrations in the capital and it is expected that it will be favorably considered by officials in the United States capital and by Col. Lindbergh himself.

TERRIFIC CYCLONE IN NORTH ONTARIO

Peterboro, June 17. - Stories of a terrific cyclone are filtering out of the north country today. Sweeping a narrow track a few miles west of Apsley, 25 miles north of Peterboro, the cyclone lifted the Gull Lake observation tower and carried it 500 feet. It is reported. Some pieces of the tower fell five miles away, and provisions were found floating on Gull Lake, three miles away. The tower was bolted to solid rock and girded at all corners.

Edward Wilson's cottage was lifted and moved some yards. A small bridge in Cook's Lake was stripped bare of every bolt and tree.

CORONACH WINS HARDWICKE

Ascot, Eng., June 17.—Lord Woolavington's "Coronach" won the Hardwicke Stakes to-day, with Lord Derby Brooke's "Resignacha," second and Somerville Tattersall's "Folliston" third.

FLARES TRACED TO LIGHTS FROM A POWER HOUSE

Search For Missing French Aviators Still Being Pressed

Quebec, June 17.—While in official circles the prevailing opinion is that the alleged distress signals sighted on Sunday evening by a party of fishermen, who included A. Lavoie, C.E., of Chicoutimi, were only the lights of the Price Brothers' power house at Shipshaw, there are still optimists who hold that the theory that the two airmen were in Northern Quebec has not been proved inaccurate.

Assistant Chief Forester Bedard received a message late this afternoon from Rudore Racine, forestry engineer in charge of the service at Roberval, which read as follows:

"Perland Township lower observers report sighting a light, which seemed to be flares and which appeared to be between the Shipshaw and Peribonka."

Traced To Power House

On the other hand, M. R. Kane, Manager of Price Brothers at Kenogami, on whose instructions observers manned the four towers of Price Brothers located in the area where the lights were first reported as coming from, sent the following message to The Globe:

"Last night observations from No. 1 Hy River tower definitely located lights reported previous night at Chute aux Galets on the Shipshaw River, where Price Brothers' electric power house is in operation, and upon which dam the high-power lights are in operation. In checking up bearing of lights originally reported seen by fishermen this is the Lavoie party from Lake St. Germain. It is obvious these were upon this dam."

This report, coming from a most reliable source in close contact with the situation around the Chicoutimi district, would seem to solve the mystery.

However, so many reports are current in Lake St. John and at Chicoutimi that instructions were issued by Mr. Bedard, Assistant Chief Forester, and by Price Brothers to their observers to remain on the watch the whole night again.

Other Signals Reported

"There is no doubt, from reports on hand by both the Government and Price Brothers, that, apart from the signals reported around Shipshaw, other alleged signals are said to have been seen by others.

Coupled with the previous report that a trapper named Georges Rousseau had heard an aeroplane motor on or about May 9 comes another story from Roberval to the effect that Indians met on their way down south a few days ago referred to some mysterious machine having been sighted on or about May 9 last.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

President John McIntosh of the Kiwanis Club notified the swimming minister at the Y that the club would become responsible for one of the trophies for the Y.M.C.A. Aeneas Shields Swim. In all five trophies are being donated and this assures a cup for the winner of each section. Ladies, juvenile, junior, senior and youngest member, whether girl or boy.

Just as soon as these trophies are received they will be on exhibit in some prominent down town window along with the R. J. E. Graham shield and the group photo of last year's swimmers. This photo of the group was taken at the summer home of Mr. G. P. Ostrom just previous to the commencement of the race last year. Mr. Ostrom who very kindly supplied the necessary accommodation for the swimmers at Roslemore last year, has again volunteered to render this service on July 1st.

Candidates for entry in this event are urged to get their entries in as soon as possible as this will greatly assist the committee in making the necessary arrangements for boats and attendants to accompany them during the swim. Entry forms are available now at the office of the Y.M.C.A. and along with this form, attached, is the list of rules for the information of the swimmers. Don't delay—get your entry in right away.

SINCLAIR'S

Police Court

A young Toronto man appeared in Police Court this morning charged with issuing a worthless cheque to obtain goods. His case was remanded for a week.

Speaking to the Intelligencer later the young man claimed that he was absolutely innocent of wilfully trying to defraud anyone but that he had issued the cheque to a garageman in Canniffon, made out on an American bank and had marked it current account instead of savings account. The cheque, of course, was returned marked "no funds," and the garageman immediately had a warrant made out for the youth's arrest.

Newsy Neighborhood Notes

ESCAPED INJURY

Trenton, June 17.—What might have been a very serious, if not fatal accident, occurred here early Tuesday evening when a Chevrolet sedan, in transit to Belleville and driven by J. H. Payne struck and injured little six-year-old Effie Jean Spring of Sprint Street. The accident occurred at the corner of Dundas Street and Lorne Ave.

BIG ADDITION

Oshawa, June 17.—Announcement of the construction of a large addition to the factory of the Oriental Textiles Company is made by R. W. Millichamp, president and managing director. The cost of the new section is not given but the building will be 81 feet in breadth and 78 feet in depth, extending east from the recently completed section on Charles street. The new addition, like the recent extension, will be three stories high.

ONE HUNDRED WENT

Napanee, June 17.—Over one hundred people left yesterday morning for the annual excursion to Ottawa and the Experimental Farm. The excursion started from Kingston and three coaches were filled when it reached Napanee. These excursions are of great benefit to the people of the rural sections particularly the younger section which left yesterday being mostly farmers and their wives.

33 APPLICATIONS

Ottawa, June 17.—The dangerous years for married persons in the Dominion is when they are between the ages of 30 and 40 according to the latest statistics. Incidentally the figures available at the Bureau show that divorce is not a rich man's luxury, most of the applicants being tradesmen.

At the present time there are 58 divorce applications waiting for Parliament to open. Last year's high record of 106 is bound to be shattered, Senate officials say. Divorce is increasing all over the world and is naturally being reflected in Canada, last year there having been 606 divorces granted in all parts of the Dominion.

Deaths & Funerals

DANIEL BELNAP

The funeral of the late Daniel Belnap was held yesterday afternoon from the family home, Bonnycastle to Simond's Burying Ground, where the interment was made. Rev. J. S. Mc-Mullen conducted an impressive service at the house in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends and also officiated at the committal at the graveside. Appropriate music was rendered by the Rosemore Choir. A wealth of floral offerings also bore mute testimony of the sorrow caused by the passing of the late Mr. Belnap.

The bearers were four nephews of the deceased.

MRS ALBERT LAURENSON

The funeral of the late Mrs. Albert Laurenson was held on Tuesday afternoon from her late home 5th Concession of Thurlow to Victoria Cemetery where the interment was made. Rev. E. Farnsworth of Canniton United Church, assisted by Rev. J. Black, officiated at the service at the home and also at the committal at the graveside. Appropriate music was rendered by Gilead Church Choir. Many floral tributes bore silent testimony to the sorrow felt for the family in their bereavement.

The bearers were—Messrs. E. Huffman, W. Clare, E. Yorke, P. Yorke, H. Swan and D. B. Livingston.

MRS. REBECCA PRINGLE

All that was mortal of the late Mrs. Rebecca Pringle was yesterday morning laid to rest in the Belleville Cemetery, following an impressive service at the house, 12 Ridley Street, conducted by Rev. Dr. F. E. Maton, minister of Bridge Street United Church, which was largely attended. Many floral tributes were also in evidence for sorrowing relatives and friends.

The bearers were—Messrs. J. Wilkens, G. Mansell, W. Mossman, G. Clark, T. McKim and E. Irwin.

MRS. DAVID SCOTT

With a legion of sorrowing relatives and friends in attendance, all that was mortal of the late Mrs. David Scott, whose death occurred on Monday morning of this week, was laid to rest in the family plot Belleville Cemetery, following an impressive funeral service held at the family residence, Foxboro Road, which was conducted by Rev. J. H. Wright, Minister of Holloway Street United Church of which the deceased lady was a member and who also officiated at the committal at the graveside. Rev. Mr. Wright referred to the exemplary life of Mrs. Scott and offered words of comfort to the grief stricken husband and members of the family. During the service Mrs. Eageleton sang effectively "He Walks With Me and He Talks With Me". The wealth of flowers were also silent testimony from relatives and friends of the sorrow caused by the death of the deceased and the sympathy felt for the bereaved family.

The bearers were Messrs. A. C. Dafoe, C. L. Brownson, R. B. Hamilton, J. F. Hinchey, Peter VanAllen and Harry McKay.

TO RAISE FUNDS FOR CHURCH AID

London, June 14 (Canadian Press)—Fund to be raised in memory of the late Archbishop of York, and Very Rev. Lionel Ford, Dean of York, have made an appeal fund to be raised in a thank-offering for thirteen hundred years of Christian life in the North of England and for the preservation through the centuries of the Cathedral and Metro-political church of Peter.

As the instances of St. Paul's Cathedral and Westminster Abbey and also of Lincoln Cathedral and Durnham Castle have recently shown, the preservation of such monuments is inevitably a charge too great for any existing financial resources of the bodies entrusted with their care, while the character and claims of the buildings justify the call for much more than local help. In the case of York Minster the Dean says that £50,000 would not be enough for the needs that could be pleaded and £100,000 would not be too much.

Lord Hugh Cecil and the Lord Lieutenant of the North Riding puts the amount required at not less than £50,000, and the principles of support should be spread over a period of seven years.

The first essential is the preservation of the Chapter House windows and other medieval stained glass, for which at least £15,000, in addition to the £25,000 spent in late years is needed. At least £20,000 is required for the restoration of the stonework of the central tower, the choir, and the Lady Chapel, and the re-leading of the roofs of these parts of the fabric. Over £10,000 is required for the better heating of the Minster.

Long before the day of medieval castles surrounded by moats, every teric man built houses on piles driven into lake bottoms for protection against beasts and enemies.

BELLE THEATRE

Fox Films "Hills of Peril," which had its first showing at the Belle Theatre yesterday, is a splendid western thriller taking against a background of the California hills.

Unlike many Westerns, the story of this Fox Films feature is an important part of the picture. The plot is logical and well motivated and the many acts of daring, hard riding, suspense and thrills are the result of the Picture's motivation.

The "better half" of the famous vaudeville team of Murray and Oakland, the blonde and statuesque beauty, Vivien Oakland, appears in "Wedding Bills, the paramount picture starring

Women's News and Views

Oh, Dear, Here's a Woman We Can't Like

By ELSIE MARLOWE

She toted one to be sure and print this letter. Just as it was. So here goes.

DEAR ELSIE:

I am a young girl of eighteen and like to dress well, dance and have a good time. I have been working in an office for about three years and during that time have been on friendly terms with a young man who married a little over a year ago. Prior to his marriage he sometimes took me home from theatre parties given by the office, although we never went together much.

Well, about six months ago we started to go to the movies one evening a week, whenever there was some picture on that especially interested us both. I think you will agree with me there is no harm in that. His wife is rather a quiet girl, and he is lively and likes me because I am snappy and full of pep. Surely what we do is nobody's business but our own, when it is done outside of the office.

Well of course, some of the playdads old maids (get wise and skip ed to "spill the beans" but they didn't get anywhere. I gave it the lie and so did he, and they got squelched. I got married a few months ago but I still like this fellow and I know he still likes me so why shouldn't we go on just as before? I can get by with my husband; so can he with his wife.

Anyway, it is what they are all doing now—why not be up-to-date? I feel positive you will condemn me in this prank and open stand I take.

A 1927 REGULAR GIRL.

And now you have that off your chest, I suppose you think the whole world is sitting around with its tongue hanging out in wonder at you and your audacity?

It isn't.

It isn't even batting it's eyelash, blster, nor turning for a second look. For ever since the world began, the highway has been lined with speciments like you.

Weasels, for instance. And skunks. And chicken hawks and garden slugs and buzzards and bugs. All of these each in its own way share your technique. All are robbers and sneaks. All believe in doing as they please, even if it makes 'em unpopular with society. Like you, also, they are "frank and open" in the pursuit of their business —particularly the skunk. And society accepts them for what they are. And they are willing to be accepted.

Well, what of it?

If a critter is left on being a skunk why should anyone interfere? And if this is your idea of success, lady—hop to it. Youll have a lot of nice, refined company.

So that's that.

And now let's read something that will take that taste out of your mouths. Are you working in your garden these sweet, Summer evenings? Watching the light fade slowly from the sky and the soft blue wings of night droop low and lower over the pansies and pinkorettes, and the first star bloom like a sweet white rose, in the garden of the sky.

Then out this little song into your heart and let it sing to you while you work:

MY GARDEN

A garden is a lovesome thing God wot!
Rose plot,
Fringed pool,
Ferned grot—
The veriest school
Of peace; and yet the fool
Contends that God is not—
Not God in gardens! When the eve is cool?
Nay, but I have a sign;
'Tis very certain God walks in mine.
THOMAS EDWARD BROWN.

WHAT'S NEW

(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Tulle threatens to replace fringe and beads on the summer's evening frocks.

White chiffon velvet was used by Lan vin in developing a wedding gown for Pola Negri.

To frost panes:—Dissolve as much powdered alum as possible in half a cup of milk. Warm the glass then brush it on the table, and pour the alum mixture over it. The result should be very successful.

Novelty tweeds in tailored suits were endorsed at the Devon Horse Show, in Philadelphia, while sports coats also made use of tweeds, principally in black and white and grayish tones, and the suits featured brown and greenish mixtures, with a number of Oxfords and several blue tones.

Velvet as a trimming seems to have waited longer than the traditional seven years to come into fashion again, but, however, tardy its reappearance, it is now numbered among the most effective of the novelties and Phillipe et Casson use it in red on their black new cloth or silk gowns.

The return of the sodet is to occur simultaneously with the coming of fall say London leaders of style who declare it will appear in sportswear, striking a comparatively new note and one well-known designer is using angora stocking trim for several of her fall three-piece models, and in the skirts is using lengthodets of crepe de chine or stockinette in a contrasting shade.

Will kill many times more flies for the money than any other fly killer. Read and will kill flies all day, every day, for three weeks. At all Grocers, Druggists and General Stores—10c and 25c per package.

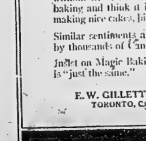

"Would not be without it for anything"

"My mother," says Mrs. Richard James, Victoria, B.C., "has used Magic Baking Powder for ever so long and would not be without it. I also am using it for all my baking and think it is the best there is for making nice cakes, light biscuits, etc."

Similar sentiments are held and expressed by thousands of Canadian housewives.

ASK YOUR BAKER FOR HOVIS "10-DAY"

A-lvice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I've just arrived home after an extended trip abroad. When I left here four years ago, a young man whom I still love dearly slipped a diamond ring on my finger and asked me to wear it forever.

I came back to find that he was engaged to another girl. He broke the engagement when he heard I was in town. But he has offered me no explanation. Do you think I ought to accept his attentions?

SALLYKINS.

SALLYKINS: The situation explains itself. Perhaps that is why the young man found an explanation necessary.

A four year separation is often disastrous to even the deepest of attachments. You are indeed fortunate that the young man found that he still cared for you—to the extent that the engagement contracted in your long absence has ceased to have any meaning. His love has stood a very severe test. It has weathered a long absence and survived another but minor attachment.

You have every cause for confidence and elation. By all means accept a renewal of his attentions. You have much that is new to learn about each other. Each of you has developed and grown independently of the other. You have a delightful period of exploration before you. Give yourselves plenty of time in which to find each other again. You will probably discover that there is every hope for a relationship richer and deeper than anything you have known before.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young girl in my teens and look considerably older than I really am. Can you advise me what to do in order to look young er. I am rather tall and plump.

DOLLY.

DOLLY: Excess weight adds years to any girl's appearance. My best advice to you is to reduce. The best physician give you is sane and wholesome reducing diet and go on a strict regime of exercises.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Balance your dinner with your desserts. With a vegetable dinner serve a rich dessert containing milk and eggs; but with a substantial meat dinner, fruit or a light pudding is a wise decision. If you start your dinner with a fruit cup, select a vegetable salad, but if your start your dinner with a cream soup a light fruit salad is good. Avoid repetition of any sort, such as tomato soup and tomato salad.

A paper cup is a very useful article in the kitchen. Keep one near the flour box, another in the sugar and keep one to use as a funnel, as they bend to a very narrow angle. A very small salt or pepper shaker can be filled without spilling. They are also useful as measuring cups if you remember to purchase a standard size.

It is possible to use practically the entire stalk of asparagus if the outer layers are removed from the tender portion before the asparagus is cooked. Break the stalk as far as it can be broken easily and peel the remainder. Cook these ends until they are almost tender, then add the tips and more tender portion of the stalk.

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN

By Mildred Barbour

He stared at her—was she deliberately trying to bewilder him?

"But it's still a half-hour till midnight," he protested.

She smiled aggravatingly.

"Remember, I'm still a small town product."

"You don't look it."

"Hot" A mocking flicker appeared in her eyes. "How fortunate!"

To his surprise, he found himself going without further protest.

"Is she expecting some one else?" he asked himself, as he descended in the elevator.

To his further dismay, he found himself lingering in the shadow of the park entrance opposite her apartment building, despite the chill night wind. But her living-room windows were dark at once, and presently the lights throughout the apartment were out.

Dearborn returned to his club, considerably shaken by his own emotions.

CHAPTER 44.

Belated Conscience

One afternoon, several days later, Sybil was motoring with Dearborn through the park when a familiar figure brought them to a standstill next - to a rakish little car driven to Sybil's surprise—by Arthur Winslow.

Arthur hailed Dearborn and lifted his hat to his companion before he recognized her. But, as their glances met, he reddened, and, seizing the first opening, gave a sign.

"You know Mr. Winslow?" Sybil remarked coolly.

Dearborn, blandly unaware that Sybil had guessed the truth about the false letter of introduction, answered carelessly:

"Oh, rather! His firm handles a lot of my investments. Winslow is a pretty smart salesman. If he keeps on at his present pace, he may get a silent partnership, one of these days.

This was disturbing news to Sybil.

Had she allowed her to brag about Arthur's ruin, only to have her efforts rebound to the young man's benefit.

It was maddening, she thought resentfully, that Fate time after time, should come to the rescue of her victims and undo all her work.

"But—er—I didn't know you and he were acquainted," said Dearborn.

"Oh, yes." Sybil shrugged he" slim shoulders. "In fact, Arthur wrote me to New York," she added calmly. "We eloped from our home town sweetheart, sunrise of a frosty autumn morning."

Dearborn shook his head to look at her. She was smiling provokingly. Her eyes, encountering his, held the same mocking flicker that he knew so well.

Her frankness disarmed him. Her elusiveness humiliated him.

"You left him in New York for bigger and better game, I dare say!" he remarked.

"Yes. How clever of you to guess! Or did Arthur tell you?"

Dearborn felt that he would like to shake her. She was so calm, so cool, so assured. Did she think him a fool?

He determined to show her, and, at the same time, that curious aloofness about her held him back.

He sought Arthur, under the pretext of buying some bonds. Over luncheon at his club, he brought up the subject of Sybil.

"You lost a pretty nice little plaything, when you lost her," he said to Arthur. "Do you care to tell me just what happened?"

Arthur flushed and crumbled his roll with nervous fingers.

"I—" He lifted troubled eyes to his host. "You both know, I'm a little bit ashamed of myself. Ever since that day we passed Sybil on the street and you asked who she was, and I told you we'd come to New York together, I haven't felt quite right. Because—I deliberately gave you a wrong impression of her. We did come to New York together. I was crazy about her, but she turned me down flat—ten minutes after we'd arrived. Naturally, I didn't like to admit that to another man, so I just let you think whatever you chose."

"I see," said Dearborn gravely—but he didn't. He was sure that Arthur was lying this time—not the first time Hadn't Sybil as good as admitted that the previous statement was the truth?

Jus what, he wondered, was Winslow's object in resurrecting and attempting to make him see Sybil in a different light? Did Arthur think that he might want to marry the girl?

To his utter dismay, it came like a blinding flash to Dearborn that, unconsciously, he had been entertaining just such an idea. There were only four days in a year, he was sure, in love of his freedom; the other was the conviction that Sybil wasn't all a bit absurd.

Arthur's confession was a straw at which Dearborn clutched to save himself from the torrent that had been fast carrying away his wariness. Sybil had had him puzzled—he had to admit that. In his infatuation, he had been spending money upon her recklessly. There had been dinners, flowers, entertainment—all sorts of expensive attentions. He knew he would have been fool enough to have showered gifts upon her, if she had been inclined to accept them, which he had not apparently. He, the worldwise, the man about town, the sardonic-eyed, who had watched Broadway beauties—Broadway butterflies—come and go for more years than he cared to count.

"I don't know why you've told me this, Winslow," he said to Arthur, "It wasn't at all necessary."

"I know it wasn't," confessed Arthur. "I dont quite know myself why I felt that I had to. Guess I must be knob frames.

It Rid the System of Rheumatism

Lasting relief was obtained when the uric acid poisons were cleansed from the system by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

After all there is nothing like Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to get rid of the poisons in the system which cause pains in the joints—and rheumatism. Dr. Chase's Liniment affords relief from the pain but to get rid of the cause it is necessary to go deeper and regulate the action of kidneys, liver and bowels.

Mrs. Ada Kincade, Drayton, Ont., writes:—

"For years my husband suffered from rheumatism. He tried treatment from many doctors, but received little relief. He also tried several remedies recommended, without avail. Two years ago after he had been unable to move or turn in bed for several weeks, a neighbor came in and recommended Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I went down and purchased a box of these, which seem to have entirely relieved him, for he has never had an attack since. I take great pleasure in recommending these pills to anyone sufferior from rheumatism."

Straight Lines Having Many Unusual Points

Original frocks, like original theorems, are often developed along geometric lines, but the geometry of this look is certainly not of the plain variety. For everything not of the plain variety. For everything about it is refreshingly different; even the usual "M.E.D." stamp of success being replaced in each case by the three letter motif in the square's monogram. The that form the square's outline takes a band of the square neckline takes a band of the square neckline takes a band of the square neck

ANCIENT SEWING MACHINES ARE COMMON IN B. C.

153,040 Owners Entered In Unique Contest—Oldest 73 Years

Vancouver, B.C., June 16.—A two-year-old automobile may be considered old, but there are sewing machines in use in British Columbia cities that came to this part of Canada many years before the railroads traversed the Rockies.

All through the province, especially in the interior centres, there are sewing machines that were brought to the coast on sailing ships around Cape Horn.

A few days ago, a continent-wide search was made for the oldest sewing machine in the United States and Canada. Letters were received from 153,040 owners entering machines in the contest. More than 100,000 of these were at least forty years old, but the winning machines were manufactured before the beginning of the American Civil War, or Canadian Confederation.

The oldest sewing machine in Canada is said to be the property of Mrs. P. W. Willis of Cranbrook, B. C. It is 73 years old and yet it is still in regular service, and as sound as when it was first used.

SMALL HOPE OF GETTING HAND

London, Eng., June 14 (C.P.).—The odds that in a game of bridge each player will receive an entire suit on the deal are 2,050 billions to one against. But this miracle happened recently in a game at the Cavendish otel, Bedford. The exact division of the suits among the players took place in the course of the third rubber with the nine packs, which was not new when the game began.

"If it had occurred in the first deal," said J. C. E. Robinson, a Bedford Chartered Surveyor who was one of the players, "I should have thought that someone had been playing Patience with the cards."

All four players have sent a certificate of the authenticity of the deal to the Editor of the "Auction Bridge Magazine."

LINDY WANTED HIS PLANE GOES FOR IT IN THE NIGHT

New York, N.Y., June 16.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh sprang another surprise early today when he suddenly decided that he would like to have his own plane, "the Spirit of St. Louis" which he had left behind in Washington on Monday. At 3.05 a.m. he hopped off in a borrowed plane from Mitchell Field and at 7.57 a.m. was back at Mitchell field with the other half of his famous "We".

The trans-Atlantic flyer was attending a midnight benefit performance at a local theatre in aid of the families of the missing French airmen, Nungesser and Coli. Suddenly at two o'clock, "Lindy" left the theatre unknown to most of the six thousand in attendance. The Colonel was dressed in full evening clothes, but over this put on a flying suit borrowed at the field, besides a helmet and goggles. He arrived at Belling Field, Washington at 4.46 a.m., and started back for New York at 5.40 arriving two hours and 43 minutes later.

TO DEMOLISH THE LONGEST WOODEN SPAN IN WORLD

Quesnel, B.C., June 16.—Said to be the longest wooden span in Canada, if not in the world, will be demolished within a few days by engineers when they take down the 262-foot Howitzen on the old bridge across the Quesnell River here. A new steel bridge is to take its place the third that has been built across the river at this point.

The first bridge was constructed in 1874 only to be washed away the following spring. It was rebuilt immediately, however. Thirty years ago the second one was built. Before the first bridge was installed, Alfred Carson, Quesnel's oldest resident, used to operate a ferry across the river.

The Quesnel river first came into prominence in the sixties when it was traversed by miners to and from the rich gold creeks of the Cariboo country. Packtrains and prospectors used to ford the river on a crude span of giant cedar logs.

TRENTON HOPES FOR NEW PLANT

Negotiating With English Industry For Establishment of branch

Trenton May get another new industry if Mr. Harry Steenburg, who is a native of Hastings County and holds a tender spot in his heart for Trenton, has anything to say. He is connected with a Border City Real Estate Company and he is doing a great deal in the way of opening up the hinterland of this grand-old county, and educating foreign capitalists to the tremendous natural resources in the way of water power, shipping facilities, and mineral wealth which it possesses.

Mr. Steenburg is at the present time in communication with a large English concern who are contemplating the erecting of a plant in Canada in either Kingston, Trenton or Toronto. The plant will be a large industry manufacturing eight different products underneath the one roof. The transforming of garnet, which is used in emery wheels, sand paper, etc., from the crude to the finished product is one of the processes which the company are undertaking.

When spoken to on Tuesday, Mr. Steenburg expressed confidence in that Trenton will be chosen as the site for the proposed plant. This, he said, is because of the town's excellent location, both regards exporting the finished product and the transportation of the raw material from the mines and fields in the northern part of the county. Mr. Steenburg said that the next two weeks or a month would bring forth some more definite action on the part of the English officials.

It was a real Jubilee address from one who has been in the political life of this province, for many years.

Officers of the Association elected were:

Hon. Presidents—H. T. Fitzgerald, Col. T. D. Johnston.

President—J. P. Lancaster.

HAVE COME UPON INDIAN'S MIRROR

Hazelton, B.C., June 16.—The discovery of an extremely rare stone mirror used by the Indians of northern British Columbia in prehistoric times is reported by a party of Dominion government archeologists who have been excavating on the ancient Gitksan village site south of here.

The "mirror" takes the form of a thin slab of black stone, one end of which is narrow for a handle, and the other end has its flat surfaces highly polished.

One of the Hazelton Indians has demonstrated that the mirrors were used by wetting them, and has shown that the wet polished surface actually reflects the human face so clearly that even individual hairs and the color of the eyes may be seen. The Indian states that the mirrors were used by the natives when they were painting their faces for dances and ceremonies in the days before they could buy looking glasses from white men.

WILL DREDGE LAKE FOR MORE NUGGETS

Quesnel, B.C., June 16.—So much gold has been taken out of the ground around the shore of Eight-Mile Lake, near here, that plans are being made to scoop up the mud that lies at the lake bottom and extract the nuggets found there.

A drill is already on the ground and drilling will be undertaken as soon as weather is favorable. The drill will be installed on pontoons floating on the lake surface.

Already a total of $750,000 has been taken from the ground around the edge of Eight-Mile Lake. It was here that Pat McKenzie, and his partner, Abe Scott, discovered gold about thirty years ago while on a fishing trip. Scott afterwards sold his interest to Billy Ogden, an old-time prospector for $150. A syndicate which took the claim over from Ogden for $10,000 took out more than $500,000. Later on the lake was lowered and an additional $100,000 recovered.

Nineteen golden weddings have been celebrated already this year in East Shinton, England, a village of 5,000 population. The total years of the couples amount to 2,767 years.

YANKEES WIN AS RUTH POLES OUT 22ND HOME RUN

Lindbergh Receives Great Ovation At Mammoth Gotham Stadium

New York, June 17.—Slim Lindbergh got to Paris on time, but he was one and a half hours too late to see Babe Ruth hit his 22nd home run of the year yesterday. The Bambino unloaded a prodigious sock at about four o'clock and it was later than that before the famous flyer arrived at the Yankee Stadium.

Mr. Ruth was rather cut up over the episode. "I have been saving that homer for Lindbergh," said George after man sadly, "and then he doesn't show up. I guess he thinks this is a twilight league."

The Babe wasn't the only person who waited wistfully for the flying colonel to appear. The entire game, which the Yanks won, incidentally, was pulled in an atmosphere of tense expectancy—13,000 folks waiting for something to happen that did not happen. The place was all clustered up with cops, who paraded through the aisles and marched through the bleachers.

When informed that Colonel Lindbergh was certain to be the big game, Mr. Ruth got out his choice war club, polish ed up his batting eye and took a few practice swings. He was all set at 2.30, but the hero still wasn't in sight. Umpire George Hildebrand laid the game for twenty-five minutes—an unprecedented concession—and finally ordered the boys to get going at 3.55.

The Chicago White Sox made it two straight over the Athletics at Philadelphia, winning by a score of 4 to 0. The White Sox scored all their runs during Howard Ehmke's term in the box. Hunnefield hit a homer in the first inning and in the third Bill Barrett hit for the circuit following a double by Hunnefield. A single by Falk Clancy's double and a sacrifice fly gave Chicago its last run of the game in the fourth inning.

Rallies in the eighth and ninth innings combined with Stoner's airtight pitching gave the Tigers a six to one victory in the first of a four-game series at Washington. Stoner was effective from coming on a fielder's choice after Reeves had fanned in the eighth. The Tigers found Thurston for eight safeties.

In a free hitting game Boston today defeated Cleveland, 11 to 10, opening a series at Boston. The winners used five pitchers and the losers three, Jamieson led the attack for Cleveland with a triple and three singles. Fothergrad returned to centre field for the Red Sox and played a sterling game.

DOUBT THAT McGRAW WILL RETIRE YET

New York, June 16.—Advices received by New York newspapers from correspondents with the New York Giants in St. Louis cast doubt on the statement credited to John McGraw by the St. Louis Globe-Star to the effect that he would turn over the managership of the team to Rogers Hornsby next season.

GIANTS DEFEAT CARDINALS 10-5

Hornsby Has Perfect Day With Three Singles And Homer

St. Louis, Mo., June 17.—St. Louis celebrated Rogers Hornsby day Wednesday, but Rog held his own private little celebration yesterday afternoon. When he finished knocking three Card mud pitchers to four corners of Sportsman's Park it was just as well that the local citizenry did their shouting twenty-four hours before.

They had nothing to cheer about yesterday. Three singles and a homer which Hornsby managed to connect for accounted for four Giant runs and it made not quite enough but a perfect one for him. As Terry tossed in a single, a triple and a home run in the opposite direction, which drove in just as many tallies, very little else need be said in explanation of how the New Yorkers earned their 10-5 victory.

However, the bruising attack of Mc-Graw's mighty maulers has proved insufficient before because of weak work from the box, and prominent mention should be given to Mr. Ray Barnes. This young man from Kansas has been the only pitcher on the New York staff who has shown any knowledge of what consistency means during the present baseball trip.

The league-leading Pirates kept a step ahead of the onrushing Chicago Cubs by defeating Boston, 6 to 0, at Pittsburgh yesterday. Lee Meadows held the Braves to six scattered hits and chalked up his ninth victory of the season against one defeat. Kent Greenfield, traded by New York recently, made his initial appearance on the mound for Boston, and was batted hard.

Chicago ran its winning streak to 12 games, setting a season record, yesterday by defeating Philadelphia at Chicago, 7 to 2. Herb Pruett, who started for the visitors, blew up in the third inning when the Cubs scored four runs on three walks, an error and two hits. Jack Scott halted the rally but was touched for a home-run by Hartnett, with a man on base for two more runs, while Stephenson's triple netted the final run.

Collecting 13 hits off the combined efforts of three Brooklyn hurlers, the Reds of the Robins at Cincinnati by 10 to 1. Adolfo Luque was on the mound for Cincinnati, and he kept seven hits wel scattered. Luque contributed a triple with two aboard in the sixth inning, and then scored on a wild peg by Partridge. A double by Carey brought in Meusel with the lone Brooklyn run in the eighth.

INTELLIGENCER LOSE TO FRANKFORD 8-5

The Intelligencer soft-ballers lost to the Frankford team on the latter's diamond last evening by an 8-5 score.

The second inning saw the home team score five runs and the newspaper boys were unable to overhaul them.

O'Donahue pitched nice ball for the visitors but his support at times was ragged.

Pollard in right field for the Frankfordites pulled two or three sensational catches and F. Meacham at second base turned in a nice game.

The local team are arranging games with Stirling and Tweed teams.

F. Munn had a home run. A return game will be played in Belleville in the near future.

Hill umpired the bases.

The line-up:

Frankford—Lawrence, Howard, F. Munn, Meachem, Pollard, Walsh Waddell, Eymer, Cameron.

Intelligencer—Cook, Rooney, O'Donahue, O'Brien, Doyle, McPherson Curry, Arnott, Brockhurst.

TORONTO DROPS 4TH STRAIGHT

Faulkner Is Hammered From Box By Slugging Bears

New York, June 17.—The Bears made it four in a row at Newark when they defeated the Toronto Leafs by the score of 8 to 7. Letty Faulkner was hit hard and was taken out in the sixth frame, being relieved by Cordonier, who held the Bears safe Beasley pitched good ball until the ninth, when he was taken out after Hyles hit a two-bagger with the bases full. Cheves took Beasley's place and retired the side without any more runs.

Scoring two runs in the tenth inning, Rochester won at Reading, 6-4, to take the final game of the series. Gillobley and Mormville produced the hits in the extra inning that scored the winning runs.

Buffalo took both games of a double-header at Jersey City, shutting out the Black Cats by 9 to 0 in the first game and trimming them again 6 to 3, in the second. The Bisons romped off with the opener, collecting no less than 15 base hits off Coffman and Allen, while Sterling Stryker was having little trouble scattering seven Jersey City hits. Buffalo took the second game with a four-run rally in the eighth inning, driving Ellis off the mound and continuing the assault on Parks.

The Syracuse Club evened the Baltimore series at 2-all today by trouncing the Orioles, 7 to 3. The scoring started in the fourth, the locals taking two against the visitors. In the fifth a flurry of hitting featured by Benson's circuit smash with one on, netted the Stars five and put them out of reach of the Dunmen.

CONFEDERATION AND AFTER—

Sixty Years of Progress

The activities of the Red Cross for soldiers did not end with the Armistice. The need of some form of action to correct the conditions responsible for the large number of unfit men of military age discovered in Canada resulted in the arrangement of a Peace-Time program of work. So, in addition to its war work, the Red Cross has assumed the duty of educating the nation to better habits of living.

In this capacity the society acts as a voluntary auxiliary to the Department of Health. The Red Cross is daily doing "its bit" for those disabled in the Great War. Weekly visits are paid the disabled soldiers confined in hospitals and comforts and extras are distributed to relieve the monotony of hospital life. The soldier fretting over his family or his business finds a sympathetic friend in the Red Cross visitor, who leaves nothing undone to relieve the worry. Red Cross convalescent Homes and special workshops, as well as parcels of comforts and necessities for himself and family give the soldier settler and the unemployed, not only valuable aid but the assurance that the services of the Empire are not without appreciation.

That health education may be properly and permanently taught no fewer than one hundred and thirty-eight thousand school children are enrolled in over five thousand class rooms under the banner of the Junior Red Cross, pledged to its program of health, service to others and good citizenship.

Over five thousand crippled children have been restored to health as a result of the pennies saved by contemporaries. The juniors of Alberta and Saskatchewan have established a travelling hospital in their respective provinces. Under this branch Red Cross fresh air cottages and baby clinics are doing good work.

Health education among the adults takes the form of Home Nursing classes nearly twelve thousand women and girls have been instructed in the elements of nursing and the principles of healthy living and hygiene in the home.

Through the medium of its Outpost hospitals and nursing stations the Red Cross provides skilled professional service in unorganized areas. Last year two thousand one hundred and thirty-eight patients were nursed, seven hundred and fort-three of these being confinement cases, most of whom would otherwise have been unattended. There are thirty-nine Outpost Hospitals, but if funds were permitted many more would be in operation.

In the Red Cross Seaport nurseries in Quebec St. John and Halifax the immigrant mothers and children are given rest and refreshment on their arrival. Last year thirty thousand new Canadians were thus welcomed and given advice and assistance. In this connection twelve thousand families were kept in touch with by means of follow-up cards.

The Red Cross is always in readiness to aid towns and villages burned to the round and areas swept by forest fires and cyclones.

The Society encourages the training and employment of Public Health Nurses 6ths, strives to promote the observance of rules for the prevention of disease. It also publishes and distributes public health literature.

Land Hunger in the West

Eager to file on certain blocks of land in the Rural District, west of Red Deer, Alberta, three men, John Pahanson, Sergus Jorgeson and C. W. Long, who already have farms in that district, took up their positions on the steps of the Red Deer land office May 25, and remained there until the morning of June 8, when the land was thrown open for filing. A hilly north-east wind making them shiver, they erected a shelter made from a carpet within which they placed their bed rolls. C. W. Long was caught by the camera as he occupied the chair by the door on his tour of sentry go. They were on after the same piece of land and therefore worked in co-operation, relieving each other for meals and during sleep hours. The photograph shows the eagerness with which land is snapped up in the West along the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Albert College Celebrates Her Seventieth Annual Convocation

Albert College last night celebrated her 70th Annual Convocation and in the presence of a large and representative gathering, the successful students were presented with medals, diplomas and certificates at the memorable celebration.

With Dr. C. W. Bishop, the Principal in the chair, Rev. Dr. E. N. Baker, Principal Emeritus of the College, Rev. H. A. Kent, Principal of Queen's University Theological College, Rev. Dr. F. E. Maisel, Rev. L. S. Wight and Mr. H. W. Ackerman occupied the platform in the fine new Memorial Chapel, and some brilliant oratory marked the occasion.

In his address Dr. C. W. Bishop, Principal of the College, gave an interesting resume of the year's work now accomplished. "While" he said, "this College has actually been in existence for 70 years, in terms of the new College it is the first annual convocation. The major change in the College took place thirty years ago, until which time Albert had degree conferring powers. The change came as a consummation of the union of the branches of the Methodist Church when degree conferring powers were given up.

There were 70 students registered at the College during the year, twelve of whom for various reasons have dropped out and now at the end of the term 50 of the original ranks are with us and we have the largest school which has just started on its career and which we expect will be an ever increasingly important branch. The prospects are that the present residence capacity will be filled to capacity at the opening of the coming year."

Reviewing the outstanding events of the year the Doctor referred to the larger contributions which have been made which include the endowment of a chair by Mr. R. F. Ackerman, of Petersboro, in memory of his son the late Lieut. Arthur Ackerman, who fell during the Great War, the gift of $25,000 from J. W. McConnell, of Montreal, to be devoted to the completion of the building, $15,000 from J. H. County, of Toronto, $10,000 from Sir Joseph Flavelle, and the same amount from Mr. E. R. Wood, of Toronto.

Dr. Bishop particularly stressed the splendid spirit of cooperation existing between the students and staff and expressed keenest appreciation of the work done by the different members of the staff.

Referring to changes in the staff for the coming year, Dr. Bishop announced that Mr. H. S. Hill leaves tomorrow and has a warm tribute to the part he had played in forwarding the athletic life of the school. Mr. McCutcheon leaves shortly to pursue the study of law, and Mr. Walter Smith has secured a year's leave of absence to study in the University of Chicago under the fellowship granted to him.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS FOR WESTERNERS

Winnipeg, June 18.—"Are we downhearted, No!" is the slogan of the farmers in the vicinity of Minnedosa, Manitoba, in fact all over the west, said Charles Murphy, farming in Western lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway, on his return from an inspection trip, that terminated this morning. "Wheat, is all-seeded and the big percentage of it is up. The most noticeable feature, however, is Mr. Murphy's opinion, is the amount of coarse grain being sown. This is not unusual to see plowing, disking and seeding outfits working together in the magic field. Spring work is going on in one field while in the next there are threshing outfits receiving last year's crop. While the color of this grain is not quite so good, its standard of quality is excellent.

FIFTEEN PEOPLE IDENTIFY WILSON

Pick Him Out As "The Strangler" From Group of Prisoners

Winipeg, Man., June 18.—Virgil Wilson, alias Earl Nelson, alleged "Strangler" charged with the murder of two persons here last week was in Regina last Sunday.

Identification of Wilson as the man who stayed at the Lone Arrow room ing house of Mrs. W. J. Rowe, in Regina was made at police head quarters last night. A woman who was at the boarding house last Sunday came to Winnipeg and made the identification. From a group of men, standing in a line in the chief of detective office, the woman picked out as the Regina visitor. Her name was not revealed to the police.

To all intents persons identified Wilson yesterday, including the latter by eye, his bail under guarantee of the police was fixed at $5,000.

That's The Bride!

Winnipeg, June 18.—The claim of evidence against the prisoner charged with the murder of Mrs. Emily Patterson and Leo Heaps, Winnipeg victims of "The Stranger," tightened this after noon when Mrs. J. L. Hill, rooming house proprietor, identified him as the man who rented the room in which the bodies of Mrs. Dewan was found.

From a group of prisoners in the bull pen of the city jail, Mrs. Hill picked out Wilson suspect as her transient lodger.

"That's the brute; I'd recognize him among a thousand," Mrs. Hill said as she pointed an accusing finger at the man who previously, police had been identified as the "gorilla man" slayer of a score of defenceless women in Canada and the United States.

Fingerprints Are Sent

Seattle, Wash., June 18.—Fingerprints believed to have been left by the slayer of Mrs. Florence P. Monk here last Thanksgiving eve today were sent to the Winnipeg police for comparison with those of Virgil Wilson, held in that western city as "The Stranger." Jewellery valued at $10,000 was taken from the Monk home at the time the elderly widow was strangled to death.

LANDED SAFELY

Attempt To Break Non-Stop Non-Stop Record Established By Chamberlain

Cromwell, Lincolnshire, Eng., June 18.—Lieuts. C. R. Carr and P. H. MacWarth hopped off at 12.41 o'clock this afternoon in a British bombing plane for India in an attempt to break the non-stop distance record held by Clarence Chamberlain in his New York to Germany flight. The fliers have expressed the hope of covering 5,000 miles. No definite destination has been set but they will aim for Karachi a distance of 4,100 miles.

Lieut. Carr in a previous attempt last month was forced down in the Persian gulf. He was then accompanied by Lieut. Gillman.

Crowds at the field stood silent until the plane which ran 800 yards before rising, cleared the fence at the end and slowly mounted into the air. The machine was so heavily loaded that it had attained a height of only 20 feet when it crossed the boundary of the field.

Forced Down By Defect.

Martlesham, Suffolk, Eng., June 18.—The British long distance fliers, Lieuts. Carr and MacWorth were forced down at the end of a non-stop flight attempt after making a start from Cranwell for their flight to India.

The aviators were forced to descend because of a minor defect and despite the great load which their machine carried for its long trip, landed successfully. Martlesha is about 199 miles from Cranwell.

MIKEL STRONG ON SENDING DELINQUENTS TO CHURCH

A young man aged 16 years appeared in Police Court this morning charged with stealing $45 from Edward Bassball, a milkman. The youth took the money Thursday June 13th and evidently had a good time with it, treating himself royally with the "beers." of cash." He was given a suspended sentence by Magistrate Mikel, of two weeks gaol. His father made restitution to Bassball.

When asked the reason for his son's delinquency, the father replied that the boy was running around too much at night and was picking up with bad company. In sentencing the lad Magistrate Mikel said that perhaps a short sentence would be better than a long prison sentence, but ended up by giving the youthful thief a two year suspended sentence, with certain strings attached. The strings take the form of the boy having to go his church whenever there is a service, and going to Sunday School too. He must also be in all the streets and home by 9.30 evening evening, and must not go around pool room or dance hall. With a gleam in his eye that belied the severity of the young delinquent, the latter left the Police Court with his son.

STRAWBERRIES FAIL TO APPEAR

Only One Box Locally Grown On Market This Morning

Marketing this morning had not a dull moment for the scores who hurried about acquiring the fresh fruits and vegetables offered in crowded truck and basket loads. Lettuce seemed to be the most plentiful product and sold at ten cents a bunch or two for twenty-five cents. Radishes and onions sold at 5 cents a bunch or 2 for 10 cents.

But one box of strawberries was offered and the rather dingy looking fruit sold at 20 cents per box, a forerunner of plenty during the coming week if the weather holds. Potatoes are cheaper in price, only the Ontarioans being willing to pay the price named, $3.00 a bag. Cauliflower and spinach sold at 40 cents a peck and apples at the same price.

On the inside market live stock augmented the plentiful offerings and buyers of peeping chicks proved almost irresistible to many who had never before contemplated chicken raising but stood ready to pay cash for the other ramshine box load consisted of four tiney white rabbits which sold at 25 cents each.

Eggs took a big jump selling at 30 cents a dozen or three cents more than last week. Butter brought between 40 and 45 cents a pound and cream 25 and 40 cents a pint. Chickens were sold at 81 each and small, this year's birds, at from $1.50 to $2 a pair. Some fat old hens sold as high as $2 each and were readily picked up by the shoppers. Meat remained stationary, pork selling at from 24 to 27 cents a pound and beef at from 11 to 20 cents. While fish sold at 18 cents a pound and was guaranteed "caught this morning."

NAVAL QUESTION OPEN FOR FULL DISCUSSION NOW

British Sea Lord Declares Whole Disarmament Matter Up

OTHERS TO JOIN

Three Power Conference Starts—France and Italy May Join

Geneva, June 18.— An indication that British may seek to reopen the question of the size of cruisers was seen in some quarters in a declaration made by Rt. Hon. W. C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty, on his arrival today to attend the three power naval conference with the United States.

The declaration of Mr. Bridgeman was that all questions concerning the limitation of warships would open for discussion at this conference which could make it easier for the nations not participating in the conference to adhere later to any principles agreed upon. This was an illusion to France and Italy although what, it is thought, Britain would hesitate to make a binding accord concerning auxiliary craft, particularly submarines.

OMINOUS STATE IN EUROPE NOW

Naval Veteran Foresees Imminent and Sweeping Political Upheaval

Toronto, June 18.—The situation in Europe is ominous, and the continent is on the threshold of one of the greatest political upheavals we has ever experienced in the opinion of Commodore H. A. Rivett, R.N., who is in Canada on a mission of diplomatic importance and who arrived in Toronto from Quebec today. Commander Rivett thought the result might be an entire change in the political fabric of Europe, or another war. He knew no opinion by the fact that recently Britain has been the victim of a number of thefts of important documents. Britain, he also, he said, a general sentiment of depression over Europe which might terminate in war.

Commander Rivett, born in Toronto, is a member of the family of Rivetts who, in the battle of Jutland, were rated by Admiral Jellicoe the finest seamanship in the grand Fleet. He was twice shot through the head in the memorial raid on Zeebrugge. He is engaged to Miss Caroline Ralph-Smith, a talented violinist, whom he met in Paris, and the wedding is expected to take place within the next six weeks.

Commander Rivett said the present navy personnel is divided into two schools as a result of the Jutland controversy. One, comprising the older men, is composed distinctly of officer men, while Admiral Beatty has a strong following among the younger navy men.

WARDS OF THE SHELTER IN GOOD HANDS AND HAPPY

Mr. W. H. Merry, president of the Children's Aid and Mr. T. D. Rudden the agent, have returned from a tour of inspection of the Shelter delighted with conditions generally and with the way in which Mr. Rudden's idea of making children wards of the Shelter and not apprenticing them to remain with their parents.

Conditions generally in the North are splendid Mr Rudden claims, the children are well nurished and kept and are fairly regular in their school attendance and are happy. Mr. Merry and Mr. Rudden made an inspection of the Bancroft Red Cross Society and their equipment in this institution and were deeply impressed with the excellent the comforts offered to the sick. During their visit in Bancroft they presented two cases in court and the two girls were let out on probation.

INJURY TO EYE MAY RESULT IN LOSS OF SIGHT

Little 5-Year-Old Madeline Woodcock Hurt At The Carnival

MOTHER IN JAIL

Father In Hospital Recovering From a Serious Illness

Her mother serving a sentence in the County jail for bootlegging, her father recuperating from a severe attack of pneumonia, and hopeless conditions existing in the little home due to the terrible spree through the family has come during the past few weeks, Madeline Woodcock, aged five years last night received a few minutes pleasure at the Lotteridges how only to add to the family's present afflictions, a badly cut eye, the sight of which she will probably lose.

The little girl to whom pleasures are scarce, had stood watchley tranxiliatly by the operation at the show while an operator drove nails into a block of wood, when a splinter of steel flew from the nail striking the child in her wonder filled eyes. The little girl cried out when the accident occurred and horror stricken friends ran to her assistance.

Dr. A. J. Faulkner was called and took the little girl to the Hospital where a delicate and successful operation was performed but today it is not known whether this will prove altogether satisfactory as it is done with any operation of the eye, time alone tells the result. She is today resting well in the hospital, mercifully unconscious of the extent of her injury.

P. E. VETERAN IS DEAD AGED 91

Peter Buir Operated One of Earliest County Woollen Mills

Toronto, June 18.—The death of Peter Burr, one of Prince Edward County's most highly respected citizens, and believed to be the oldest pioneer stock, occurred yesterday at his late residence, 2 Humewood Drive. The late Mr. Burr, although in his ninety-first year, retained his faculties to a remarkable degree, and only a brief illness preceded his death. Born in Prince Edward County, he had engaged for many years in the milling business and was the proprietor of one of the earliest woollen mills in operation in the district.

The late Mr. Burr was in possession of numerous interesting pioneer stories and was ever a favorite with both old and young. During the past few years he had been a resident of Toronto, real with his brother, Mr. Frank Burr. He was an active worker in the Methodist Church for many years and of late with Metropolitan. He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Storey, of Toronto; Mrs. Edwin Banks, Mrs. Thomas Waring and Mrs. Harry Ward, all of Prince Edward County.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

The name of friend is common, but truth in friendship is rare.

PHAEDRUS.

MAKING PROGRESS

With Russia fermenting in the poisonous atmosphere of war, it is refreshing to consider the solid work which the more advanced nations are achieving towards abolishing legalized murder as the final arbitrament in international disputes.

Within less than two months after Foreign Minister Briand of France suggested that his country and the United States enter into an agreement to outlaw war, two model treaties embodying such Disaster Relief as has been drafted. Apparently Minister Briand started something.

President Coolidge has evinced an interest in the two treaty drafts, one of which was made by Edward Bok's American Foundation and the other by two Columbia University professors If they are considered by the department of state and the senate, it may come to pass that they will, in some form, take the place of existing arbitration treaties, not only with France but with Great Britain and Japan.

The suggested treaties follow in a general way the Locarno agreement and other regional pacts which have been or may be entered into by two nations. It is significant that they avoid the entanglements of the covenant of the League of Nations, which kept the United States senate at the boiling point for so many months.

Under the drafts, the United States would not pledge itself to come to the aid of the other party to the treaty. It would only agree to refrain from war and to take note of several suggested methods of settling differences with other nations. The methods are diplomatic exchanges, arbitration or trial by international court.

Briand's idea is that the efforts of Nations to keep out of war should not stop with the failure of statesmen to settle international disputes. Diplomatic exchanges are not the last resort and diplomatic sometimes are more competent in getting their countries into war than in keeping them out of war. The suggested treaties have these things in mind.

A FIFTY-FIFTY DEAL

Living conditions in the country would be happier and farming would appeal more to the young people, if the country homes shared to a larger extent in the conveniences and modern equipment found on the average farm. The home has lagged behind the ordinary farm operation and farm management in the adoption of the newer things that make work easier.

Why not adopt a fifty-fifty arrangement providing that every appropriation made for improvements should be spent equally between the home and buildings? For instance, when a water system and individual drinking fountains are installed in the stable, place running water in the home; when the barn is painted or whitewashed inside or out, paint a room and hang new curtains; when a concrete floor is laid in one of the outbuildings, improve a room in the house with a hardwood floor. And so we might go on with suggestions that would appeal very much to the women folk.

The inevitable argument, of course, is that home conveniences do not fill the mortgage or pay the taxes. Perhaps not, according to old methods of bookkeeping; but if they make life brighter, prevent doctor bills and maintain a happier spirit of contentment, they will pay larger dividends than all the fields and herds. Too many more cases are paid off at the expense of youth and health.

"BALDY" IS OUT

Mr. "Baldy" Robb has left prison according to word from Edmonton.

He was sent there for five years in March of 1926 because he had been found guilty of being so crooked in conducting an election that they never did get the affair straightened out.

Instead of staying for five years, he got out after being in a little over a year.

No alarm was sent out by the prison guards, so he didn't escape.

He was let out.

And in order to be let out it's necessary to get an official paper, passed and signed at Ottawa.

If "Baldy" Robb's wrong-doing was considered serious enough to bring down on him a five-year sentence, what's taken place since to temper it to a trifle over a year?

If there were a mistake made in the first place the proper authorities should tell the people all about it.

If "Baldy's" friends were able to get the ear of the proper parties at Ottawa, and get him out that way, then the people ought to be told how and why it is done.

The bare announcement of a 5-year term chopped down 75 per cent. unaccompanied by any official explanation is not the proper way to carry on public business.

STAR OF THE NORTH
Canadian Hymn

Out of the dust of God called new nations forth,
The land and sea made ready at His voice;
He broke the barriers of the North
And bade our plains rejoice;
He saw the untrodden prairie hold
Empire of early gold.
Star of the North,
He bade thee shine
And prove once more the dream of men divine.

Ask of the seas what our white frontiers are,
Ask of the skies where our young banners fly
Like stars unloosened from the hair
Of wild-winged victory.
God's thunder only wakening thrills
The ramparts of our hills.
Star of the North,
No foe shall stain
What France has loved, where Britain's dead have lain!

Dark is the watch-fire, sheathed the ardent sword,
But sons must follow where their sires have led,
To the anointed end, O Lord,
Where marched the mighty dead.
Firm stands the red line battle-blown
And we will guard our own,
Our Canada,
From snow to sea.
One hope, one home, one shining destiny!

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

Isn't he rather fast for you, Mabel?

Yes, he is. But I don't think he'll get away.

It was the first time she had been to dinner with them, and they smiled indulgently as she refused a whiskey and soda.

"I've never touched it in my life," she explained.

"Why not try?" urged her host.

"See if you like the taste."

She blushed and shyly consented, and he poured her out a measure which she raised delicately to her lips.

"Why!" she cried, "you've given me Irish!"

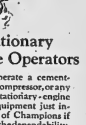

A minister and his bride were preparing to eat where cats were served quickly. They were engaged on the bill of fare, when the waitress, who was a much calsomined and peroxided young miss, came up to take their order. The minister looked up from the bill of fare, smiled sweetly at the waitress and said: "How is the chicken today?" "Pretty good, kid," she retorted, "How's yourself?"

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

It is stated that ten children have been killed already on the streets of Toronto this year by motor cars. It is rather a gruesome reminder that the modern city is a dangerous environment for children. It seems a pity that such is the case, but the fact that it is gives a tremendous responsibility on parents.—Brantford Expositor.

It is getting so a man brags if his wife is able to sew buttons on.—Border City Star.

But the worst fears of old age arise from a feeling that life will then have lost its interest and its zest, and contain "nothing to live for." The best cure for that is to live an interesting and a useful life. The best assurance of a continued interest in the affairs of life and a happy old age is to fill the former part with abundant labor and duties nobly done. Old people, to a great extent, live on the memories of the past, and a store of happy memories will enrich every life at the latter days.—Toronto Globe.

The Logical Choice of the Two-Car Family

TO those who need a second car the beauty and performance of Chevrolet make an instant appeal. There are many reasons for the choice of Chevrolet in the two-car home—its dependability in all weathers and under all conditions—its quick response and ease in handling in congested thoroughfares and its irresistible beauty appealing to the finer tastes. The many improvements first introduced in low-priced cars by Chevrolet and the striking beauty of design and color make it a car worthy of service to those who also own the costliest of cars. More and more the owners of big cars are now turning to Chevrolet for a second car.

The ultimate in Chevrolet value is found in the Most Beautiful Chevrolet in Chevrolet History with its Fisher-built body—its Duco color—its feats of mechanical refinements including oil filter, air cleaner and many others—and its new, low prices, the lowest for which Chevrolet has ever been sold in Canada.

Hunt, was married to Richard Henry Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. P. Allen of South Hills, Pittsburgh, Pa., Rev. Dr. F. E. Marsh was the officiating clergyman, and Mr. Leo B. Riggs the organist, and played the wedding music very beautifully, also during the signing of the register, Miss Strebel Walton sang an appropriate solo.

The ushers were Mr. S. M. Anglin and Mr. Charles Earle.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father was a lovely picture in her wedding gown of French crepe with beaded design of opalescent sequins, her bridal veil high at the back and caught with a spray of orange blossoms, and carried an old fashioned bouquet of sweetheart rose and lily of the valley.

She wore the gift of the groom an exquisite pin of platinum and sapphire. There were no attendents, and the guests were confined to relatives of the bride and groom and a few old friends of the bride. Mrs. Wm. P. Allen and the Misses Leisenring and Dorothy Allen, Mother and Sisters of the groom of Pittsburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Harry K. Hunt, of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Gordge H. and Miss Margaret Hunt of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. John A. and the Misses Elizabeth and Nancy Hunt of Toronto, and Miss Robinson of Oakville were the relatives present.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents receiving with the bridal pair were Mr. and Mrs. Hunt, and Mrs. Wm. P. Allen. The young couple were showered with hosts of good wishes and congratulations, from all parts of the dominion. They will reside in Pittsburgh, Pa.

The ceremony was witnessed by many of Belleville's young people amongst whom the bride is universally popular and as the bridal party left for the train on their honeymoon they were showered with confetti and the good wishes of all. Mrs. Allen (nee Hunt) is a musician of whom the City is well and justly proud; having won countless laurels in her chosen profession. On the many occasions in which her violin solos have been broadcast hundreds of interested friends have listened in while her every appearance in Belleville has been greeted with unbounded enthusiasm.

Y'S MEN'S CLUB HEAR TALK BY REV. WIGHT

"Father's Night" was celebrated at last evening's luncheon of the Y's Men's Club when each member brought his guest his own dad or some other elder man. Chairman "Army" Armstrong ended and kept things moving along and a lively session was the result. "Bob" Brown was chosen songleader and Ray Clarke acted as Sergt.-at-Arms.

Al." Hillwell gave a report of the trip to Rochester of which the Y's Men's Club were one of the sponsors. Newton Johnson advised the Club that several members had given the use of their cars on Sunday morning when the kiddies at the Children's Shelter will be taken for a ride through the country. Several under privileged boys will be sent to Moira Lake Camp by the Club.

Rev. J. M. Whyte, Pastor of Holloway Street Church was the speaker of the evening. He stressed the need of companionship in the present age between father and son and of the latter's inclination to follow in dad's footsteps which necessitated a clean and reliable life if the son is to strike the right path. Mr. Whyte's address was supported by the Club. Next week's meeting will be in the form of an open air gathering at Jones' Creek.

SENSE OF PROPORTION IMPORTANT TO GIRLS

By ELSIE MARLOWE

He's a "swell looking kid," honest and steady, and a perfect gentleman. They've been going together for three years.

And Gladys has promised to marry him this Fall.

BUT—YET—NEVERTHELESS—

She has sort of a hunch that she's throwing herself away, and that maybe he isn't her equal. Because, after all he is just a clerk.

From which you might gather that Gladys is a heavyweight in the social and financial classes. Wrong. Gladys is "only a clerk" herself, but that doesn't stop her from writing this letter.

DEAR ELSIE:

I have been going with an awfully nice fellow for the last three years and have promised to marry him this Fall. He is a swell looking fellow kind and has no bad habits. He is honest and hard-working and always a perfect gentleman. You would think that I would be happy, but I am not.

I am a very ambitious girl. Lots of the girls who work with me (I'm in the hosiery millinery department) are content to just drift along, but I am not that kind. I want to make a success of my life. And I am not sure that I will do so if I marry this fellow. He is only a clerk in the sports department and he isn't getting much more than I do. We are both twenty-three. Do you think that is very good for a twenty-three-year-old fellow?

I get awfully ashamed when I think of him, even though I do love him. If a fellow hasn't done any more than that by the time he is twenty-three, do you think he will ever amount to much?

Several of my girl friends have made good marriages. One married a young fellow in real estate, and the other married a fellow who is part owner of a neighborhood theatre. When I think that the man I am going to marry is only a clerk, I feel terrible.

I spoke to him about it once, and I guess I hurt his feelings. He said he intended to work up and maybe some day have a little sport shop of his own. But I am not sure that he can work up. Do you think I am making a mistake?

GLADYS.

Yes, dearie, iron a brief survey of your character. I would say that you are making just about $,968.654 mistakes. And a frank discussion of a few of them will certainly be good for what ails you, sister.

In the first place, why this attitude toward "just a clerk"? Aren't you "just a clerk" yourself? You have had just as good an education as this boy. You have lived as many years of life in a country where opportunities for men and women workers are equal. And is it evident that you consider that your brain is as good as his, if not better. And yet you are "only a clerk."

How would you feel if you found that someone entertained a contempt for you because of that fact? What would be your reaction if you discovered that your B. P. doubted whether you'd make a good wife because you were "only a clerk"? You'd be pretty angry, wouldn't you, girlie? And yet, you feel that you have a perfect right to so doubt and judge your fellow man.

You'd better pick yourself some good setting-up exercises and reduce your conceit, sister. Your opinion of yourself is just about one hundred pounds overweight.

Now as to this ambition problem—ambition's fine. The girl who isn't ambitious for her lover, won't make much of a wife. But don't demand a lot of things of the other fellow which you couldn't possibly achieve yourself. Don't ask him to do more for you than you'll ever be able to do for him.

This old notion that a man "making his keep" worthy of woman" went out years and years ago, Gladys, and it never was anything but air anyway. We know now that women are nothing Special Extra. There's no more reason why a man should make himself worthy of a woman than a woman should make herself worthy of a man. It's up to all of us to make ourselves as worthy of life as possible, and if we stick to that job, we'll be too busy to crab at the other fellow because we don't admire his results.

So go over thinking of yourself as a Grand Prize, honey. IF YOU HAVE MORE AMBITION AND DETERMINATION AND BRAINS THAN YOUR LOVER, PROVE IT BY HELPING HIM INSTEAD OF CRABBING AT HIM!

A Great Puzzle To Careful Parents

One of the greatest puzzles to the careful parent is to know just what medicine to give the little ones. When the child falls ill with gripping pains; is rested with cold or fever, refuses food or vomits what he has taken, when he cries a great deal and cannot get the sleep so necessary to the growing child, the parent is in a quandry. What is to be done on such occasions? As often as not there is not a suitable medicine in the house. The puzzle is what to give him to get him right quickly.

It is to meet such emergencies that Baby's Own Tablets were designed. These pleasant little Tablets quickly relieve fever, break up colds, relieve constipation and indigestion and allay teething pains. They quiet the nerves and promote restful health-restoring sleep. They are guaranteed absolutely harmless and safe for even the young est and most delicate baby.

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A-dvice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am just a working girl, 17 earning $11 and $12 a week. My mother wants $10 a week and expects me to buy my own clothes and pay my own carfares.

Please advise me as to how much I ought to give her.

HEART-BROKEN.

HEART-BROKEN: You have all my sympathy. One dollar a week is unquestionably a shocker allowance for clothes.

But, of course, I know nothing about the size of your family or the extent of the family income. Perhaps your mother has great difficulty in making ends meet. However, if she is not in real need of the money she takes from you, you must be firm and assert your rights.

Tell your mother that there are things that every girl needs. Point out that you are not asking for anything you have not earned. If your family is not living in real privation tell her that you are ready to pay her whatever it costs for you to live at home—your share of the rent and food. The rest should be your own for whatever purpose you choose.

Of course, if you money puts food in the mouths of those who must otherwise do without it, I am afraid there is nothing that I can suggest that would remedy the situation. In that case I can only advise you to be patient.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

We are three young girls in our late teens and are considered attractive by our friends. We don't believe in petting parties. So we spend the large majority of our evenings at home.

We don't seem to be able to meet the right kind of young men. We are real sports in every sense of the word. We swim, dance, play cards, are musically inclined and enjoy anything that is wholesome and yet good fun.

We wish you'd please suggest some nice way in which we could meet the right kind of boys.

WHO, WHAT AND WHY.

WHO, WHAT AND WHY: If you are all that you have described yourselves to be, have patience. In due time you will meet the right sort of young men who would respect you for your attitude and appreciate the companionship that you can give them.

In the meantime, you might especially the end in view, if you joined a club of some sort, where young people with interests in common, collaborate in wholesome and ambitious activities. You will find that the right sort of club will eventually create contacts with the kind of people worth knowing.

In the meantime, cling to your ideals. The pursuit of sheer vacuous pleasure is never worth the sacrifice of fundamentally sound principles.

SINCLAIR'S

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN

By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 45

The Watchful Spider

Sybil had just received a proposal of marriage from young Lieutenant Blaiklaw. He'd been very logical and almost blunt about it, rather flustered in his youthful earnestness.

She didn't accept him, but the affair actually began then. It had been rather gallant of him, she felt, considering what he must have thought that night when he had seen Ted's shadow on the glass panel of her door—but he had not offered explanations.

"Poor duck!" she murmured, as she patted his arm with slim, jeweled fingers.

He seized them hopefully.

"Does that mean I've got a show?" She didn't answer immediately. For the first time in her life, she felt a disinclination to hurt some one, just because it happened to be a man.

Dick was so clean-cut, so honest, so boyish. She could see in him none of the objectionable qualities that according to the standards of her warped childhood, all men must possess.

And yet, she reflected, hadn't Dads probably been just as sweet and tender when he had wooed her mother? Ted, who had tricked poor old Mrs. Fields to her undoing, and Jimmy, who had captured Janet Wayland's unsuspecting heart—were their tactics not just as subtle, their motives just as cleverly concealed? And Dan Brady and Peter Paxton—Eva had told Sybil what an ardent lover Serge had been—and Jerry Winslow, before he came to the conclusion that it would not do to marry his pretty secretary. Maybe they all had moments when they were as sincere and honest, on the surface, as Dick Sheldon?

It didn't occur to Sybil that she was illogical in her reasoning. She went on the assumption that the whole sex was bad at the core.

As for young Sheldon, she made up her mind, in spite of her warning instincts, that certain qualities, now latent, would come to the surface, sooner or later, and she would see in him the odious characteristics that had made her hate men.

"Have I a chance, Sybil?" begged Sheldon, for the second time, and she deliberately shut her ears to the soft, persuasive voice in her heart and rejoiced that she had him in her toils.

"Of course, you have," Her lovely eyes were eloquent with promise. "But you must let me get used to the idea. It was so sudden—I'd no idea—we'd seen each other so little."

"That was not my fault!" he countered quickly. "You're so many other chaps hanging around you. And, of course, I can't get away from the field very time I want to."

"Are your duties so arduous?"

"Well—you don't get leave, just by asking for it," he laughed. "Especially me. I'm only a cub, you know. I've an awful lot of hours of flying to put in on my own count."

"What happens, if you stay in town without leave?"

He made a wry face.

"If you're caught—a lot of trouble. Digs! They're strict!" Sybil shuddered.

"I'll tell the world they are," he went on, "but they'll never get me for that. I think a whole of a lot of my job, Sybil. I'm going up in the ranks, just as fast as I can make it, if sheer effort can do the trick. Unfortunately, I haven't any munificent father to buy me a commission, but I'll get there just the same. You want and see. You'll be proud of me."

He sat down beside her on the lounge-room sofa and caught her hands in his. Tell me you want to be proud of me, Sybil,' he begged.

She didn't answer. She was listening to a woman's shrill voice that drifted through the upward transom above Sybil's front door. The voice evidently addressed some on in the corridor. It was that of Miss Dr Brodes.

"I did call Maxwell, Florine. I swear I did. But he says, when I told him to come; 'Like fun I will. I told you last time it was positively my final appearance to sober up a drunk!' That's his very words, Florine. 'To sober up a drunk,' he says. If I was you, I'd sue him for insulting me like that. You ask Sybil—she thought if you ain't got a good case against him, I wouldn't be a bit surprised, if you couldn't shake him down for that. He's rolling in dough—all the swells go to him for their nerves."

Maxwell! Sybil frowned. Even the sound of the man's name irritated her

"Sybil." Young Sheldon's voice was dismayed. "Darling, why do you look so angry?"

Sybil forced her attention back to him.

"Oh, do forgive me. I was simply annoyed by that frightful voice in the hall."

She actually let Dick kiss one cool, half-averted cheek, when he went away, to make up for her rudeness. And while his lips touched her face, she thought about the odius Dr. Maxwell and was very angry.

WHAT'S NEW

(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Dark green is to be smart for the fall evening coat.

At a recent big Washington wedding the bride added "the touch box at the back of her veil and forget-me-nots were added to her bouquet.

Sir Oliver Lodge prophesies a laboratory man, made by science, thus ridding some women to be women! Well we can say is that there's plenty of chance for science to improve on nature."

One of the most prominent colors in dark hosiery for fall is a variation of gunmetal, best described as the color of an elephant's hide.

Our June girl graduates must feel glad they live in Canada since the Dean of Madrid University in these days is urging its women graduates to go home and the Bavarian Bishops are denouncing athletic contests for women on grounds of indecency.

The interest in sheer woollens has caused a revival of types popular years ago, but they must be disguised and introduced as something new to interest the keen buyer. The New York representative of a large English importing house cites the instance of "Henrietta," which has been revived and dived in the new shades and sizes Queen started the idea of women wearing anything so old-fashioned "Henrietta" has been recluistered and is one of the best sellers of the collection.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

If care is taken the job of housecleaning can be accomplished without much of the usual fatigue. Before starting to clean moisten some white soap and work it into the pores, around the cuticle and under the finger nails. Then proceed with your work and after it is over you will find all soil will wash off with the soap and the pores will not have taken up any of the grime.

Beauty in Space

When your walls are papered or painted as you want them, do not be afraid of them, and feel that you must cover them at all costs. One or two pictures are usually enough for a room. Space is beautiful.

MUSIC IS ASSET IN SCHOOL LIFE

Success of Past Year's Work Encouragement For Future Efforts

The special Music Committee of the Board of Education presented a glowing report of what has been accomplished in the City's Schools' giving special credit to Trustees Stillman Van Bleecker, Prof. Hunt, Mr. Leo Riggs and Prof. Anglin for the success achieved. The work has been self supporting, a balance of six cents remaining in the treasury.

The report follows:

Your Music Committee has pleasure in presenting the following report. We attach hereto the statements from Assistant Principal Frederick, who kindly acted as Treasurer, showing that our total disbursements were $208.84 and our receipts exactly $208.90, thus balancing accounts with the exception of 6c which remain in the Treasurer's hands as a nucleus for next year. This expenditure covers the hardware, the lumber and the work in constructing the permanent supports and shelves for the platforms on which the children eat and which are now on their own property subject only to such public use as the City Council may desire to put them in connection with public holidays in which the children may participate, either on the 1st of July or in the future. The lumber and materials will of course have to be borrowed each time from the (Trustees) whom we have to thank for their generosity in this respect. The disbursement also includes the cost of hauling and moving and the cartage of the chairs, the lenders of which chairs are also to be thanked for their co-operation.

The Chairman of the Committee desires to emphasize especially, though without any discrimination, the splendid work done by Trustee Stillman and Trustee Bleecker, and also the Principals and Assistant Principals of the Schools who acted on the Committee with much efficiency. It was a pleasure to the Committee and to all citizens that the children representing St. Michael's Academy joined us in the large occasion, and we are assured by everyone that the Concert was not merely enjoyable but inspiring. The thanks of the Board are due and will no doubt be sent to Lt.-Colonel Vandewater, of the Commanding the Argyll Light Infantry, for postponing his Drill night and placing the Armoury at our services virtually for four days. To Professor Hunt is due, we feel, a more substantial recognition than any grateful appreciation which we extend to him for the splendid work during the year, a work, the merit of which was well exemplified in the fine results obtained. To Mr. Leo Riggs and Mr. Sam Anglin, who acted as judges not merely in connection with the shield presented by the Board but also in connection with the medals presented by the Rotarians for solo singing, we extend our most sincere thanks and appreciation.

Your Committee would respectfully suggest that an honorarium of from $5.00 to $10.00 should be paid to the Caretaker of the Armouries, whose labours were largely increased by our occupation, and we also recommend that some secure an accessible place of storage for the stands and supports should be secured.

Respectfully submitted,

W. N. POINTON,
Chairman.

DIED AT WORK

Oshawa, June 18.—While working in the moulding room of the Ontario Malleable Iron Works this morning, Vria Saunders, 48 years old, dropped dead. His address is not known but it is believed he was boarding somewhere in the city. He had only been employed a short time at the Malleable Iron Works, Coroner Dr. D. S. Hoig is conducting an investigation.

TOWN WILL CELEBRATE

Brancroft, June 18.—July 1st, 1927, will be a gala day in Brancroft. From every corner of the North, citizens have already expressed a desire to participate in the Diamond Jubilee Celebration of the Dominion of Canada on its sixtieth anniversary. Wonderful preparations are being made by the committees in charge to make this celebration one of the best ever staged in Bancroft.

DESTROYED BY PORCUPINES

Peterboro, June 18. — Porcupines have destroyed a potential rise which might have been used to corrobate such picture that Mayor Hughes of Dummer Township came to his death by foul play. This week a coroner's jury in East Peterboro, returned a verdict that Hughes, an octogenarian who was dcred from his home in September, 1924, had died from exposure. Suspicions, voiced by Dummer residents, that the old man had been murdered, and ahead by Provincial Constable Maker of this city, took this officer to the bush where the skeleton and shell of Hughes' skeleton found in a swamp for knawed the whole top of the skull away. The officer has seemingly given the case up.

FIVE NEW HOMES

Oshawa, June 13.— Permits have been taken out for five new buildings in Oshawa since Monday.

INCOME TAX ACTIVITIES

Ottawa, June 18.—An intensive, nation-wide drive has been undertaken by Commissioner of Income Tax Chester Walters to clean up arrears of income taxes by corporations and by individuals.

Already over 150 certificates of judgment have been filed by the commissioner with the Exchequer Court of Canada, and these have been filed regardless of effort, on the determination of the department being to clear up the situation in all parts of the country.

TODAY'S MARKET

New York, N.Y., June 18.—Major speculative activity in today's brief session of the stock market was again the big up side, although the advance was held in check by the usual week-end realizing and the uncovering of a few "sore spots" in their timbers.

Trading was in fairly heavy volume. Merger rails were again in the forefront of the market, Pittsburgh and West Virginia was bid up over five points, similar movements pointed being shown in Pittsburg and terminal coal. Acute weakness of white sulphur issues broke several points to a new 1927 low, had a depressing effect on some of the other motors.

The closing tone was firm and quiet the last hour. The closing was firm. Total sales approximately 1,000,000 shares.

BIRTH NOTICE

HESTHORN—At Belleville General Hospital, June 16, 1927, to Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Henthorn, a son.

NOTICE TO WATER USERS

The hours for the use of hose for watering lawns, gardens or for washing of any kind are from 7 to 9 in the morning and from 5 to 9 in the evening. The Water Works Department are frequently asked if hose used from taps inside the house for watering lawns or gardens or washing cars, should be paid for. The same rate is charged for using hose from an inside tap as from an outside tap.

Owing to the increased cost of electric power rate we are trying to reduce the consumption of water. If you have a leaky tap or taps in your house, office or factory, we will appreciate it very much if you will have same repaired.

Thanking you for your co-operation in the past, which has been of great assistance to us.

E. T. AUSTIN,
Manager Water Works Department.

"The greatest asset to a nation is a fine type of men and women, courageous and taking work seriously without being dull and pious, without being dolorous." Rev. H. A. Kent, M.A., D.D., Principal of Queen's Theological College told the students in an inspiring address.

The speaker opened his remarks by congratulating the Principal of the institution on the completion of St. Albert's seventy years of success and contrasted the benefit students may there secure with the limited opportunities of the little old school house, which, however, limited, still made men and impressed the students with the enormous opportunities Canada offers young men in comparison with Europe where a sense of hopeless depression has settled. In Canada today, he said there are many things which may cause us to shudder. A condition in Ontario exists which will require great courage, as it does not, age not satisfied sitting back and criticising, but actively fighting.

One of the worst things in life is fear. One national fear we in Canada have, is fear of war with the United States of people live in constant terror of their neighbours. Here we have created a guard on the line of peace with our neighbours in the States and it is a condition every man should appreciate.

One of the great weaknesses of student life which ought to be corrected is the matter of not taking work seriously. Genius is an infinite capacity for taking pains and the secret of success is not genius but hard work which brings about the

The New Glandular Treatment for Indigestion

Renzyme is a scientific combination of all enzymes and ferments necessary to the digestion of food—A natural and effective digestant.

IT is a common knowledge that by far the greatest number of ailments for which physicians are consulted may be classified as belonging to disorders of the digestive organs. This may be the result of improper diet, overeating, or to disease of the stomach or digestive organs, or may also be secondary to other diseases or illnesses such as nervousness, anaemia, debility, etc. The number of people who suffer from dyspepsia, indigestion, flatulence, regurgitation of food, heartburn, loss of appetite are countless and in fact, at times every person has suffered from some such digestive upset or disorder.

The means of relief offered to the public has up to the present time been merely temporary and unsatisfactory and has in the main consisted in the administration of chemicals and drugs of various forms. In Renzyme there has been discovered the natural and effective treatment for disordered digestion that has as yet been offered to sufferers of this complaint. The action of various animal and vegetable enzymes and ferments in digestion has long been known to scientists and for years has been utilized commercially in the preparation of various foods. We know that the food is acted upon by these enzymes and broken into simpler compounds so that these may be easily assimilated by the body and used for heat, energy and replacing the worn out tissues.

Renzyme is a scientific combination of all the enzymes and ferments necessary to the digestion of all kinds of foods. It contains the natural animal and vegetable ferments such as are secreted during digestion by the healthy digestive glands, unadulterated by any chemical or drug. The process of digestion does not vary in different individuals as it is an exact scientific biochemical process. The digestive disturbances enumerated above are largely the result of absence or deficiency of these enzymes. The rational treatment for these disturbances, therefore, is to supply these ferments to the human organism. Renzyme supplies this deficiency and not only does it furnish these lacking ferments but it acts as a hormone stimulating the natural flow of juices in the digestive organs and thus gradually restores these organs to their proper functions.*

In recent years the treatment of disease by means of glandular preparations has advanced rapidly. One need only recall the benefits that have followed the discovery of insulin. We believe that in Renzyme there is found a glandular enzyme, which will prove equally as successful in its own field.

It is recommended in all cases of overeating, faulty diet, disordered digestion or where there is a deficiency of the natural juices as is evidenced by symptoms of flatulence, heartburn, sense of fullness after meals, lack of appetite, etc. It will also prove invaluable in restoring and aiding the natural digestive processes in invalids, convalescents and aged people.

PENSION TOO LATE

Veteran Dies After Five-Year Fight For Support

Toronto, June 18.—After endeavoring for five years to obtain a pension, Frank Wilson, war veteran, died after he had been notified his special had succeeded but before the money actually arrived. He was found dead in his home at the lodging house this week, and was buried yesterday. Almost a month ago, it is understood, he had received word that he would receive a pension and about $1,000 in back allowance. Wilson enlisted in 1914 and was wounded and taken prisoner in the battle of St. Julien, being a prisoner in Germany for three years. Wilson, it is said, failed to find any employment he secured because he always collapsed after three or four days' work.

former. The speaker thought that the world at present needs a better proportion of fun and hard work.

The speaker explored the idea of many that to be pious one must be hopelessly dull observing that real religion includes a great sense of gladness and happiness in all our surroundings.

A solo by Rev. Roy Rickard was a thoroughly enjoyable feature and Miss Isabel Talcho's reading was enthusiastically received by the large gathering.

BELLE THEATRE

Dolores Costello's latest starring vehicle for Warner Bros., "The Third Degree," which comes to the Belle Theatre Monday for a run of three days, is a powerfully dramatic document against circumstantial evidence.

A well-to-do young man between forty and fifty years of age and of uncertain means of support is shot in his luxurious Fifth Ave. apartment. When the police arrive they find a young husband with whose wife the victim is thought to have had relations standing over the body in a dazed condition with a ladies' size automatic in his hand. There is liquor on his breath and he bears the unmistakable signs of a rough and tumble struggle.

All suspected circumstances point to his guilt, and the detectives, with their minds made up, set about the task of building a case sufficient to submit him to the infamous "third degree." At last, after long hours of mental torture he is worn down to a confession.

Hardly knowing what he does, he signs his own life away. With the circumstantial evidence backed by the confession any court in the land will convict him. Only one person can save him, and she is impelled to silence by the powerful motives of self-preservation and mother love.

CAPITOL THEATRE

The bill at the Capitol Theatre for the first half of next week promises to be up to the standard in every way. On the screen will be presented "Rookies", which is ranked among the best films treating of the lighterside of soldier life. The background is an army camp, where one of the sergeants makes life not all beer and skittles for the tender-foot. Karl Dane, and George K. Arthur, are both very fine actors and comedians. Rookies is a veritable riot throughout.

The Imperial Players will open their eighth big week at the Capitol offering "Within The Law" on Monday. All together the bill promises to be a good one and well worth seeing.

DELORO CAPTURE ANOTHER GAME FROM POINTERS

Home Team Out-Hits Cement Mixers and Plays Better Ball

Deloro hung up a victory at the expense of the Point Anne team yesterday afternoon by a score of 10 to 6. Playing all-round and better ball the bannisters deserved to win.

Frank Coyer sent his ace Bennett to the mound again and the big boy went the full route, although nicked for twelve hits. Bennett was ineffective in the 3rd inning when Deloro went to work and scored four runs.

Manager Elliott sent Bill Ralph to the hillock and he allowed nine hits.

A good crowd witnessed the game. New York umpired behind the plate and Gerow was on bases.

The Deloro team have yet to meet the Belleville team and next Wednesday will see the two squads meet at the local Fair Grounds.

BEES HALT TRAFFIC

Tillsonburg, Ont., June 18.—Traffic was voluntarily diverted to a side street here yesterday, when a swarm of bees halted in front of a bank on a downtown thoroughfare.

An absent-minded tenmster drove his pair of equines into the midst of the swarm before noticing the situation, but did not remain there very long. Sugar was scattered on the street, and the bees were finally gather ed up and returned to their owner.

THE MOVIES STRAIN YOUR EYES?

Some folks experience distress every time they attend moving pictures. That indicates a constitutional weakness of the eyes that is far more common than it need be. Because we are able to relieve that condition by supplying our patients with special lenses that usually result in giving the desired comfort. Glad to explain further to you.

TORONTO OPEN SERIES WITH WIN

Jersey City, June 18.—Pouncing on Buckalew early for four runs in the first two frames, the Toronto Leafs opened their series at Jersey City yesterday with a 6 to 1 victory. Radwan and Whitman, who came to the Jerseys in a swap with Buffalo yesterday, made their debut in the locals' uniform and Radwan's single in the fourth helped score one the lone Jersey City run of the afternoon.

Mamaux's fine pitching gave the Leafs their fifth consecutive victory at Newark over the Buffalo Bisons by the score of 5 to 2. After the first frame when the Buffalo team scored two runs, the locers were helpless, and scored but three hits after the initial one. Doubles by Macklin, Kingston and Elliott's home run drives were the features of the game, the three infield drives in all the Newark runs.

With the score tied at one-all and the bases loaded in the seventh, Hatcher Lake drove the ball over Baltimore's fence, giving the Orioles a four run winning lead over Rochester in the first of the series, which ended 5 to 3 with Horne and Read of the visitors and Brower of the locals were sent to the showers for arguments with the umpire.

Possessing Rube Parnham hard in the first two innings, Syracuse took the first of the series at Reading, 6 to 0. Each team got eight hits. Stephen Woodgie, a rookie from Mount St. Mary's College, pitched for Reading after the second and allowed only three hits in seven frames.

MUST HAVE GOT ON THEIR MIND

La Roquebilliere, France, June 14.—Walther for an avalanche has made La Roquebilliere an almost deserted village.

Last year part of an overhanging cliff broke loose at night and buried part of the village, killing nineteen persons. Geologists say another part of the cliff will come down and wipe out more of the village, although it may be six months or fifty years before it happens.

Many of the 1,500 inhabitants have gone and others who stay are sleeping in barns rather than under the threatening cliff. The mayor has appealed to the nation for 3,500,000 francs for a retaining wall.

Shocker Holds Browns To Four Hits—Indians Win

New York, June 18.—The Sox of St. Louis, as portrayed by the Lows yesterday, seemed to be one of charity and simple kindliness. Taking pity on the Yankees, who are only about five games out in front, the Mucmartins handed the champions a ball game on a platter of hammered silver with gold edges. The score was 3 to 2.

Urban Shocker, fully recovered from the blow on the head that he suffered in Philadelphia last month, held the Browns to a spare four hits and pitched well enough to earn a shut-out, barring Mr. Collins. The hits came one at a time and were al singles, and they wouldn't have meant a thing if the New York supporting cast had been up to scratch.

At Philadelphia, the home team up set the Chicago White Sox by to 3 Babe Walkery triumphing on the mound over Charley Barnabee, a recruit southpaw, and Ted Blankenship. The Mackmen broke a string of twenty consecutive scoreless innings by registering four runs in the fourth frame. Walberg fanned seven of the pale hose allowed only three hits after the third inning, one of which was a home-run by Sheely in the ninth.

The Cleveland Indians celebrated Bunker Hill day at Boston with a double victory over the Red Sox, 5 to 3 and 4 to 2. Hudlin's pitching and batting were the deciding factors in the first game, the pitcher having a share in three of the seven Cleveland runs. In the second game Walter Miller held the Red Sox to two hits until the eighth when they made three runs with none out. With a man on second Shauto went in and shut out the Boston team for the remainder of the game.

Elsewhere, the recruit from Memphis pitched another good ball game at Washington, and Washington took the second game of the series from Detroit, 3 to 1. Another Washington recruit, Reeves, who early here from Georgia Tech helped win the game with a single in the fourth which brought in two runs and put the Senators in the lead.

Manager Harris announced he had sold outright to the Jersey City International League Club Dick Redding, pitcher, recently drawn from Dayton University.

BOSTON SCORES CLOSE WIN OVER PIRATES

Pittsburgh, June 18.—A ninth-inning two-run rally gave Boston an 8 to 7 victory at Pittsburgh yesterday. The Pirates rallied in their half but could put over only one run. Joe Genewich, purchased from Louisville, made his first appearance in a Pittsburgh uniform, relieving Johnny Morrison in the seventh. Dawson was charged with the defeat. The Braves pounded three Pirate hurlers for nine hits. Paul Waner hit safely in his seventeth consecutive game.

Clarence Mitchell, star southpaw of the Phillies, let Chicago down with six hits while his team-mates pounded out three local twisters hard for a 12 to 2 victory, which broke the winning streak of the Cubs, who had won 12 games in a row. The locals were able to bunch hits in only one inning, Wrightmoo led the attack for the visitors.

"MAD DOG" WILL SOON BE A CRY

Montreal, Que., June 16.—Cohen, with the first heat wave of summer, the cry of "Mad Dog" will be heard in many Canadian communities. Merchants, swimmers will be interested and threatened and indeed some canines will be astonished at these new powers to inspire terror in the hearts of humans. For, despite scientific proof to the contrary, the belief that the dread disease is confined to the summer months is still firmly imbedded in the public mind.

"Rabies can originate and spread, bringing its horrible death to men, cattle and dogs" in the winter, as well as in the summer," declares Dr. J. Villeneuve, a prominent Montreal veterinary.

"It is just as important to observe precautions against the disease in January as in July. This was clearly proved by the recent epidemic in the Montreal-Ottawa district. Babies was brought into the district in the early spring from the Gaspesian hills, to the north, where it had had its inception during the winter months.

"Muzzling bylaws were immediately enacted and municipal and provincial health authorities inaugurated a determined fight against the menace. During the summer, dog owners submitted to the necessary restrictions, but as soon as the cold weather set in loud protests arose on every side. The 'dog days' were over—and with their passing people believed that the danger of rabies had passed too.

"When rabies is present in a district, any dog unmuzzled and unleashed in city street or in country pasture, is a menace, pointed out the veterinary. He must be regarded as an outlaw, liable to the death penalty.

"Laws which may seem harsh and cruel to the dog lover must be enforced with the utmost severity in order that dog life may be protected from its greatest enemy. Modern medical science is capable of effectively combating an epidemic of hydrophobia, but the intelligent co-operation of the public is necessary to this end.

Much unnecessary sentimentality is manifested in connection with the question of rabies. Individuals and even societies protest against muzzling orders and the consequent shut-up danger is exaggerated. The first step is to introduce a model dog catcher and to enforce the penalty for the offender.

Let Me Tell You

Salt and beeswax mixed will remove rust from irons.

A little salt added to starch will prevent the iron sticking.

A good paste for cleaning mirrors can be made with a little rice powder and methylated spirits.

An old newspaper, folded in many sheets, will make an excellent pad for placing beneath the ironing sheet.

Finger marks on highly polished furniture can be removed with a cloth dipped in paraffin. When dry the wood should be polished with a leather.

Navy Serge can be renovated and all shiny marks removed by the application of ammonia and water, one teaspoonful of ammonia to one quart of water.

Removing Ink From Wood

To remove ink stains from wood make a mixture of equal parts of vinegar and linseed oil. Shake well before using, and apply with a soft cloth.

To Roast Meat in a Saucepan

Take a small joint of mutton, beef, veal, or pork (one of two pounds), and put it in the saucepan with two or three ounces of dripping. Place some peeled potatoes round the meat, cook over a moderate flame for about thirty-five to forty minutes, baste the joint with dripping every little while, and turn the potatoes as they brown.

To Clean a Wringer

Dip a rag in paraffin, and go over the cog wheels and all the working parts, cleaning them from grease and dust. Scrub all the woodwork, and cleanse the rollers with a rag dipped in turpentine, followed by washing with warm soapy water. Then rinse and dry thoroughly.

Gravy on The Tablecloth

When gravy has been spilled on the tablecloth, rub the grease spot thoroughly on both sides with French chalk. Fold cloth, and leave it, light by brush off the chalk with a soft, clean brush, and your cloth will be as spotless as though freshly laundered.

JUST IN PASSING

"He missed the good that he might have done.
He missed the blessings he might have won;
Seeking some glorious task to find,
His eyes to all humble work were blind
He that is faithful in that which is least
Is ildered to sit at the Heavenly feast;
Yet men and women lament their fate
If they be not called to do something great."
—F. TYLER.

A BLOT.

I wonder how many circus-goers really enjoy the wild animal acts? Two years ago when Barnum & Bailey announced that owing to the strong feeling against them they had decided to eliminate these performances. They were declaimed in no small voice throughout the land. And to prove they have not injured their gate receipts by such an action, one has only to look back to the first two circuses put on here by the "Greatest Show on Earth." The huge tents with a combined capacity of 25,000 people was packed to the roof at both afternoon and evening performances!

At the circus here last week there were four wild animal acts and I venture to say that most of those present breathed a sigh of relief when they were over. One in particular was a brutal performance. I speak of the polar bears when the trainer took the heavy end of his club and pounded the poor creatures. Training by sheer fear of the lash or revolver is cruelty enough, but beating and pounding an imals is something that should not be tolerated for one minute in this or any country.

This year's edition of Spark's Circus barring the above acts, was to my mind the brightest cleanest and cleverest circus I have ever seen. Let us hope that the management will see its way clear, of its own accord, to raise this stigma from an otherwise unusually good program.

WHAT ABOUT A HUMANE BRANCH?

After hearing numerous indignant complaints on the above subject, is it not high time Melleville had a Humane Society? I understand, that "once upon a time" such an organization did exist here. At least it organized with about 200 members, but never really functioned. Now this city is full of people who really love and care for all dumb creatures. One is often startled by a glaring act of cruelty but hardly knows how to act. The Humane Society does a wonderful work along this line. Let us hope for the sake of all of God's creatures that the Belleville branch may come to life or reorganize. We have one part of this work well covered and that is that of Mr. Wallace Hayes-lock Robb is doing marvellous things for the feathered creatures but there are many animals which need our protection.

Answers to Correspondents

ENGLISH GIRL—You are right. What so many people around here call a cowslip is really a Marsh Marigold. The real cowslip, or Primrose, belonging to the primrose family, and it does not grow in Canada, I am told. It probably got the name of Marigold because in the Middle Ages it was used to deck churches in honor of the Virgin Mary. Shakespeare speaks of these flowers as Mary-buds.

GOLDFISH—I hunted out some information which may help you. It seems goldfish should never be kept in a strong light. They have no eyelids, and the sun, striking their eyes, kills them. This may be the reason you cannot keep them. If you keep them on the window-sill. At night they should be covered with a piece of dark cloth. They must have fresh water weed to give oxygen to the water or they will suffocate. Do not give them bread or anything starchy.

A Family Medicine

A Welland Lady Tells of the Value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in Her Home

"I have many reasons for praising Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," says Mrs. George L. Swick, R.R. No. 2, Welland, Ont. "My first experience with this medicine was in my girlhood, when, following an attack of scarlet fever, I was left in a badly run down condition, and the pills restored me to good health. Laterin my married life I had a severe attack of rheumatism. The pain in my right arm and shoulder was so bad that I could not dress myself without help. Again I resorted to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and again mihey proved a blessing to me, as soon the rheumatic pains and stiffness disappeared and there has been no return of the trouble. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have also been of great benefit to my children. One of my boys was threatened with St. Vitus dance. He twitched and fast would twitch and jerk. I gave him the pills, and again they did not fail, as under the treatment the trouble ceased. I have also given the pills to my little girls, who was anaemic, and in this case also with the greatest benefit. Naturally when I hear any one complaining of not feeling well I recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as I know of no other medicine to equal them in building up the blood and restoring health."

Take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anaemic, rheumatism, indigestion, neuralgia and other nervous troubles. Take them as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition, and cultivate a resistance that will keep you well and strong. You can get these pills from any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WOMEN AND WEDDINGS

"Weddings, though as old as the hills, are for ever a new and a thrilling sensation to feminine lookers-on," writes Mrs. Coulson Kernahan, in the "Woman's Magazine."

"The same old scoopy, the same strip of carpet may figure at the entrance of the church, the same nuptial music may peal forth from the organ, yet every wedding has its own individuality, for there is a different bride. The bridegroom, for the most part, comes in for comparatively little attention, but the bride is the cynosure of all eyes.

"The gown she wears, her coiffure, her carriage and bearing are all noted by critical though sympathetic feminine eyes, the owners of these eyes, one and all, being a prey to varying emotions. It may be the recollection of a day far distant when they themselves filled the role of bride; or of a bridal that was disastrous. Or it may be the memory of years of happy marriage that followed the wedding day. It may be the poignant sense of loss that wells up in the heart of a widow. Certain it is, that no woman who is a woman can look upon a wedding without emotion of some kind.

"But of all the women present, perhaps it is the bride's mother who of she be a true mother) is stirred to the depths of her being, as the bride advances up the aisle of the church on the arm of her father. Pride, joy, and a sweet sadness fight for supremacy within her heart; fear may also grip her. Her daughter is venturing forth on a big uncharted sea in the frail barque of her innocent loveliness. She may make the harbour of married happiness. She may come in grief on the rocks of misunderstanding, as of knowledge that she has made a mistake in her choice of a husband.

"Knowing all this, I sometimes wonder how it is that wedding guests in a church are not more grave and circumspect in their demeanour. It jars on me to see people behaving more as if they were in a theatre than in a church. A few years ago I was at a society wedding where the guests turned round and chatted quite audibly. I heard two men discussing a scandal with no reserve. Surely respect for the church should make such an incident impossible."

Poems Old'And New

LOVE THE PIPER

Over the hills and dales of time
Love the Piper takes his way,
Tunes his pipe to the song of the birds.
Carols a song as blithe as they.

'Tis a song that is old as time itself,
Yet ever divinely new and young,
Pleading, commanding, joyous, sad,
Sweeter than anything ever sung.

Children and grown-ups, birds and beasts,
Everything living beneath the sun,
Follow where Love the Piper leads—
Pan and Orpheus, both in one.

And you and I will follow him too,
With hearts a-tune to his carol gay;
Hand in hand we'll follow the road
Where Love the Piper leads the way.
—M.C.

ON A CERTAIN LADY AT COURT

I know a thing that's most uncommon;
(Envy, be silent and attend!)
I know a reasonable woman,
Handsome and witty, yet a friend.

Not warp'd by passion, awed by rumour;
Not grave through pride, nor gay through folly;
An equal mixture of good humour
And sensible, soft, melancholy.

Has she no faults then (Envy says,) Sir?
Yes she has one, I must aver;
When all the world conspires to praise her,
The woman's deaf and does not hear.
—Alexander Pope.

As only mothers can;

—Whittier.

Ah! what would the world be to us,
If the children were no more?
We should dread the desert behind us
Worse than the dark before.
—Longfellow.

Children sweeten labors, but they make misfortunes more bitter: They increase the cares of life, but they mitigate the remembrance of death.

When life seemed formed of sunny years,
And all the heart then knew of pain
Was wept away in transient tears.

I remember, I remember
The fir-trees dark and high;
I used to think their slender tops
Were close against the sky:
It was a childish ignorance,
But now 'tis little joy
To know I'm farther off from heaven
Than when I was a boy.

This sleeveless jumper frock boasts a greater number of advantages than the proverbial college education. First of all, it is comfortable for sports both in the sensible way it allows freedom of arm movement and in the smart way it meets hot weather, having all the thinness of the two-piece sweater suit but none of the warmth. Then too it may be made in a wide range of materials—woolens, silks and cottons—and requires very little of it, 3½ yards of a 36 inch material being enough to make size 34, even though ample fullness is introduced in the inserted plait section. After a hard game, a fresh blouse completely restores one's appearance.

CHIEF OF INDIANS PASSED AWAY

Quesnel, B.C., June 16.—Sam Chief, the blind chief of the last dwindling band of Port Alexandria Indians, died here recently.

Sam Chief, was a link with the Cariboo gold mining days, when provisions and supplies for the prospectors were carried over the long trail by Indian packer and pony instead of by railroad and auto truck, as now. To the long ago he was a cook to the Hudson's Bay factor at Fort Alexandria.

Soviets Sentence Commander Klepikoff and Wife

Moscow, June 17.—The military and naval tribunal at Kronstadt has sentenced to death Commander Klepikoff who formerly commanded a ship in the Baltic fleet, on charges of espionage for Great Britain.

Klepikoff's wife was sentenced to three years' imprisonment for complicity.

The commander, who allegedly confessed to the charges, was accused of giving a report to a British intelligence agent residing in Finland containing information regarding the condition of the Soviet armed forces, particularly the navy.

CHINESE NURSES WITHDRAW THEIR LAND FOR MEET

Toronto, Ont., June 15 (C.P.).—Owing to the official withdrawal of the Chinese nurses of their invitation to the International Council of Nurses to meet in China in 1929, a question arose was submitted at the meeting of the Florence Nightingale Association with regard to different details concerning the Congress. The Canadian nurses last July at Helsingfors had extended an invitation for the Congress to be held in Canada. It was also announced that the executive of the Canadian Nurses' Association had empowered Miss Shaw, now enroute to Geneva, to renew the invitation to the nurses from all over the world to meet in Canada for their next Congress.

Miss Gunn moved that Toronto be the place of meeting named by the Florence Nightingale Association for the Congress owing to the large number of members in the profession, the facilities for accomodation of delegates and the fact that it was a typically Canadian city. It was also moved that the first two weeks in July be selected for the date of the convention. These recommendations will be forwarded to the C. N. A.

ST. PATRICK'S TO LOSE ITS BELL

Montreal, Que., June 15 (Canadian Press).—A bell with a history is about to be removed from the belfry of St. Patrick's Church. It is 100 years old, as the following inscription upon it testifies:

"Lester and Pack of London—Fecit 1767.

"At proper time my voice will raise in sounding my benefactor's praise."

It came to St. Patrick's as a gift from Notre Dame in December 1846 with a larger sister bell, "Charlotte" which has also an historic value and is now part of the chimes of the Irish church.

When in 1910 the full set of new chiming bells were installed in St. Patrick's tower, no further use was found for the little bell which was left in the tower however, out of respect for its old age. For all these years it has remained still.

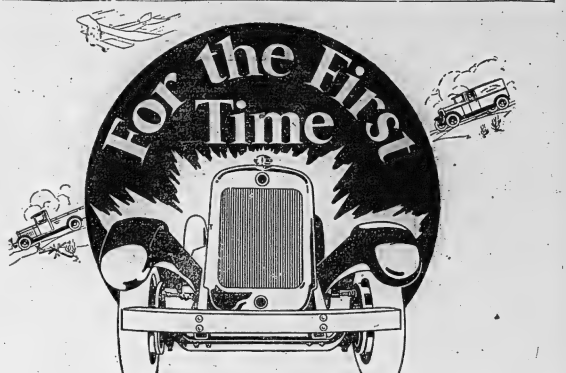

At a recent meeting of the church wardens of St. Patrick's at the request of the pastor, Father McShane, the bell which has no intrinsic value but rather a sentimental and historic one, was presented to the new chapel at Camp Kinkora in the Laurentians near Ste. Agathe.

B. C. WILL TRY TO RAISE THE OBNOXIOUS WEED

Victoria, B.C., June 16.—Experiments in growing tobacco on the coast of British Columbia will be undertaken this year at the direction of Hon. T. O. Coventry, M.L.A., for Saanich, who believes that imperial preference will make it possible for British Columbia tobacco to take a strong hold on Old Country markets.

While the Okanagan valley, in the interior of British Columbia, has been growing tobacco in large quantities for several years, this is the first time that an attempt has been made to produce it on the coast. Mr. Coventry will plant the leaf on Vancouver Island.

"The market for coast grown tobacco would be practically unlimited," said Mr. Coventry. "Apart from the markets of this country, there is a big market in Great Britain, as quite apart from sentimental feeling, there is a preferential tariff on Empire grown tobacco. At the present time the Old Country is growing its huge African tobacco which is quite different in taste from that of America, and in part to ourselves. On the other hand, if we can produce suc-

Aeroplane Smoothness!
Effortless Power!
Rugged Endurance!

THERE has never been a truck like this before. There has never been a truck that sailed so sweetly over the roughest kind of roads. That pulled so quietly under the heaviest of loads! That had so much power to spare, and never labored. That stood up so sturdily in spite of rough usage! That was so well-suited for its business of being a truck—

As this new General Motors Truck, with its super-strength, real truck chassis and its powerful, six-cylinder engine (vibrationless beyond belief) built by Buick.

The NEW General Motors Truck smashes every old-fashioned idea that a rugged truck meant a rough truck. It is a regular glutton for work—a brute for punishment—yet it hums along the highway with the ease and smoothness of a plane gliding through the air.

And the long-life built into the famous Buick motor is the best guarantee of economy in operation and freedom from trouble and expense.

The New General Motors Trucks—1-ton—1½ ton—2-ton—and 2½ ton—are equipped with Air Cleaner, Oil Filter, Crankcase Ventilator, Counter-Balanced Crankshaft, Torsion Balancer, new Improved Steering, and countless other quality, long-life features you never expected to see incorporated in any truck, and which add immeasurably to the efficiency and economy of the General Motors Truck.

Only General Motors could build such a truck —and only General Motors could achieve such amazingly low prices.

Says Dangerous Varicose Veins Can Be Reduced at Home

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way.

If you or any relative or friends are worried because of varicose veins, or bunches, the best advice that anyone in this world can give you is to ask your druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you will notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are of normal size. So penetrating and powerful is Emerald Oil that even Piles are quickly subdued. Doyle's Drug Store sells lots of it.

CHRYSLER MAKES RECORD TRANS CONTINENT RUN

From San Francisco To New York In 79 Hours 55 Minutes

In the most spectacular exhibition of motor car performance ever given a Chrysler Imperial "80" five passenger phaeton, driven by the owner, L. B. Miller, of San Francisco, over the famous Lincoln Highway, broke all trans-continental automobile records when it pulled up in New York Friday evening, June 3, at 8.55 o'clock, just 79 hours and 55 minutes after being officially checked out of San Francisco.

The time elapsed was 3 hours and 7 minutes faster than the previous record, also held by Miller, who drove a car of another make over the same route last August, in 83 hours and 12 minutes.

The feat of covering the distance over the historic Lincoln Highway, 3285 miles in 79 hours and 55 minutes not only stands as a record in point of time but represents an achievement in automobile endurance, stamina and dependability which in the opinion of Miller, places the Chrysler in a position of unchallenged supremacy over all other automobiles as the outstanding motor car of the world.

The time of the trip was checked by the Lincoln Highway association and the Western Union Telegraph Company. Officials of both organizations were present at the Terry Build ing to stamp Miller's cards on leaving and at the New York end of the run to verify the time of arriving.

Miller attributes his success in performing his remarkable feat to a combination of automobile excellence and superior lighting, which enabled him to make better time than before in both day and night driving.

With Miller, as on his trip last August, was J. E. Weber, of Portland, Oregon, who acted as relief driver. Throughout the entire run neither man slept a wink and the only stops were for gasoline and oil. At filling stations brick ice-cream, ordered ahead by wire, was ready for the drivers to take in the car, and this was the nearest approach to solid food they ate during the three days and more of driving. Coffee and orange juice, carried in thermos bottles, supplemented it as nourishment.

"One qualification I must have in my car, of course, was the ability to maintain exceptionally high speed. I had to have this quality in order to break the record I made last year. This limited the range of selection right at the start of the search, for the number of automobiles that can cross this continent in less than 2 hours consecutive driving is very small, I assure you.

"But the car I wanted had to have other qualities beside speed. I was compelled to look also for a high decree of roadability, exceptionally quick acceleration, absolutely dependable brakes and ease of handling. I suppose I am as careful a driver as any of the record holders, seeing that in all my transcontinental trips I have never dented a fender or knocked a hubcap off a car, but to the best of drivers there comes emergencies in a trip like this when nothing but instantaneous response to steering or braking motions will prevent an accident that might be disastrous.

"To get all the qualities imperative to needed I quickly decided that the Chrysler Imperial '80' alone would serve the purpose, and I went to Detroit in April and picked out this phaeton at the Chrysler factory.

Elgin County paid $50,975 in school grants during 1926.

Mr. Harry Greenleaf, popular head of Greenleaf's, Limited, one of Belleville's old - established firms.

3 GENERATIONS IN 38 YEAR OLD ESTABLISHMENT

Striking Influence of Heredity In Greenleaf Family

Spanning uninterruptedly a period of thirty-eight years and within that time controlled by three generations of the same family, is the enviable record of one of, Belleville's leading industries—The Greenleaf Company.

The influence of heredity noted in strange ways. Little could Mr. O. C. Greenleaf, who, with his son Harry, established the Greenleaf Machine Shop away back in '89 foresee the business of today into which it has developed. From father to son, the Greenleaf Company passed and today finds Mr. Harry Greenleaf and his son representing the third generation, pursuing the same line and still building increasing business.

Located first on Front street, the firm later moved its quarters on Pinnacle at Victoria, then to Station St., where for some fourteen years 'Green leafs' have carried on. And it is note worthy and a tribute to the efficiency of the service and quality of the work turned out that few accounts once opened by this firm have been lost.

Witnessing two great wars in its long existence, the South African and the World War, the Greenleaf Company has weathered the consequent periods of industrial depression and emerged from each a sounder and bigger institution. During the world war the British Chemicals of Trenton situated greatly the machine shop and foundry work, with specialty work, but the close restored business to a more normal footing and the consequent deflation in no way affected it.

Mr. Harry Greenleaf, the energetic and capable manager, has for years taken an active part in every movement for the betterment and progress of the city. Elected in 1922 to the aldermanic council, he was an active member of the Old Fair Board, and through the circulation of a petition was instrumental in having a by-law passed bringing into being the New Fair Board, and everyone knows what that body has accomplished in the two years of its existence. Mr. Greenleaf has done much by his activities on the present Fair Board, to make into a reality the dream of a Fair grounds such as Belleville has today.

Such men as Harry Greenleaf are assets to any city, men rni only with civic pride, such as he, who really work quietly and efficiently for their city's welfare—perhaps without due recognition—but who also play their part from an industrial viewpoint to make their home city a better place in which to live.

LOCAL BUSINESS COLLEGE AIDS CANADA'S RISE

Reunion Next Year Planned To Celebrate Its 60th Anniversary

In every town and city in Canada there are men and women holding responsible and prominent positions who at some time attended Ontario Business College here. These thousands of former students of this Belleville institution have made a particularly large contribution to Canada's wonderful commercial development—a contribution for which Belleville and the O.B.C. can take a share of the credit.

Ontario Business College was founded in 1868—the year after Confederation—and next year will be celebrating its sixtieth anniversary or diamond jubilee. Some prominent graduates of the College in Canada and the United States have suggested a great reunion here next summer of all the living graduates of O.B.C. from all over the Continent and the far South.

Northern War Lords Agree To Settle Differences And Unite

Peking, China, June 17.—Marshal Chang Tso Lin, becomes the political as well as the military dictator of Northern China under the new Ankuochun (Northern Alliance) program which was outlined by the spokesman this afternoon. It was stated that the change had not yet been given his final approval but that he was expect ed to do so within 24 hours.

The spokesman said that "General Issimo" was an ladequate translation of Chang's new title which would include command of both the army and navy and direct responsibility for the civil government which now is in process of formation with Pan Fu as Premier.

All the Northern war lords have approved the plan, which awaits only upon Chang's acceptance. They decided it was necessary to have a united command of all the Northern armies, wiping out provincial distinctions between the Shantung Chihli and Manchurian forces and providing a degree of cohesion lacking in the old Ankuochun organization.

BOOTLEGGER WAS FIRST USED BY GEORGE MUNROE

Claims First Use of World-Wide Application of Term

Vancouver, B.C., June 16.—The term "bootlegger," which during the past few years has been given world-wide application was first coined by George Munro, of this city, according to his own claim.

Mr. Munro is now 82 years old and he says that the word was given its first usage long before the dry laws in this part of the country were conceived.

"In the early days of confederation on the C.P.R.," recalled Mr. Munro "an old Irishman managed to peddle whiskey up and down the line in spite of the surveillence of policeman on the lookout for liquor. He invariably wore a pair of long-legged rubber boots out of which the bottles were known to emerge for the right customers. I called him bootlegger and the name stuck, and people all down the coast applied it to everybody mixed up in the illegal sale of liquor.

THIRD DEGREE IS FROWNED ON

Supreme Court In Granting New Trail Expresses Disapproval

Ottawa, June 17.—The Supreme Court of Canada today set its stamp of disapproval on any police methods in Canada savoring of the third third degree—although the term itself was not used. In a formal judgment granting a new trial for Joseph Sankey, an Indian convicted of murder at Prince Rupert, B.C., Chief Justice Anglin said: "We felt, however, that we should not part from this case without expressing our view that proof of the voluntary character of accused's statement to police which was put in evidence against him, is most unsatisfactory. That statement put in writing by a police officer was obtained only by a fourth questioning to which accused was subjected on the day following his arrest. Three attempts to lead him to 'talk' had apparently proved abortive—why, we are left to surmise. No particulars are vouchsafed as to what transpired at any of the three previous 'interviews' and but meagre details are given of the process by which the written statement ultimately signed by the appellant was obtained.

FACISTS WILL ABOLISH HATS

Rome, June, 10.—The abolition of the hat as a permanent part of the men's sartorial equipment is scheduled as the next step in Fascist Rome's return to ancient customs.

Almost coincident with the introduction in Paris of short pants and collarlessness, the press here has started a campaign for the reduction in the wearing of hats by men to a minimum, arguing the triple virtue of hygiene, greater comfort, and greater "Romanity."

On grounds of hygiene the eternal city's dress reformers maintain that wearing a hat is more dangerous than handshaking, which has been officially replaced by the microbeless "Roman salute," which consists of raising the right arm. Hair, they say, should be enough to cover Italian heads, hats being artificial, pampering the head and leading to colds and baldness.

COMMENDS WAY OF LAYING OUT OF IND. TOWNS

Vancouver, B.C., June 16. — The Town Planning Institute of Canada, now assembled at its seventh annual convention here, has resolved that it commends the efforts of those promoters of Industrial Towns in Canada who have adopted the methods of modern Town Planning in the development of their areas for industrial and social life.

However, the institute in convention, cannot but observe, that in some cases of new-town development, little recognition is being paid to the fact that a new science of town building has been born which is attracting the attention of the whole civilized world and has amply proved its efficiency both from an economical and social point of view.

It is being pointed out that certain forms of town planning and development must enviably produce social industrial era in the older countries industrial era in the older countries from which those countries are now trying to escape at a vast expenditure of national funds, which produced intolerable suffering, misery and broken health among the victims of such developments and created irredeemable areas of squalid congestion that have remained a disgrace to civilization.

The Institute would appeal to the Provincial Legislatures to protect the future citizens of Canada by exercising town planning control over all new-town areas and establishing the principle that the interests of human life are not less important than the interests of industry.

The thoroughness of our methods are widely RECOGNIZED

Three Power Disarmament Conference Gets Down To Work

Geneva, June 20.—The tri-partite naval conference for the further limitation of naval armaments was formally opened this afternoon with the presentation of the United States proposals by Hugh S. Gibson, head of that country's delegation. There are indications that the league of nations mandate commission which began its sessions today will vote a seat to Germany. It gives a seat on the commission Germany will have a voice in the administration of her former colonies.

Opening the conference which was called by President Coolidge, Hugh Gibson, the chairman, proposed that cruisers be limited to tonnage of 250,000 to 300,000 tons for the United States and British Empire and to 150,000 or 180,000 tons for Japan. Destroy er total tonnage would be restricted to 200,000 or 250,000 tons for the two major powers and to 120,000 to 150,000 for Japan. Maximum tonnage for United States and British submarines would be 60,000 to 90,000 tons with 36,000 to 54,000 fixed for Japan.

Mr. Gibson presented his proposal after a brief address in which he presented an expression of gratitude to and declared that the United States the powers from President Coolidge is prepared to accept the general programme providing for as low a total tonnage," as is acceptable to the other powers.

Extend 5-5-3- Principle

Geneva, June 20.—Extension of the 5-5-3 principle of naval strength to cruisers, destroyers and submarines by the United States, Great Britain and Japan was proposed today to the three-power naval limitation conference by the United States delegation.

Reduction in the size of the battleships of the future from the present limit to 35,000 tons to under 30,000 tons was recommended by Rt. Hon. W. C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty, Great Britain's representative who thus opened matters which had been settled by the Washington conference.

Limit Size of Submarines

Mr. Bridgeman advocated limiting the size of individual submarines to 1600 tons and suggested making life of battleships 26 years instead of 20 years; also that the three powers waive their rights under replacement tables agreed upon at Washington.

He further proposed limiting the size of all future cruisers to 25,000 tons and their armament to six inch guns. He recommended the limitation of aircraft carriers to 25,000 tons displacement instead of 27,000; reduction of guns on aircraft carriers from eight inches to six, and reduction of guns on battleships from .16 inches to 13.5.

BREWERY KEPT ON THE JUMP THIS MORNING SUPPLYING THE DEMAND

Office To Be Kept Open Evenings This Week To Handle Rush

Officials at the Quinte Brewery were kept on the move today supplying the demands of local permit-holders. Commencing at nine o'clock this morning a steady stream of citizens presented themselves at the temporary office, 194 Front Street, to cash their permits. Preparations had been made to handle the thirsty ones by the concern and little time was lost as each customer smilingly walked up to the clerks with his slip entitling him to his beer. So great was the rush that the office and delivery quarters will remain open until 9 o'clock each evening during this week.

Permits were presented to Richard H. Howard, President of the Brewery and George Harris, Secretary, at the Front Street office where they received the Inspector's order bearing the name of the purchaser and directed to the rear of the brewery where Government Inspector Exley received the papers, initialled them, marked the back of the permit, gave the original to his beer and sent him on his way rejoicing.

The entrance to the bottling room was filled with a steady stream of men with the foaming ale piled high in cartons, the different sized packages to suit purchasers.

Those holding the necessary permits are allowed to order as much beer as they desire.

Applicants from not only Belleville but Kingston, Peterboro and Toronto as well were on deck. Orders may be delivered to any part of the city with an extra charge of 20c.

ELECT OFFICERS

Biggest Crowd of the Year Expected For Annual Convention

From all corners of the riding Conservatives will gather this coming Wednesday afternoon for the annual convention of the South Hastings Conservative Association which takes the form of a picnic in the Stirling Agricultural Grounds.

There are two important pieces of business to be transacted after which it will be a matter of everybody having a good time right up until the last number on the list of dances and numbers sometime after midnight. The business part of the meeting is called for one o'clock when the association officers will be elected for the coming year. After the South Hastings delegates for the Winnipeg National convention next October will be selected and the meeting will be addressed by Hon. Huch Guthrie, and a number of other prominent Conservatives.

South Hastings, like every other Federal riding, is limited to send five delegates to Winnipeg, one of which will be the sitting member, Mr. W. C. Trumpour. These delegates may be men or women and will be chosen in much the same manner as the candidate is selected.

Each municipal organization will be entitled to the same number of votes as they have for a candidate, that is Belleville will have sixty-six and Thurlow thirty-six votes, etc. The names of those willing to go to Winnipeg will be placed in nomination and the four securing the highest number of votes will be named as the official delegates for the riding and the next four will be alternates.

Prospects are for a record attendance and plans are practically completed for ensuring that everyone attending will find this one of the most enjoyable outings of the year.

Greet Mr. Guthrie

Local Conservatives are requested to gather at the North C. N. R. Station with their cars to meet the Hon. Hugh Guthrie, who is coming in Belleville on the 12:02 train from Toronto. After greeting Mr. Guthrie the whole party will be in procession to the Stirling grounds.

BOY EMPEROR OF CHINESE SAYS LEADERS ARE ROTTEN

London, June 20.—China is suffering from "too many rotten generals" and "too many rotten leaders" and an Emperor, Huan Tung, former "Boy Emperor" of China, who has lived in the Japanese concession at Tientsin since he was ejected from Imperial Palace at Peking in 1924, said in Tientsin correspondent of the Daily Express.

Huan Tung states that it is "no pleasure to be an Emperor or a King today" and admits that he is "not good enough morality or sanctity" to be a father to the people of China.

Discussing the present state of his country he says there is "nothing but Maladministration, treachery, bribery and wars. China is suffering from too many rotten generals. They are every where, fighting and marching backwards and forwards—not for China but for themselves."

Chang Tso-Lin, he declares, "is like all the rest of them, except that he seems to have made determined stand against Bolshevism".

POPE EULOGIZES FAITHFUL CLERGY

Gives Message For The Persecuted In Mexico, France and China

Rome, June 20.—Monsignor Van Roey, who succeeded the late Cardinal Mercier as Archbishop of Malines was created a Cardinal by Pope Pius at a secret consistory this morning. Monsignor Hlond, Archbishop of Posen, Poland, was also raised to Cardinalate.

The Pope in an allocution paid tribute to the Roman Catholic hierarchy of the United States for their aid in making known the true situation of the Catholics in Mexico, and expressed keen sorrow over the tribulations of the Chinese people, which he said, resulted from no fault of the Chinese, who naturally were peace and order loving, but from doctrines imported from abroad.

Referring to Mexico, the Pope said that that noble country continued to shed her blood for religious liberty and that her episcopacy, clergy and faithful must be included among the glorious confessors of which the annals of the church can boast.

"If persecution can tear bishops from their sees anxious as they are to fight and die with their flocks," he declared, "it can never tear them from the heart of the Pope."

Referring to France, the Pope said that the ancient eldest daughter of the church vowed that he the Pope' did not know the true situation there or was misinformed by his ministers, "whose loyalty in fact is above praise" or that because of party passions "we are working for the reconstruction of some kind of empire or that we are misled by affection for some nation, or that we trespass the limits of our authority by ordering actions against patriotism."

The God-parents were Richard and Lottie Duesberry, and Frank Rushlow and Mrs. Ida Johnson all of Belleville, and as each boy, according to the custom of the Church of England required two God-fathers and one God-mother and the girl two God-mothers and one God-father, the quartette of God-parents each answered for two of the babies.

The little Rushlows, the first triplets ever christened in St. Thomas' Church in Belleville, behaved in a most admirable manner and never protested in the least at the ceremony but gazed with open amusement at the priest as he repeated the work of the solemn rite.

GIRL CONFESSES TO PAY LIGHT SENTENCE

Stated Case Over Famous Fifty Hour Week Comes Up Later

In the Crowns Appeal against William Gilbert, Junior, for stealing Harry Ketcheson's automobile on June 14th, heard before His Honour Judge Deroche in Division Court today, Gilbert was found guilty of the offense and fined $1.00, without costs.

Mr. Ketcheson, in his evidence, stated that he had never given Gilbert permission to drive his new car, although the accused used to take his old one sometimes without Ketcheson's consent. It was on these lines that Mr. Payne, Gilbert's lawyer, based his defence, claiming that Ketcheson had never revoked his permission to Gilbert to use the car, and that the boy had thought Ketcheson would not mind if he took it for a joy ride once in a while.

In rebuttal the accused, His Honour said: "I do not think Gilbert had the right to take the car. Mr. Ketcheson did not give his consent and I am satisfied that Gilbert would not have taken the permission if he had asked for it."

Both the counsel for the defense and for the Crown pleaded for a light sentence.

FLOWER SERVICE A LOVELY SCENE

Bridge Street Church Beautifully Decorated For Annual Event

At sevrm o'clock yesterday morning the annual flower service at Bridge Street Church was held and was most successful, being largely attended by both old friends and strangers. The auditorium of the church was beautifully decorated for the occasion.

Rev. Dr. P. S. Maloff, the Minister, delivered an inspiring address on "The Work of the Garden" and told what gardens can teach the people "The garden does not only supply our needs in the way of food but also furnishes beauty for our souls" stated the minister.

Dr. Maloff stated that we should love beauty because God loved beauty and scattered beauty all over the earth. "Gardens also teach us wholesomeness and dignity of toil" stated the minister, who continuing said "there is no more healthful and helpful work than that of gardening". The preacher said that gardens are places of peace and quietness and that people are almost sure to meet God in the gardens.

About thirty boys and girls assisted the choir with Kenneth Mummings taking the solo part of the first anthem. The combined choirs gave three numbers.

Promotions were made from one department of the Sunday School to another the list of which will appear in to-morrow's Intelligencer.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

I would rather have lost honorably than gained basely.
SYRUS.

STRANGE LAW

Strange things happen in the courts of the world. In 1905 Vuco Perovich was arrested in Alaska, and convicted of first degree murder. In the ordinary course of events he would have gone to the gallows, but President Howard Taft exercised clemency and changed the sentence to life imprisonment.

But Perovich protested. He did not like the idea of going to jail for life, much rather would he take the death walk to the gallows and be done with it.

In 1925 a Kansas district judge ruled that the presidential right to annul a sentence by pardon did not include the right to alter it.

Thus the claim was established that Perovich was being illegally detained, so he secured his release under a writ of habeas corpus.

Regaining his freedom, Mr. Perovich set about to make a living, and for the next two years has been the presiding genius in a small shop where he mowed the whiskers and clipped the hair of the community.

But some person took the trouble to appeal that Kansas decision, and last week it came before the supreme court, head of which is Chief Justice ex-President Taft.

The outcome was that the guess made by that Kansas judge was declared all wrong, so Vuco Perovich, the barber of two years' habeas corpus standing, was told to close up the shop and scamper back to prison.

Sentenced to death, sent down for life, let out and put back in again. What next?

UNDER PROHIBITION

A responsible police official of New York declared the other day that there are at least 100,000 "speakeasies" in that city. That means one for every 60 of New York's population. Now every sixty people a place where liquor can be obtained by illicit purchase, a place where the law is violated as a matter of course, a place which is a breeding ground for crime, a rendezvous for criminals and crooks of all kinds.

And Detroit is no better. Before prohibition, the Detroit News tells us, there were 1250 licensed saloons in that city; now, according to the official estimate of the commissioner of police, there are from 15,000 to 20,000 speakeasies or "blind pigs" in Detroit. Last year 31,000 arrests were made there for violation of the liquor laws, and a million gallons of liquor was seized.

And yet there is no doubt that in numerous small towns and villages and in almost all rural districts the prohibitory law is strictly enforced and well observed. New York and Detroit are not so much exceptions to the rule as they are typical cases. It will probably be found that in no considerable centre of population is prohibition successfully enforced and in such places moral conditions are usually worse than they were under the license system.

It would seem that the fairest and also the most effective way of dealing with the liquor problem is by recognizing the facts of the situation and by acting in harmony with them—that is, by applying the principle of local option as we now have it in Ontario. Where prohibitory law can be enforced satisfactorily a majority of the people will likely be in favor of it; and where a majority are against it the chance of satisfactory enforcement is practically nil. Each community should have the right to decide whether it shall be put under the law or stay outside.

TAKING TIME

The funeral procession that held you up as you were driving along the street, was in honor of a man who hadn't time. He was only 54, yet in that brief span of years had built a fine substantial business. He couldn't be entertained away from his desk. One meeting followed another. One conference crowded up another. His daily correspondence was a veritable mound. He hadn't time for anything but business—until they called in the undertaker.

Most of us have the promise of a good three score years and ten. Twenty-five of these years we spend in growing up and getting prepared to make good. Then we work madly for another twenty-five years or so, promising ourselves to sit down and enjoy the last ten or twenty years, with a big roll in the bank. But the life insurance statistics suggest that that promise is not always performed.

So, why make that promise? Why delay the fun of living until that golden moment of your dreams when you are going to take it easy? Why wait?

Life is only so long. Nobody can count on a good things it offers into a decade. Even though you live, age will creep on to take away the bloom from the things you planned to do. You can't motor across the Continental Divide at 60 and get the same punch out of it you could have gotten at 40. At 60 you cannot hike in the woods and brave the dangers of the outdoors as you did when young.

What does it profit a man to gain the whole world and then shuffle off? What is the sense of making a great pile of money and lose the power to enjoy it?

Horace Greeley, who died untimely at 61, promised a friend shortly before the end, that he expected to quit the game soon and go fishing. But he never did. He hadn't time.

RECONCILIATION

We have quarrelled too much, you and I;
We have trifled too long with love
Whilst we let the cantankerous die
In our hearts, and hereafter move
Under a virtonal sky
As broad as the heavens above?

We have elevated the days of their joy;
We have wasted the happy hours;
We have let the base passions allay.
And trodden on life's fair flowers.
But now, love of mine, let's enjoy
The Wonderful Day that is ours.

CONFEDERATION AND AFTER
Sixty Years of Progress

Toronto, June 13.—The appreciative diamond jubilee lends particular interest to the pre-Confederation literature of those days. Many have contributed to form the Dominion of Canada; and most notably in these books which picture the pioneer life of the wilderness frontier.

Prominent in this group is the work of two sisters, Catherine and Susanna Strickland, who came to Upper Canada from Suffolk, England, early in the 19th century.

In 1831, Catherine married a Lieutenant Traill, and Susanne, a Lieutenant Moodie, both of the 21st Fusiliers; and in the following year, the two families emigrated to Canada. The Moodies settled near Cobourg, in Upper Canada, moving, thereafter to the new south of Peterborough; while the Traills established themselves in the Rice Lake district.

The wild state of what is today a prosperous agricultural region of Ontario, the difficulties of transportation the arduous and isolated existence endured by early settlers who sought to hack farms from the forest, are vividly pictured in the pages of Susanne's "Roughing it in the Bush," and Catherine's "The Canadian Crusoes."

Their new surroundings seem to have supplied impetus to the creative imagination of the sisters. The very milles of forest which shut them off from the intellectual world to which they were bred yielded them in return for this injury, rich literary material. The unfamiliar scenes and people about them must have breathed inspiration and this store of newly-won colors the records they have left behind.

"Roughing it in the Bush" enjoyed an extended popularity in England following its publication in book form in 1854. It is the best known of their works, which number in all, a score of volumes, many others of which make entertaining reading. Numerous passages in these same tales may appear quaint to the Canadian reader of today, surrounded as he is by all modern conveniences. He may forget that pioneer farmers are still fighting the same battles on a frontier that has moved many hundreds of miles; month since the days of the Strickland sisters. But however naive they may seem, the novels are still excellent reading for all who love a spice of adventure in their literary fare.

One book in particular shows the diligence with which the sisters studied their new environment. This is "Plant Life in Canada," by Catherine Parr Traill. This work may not be very valuable from a scientific point of view, but it must be regarded from etchings by Susanne Moodie.

THIS BUOY DRIFTED ACROSS ATLANTIC

London, June 20.—A buoy belonging to the Canadian Government which broke away from its official duties on the Canadian coast two years ago, and had since been lost to view, has been found in the Firth of Clyde, and has been claimed by the government at Ottawa. Despite its long and adventurous across the Atlantic, the drifting buoy's light was still functioning when the wanderer was found.

The buoy is of the gas type. It is being towed to Port Glasgow, where it will be overhauled for its owner.

Skin Is Now Clear
Had Disfiguring Eczema
Two letters which tell how Dr. Chase's Ointment has cleared the skin of Eczema.

It is not unusual for people to use pleasant smelling salves and lotions for diseases of the skin with the idea that they have medicinal value. This is of course a mistake.

Dr. Chase's Ointment is a medicinal preparation which is composed of the most effective ingredients known to science. For this reason it is looked upon as the standard treatment for eczema and similar skin troubles.

Mrs. Sadie Wald, Lumsdville, Que., writes:—

"My little sister's face was all covered with eczema, which even spread to her ears and was just a mass of running sores. We tried several kinds of salve, but without success, until we saw in Dr. Chase's Almanac several testimonials upholding your Ointment as a relief for eczema. After using a couple of boxes, she was entirely free from sores and thanks to the Ointment, her face is left without any disfigurement."

Miss Clara Yates, Indian Centre, Que., writes:—

"I had very stubborn little sores on my face, for which I used Dr. Chase's Ointment, when the sores entirely disappeared. Dr. Chase's Ointment is the only ointment I would dare to recommend. I have also used the K. & L. Pills, which I found very beneficial."

C.P.R. Observation Car Combines New Features

The above photograph shows the latest type of observation car to be used by the Canadian Pacific Railway this summer through the Canadian Rockies. It is essentially an all-weather car, being designed so that the traveller may gain an unobstructed view of the passing mountain scenery even though there might happen to be a shower in progress. This car will take the place of the open top cars used in past seasons by the Canadian Pacific in the mountains.

FEW ACCIDENTS

Yesterday's rainy and uncertain weather kept a good many motorists off the highway and as a result there were less motor accidents than usual although those who did venture out found the roads somewhat treacherous especially late last evening. Three cars were in the ditch between Belleville and Trenton although none of them were seriously damaged. A Ford and a Chevrolet left the highway near Trenton while another car took to the ditch near R. J. Graham's residence. The fender of a car driven by Murray Hall was slightly bent when struck by another car on George Street early last evening.

The happy evening came to an end about midnight. PERFECTLY EDUCATED BUT NOT FOR WORK

By ELSIE MARLOWE

She can play the "Sextette" and sing the "Mad Scene." She can paint a picture and recite the soliloquy from Hamlet. She went through High School and learned to draw beautiful maps of the Battle of Gettysburg, and she translated Homer from Greek to Latin. Then she settled down to live on "Dad's fine salary."

But Tragedy stalked her. Dad died. The salary ceased. Now she has a few dollars between herself and dependence.

How pitifully often such a thing happens. Sometimes it's Father who goes, or a husband is suddenly taken, or perhaps investments fail, and the girl who plays the piano and sings high C is left with an empty purse.

"But I have had a splendid education. I can do almost anything, although of course, I have had no special training for the business world" she says. Bravely and blithely she starts out to get herself a job. But WHAT business service has she been trained to give? None at all—for the business world is not interested in her.

Here's Lina today looking for a job. Will she get it?

DEAR ELSIE:

I am a motherless and fatherless girl of twenty. Mother died when I was three and father just a month ago. Daddy had a wonderful position and he gave me everything. But Daddy is dead now, Elsie. There is nothing left, but a $5,000 life insurance. Over $2000 of that will go for debts. Dad and I lived in a hotel, so I haven't even a home now.

I'm staying with my mother's people just now. They want me to stay for good. But I think I should be self-supporting. Am I wrong in this? Surely there must be a place for me in the business world. I am capable I know and I have had a good education. I am sure that I could do any work that wouldn't require any special training.

LINA.

But jobs in the business world do require training, Lina, dear. The world of business is a specialized world. You must have noticed that training counts, from your own contacts with the business world. Everyone you meet has been-trained for his service, no matter how trival that service might be. The errand boy, the ticket selling clerk, the nurse, the pharmacist—they're all trained workers. If you want a dress, or whom do you go? Do you go to a person who has a liking for sewing, or perhaps a general knowledge of it? No, you don't. You go to the trained dressmaker. The business fan does the same thing when he wants to buy service. HE EMPLOYS THE PERSON WHO HAS BEEN TRAINED TO GIVE THE SERVICE HE NEEDS.

Of course, there is a place for you in the business world, Lina. BUT YOU'LL HAVE TO PREPARE YOURSELF TO FIT THAT PLACE. How will you do it? FIRST OF ALL YOU MUST FIND OUT WHAT YOU ARE CAPABLE OF DOING. Yes, my dear I said CAPABLE. It isn't always the thing we want to do that pays the rent and buys the steaks and spuds, Lina. It's the thing that WE CAN do that pays the bills on the first of the month.

You say you have a little money. When you find out WHAT you are best fitted to do, invest that money in your self. Buy yourself the training you need. If the business world is where your talents lie, buy yourself a business course. Learn how to run a typewriter. Find out how to keep a set of books. And when you have learned how to do that, start off to look for a job. Your prospective employers will ask to see your wares before they buy them. Have something definite to show.

As for staying with your relatives, don't do it. Don't be indebted to any one for the bread you eat, while you've still got strength and health to earn your own strawberry jam. You will be miserable all your life if you accept their charity. You will lose the biggest and best thing in life—your self-respect.

So invest some money in yourself, Lina. It will pay you good dividends. Buy yourself a good training, in what ever field you are best fitted for. And when you have had this training, go out on your best hat, powder your nose and go out and sell that training. And then you'll hopefully get a raise at the end of the first month.

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN

By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 46.

THE HOUSE BY THE SEA

The late New York spring was well advanced before Oliver Dearborn came to a decision with regard to Sybil.

Little by little, his infatuation conquered his natural caution. And the more he saw of her, the more thoroughly he became convinced that she was not the clinging, sentimental sort that would make trouble for him later. If he committed himself to any extent, his tentative attempts at love-making met with a cool, amused reception. That fact both piqued and reassured him; he was now convinced that a sensible, poised young woman dwelt beneath feminine allure that had the power to turn even such a shrewd and wary head as his.

One sweltering afternoon during a prematurely hot spell, Dearborn drove Sybil to Long Island in search of a cool sea-breeze. He had his plans all made in advance, but he merely suggested that they have tea at some road house near the sea and drive on to Long Beach for dinner.

She was looking very cool and pretty in a frock of pale rose crepe; her face was as fresh as a child's, under the brim of her smart hat. He glanced at her, from time to time, appreciatively, at appratingly, and she smiled back at him with a cool admiration that was both piqued him and encouraged him regarding the Project he had in mind. From the winding Island highway the hot and dusty, they came out in full view of the sea, safe, somnolent, glittering, under a burning sun. A cool, fresh salt air refreshed them, and Sybil sighed gratefully.

"This is something like it, eh?" remarked Dearborn complacently. "What wouldn't the poor wretches in town give for a breath of this to-day?"

Sybil nodded.

"I know. I think of the East side, and all the poor people suffering there, it makes me a little ashamed to enjoy it. And I've even complained that my apartment is hot—when I've got the breeze from the river! And those poor souls have nothing."

She turned her head, and Dearborn carelessly selfish lot, aren't we?"

"Why not?" he demanded impatiently. "Some of us have made our money by our own efforts. We have the right to spend it for our own comfort."

"I wasn't thinking only of money," she retorted. "There are other things—but you don't believe that, do you? Money is your god."

"You think I'm stingy?" he counter red.

She shook her head.

"No, with yourself," she added deliberately.

He laughed, not in the least vexed. He put it upon himself on his current mess at driving a bargain. Sybil had seen him haggle with a merchant over a trifling repair on his car. If he gave a newsboy a dime when he purchased a paper, he never failed to wait for his change. Once he boasted to her that his refusal to pay a ten-cent charge for buttered toast, when he had ordered dry, had led to a fortnight's correspondence with the house manager of his club, and had consumed nearly three times the amount in stamps, which he had deducted from his bill.

After tea in the garden of a roadhouse, where the sea-breeze ruffled the leaves of the grape-arbor that sheltered them from the noisome sun, Dearborn drove along a broad, smooth road bordered by private estates and shaded by luxuriant foliage.

"I want to show you one of the prettiest places in this part of the Island" he said to Sybil.

He drew up before an enormous gate presented, and rang a bell. A servant emerged from a tiny, ivy-covered lodge, and Dearborn spoke with him a few minutes. Then he came back to the car and drove through the gates that the man had opened.

"Who lives here?" asked Sybil, looking around her with appreciation, as the car followed a winding drive through a veritable park.

"Nobody. It's for lease."

"Are we trespassing?" she asked.

"Oh, no. The man is here to show it to anybody who wishes to see it."

The drive widened, and the densely wooded park fell away to reveal a beautifully terraced garden leading up to a low, rambling white house of enormous proportions, with a side veranda and white marble steps flanked by yew trees in green, white urns. There were flowers everywhere—a riotous mass of bloom in the sunlight. Beyond the house and down an incline lay the sea. At the horizon, where lip reed, undulating green met the horizon, lubed blue of the sky a boat with a white sail drifted lazily.

"What a heavenly place!" exclaimed Sybil. "I'd like to stay here forever."

She sprang out of the car without waiting for Dearborn, ran up the shallow steps, and crossed the veranda to look down upon the sea.

"One could put on a bathing-suit in the morning and simply roll down that lovely green hill into one's bath," she laughed, when Dearborn joined her. "Fancy any one permitting such a charming place to remain vacant!"

"Would you care to go through the house?" suggested Dearborn. "I have the keys. The — er — man gave them to me. It's all furnished and ready for occupancy, I believe, linen, silver, everything."

"If that's the case, he's certainly trustful, or else we look very honest," laughed Sybil.

She followed him and passed through the great colonial door which he unlocked. They entered a broad hallway from which stately, lofty rooms opened. Most of the furniture was covered with ghostly wrappings, but Sybil could see that it was both expensive and handsome. Up-stairs she lost count of the number of bedrooms and baths—the house was a veritable hotel, she thought. There was a heavenly sun-room running the length of the house on the south side. What a place for running oneself, when the sea-breeze is too chilly! breathed Sybil.

"You like it? It suits you?" asked Dearborn.

Sybil gave him a scornful glance.

"Do you need to ask that? I was born and raised in a house that would go into one of these rooms. And our garden could be transplanted into a corner of the veranda, with a bit of space left over. The servants' wing would have looked like a palace to me in those days—and I worship beauty."

"So do I," said Dearborn, looking at her steadily.

She moved a bit uneasily and, for some reason, decided to deceive. It flashed over her that the house was frightfully empty—with just Dearborn and herself.

"Would you like to live here, Sybil?" he asked, suddenly putting out his hand to retain her.

"What's the use of asking me?" she shrugged. "The rent is probably enormous. I'm not a millionaire."

"What's expense, if it gives us something we want? Sybil, I want you. Will you live in this house?"

Sybil's head went up with a jerk. She turned her cool, mocking glance upon him.

"Are you asking me to marry you?" she asked sweetly.

STARTS A DRIVE TO COLLECT TAX

Newly Appointed Income Collector Gets After the Delinquents

Ottawa, June 20.—An intensive taxation-wide drive has been undertaken by Commissioner of Income Tax Chester Walters to clean up arrears of income tax owed by corporations and by individuals.

Already over 150 certificates of judgment have been filed by the commissioner with the exchequer court of Canada, and these have been filed regardless of districts, the determination of the department being to clear up the situation in all parts of the country.

Ten days must elapse after the filing of the certificate of judgment before the department may issue execution. The earlier stages of procedure in collecting income tax accounts include, first, issuance of the assessment notice followed by a request for payment.

When the tax bill is not paid after the customary two notices of warning are given by the department then the account is handed over to the legal branch of the department for action. No such action, however, is taken until the lapse of 60 days after the first issuance of the income tax assessment.

It is expected that many more certificates of judgment will be filed in the exchequer court and it is the hope of the minister of national revenue, Hon. William D. Euler, that the income tax situation will be very considerably improved before the end of the year.

for this new hygienic pad that discards easily as tissue—no laundry

By ELLEN J. BICKLAND
Registered Nurse

THERE is now an exquisite successor to the old-time "sanitary pad." A new way that offers far greater protection. A way that ends the old problem of disposal.

Eight in 10 better-class women now use "Kotex."

Discards like tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

Deodorizes, thus ending all danger of offending.

Obtainable at all drug and department stores simply by saying "Kotex." You ask for it without hesitancy.

Be sure to get the genuine. Only Kotex is soft like Kotex. In fairness to yourself, try it.

NOTICE TO WATER USERS

The hours for the use of hose for watering lawns, gardens, or for washing of any kind are from 7 to 9 on the morning and from 5 to 8 in the evening. The Water Works Department are frequently asked if hose used from taps inside the house for watering lawns or gardens or washing cars, should be paid for. The same rate is charged for using hose from an inside tap as from an outside tap.

Owing to the increased cost of electric power rate we are trying to reduce the consumption of water. If you have a leaky tap or taps in your home, office or factory, we will appreciate it very much if you will have same repaired.

Thanking you for your co-operation in the past, which has been of great assistance to us.

E. T. AUSTIN,
Manager Water Works Department.

Veteran of Canadian Service

Mountie, the lead dog of the Chateau Frontenac huskie team, has seen five years active service with the famous Royal Canadian Mounted Police, in the far north. Four years ago he was brought from La Pas, Manitoba, as lead dog for the team in Quebec.

Now in his old age he has every care and attention, eleven years of faithful service should have some recompense. This dog is almost human in every way, and particularly where sex is concerned, this fact is recognized, and as an honored guest he is put into the team. Beauvais, driver of the team cannot resist his dumb appeal not to be counted too old to carry on the work. The faithful brute's entire life has been one of service, and he will cease to be counted in the running. He may rest one day or two, but he evidently has made up his mind to die game, not while he lives will he allow the other lead dogs to take his place entirely, he has not been in the service of the Province of Canada without strife and grit behind him, and the will carry him far to be of use to Winter Sports enthusiasts in old Quebec.

BELLE THEATRE

The young generation triumphs in the person of Dolores Costello, and it is a triumph that, we predict, will extend to the generation to come. With the fair Dolores long holding the position of "first lady of the screen." She has a talent that we believe is close to genius. Since the first made of the doll-like heroine of "The Sea Beast" a vividly alive girl who embodied everyone's dreams of young romance, she has gone on turning typical screen heroines into characters of unforgettable charm and reality. Witness her "Manequin" and her "Bride of the Storm."

But especially witness her work in "The Third Degree," the Warner Bros. production of Charles Klein's police melodrama, now at the Belle Theatre. She brings fresh beauty and life to her every moment in front of the camera.

ALEMITE; MOOSE WIN IND. GAMES

Double Header at Exhibition Park Is Keenly Contested

Two more excellent games were played in the City League at the Exhibition Park on Saturday afternoon. Theatitle are attracting large crowds but the class of ball being played warrants better patronage.

The Moose were much too good for the newly organized Stevens-Adamson Co. in the opening game and won out with a clear cut score of 10-2.

Eddie Hickey has a smart bunch of boys under his wing who will come along with a little coaching. The Moose seemed destined for the championship unless something unforseen happens.

CUP DONATED

The Cup donated by the Eastern Canada Amateur Baseball Association, which will be competed for by the five local City League teams, will have something of added importance to Bill for.

On Saturday afternoon while a spectator at one of the games, he announced that he will donate a $25.00 cup for the league to be known as the Alemite Cup to be played for each year. Any Club winning this cup three years in succession will become permanent owners. This is a step in the right direction, to further the interest of the sport in Belleville.

If the City League continues to play the class of ball that is now being served several young ball players will be brought along and in future years Belleville will be watching the products of the city league perform in fast company.

POSSE KILLS SHERIFF'S SLAYER

Paris, Tenn., June 20.—Joseph Upchurch, negro, who shot and killed Sheriff T. D. Caldwell yesterday afternoon, when the latter attempted to arrest him, was shot to death shortly afterward by a posse of about 50 men. The cabin where the negro had been placed by a deputy sheriff who had arrested him was riddled with bullets by the posse.

Fire still is raging in the forest near Sault Ste Marie and has destroyed $200,000.

BANCROFT INJURED BY IRATE CATCHER

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 20.—Struck on the jaw by Earl Smith, Pittsburgh catcher, during an argument at the home plate yesterday, Dave Bancroft, Boston manager and shortstop, dropped unconscious and was carried to the dressing room.

The blow was struck during the seventh inning, just after Moore and Bancroft had scored on Rechbourg's single. As Bancroft stepped on the plate he stopped and said something to Umpire McCormick. Smith, standing nearby, shot his fist to the Boston manager's jaw, and Bancroft stopped. He was unconscious when picked up by other Boston players, and was rushed to the dressing room.

Smith was ordered from the field. Gooch took his place.

After being carried to the dressing room, it was found that Bancroft's jaw had been cut by the blow. Three stitches were placed in the wound.

No one in the stands or in the press box here had caused the Pirate catcher to attack the Boston manager.

MOTOR SHIP IS ASHORE

Seattle, Wash., June 20.—The motor ship Chilkoonat, of the Pacific Steamship Company today, was reported ashore on an island off Queen Charlotte Sound on the British Columbia coast. The steamer Curacao was proceeding to her assistance. The Chilkoonat was enroute from Seattle to Alaska when she went ashore.

Compulsory vaccination of all school children in Guelph has been ordered.

DELORO TO MEET NATIONALS WED.

Smelters Make Initial Appearance of Season on Local Lot

The Deloro Intermediates will make their initial appearance of the season in the city on Wednesday afternoon. Rain caused a postponement of both games scheduled and this game will decide the leadership of the line of Quinte circuit as Deloro have already beaten Point Anne twice as have the Nationals, so this will be a nip and tuck battle all the way between "Peeny" Mills' well-trained crew and Manager Elliott's versatile collection.

The locals are well-equipped with three heavers, Derry, Gerow and Gibson ready to toe the slab. The first named stepped into the previous affairs and his performance stamps him as a pitcher to be feared.

Bill Ralph has been doing most of the flinging for the smelters of late and the south-paw artist has turned in a couple of masterful exhibitions.

"Billy" Leal, the veteran moundsman is in reserve as is Wade, a lefty who was picked up by Mr. Elliott last year.

This shapes up as one of the best games of the current season and the attendance should be increased from the 1,000 mark. Game time has been forward to a packed stand on Wednesday afternoon. Colling and Gerow will call them on the ball and the game will start at 3.15 sharp.

M'GILL'S UNIQUE JANITOR - POET

Montreal, Que., June 18. (C.P.)—Many universities boast poets; and, all is reasonable to suppose—boast janitors. But McGill is probably the only university in North America which possesses a janitor-poet; a man who composes odes to the rythm of his swinging broom and chants the glory of the temple of learning even while he scrubs its corridors.

Harry Baxter is a retiring, middle-aged man, with the gentle eyes of a dreamer. He has wielded mop and broom in the halls of the commonwealth of learning for so many years now that he has come to regard it as his Alma Mater and has become an invisible part of its life.

Shy and reticent in his manner toward strangers, Harry is always ready to lay aside the implements of mundane calling and discuss poetry with his many friends among the student body. For their benefit he will willingly recite his latest composition, or, with even greater enthusiasm quote by the yard from the works of his guiding star, Shakespeare. And he follows their occasional ventures in the field of literature with the utmost interest.

He will quote for them, with fine ardor, whatever passage from the bard of Avon may seem appropriate to the occasion, for not only is he a wholehearted admirer of Shakespeare, but has attained a thorough knowledge of his works and can render him by the line, page or act with smoothly flowing facility. On such occasions a divine fire leaps to life in his eye and enlivens his gestures.

A like enthusiasm animates the just for part when his own verse is touched upon in the course of conversation. His voice in that of a devotee as he chants for you his most recent effusion—perhaps an affectionate tribute to McGill's glorious past, a memorial ode for the Old Arts Building, or the result of a venture into the shadowy underscurrents of mystical philosophy. The mood is derived from its predestined set like and utilized to beat out metrical feet, instead of to wipe up the mud deposited by material ones.

Harry will tell the new acquaintance that he is of the "Break School" of poets—that is, he is ready to flow on forever. It would be difficult to ascribe his genius any more definite classification. In an occasional abandonment of those manifold moods of melancholy, but the metrical vagaries of the very lyricist fill him with horror. Such titles as "Thoughts on Staight the Floor of the Old Arts Building," and "The Convocation Day Proverbs," are typical of his compositions, indicative the inspirational debt he owes to he academic environment, but he occasionally turns to nature, as in "The First Winter Day". All of his verses can be best appreciated when recited and many are written to be chanted to soft popular tunes as "Swanee River" and "O Canada".

Through Wellington Institute, I scriptor of the U. . Civil War, died in ania, aged 83.

BISONS WIN FROM BEARS IN DRIZZLE

New York, June 20.—Buffalo defeated the Bears at Newark yesterday by the score of 10 to 6 in a game that was played in a pouring rain. Dazzy Vance, Newark pitcher, who had won six straight games, was hit hard and good... almost from start of several innings. Buffalo used five pitchers, Lee Meadows being credited with the victory as the latter, in relief twice retired... in the ninth inning for arguing with the umpire.

Syracuse regained their lead on Saturday when they beat Reading twice at home, 2 to 1 and 5 to 2, while Buffalo beat Newark, 12 to 6. Syracuse are still one and a half games ahead, although they did not play yesterday being rained out at Reading.

BELL TIES SCORE THEN LOSES IT

Jack Scott Performs Iron Man Stunt By Pitching Two Games

St. Louis, Mo., June 20.—Lester Bell and Carding third baseman lasted the Giants to walk until the tenth inning when he scored the Cardinals' only run today and then made it for them with a wild throw that gave the Giants a 4-3 victory in the 11th.

When Lester knocked the ball to the ... in the tenth for a three-base hit and tied the score. When he threw it ... Bell realized that he had made he... lled the knell of a departing game, for that throw let Herring go all the way to third from where he scored on a sacrifice fly with the run that gave the Giants a 4-3 victory and an even break in the series.

The Cubs cut down Pittsburgh's lead to one game in the National league race yesterday by swamping the Phillies, 14 to 3 at Chicago. The Cubs hammered Carmen Hill in the first and sixth innings to take a commanding lead, their attack including three doubles and a home run by Wade with two on base. It was Webb's eighth circuit drive. They launched their final attack on Yde in the eighth, driving him off the hill. Cvengros checked the rally after five runs had been scored. The Pirates bunched his off Root in the third and again in the last, when he eased off.

Pitcher Jack Scott performed the "iron-man" stunt by pitching both games of the double-header at Cincinnati, winning the first game 3 to 1 and dropping the second 5 to 4. Scott held Cincinnati in subjection in the first game except in the sixth inning when Swanager doubled to right, went to third on an infield out and scored on Hargrave's single. Philadelphia bunched three singles and a triple off Jakie May in the fourth inning, scoring three runs. In the second Cincinnati scored successively in the first three innings while Ezra Rixey pitched air-tight ball.

This heat-tested Oil safeguards your high-speed motor

YOU like the high-speed motor in your new car because it's more flexible—has a livelier pick-up—throttles down smoothly in high—and does away with a great deal of troublesome gear-shifting.

But in these new-high-speed motors, a serious lubrication problem has arisen. The number of explosions per minute in the combustion chambers has been greatly increased. That means that modern motor oils must withstand the lash of searing, scorching heat—heat that destroys mediocre oils and leaves the vital motor parts a helpless prey to deadly friction.

That is why lubrication authorities recommend Veedol, the oil that gives the "film of protection" thin as tissue, smooth as silk, tough as steel,—the film that is tested to withstand heat 100 degrees hotter than the hottest friction spot in your motor.

For correct protection at all times, buy Veedol—from any dealer who displays the orange and black Veedol sign. Always ask for Veedol by name. If you drive a Ford, ask for Veedol Forzol.

SMALL BOYS FOUND DEAD BODY FLOATING IN BAY

"Strangler" Formally Charged With Two Murders---Man Wires Notice That He Was Killed

CORONER'S JURY LAYS GUILT FOR TWO MURDERS TO EARLE NELSON

Indentified By Boarding House Keeper As Man Renting Room

SITS UNMOVED

Mrs. Patterson and Lola Cowan Slain In Same Manner

Winnipeg, June 21.—Without emotion and displaying no interest in the proceedings, Earle Nelson, alias Virgil Wilson, alleged "lust-murder" and "strangler" sat in the dock in the little court room at Central Police Headquarters last night for two hours while twenty-six witnesses testified at the coroner's inquest into the deaths of Lola Cowan, aged 14, and Mrs. Emily Patterson, aged 27, and heard the jury's verdict holding him responsible for the double slaying.

Dr. W. P. McGowan testified that the girls death had been caused by strangling and smothering. The lungs showed signs of asphyxiation and there was a mark on the top of the head as if the victim had been struck by a blunt instrument. The only one, he thought, would not have been sufficient to kill.

Dr. McGowan indicted that Mrs. Patterson had met death in much the same manner. Both had been violated.

Mrs. Catherine Hill, rooming house keeper, identified Nelson as the man who had rented the room in which Lola Cowan's body was found. She also identified the clothes left in the Patterson house as those which Nelson had worn when she saw him.

Sam Waldman, second hand clothes dealer, told of fitting out Nelson with new apparel. He identified the clothes he had sold and those the man had left.

Wanted in 4 Cities

Buffalo, N. Y., June 21.—An indictment charging first degree murder probably will be sought here against Earle Nelson, alias Virgil Wilson, arrested recently at Winnipeg, and today identified as the slayer of Mrs. Jennie Randolph, a Buffalo rooming house keeper, on May 30th.

District Attorney Guy B. Moore, of Erie county, announced tonight that if he is satisfied with the identification of Nelson as made here today, he will present the case to the grand jury and seek the indictment. Nelson is accused in Winnipeg of the murder of two women and if dismissal of his case is effected there Mr. Moore explained the pending indictment would prevent his release.

At least four other cities in the United States are seeking Nelson for murders similar in their details to the ones here and in Winnipeg, however, and the local authorities believe it improbable that the case will get as far as here. Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Portland, Ore., and Detroit have put in claims for him.

"DOC" NEWTON MADE HOLE IN ONE IN A COMPETITION

W. W. "Doc" Newton, playing in a competition at Thistledown Club, Toronto, against Alex Blyth, the club champion, made the first hole in one of the season at that club when he sent his tee shot at the 135-yard seventh hole nicely to the pin. This hole presents a mean medial hazard, the tee and the green being separated by a deep ravine. "Doc", who is the eldest son on Chief

John Newton, is an old-Belleville boy, of whom the city is more than proud. He holds innumerable trophies of his prowess on the bowling green and is an indoor skater of widespread reputation. WIRES WIFE THAT HE WAS KILLED NEAR PETERBORO

War Veteran Is Arrested For Spreading False Information

HOSPITAL PATIENT

Puzzled Authorities Trace Sender and Discover Man Himself

W. H. Smith, a returned soldier, who claims Belleville as his home, has been placed under arrest by Provincial Police Officers at Peterboro and will appear in court on a charge of giving false information.

The case is a peculiar one, as it will be remembered the police could fathom the mystery.

It appears that Smith was married a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Reeder, 150 Church street, disappeared from his home here some months ago and as far as The Intelligencer could learn spent some time at Christie St. Hospital, Toronto, where he underwent treatment for wounds received during the world war, the struggle having left Smith badly crippled.

Upon leaving the Toronto institution he drifted to Peterboro and it was yesterday that a telegram was received in the city stating that W. H. Smith, a returned soldier, of Belleville had been killed near Hastings, which was signed "R. J. Carter." The wire fell into the hands of Col. E. D. Ponton, who made an effort to locate Smith's family. They were finally found and it was established that Smith apparently deserted his wife and family of four, some months ago, and had not been heard from lately. Col. Ponton placed the matter in the hands of the Provincial Police who got in touch with Constable Norman Makar, at Peterboro, and as a result Smith was placed under arrest and will be charged with giving false information besides a possibility of a charge of desertion following.

Why Smith should wire his own wife of his death is a mystery unless he was in urgent need of funds and was in hopes that money might be forward ed to the Carter's.

Visiting the home of Mrs. Reeder, Church street, today, The Intelligencer was unable to learn any details of the affair, although it was learned that Smith had left home some months ago and his whereabouts were lost.

Mrs. Reeder said that Smith had been in Belleville a few days ago but only of a mild nature, yesterday, near Peterboro. She was unwilling to make any statement for or anti-Smith action. Mr. Smith's brother was informed and resides in the city today.

AEROPLANE WING MAY TELL SAD STORY

Paris, June 21.—Experts of the Farman Aeroplane Company today expressed the opinion that a rift found in the wing of the machine which were attached two wheels, found near the mouth of the Amazon River, is a part of the plane in which the missing French airmen, Saint Roman and his companyers set out from St. Louis, Senegal for the flight to Brazil on May 5th. Markings given by the fishermen who made the report it was said, are those of pneumatic tires on the landing carriage,agree with the number on the type of tires furnished only for aeroplanes of the model which Saint Roman flew.

VENERABLE CAT

Pussy Lives To Be Almost Quarter of a Century Old

Toronto, June 21.—A farmer at Newmarket, Ont., has just lost a cat which has died at the ripe old age of 24, a feat second only to the fact that the birth of her only kitten took place when she was 17.

Thirteen or fourteen, in a cat, is the equivalent of 60-odd in a human being.

MERCHANTS NOT TO OBSERVE SAT.

Stores Will Remain Open In Belleville July 1st

At a meeting of the Retail Merchants held in the Y.M.C.A. this morning it was definitely decided to have the stores remain open on Saturday, July 2nd. The members of the Association were almost unanimous on this question. This upset many rumors to the contrary that Belleville merchants will close their shops.

The Government has already passed an Order-in-Council proclaiming Saturday July 2nd a National holiday but it is not believed that merchants can be forced to close their doors. It was also felt certain that merchants would decide to remain open as a canvass by an Intelligencer reporter two weeks ago proved that a big majority were in favor of it. Belleville is the centre of a rural district and week end business compares favorably with that done during the rest of the week.

The question of Front St. parking was discussed at length and a resolution was finally passed requesting that the special parking system on Front St. remain as it is. Several expressed the opinion that only one-way parking should be enforced on the evenings when the theatres and Front Street should be made a one-way thoroughfare during the best hours. Merchants have been asked to state their views on Thursday and to leave them up until over Sunday the 3rd of July. A board concert will be held on Front street on Saturday night July 2nd.

ESSAY CONTEST PRIZE WINNERS

Mayor Wilmot and Magistrate Mikel Made the Presentation

George A. Reid, representative of the Great West Life Insurance Company, conducting the essay contest in the success of the Jubilee Celebration and to encourage and stimulate patriotism and a deeper interest in Canadian history in the students at the Belleville High School, delivered over prizes for essays on the "The Significance of Canada's Diamond Jubilee."

The awards were given to Gladys Mummings and Douglas E. Smith, by the judges, who were Chief Constable Mayor Wilmot and Magistrate Mikel. The presentations were made in Council last night at the New Queen's Hotel last evening at which about ten were present, including P. C. McLaurin, Miss Young, Rev. R. G. Stewart and Hiram Wright. Mayor Wilmot presented the prize to Miss Mummings and complimented her upon the splendid result which she wrote and Magistrate Mikel made the presentation to Douglas Smith.

PRIZES DONATED FOR CELEBRATION

Committee Arrange Fine Program of Sports For Dominion Day

At a large and enthusiastic meeting of the celebration committee held in the City Hall last night much business was done. A fine list of prizes for athletic events for the afternoon of Dominion Day was arranged for which local merchants will be requested to donate prizes.

It was decided to offer the following prizes for the afternoon parade: Best Float $15.00; 2nd best, $10.00; Best Decorated Car $10.00; 2nd best, $5.00; Best Decorated Bicycle $5.00; 2nd best, $2.00. There will also be prizes for old-fashioned turn-outs; for the best decorated residence in the city. The committee have decided to give a prize of $15 for 1st and $10.00 for 2nd in addition to these prizes.

There will be two days of competition by Rural Schools and another for City Schools. During the afternoon program there will be a two-mile bicycle race and also a relay race open to the Separate and Public Schools. The Argyle Light Infantry will divide honors for a sham battle and there will be a real baseball competition.

Mayor Wilmot is in charge of the Sunday open air service which will be held on the Armouries' lawn, four churches have been engaged and it looks as though Belleville will have a large crowd and a real Jubilee Celebration. The next meeting will be held Friday night.

FORMAL OPENING HELD TO-NIGHT

Big Eastern Star Convention Gets Under Way With Public Meeting

By six o'clock this evening there will in all probability, be six hundred visiting members of the Order of the Eastern star in the city and the Armouries in which the sessions are being held is a busy hive of activity preparing for this evenings open and opening session.

This morning was occupied in committee work about the building and some very important business was done by the executive.

Several of the members of the Order have wrought wonders in the Armouries, transforming the building into the gayest spectacle possible. Colors of the Star points obscure the walls and lights and bunches of emblems of the Star and pennants of every variety are in evidence. The platform and the platform is a bower of loveliness.

At seven-thirty this evening the official visitors will receive and the formality of the presentation of the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes will be gone through. This promises to be one of the most interesting ceremonies ever witnessed in Belleville and every presentation for a big night is being made.

Last evening members of Belleville Chapter O. E. S. took the visitors for a motor tour about the bay.

BROOKS' COUNSEL APPEALS CASE

States That Trial Judge Should Not Have Sent It To Jury

Toronto, Ont., June 21.—Declaring that the trial judge should never have sent the case to a jury, I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., appealed to the first Divisional Court today on behalf of Harriet J. Brooks against the conviction on a charge of attempting to procure an illegal operation on the late Ruth Dennison.

Brooks was sentenced to five years. Dr. Oswald C. J. Withrow in the same connection was sentenced to seven years. One of the chief grounds of appeal outlined by appellant's counsel, is that since medical evidence at his trial had established that Ruth Dennison's death had been caused by an alleged illegal operation, Brooks, having been found not guilty on the charge of manslaughter, could not, in law, be found guilty on a count of performing or assisting at the operation. Mr. Hellmuth declared the conviction had been made on evidence of the prisoner's character and there should not have been a conviction on either count.

"PEACHES" EARNS A REAL FORTUNE

Carmel, N.Y., June 21.—Edward Wright Browning, wealthy New York realtor in answer to his wife's plea for an additional allowance of $100 a week, has told that "Peaches" Browning has earned more than $36,247 as a public entertainer since April and is capable of paying her own legal fees. Mrs. Browning told the court she was not in a position to financially prosecute her appeal from the Supreme Court decision granting Browning a legal separation from his 16-year-old wife and denying her further alimony.

APPOINTED REVENUE OFFICER

Kingston, June 21.—Basil Walsh Carleton Place, has been appointed a preventive officer in the Department of Inland Revenue with head-quarters at Kingston.

Identified As Duncan Dobie, Carpenter With Construction Company

FOUND BY BOYS

Last Seen Alive June 16—No Evidence of Foul Play

Last since June 16th, the body of Duncan Dobie, about 63 years of age and an employee of the A. P. Byers Construction Company, of Montreal, was drawn out of the bay at the foot of Allen's Coal Dock about nine o'clock this morning by Officer Evans and Roy Templeton, dockmaster.

Dobie left Corbyville, where he had been engaged in construction work with the Byers Company on June 16th with the intention of going to Montreal, where he has a wife and family. From the Canadian Industrial Alcohol plant he went to the boarding house on Station street and after dinner left to go downtown. That was the last ever seen of Dobie.

Two young boys this morning rushed down to the Police Station and informed Sergeant John Trusiach that they had seen a dead body floating in the bay just at the end of the Allen Coal dock. The sergeant notified Officer Evans to go to the dock, and Evans with the assistance of Templeton dragged the body to shore.

Dr. Ponton, who notified the police of their gruesome discovery are Clarence Spearman, 81 South Church Street, and Cecil Keeler, 20 Wharf Street.

No Evidence of Foul Play

The bloated remains were taken to Tickell's Undertaking Parlors and Dr. Boyce, Coroner was called. He examined the body and stated that there was no evidence of foul play, and that there would probably be no inquest.

Frank Bird, another employee of the Construction Co. was called to the Morgue and easily identified the remains as those of his friend, Duncan Dobie.

Upon the dead body was found a watch, with one hand off and the crystal broken, and stopped at some time after 10 o'clock. There was also found some papers, keys, money to the extent of forty-one dollars and some loose change, matches, tobacco and handkerchiefs.

No inkling of the deceased's movements can be gained after he left the Bonnell Hotel, and he is not known here or where he fell into the water. When, then, first, the body was floating face downwards.

Dobie was a Foreman Carpenter with the Byers Construction Company and was especially brought here by the firm. He was well liked by his fellow workers, and his valuable services will be sadly missed.

HAVE MORE TIME TO DAY FOR WORK OR FOR PLAY

Days cannot get any longer than they are now. From this morning until midnight the sun will rise at 4.32 a.m. and set at 8.03 p.m., daylight saving time. Then it will start to get darker, rising later, setting earlier And the days will be getting shorter until the nights longer.

Today is traditionally considered to be the longest day in the year. Few folks will notice it. If it is longer than yesterday or tomorrow, it will only be by a matter of seconds. The advance takes no notice of seconds, and in round minutes it gives the same figures for the rising and setting of the sun for five days of this week.

On Saturday it will be a minute later in rising. On Sunday it will be a minute later setting. Then, Monday, it will be a minute later rising and a minute earlier setting — and the long process of contracting which leads to dark, cold winter morns and evenings will be under way.

But in the meanwhile today, the first day of Summer is a beautiful example of what June can do.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

When a man's knowledge is not in order, the more of it he has the greater will be his confusion.

A. SPENCER.

GETTING EXERCISE

One of the annual lamentations of the physical culturist has its anniversary in the ascendancy of the baseball season. Seeing thousands seated in the stands while eighteen players run around the field the exponents of daily-dozens grieve that the thousands are not on the field and the eighteen in the stands.

Those who believe that the player gets all the health and exercise out of the ball game prove their ignorance. the player should be sent up into the stands for his exercise. While the eighteen players are loafing around in their dug-outs or on the field, stopping a ball that occasionally comes their way, striking at the ball once-in-a-while of the time, batting bases once in a while and hurling the sphere among themselves; while the eighteen men on the field are going through this feeble exertion ten thousand fans up in the stands are yelling themselves hoarse, madly waving their arms and as vigorously jumping up and down.

An incurable baseball fan can put more physical effort in a ball game than the physical culturist can put in his clubs, rings and hobby horses. And then, people who are healthy enough to enjoy a baseball game are not usually in any immediate need of extra exercise.

MOTOR ETIQUETTE

Unfortunately we have no reason to expect every driver of a motor car to use common sense or decent courtesy in his relations to other vehicles in the traffic lines. It is a long, long time since man came down from the tree tops and learned to stand erect, and many persons still have a good deal to learn about the simple business of walking with due regard to the equal privileges of other pedestrians.

Impatience and plain rudeness—principally the latter—are the principal foes of the traffic amenities, and many persons must have contemplated the thorough satisfaction they would derive from a lively young armored tank which they might put in action against some of these:

The unmannerly menace who cuts in ahead of a car in front of him, leaving it to the driver of the car approaching from the opposite direction to affect a collision;

The driver of the car of the general dimensions and power of a locomotive who demands and takes the right of way by reason of brute strength and speed;

The driver who carries on an animated conversation with the back seat while his car wavers uncertainly;

The extremely cautious person who holds the exact centre of a narrow road at 10 or 12 miles an hour and refuses to turn out;

The road hog who refuses to turn out for traffic bound in the opposite direction, particularly if he is meeting a small car;

The driver who passes without signal, turns without warning, and stops suddenly in traffic.

Every motorist can add to the list from his own experience. If all drivers were as inconsiderate of others as are a few of them the roads would be strewn with wreckage, but accidents are averted in most cases because the great majority of drivers do not forget their manners when they sit at the steering wheel of a car.

Efficiency at the wheel includes strict observance of the etiquette of the road.

QUOTA SYSTEM.

The news that the Government is taking steps to stem the influx of settlers from continental Europe is high by suggestive.

Large numbers of foreigners who cannot speak our language and who refuse to become part of the community have settled in Western Canada this year, it is said, and many of them, instead of taking to farming, as they had agreed to do, have flocked into the cities and created a serious unemployment question.

Of course, under circumstances like these it is the duty of the Government to take steps to protect this country. But how are we going to formulate a plan for the proper regulation of immigration? We need more people in Canada, and we have the equipment and organization for a population of 50,000,000. But we certainly do not need people faster than they can be assimilated, and it will only be increasing our problems to allow the country to be peopled with immigrants who would set up foreign centres, where alien languages and alien customs would prevail.

According to Mr. W. M. Birks, who has made a special study of immigration, both in Canada and overseas, alien immigrants have found it easy to come to Canada while British immigrants have been deterred by all sorts of red tape and regulations. Mr. Birks, the Minister of Immigration, who has been studying the subject at close quarters overseas this summer, is doubtless giving his attention to those matters, and it may be that the action of the Government has come about on his recommendation. Europe and especially the Scandinavian countries, offers a good field for the recruiting of non-British immigrants, yet we should be careful to see that a proper balance is maintained.

Perhaps a quota system for Canada may be the solution of the problem.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

"I'm not pleased with your husband's condition today. Does he not keep to the diet which I have prescribed?"

"No, doctor. He says that he is not prepared to die of hunger now for the sake of the few more years he might live longer by doing so."

"What sort of a chap is Jack, dear?"

"Well, when we were together last night, the lights went out and he spent the rest of the evening repairing the fuse."

"Did you have words with your wife?"

"Yes, I had words, but no opportunity of using them."

"Would you mind getting up for just a minute, Miss?"

"Why?"

"I want to hang up this notice, 'Wet Paint.'"

NOCTURNE

I've heard of of the wings of the morning
To fly with the fields of delight;
I crave not the wings of the morning,
But wings of the beautiful night.

To fly, with the moonlight a-gleaming,
To glide, with the starlight a-glow;
To melt where the soft winds are dreaming
And silvery light billows flow.

Or rest where the stars lie sleeping
And rills chant their nocturnal lays,
Where nectarine flowers are weeping,
In meadowlands mantled with haze.

O night, lend the soul of your beauty
To fashion my roadway of duty
More fair, more transcendently bright.

"In His Quiet Moments"

A True Story

Always 'the life of the party' everybody admires Ted Carruthers for his breezy good nature and winning personality. He is a real man through and through.

But in his quiet moments—

Poor Ted has his personal problem from which he cannot shake himself free when alone. A recent illness, the price of overwork, left his health impaired. The doctor says it is only a matter of time.

He now has only a few short years in which to provide for Mary and the children. What is he to do? He is not able to get life insurance and cannot save much more than $300.00 a year. In five years this will be but $1,500.00—not nearly enough!

Then one he realizes just what it would have meant if he had insured when able, to provide for his wife an income of at least $100.00 a month ($1,200.00 a year) as long as she lived. At his age (35) $6.40 a week with the London Life would have guaranteed it, and worry would not now be further sapping his strength, killing any chance he may have had of recovery.

* * * *

The future may easily be made safe for loved ones by insurance, and worry removed from those who have dependents.

BRAKEMEN MAY NOW TALK WITH ENGINE DRIVER

Radio Permits Conversation Between Caboose and Engine

Schenectady, June 20.—A brakeman, sitting in a caboose of a freight train, and an engineer in the cab of a locomotive, a mile and a quarter away, talked to one another by radio here yesterday, as easily as two persons would carry on a conversation by ordinary telephone. The tests were made by engineers of the General Electric Company. Transmission was on a short wave length and low power, to avoid interference with regular broadcast reception.

Caboose and engine carried identical sending and receiving sets. A receiver, both locomotive and caboose were equipped with a double antenna, one for transmitting and the other for receiving. Communication was established at the other end of the train by the simple act of removing a receiver and pressing a button. The receiver was connected to a radio transmitting station causing a howling sound in the reproducer or loud speaker at the receiving end.

Most Valuable

The test demonstrated that communication may be carried on with comparative ease on a moving train, and engineers consider it especially valuable to railroad men, will be most valuable, particularly on trains consisting of 50 to 125 cars. On such trains the engineer and conductor are separated by nearly one mile of cars and there is no positive means of communication between them. Signals are usually exchanged by means of whistle or flare lights which often fail due to curvature of the tracks or weather conditions. Should a defect develop on these long trains the conductor must either send a brakeman over the top of the train or by operating the conductor valve stop the train, either of which would cause a delay.

Radio communication as provided by these sets give a positive means of instant communication and will materially expedite train movement on main lines as well as in the yards.

A sufficient number of sets have been constructed to permit road demonstrations of communication between the engine and caboose of long trains, communication between nearby yards, between the yard tower and the locomotive engineer or conductor and communication between the yardmaster and the locomotive used in making up a train in large classification yards.

The radio equipment has been delivered to the New York Central railroad for installation on locomotives and fixed posts and will be thoroughly tested under road and yard service conditions.

She carried a prayer book bound in tortoise and lillies of the valley and wore the gift of the groom a platinum bracelet set with wrist watch. The bridal party proceeded in the huge bay window where the fire of the room was banked with flowers and palms, the bride looking lovely in her floral gift, her sister, Mary Vose Thomson, who was daintily dressed in yellow crepe de chine and carried a bouquet of mauve sweet peas. The groom was unattended.

Mrs. Thomson, mother of the bride was very handsome in a gown of Nile green georgette while Mrs. Cherry was beautifully gowned in a French dress of blue flat crepe with hat to match.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Do you enjoy genuine comedy—real comedy that makes you laugh till it almost hurts, and makes you forget all your troubles? Then, if you do, we can recommend to you the screen offering at the Capitol the first three days of this week. It's called the "Rookies", and has been aptly termed the funniest picture ever made. Karl Lane, as the fighting Sargeant and George Arthur, as the weak kneed, but clever, rookie, head the cast, and are the centre of the fun. It's in a citizen's military training camp, and the action is a laugh from start to finish. It's a long time since Belleville has seen comedy so genuinely fun ny and entertaining.

The Imperial Players continued their successes before the packed house in presenting the dramatic comedy the Law", a special the offering was good, and well received.

DID NOT PRESS FOR COMMITTAL

Sympathy Extended For Unfortunate Man Who Shot Little Boy

Millbrook—June 21.—Acting upon instruction of the Attorney General's department, Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr, K.C., did not press for the committal for trial of Allan Elliott, 19-year-old farm hand, on a charge of manslaughter in County Police Court her Saturday afternoon and accordingly, County Magistrat W. H. Floyd liberated accused and left the case in the hands of the Crown Attorney.

The charge against Elliott arose out of the accidental shooting of seven-year-old Benny, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merton Benny, 1da. on Thursday, June 9th. Elliott, an employee on the Benny farm, was playing with the little lad and in fun pointed a shotgun which he believed to be unloaded at the boy. The weapon exploded and the child was instantly killed.

Elliott, who has been prostrated with grief since the fatality, sat at the Magistrate's table in Police Court between his counsel F. M. Field, K.C., and Rev. J. O. Totten, pastor of Millbrook United Church and throughout the hearing hung his head and flinched, on the seize of tears, at every reference to the little boy, whom he had loved. The court room was overflowing with residents of Cavan Township and the 1da district in predominance. When the proceedings were over, practically every person in the room crowded to Elliott's side and extended sympathy. Elliott fit his position very keenly and his grief at being the cause of the tragedy was deep and sincere.

CARRIED WIFE TO BED

Suffered So She Could Not Walk. Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Minesing, Ontario.—"I am a practical nurse and I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to suffering women. For three months I was almost helpless and could not sit at the table long enough to drink a cup of tea. Many a time my husband carried me to bed, I would be so weak. Then he read in the paper of a woman suffering as I did who got better after taking the Vegetable Compound, so he went and got it for me. When I had taken three bottles I was just like a new woman and have had splendid health ever since. When I feel any leaving-down pains I always take it; sometimes a half bottle or less when I need it. It is my only medicine and I have told many a one about it. Any one wanting to know more about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I will gladly write to her. I do all I can to recommend it. I feel I owe my life and strength to it." — Mrs. Neal Brewster, R. 1, Minesing, Ontario.

If you feel broken-down, nervous, tired and "all gone." Do you have this horrid feeling of fear which sometimes comes to women when they are not well? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is excellent to take at such a time. It always helps, and if taken regularly and persistently will relieve this condition. C

BELLE THEATRE

"The Third Degree," the Warner Bros. production, starring Dolores Costello, now playing at the Belle Theatre, is an gripping a police melodrama at its most sugnificant.

"The Third Degree" Words that carry a connotation of horror add mistakable brutality, baffling third degree torture, forced confession; the modern version of Inquisitions.

Happily, the "third degree" in this country rare, to a large extent, given way to more scientific, less painful, and infinitely more accurate methods in police departments. Brutish-led persons no longer writhe on a stool of agony, a blinding light flooding their weary eyes, with harsh voices in the darkness beyond threatening, cajoling, insisting, demanding, questioning them until their senses reel and the earth seems to be staggering crazily through endless space.

Woven around this barbarous institution, with the gay background of a dance, "The Third Degree" reveals in a startlingly realistic manner the endless, remorse, seductive, sacrifice and heartbreak for which it has been responsible.

Miss Costello appears as the wife of a third degree victim. Louise Dresser, as the mother, is featured in the supporting cast which includes Jason Robards, Rockliffe Fellows, Kate Price and Tom Santchi.

WIVES WHO SUFFER FOR CHILDREN'S SAKE

By ELSIE MARLOWE

We told pitiful story of a Triangle. It was not one of these vicious, vulgar affairs which sicken our hearts as we read. They were three honorables, kindly, pure-minded people, caught in the cruel trap of love and striving desperately to do the right thing.

It had come upon them so suddenly —no fine was to blame. A husband and wife jogging along together through the years—hardly realizing that all the old romance and adventures had slipped out of their lives—and then the slow budding of affection between the man and the wife's friend. No, she was no thief, this gentle, sweet girl, whose whole heart shriveled with horror when she realized that the hus band loved her and that she, against her every ideal, returned that love. She was as helpless as the other two and she fought as desperately to put this love away.

But—she failed. They tried everything. Separation. Noble resolve. Patience, sacrifice, resolution. But the love would not down. And then, though the man said he would never leave, the wife said that he must go. Better that two of them should be happy than all three miserable.

Having made the decision, she sat down and wrote us the pitiful, heroic story. And asked us what we thought. Some of us thought bitter, bitter things—and said the stupid, hateful things one always says of "home-wreckers." Others were tolerant, realizing that love is a wild flower that often grows without our seeding. And here today is the most dramatic answer of all from—

THE WOMAN WHO STAYED.

She, too, faced the tragedy of a broken home, but for the children's sake she accepted her husband's affair when he said he would stay.

DEAR ELSIE:

In your question "Is Divorce the Right Way Out?" I would like to tell you my experience. I stayed with my husband in a very much similar position. This happened almost twenty-five years ago when women were not as independent as nowadays. We had three small children and a rather small salary that could hardly be stretched to cover two homes. My husband agreed to do whatever I thought best.

I figured that the children were entitled to a comfortable home and as good an education as we could afford and in the meantime if a way came up so we could get along without his help—he could go. I thought the children came first and before our happiness.

Our children are grown up now, of course. Two married and the youngest is to be married next month. They all say that they had a happy time with us and I think they did. Their father's business took him away about three days a week; that made it somewhat easier.

It is very hard, though, to live with one who doesn't love you and has worse ill feel when you try in every way to win him back. After a bit you realize that people can't seem to love where they please and then you just have to make the best of it.

He was kindness itself to me at all times but never a kiss or a pat on the back, of course. I suppose it would not have been fair to the lady who was going to wait for him.

Once in the early part of our trouble he had been drinking a little too much, and he told me that he could not have a good time if he went anywhere with me any more. I was so quiet that I bored him to tears and always said or did the wrong thing. After that he generally managed in a very nice way, that I didn't go to the same places he did. I was so uncomfortable with him that I was glad of it. Actually I did not know what to do or say if he were around.

Well, it is over now, and this Summer we quit. I know I shall miss him, but I don't think I have loved him for a long time. It is hard to love a person who hardly knows you are alive. Never seen if you have a new dress. Doesn't care if you come or go as far as he is concerned.

My father died last year and left me a small income, and my brother (a widower) wants me to live with him and his fourteen-year-old daughter. This brother and I were pals when we were young and we have always been the best of friends, so I expect things will be so nice to be wanted and know they are glad that I am there.

I think now that, years ago, if I had had the money to have left my husband I would have had his love now. I think he has had several ladies since the first, and if he had to choose between his home and the lady, I kind of think we would have got him and things would have been a lot different. Things are a lot different now. He cares more for me now, than he has since the first years, but it is too late as far as I am concerned. We are too uncomfortable if we happen to be alone at any time, and I want to go East to my brother to a new place and new people.

I have no ill-feeling toward my husband and wish him every happiness. He would have loved me if he could have, but we were not suited to each other. That is all there is to it.

I suppose it all depends on the persons and circumstances and no one can tell you. I think we did the best in our case. For the children anyway.

BERNICE.

That's a noble letter, Bernice. You're a brave, fine woman, and you'll make many of us feel humble and ashamed this day. I do not know whether you did the wisest thing for your own happiness, but I do know this—you have made the whole human race richer by your tolerance and patience and courage. And somehow I think that gives you peace after the very darkest

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN

By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 47.

ACCEPTANCE—WITH A CATCH!

Before Sybil's mocking question: "Are you asking me to marry you?" Dearborn smiled his gaze, but he said nothing whatever.

"Well, honestly, I'm a man who rather values his freedom, and as I've said you're a most desirable young person. I never quite make up my mind about you. I'm not certainly sure I'm not certainly sure I'm not certainly sure

INDIANS GAINED STEADILY IN THE PAST FEW YEARS

Records Show That Redmen In Canada Are Not Vanishing

The term "vanishing race" can scarcely be applied any longer to the Indians of Canada. All records of the Department of Indian Affairs go to show that the Redman in Canada is steadily gaining ground and through intelligent co-operation with Government effort has practically brought a halt to the ravages of disease which not so very long ago threatened to exterminate him. From now on the Canadian Indians may be expected to make progress, and while adding steadily to his numbers become increasingly a valued productive citizen with his own peculiar place in the life of the country and its advance. The progress which has been made by Indians in Canada in recent years is very marked and those who are in the best position to judge predict that it will not be very long before the Indians of the Prairie Provinces at last will be entirely self-supporting.

The advancement made in the Prairie Provinces has been outstanding. Here these aborigines have taken more readily and successful to the pursuits of civilization. While in the northern sections of these provinces there are many bands of Indians living the primitive life and following their original occupations, tending invaluable aid to the territory, those settled on the reserves in the provinces are for the main part followers of the leading industry of agriculture. Successes in grain growing and cattle raising among the Indians have become increasingly noticeable of recent years, and the Indian population is destined to be an increasingly heavy contributor to agricultural revenue.

Estimated Population of 32,000

Recent computations made by the Department of Indian Affairs show that the number of Indians on reserves in the Prairie Provinces is 21,204, of whom 11,775 are in Manitoba, 10,462 in Saskatchewan, and 8,063 in Alberta. There are in addition a number of Indians in bands in the far north, some of which are not yet under treaty bringing the total estimated Indian population of the Prairie Provinces to nearly 33,000. During the past year there were 1,182 births on reserves and 814 deaths, a natural increase in population of 268.

Last year on Indian reserves throughout Canada there were 37,400 horses, 58,897 cattle, 1,867 sheep 4,080 swine and 22,751 poultry, of which the greater number were to be found in the Prairie Provinces. On the same reserves there were 187,530 acres under cultivation, a substantial increase over previous years.

HARD TO PLACE WAR PICTURES

Winnipeg, Man., June 21.—(Canadian Press)—"We have had a hard time in the placing of war memorial pictures in the schools in Manitoba," stated Miss W. Gordon, of Kingston, Ont., National Educational secretary of the I.O.D.E., when asked if all pictures allotted to the various provinces had been placed. "The authorities throughout Manitoba have a strong feeling against the placing of war pictures in the schools, owing to their influence upon the children," she continued. "In Winnipeg the school board has not permitted any to be hung, whereas in the other provinces the governments in many cases have assisted in carrying out this phase of our memorial work by either framing the pictures or helping in the transportation.

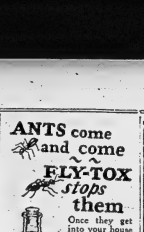

"Manitoba students have done very well indeed in the obtaining of bursary scholarships," Miss Gordon claimed, "and the University of Manitoba has been especially good in remitting fees.

"In 1930, the war memorial work will be completed, as we have figured that by that time the soldiers' children will be beyond college age. Sixty-five bursaries and 36 scholarships have been awarded over a period of seven years and we have received roughly between $17,000 and $18,000 toward the memorial fund this year, which leaves us $35,000 short of what we hope to accomplish."

CONFEDERATION AND AFTER

Sixty Years of Progress

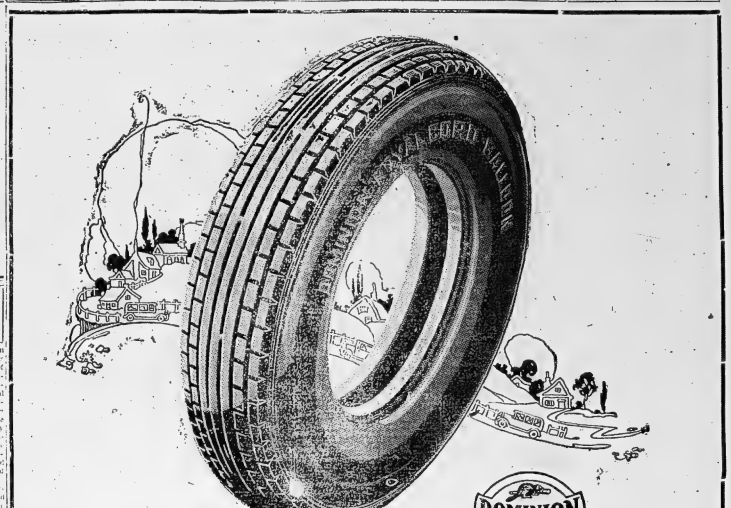

Active Canadian interest in Modern Town Planning—which is defined as the scientific and orderly disposition of land and buildings in use and development with a view to obviating congestion, securing economic and civic efficiency, health and well-being in urban and rural communities—may be said to have received its first impulse from the visit in 1910 of Mr. Henry Vivian, founder of the Garden City partnership Housing Movement, as the guest of Earl Grey, then Governor-General and himself an enthusiastic advocate of the more orderly planning of towns and cities.

Planning of some kind has always characterized the growth of towns and cities but the absence of thorough congestion and squalor and have them lected areas, which have drifted into congestion and squalor and have themselves become direct causes of social discontent, inefficiency, disease and crime. Modern town planning is directing special attention to these areas and is building up a science of the social organism intended to secure decent living and working conditions for the large masses of people whose interests have been so largely neglected in the past and to meet the exigencies of modern traffic.

Mr. Noulan Cauchon, Ottawa, consulting Engineer and Soelidetel, has been a student of the movement for some years and about this time began the development of a plan for the Capital City, using its features as a basis for stimulating public interest in the subject. In 1912 the first provincial town planning act was passed in New Brunswick. An important town planning conference of which the Dominion Government agreed to appoint a Town Planning Advisor for Canada with an appropriate staff of assistants. Mr. Thomas Adams, Town Planning Adviser to the British Local Government Board (now Ministry of Health) was appointed. A town planning educational movement was inaugurated which, though much distracted by war conditions, resulted in the course of a few years in the passing of provincial town planning acts practically all over Canada. These town planning acts gave enabling power to the towns and cities to appoint town planning commissions, to initiate civic functions which would exercise wider and more intelligent control over the disposal of land and buildings in urban areas, healthful development.

In 1913 the Dominion Government appointed a Commission to develop a comprehensive plan for the Capital City. War conditions interfered with the project and nothing was done to carry it into operation.

For a number of years the aspirations of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier to make the Capital City attractive and beautiful was exemplified by the Ottawa Improvement Commission, which has concerned itself mainly driver and boulevards and transformed waste land into beautiful parks and driveways. In 1925 the powers and duties of this commission were enlarged and the organization was enlarged into Federal District Commission with powers to extend its work into the region surrounding the Capital. Throughout the Dominion there is now an active and intelligent interest in town planning method and it is expected that within the next few years many towns and cities in Canada will recognize the advisability of adopting new methods of developing urban areas which may be said to have received the endgoration of the whole civilized world.

27 POUNDS OF BUTTER A DAY

London, Ont., June 21.—(Canadian Press)—Writing from the viewpoint of a farmer's wife Percy Watson letters in the local press to the fact that "The World's Butter Bowl" is not in Denmark published in Edmonton, Alta., where he first saw every man, woman and child in the Dominion eat 27 pounds of butter a year; in the Argentine, in contact two pounds per year per individual is the record. An interview with a famous beer-maker in this district is then quoted.

"The farmers' wives today are busy bakers," exclaimed this cheery body, "but we used to work hard, too, when I was young, and we didn't have the nice things around us you have to-day. Now, when milking's done it goes to the cheese factory or dairy, or else the cream is separated and the cream man takes it away once a week. But years ago there was none of that. The men usually helped to milk, but after that the women of the farm had charge of the milk. There were no separators either, and the milk had to be strained into pans. Then when the cream rose it was quite a job lifting the heavy pans and skimming them. Many of us hadn't even wells and pumps at the kitchen door, and all the water for washing, the butter and churn had to be carried from the spring.

"Then when it came to selling the butter. My, many a time have I walked through the woods to the general store, three miles away, carrying a basket of butter, and all I got was 10 or 12 cents a pound. Sometimes

SIXTY YEARS OF DEVELOPMENT IN CANADA'S NATIONAL LIFE

FOUND GOLD IN CROPS OF FOWL ON P. E. I. FARM

Soldier-Farmer May Have Rich Mine On His Land

MANY NUGGETS

Another Ten Days of Digging May Show Worth of Vein

Charlottetown, P.E.I., June 21.—On a sun-bathed knoll some eight miles west of this city is a boarded shaft, nearby a huge pile of red sandstone and a pump at which two overall-clad lads in their teens are straining. The eyes of the island are on this spot for, within the next ten days, the Islanders count on knowing if Jack Matheson's ducks and chickens struck it rich when they found gold on his farm.

News yesterday of a rich new gold strike at Renfrew, N.S., has quickened interest here in a lot of little events that make the Matheson farm the scene of a rare romance now speeding to its climax. Old-timers from the Klondike are hovering around the mine shaft, trying to "get in" on shares. One man has offered Matheson £5,000 for the proposition that may be a gold mine or merely a gold pocket. Matheson has turned all offers down. The Island hopes he has done right, wishes him the best of luck and for his own sake and for that of his family, would like to see the hard-working soldier-farmer turn millionaire overnight.

Jack Matheson, Island born and of that sturdy Scots stock which is the pride of this little province, did his bit during the war. For three and a half years he was overseas with the Canadians, made a first-class soldier, and was wounded in action. Behind him, in P.E.I., he left a courageous and resourceful little wife and two small sons. Mrs. Matheson is of Scots descent, too. She was not of the type to sit idly by. She did her bit by getting ready for the home-coming of her man.

As soon as land was available under the Soldier Settlement Scheme, Mrs. Matheson got a small farm, prettily situated in the rolling park-like country of North Wiltshire—known here as the Loyalist district. Some typical Scots energy and industry were applied, and when Jack Matheson stepped out of uniform he stepped into a tidy little frame house and all that goes with a real farm home. The Matheson family emerging from war, was already solidly prepared for peace.

Among other things, Mrs. Matheson had secured a water supply by having a well dug some 50 feet from the house the hole had been drilled. As the home stands on rising ground, the drillers had been forced down 50 feet to strike water. The family went ahead steadily on the farm until two years ago something happened that has made the Mathesons the only farmer-miners on the Island.

Metal in Duck's Crop

Mrs. Matheson was cleaning a duck for Sunday dinner, and in the bird's crop she came across a glinting shred of yellow metal. Jack Matheson and his wife thought it was gold. They said nothing. Four more ducks and six chickens gave up little nuggets when their crops were cleaned. All of the glittering particles were brought to a Charlottetown jeweller. He found them to be almost pure gold. Still the Mathesons said nothing. The gold strike was kept secret while Matheson and his wife ran down clues in an effort to find where the birds were picking up gold. They found out. Near the well head was a mass of red loam which had been dug up in occasional well cleanings. Both ducks and chickens seemed to find the heap a favorite place to peck. Some of the earth was washed—more nuggets were recovered. And still the Mathesons said nothing.

Last fall more birds with golden crops were found. This spring Matheson decided that, whatever he thought in time and toil, he was going to find out whether he was a mine-owner as well as a farmer.

The level of the well bottom was his objective. Lacking funds to hire drillers or buy an outfit and undaunted by the magnitude of the work, Matheson measured off an 8-foot square not far from the well, took his pick, and shovel and dug in. Day in and day out, without neglecting his farm, he has smashed his way further and further into the crust. At first going was easy. For 20 feet down, Matheson was in the distinctive red sandy loam of the Island. As he was busy the old soldier conscripted his boys. He erected a windlass and the earth was pulled out of the shaft in a bucket. Then the work became harder. Matheson struck red sandstone. That he got out with a pick; now and again he used a little gunpowder. He carried on in this rock to a depth of 37 feet, and there he hit a tough stratum. He reached the beach surface of a Prince Edward Island of eons ago. Red sandstone conglomerate is what the geologists call it. And in that layer came water

Ten Feet More To Go

Go to the farm to-day. The two lads are pumping water from the shaft. Fifty feet down is Matheson working feverishly to cut through the ten feet which, he believes, will bring him to the level that will show the worth of the gold strike. A couple of sticks of dynamite would cut days off his work, but the ferry will not carry dynamite and there is none on the Island.

Sing out "Jack" and there is a cheery "Hallo" in response. A whistling around is heard, then a moment later a ruddy, wrinked face peers out of the shaft. Jack climbs the last rungs of the ladder and emerges. "Don't know," he says to visitors, "but they all say it looks good. The geologists say I am down in the same kind of stuff they have in Nova Scotia where they are getting gold."

He pulls from his pocket a metal box, of the size and shape of a lady's compact, and displays nuggets of respectable size which he has washed out while digging the shaft. Some of them bear the mark of the tramper he has been using. "Got that last full altogether," says the grizzled veteran.

That is where he stands today." In ten days we will know something," he says, and with that he trudges back to the shaft and goes to work again.

As the visitor turns the corner leaving the farm the last thing he sees is the pile of rock—some of it and even this industrious community considers that the finest monument to hard work it ever saw.

VISION and Action—these are the qualities to which Canadians of today pay tribute in their grateful recognition of the work of the Fathers of Confederation sixty years ago.

These qualities are still demanded of those who are serving Canada in the present. Our Fathers took possession of half a continent, united it, gave it the institutions it still enjoys, and founded the transportation system which is to this day the backbone of its economical life.

We, their successors, have likewise our problem to solve. We have to provide this half-continent with a population sufficient in numbers to ensure its proper development; educated up to the best Canadian standards; trained in the ideals of good Canadian citizenship; accustomed to respect for law and order; and conscious of the noble tradition which is our national heritage.

Can any Canadian doubt what would be the attitude of the Fathers towards this problem if they were here today? They dreamed, but they also worked for the realization of their dream. The Canadians of today likewise have their vision and their opportunity for action. They have the example of the Fathers to teach and to hearten them. The vision which our Fathers saw must be realized. Their noble deeds must still live in the minds of generations to come.

The Late R. STANLEY WEIR

Owing to the fact that numerous suggestions were received from all parts of Canada that a uniform English version of "O Canada" be approved, the National Committee for the Celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation circularized the Prime Ministers and the Ministers of Education of all the Provinces. Replies were received that the version written by the Late R. Stanley Weir, D.C.L., Recorder of Montreal, is being used in the schools of all the Provinces, including the English-speaking sections of Quebec. In view of this, the Committee is using the Weir version in its own publications.

ONLY WOMAN TO RECEIVE DEGREE

Toronto, Ont., June 21.—(Canadian Press)—At the annual convocation exercises of the University of Toronto, Miss Gertrude Lawler had the signal honor of being the only woman to receive the honorary degree of doctor of laws. In conferring this honor on Miss Lawler, Sir Robert Falconer, the president of the university, paid an eloquent tribute to valuable educational contributions Miss Lawler had made to Ontario. She had edited a number of books on English for the Ontario High Schools, and for seven years has been chairman of the mothers' pension board. Miss Lawler, Sir Robert continued, had won the admiration of scholars, teachers and colleagues, and her outstanding ability was noteworthy in Ontario. She had also for several years been a member of the senate of Toronto University.

LEADERSHIP IS AT STAKE WED.

Deloro Will Furnish Plenty Of Opposition For Local Nationals

Delore will locss bats with the Nationals for the first time tomorrow afternoon at the Exhibition Park. The Smelters were scheduled to meet the locals on two separate occasions but rain interfered both times and the arguments will be settled tomorrow. The Northerners who went through to grab the Intermediate laurels last season will provid plenty of opposition. Manager Elliott has already hung up two victories against Point Anne and likewise the Nationals have already chalked up two wins so the leadership of the Bay of Quinte League will be at stake tomorrow.

Manager Mills has not yet announced his pitching selection but it will likely be "Punch" Derry. The veteran has been visiting great bal this season and stepped into both games and finished them up.

It is believed that Mr. Elliott will fling Bill Ralph his dependable southpaw into action.

Walter Gerow and Ken Colling will send the teams away at 3.15.

Pirates Take Final From Cubs In Lone Game Played

New York, June 21.—Lee Meadows, Pirate pitcher, held Chicago to four hits and shut them out, 4-0, in the second and final game of the important Chicago series, involving leadership of the National League. A home run by Gooch in the sixth with two men on bases decided the issue.

The Cubs filled the bases after two were out i nthe first, but Hack Wilson fanned for the third out. Again in the ninth the home team filled the bases with one, down, but could not touch Meadows with a scoring punch. It was the second straight shut out the bespectacled Pirate pitcher has scored, and his tenth victory in eleven starts this year.

An error y Eddie Pick, Chicago's rookie third baseman, paved the way for the Pirates' victory. Pick muffed a throw from Stephenson that would have resulted in the third out, and Gooch followed with his home run smash.

LEAFS COMING BACK STRONG

Syracuse Stars "Entrench" Selves By Trimming Bisons

New York, June 21.—The Toronto Leafs won the opening game of a three-game series at Rochester by a score of 8 to 3. "Sonny" Horne, league-leading pitcher, was knocked out of the box in the sixth by the Leafs and suffered his second defeat of the season. He was opposed by Letty Faulkner who kept the Tribe's bit well scattered.

The Stars strengthened their hold on first place by defeating Buffalo, 7 to 4, at Syracuse. Bill Hallahan was the hero here. He struck out seven Bisons and in the sixth inning hit the longest home-run ever made in an International League game at Star Park driving the ball over a double-deck stand in deep center.

Newark, behind Jack Bentley's fine pitching, defeated Baltimore in the opening game of a series at Newark by the score of 6 to 3. The former New York Giants, although touched for thirteen hits, was the master of the situation all during the game, being invincible with men on bases. All the Baltimore runs were scored with two men out.

Three singles and a force out in the fifth inning gave Reading its fourth victory of the season, and its first victory of the year at Jersey City. The score was 2 to 0. It was Jersey City's consecutive defeat.

TENNIS STARS IN WIMBLEDON MEET

Wimbledon, England, June 21.—Strictly tennis, and plenty of it, was the order of the day at the opening of the Wimbledon lawn tennis championships and the organizers, aided by bean tiful weather, realized the unprecedented feat of running off the entire first round of the men's singles, in which 128 players were entered.

It was "masculine day," not a single woman player appearing on any of the fourteen Wimbledon courts, and the contests were carried through without a hitch. Only one of the eight seeded players fell by the wayside, the seven others seeing it through with more or less difficulty. The quantity of tennis however, greatly outshone the quality.

All the interest of the 8,000 fans assembled centred in the showing of William T. Tilden, the American star, and Rene Lacoste, rankine number one, against their respective opponents. Both won their matches without givine the spectators an opportunity to judge that they would do in a crisis. Both the American and the Frenchman loafed through their three sets.

Henry Cochet, Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, of France, Lotts Raymond, Scotia, and Karel Kozeluh, Czechoslovakia, and other seeded players, also had successful starts. Takeichi Harada of Japan caused the only upset when he was defeated by a comparative newcomer, Pierre Landry, of France.

NEW LONG SHOT RECORD HUNG UP

Antimony Pays $217.40 In Big Surpise At Blue Bonnets Track

Montreal, June 21.—Thrills never previously experienced at Blue Bonnets race course, came aplenty yesterday afternoon with the carrying out of a featureless programme for the third day of the Montreal Jockey Club's spring meeting. Five of the seven races were won by rank outsiders, while one event went to a second choice and the other to the Bean entry which was installed favorite in the supreme event. Following the victory of O'Turk in the opening number, outsiders held sway and continued their triumphant march until the sixth race was reached, when Royal Pearl the second choice landed down in front. In the final affair, a return to victories for outsiders was made as First Edition scored over Duckling and Aldetache.

The greatest thrill of the afternoon was furnished when the mutuel prices were posted on Antimony, winner of the second event. This horse was sent to the post a rank outsider and conceded little chance to even get among the placed horses. In this race Gems To Let, from the Seagram Stable, was made the first choice with the other play well scattered among Arnaud Jade and Sauvenay. When the race was run the mutuel board showed a dividend of $217.40 on the winner with $64.40 to be second and $32.20 to be third. When these figures were displayed there was a loud cheer sent up for Antimony even from those who had taken their chance on some other horse in the race.

There was only $48 wagered on the winner in the straight pool while there was almost twice that much in the place and show pools. The $48 came from the 55 tickets and nineteen $2 certificates. The two $5 tickets were held by ladies, while the 52 tickets were divided between men and women. The price set a mutuel dividend mark for Blue Bonnets race course. To add to the excitement for the followers of outsiders, who are always looking for an opportunity to knock prices; Meissner $48.30 to win; Peter down a favorite, were the following: Whittle $18.30 to win; Ibilibon $15.55 to win; First Edition $27.50 to win. It is safe to say that never in the history of the Montreal Jockey Club has such a series of prices been displayed.

Eastern Ontario Chamber of Commerce Convenes At Peterboro

RESOLUTIONS PASSED

Interests of Eastern Ontario Discussed At Second Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Chamber of Commerce, which was held at Peterborough yesterday, was attended by a representative body of delegates from Oshawa on the west to Ottawa on the east. The business sessions were harmonious and enthusiastic and important questions were given earnest consideration.

On special interest in the day's proceedings were the after-luncheon addresses given by Hon. C. A. Magrath, chairman of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, and by T. N. Stinson, M.P., Lindsay.

Mr. Magrath gave in brief outline a plan for an adequate supply of power for Eastern Ontario and gave emphatic denial to the impression that the Hydro Commission had changed its attitude in regard to St. Lawrence development.

Mr. Stinson dealt in a comprehensive manner with the Alberta coal question. He quoted numerous authorities and produced statistics showing that it was quite within the bounds of practical business to transport Alberta coal to Ontario and thus keep Canadian dollars working at home.

Trent Waterways

At the business sessions which were presided over by Dr. W. T. Holloway, Mayor of Peterboro, resolutions were presented and endorsed requesting the Dominion Government to complete the Trent Waterways Canal System as early a date as possible; calling for amendment to the statutes of Ontario to prevent unfair competition for merchants on the part of hawkers and peddlers; asking the Ontario Department of Highways to develop still further the road system of Eastern Ontario and, in particular, to make accessible to motor tourists the many points of scenic interest and beauty; suggesting that the Hydro Commission establish an industrial department in an endeavor to attract British and American capitalists and manufacturers to Ontario; asking for the early conclusion of a treaty with the United States for development of the St. Lawrence Waterway. The Department of Immigration at Ottawa will be asked to establish in Eastern Ontario immigration of a suitable character from Great Britain and northern Europe, so as to develop more intensively such rural districts as dairying, fruit production, animal husbandry, agriculture and truck farming; requesting the Department of Mines to make provision for more thorough examination of the resources of Eastern Ontario in metallic and non-metallic minerals so as to have for use more extensive and authoritative information.

It was decided to hold three general meetings of members a year instead of only one annual meeting, two of these meetings to be held on the third Tuesdays of October and of March, respectively, and the annual meeting to be held in June.

FORMER MEMBER DIES SUDDENLY

Anthony M. Rankin, Well Known Conservative Passes Away

Many were the expressions of regret upon the streets of Belleville this morning when the news was broadcast that Anthony M. Rankin former member of the Ontario Legislature had dropped dead at Napanee yesterday.

Mr. Rankin was well known in Belleville where he had visited many times and it was only last Saturday that he was in the city and on that occasion he complained that he was not feeling well.

Mr. Rankin was General Manager of the Frontenac Dredging Company who have been engaged in filling in the causeway at the Bay Bridge.

The deceased, aged 54, lived at Collins Bay, near Kingston, and had been in the legislature for some fifteen years. He was on the Hydro Board and was nominated for Minister of Highways. Mr. Rankin ran in Frontenac-Lennox in last election and was defeated. He supported Government control at power. He was a Conservative, an Orangeman, an Oddfellow, and a Mason. Dr. W. H. Rankin, Brooklyn, N.Y., was a brother.

Mr. Rankin was a well known public man, active and energetic and a good business head. He was a son of the late David J. Rankin, and succeeded his father in the milling and coal business at Collins Bay. Two sisters also survive, Mrs. H. J. Bedell and Mrs. Ida Love, Kingston. Mr. Rankin was a Presbyterian and entered the United Church. Before the Union Act adopted by the Ontario Legislature he was a member of the Canadian Coal Roads Association.

SPECTACULAR DISPLAY AT PUBLIC RECEPTION TO GRAND OFFICERS OF THE EASTERN STAR AT THE ARMOURIES WITH CROWD OF 2500 IN ATTENDANCE

Exchange of Flags and Expressions of International Good Will

WELCOMED BY MAYOR

Worthy Grand Matron Presented With Golden Key To Belleville

Beauty almost staggering description featured the informal opening of the 12th Annual Convention of the Eastern Star of Ontario in Canada which is being held in this city, commencing tomorrow and ending Friday. Under a canopy of pennants and emblems of the star which were strung from every corner of the auditorium of the Belleville Armouries East met West amongst the colors and emblems of twenty-three bonded people and among which were delegates from each of the one hundred and twenty districts of Ontario.

An immense platform elected at the south side of the auditorium was completely hidden by banks of flower of the order on the four points, while above a star emblematic of the organization shimmered and gleamed with myriad-colored lights. Ferns, palms and every spring blossom lent a lovely setting to the gorgeous gowns and glittering jewels worn by the lady grand officers on the platform. Coupled with the huge electric star hich above they radiated effects, pendants, bearing "welcome" and "Welcome" could be seen through the shadows cast by the emblematic color scheme employed in forming the plans of the electric lights.

Fronting the platform was a large square reserved for drills and manoeuvres of the chapter, and on every side of the hundreds of brilliantly dressed, beautiful women, interspersed by their more sombrely clad male companions presented a sight long to be remembered by the grand officers ushered upon the platform and each individual in the audience hung on every word and movement of the patriotic and deeply spiritual addresses.

Opening the evening to the strains of martial music the grand officers of the chapter were escorted through the front line of equally observant delegates and friends Patrol of Belleville Chapter No. 53 triumphantly and with skilful ability escorted the honored grand officers to their appointed places on the platform and presented each of the lady officers with a corsage bouquet and the men with buttonhole bouquets.

Patriotic airs again signalled the vast audience to arise and a buge welcome to Ontario's fair home by Mrs. Robinson Malins, P. G. M., W. G. W., of Central Grand Chapter was presented by Mrs. Elizabeth A Tyler, P.G.M., who in receiving the flag said she "Great Britain" could have been bestowed upon no than that of receiving the flag of my country". Garageman Forced To Halt Freight To Prevent Second Mishap

Seven cadets from the Royal Military College narrowly escaped serious injury when the car in which they were driving struck the cement culvert at Bell's Creek three miles east of the city yesterday afternoon at four o'clock and jumping through a handsome fence and came to grief on an embankment.

The cadets who were driving to Toronto from Kingston had recently completed their year and following the losing of the school set out for their respective homes. The motor was in charge of Cadet B. Monkhouse, 57 Main Ave., Toronto, who according to his story had control of the machine as it was emerging from the cement culvert and jamming on his brakes the car skidded cleanly it to strike the cement in the right side of the road and headed for the ditch on the opposite side. None of the boys were injured although the car was badly smashed up, the left under was almost completely demolished and the bumper and radiator were bo damaged. George Calberry was called with his service truck and towed the car to the city.

Narrow Escape

As the car and truck neared Gibson's Crossing the chain slipped and he damaged car was left standing on he track and at the same time a pickit train was seen approaching from the east. Two men were sent to the train and the engine was brought to a stop on only a few yard from the crossing.

The occupants of the car proceeded to Toronto by train leaving the car in charge of Mr. Calberry.

OLD LIQUOR MUST BE DISPOSED OF

All those who have had a nice little cellarful of liquor which they have laid away for the year 21, or that they have stored during the old Ontario Temperance Act, will be well advised to either get rid of it or get a permit from the Liquor Control Board to keep it. The new law reads that "No person shall, except with the permission of the Board, obtained within three months from the date upon which this Act came into force have or keep any liquor other than native wine, within the Province, which has not been purchased from a Government vendor store or from a physician, as provided by section 56.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie Thinks Many Rural Places Envy Our Advantages

In the city for only a few minutes, the Honorable Hugh Guthrie nevertheless spared a short time to a representative of the Intelligencer today.

"My, what a pretty city Belleville is," stated the Hon. Guthrie.

"Towns like St. Thomas and others we said are anything to have the waterfront that your city possesses I have not been in Belleville since 1883, when I figured in a law case here, and the city certainly has changed."

Mr. Guthrie arrived here on the 12.02 train and was driven almost immediately to the Armouries. He returned to Toronto on the 5.22 C. N. R. train.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

South Hastings Association Tenders Vote of Confidence To Leaders

Conservatives from all sections of the riding of South Hastings invaded Stirling today for the Annual picnic and Get-Together at the Agricultural Grounds. The early morning rain deterred somewhat from the attendance but the crowd was an enthusiastic one, eager to hear the addresses given by the Honorable Hugh Guthrie acting leader at Ottawa and other prominent members of the Conservative Party.

One of the chief items of business was the selection of the delegates to the convention to be held at Winnipeg in September and there has been much speculation during the past few weeks of the probable selection. Beside the speeches a programme of sports and entertainment was arranged by the energetic committee in charge.

Last years officers, George H. Stokes, President, and R. M. Ketcheson were both re-elected.

The Delegates

The delegates to the Winnipeg Convention were chosen as follows—Mrs. J. W. Kinnear, Belleville; H. F. Kerr-Seoud, Belleville; T. Jarrell, Trenton; and C. H. Wesse, Thurlow. These delegates with the present member, W. R. Tummon, will compose the party. The alternates selected were, R. L. Hyman, Belleville; A. J. E. Graham, Belleville; Mrs. Earl Bailey, Stirling; and Jno. H. Sinker, Trenton. Vice Presidents of the Association for the ensuing year are Mrs. Ketcheson, Belleville; Frank Hicks, Thurlow; C. L. Goodman, Tyendinaga, W. H. Harvey, Ameliasburg; S. Bateman, John Carleton, Hungerford; W. S. Martin, Stirling; Frank Campbell, Sydney; Herman Gaina, Trenton; H. A. Bingham, Frankford. The ladies of the district will select their own vice-president at a later meeting in the year. This body will form the executive of the Association.

W. E. Tummon, M.P., read a letter from Dr. Beatty of Kingston asking the Association to concur in sending contributions and suggesting that the 50 cent monies at Kingston on July 1st when flowers will be placed on the grave of Sir John A. McDonald. Delegates to the Winnipeg Convention were also asked to contribute towards the fund to erect a monument to Sir John A. McDonald at his old home. Any money left over will be used towards erecting a home for the Conservative leader at Kingston.

It was moved by Geo. A. Reid that the sum of $50 be contributed from the $50 towards the Flower Fund or to be used towards any other purpose.

Next Meeting

It was moved by R. D. Ponton that a letter of sympathy be forwarded to the family of the late Anthony Rankin who passed away suddenly yesterday at Napanee. James Hill seconded the motion.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

Reading furnishes the mind only with materials of knowledge; it is thinking makes what we read ours.

LOCKE.

TWO PREMIERS

Premier Ferguson of Ontario and Premier Taschereau of Quebec are portent missionaries for Canadian harmony. Not for years have the relations between the two great provinces been as good as today, and the happy order is in great measure due to the fact and good sense of the two premiers. In their respective ways the two men represent what is best in the characteristics of the two races, and this, combined with a spirit of good fellowship, understanding and sympathy, is achieving wonders in making for unity. Long may both of them remain to sing "Alouette" together.

ALBERTA COAL

Alberta coal may begin moving to Ontario, we are told—in 1928. But the matter is hedged by a formidable list of "ifs." First of all the Dominion Railway Board must make a finding concerning the out-of-pocket cost of transporting the coal to Central Canada. Then the Dominion Government will have to determine what its attitude should be after the cost has been determined. Next, Parliament will have to decide whether any cost that the Government may determine to share with Alberta and Ontario to bring Alberta coal east should be voted. Finally, there is the possibility that Pennsylvania operators may decide to reduce their prices to retain a $60,000,000 a year Canadian market.

All of which suggests that it may be some time after even 1928 before we stock our cellars with Alberta coal. There is the possibility, of course, that our legislators may smash all precedents and defy all with obstacles quickly—but we doubt it.

NON-BRITISH SETTLERS

The figures of immigration to Canada for April have a timely interest in the light of the complaint by Lieut.-Col. R. H. Webb, Mayor of Winnipeg, that the Canadian West is being filled with settlers from Central Europe that threaten to overwhelm the Anglo-Saxon element of those provinces. In that month 11,803 persons came from the United Kingdom, 2,518 from the United States and 31,120 from other countries. These others included 2,577 Germans, 1,372 Magyars, 2,486 Poles, 3,109 Ruthenians, 1,662 Norwegians and 2,036 Slovakians.

Mayor Webb made a strong point of his objection to the newcomers to flock to Winnipeg, where they work for low wages and thus create a problem for employed Canadians and where, in many cases, their care becomes a winter charge on the municipal treasury. Of those who arrives in April 10,943, or almost half of them went to Manitoba, 3,312 to Saskatchewan and 2,978 to Alberta. There are no statistics to show how many of them went directly to farms or how many are looking for jobs in Winnipeg, Regina and Calgary.

Sir William Mulock, Chief Justice of Ontario, had something to say on this subject the other day. "I do not think," he declared, "that our friends to the north have been vastly enriched by their increased population. A large portion of their population might now be called a source of weakness." Probably Col. Webb would endorse this view. We cannot have too many immigrants of Anglo-Saxon stock and traditions, particularly if they are able and willing to work on the land. The virile races of Northern Europe are first-class settlers and easily assimilable. But quite a different problem is presented by the influx of Ruthenians, Poles and other peoples of Central Europe, and that is the problem which causes anxiety to Col. Webb and to many others.

CARRYING GRUDGES

Do you carry grudges? Cast them aside. Your burden in life is heavy enough without them.

Do you feast of your grudges as a sign that you are a free man? Don't do it. Though you may have created your grudges and though you may feed them, they are your masters. You may carry your grudges uphill through life, but it will carry you only down.

Do you want to hear the voice in the street in violent impatience. Smith cries: "If Jones is fit it I am against it." Then Jones controls Smith's mind more firmly than if he were his closest friend.

It is worth while to waste our energies and vitiate our minds in hate and resentment. It is right to hate evil, but merely pity evil men.

If you have been wronged, forget, they keep the injury fresh? You suffered enough at the time.

Do you long for revenge or to "get even" with some enemy, actual or imaginary. You continue his ascendancy. You hypnotize yourself within his spell. He doesn't pay.

Many happinesses are shared by the least fortunate of us, and many misfortunes befall the happiest of us. None of us can well afford to spend his days in prospect and prospect in other than the happiest memories and the brightest hopes that charity and love can summon.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

"Why all the heavy thought, Ethel?"

"I'm trying to make up my mind whether to be popular tonight or sit like a lady."

Him—"You look like a sensible girl, let's get married."

Her—"Nothing doing. I'm just as sensible as I look."

"Ah, remarked the fascinated bystander, after listening for a time to the moving man who had dropped a grand piano on his feet, "that's the phrase I was trying to think of yesterday on the links."

In Scotland April Fools Day is known as "Gowk." "April Fool," of course counts two words in a telegram.

WINGED VICTORY

"One of our machines did not return."

A wounded bird that trails a broken wing,
But to the heavenly blue that gave it birth
Faded in silence, a mysterious thing
Clearing its radiant course where honour lies,
Like a winged victory mounting to the skies.

The clouds received it and the pallid sea night;
Swift as a flame, its eager force unspent,
We saw no limit to its daring flight;
Only its pilot knew the way it went
And how it pierced the maze of flickering stars
Straight to its goal an the red planet Mars.

So to the entrance of that fiery gate
Borne by no current, driven by no breeze,
Knowing no guide but sole compelling fate,
Bold navigators of unplumbed seas,
Courage and youth went proudly expecting joy,
To win the unchlllenged freedom of the sky.

LIVING DAUGHTERS OF CONFEDERATION

Kingston, Ont., June 22—Miss Mowat, niece of Sir Oliver Mowat, says there are more than two living daughters of the Fathers of Confederation. Daughters of both Sir Oliver Mowat and Sir Alexander Campbell are still living in Toronto. Sir Oliver's daughters are Mrs. Thomas Langton and Miss Mowat, and Sir Alexander Campbell's daughter is Mrs. Walter Jones. There is also one daughter of Hon. George Brown living in Edinburgh, Scotland, Mrs. Harbour. Miss Mowat is of the opinion that Hon. George Brown's second daughter, Mrs. Smellman, is living, also several daughters of Sir A. T. Galt. COLLEGE STUDENTS HUNT.

R. M. Spencer, of Minneapolis, Minn. and Joseph E. Osborne, of the same city, both graduates of Minneapolis University, while on their way to the Zeta Psi convention at Montreal, had a narrow escape from death at Marysville last night.

The young men were rounding the corner at the filling station at the village when they noticed the direction in which the road turned after passing the corner and jumping the road, dashed headlong into a tree. In the horrible crash Spencer sustained a badly cut head and facial injuries while Osborne was badly bruised and shaken, besides sustaining several minor rib abrasions. They were taken to Dr. O'Reilly's office where the injuries were dressed and proceed on this morning on their way to Montreal. Their car, a new Buick, was practically demolished and was towed in this morning to the McLaughlin garage.

Mr. Spencer stated, shortly after the accident, that the road at which the accident occurred was marked in a very misleading manner which caused the almost fatal smash-up.

LOCAL KIWANIS ARE GUESTS OF KINGSTON CLUB

Present Travelling Cup and Hear Address On Confederation

A party of about twenty-five members of the local Kiwanis Club, motored to Kingston yesterday afternoon and were guests of the service organization of that city at a noon-day luncheon in the Hotel Frontenac.

The large gathering listened with interest to a splendid address on the subject of Confederation delivered by Kiwanian Peter MacLaurin of the local Club. Mr. MacLaurin's inspiring talk was a most timely one, and the outstanding feature of the interesting meeting.

Another interesting event on the programme was the presentation to the Kingston Club of the District Travelling Cup which for some time past has been in Belleville's possession. The handsome silver cup was offered originally by Kiwanis International for the fostering of inter-city relations The presentation was made on behalf of the local club by District Trustee George Lee. The cup, George said, was serving well its original purpose, and helping greatly to promote that spirit of inter-city good fellowship in this district.

An invitation was extended by the locals to Kingston Kiwanis to make the return visit in the near future.

NAVAL PROBLEM WAS DISCUSSED

Geneva, June 22.—(Can. Press)—Hon. W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the British Admiralty, and delegates of the British Dominion to the tri-partite naval conference, held a private conference today at which they discussed the British attitude in light of plans submitted to the conference.

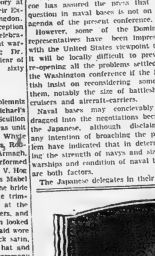

It is understood that Australia and New Zealand are especially anxious that nothing be done here to weaken the present strength of Singapore Naval Base. In the absence of the British Representative Hugh Gibson, of the United States, delegate, conferred with Admiral Viscount Saito and Vice-Admiral Count Okada, on problems raised by the differences between British, United States and Japanese Replications.

Admiral Saito said yesterday that he had no intention of raising the Singapore question and Admiral Jellicoe has assured the press that the question in naval bases is not on the agenda of the present conference.

However, some of the Dominion representatives have been impressed with the United States viewpoint that it will be locally difficult to prevent the operation of the defenses called at the Washington conference if the British insist on reconsidering some of them, notably the size of battleships, cruisers and aircraft-carriers.

Naval bases may conceivably be dragged into the negotiations because the Japanese, although disclaiming any intention of breaching the problem have indicated that in determining the strength of navys and size of ships the condition of naval bases are both factors.

Hurst claimed that all he had had to drink was four bottles of dandelion wine since Saturday night. Evidently the Belleville dandelions have an unusual of homocidal effects in them.

"Your brain must be breaking down" stated the Magistrate. "Don't you realize the seriousness of threatening to kill a man?"

"If my brain is breaking down, it must be from working so hard," responded the prisoner. Hurst wanted to be let out until his trial tomorrow morning so that he could "go to work," but the Powers that Be decided that he had better stay in jail overnight as it was not safe to let such a dangerous threatener at large.

LONGING FOR LOVE AND CARESSES OF HONEYMOON DAYS

By ELSIE MARLOWE

Bobbie's worried. Bobbie's a young wife, and life has "become monotonous" for her. "No, not for the usual reason. She is not complaining of "the dreary round of housework," but because her hubby is "so tired all the time." Too tired to kiss her. Too tired to take her out. So what's the use of anything anyhow? thinks Bobbie.

DEAR ELSIE:

My husband is always so tired. When I suggest going out with him he says he is tired. He won't go to church with me because he is tired, but he is willing to go to a ball game if his friends ask him. Another thing, when his mother rings up and asks him to go over he is always perfectly agreeable about going. I'm not jealous about this. I think it is nice for a son to like his mother, but why don't I get the same attention?

We have been married six years and he hardly ever kisses or caresses me any more. I am only twenty five and I yearn for a few caresses I go to a dance once in a while and I go with my girl friends and always keep wishing my husband was with me. I love my husband as much as the first time I saw him, and I would like him to be like he was at first. Staying at home so much is getting monotonous. What shall I do? I am willing to try anything.

BOBBIE.

There's plenty you can do, Bobbie, so cheer up and start doing!

Remember your courtship days? Remember how you'd fill the house with candy flowers, just because Jim remark that he "loved flowers in the house." And you always were dimply when he came in the evening. He had admired your crisp, flowered dress the first time you met. And yet, you did flirt with him. Well, why shouldn't you? You liked him and he—well, it wasn't very long before his ring was on your finger.

Then you married. Those first years were just one delicious, giddy adventure. The two of you going down the trail of Life with your arms about each other. Laughing and loving and flirting together—with the house full of flowers and you in your flowered dimities.

But suddenly you slowed up a bit, somehow. You forfot the flowers. The dimity dresses wore out. Jim stopped bringing home the silly little surprises you had giggled over. And then he stopped kissing you.

Why did all this happen, Bobbie? Because YOU let it happen. You let yourself go. And sagging is contagious. You forgot the flowers. You didn't wear dimity. You stopped flirting with your husband. You stopped being the happy, lively adventure that you had been to him, and so he sagged, too.

Yes, you're a good housekeeper. You've made a comfortable home for your husband. But have you made it a colorful, interesting place as well? You're a good cook. But haven't you stopped being the cheery trail companion that laughed and loved and flirted with him?

You can win your husband's attention again, Bobbie. If he can still get a thrill out of a ball game or a din ner at mother's, I'm sure he'll also appreciate the lively, interesting, colorful little comrade of six years ago when she returns to him once more.

So powder the little nose, honey, and hitch on the honeymoon smile. Then go out and buy yourself another blue dimity and fill the house with flowers tonight, for your Jim's home coming.

A-lvice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl of sixteen. I have been going with some young men, but my parents object to this.

Please give me your advice.

BROKEN-HEARTED.

BROKEN-HEARTED: You must make your parents understand that you cannot get along without recreation and some kind, my dear. And there is no reason why you should not accept the invitations of young men who are worthy of your friendship. Ask your mother and father to give you their permission to invite some of your friends over some evening. Then they can judge whether or not the young men and women you like are the proper associates for you—and you can be guided by their advice.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

We are two pals in our teens and we are in love with two young men. Every time they meet us they want to take us home but never make a date.

Please advise us what to do.

TWO PALS.

TWO PALS: The next time these young men escort you home why don't you invite them in? Or if this is impossible ask them to call on you. If they are sufficiently interested to pay even such slight attention to you, it should not be hard for you to cultivate their friendship.

I suggest that you have a four-some at one your homes some evening. Then make this visit so pleasant for these young eligibles that they will want to come often.

A recent novel declares: "The charm of a new place is merely that it seems to distract from your own personality that when you enter it you have the illusion of being yourself temporarily, but presently it will lose its first attraction, to become like your past itself, a part of you."

WHAT'S NEW
(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Blue for is being much seen at the Longchamp races.

A novel idea in evening gowns appears in the form of a bracelet made of sequin and silver embroideries to precisely match the trimming of the gown with which it is worn.

The skirts of the new suits are of two types—either the wrap-around species or they flare concentrically as a result of pleats and inverted godets, and it is interesting to note, in this connection, the return to favor of the godet, which a season ago was so convincingly banished.

The rennet midshipson collection acknowledges the potency of the abbreviated sleeve by incorporating it into frocks of a purely sports nature, but among the more formal types the smarter looking long sleeve is vigorous ly maintained.

A London groom has shocked many indignant friends by sending typewritten slips to the donors of his presents, in which he stated: "Mr. X. much regrets he cannot personally acknowledge your burning present, as he has so many letters to write."

The midseason showings reveal that Paris has broken the line, but the new line is confined completely to the front portion of the skirt, the back remaining as flat and smooth as heretofore, and a direct result of this same flare is a sharp diminution in the use of the wide latter fabrics, no longer so essential except in sport mode.

SINCLAIR'S

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN
By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 48.
THE CATCH

It has been previously arranged that Dearborn should arrive at "Seaview" in time for luncheon on a certain day in June. Sybil would have gotten down earlier in the morning, but the whole of the new and unconventional household would be turning briskly and faultlessly by the time he arrived.

He was lumped his creatures comfort and had, for so many years, led a pampered life at this club, where a perfect staff acted as a buffer between him and the chaos afraid of existence, that he welcomed her suggestion that he be allowed the fun of putting "Seaview" into running order without his assistance.

He had even, with the canny idea of protecting himself against the poorly hid ing of any disappointment when their unconventional relationship should end pretty much eliminated himself from her plans. Although he had paid not a penny in advance, and had, not with out a qualm, it must be confessed, put up a rather staggering amount for changes, and one thing and another, he preferred that the impression prevail that the place was hers; it was safer for him, he believed, to appear in the role of a favored visitor. For he had a healthy fear of blackmail at the hands of these beautiful, young women—especially when they had a friend, as Sybil intimated she had, even if that friend was temporarily in Europe.

To Sybil had a free hand and proceeded to use it with shocking and recent satisfaction.

On the date appointed, a perfect June day, with a cloudless blue sky and a fragrance in the air that made city dwellers sniff ecstatically and dream, dreams of a forthcoming vacation by side a lake or the sea or some moun tain stream—Oliver motored along picturesque Long Island roads between hedges covered with blossoms that fill ed the warm, drowsy air with their fragrance. He dined with leisurely satisfaction, reflecting on the lovely young creature who awaited him on the terrace above the sea, when he would reach his journey's end.

He flattered himself that he had acted wisely and discreetly and successfully—oh, most successfully. And he congratulated himself that he had not rashly allowed his infatuation to carry him to the point of offering to marry her.

This arrangement was much better. When she began to pall upon him, he could use the situation gracefully, and part calmly-to end.

At the helm, he had to wait a bit before his ring was answered, and he pounded his keen impatiently until the caretaker, looking a little cross, came into view.

"See here, Johnson, you'll have to do better than this," said Dearborn sharply. "You've kept me waiting nearly five minutes."

Johnson muttered something about "the place being upside down," and opened the gate.

Dearborn drove through, his mood too mellow to chide the man further. He supposed there had been a great deal of confusion that morning, what with all the new servants arriving, and Sybil's baggage—she probably had lots of trunks.

The thick, cool greenness of the park was like a caressing hand; like Sybil's hand, as he imagined it on his nerves, dazed and stunned with the dust and sunlight of the outside roads. Birds were singing in the trees. Other wise the silence was refreshing, quiet and soothing.

"Three months of this!" thought Dearborn appreciatively. "A cool, silent paradise!"

He thought with pity of his acquaintances, detained by business in town, of the racket and clamour, the heat and dust and turmoil of the Fifth Avenue traffic that flowed ceaselessly past his club.

But, as his car glided out of the park into view of the terrace, the silence was shattered by shrill cries. "Peacocks, probably," he thought, after a moment. "Sybil didn't mention that she was getting any, but it's just as well. They'll look rather effective on the terrace—and they suit her style."

As he brought the car to a standstill at the foot of the terrace, he was startled to see a young woman coming down the wide hall and entrance from one of the French windows of the drawing room.

She wore a nurse's uniform. Could Sybil have been taken ill since he had seen her the day before? Wouldn't she have telephoned him and postponed his coming?

He had a dread of sickness. He disliked any suggestion of ill health and the antiseptic scent of a sick-room made him fairly ill.

He stood beside his car frowning, and the young woman called cheerfully down to him:

"Everybody's having a dip before lunch."

Didn't she know who he was? And what was she? Surely not a servant.

He mounted the steps with dignity and crossed the veranda to the side that overlooked the sea.

Then he gasped. Had he made a mistake in the house? He looked again.

The bewildering scene remained the same.

At the foot of the smooth grass slope that fell away from the veranda to the shore, the water was dotted with small, darting shapes that rolled and tumbled and splashed and uttered shrill squeals.

Occasionally, however, while he star ed open-mouthed, another shape—that of the one he had taken for the scream of a stately peacock—rent the air.

He saw scores of children—children of all ages and sizes.

Wrathfully, he wondered if some Sunday-school outing had dared to trespass on his private estate. Where was Sybil? Why hadn't she ordered them out, pack and parcel? Where was Johnson, the caretaker? What was that why he was so upset? Well, no wonder!

Dearborn was descending the slope in majestic wrath, prepared to make short work of the intruders, when another young woman came running up from the beach. At sight of him she stopped, looked him over quickly, then came forward with a pleased smile.

"Oh, Mr. Dearborn—it is Mr. Dearborn, isn't it?" I'm Miss Medbury, assistant superintendent of the Home, and I do want to take this opportunity to thank you for your wonderful generosity. You don't know what it means to these poor little city waifs to have three heavenly months in the country, with the whole sea to play in. Of course, the board of trustees will express it all, much more beautifully," she laughed, apparently not noting Oliver's frozen expression, "but I just wanted to tell you that I think it's perfectly wonderful of you—when you'd never even been to the orphanage. So let me take you down and introduce you to your little guests!"

through on Canadian soil, emphasizing the "Battle of the Plains of Abraham" during the American Revolutionary War, "Lundy's Lane" and "Queenston Heights" where the Lower Rock's imperial words "Push on, don't mind me" were spoken. "It is," she said, "the only flag in the world on which it can truly be said that never was a stain cast on the crimson of the British Empire encircles the universe." She concluded with the words "Never, never shall be absent from the Flag—God Save the King."

American Flag

"This flag represents our liberty and your liberty," stated Mrs. Ethel Von Lueren, Schumacher, Past Grand Matron of the Eastern Star, in accepting the silken flag, splendid emblem of our neighbors to the south which was presented to her by Esther Minnie Rowena, when in an address that if she were to gauge the individual the vast audience arose and roared in unison "Mr. Coolidge." To all Those" Mrs. Schumacher said that no greater honor could have been bestowed upon her than that of being especially trusted to accept the International emblem "Speech no need, the audience understood."

Worthy Grand Patron John Steele, most generous, personable and the art of Mr. Thomas, reply to the The recipient stated that it was a privilege, one in a hundred and fifty years, since the American flag was first made, and that it was the third oldest flag in existence of the people who left the the world and older than that of the Pilgrims, the Plymouth Rock." Whether or not it was a good humble origin" and "Mr. Speaker, who occupies one of the highest offices in the land was indebted for his position from the people of their country, the type. From the American delegates will find a double pleasure in the letter has been received from the Governor of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, now the Empire State of the South" and that, "Before expiration who left the Mayflower, loaded the ship, became United States in the eighteenth century."

Quoting some interesting statistics, Mr. Stewart remarked that "before the Revolution there were only fifteen chapters of the Eastern Star in Ontario, while today one hundred and twenty chapters now established have been established at seventy-one different points in Ontario."

With military precision, Belleville Chapter No. 55 Paired, under the leadership of Mrs. Anna Boyd, one of the grand matron's christian P.W.M., put on a spectacular drill some "Ethel" famous inner days, excess, ended Mrs. Egan Chrisler. Worthy Grand Matron, in the course of their Matron of Belleville No. 55 spoke of impressive. The participants were the entertainers which the local young, immaculately costed in white with red, lead at the conclusion visit of Grand Patron to the picture was formation the host to be remembered visit of accomplished was the living memories the delegates, to the city. Mrs.

The daughter of Sir Alexander Jones was Margaret Frances Scotchard Campbell, second daughter father of the Campbell, the Campbell and the Eastern Star in Canada and for the first presidents her for Alexander Campbell and the Eastern Star in Canada was inaugurated over thirty-six branches of the county as a dominion. In Mrs. W. Walker Jones of Toronto, shown here, Mrs. Scotch ferrers.

Chesher urged the visitors to miss none of the natural beauties of Belleville and surrounding territory Associate Grand Matron, Sister Laura Moore made a very gracious response referring to the hospitality with which the delegates had been received Belleville's welcome and accommodation for the visiting delegates has never and will never be surpassed," concluded Mrs. Moore.

Entertainments

During the evening the patrol presented Mrs. Boyd with a gorgeous basket of roses. Mrs. Laddie presented Mrs. Chesher with a bouquet of roses; Mrs. Oliphant presented Worthy Patron J. W. Barlow with a buttonhole bouquet; Mrs. Albert Johnstone presented Mrs. Boyd, the leader of the patrol, with a bouquet of roses. The patrol presented the past worthy grand patrons and matrons with bouquets and buttonholes: Mr. Barlow presented Mr. Stewart, W.G.P., with a handsome desk clock on behalf of "55" and Mrs. Boyd presented Mrs. Van Luven with a valuable Irish linen luncheon set. Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor was also presented with a bouquet.

Harry C. McKay, co-convenor of printing committee, made a presentation of a cold piece to Mrs. Anna G. Boyd, General Convenor of the Grand Chapter for the local committee. "You, like myself," said Mr. McKay, "come from the Land of the Scots, the land of mountains, statesmen and the "land of spirits" Mrs. Boyd gracefully acknowledged the presentation and, amidst the applause of the assembly,

Music

A musical program of surpassing merit was presented by such outstanding artists as Mrs. J. D. Bunker of this city whose every appearance is greeted with warmest applause, Alice Ivy Snape of Guelph, possessor of a voice of rare beauty, was insistently encored; Mrs. Winnifred Evans Gill, A.C.C.M. of Trenton, who is no stranger to Belleville audiences, was accorded the usual ovation which her rich and lovely voice so truly merits, and Mrs. Irene Baker of Toronto, formerly of this city, proved that she has lost none of her charm of personality nor her wonderful voice in her many numbers last evening and after each, thunderous applause demanded an encore.

Miss Baker, who is one of the rising stars of the vocal world is at present studying voice culture under Mme. Moore of Toronto, a leading Canadian soloist who studied for years under the best European masters in the old land. Mrs. Baker before leaving for Toronto was a pupil of Mrs. (Dr.) O. H. Stobie, one of Belleville's leading soloists and a former pupil of Mrs. Morgan, Toronto. Two vastly interesting reading by Miss Greta Madden completed the pupil's numbers and proved her ability as an elocutionist and versatile impersonator.

The spectacular and brilliant evening was concluded by a reception of the grand officers, and a good percentage of the audience stood, hand in hand, and welcomed the city's honored guests. The strains of invigorating music entered the guests from the dainty refreshments served by the Order of the Eastern Star members, and dancing was enjoyed until early this morning.

EAST IN EAST AND WEST IN WEST

"Never the twain shall meet", said Kipling, but his East is the Orient, while the East we think of is Eastern Canada. This East does meet the West, and when it does, it stands safely at the meridienne of it all; then seems the opportunity offered for endless tourism pleasures.

There is Jasper National Park—2390 square miles of mountain magnificence where the hospitality of Jasper Park Lodge is available for 425 guests.

From Jasper, there extends the famous Triangle Tour, along the Skeena River to Prince Rupert, thence by boat to Vancouver and back to Jasper by rail along the rushing Fraser and Thompson Rivers.

On the Coast itself are endless scenic delights and opportunities for play. Beautiful Vancouver and Victoria and Vancouver Island are centres of a wonderful countryside.

While North, reached by Canadian National Steamers through sheltered scenic seas, lie the wonders of mountains totem-poled Alaska.

The Care of Her Family Weighs Upon the Energies of the Mother

Mrs. Matilda Milne

London, Ont.—Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a splendid tonic for women to take at any time when tired, and rundown. While I was bringing up my family I found the Favorite Prescription very beneficial as a strengthening tonic and nervine for the overall system and I took it when in a rundown and nervous state of health and it built me right up. I found it especially beneficial during expectancy. It did only kept me in good physical condition but was a great help to my mental state also."—Mrs. Matilda Milne, 15 Wyatt St.

BELLE THEATRE
"The Auctioneer," the screen version of the stage success in which David Warfield achieved his first fame under the supervision of David Belasco, which comes to the Belle Theatre, with George Sidney in the title role, beginning tomorrow has an unusual history behind it.
After achieving a sensational New York run which made the young Warfield famous, "The Auctioneer" played to enthusiastic audiences all over the country. Tremendous public demand brought about numerous revivals, until it came to be rated as one of the best loved of Warfield's plays.

Until the rights were sold to Fox Films for picture purposes, the role of Simon Levi has never been done by any other actor but Warfield. However, the idea of making the great actor to play the role on the screen was put aside, and George Sidney, one of the foremost character actors on the stage and screen, was selected for the great part.
The picture, like the play, runs the gamut of emotions from appealing pathos to subtle comedy, all resulting logically from the motivation of the play, which has been called the great American character drama.

KINGSTON TEAM DEFEAT LOCALS

Frontenacs Lose To St. Paul's Alerts By 10-5 Score

The St. Paul's Alerts of Kingston were late in arriving in Belleville last night but they got here in time to turn back Reg. Moncrieff's Frontenacs in an exhibition fixture by a 10 to 5 score. The game was finished in almost total darkness and the players found it difficult to watch the ball.

The Frontenacs were bolstered by a couple of outsiders, notably—Aileen Wilkins, her sister Audrey, and Olive and Mary Adams of the Ontarios.

The visitors got the jump on the locals in the early stages and although the Frontenacs tried hard to even up the handicap proved too great.

Nora Ily went to the mound for the homesters but the Alerts opened up with a barrage of hits and Mary Adams, who is breaking into the pitching end took up the burden. Her sup port at times was not of the all-star variety. Aileen Wilkins was behind the bat.

Audrey Wilkins made some pretty catches in centre garden.

Miss Anestinoe did the flinging for the Alerts and she had as her batterymate Miss Mulholland. The Kingston team were much stronger with the bat than the locals.

The Frontenacs will play a return game.

Walter Gerow umpired behind the bat.

HUMOROUS REFUSED

Montreal, June 22.—Besides being too lazy to make public speeches, the women in the part of France she came from felt that the men did so well it would be left to them—was the gracefully humorous way in which Miss Florence Carrier phrased her refusal to make a formal address before the Peder asten Institute St. Jean Baptiste of their head-quarters yesterday afternoon, where she was tendered a reception in watch honor was paid her father, Sir Georges Etienne Cartier.

Weeds—a menace

Neglect is the friend of weeds. Neglect is responsible for the alarming spread of this pest in Ontario. Weeds now take an annual toll of at least five million dollars out of the wealth of the province.

The Department of Agriculture asks for united, active co-operation to exterminate weeds on every farm, highway, lane and waste space in town and country. Destroy weeds wherever found, as often as necessary to prevent their going to seed.

Write for bulletin No. 188, "Weeds of Ontario".

WARNING

Under the provisions of The Weed Control Act 1927, now in force, the destruction of noxious weeds is no longer optional. The destruction of noxious weeds is now compulsory.

Every occupant of land and every owner of unoccupied land is required to destroy all noxious weeds before their seeds ripen. Municipal councils are required to destroy all noxious weeds growing upon the highways. Let everyone co-operate to end the weed nuisance.

"BABE" VINCENT IS PITCHING IN TORONTO

Any hope that might have been entertained as to influencing "Babe" Vincent starry Peterboro girl pitcher, to come to Belleville, are "shot". The little moundsmaster who fwirled for the Belleville Beavers in the double-header against the Toronto Nationals here three weeks ago is now serving them up for Supremes Senior Champions of Canada who play in the Major League at Sunnyside diamond. The Peterboro girl created a favorable impression and is said to be one of the finest to be seen in action in Toronto this year.

Here's what the Toronto Star says:—"Babe" Vincent, a Peterboro girl, did Supreme's twirling in the fifth and her work was about the best seen this year in the major league, her curveball turning back the Irish' subjects. While Miss Vincent was scored upon, there was only one, earned run. Supremes won by five to four double plays.

CHAMPIONS WIN SIXTH STRAIGHT

Athletics Divide Double-Header With Senators—Gehrig Gets Homer

Boston, Mass., June 22.—The Yankees took 2 few hours out of the Senators' hair by the score and beat the Red Sox in both parts of a double-header, 7-5 and 7-4. The Red Sox agreed that it certainly was the longest day. They thought it never would end.

At a late hour yesterday afternoon the Yanks were seven and a half games ahead of the idle Athletics and going strong. The champions have won six straight and seventeen out of the last twenty.

There was no holding them today. They went out to run-away start in the first game and duplicated this feat in the second affair when Lou Gehrig lifted the circuit route over the right field fence with two on in the seventh.

They were just a couple of ball-gamer—one-sided, tame and routine. The Yanks are the class of champions and the Red Sox looked like—well the Red Sox. It is very refreshing to meet a team like the Red Sox every once in a while, to take the strain off our body.

The Italians of Boston celebrated Christ Columbus' day and gave the popular Signor a handsome ring before the start of the second game. They showed a bit appreciation of the glad doings by helping himself to two hits in each ceremony. But they were all singles. The little boy seems to be in a clump. Behind large Bob Pennock and Waite Hoyt waltzed through to easy victories. The southpaw allowed six hits and the northpaw one less. Hoyt was the better game of the two and it was by far his best, much triumph of the season, with only three defeats to mar his escutcheon.

A crowd of 23,000 Philadelphians watched the Athletics divide a double-header with Washington today by taking the second game, 8 to 2, after dropping the first by 5-4. The Senators clinched the first game by hitting Rommel for three runs in th eFirst inning and sustaining a lead that was never overcome. The Mackmen bunched their nine blows on Walter Johnson effectively in the second game, while Bob Walberg held the Griffmen to five hits.

BEAVERS LOSE TO TRENTON

Locals Hope To Turn Tables Here Tomorrow Night

The Belleville Beavers with a patch ed-up line-up lost to the Trenton leaguers last evening by a score of 6 to 4. The locals were badly handicapped with several of their best players unable to go to Trenton, but they made up a scrappy battle.

A return game will be played here tomorrow evening on the Armouries lawn, and Allan Meagher's girls have high hopes of reversing the score.

The Trenton girls provided plenty of opposition and set ball among the girls in the neighboring town is strong ly entrenched and some fast players are being developed. Both the ball park and the outfield as well are remarkably strong and the Belleville girls will have their work cut out for them in the winning tomorrow night. It promises to be a fine exhibition.

Helen Lee went to the mound and Twila Warlman and Miss Thrasher alternated behind the bat. Several of the players used in the local line-up last night showed considerable promise and with a little practice will come along nicely.

Belleville—Cooke lb, Melchior 2b, Lee p, Warlman ss and c, Thrasher c and c, Kelliher 3b, Pollwell cf, Lee p, S. Lee rf.

Trenton—M. Lockridge, B. Bey, E. Conley, A. Hyde, O. Hardy, H. Alley, C. Hutton, J. Barber, M. Johnston, M. Bowen.

KEEP KIDNEYS CLEAN, DRINK MORE WATER

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, coated tongue, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then get fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

TORONTO BLANKS ROCHESTER 9-0

Syracuse Ace Registers Fifth Straight Victory —Orioles Win

New York, June 22.—The Toronto Leafs, with Jess Doyle pitching, blanked the Tribe at Rochester yesterday and won the second game of the series by a score of 9 to 0. The feature was a home run drive over the left field fence by Bratcher with two men on bases.

The Skeeters managed to get a 5 hopper batting streak by shooting the Breading Pretzels at Jersey City. The score was 3 to 0. Dick Coffman cornered the collar champion for six well scattered hits in winning his sixth game of the season. It was his fifth shutout performance.

Eddie Dyer, Syracuse crack southpaw, registered his fifth straight victory yesterday, pitching six-hit ball while his mates batted him up with a terrific hitting spree all the way for a 10 to 2 verdict over Buffalo. Dyer had the visitors at mercy throughout and did not allow a score until with two down in the ninth and the count two and three, Poppelo got a fast ball for a double to score Huber. Carter's single gave the Herd its only run.

Reds and Pelph knocked homers.

Johnnie Ogden bested Al Simmon in a brilliant pitching duel at Newark, the Baltimore club defeating the Bears by the score of 3 to 0. The victory gave the Oriole twirler his eleventh win of the season. Manager Lee Fohl got for three hits in the eighth frame, which, together with a base on balls and a sacrifice, gave the victors their three runs.

HOGAN'S HOMER WINS FOR BRAVES

New York, June 22.—Also, any young man who stands over six feet and hails from the state of Massachusetts seems eligible for the title of Boston strong boy, but Frank Hogan, the Braves' first baseman, looked like the genuine article as the Polo Grounds yesterday. All that 20-year-old lad did was crash out a couple of home runs which beat the Giants 6 to 5, completely spoiling their home-coming.

When Fearless Frank walloped his first circuit clout into the upper right field stands in the ninth inning Judge Emil Fuchs, president of the Braves, murmured: "He'll be quite a help to the ball club when he grows up."

Critics single in the tenth inning scored Allen with the run that gave Cincinnati a 7-6 victory at Pittsburgh yesterday. Joe Dawson, making his first start for the Pirates, was batting third. Pittsburgh drove Luque from the box in the 9th with a four-run rally that tied the score.

Morrison relieved Dawson in the tenth and the winning run was made off him. Wright hit a homer with one on in the seventh.

The Robins easily defeated the Phillies today in the first game of the series at Brooklyn by 7 to 3. Dazzy Vance pitching only five hits and fanning nine batters. Cy Williams' twelfth homer of the season came in the fourth inning and was one of two hits made off Vance up to the ninth. The Robins collected nine safeties off the combined efforts of Prnett and Decatur.

First Sale Proved an Unqualified Success

Those who have followed the organization of the newest chain system, Canadian Department-Stores, Limited, will be interested to know that their first big selling event, launched on Thursday simultaneously in all of the stores, was successful to a degree greater than was expected.

Included in Canadian Department-Stores, Limited, are over twenty of the oldest and most firmly established retail firms in Ontario and one in Montreal. The merger which brings them together under one centralized administration, located in the Harbor Terminals Bulding, Toronto, with one buying staff, one accounting staff, etc., has naturally affected every wholesaler and manufacturer who previously has done business with the individual firms concerned.

The success of the general sale effort this week gives every assurance that the chain store idea has made a very positive appeal to the buying public in the twenty-two communities served by this new organization.

SEVEN INJURED IN ACCIDENT TO THE PICTON BUS

Car Skids and Turns Completely Over On The Highway

BRUISED AND SHAKEN

Most Of The Injuries Are Slight And All Are Recovering

When the Picton bus in attempting to pass another car about five-thirty yesterday evening left the road and turned over the seven occupants received more or less serious injuries. The injured are:

Miss Sadie Doran, 240 Anne Street, crushed chest.

Mrs. E. Leftran, Detroit, badly shaken up.

Mrs. Hazel Way, Royal Oaks, Michigan, bruises and shock.

Mr. J. T. Butler, Toronto, arm injured and one rib broken.

Mr. D. Mailer, Toronto, bruised and shaken up.

Mr. C. J. Appel, Toronto, minor injuries.

Mr. William Brickman, driver, Belleville, minor scratches.

The bus which is owned by Mr. Frank Smith, of Dunbarton street, left the city about five o'clock on its usual rounds. About a mile south of Rossmore the driver was about to pass another car, when his bus slipped on the greasy road, struck some small pebbles and turned completely over. It remained on its top in the direct center of the Highway.

The body of the car stood up under the crash but the occupants were dashed against the sides and all more or less injured. Passing motorists summoned Drs. G. H. Stobie and J. H. Faulkner and the Police ambulance in charge of Chief Kidd was soon on the scene and took Miss Doran and Mrs. Leftran to the hospital. The remainder of the passengers were brought into the city in other cars and taken to their homes.

This morning Miss Doran, who suffered the most severe injuries is reported as progressing favourably towards recovery.

BRITISH EMPIRE IS A STRANGE COMPLEX OF SEPARATE ENTITIES

Police Court

Harold Lloyd, not he of movie fame, appeared in the local court today facing a charge of assaulting his mother, Mrs. Lloyd.

Mrs. Lloyd claimed that her son struck her with a piece of a door knob while endeavouring to get at his sister who had, Lloyd alleged, struck his little son. "My son killed so many Germans that I guess he wanted to kill his sister too," said, Mrs. Lloyd. According to her own evidence, Harold, who is an employee of the C.P.R., came over to her house in a beastly temper and his sister, Dreatha, took away a dopper from Harold's adopted son who was playing with it. In taking the dopper away, the little boy fell and received a rush fell on his sister, and the mother jumped in between the two. For her pains she received a blow in the lip with the piece of door-knob.

Lloyd was given a suspended sentence of six months.

Drunk and Assault Case

Harold Barrett, a young man, faced two charges in police court this morning, one of being drunk and the other of assaulting his wife with a shovel. He was cognizant of being drunk about a month ago, and today paid a fine of $109.00 with no costs, or in lieu of payment, thirty days in jail.

On the second charge, that of assaulting his wife, he was given a suspended sentence of one year. His wife claimed he had struck her before this. She is at present living with her mother.

Must Not Drink

Patrick Hurst, charged with vagrancy, received a suspended sentence of one year from Magistrate Mikel in police court this morning. He pleaded not guilty to both charges but was convicted on the two. On the charge of vagrancy he will, Hurst was bound over to keep the peace for one year. Hurst must not drink during that time, nor intoxicating liquor.

Serious Offence

David Rooney who runs a small candy and tobacco store at 315 Front Street, appeared in police court this morning charged with committing a serious offence against a young girl under fourteen years of age. His case was enlarged until June 30th and bail was allowed out on $5000 bail.

Sir Cecil Hurst Tells Chicago of the Evolutions of Dominions

Chicago, June 21.—Describing the British Empire as a strange complex, a heterogeneous collection of separate entities which is yet a political unit, Sir Cecil Hurst, legal adviser of the British Foreign office, began a series of lectures today before the Norman Wait Harris Memorial foundation institute at the University of Chicago. Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa he said, have been during the last century, climbing the ladder of evolution from the position of dependence to a position of freedom from control.

The Dominions of today were the crown colonies of the past and the crown colonies of today will be the dominions of the days to come. There is nothing static about the British Empire. The Irish Free State had reached Dominionhood in a different route and Sir Cecil considered that it lay outside the scope of the subject. In the last and concluding of his series of lectures he will discuss the constitutional history of relations between Ireland and Britain prior to the treaty of 1921 was a pact that had been turned and he was concerned only with the position which Ireland enjoyed at present.

De Valera Party Refused Admission To The Dail Eireann

COSGRAVE PRESIDENT

Independent Parties Tender Provisional Support To Government

Dublin, June 23.— Eamon De Valera and other deputies elected on the Fianna Fail ticket refused to take the oath of allegiance to King at the opening session of the Dail Eireann today and were refused admission to the Chamber. The Dail, began its sitting without them. The galleries were thronged with an anxious crowds and the sole object of excitement was the political situation created by the recent elections. Hundreds of civic guards were quartered in the vicinity of Leinster House where the Dail sits and, the streets adjacent were closed to traffic.

Cosgrave Elected President .....

William T. Cosgrave was re-elected president of Irish Free State executive council by new Dail Eireann at its first session today, held without the participation of the Republican deputies.

Patrick Hastger, Chairman of the Farmer's party, declared his party would support the Government provisionally while Capt. W. A. Redmond, National group chief, said the latter party should form a Government. Michael Hayes, former speaker of Dail was also re-elected.

Refuse to Take Oath

Mr. De Valera and his enemies marched to Leinster House where the Dail sits at 2.40 p.m. They were subjected to close police scrutiny before their invitations and were conducted to one of the committee rooms. The clerk and deputy clerk of the Dail entered the room to hear the Fianna Fail members take the oath of allegiance, but the latter refused. Thereupon they were excluded admission to the Dail chamber.

TRYING HARD TO COME TO TERMS

Britain, United States And Japan Working Towards Common Ground

Geneva, June 23.—Lord Robert Cecil, British delegate to the tripartite naval conference and Hugh S. Gibson, chief of the United States delegation, today held a private meeting to discuss the proposals of their respective countries for further naval limitation. No advance toward an eventual agreement was made at the conference, the most reliable information being that both confined themselves to an explanation and defense of their respective proposals.

Mr. Gibson who was accompanied by Allen W. Dulles, juridical expert for the United States delegation, emerging from the meeting said that the peoples of Great Britain, the United States and Japan were all anxious to find an agreement and were convinced that only patience and good will among the delegates were needed finally to work out a common basis for an accord.

"It is natural to encounter disconcurrent in the solution of individual problems," he said, "but without existing there would have been no need to call the conference."

Mr. Gibson emphasized that he and Viscount Cecil had examined the British and United States proposals in an attempt to understand their mutual positions and added that much had been done so far which would justify less hopefulness in achieving a final agreement.

The growth of the order can be judged from the institution of twenty-one new chapters since last grand session. The reports of the W. G. M. and W. G. Patron showed a sizable and gratifying financial condition. A leviable sic-cent per cent. Florence Rabbit an outstanding figure at previous Grand sessions despite her eighty years of youth. THEIR MASTER'S VOICE

Last week the fifth convention of the Communist party of Canada met in Toronto. Perhaps the most important feature of the meeting was the reading of a message—a paternal affair than a fraternal message—from the Soviet Russian government. It was of course received with reverence, for was it not the voice of the master of those there assembled?

Special stress was put in the message upon two lines of communistic duty. The Canadian Communists were urged to "perform their duty in the struggle for Canadian independence and against imperialism." And they were told that their work in trades unions now, more than ever before, "becomes the key development of a truly Bolshevik mass party."

Why should the Government at Moscow be so extremely desirous of Canadian political independence? It has no special interest in this country. The explanation is, of course, that the government at Moscow has made the disruption of the British Empire the chief feature of its foreign policy. In India, in China and throughout the far East in Egypt and Turkey, in each of the British dominions, in the United States there are Bolshevik agents all instructed to agitate against British "imperialism" and sow propaganda against the British Empire. It is a sound and far-sighted policy from the revolutionary point of view, for there is no doubt that the British Empire is the strongest existing bulwark against the forces of red revolution. The Bolshevik barbarians, John S. Elwart, K.C., Mayor Big Bill Thompson and Eamon Valera are all in the same boat, linked together by a common sentiment and purpose—hatred of the British Empire, and its disruption.

COSGRAVE'S DILEMMA

Premier Cosgrave of the Irish Free State has declared that he would not attempt to form another government, his party being in a minority in the new dail; but a report says it is hoped that he will reconsider his intention. One of the minor party groups would probably give him independent support—the Farmer's party, numbering eleven votes—and it is likely that most if not all of the fourteen Independents would support his government in essential matters. If so, he could depend upon a majority of about thirty, assuming, of course, that DeValera and his followers persist in their intention not to take the oath of allegiance without which they cannot take their seats.

Apparently the Labor group is unalterably opposed to the government—and no wonder, for it is hardly felicitous to the constitution than are the DeValeraites. The goal of the Labor party is a workers' republic. The Laborites say that they look forward to the day when, with Labor installed in power in Southern Ireland and also in the Free State, the partition between the two regions will be thrown down and a republic established for the whole country. Meanwhile they take the oath of allegiance for the sake of expediency. It must be admitted that the Laborites are more unprincipled than are DeValera and his followers.

AN ALLEGED RHYME

This alleged rhyme won the London Observer's prize for words "that looked as if they rhymed, but didn't":—

I am not great through eating meat,
Nor yet am I a toper;
I loathed beef-steak and bubble-and-squeak,
I think them most improper.

I do not care for caviare.
It does not make me kinder;
Such things are foul, they stain my soul,
Magnificence they hinder.

So I always dine on a tangerine,
Ground small on a nutmeg-grater,
And, once a year, a William pear,
Washed down in a pint of water.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

What is that big box on the front of your automobile?

That is a moving-picture camera. You see I go so fast, I don't have a chance to vision the scenery, so I photograph it as I go along.

Sir Henry Thornton predicts that Canada will have 25,000,000 poulation in 15 years. He expects prohibition to continue in the United States, evidently.

Sylvia—He told me that I was the prettiest and most interesting girl he had ever met. Her friend—And you will trust ourself for life with a man who starts to deceive you at the beginning of the courtship?

That man must be a perfect foolking his life that way," said the motorist as another car flashed past on a particularly dangerous piece of the road. He stands a mighty good chance of breaking his neck."

"What did he do it for?" enquired the passenger.

"Oh, just to try and prove he has a better car than I have," replied the other. "But I'll show him."

And he stepped on the gas.

Man is reminded that by working in on a concrete house as where all the a garden he may make it, own himself, cars are doing better than thirty-five but he may continue under the impress miles an hour.—Boston Transcript.

Earlier in the morning the hucker producers obtained 30 cents a box which was much better than the 25c the public has been charged during the past couple of weeks.

WILD RUMORS

Two rumors were current upon the city streets this afternoon but the Intelligencer could get confirmation on neither of them. One stated that a youngster was killed near Trenton and another was to the effect that a local milk man was fired upon while making his rounds early this morning. In connection with the latter story it was learned that a milk man did make a report to the police that he heard shots in the vicinity of Bridge and Pinnacle Streets at an early hour but investigation led to the belief that it was an automobile back-firing. Dr. Crowe, Coroner at Trenton, was called but stated he had heard nothing of the accident.

They will reside at Edgerdo on returning.

TODAY'S MARKET

Chicago, Ills., June 23.—With harvest weather southwest auspicious and with Liverpool quotations lower than due, wheat took an early swing downward here today. Rains were reported in parts of Argentina which have been dry for weeks. Opening at 1-4c to 7-8c decline, Chicago wheat later underwent an additional setback. Corn started half cent to 7-8c off and continued down trade. Oats were wild.—Provisions tended to sag.

ENTHUSIASTIC CONSERVATIVE BIG RALLY TO HEAR HUGH GUTHRIE

Geo. H. Stokes of Tweed Unanimously Re-elected President

DELEGATES CHOSEN

Harmony Prevailed In Ranks of Party—Ready For Election

The healthy, vigorous condition of the Conservative Party in this riding was well displayed yesterday afternoon when in spite of the bad weather in the morning a big crowd gathered in the Stirling Agricultural grounds for the annual meeting of the Conservative Association of South Hastings. The main attraction was the address of the Hon. Hugh Guthrie Temporary Leader of the Party, and his speech on some of the outstanding political features of the year.

The business part of the meeting was quickly disposed of. As reported in yesterday's Intelligencer, George H. Stokes, of Tweed, was unanimously re-elected as president, despite his protest that the office should pass on to some one else. Mr. R. H. Ketcheson, of Belleville, was just as quickly put back in his place as secretary-treasurer, the members refusing to hear of him relinquishing his duties. The financial statement showed a balance of well over three hundred dollars in the treasury and was adopted without discussion.

Eight names were put in nomination as delegates to the Conservative National Convention in Winnipeg next October and the nominees arranged among themselves as to which should be delegates and which alternates. The delegates are: Mrs. (Dr.) J. W. Kinnear and Mr. H. P. Ketcheson, of Belleville; Mr. T. Jarrett, Trenton; and Mr. C. H. Weese, of Thurlow Township. The alternates are: Mrs. Earl Bailey, Stirling; Mrs. C. H. Stokes, Tweed; and Messrs. R. J. E. Graham and B. L. Hyman, Belleville.

As there is a possibility that the representation for each riding may be increased to eight delegates it was arranged that if this occurred the eight names approved at yesterday's convention shall be the delegates and if any of them are unable to go to Winnipeg the executive of the riding is empowered to select alternates in their place. The executive is composed of the president, the secretary-treasurer and the following vice-presidents, representing the various municipalities: H. F. Ketcheson, Belleville; Frank Hicks, Thurlow; C. L. Hoodman, Tyendinaga; W. H. Harvey, Deseronto; S. Hollins, Tweed; John Carlisle, Hungerford; W. E. Martin, Stirling; Frank Campbell, Sidney; Herman Gains, Tremaine; and H. A. Bingham, Frankford. To these names will be added vice-presidents, representing the various wards of amalgamation of the riding when they are selected at their next meeting.

After the business meeting the crowd which was being steadily augmented adjourned to the grounds to listen to the speakers. On the platform were: W. S. Tummon, M.P., South Hastings; E. A. Peck, M.P., Peterboro; F. W. Bowen, M.P., Durham; Dr. A. T. Embury, M.P., North Renfrew; M. F. Mayhew, Northumberland; W. H. Ireland, M.P.P., West Hastings; J. F. Hill, M.P.P., East Hastings; and the Hon. J. R. Cooke, M. P. P., North Hastings.

Honorable Hugh Guthrie

Vociferous cheering was accorded the Honorable Hugh Guthrie, Acting Leader of the Conservative Party of Canada, as he arose to address the large audience which Mr. Cooke gave him during the campaign in his own riding, South Wellington, during 1925 and 1926.

"On September 14th of last year the Conservatives of this country suffered a tremendous disaster when they who had been so confident of success were defeated at the polls" said Mr. Guthrie and continuing stated that on the morning of September 15th the party was in a dehabilitated condition and it hopes were at a high standard. "The worst disaster was the defeat of the leader, Arthur Meighen" said Mr. Guthrie. "I have been in the House of Commons for twenty-nine consecutive sessions and I believe that Arthur Meighen was the most conscientious and ablest parliamentarian that Canada ever produced". The speaker stated that the Honorable Arthur Meighen took the right course in resigning from public life for the time being.

"Following the defeat of the Government" said the speaker, "Arthur Meighen summoned all the elected and defeated candidates to whom he tendered his resignation and then the elected members remained in the chamber where this meeting was held and decided upon a temporary leader". Mr. Guthrie stated that he could not account for himself being selected unless it was that he had sat in three successive governments or because it was at his long service in the House of Commons "however" said he "I accepted the post and if I had any success in the last parliament it was due to the many Conservative members who sat in the house, including W. E. Tummon, Member for West Hastings, who was one of the best supporters the leader and who was always in the house when needed and always ready to speak or vote.

"It was decided by the party to call on Nation-wide convention of the Conservative Party on October 12th next in the City of Winnipeg and to which the whole party might have a voice in the selection of its leader" stated the Acting Leader. Mr. Guthrie said that the executive was meeting next month and there was a possibility of the date being changed to September 27th. "Another matter to be finally settled at the executive meeting to be held July 6th is the number of delegates to be sent from each riding and whether the Provincial members will be entitled a vote". If the latter were the case he "owed all the provinces would not have equal representation."

Mr. Guthrie told his hearers that his would be the first convention of the Conservative party in many years. "This is a new departure in the selecting of a leader" said the speaker. "Sir John A. Macdonald was the unanimous choice of his colleagues and the other leaders were appointed by the officials of the party". This new mode employed in selecting the leader will unite the Conservative party from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast.

"The next need today is a strong Conservative Party" said the speaker, who continuing stated that the party only had eighty-eight members in the last House while the Government could always command a majority of about sixty-four." Even with that the Government had great respect for the Conservative Party which saved Canada much money, when by its actions it stirred up the whole of Canada including Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce at the time the Sir Clifford Sifton treaty came up and received their disapproval of the course Sir Lliwelyn in the House of Parliament were taking to the Government and caused that body to kill the bill, granting the franchise to the soldiers, after it had its second reading.

Mr. Guthrie spoke at some length on the department of the Minister of Finance, the Hon. Mr. Robb, who he said personally had the greatest respect, "said he "he is only reducing for you the taxes which he, himself, put on". Mr. Guthrie stated that Mr. Robb was cutting the tax on checks reducing the rate tax, but that it was to be regretted these during his regime in office. "The only men who he has caused any reduction to are the wealthy men, residing in Montreal and Toronto, the fellows with the big incomes" and these men have received a substantial cut.

Speaking of the National debt, Mr. Guthrie stated that in Mr. Robb's speech of 1924 he stated that he reduced it thirty million, in 1925 thirty-five million and in 1926 twenty-seven million which in all amounted to ninety-two millions, but the Government auditor only showed a reduction of seventy-six million and included in this was a large total of treasury notes called in "The National debt today" said Mr. Guthrie is fifty-seven million dollars more than when Arthur Meighen left power in 1921.

In speaking on the tariff question, the Acting Leader stated that the policy established by Sir John A. Macdonald known at the National Policy and employed by him, and his Conservative successor, Sir Wilfred Laurier, Sir Robert Borden and the Hon. Arthur Meighen and which brought prosperity and success to Canada was now changed by the Hon. William Lyons Mackenzie King and how the speaker cited an instance or where a few years ago there was many men of four firm: manufacturing farming interests and today they are only two. "The duty on raw sheep and lambs also has been lowered from 12 1-2c. to 6c." "In the face of this raw material duty is being allowed to enter the country duty free" said Mr. Guthrie. "Antelope, all added the speaker. Continuing he stated that in 1921 when everything was at the peak price a cotton glove was sold for $2.82 and today it is sold at $2.64, a cotton coat also retailed at $2.45 and today $2.36; an ordinary pair of boots sold for $5.62 and today $5.50. "This" said Mr. Guthrie "is the achievement of the Liberal Government which was elected on meticulously three years ago."

Referring to the Conservative party in Canada, Mr. Guthrie said that they should at all times be boosters. "The King Government and by name Canada and no Government could run this country. "The Conservative Party was the party which made this country and Sir John Macdonald was the pioneer of that party".

"What Canada wanted to-day was immigration" said Mr. Guthrie who called that to the Province of Manitoba in 1921 the census showed a population of 610-000 and in 1926, 670-000 or in other words the province had not increased its natural increase which is four and a half per cent. Saskatchewan in 1921 had a population of 757,000 and in 1926 only showed an increase of ninety-three thousand; Alberta in 1921 had 588,000 and in 1926, 607,000, notwithstanding the fact that four million dollars was spent on immigration to Canada. "We are not retaining even our natural increase in the population" said Mr. Guthrie; who told his hearers that the hope of the Conservative party lay in Western Canada. "Quebec has never at any time and never will change it, but we secured only four out of the ninety-one seats there at the last Federal election". Mr. Guthrie stated that even though the Conservative party had only one member returned from the West they received about one-half of the popular vote as that of the Liberal party in that section of Canada, showing that it was not as unpopular there as led to believe.

"What the people of the West need is protection and freight rates much the same as that of the Maritime Provinces." "If this were granted one hundred million dollars that went annually to the United States from Ontario and Quebec, for coal, would be kept home and Quebec would buy Nova Scotia coal and Ontario Alberta coal."

The development of the St. Lawrence River was another problem dealt with by Mr. Guthrie who said that this was a question for the Province of Ontario and not the Dominion Government to finally settle.

Dr. A. T. Embury, M. P.

Dr. A. T. Embury, M.P., for North Hastings, exhorted the Conservative party and stated that they had saved the Dominion of Canada hundreds of thousands of dollars during the past session.

Hon. J. R. Cooke, M. P. P.

Hon. J. Robert Cooke, M. P. P., for South Hastings stated that the success of the picnic was due to the efforts of the ladies. Federal Members, W. E. Tummon, Mr. Cooke asked a large majority for the Conservative party at the next election and presided what one Conservative party in the next had ever done in Canada.

"Patriotism is not the monopoly of any political party" said the speaker, "(orator made men and women of differ ent minds, but the world is big enough for all to live in." The speaker stated the rest of the busiest problems confronting the country today was that of transportation.

J. F. Hill, M. P. P.

The New Dominion Leader, whoever he may be" said Mr. Hill "can count on the loyalty and support of every provincial member". The speaker also congratulated Mr. Tummon, M.P. upon the splendid success of the picnic.

W. H. Ireland, M. P. P.

"Mr. Guthrie saved the hearts of the country in this country when he accepted the temporary leadership of the party but half and since then he has carried on its old traditions" said Mr. Ireland, who in referring to the appointment of Senator Mercer at Washington and the purchasing of a half million dollar official residence there said " It is worth a half million dollars to have him out of the country".

Following the speech making a basket ball match was played and dancing was indulged in for evening.

THEY LIKED CHICKENS

Oshawa, June 22.—Seventeen sixty and seventy chickens and one hen were stolen last night from the barn of T. S. Jewell, North Oshawa farmer. The thieves departed leaving no clues save a few footmarks and have not as yet been apprehended.

ORDAINED 53 YEARS AGO

Cobourg, Rev. Dr. Alfred Brown of Trinity United Church, Cobourg, who was ordained into the ministry in the Methodist Church, Port Hope, fifty-three years ago, and who has had continuous service over that period retires on superannuation at the end of this month. Rev. Brown is the only one of fourteen ministers ordained at that time, still in active ministry. His previous pastorates included Toronto, Picton and Kingston. Rev. Brown preached in the United Church here recently.

INDUCTED AS RECTOR

Deseronto, June 22.—The Rev. John Henry Hammond Coleman, M. A., until recently vicar of Napanee, was regularly inducted as rector of St. Paul's here on Tuesday evening by Ven. Archdeacon O. O. Dobbs, who held the authority of the Lord Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario so to do.

AGAINST LIQUOR STORE

Deseronto, June 23.—Councillor Ernest Herniden, Deseronto, is a temperance man and doesn't care who knows it, reports that he voted against the Town Council's resolution asking that a liquor store be opened in Deseronto. The Clerk's minute would infer that all the members of Council were for this store, but Mr Harnden says he was the only on registering objection.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago" the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeths Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for only 75 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautiful, dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

BELLE THEATRE

"The Auctioneer," the quaint, appealing story of the life of Simon Levi, which put David Warfield among the foremost dramatic actors when presented on the New York stage by David Belasco, comes in picture form to the Belle Theatre, beginning today.

In adapting this play to the screen, the Films has kept to the spirit of he original, adding only those necessary touches to bring the story up to date and to make it more intimate and appealing.

Alfred E. Green, who directed the production, lost no opportunity to bring in incidents that would strengthen the character of old Simon Levi, he lovable auctioneer, nor did he fail to take advantage of every opportunity to make the picture more human and lifelike.

George Sidney, well known for his delineation of Jewish characters, part of his wife. Others in the cast both on the stage and the screen, are Ward Crane, Gareth Hughes, plays the title role. Marion Nixon has Sammy Cohen and William Austin. been cast as Ruth Levi, his adopted daughter, and Doris Lloyd plays the

LONGER LIFE—

Because the Ford Motors revolves only 2,640 times in one mile, as compared with several other competitive cars which have engine revolutions varying from 2,563, 3,277, 3,400 and 3,765 in one mile.

This means that in 10,000 miles of driving these four makes of cars would average. 32 million and a half more revolutions in the same distance as compared to a Ford Car.

GAME POSTPONED FANS DISGUSTED

Many Ball Followers Visited Park Only To Be Disappointed

The Belleville Ball Club lost a considerable number of friends yesterday judging from some of the comments made around the Exhibition Park by local sport followers. Over two hundred fans invaded the ball park expecting to witness the scheduled game between the Deloro and the local club. When they found on arrival that the diamond was deserted they were not slow to express themselves in no uncertain manner of the methods used by the management.

Following yesterday morning's downpour two officials visited the Park and immediately concluded that the ground was in no condition to play and accordingly they informed the Deloro Club to this effect. However, many fans were unaware of this fact and journeyed to the park. The sun came out in full array and the wind sided in drying up the diamond. However, it is problematical whether it had dried sufficiently to warrant the teams going ahead but the fans thought it had and many of them left the Park disgusted.

It has been proposed to play two double-headers, one in Belleville and the other in Deloro.

TORONTO DIVIDE WITH ROCHESTER

New York, June 23.—Rochester and Toronto divided a double-header at Rochester yesterday afternoon, the champions winning the first game by 13 to 7, and the Tribe capturing the second by 3 to 2. It was the third game of the series for the manageless Tribe. Toronto having won the first three games.

Mickey Devine's home-run with the bases loaded in the sixth inning supplied the margin which enabled Buffalo to take the third game of the series at Syracuse, 11 to 7.

Following Devine's blow, Pitcher Gruber also hit a homer, while Brown and Hurst struck circuit smashes for Syracuse.

SportOgramS

By "The Observer"

Yesterday's postponement means that the Deloro and Belleville clubs will have to step on the gas to get both games played. It has been proposed that two double-headers be played one here and one in Deloro. The locals play at Deloro next Wednesday and it is likely that a double-header will be run off. Ham has done a long way to put a crimp in the Bay of Quinte League and it is to be hoped that the teams will be greeted with fair weather during the balance of the season.

The Trenton Bravers will stack up against Allan Meagher's squad on the Armouries lawn to-night. The locals received the short end of the count in the game on the other evening and they are out to reverse the count. Helen Lee will likely go to the mound for the locals.

* * *

On Saturday afternoon at the exhibition park the Chaps will meet the Stevens-Adamson Company, while the Alemite will look up with Moose at the former's grounds. The Moose and Alemite have yet to be beaten and this is sure to be a real hot contest. The Moose under the management of Eddie Daly fielded a smart aggregation while the haymakers led by Arthur Young are going great guns and will give the herd a battle from the drop of the bat. The games in the Industrial League have been thus far been of the air-tight variety and followers of the ball-bat game would do well to attend. Ernie Rossome has announced that a cup known as the Alemite trophy will be put up for competition which should stir state interest in the League. This trophy must be won by the same team three years in succession and then may be retired.

* * *

"Babe" Ruth's performance with the Yankees Supremes sharp bat as one of the leading pitchers in the League. "Babe" is not satisfied up permanently with the Supremes and it is too bad that the could not be brought here to twirl for the Beavers. Belleville fans would be delighted to see Joe don a local uniform and "Babe" says she'd be tickled pink to come.

* * *

The Point Anne club Saturday to win a game in the Bay of Quinte League and it is rumored that some changes will be made in the personnel o tthe club. Baseball will do a natural death in the Point if the team does not get into the thick of the fight.

* * *

Numerous meetings have been held in order to try to form a local outdoor mens soft ball league but so far nothing has come of it. But on Monday evening next (June 27) another attempt will be made to form an Industrial League with teams from the Intelligencer Hasting Paper Mill, Corbyville, Grads, two teams from the C.N.R. and one or two others, the meeting is called for 7.30 at the Y.M.C.A.

* * *

There's a colored sprinter in Detroit named Tolan, who has been running the "century" in better than even time this year, and he is eager to come here to compete in the jubilee land sports athletic meet. At a recent meet he was credited with 9 4-5. He would be a very welcome addition to the crack field already lined up and the committee will likely invite him. It is Tolan's intention to enter Dearborn of Michigan next fall, and his friends assert that "Buck" Hester, the best of that knowledge-factory's sprinters, will have to look to his laurels.

* * *

The manner in which Manager Joe McCarthy is delivering for Owner Wrigley, of the Cubs, has the major league critics by the ears, and they are pointing to Joe as one of the greatest pilots in the major. McCarthy has built the Cubs into a pennant-winning machine, and he has more than an ordinary chance of winning the flag. His players are all pulling together and showing high-class ball in every start.

* * *

It is said that at least three teams in the C. H. L. will have new managers next season. Windsor, Niagara Falls and Stratford are in the market for pilots, according to a rumor, while the Buffalo club, which will undoubtedly be seen in the league next winter, must also have a manager. Buffalo's new arena will be completed by January 1. It is said, so the Bison City will be quite ready for professional hockey.

PIRATES POUND RED MOUNDSMEN

Grover Cleveland Alexander Pitches Cards To Win Over Cubs

New York, June 23.—The Reds gave Pete Donohue a five-run lead in the first inning at Pittsburgh yesterday, but Pittsburgh shelled the Cincinnati pitcher out of the box in the second inning under a barrage of four hits to the score and eventually won out by 11 to 9. Lucas, who relieved Donohue, received in favor of Mays in the sixth when the Pirates rake through with five more runs.

Kremer was knocked off the slab in the second frame and Morrison, Bill and Aldridge succeeded him. Aldridge replaced Hill in the ninth, and stopped a rally.

The Cardinals strengthened their hold on second place by defeating the Chicago Cubs 11 to 5 for a clean sweep of the series at St. Louis.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, who volunteered to pitch out of turn so as to face the club which sent him down the river to win a pennant and world's championship for the Cardinals last season, held the Cubs to six scattered hits. His team mates pounded three pitchers for sixteen safeties.

Frank Frisch got three hits which boosted his season batting average to .381 and for the first time put him above Rogers Hornsby to whom he was traded. Hack Wilson, leading National League home-run slugger, hit for the circuit the fourteenth time this season. Two men were on bases.

Chicago and St. Louis divided a double-header at Chicago today, the Browns winning the first game 3 to 2 after ten innings, and the White Sox taking the second 8 to 5.

Connally's play in the second inning on Stewart, when he had a double play in front of him, let Rice score the second run for the Browns to the Chicago. The visitors won out in the tenth on O'Rourke's walk, a single and Elder's sacrifice fly.

In the second game axton was hit hard and retired in favor of a pinch-hitter, Chester Falk replacing him on the mound in the seventh and he touched for two more runs. Schang and Ward smashed out home runs in the second struggle.

The Athletics split a double-header with Washington at Philadelphia for the second day in succession. The Senators won the first game 6-2, and the Athletics the second 13 to 7.

TWO MORE HOME RUNS FOR RUTH

Yankees Held To Three Scratch Hits But Defeat Red Sox

Boston, Mass., June 23.—When a pitcher holds the Yankees to three hits, two of them rank, raw flukes and still loses, what's the use.

That is the question Mr. Charles Ruffing of the local slab staff, probably asked himself yesterday at the end of another disastrous afternoon for the Red Box. Although Charles pitched what the ancient Greeks would have called a Iliapolous of a game he lost by 3 to 2.

The Yanks won the first game 7 to 4, and the Red Sox lost the second which was also the Yanks' eighth straight victory. This arrangement satisfied everybody except the Red Sox.

George Herman Ruth cut out two notches in the handle of his movie rifle during the earlier proceedings.

George now is slightly ahead of his 1921 record, despite a crippled leg that interferes with his stance.

And now that Mr. Ruth's achievements have been properly recorded, let us bend the knee in the direction of Signor Tony Lazzeri, who heard himself being compared with Columbus, Marconi and Mussolini at a banquet last night.

Tony didn't discover America, but on the other hand, Columbus never went back of third for an overthrow and killed the trying run off at the plate in the ninth inning.

And that's just what Tony did in the second scrimmage. Here's how it happened, with the score 3-2, Todt opened the ninth with a double to right centre, and Urban Shocker, who had yielded only five hits up to that time, was derricked in favor of Deacon Wiley Moore. Myer sacrificed Todt to third, then Regan bounced a high grounder, which Moore grabbed high above his head.

Todt was trapped between bases, but Moore, running back to third, tossed

DEMPSEY REACHES AGREEMENT WITH TEX

New York, June 23.—Jack Dempsey, bronzed and hardened by ten weeks of preliminary conditioning in the Yosemite Mountains of California, came to New York today and within two hours reached a complete agreement with Tex Rickard, for his comeback campaign.

The former heavyweight champion not only definitely accepted terms for a "eliminator" 15-round match with Jack harkey, to be fought at the Yankee stadium, July 21, but resumed the only hitch in the negotiations by reaching a compromise understanding on terms for a possible return title fight with Gene Tunney in September.

BOY HUSBANDS MAKE AN UNSAFE VENTURE

By ELSIE MARLOWE

How much do you love him? Enough to be shipwrecked with him on a desert island? Or elope with him in a gipsy caravan? Or share a studio in Bohemia?

Mmm-m-m! Of course you do! For think how gorgeously romantic a honeymoon would be on a desert isle, or in a gipsy caravan, or studio!

But suppose that instead of all this movie scenery, you'd have to share some shabby, dear room, with an out look on a dark alley, and pinch about on SEVEN DOLLARS A WEEK? Do you love your Wonderful Man enough to do that? I wonder.

Helen does not wonder. She knows she does. And she is ready to start this very day. Who says the true girl of 1927 is a gold-digger? Read this.

"I am seventeen years old, nearly eighteen. I've worked Summers and Saturdays since I was thirteen and so I have learned to appreciate a dollar and make it go far. Last Fall I had to give up my high school course because my mother had a nervous breakdown. Now I am supporting myself. I am an only child. My father is dead, and my mother is well taken care of.

Now, Elsie, here is my real problem. I am in love with a boy of nineteen who makes $17 a week. We think the world of each other. Neither of us go to dances but we both enjoy a good concert or a drama. We walk to get married this Summer, but everyone tells us we would be crazy.

First they claim that he isn't fit to marry because he hasn't the sophistication which a boy of his age usually has. His mother has tried to keep him a child. She has always sheltered him and his brother so. She doesn't allow them to bring any girls to the house except occasionally when she invites someone herself. She is always looking through their pockets and questioning them and treating them like little children. So in many ways my friend is unused to the world, but I am sure he would get over that in experience.

Then, of course, there is the money. But I know how to live on $12 a week. I have done it before and could do it again. We would pay $5 for room rent, $6 for food. We could live near where Howard works and save carfare, and he could eat most of his lunches here. Allowing him $2 a week for smokes that would leave $3 for clothes. I have dressed myself and paid school expenses and carfare on the same amount when I worked Saturdays.

Of course we wouldn't have any children until we had more money Howard is going to night school and some day will earn more. Then we will have a family.

I am afraid you will tell me that I will take the neck and worry. But truly I wouldn't. I am happier than I am busy. Oh, I am sure I can put it across, and I have considered it coolly and dispassionately.

HELEN.

Dear, brave little girl, if you can have that spirit through life, the world will be yours. But, just because I do want you to keep it, I am going to warn you against this early marriage.

You have considered the cost of all material things most practically and heroically, but you have forgotten the most important thing of all—THE COST OF GROWING UP.

You are both children. No matter how old you are, no matter how far out of the nest you have flown, how brave and self-sacrificing you are willing to be, you shades and your shadows are still unfinished. For at least three more years you will both be growing and changing. And that growth will be be needing all the good food possible — all the pure air and restful sleep, wholesome play and interesting, do versified work. Above all, you will need FREEDOM FROM RESPONSIBILITY.

I am not imagining these needs. They are actual conditions which your bodies and minds now have if you are to grow into well-balanced, healthy people, fit to produce healthy children. You have a particular need of these things since you are both city children the greatest of unhealthy neurotic, fussy women. If you had been husky young peasants, born and reared on farms by stolid people, you might be able to start out now, provided your married life was to be lived in the same environment in which you had been reared.

But you are both ill prepared, and you are facing the most difficult, complicated social and industrial life in which the world has ever been. If you marry now, the chances are about 100 to 1 that your life together will be a tragedy.

And why should you run a risk, when by waiting two or three years you can be assured of success? You say you are devoted, intelligent and brave. Then prove your courage, devotion and wisdom by waiting. If you are sure that married love will be a blessing instead of a burden.

That's a REAL test of affection, little sister. Marriage now won't prove your love. It will only prove your selfishness and lack of self-control. Think it over, and see if you don't agree with me.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a girl in my early teens. My mother will not let me go out at night. She will not let me go to the theatre with my girl friends. She always makes me go with her.

Please tell me how I may persuade my mother to give me more freedom.

BLUE-EYED BETTY.

BLUE-EYED BETTY: Don't you realize that you are still very young and that your mother is the best judge of what is good for you? She is concerned only with your welfare. And she thinks that you have loads of time to think of grown up. Devote yourself to your studies and to sports. For yet about boys except as occasional friends.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
Can a girl have dates when she is fifteen, even though your parents object? I have many boy friends who write dates.

LOVESICK GIRL.

LOVESICK GIRL: I must urge you to act in accordance with your parents wishes. Remember that they are thinking of your good and have faith in their judgment. Besides there is much pleasure and enchantment up on a road of deceit. They would be sure to find out sometime and would never have faith in you again.

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN

CHAPTER 49.
THE UNWARNED HOST

Dearborn, too angry, dismayed and bewildered to protest, found himself being conducted down the green slope to the beach by the bubbling Miss Medbury.

As they crossed the sandy stretch of private beach, it seemed to him that a thousand small heads emerged dripping from the water. There were children everywhere, shrieking and splashing, frolicing, chasing each other, rolling in the sand.

But, at the sight of Miss Medbury, they scrambled into straggling ranks, and silence descended upon them.

Dearborn, to his extreme discomfort, found himself the object of curious eyes. He saw tousled heads and sleek ones; wide grins, with a tooth missing here and there; thin little bodies clad in scant bathing-suits.

"Children," bubbled Miss Medbury, "this is the wonderful gentleman who has given you this wonderful vacation at this beautiful country place for three whole months. Now, how are you going to say 'thank you'?"

A lusty, shrill and discordant cheer broke from the wide-eyed ranks and smote Dearborn's sensitive ears. He hoped he didn't wince visibly.

"Mr. Dearborn has brought you here," continued Miss Medbury, "where you can have outdoor air and sunshine, salt water to bathe in, and good food, so that you will all be strong and well. He's thought of all sorts of wonderful things to make you happy." She beamed upon the distracted man. "The name-calling on stairs, with all its wonderful toys for rainy days; the playground, with its swings and trapezes Dearborn, looking to the place she indicated, saw that the tennis-court had undergone a change that would have made an enthusiast of the game tear his hair and destroy his racket for all time—the sunken pool for the little tots who haven't learned to swim—all these wonderful things have been planned for your pleasure by this wonderful gentleman. Now," she added, solemnly, "each little gentleman and each little lady must give Mr. Dearborn his or her word of honor that no harm shall come to any of these wonderful things. You're not to put the flowers, or break the shrubs, or draw things on the walls, or anything like that."

Dearborn was filled with a new fear. The rent for the place was steep enough, and he had a blinding vision of the bill for repairs, when these young hoodlums got through with it.

"Now, will you file by, one at a time, and give this wonderful gentleman your hand," suggested Miss Medbury. "Try them first," she added warningly.

Poor Dearborn gave up any thought of escape. Miss Medbury was effusive but she had an eagle eye. He stood meekly beside her as, one-by-one, each little paw as it was shyly extended to him. When the ordeal was over, he took out an immaculate silk handkerchief and wiped a brow bedewed with moisture, although the seabreeze was cool and he had been standing in the shade.

"You'll stay for luncheon, of course," said Miss Medbury, in a tone that brooked no refusal, as she led the way back to the house, and the children, released from formality, burst loose with Indian whoops. "Your superintendent, Miss Ross, said you would, so I ordered a special table laid in the breakfast-room. I thought you wouldn't want to be subjected to a meal with the children—later try to teach them manners, but sometimes they forget, and, on a rainy day like this, I'm afraid they'd be rather—well, irrepressible."

Dearborn cleared his throat.

"My—er—secretary has been down?" he asked, with a feeble attempt at worship her. She has quite a way with them. By the way, she said you might care to see the bills, while you're here. You know, of course, that she purchased all the food supplies for the entire summer, so we'd not have to bother you, from time to time, and the servants are all paid, too. And—and," she added, with a flash of pleasure, "I do want to thank you personally, Mr. Dearborn, for that nice little boom to each of us girls. It's very welcomed, I assure you, because our salaries are so small. Of course, it's a joy to do this work, but a little financial help is always most welcome."

Dearborn was speechless a this latest. Dearborn was speechless at this latest, putting him down as one of those strong, silent men who ask no thanks for their generosity, gushed on:

"Don't you think the children's bath ing-suits are too cunning? Miss Ross selected them personally, and she bought a winter dress and suit, as well as bathing-suit for each of the children. But, of course, you know all about that!" she laughed. "I'm probably boring you terribly with all these details."

"On the contrary," protested Dearborn dryly, "I am most interested in learning every detail."

So that's what Sybil had done with the enormous amount of money she demanded for putting the place in order? When he thought of his cherished dollars being recklessly expended for toys and playground accessories and bathing-suits for this bunch of hoodlums, he groaned in spirit.

But what could he do? he asked himself, with the irrepressible Miss Medbury behind him. If he repudiated the whole thing, the story would get out, and he'd be the laughing-stock of New York. And Sybil Dare knew it! At that moment, he could have wrung her pretty neck cheerfully.

He didn't know when he had been so enraged, and all the time he had to smile and listen to the bubbling Miss Medbury, lest her penetrating eyes see something amiss.

When the luncheon-gong sounded, Oliver would have given much to have dared to refuse it. His first and foremost instinct was to put as many miles as possible between himself and that whole mob of youngsters. But Miss Medbury's eye held him. He found himself being conducted to a pleasantly appointed luncheon-table in the breakfast-room overlooking the sea.

"But I trust you will give me the pleasure of lunching with me," he found himself saying courteously, "if your duties don't call you elsewhere."

She fluttered and flushed with gratification.

BIGGER DECLINE IN RIVER THAN IN LAKE LEVELS

St. Lawrence From Four To Five Feet Lower Than Average

Montreal, June 29.—The water level in the St. Lawrence during April and May this spring were four to five feet lower than the average stage for the corresponding months during the past 67 years. This has been somewhat disquieting to ship-owners. In recent years quite a number of ships have had to complete their loading at Quebec, or sail with less than their rated capacity—a loss to ship-owners estimated to run into many millions.

The discussion has been to blame it on the Chicago drainage canal and to look for relief in that direction. The report on lake and river levels for May issued by the Canadian Hydrographic Office shows that while the levels of Lake Huron and Lake Erie during the month were respectively 2.05 and 1.05 feet lower than the average stage for the past 67 years, indicating that the Chicago Diversion may have an appreciable effect upon their waters, the level of Lake Ontario was only 0.36 feet below the average stage for the past ten years and 0.76 feet below the average stage for the past 67 years, difference of about 4 and 8 inches respectively, while the May level of the river at Montreal was 2.56 feet below the average stage for the past ten years and 4.80 feet below the average stage of the past 67 years.

It is a question whether the few inches difference in the level of Lake Ontario will account for nearly five feet difference in the level of the St. Lawrence at Montreal compared with he 67 years period which includes of course, many years before the Chicago river was turned round, and many years also before the St. Lawrence was deepened to its present depth.

It would appear that the deepening of the St. Lawrence channel and the facilitation of the flow of water had considerably more to do with the declining water levels of the St. Lawrence below Montreal and that the progress of restoring the river levels is a special one which may have to be dealt with by river pilots by the construction of barrages of some sort to retard the run-off.

IF YOUR SKIN BREAKS OUT USE SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation made into a pleasant cream not only gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ-destroying properties, it quickly subdues that itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.

SHIP STARTS TO SCENE OF SEA LION KILLINGS

Victoria, B.C., June 23.—With machine guns mounted in her bow, and her crew equipped with other firearms, the Canadian patrol boat Vancouver has left for Queen Charlotte sund for another season of the sea lion rookeries.

It is expected that as a result of the Citvenchy's onslaught more than 2,000 sea lions will be killed. The first of the annual sea lion raids was made in 1922 and three thousand were killed. The slaughter has decreased since then, and fisheries officials hope that this is a sign that the rookeries are being depopulated.

The action is of no commercial value but his depridations on salmon and other fish of economic importance are believed to result in an annual loss of many thousand dollars.

In recent years the sea lions have congreated in large numbers on the barren, rocky islets of Queen Charlotte Sound. Many of their favored breeding spots are practically inpenetrable because of the hidden reefs which make the approach by a boat a dan gerous undertaking.

However, serious inroads have been made in the herds by attacking them in the more accessible rookeries and this season's kill will probably give further indication as to whether the year of Extermination is really effective.

MONTREAL BOOZE HATER ON WAY TO VANCOUVER

Edmonton, Alta., June, 21.—Canadian Press)—A woman's page editor says the following tribute to Mrs. John Scott who has been visiting in the city:—

Although she had passed the three score and ten line and has greying hair, Mrs. John Scott of Montreal is one of the keenest of the delegates from Eastern Canada en route to the W.C.T.U. convention in Vancouver, who visited the city. Having faced more than one big problem, seeing it act, she has passed on, interesting herself always in the greatest needs of women of today. There is the suffrage question in her native Montreal for example. That is her big interest today. As a member of the franchise committee of that great organization The Montreal Woman's Club, with six thousand members, she is leading the broader-minded women of Quebec to see the value of the franchise. Even the French Canadian women, she says are beginning to take an interest and seek the vote. Last year for the first time a bill reached the legislature. That it was defeated, was to be expected; but that it was brought into the house was in itself an accomplishment; and there is the future —

Mrs. Scott is hoping that women will receive the municipal vote in Montreal this year. She is working for equal property rights—worth on school boards—the new closed department of architecture in McGill, open for women all these things which will unite so much to the children whose woman hood she may never see.

LORD VISITS IN CANADA YEARLY

Montreal, Que., June 21.—(Canadian Press)—The Marquess and Marchioness of Exeter, accompanied by Lady Winifred Cecil, who have been spending six weeks on their ranch near Kamloops, B.C., were interviewed here.

Lord Exeter said that his visit to the Dominion was a yearly affair and one that called for no particular comment. "I and my family are Canadians," said His Lordship, "and we desire no more publicity than any other travelling inhabitants of the Dominion. Every year, we come over to the Dominion and make a short stay at our ranch in the West, but there is no public interest in that fact."

Lady Exeter was carrying a small tin containing some shrubs and plants and a big with Indian curios. She said it was her intention, if possible, to transplant some of these cuttings at her country house at Stamford. Lincolnshire. Lady Winifred Cecil, daughter of the Marquess, was accompanying her parents to Canada and this was her first visit to the family ranch in British Columbia.

THREE IN SUTTON FAMILY RESTORED TO HEALTH

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Rather a Remarkable Record

Others Also Benefited

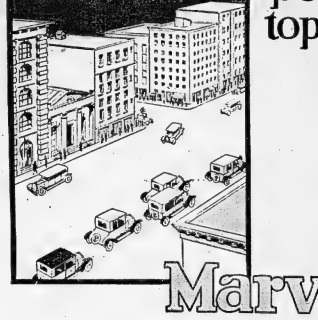

Campbellford, Ontario. — "I was feeling very run-down, always tired, no ambition for anything. I suppose I should not have been at work, but I could not afford to stay at home, only now and then. Last spring my mother was very sick and a friend told her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was feeling better after the first bottle and she wanted me to take it, too. So my sister, mother and I took it until we were all well. My sister and I work in the woolen mill, and we tell every one who says she is not feeling well about the Vegetable Compound. We cannot praise it enough for it has done us so much good. You may use this letter if you like, for I would like every woman and girl to get the benefit that we got."—GRACE SUTTON, Campbellford, Ontario.

The injurious effects of hard or heavy work on a young girl cannot be overestimated. She cannot afford to stay at home, yet she is often unable to lift heavy articles or to stand on her feet for long hours. What can she do? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for girls and women. Let it relieve you of that feeling of nervous strain which comes at certain times.

South Vancouver, B.C.—"I was always skeptical of all so-called patent medicines and have heretofore hesitated to use any of them. For over eight years I was troubled with irregularities, feeling very sick. I had terrible cramps, fainting spells, and dragging-down pains, was in bed two or three days every month, with conditions growing worse gradually. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was very highly recommended to me; in fact, I was urged time and again to try it, and I feel very thankful that at last I took the step that has helped me so much. At first I could hardly credit the results, as I came almost to the hope, every week. I can truthfully say that for the last four months I have suffered no inconvenience nor pain in that respect. I tell every one of the good results obtained, and I shall be pleased to answer questions as to the wonderful benefits derived from the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. G. E. LEWIS, 2nd 47th Ave., South Vancouver, B.C.

The experience of Mrs. Lewis should help other women. She tells you how she used to feel and the wonderful results she has obtained from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

ORIGIN AND GROWTH OF CANADIAN RAILWAYS MIRACLE 19TH CENTURY

Military Requirements One Of Controlling Factors In Their Inception

In 1863, two regiments of the Household Brigade, the Grenadier Guards and the Scot Pusilier Guards, formed part of the British garrison. They were quartered in Montreal.

This fact which in itself seems to have no bearing on the expansion of the Canadian railways before and after Confederation, had, however, a distinct influence.

Important events happened that year. An incident which belongs at the present time to our history took place on high sea, and almost provoked a war between two great nations. This diplomatic cloud happily disappeared, but it revealed the lack of transportation facilities in Canada, as the strategical as well as commercial point of view.

The strategic viewpoint. It was then impossible to carry troops through a portion of Quebec and New Brunswick without losing precious moments and without imposing on the Québécs tiresome expeditions between the two terminus of the then existing railways. Already during the Crimean War thought had been given to the mobilization of soldiers from the garrison of Quebec for this campaign, but orders came too late and the idea was abandoned. The navigation on the St. Lawrence was closed, and it was not thought advisable nor practical to send troops in winter time on a long and endless journey.

This strategical problem and its general aspects are discussed in a book published shortly after the Trent Affair. This volume is very rare and its title is 'The Journal of the Household Brigade for the year 1863."

HAVE YOU THOUGHT ABOUT YOUR HOLIDAYS?

Many of us are careless about such matters. Others are so wrapped up in the business or social affairs that the day of departure is almost upon them before they realize they have no place to go. Then it is that a hasty selection is made with the chances of disappointment more than enough.

The safest way is to plan your holidays well ahead. Decide on the kind of holiday you wish—seaside, mountain, lakeland or woodland; a camping trip in the wilds or the games and companionships of a delightful resort.

Canadian National places a wide range of holiday havens at your disposal. The analyst writes:

"The provinces of North America are no longer small communities, but large states, populous, prosperous and progressive, able alone quite a long time to meet their own requirements. They will need henceforth a larger field of activities and a legislature which, taking at heart the interests of all, would be in a position to command them to the respect of the American people and to the allies of England.

"The unification, so indispensable to their security and their advancement so much desired by everybody, is only possible, however, if a great national road is built. It is hard to believe that it is easier for the citizens of Halifax to reach England than to go to Quebec in winter time. The inhabitants of Nova Scotia and of Canada are too numerous to have one another and have poorer knowledge of the neighbouring provinces than of England."

This military observer lives a list of railroad works undertaken until 1863, including provincial roads and the 114 miles of road constructed by the Grand Trunk below Quebec. He foresees the construction "of the only railroad which is necessary to establish a continuous line of communication between Halifax and Lake Huron, Quebec, in the near future, a direct connection would extend to Columbia the Island of Vancouver and the Pacific." And he states finally: "It is hard to appreciate at its just value the importance of this project from a military, colonial or commercial point. This undertaking is worthy of enlisting the combined efforts of the Canadian and Imperial Governments."

If the unknown author of this book could see from the height of some Olympus what happens in Canada today, he would admire with satisfaction the realization of his dreams: A Canada, united, powerful and beloved; a land of plenty; a gigantic reserve of mining, industrial and agricultural wealth, spreading "from sea to sea", and in possession of a railway system that the most prophetic man of his time could not dare imagine.

The map of the first Canadian railways is an absorbing subject, very complicated also, as it includes all events which happened, all influence which worked until the final amalgamation of the lines which now form the Canadian National Railways of Canada. These influences were military, political and the builders togeth er with the secondary powers were often in opposition and too often showed their narrow-mindedness, their prejudices, but which, however, have established a enduring work.

The 2,278 miles of railroad which existed at the time of Confederation in Canada were, as it was proven later of a great value. Not perhaps for those who invested their money in them, but as a connecting link between the East and West.

In "the Railway Builders" Skelton, speaking of the railroad situation in 1867, justly says:—

"There had been waste and mismanagement. It is true, but the railways had brought indirect gain that more than offset the direct loss. Farming districts were opened up rapidly, freights were reduced in many sections, intercourse was facilitated, and land values were raised. The contribution to the railways was bread well cast upon the waters."

Railway construction in Canada began in 1836. From 1836 to 1857, that is during the experimental period, 159 miles of railroad were built; most of which around Montreal. There followed a period of speculations, during which the Grand Trunk, the first of the Canadian lines, branched out, improved and acquired new strength.

To relate the story of the Canadian railways from that time, or simply that of the Grand Trunk which now forms an integral part of the Canadian National Railways of Canada, would be a colossal task. To have an idea of the vastness of that undertaking, one has only to draw a comparison between the 150 miles of railroad built in 1853 and the 20,000 miles mileage today in Canada by the Canadian National to which should be added 3,893 miles in the United States, forming a total of 22,681 miles, the greatest railway system of North America. One must not forget also that the population of the Maritime Provinces of Upper and Lower Canada, was only 2,384,919 in 1851, compared to the population of 9,300,000 inhabitants at the present time and the progress realized will easily be seen.

The Grand Trunk secured its charter in 1852 and started building right away. This railway expansion and the rapid growth of business which followed, brought about an increase in population; the census of 1861 reports a gain of 22.26 per cent.

The first prospectus of the Grand Trunk was published in 1853 and the first portion of the line Montreal-Toronto 125 miles long was finished in 1855. The first trip on this line took place on the 22nd October, 1856. In 1860, the Grand Trunk, with its 858 miles of railroad was the most important line in Canada.

I was saying a moment ago that to relate the railway history of the years which followed the issue of the Grand Trunk charter would constitute a formidable task. This fact is a striking illustration of it: When the amalgamation of the Grand Trunk with the Canadian National Railways took place, the original charter of the Grand Trunk counted no less than forty companies, as a matter of fact, during the years which preceded or followed Confederation federal or provincial charters were secured by nineby-one companies, forming part today o fthe Canadian National. The story of each one is worthy of the attention of an historian.

Wonderful and instructive stories, very often full of romance. It begins with the building of a small line of portage, the Chaguiain and St. Lawrence, which run from Lagrarie to Lake St. Johns, Que., a distance of 16 miles the Toronto, Simcoe and Huron Union Railway, running from Toronto to a place where now stands Aurora, Ontario; 29 miles). It goes on to the Canadian National Railways as it stands today, with its all-steel cars, its de luxe steamship lines, its spacious hotels, its telegraphs, its express service, and other auxiliaries.

No! It is impossible to write all this story in the limits of an article. I now close in paying a sincere tribute of admiration to the men of courage and vision who are its makers. Let-us forget the mistakes committed and in spite of the fact that many railroad builders were in advance of their time the work accomplished was necessary. In order that Canada could become a large country, united from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Their efforts have resulted in the industrial, commercial and agricultural development of the Dominion, in which country it is so good to live; not a fabulous country fairy tales, but a country which offers everything in abundance to those of of unrealizable happiness as in the goodwill and courage.

Discoveries at the ancient city of Ur, of the Chaldees, show that arched and vaulted roofs were used before 2,000 B.C.

Now Enjoys a Good Meal

Ranzyme has taken care of his digestive troubles.

Like most people who have suffered from indigestion, the writer of the letter quoted below had tried many remedies. Renzyme is so different in effect to any previous treatment used that he is now enthusiastic in its use.

No matter what the cause, or of how long standing, Renzyme is bound to afford relief because it actually supplies the digestive ferments which set up the process of digestion.

Mr. A. R. Robertson, Hamilton, Ont., writes:

"Your statement that the 'RENZYME' is a rejuvenating fluid is correct."

"I have been troubled with indigestion for years and have tried all kinds of remedies but secured no relief until I was persuaded by a friend to try 'RENZYME'. Almost immediately I had relief and now I am a constant user of same. I most whole-heartedly recommend to anyone who is troubled with stomach disorders to try 'RENZYME' because I know that he will find it to be effective."

You can obtain Renzyme from your druggist at $1.50 a bottle or it will be sent to you, postpaid, on receipt of price, if you mention this paper. The Renzyme Laboratories, Toronto, 2, Canada.

TEACHERS WILL ATTEND SCHOOL

Toronto, Ont., June 21 (Canadian Press).—On July 4th some 400 men and women, the majority of them teachers, will commence Summer School courses at the University of Toronto. Most of these working students will be studying for the degrees of Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Pedagogy, or Doctor of Pedagogy. The remainder are enrolled for special courses.

Summer school courses are an important breach of the college education work, directed by the university. They accommodate those living too far from Toronto or Hamilton to attend the evening lecture courses conducted at those places during the regular college term. The first summer course was held in 1910, while the extension lectures were inaugurated in 1918.

Approximately three thousand persons benefited by the extension course this year," stated William James Dunlop, director of this department. "During its nine years of activity the extension work has developed into a university of its own."

Teacher candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Arts have taken their first year of arts work, the other subjects remain for them to cover. These subjects are covered in five years, either through the evening lecture course or the summer school.

Summer school lectures in the arts subjects this year are:—Zoology, Dr. W. H. Mallile; ancient history, Dr. G. W. Brown; third year history, Prof. F. Flenely; fourth year history, L. Pearson; history of philosophy, Prof. P. H. Adams; first and third year French, Prof. W. J. McAndrews; mathematics, I. R.; Pounder; and economics, W. W. Bladen.

Among the subjects included in the graduate courses in education are educational psychology, the history of education and the science of education.

The course in the art of the Theatre which was added to the Summer School programme last year again promises to be one of the most interesting features. It will be conducted by Prof. Theodore Viehman, of Pittsburgh, with T. Tremaine Lanstaing in charge of stagecraft and Merrille C. Keay of costuming. The classes will be held at the splendidly equipped Hart House Theatre.

COMET VISIBLE

Chicago, Ills., June 22.—Hurtling eastward at speed of a million miles a day, the Pons-Winnecke Comet, rarely seen visitor of skies, was visible late last night and, astronomers say, as it nears the earth in the next few days it will seem larger than the full moon at point of nearest approach. It appeared last night near the star Vega.

Winnipeg Editor Speaks In Candid Terms To American Audience

FRIENDLY RELATIONS

John W. Dafoe Outlines Problems And Deals With History

Chicago, June 24.—"It is evident that Canadian problems are serious. Our differences of opinion go deep; but they are not likely to become dangerous because modifying agencies come into action as the flashing point is reached", John W. Dafoe, Editor of the Manitoba Free Press told the lecture audience at the University of Chicago today. He was speaking on Canada's political and economic problems in the first of a series of three lectures which he will deliver at the University at the invitations of the Norman Wait Harris memorial foundation.

Diversity of economic interest, he said, as well as diversity of race form the background for Canada's problems. Sixty years ago consideration had ever banked on "an effort to create an entity strong enough to resist absorption by the United States, involving the definance of economic and Geographical realities." The method by which the whole country had been brought into a Dominion, he said, involved a constant try in vast commitments which have brought their harvest of problems.

Firmly Established

There was a time, Mr. Dafoe said, when circumstances seemed to indicate that Geography could not be defined but this was past. Canadians were now celebrating their sixtieth anniversary and faith that Canada had taken an assured place among the nations.

He reviewed the history of the birth of confederation. It was achieved in a hurry in what was believed to be the rare against fate, he said. It was the fear of serious trouble following the conclusion of the American civil war that hrought home to the statesmen of both Great Britain and Canada the need of creating out of the British Colonies a British-American nation.

Land of The Free

Touching on racial and religious controversies he mentioned the constitutional guarantees given to the French Canadian minority in the Dominion and the educational minorities in the provinces. These controversies while quiescent at the moment were in no distant degree of revival. He foresaw no likelihood of the forswearing by French Canadians of their claim to the official recognition of the language and the establishment of French schools. The record of concession of these claims by the English speaking provinces, he thought the English speaking majority was assuming more tolerant attitude.

Reviewing the grievances of the Maritime Provinces which led to the appointment of the Duncan Commission, Mr. Dafoe said that it was beyond the power of the Commission to deal with the heart of the Maritime problem: the existence of a fiscal system oppressive to them.

That remained a problem for which a political remedy must be sought.

RANKIN FUNERAL HELD YESTERDAY

Kingston, June 24.—Attended by hundreds of friends from all parts of the county, as well as from elsewhere, the funeral of the late Anthony M. Rankin, former M.P.P. for Frontenac was held on Thursday afternoon from his late residence, Collins Bay, to Cataraqui Cemetery.

The funeral service was the simple, though impressive service of the Presbyterian Church, conducted by Rev. J. W. Stephen of St. Andrew's Church. It was the service of the church which the deceased loved so well, and of which he was so faithful a member.

The honorary pall-bearers were Hon. Dr. A. E. Hoe, M.P., for Hastings; Hon. W. D. Black, M.P.P. for Addington, and Speaker of the House; W. H. Ireland, M.P.P. for West Hastings, and F. J. Skinner, M.P.P. for Leeds, all former colleagues of the late Mr. Rankin in the House.

The above is the latest portrait of Senator Guglielmo Marconi and his bride, the former Countess Maria Bezzi-Scali, young and beautiful member of an old Roman family of the papal aristocracy. The couple were married last week at all of the Italian capital uniting of honor the wireless wizard, whom that nation regards as Marquis di Monteroma.

WOMAN DESERTS HUSBAND TO FLEE WITH HIRED MAN

Cobourg, June 23.—A policeman has some strange duties to perform and sometimes clear some policemen may do a bit in a way that helps to straighten out family affairs without any official fuss. Chief Rose with his customary tact and good judgment straightened out a family affair that it is hoped will stay straightened out. Mrs. O'Reilly, aged 44, of Brighton, S.W., eloped from that city with the family's hired man, by name Ralph Hall, aged 24, of Brighton. They were followed by the husband, who, counting on finding them in Cobourg, made inquiries on from Peterboro. The search was successful. They were without baggage and on the idea that the lead would be followed by some one, had left that to be sent on by express. It did not come the same day.

Scott, Stirling; Miss Evelyn Grey, Peterboro; and Miss Sidney Phillips, of Morganstown, eight 1927 graduates of the Belleville General Hospital last evening received their diplomas, signifying the successful termination of three years of one of the most exacting and trying courses open to young women.

The ceremony which took place on the beautiful lawns surrounding the Hospital was brilliant and thoroughly interesting. A platform, bedecked with flags and pennants had been erect ed immediately in front of the institution and on this sat Mr. R. Tannahill, chairman of the evening, Miss Tait, retiring Superintendent, Rev. John Lyons, Rev. R. G. Stewart and several of the members of the medical profession. The affair was opened by a short prayer by Rev. Mr. Lyons followed by a number of addresses of congratulation to the nurses and to the staff by Mr. Tannahill who presented the newly young graduates with their certificates from the Belleville Hospital, the Shriners Hospital and the Alexandra Hospital in Montreal in each of the latter of which the graduates had taken a course in connection with their three years training.

The ceremony of presenting the Hospital Pins, was performed by Miss Tait, who cordially congratulated each of the girls and wished them the success she so certain must be theirs. Address to Graduates

"The graduating exercises" said Dr. J. A. Faulkner, in his address to the young ladies, "marks the close of three years strenuous training which you have undergone and have shown that you are qualified for the life you have chosen." The motive which led young training as a nurse must be high. I myself have always found each of you equal to the most trying experience and know you to possess the two greatest attributes of a nurse, sympathy and perseverance. Your records in the Hospital have always been a credit to the institution and I feel assured that your life's work will also reflect credit upon your training and profession.

FORMER LOCAL MAN SUCCUMBS

William W. Elliot Passes Away In Jacksonville, Florida

William A. Elliot, soldier, sportsman, inventor and former prominent citizen, died on Thursday morning at Jacksonville, Florida, suddenly. Mr. Elliot has been working lately on a very important invention and it is thought that during the public demonstration of this he may have succumbed to the heat as no previous hint of any illness had been received by his son, Mr. Glen Elliot in the city.

The late Mr. Elliot was born in Frankford sixty-eight years ago and after engaging in manufacturing work in several cities located in Belleville where he instituted the Elliot Machinery Company in 1910. A year ago last November, his health not being of the best, he decided to move to the South and located in Jacksonville Florida, where he has since resided.

He leaves of the immediate family besides his wife, four children, Glen of Belleville, Frank of Toronto, Mrs. Harry Rae of Ottawa and Mrs. Howard Allan of Toronto, also three brothers, Rev. Charles Elliot of Wichata, Kansas, Joseph of Denver, Col., Fred of Detroit and one sister, Mrs. Sarah Poole of Orlando, Florida. During his several years of residence in Belleville Mr. Elliot was at all times prominently identified in sporting circles. He was a member of the Bowling Club, the Curling Club and took a helpful interest in baseball. He held a commission as Lieutenant in the Argyll Light Infantry.

Deceased Mr. and Mrs. Elliot were faithful and loyal members of the United Church of Canada and Mr. Elliot's passing will bring immeasurable grief to a wide circle of friends amongst whom he was most popular and highly esteemed.

The remains will be brought to Canada and interment will probably take place at Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Toronto, from the home of his son, Mr. Frank Elliot, 191 Dovercourt Road.

PROPOSES TEN DAY SENTENCE

Stringent Law Against Drunken Drivers Under New Act

The Courts have decided that the Magistrate has power to suspend sentence on a conviction for being intoxicated in charge of a car.

"So far as my Court is concerned," states Magistrate Mikel, "this does not mean a lessening up on the punishment for that offence. In fact, speaking generally, after July 1st, the minimum term of imprisonment will be 10 days instead of 7 days."

When it is thought desirable to suspend the pronouncing of sentence for a period, the conduct of the convicted person during that period must be good. It is intimated to lay down terms for every case in advance, will approximately good conduct will include the terms that the convict will get rid of his car, if he has one, absolutely during that period, that he must not ride in a motor vehicle of any kind for that period, that he must not use intoxicating liquor during that period. If he has a liquor permit it must be deposited with the police during that period, if not cancelled altogether. He can be called up in Court any time during that period and if sentence of from 7 to 30 days' imprisonment imposed or the time of suspension extended for a longer period.

Staggering or clumsy movements and speech are not the tests of intoxication. Any abnormal condition resulting from the consumption of liquor is evidence of intoxication. The auto vehicle is such a dangerous machine under any circumstances, that it is desirable to irradicate the use of liquor while driving one.

CONFEDERATION STAMPS IN HANDS OF THE POSTMASTER

"The Confederation stamps are already here" but cannot be issued until June 29th," stated Postmaster Mr. Cullen to the Intelligencer today when asked if the stamps had arrived and when they would be issued.

Samples of the special stamps were seen by The Daily Intelligencer. The two cent variety is orange in colour, similar in shape and size to the present issue and bears the head of Sir John A. Macdonald. The two cent stamp is oblong, larger than the standard stamp and bears the familiar picture of the Fathers of Confederation. The Parliament buildings at Ottawa, with the Peace tower in the centre are shown on the red, three cent stamp. A splendid portrait of Sir Wilfred Laurier is the subject of the five cent issue, done in lavender shade. A large stamp in dark blue for the twelve cent variety, carries a map of the Dominion of Canada. The Special Delivery stamp of the Confederation series bears a scene showing the mountains and prairies of the Canadian West.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

I never did repent for doing good,
Nor shall not now.

SHAKESPEARE

EASTERN STARS

Belleville has perhaps never been graced with a finer gathering of people than that which attended the convention of the Order of the Eastern Star. We trust that they enjoyed their stay in Belleville as much as we enjoyed having them here.

The Eastern Star is an Order of high ideals and purposes and appeals chiefly to citizens of a higher calibre from which fi draws its membership. That such an order chose Belleville as the city in which to hold its convention is indeed a compliment for which we appreciate and we hope that they will be able to come again.

One of the most pleasing features to Bellevillians was Mayor Wilmot's address of welcome to the visiting delegates. It is no small advantage to a city to have such a man as Chief Magistrate who can fittingly represent the city on such occasions and convey to visitors the spirit of courtesy and hospitality for which this city and district are noted.

At Rochester, too, when His Worship made the presentation of the Flag to the Mayor of Rochester, it was remarked that Belleville's Mayor handled the situation with an easy dignity which surpassed that of the representative of the Metropolis of the other side of the Lake.

This word of appreciation to a worthy Mayor who is conscientiously giving his best to the advancement of his home city is but a small acknowledgement of Mr. Wilmot's services to the city in the past two years. He is young yet and we hope he will have many years of prosperity. It is certain that he will devote them in full measure to the service of his fellow citizens.

THE THIRD DEGREE

In view of the fact that the supreme court of Canada has ordered a new trial for an Indian, convicted at Prince Rupert, B.C., of murder, for the reason that the court was not satisfied that the prisoner's confession was voluntarily made and not extorted from him by the police, it is interesting to learn that an appeal has been made to the supreme court of New York state to set aside a conviction for a similar reason. A man had been convicted of robbery, largely on his own confession, and sentenced to 25 years' imprisonment. His attorney, E. J. Reilly, of Brooklyn, N.Y., affirms that the confession was extorted from the prisoner by torture. "The third degree," says Mr. Reilly, "is worse today than it ever was before," and he charges that suspects are habitually submitted to brutal treatment at the hands of the police to compel them to make confession of their guilt. "There is no a police station in New York city," he says, "which is not equipped with a length of rubber hose for beating prisoners."

Hardly less cruel than beating torture is the practice of subjecting suspects to continuous, persistent, monotonous questioning hour after hour by relays of police inquisitors who put the same questions over and over until the tired brain of the victim reels under the mental torture, and he is quite likely to acquiesce in almost any suggestion that may be made.

It is to prevent the introduction of such barbarous methods into criminal procedure in this country that our supreme court ordered a new trial in the case of the British Columbia Indian. The third degree is a grimly ironical commentary on the legal maxim that every accused person must be presumed innocent until proved guilty.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

There is a great deal of talk in Canada in regard to the need of reforestation, and much has been done in this regard. At the same time, forest fires in Canada, the great majority of which were caused by carelessness, have burned annually, during the last six years an average of about 1,400,000 acres of young growth of various ages, representing the annual increment on 28 million to 30 million acres of forested land. It will take a lote of reforestation to replace this loss. It looks as though more money spent in fire protection for forest reservations would be a good investment.

The non-British "problem" is one to be noted, but it does not yet seem one to get excited about. There is a good deal of excellent assimilation going on, and this will continue among the newcomers, especially if there is continued adherence to the policy of seeing that these newcomers are not allowed to settle too much in groups, but are divided more among the general population.—Regina Leader

There is a growing realization in the west of the need of an all-round development of town and country which has made for the prosperity of western Ontario. Premier Bracken will find, as will other western farm leaders, that is will be impossible to develop industrial life without some form of protection. The chances are that as industry expands in the west we will hear less and less of free trade.—London Free Press.

FROM "TRIBY"

A little work, a little play
To keep us going—and so, good-day!

A little warmth, a little light
Of love's bestowing—and so, good-night!

A little fun to match the sorrow
Of each day's growing—and so, good-morrow!

A little trust that when we die
We reap our sowing! And so, good-bye!

—George du Maurier.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

"Mother," asked little Benny, when they had guests for dinner, "will the dessert hurt me, or is there enough to go around?"

Doctor—"Tell your wife not to worry about her dreams, as it is simply an indication of advancing years."

Ragson Tatters—"Er—— would you mind telling her yourself, doctor?"

"Hola, will you marry me?"

"Dosy, I must tell you I'm a nonsmoker."

"That's all right—you can go to your church, and I'll go to mine."

"Excuse me, madam," said the conductor, "but your daughter seems to be more than 12 years old."

The woman put on a coy expression and exclaimed, "Why, conductor, you would never take me to be the mother of a girl that age, would you?"

The conductor drew back and looked her over carefully and then said, "Lady, don't tell me that you are a grandmother!"

UNIQUE CAR SALE

As announced in today's issue, a most unique sale of used motor cars commences tomorrow morning at the McLaughlin Motor Car Company. To mark the opening of the sale and the first buyer in the building in the morning may actually purchase a good new car for $8 cents. That sets a new low price in the used car field in this part of Ontario, but the management of this progressive company is determined to clear out the stock of high grade used cars in quick time—and the buyers will benefit by ridiculously low prices.

Who wouldn't drive a car when one can be had for 98 cents. Wonder if anyone will ask for credit on this one! We'll wager there'll be a line-up in the morning anyway.

V. O. N. TAG DAY

Tomorrow the streets will be patrolled by a bevy of tazzers working in the interests of the Victorian Order of Nurses and a hearty response on the part of the citizens is confidently expected. The Orders work, done quietly and without any advertising, is probably not known to the majority of the citizens who will not realize what every small a donation as 5 cents will mean to the workers. One of the many activities during the past two months has been the tender supervision of the Rushton triplets. The tiny babes who entered the world with the handicap of being usually small and not strong, were each day washed and dressed by a visiting nurse who advised the mother the course of treatment which resulted in their being strong enough to be taken to the Church of England on Sunday for Baptism. Hundreds of others old and young have been cared for by the Order and in the work particularly the poor, every moments is of heating suffering. The Order of the Eastern Star yesterday made a generous response, to the tazzers who invaded the Grand Chapter after the session.

V. O. N. means Victorian Order of Nurses.

A very fine photograph of Mr. Riggs is used with the article and his Belleville friends have read the edition with unusual interest on account of "Billy's" connection with the staff. He was formerly employed in the office of The Belleville Intelligencer.

Once a year the Victorian Nurses' Committee of the City of Belleville appeals to the citizens for assistance in carrying on this very important work. The work has grown until today two full time nurses are employed all the time and a third one on many occasions.

The whole work has to be financed by the Committee, as no Provincial aid is obtained. Every dollar given to the V. O. N. work means a dollar spent for better health conditions for the citizens of Belleville.

Saturday, June 25th is V. O. N. Tag Day in Belleville. As this is Diamond Jubilee year, let our Jubilee motto be "health and happiness for every citizen of our beautiful city," and let our Jubilee action be such that every citizen will buy and wear a tag on Saturday.

JOY of REARING CHILDREN A RICH REWARD

By ELSIE MARLOWE

What could the youngsters do on Sunday? That was the worst day of the whole week. The most rebellious day for the boys and girls—the most anxious day for the mother and dad. Sulks and scenes in every house in the block in every house except one.

There were children, too, in that house and a mother who worked hard all week. But there were no tears or tantrums on Sunday. No, indeed. It was the gayest house in town. And you couldn't have dragged the youngsters away from it. Not only the youngsters who lived in it, but the other youngsters on the street—they ran away to go to "Mother's" house. How did she do it?

Read and see.

Maybe you'll disapprove. Many of the mother on that street did disapprove, and said she was a terrible woman, and her children would go to the dogs. But they didn't go to the dogs. They went on and on to success. And I'd like to publish her letter today with an accompaniment of ten Big Bross Bands, all whooping it up on all six.

DEAR ELSIE:

I read so much about the terrible times parents are having with their children nowadays, and I suppose I ought to be sorry for the parents. But I'm not. I think that nine times out of ten it is the parents' own fault. They won't try to get the children's viewpoint, nor adapt the home to suit the children's need. They are too lazy and too intolerant; and then they expect a lot of pity because their children leave them and get into trouble.

I want to tell you my experience, and I guess when I do, I'll bring down on my gray hairs the wrath of all the Holier Than Thou Parents—but I don't care.

Troubles, which they feared to confide in their mothers, they brought to me, and they felt sure that they would be understood. Those other parents had always thought the worst of their children and I thought the best of mine. They really took a pride in disproving. I felt you could get much further by approving.

"I am a poor woman today in dollars, still earning my living in a little shop, but what a wonderful time I have had! I never remarried, for I was so selfish to share my babies. And now that they are all secure I feel that I have lived their lives. THEY OWE ME NOTHING. THE JOYS THEY GAVE ME PAID THE ACCOUNT IN FULL.

JUST A HUMAN MOTHER.

Don't it wonderful! Courage and love, wisdom and unselfishness, canniness and wit all heap be—motherhood as strong and fine gray-haired, but with shining eyes, she faces the world and cries. "They owe me nothing! The joys that they gave me paid the account in full!"

Oh, there's motherhood as it should be—motherhood so strong and filler and sweet that it makes the heart bound in adoration. God bless the golden heart of you, my dear, and make these last years warm and glad for your reward!

Best of all Fly Killers—10c and 25c per packet at all Druggists, Grocers and General Stores.

I'm fifty-nine years young. I have brought up three children, one boy and two girls. My husband died when I was twenty-six and left me with my three babies. The eldest was nine, and the young est three. His illness took all our meager savings. After the funeral I found I had $250; but I had no health and willing hands and a heart full of love for my darlings.

I worked. Else. How I worked! I was surgical nurse at first. When I could not earn enough money at that, I turned saleslady. From that I went to traveling sales manager, and I never had had any education, except in French.

I will yet here confess with the details of the years of hardship and struggle that educating my children cost me, but I am surely proud of the results. My son is a successful surgeon. Both my daughters have been successful business women. Both are now successful wives and mothers. I always told them all the truth about life. They could always come to me for everything. If praise was due, they received it, and if they were in trouble they had sympathy and advice.

Many other mothers did not approve of the frankness between me and my children or of the freedom which I permitted them. This was particularly true about our Sunday program. I was determined that my children shouldn't leave home on Sun for their only day to do this was to make them WANT to stay at home. So Sunday at our house was a real day of rest and pleasure.

The other parents in the neighborhood were "too good" to allow dancing or games or card playing in their homes on Sunday. I allowed them in mine, and the children from other homes flocked to us. At least six of those children still call me Mother today. They own mothers were never as near them as I was.

Jenny's new models show the spiral idea; one piece frocks are cut and stitched together in spiral fashion and there is much use of appliqued bands running up from the hem part way over the top, carried out in two tones.

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN

By Mildred Barbour

During the meal she entertained him raising her voice above the unholy din that came from the big dining-hall, where the children were being fed, with further tales of Sybil's thoughtfulness.

"See," she pointed to the fragile china, with which the meal was laid, "this ware is for the use of us officers. Wasn't it sweet of Miss Ross? The children, of course, have good strong, unbreakable china, but it's very artistic in design. There are many touches of home in the curtains and designs illustrating fairy-tales. I believe Miss Ross pictured it specially decorated. You've no idea what such a refining influence will mean to my dear little charges. The very atmosphere here will improve them. They'll be able to look out in real life then."

"And so will I!" thought Dearborn grimly.

He managed his repast directly after luncheon. Miss Medbury stood on the veranda and waved until the car disappeared around a bend in the drive. Her voice floated after him. He kept hearing the word "wonderful" even after the gates had closed behind him.

In the sanctuary of his club—and never had it looked so cool and quiet and restful, for what were the hosts of Faith Avenue traffic, after the pandemonium at "Seaview"—he telephoned Sybil.

His heavy face was flushed, and his sensual mouth was drawn into a tight straight line, as he waited for the connection.

CHAPTER 50.
MISJUDGED AGAIN

When Dearborn's call was put through, Sybil's blithe voice came over the wire:

"Oh—it's you!"

"Yes, it's I," he said grimly.

He heard her mischievous laugh, and he crimsoned afresh with anger.

"Have you been down to Seaview?" "I've just got back."

"Oh!" and weren't you thrilled? Really, Oliver, wasn't the sight of those unfortunate children perfectly touching? You know," she continued, in a confidential tone, without giving him a chance to speak, "I got to thinking after you leaved Seaview that I was horribly selfish. Here was I, perfectly capable of affording a vacation anywhere, while there were thousands and thousands of poor youngsters suffering for a breath of fresh air right here in New York. Only, of course, you and I had never stopped to think of them! So it occurred to me that it would be a perfectly splendid idea to use the money you were so kind to say I might spend for myself, in providing a summer's outing for some of them. Aren't you proud of me for being so unselfish?"

Dearborn, at his end of the wire, strove unsuccessfully for speech, but Sybil rushed on:

"Of course, I knew it would be a great surprise for you, and maybe her laugh was mocking, "you'd be a bit cross at first. But you've no idea what fun it'll be for you to play fairy godfather to those grateful little waifs. I really think, Oliver, that you should learn to like children. I like men who are fond of children. You'll notice these youngsters, once you've got to know them. I've told Miss Medbury that you'd come down once a week and give them informal little talks. You will, won't you?"

The effect of his receiver answered her pretty coaxing question. Only a strong sup and, flinging herself on her own is, laughed until she cried.

"I'll give anything—anything—to see his face at this minute!" she gasped.

Daisy passed, but she heard no word from him. However, she kept in touch with Seaview by phone, and Miss Medbury reported that everything was running with perfect smoothness. She quite raved about Mr. Dearborn.

"So quiet and unassuming, for all his generosity!" she told Sybil. "Why, he was as modest as if he hadn't done anything—and as interested in every detail as if he hadn't planned it all out in advance."

Sybil grinned wickedly. She promised to come down the following Saturday afternoon to see how well everything was running. Jack Sheldon was to drive over from Mineola and take her to dinner.

She found "Seaview" lovelier than ever in the afternoon sunlight of a perfect June day. The sea was silvery blue and dotted with the white sails of festive week-end craft. The orphans, freshly-scrubbed and shining of face, in honor of her presence, romped in the screened playground and built sand fortresses on the beach.

Sybil was the centre of an admiring group of small girls, when Miss Medbury approached with a tall young man in tow.

"Miss Ross, I want you to know Dr. Maxwell," bobbed Miss Medbury. "Miss Ross did all the work of preparation for us, Doctor. She is the secretary of our wonderful patron, Mr. Dearborn."

The young physician's eyes swept Sybil briefly. Her frock and the big picture hat that framed lovely face fairly shrieked their Parisian origin. "So quiet and unassuming, for all his generosity!" she told Sybil. "Why, he was as modest as if he hadn't done anything—and as interested in every detail as if he hadn't planned it all out in advance."

Sybil grinned wickedly. She promised to come down the following Saturday afternoon to see how well everything was running. Jack Sheldon was to drive over from Mineola and take her to dinner.

To Obtain Relief From Neuritis

The nervous system must be thoroughly restored. Here is a case which illustrates this point.

The twitching of nerves and muscles warned Mrs. Mapletoft of the exhausted condition of her nervous system. She also had frequent nervous headaches and the greatest neuritis in her right side.

Only temporary relief can come from external applications for neuralgia. To really get rid of the cause and trouble it is necessary to thoroughly restore the exhausted nerves by the persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. Wm. Mapletoft, Mount Forest, Ont., writes:—

"For about three years I suffered from neuritis in my right side. I had pains through my back and twitching of the nerves and muscles. I had also been operated on for appendicitis, and it left me a nervous wreck. I was very restless and uneasy, and bothered with frequent neuralgic headaches. My appetite was poor and I sometimes took weak spells. I commenced a treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and in a very short time I found relief. This medicine has done me the world of good and I can recommend it to all suffering as I was."

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am very much in love with a girl who has told me she loves me, but does not show it. She always says things to hurt my feelings. Then she says she's only teasing me. But I think that she merely does not want to lose my friendship.

What would you do?

LONESOME.

LONESOME: Have a talk with the girl you love. Tell her that her actions make you unhappy and that you doubt her love. Tell her, too, that unless she makes some effort to curb her unkind remarks it might be better to part.

Surely, if she is fond of you and real izes the extent to which she has been hurting you, she should make every effort to eliminate the cause of your unhappiness. However, it should not be a one-sided effort. She trusts you probably because you are easily teased. Try ignoring her remarks. When that has happened a few times she might not find it so amusing to tease you.

BELLE THEATRE

Fox Films' version of that famous and lovable "Warfield-Belasco play, "The Auctioneer," rode into triumph last night. It's here for a 3 day engagement and everyone who loves motion pictures at their best should see it at least once.

Per "The Auctioneer" has almost everything that wholesome entertainment could have. There's pathos, comedy of various sorts, intrigue and romance.

"The Auctioneer" sets forth in a great human manner the story of a little Irish orphan who is adopted by a Russian and his wife on their way to the land of promise. The Russian, upon his arrival in New York, borrows some of the money entrusted to him for the well-being of the little girl he had adopted. With this money, he begins on a business career that in years to come carries him and his little family to the luxury of an abode on Riverside Drive.

Marion Nixon and Gareth Hughes lend a supporting cast which fits into the story like clockwork. Miss Nixon is lovely indeed as the little Irish girl in her teens.

QUINTE LEAGUE TO OPEN SOON

Three Teams Compose Girls' Circuit—Napanee Represented

The Bay of Quinte Ladies Softball League held a meeting at the Y.M.C.A. last evening in preparation for the coming schedule. Three teams as originally planned will compose the league Napanee Lasis, Belleville Beavers and Belleville Ontarios. The opening game will be Tuesday, July 5th, when the Ontarios open the season at home with Napanee Lasis.

Napanee are raring to go and are ready for the fray having played several exhibition games already. They are entitled to use Deseronto players who have lined-up with them, and will have something to say before the championship race is over.

The local Beavers have also been waiting for a chance to step into the schedule, while Manager Walter Gerow started the Ontarios to work in earnest last evening when they held their first work-out. Jean Ramsay, the fine pitcher of last year will not likely be with the team this year, but with practically all of his last year's championship team except with the addition of Hilda and Olive Adams last season with the Beavers, should not in the least way be out of step with the other teams.

A Trenton team were thought possible entrants but it did not materialize. The Jumps of Napanee and the clan of hall would be rather hard on new comers to the league.

BEAVERS TRIM TRENTON BADLY

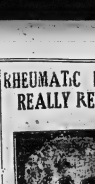

Last evening on the Armouries Lawn the local Beavers took the Trenton Beavers into camp and romped home with the long end of a 20 to 4 score. After the first innings when Trenton scored two runs on an infield hit and a homer the issue was never in doubt. The heavy hitting and good base running of the Belleville team seemed to bewilder the Trenton crew who showed a complete reversal of form over thgir showing in Trenton on Tuesday night. Postures of the game were a double play unassisted by the Trenton first base-guardian Madeline Kelleher's hitting, Twila Warhaem's single hit for a homer with two on, and Ev. Cook's all round playing in left field and at bat. She contributed some pretty catches in the field, her effort on the last out of the game being one of the finest catches ever seen on the Armour lawn. Seven innings only were played. Umpires were Lieut A. Trenton at the plate, Weir, Belleville, bases.

Line-up:

Belleville—Cook, 1 f; Lee, p; Kelleher p f; Warham c f; Curry 2nd b; O'Neil, r s r; Cruchi and Miles 1st b; Whalen and Thrasher c; Melchoir 2nd b; Gray P.

Trenton—C. Hatton, M.Lottridge, E. Connelly, V. Day, H. Gains, A. Hyde, O. Bailey, J. Lewis, M. Johnson.

RHEUMATIC PAINS REALLY RELIEVED

The above is a likeness of Mrs. E. M. Grinnell, 224 Carlton St., Winnipeg, who says: "I suffered severely from rheumatic pains in my shoulders and arms. These pains often kept me awake. I suffered further from constipation and headaches. I was feeling very bad when I began taking Hurky and it is remarkable the way this medicine has helped me in every way." Hurky, the herb preparation can be obtained at good drug stores everywhere.

GEHRIG STEPS INTO LIMELIGHT

Yankee Star Drifts Out Three Home Runs In One Game

Boston, June 24.—On a balmy summer afternoon in Boston, Henry Louis Gehrig, son of Columbia, scaled the dizzy heights by hitting three home runs in one game yesterday, being the second Yankee to turn the trick this season and about the twentieth ball player of all time to reach the goal that every slugger yearns for.

He is now only three hoaners behind Ruth, is Mr. Gehrig, and the race between them is furnishing the greatest slugging competition in the history of baseball. The Babe has stepped twenty-four of his favorite variety, Gehrig has hit twenty-one of the same and he is travelling fast enough to give Ruth to the words of Ruth the other night when he said that Columbia Lou is the only man that would beat the home run record of fifty-nine.

The Yanks poured a withering fire into two Rob twirlers, making fifteen hits for a total of twenty-six bases. Del Lundgren, a more or less promising youngster, was reefed stars and scintillations and could plainly hear the birdies twittering in the tree tops after two innings of Yankee hitting. Danis MacFayden took up the baton for a spell but out and was hit with everything but the water cooler.

Detroit won at Chicago 6 to 5 in a thrilling eleven-inning battle and dropped Chicago to third place. Erratic support coupled with timely base running by the Tigers defeated Ted Lyons although he allowed only six hits.

The game was featured by the first triple play of the season in Chicago while was made by the Tigers in the third inning. With Lyons on third and Metzler on second, Hunnefield grounded to Gehringer, who threw Hunnefield out at first. Jim peeped to Tavener to catch Metzler off second. When Lyons attempted to score, Tavener's throw to Woodall made the put out.

EIGHT NURSES

Rev. R. G. Stewart carried the work of Miss Tait. "There is," he said in part," a certain strain of modesty running though this otherwise happy occasion in the fact it is the last time Miss Tait, your late Superintendent, will preside. We of Belleville have been signally privileged in having a lady of Miss Tait's ability at the head of the hospital. In all my experience which has been wide and varied I have never seen better esprit run hospital than this under Miss Tait's regime. She carries the best wishes of the Belleville citizens and owe her an immensurable debt for the contribution she has made toward perfecting the institution. We wish her hope for great things of her successor.

In presenting the prizes for highest marks in surgery, Dr. J. A. Faulkner spoke of the winners' marked ability. "Miss Geraldine Scott and Miss Dolly Church," he said, "have passed an examination taking highest marks which contained many of the questions embodied in the departmental examination paper for R.N.'s. All the nurses passed with honors but the two who tied for highest place took over one hundred per cent."

He also paid a glowing tribute to Miss I. Scott who took the prize for operating technique, like the the other nurses had shown unusual ability in the operating room always meeting every demand with speed and good judgment. This was especially evident during January when one hundred and eighty-five major operations were performed at the hospital.

"You nurses have all worked well and faithfully," Mrs. Gemmell Shaw observed in presenting her prize in Massage, "and each merits the prize I am donating." Miss E. McEwen, Miss M. MacFarland and Miss Helen Bowen were each presented with special prizes by Mrs. Shaw.

In the absence of Dr. Tennant, Miss Tait presented the Hypo Syringes to each of the graduates which it has been the Doctor's yearly custom to donate.

Miss McEwen obtained highest marks in Medicine and in presenting this prize, Rev. R. G. Stewart paid a much deserved tribute to Miss Hilda Collier on the magnificent manner in which she has carried on during the absence of Miss Tait. While hoping that Belleville may never lose her, Mr. Stewart hoped that should at any time make a change, she might fill a position of high responsibility which she has proven she can do. The presentation wound up with the gift of boxes of Laura Secords with every wish by Dolan's Drug Store for the graduates' success in their high calling.

Musical Programme

A most interesting and excellent musical programme interspersed the presentations and address to which Mr. James Bankier and Dr. Haffner contributed most delightful solos. After singing the National Anthem and dainty refreshments, the many people enjoyed a splendid dance repeatedly breaking up at midnight.

HOME RUN WINS FOR TORONTO

Baltimore Takes Measure Of Newark By 13-3 Count

New York, June 24.—The Toronto Leafs made it four out of five by winning the final game of the series with Rochester yesterday, afternoon by 3 score of 5 to 3. A home-run by Hargrave in the seventh inning, with one on, was a feature. Manager also hit a home-run for Rochester. Alexander, the hard-hitting Toronto first-baseman, closed the series by gathering three hits, bringing his total for the series to twelve in the twenty times at bat.

The Stars took the Syracuse series from the Bisons, three games to one by winning today, 3 to 3. Sylvester Johnston passed out only seven hits, and in the eighth inning he hit a long home-run against the wind with Morrow on second.

By pounding out 21 hits, the Baltimore Orioles won their third straight game at Newark by the score of 13 to 3. All the Newark pitchers looked the same to the Birds.

Jersey City and Reading divided a double-header, the visiting Pretzels winning the first game by a two-run rally in the ninth, 6 to 4, but losing the second, 3 to 6. Lefty Williams whitewashed the Pretzels with ease in the second game.

A score ball shot from a Roman catapult on the Roman siege of Jerusalem has been found there in excavating the third wall of the city.

GIANTS WIN TWO BOSTON BRAVES

New York, June 24.—John McGraw was right. It might be added, as usual. In the face of adverse indications, the master mind of the Giants maintained unwaveringly all spring that some day Hughie McQuillan and Kent Greenfield were going to win a couple of ball games for his club. Yesterday his faith was justified. But the two pitchers in question were in the uniform of the Boston Braves.

McQuillan started the first game of the long and tedious doubleheader against the Giants and Greenfield finished the second contest. Through their pressure the mighty maulers of Manhattan hammered out a 6-2 and a 9-6 victory. They had to take both games in order to win the series and also to keep above the .500 percentage point. McQuillan, the Astoria Adonis, and Kent, of old Kentucky, saw that they did both.

Brooklyn set back Philadelphia yesterday by 3 to 1. Bobby Barrett's home-run and triple proving large factors in the home team's victory. The triple fell in the third and Barrett came in on a sacrifice fly by Henline. Barrett's four-bagger in the fifth decided the issue. Petty yielded seven hits against four for Mitchell.

Timely hitting and good base-running enabled the Cardinals to defeat the Cincinnati Reds at St. Louis, 4 to 3, thus running their string of victories to four and putting them just two games behind the league-leading Pirates. McGraw and May, who pitched the entire game, were both stingy with their hits.

Jack Ashley Passed Away In Toronto Hospital Last Night

BROUGHT HERE

Inquest Ordered By Coroner Touching Accident On Leaside Trestle

Jack Ashley, who fell one hundred and twenty feet from a scaffold at Leaside Bridge near Toronto yesterday afternoon, died at St. Michael's Hospital at about one o'clock this morning.

Ashley, was the foreman on the job, as a result of the fall he sustained compound fractures of the legs and a fractured skull. The deceased was well known in this city where he formerly resided. A brother George Ashley of Windsor was with him when the accident came. A sister living in the United States also survives.

When the Intelligencer got in touch with friends in Belleville this morning no definite information could be secured as to whether the remains would be brought to Belleville for interment or not, but they were of the opinion that they would, as the family have a plot and monument in St. James Cemetery here, where a brother who died a few years ago is interred.

Dr. Fleming, of Toronto, Coroner, decided that an inquest would be necessary.

CHRIST CHURCH GARDEN PARTY

Wonderful Weather Attends Function Given By Parish Guild

Christ Church lawns, lovely with every color of the rainbow forming the effective background for the Summer Carnival given by the Parish Guild yesterday, was the means for scores of people who thoroughly enjoyed every minute of the bright entertainment. The ladies in charge had wrought splendid wonders with lanterns, crepe paper and every imaginable flower and each booth was a fairyland in itself carrying out some bright and delightful color scheme.

Early in the afternoon the ice cream booth of which Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Barton and Mrs. White were in charge, was probably the most popular centre sharing a measure of popularity however with the candy booth where every known brand of home-made candy, arranged in pretty containers, was sold by Mrs. Leggett and Mrs. F. Chamberlain. As evening approached, however, "hot dogs" became much in demand and the refreshments for these kept Mrs. Neale, Mrs. Weese and Mrs. Thompson very busy until a late hour.

Tea was served by Mrs. Ives, Mrs. Watkins, Mrs. Millard and Mrs. Cheevy very delightfully and Mrs. Charles Thompson and little daughter did a rapid business at the lovely flower booth.

Mrs. Laing fecoiled all kinds of wonderful fortunes for the many who visited the fortune telling booth. A popular feature too was the pool some of which like Edwards was in charge and there the scores who visited bought a pet each until it is rumored on the grounds who was informed that a registered parcel awaited him or her and this was redeemed for a small sum.

During the afternoon and evening the orchestra gave a delightful programme which was very much enjoyed by all present. All in all it was a bright, delightful and thoroughly successful entertainment, quite in keeping with any such affair. Christ Church ladies undertake at any time, several charming dances and musical numbers augmented the great success service her mother, two sisters, Mrs.

COMETS COMING, HAILED BY SHOWER OF METEORS?

Washington, D. C., June 25.—People in this land will in a little more than a month pass through the Perseus meteoric zone, somewhere in regions within 3,500,000 miles will make its closest contact with the earth. Astronomers and observers state that the comet itself may not be quite so interesting phenomenon. Chas. Wilson, professor of astronomy at the University of Virginia, says there may be shower of meteors as result of comet's proximity to earth.

The earth may pass through some of the debris and the meteoric showers which raise these will be a meteor shower or single or less intensity. Dr. Henry Norris Russell on statement last night.

Naval astronomers are of the opinion that the comet can best be viewed with a telescope or binoculars although it may be seen with the naked eye. After September night the comet's tail may can be seen for several days and about July 6 when it will disappear over southern horizon.

RECORD VOTE IS PROMISED IN MANITOBA ELECT.

One Hundred and Fifty Three Candidates Contest Fifty-Five Seats

NEW SYSTEM

Predict High Percentage of Spoiled Ballots In Monday's Fight

Winnipeg, Man., June 25.—With the termination of the Manitoba provincial election campaign only three days off the 153 candidates contesting the 55 seats in the legislature are concentrating their efforts on intensive last day efforts to assure record vote.

Multiple systems of balloting which will be employed in the province, has caused some misgiving among the party leaders, who in their campaign speeches have expressed fears that a difference in the ballots may lead to confusion and high percentage of spoiled ballots. Having exhaustively dealt with the major issues on the election, the candidates have been busy explaining the method of marking ballots.

Three distinct ballots will be employed—proportional representation in city of Winnipeg, the alternative ballot in rural constituencies where there are more candidates are two, and the straight party ballot, where contest is confined to two candidates.

The first two systems involve numerical marking, while on the latter ballot the choice is indicated by a cross.

Men Prominent In Belleville Life

What youthful heart does not beat faster when one glances over the life of T. P. J. Sweers? Two years and three months glorious trip around the world with the famous Kilties Band, founded and managed by Tom, as he is popularly known, himself.

T. P. J. Power was born in Castleton in 1871, his father being Captain William Power and his mother Miss McCormick. The young lad who was later to make such a name for himself in connection with his famous band received his education in the Belleville schools. He entered the hotel business in 1891 and was six years manager of what was then known as the Power Brothers Hotel. He was at the same time manager of the old Grannes Opera House, later known as Griffin's Opera House. During his management of the old show he brought such famous productions to Belleville as "Wang", "Just Jer" and the "Prince of Pilsen" and well known celebrities as Madame Albani, Madame Nordica, Paderewski and Sousa and his band.

Famous Bands

For two years T. P. J. Power was manager of the Brooks Chicago Marine Band, his brother W. W. Power going into the Grand Duchess when they left the show cause. For 18 years W. W. Power and his famous troupe of elephants were at the Hippodrome, New York City.

After finishing with the Chicago band, Tom was appointed manager of the famous Lieutenant Dan Godfrey's British Guard's Band, the first bis British band to ever come to Canada.

It was after this that Mr. Powers founded the band known as the Kiltie's Band that was to become the talk of the whole civilized world. For ten years he was manager of this band, during which time he travelled over 400,000 miles with it. The remarkable world wide tour taken by this band covered a period of two years and three months, and a territory that took in twenty-one civilized countries. They include, Canada, United States, Mexico, Fiji Islands, Hawaii, Australia, New Zealand, Tasmania, India, Burma, Ceylon, Egypt, Spain, Italy, France, Sicily, England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales. Twice was the band by Royal Decree invited to play before the then reigning monarch, King Edward VII., at Buckingham Palace, Windsor Hall, with a rental of $1000 a night to travel over a hundred miles to play before the Duke of Connaught at his residence, Bandmaster Tom Power.

He was married in 1894, to Mary Tena MacKie and lost her a year ago last May. Two years ago T. P. J. Power took over the management of the Old Queen's Hotel, and in 1923 assumed the management of the Kiltie's Band with the Queen's and making it into the Tom Power Hotel Company.

Tom has no politics, claiming he was away from this country too long to have any interest. He is chairman of the Park Commission, member of the Belleville Club, Canoe Club, Board of Commerce and a director of the Fair Board Here pour to Tom Power!

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND VOTING ON LIQUOR ACT

Liberal Govt. Strongly Behind Present Temperance Measure

60 CANDIDATES

Plank In Liberal Platform Provides For Plebiscite In 1929

Charlottetown, P. E. I., June 25.—Prince Edward Islanders will have to night the answer to the question that has been puzzling them for the past few months and which was the main issue of one of the most strenuous political campaigns in the history of their province whether or not the result of today's polling for the 60 candidates nominated to contest the fifteen ridings of the Island's three counties, will find a majority of electors in favor of Premier J. D. Stewart's policy of Government control of the sale of liquor.

If the voters call into power the liberal regime under A. C. Sinders the present law will continue under the prohibition act, strictly enforced, and Islanders will then, be in part, obtain their liquor only on physician's prescriptions. The liberal leader, however, included in his platform a plank providing for the plebiscite of the people on the question of the Island's future under government control, to take place in July, 1929. The two parties were substantially in an agreement on other matters relating to the administration of the province.

STANDS ALL NIGHT TO GET FIRST CHOICE ON USED CAR

Millionaires pay thousands of dollars for an automobile, fairly well to do may will pay a thousand dollars, but Belleville boys believe in getting a real bargain.

James Trew, William Trotter and Kenneth Nicholson read in the local press that the Mclaughlin Motor Company intended to sell a perfectly good Chevrolet touring car for 98 cents, to the first customer to appear at the motor car sale, this morning.

With blankets under his arm Kenneth Nicholson parked himself by the used car door at 7 o'clock last evening, prepared for the long vigil until 8 o'clock this morning.

At 8.30 last night William Trotter came along to keep him company, and at 10.30 James Day joined the small party. The three young men had decided to buy the car between them.

Sp-aking to The Intelligencer today, Kenneth Nicholson said, "We talked and slept the evening through; we must have eaten about 85 worth of food. I packed up at 7 o'clock and at 8 o'clock last evening until 8 o'clock this morning. Jim and Day kept me company for the greater part of the night. People came around about every hour, but when they saw I was waiting they didn't stay. We smoked innumerable cigarettes throughout the night.

Promptly at 8 o'clock this morning the three boys climbed in their new purchase and drove away. It is not known whether the young men will endeavor to purchase the other used car for $1.98 on Tuesday morning, or not.

INTEREST GAINS ON CELEBRATION

Merchants Donate Prizes For Next Friday's Doings Here

An enthusiastic meeting of Confederation Celebration Committee was held in the City Hall last night. The Sports Committee reported good progress. A great number of valuable prizes having been donated by the merchants so far called on. The offer of the Merchants Association to assist in financing a Band Concert on Saturday night was received with thanks. This will probably be a combined concert and dance details of which will be announced later. The Decoration Committee say the city will be a mass of flags, etc. This is very important and every residence should display some decorations. Judging from reports the celebration of 60 years of peace and prosperity will be fitting.

Your interest now is called and the programme appearing elsewhere in this paper. Though it is not completed as yet, is sufficient proof that the celebration will be worth while. The committee are to be commended for the low price of admission and the grouns which should guarantee a large crowd for the Sunday afternoon programme

FRANCE SOLIDLY BEHIND TREATY

United States' Ambassador Carries Suggestions By French Govt.

Paris, June 25.—All France will rejoice at the signature of the pact of perpetual amity between France and United States, such as that proposed by Foreign Minister Briand Fresident Poincare told the American Club at a luncheon at which he was guest of honor today.

Myron T. Herrick, United States ambassador, sailed for the United States on Wednesday taking with him a memorandum containing suggestions by the French government as to how negotiations for amity pact might be opened.

PREDICT PEACE PACT BETWEEN JAPAN AND U. S.

Admiral Saito Said To Be In Favor of Proposed Plan

LIMITATION OF CRAFT

Representative Says U. S. Has Scrapped Many Ships

Geneva, June 25.— Overtures by Japan with a view to the signing of the perpetual peace pact with the United States are looked for in authoritive circles of the tri-partite naval conference.

Notwithstanding denials by both the Japanese delegates and Hugh S. Gibson, head of the United States delegation, that any such suggestion has been made, competent observers persisted in the belief today that when he had considered that overtures would have a chance of being favorably considered. Admiral Viscount Saito, Japanese spokesman, possibly would propose the treaty outlawing war between his country and United States.

As the conference neared the close of its first week's deliberations the impression the views of the three participating nations on the best way to bring about a reduction in the naval armaments it appeared that the British were withdrawing somewhat from their desire to re-open the questions settled at the Washington conference in 1922, chiefly the matter of further reducing the size of capital ships.

Re-open Question

This apparent change came after the United States and Japanese delegations notified the British officially that the present conference had no authority to discuss the decisions which were part of Washington Pact. Although the two delegations, at the request of British, deferred to ask Washington and Tokyo whether the conference might re-examine the question of the size of battleships, cruisers and aircraft carriers it is not expected the government will devistate from the original programmes.

The deadlock continues on the great problem of tri-partite naval conference. Authoritive decisions taken at Washington in 1922 are subject to reconsideration here. Apparently nothing definite can be achieved until this question is decided one way or another. Groups of experts met today to study the technical aspects of the limitation of cruisers, submarines and destroyers. The most reliable opinion here is that the United States delegation prefers to go home without any agreement than to reach one on which would involve the entire remodelling of the Washington treaty or one placing land tonnage figure for the auxiliary war craft so high that there would be no limitation at all but merely an invitation for increased armament competition.

Ships Scrapped

Hugh S. Gibson, chief United States delegate, replied indirectly today to the statement emanating from the British circles that the tonnage of warships scrapped by Great Britain since the war was probably three times that scrapped by the United States. Referring to the fact that United States, at the Washington Conference voluntarily surrendered her supremacy in battleships, he declared she had committed herself to the scrapping of 521,000 tons of ships well under construction, and 15 old battleships with tonnage of about 328,000.

Mrs. Stewart This flag will form part of the decorations of Bridge Street United Church at the Jubilee Celebration service on Sunday evening, and will be carried in the Jubilee procession on July 1st.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

His heart's his mouth
What his breast forges that his tongue must vent.

SHAKESPEARE.

PRICE OF QUALITY!

What with bobbed-hair bandits, lady thugs, feminine forgers, girl go-betweens, and the more deadly variety of husband killers, it might seem that womankind, in her new-found freedom, had carried this business of equality with man a shade too far. Man now admits, though with perhaps a bit of shame, that woman is at times his equal in evil endeavor as well as in good. The charge that womankind is hardened in her emancipation is not without grounds, and the old-fashioned chivalry grows pale and wan. When a judge, therefore, fines a woman who pleads guilty to the embezzlement of some $20,000 solely because she is a woman, the happening is so unusual that it is sent hither and yon by telegraphic news service for the people to see and marvel at. Here is a gentleman of the old school. Here is chivalry of the kind that flourished when knighthood was at the floweriest. Here is a throwback to happy philosophy which held all women good women just because they were women. Under its teachings, no woman might ever see the inside of a house of correction unless she became recruited to the ranks of the machine gunners.

DRIVER IS RESPONSIBLE

The very rapid growth of motor traffic on the highways and number of accidents, leading to criminal action and suits for damages, has placed a new and important duty on the bench and bar. Time will be required to allow for working out the application of the principles of law to this situation. But there is reason to believe it will be done, for observance of the judgements passed by courts in Canada, as well as in Britain and the United States, justifies the opinion that the present indifference to the rights of the other car on the highway and of the pedestrian on the crossing cannot be disregarded.

In a recent judgement in the superior court of Quebec a Montreal plaintiff was awarded $5,000 damages for injuries sustained by his young son. The action was maintained on two grounds: (1) that the motorist was traveling at an excessive rate of speed and (2) that the boy had the right of way because he reached the intersection first. In the opinion expressed by the court the driver of the car would have had time to stop if he had not been traveling at an excessive rate.

A number of judgements in American courts reported on have paid particular attention to this point, insisting that the driver must always have his car under control. Failing in this at a critical moment he is immediately liable. Where it is a question of responsibility for the movements of the car, and fixing on the amount of the damages, the ordinary jury may be depended upon to decide equitably.

GOOD TIME COMING

The time may come:
When someone will not be extolling the "good old days."
When oldsters will not be viewing with alarm the goings-on among the young people.
When the comic sheets will not pretend that husbands are hen-pecked.
When a reporter, a detective and a parson on the stage or in the movies will resemble a reporter, a detective and a parson in real life.
When a man will work as hard as he leads his wife and friends to think he works.
When a "business conference" means a business conference and not a game of golf.
When an employee admits he is being paid all he's worth.
When professional reformers admit that society is OK, and voluntarily quit their jobs.
When a man gives up his automobile and explains that his cannot afford one.
When somebody will not be prophesying that the world is coming to an end.
When suckers will no. be stung by lake investments salesmen.
When bores will not take the perfunctory cue from "how are you?" as an invitation to give an "organ recital."
Yes, the time may come. But we don't expect to be alive to enjoy that millennial dawn!

MOONLIGHT AMONG THE TREES

Gently toil the leafy fingers
Of the trees, when breezes past;
Beating silver haze and moonlight
Into fairy lace and glass.

In the flower-laden bath
Silver vessels gently fall;
Steaming, rich with graceful pattern
In the fairy banquet hall.

Gentle Night, the star-eyed Hebe
From her glowing urn of dew,
Fills those graceful fairy vessels
With her crystal sparkling brew.

Would-Be Bulcide—"Don't rescue me. I want to die."
Would-Be Rescuer—"Well, you'll have to postpone that; I want a lifesaving medal."

"Dog!"

The motorist had just run his way Hadley the first pedestrian he overtook he asked the way to Hamilton.

"I don't know that I can explain it very clearly," replied the pedestrian, "but if you'll take me in your car I'll point it out to you as we go along."

"Good," said the motorist. "Jump in."

"First," directed the man, as he took his seat, "drive straight ahead for about two miles."

When the two miles had been traversed, he continued "Now if you'll drop me here, I can show you the rest of the way quite easily. Just turn around and go back, three miles and there you are."

"Why didn't you tell me that in the first place instead of taking me two miles in the wrong direction?" demanded the motorist.

"I didn't want to hurt your feelings right away by telling you that you were going the wrong way," replied the other, "and, besides, I live here."

CORPS CUTS ITS HIGH EXPENSES

Washington, D.C., June 25.—By altering left-over clothing, refurbishing hats, using electric power instead of coal for many of its refrigeration plants, buying hay and forage locally instead of shipping it from distant points and by other economies, the quartermaster corps of the army, it is announced, has saved approximately $1,000,000 during the present fiscal year.

It saved $100,000 by revising its army transport sailing schedules, $150,000 by converting tractor motors to passenger vehicles, and $63,000 by finding novel uses for canary cloth left over from the war.

"I've just had the ride of my life"

And this is the car—a Chandler—$1450 delivered

NOW I know why so many friends of mine have been praising Chandler. And I can easily see why Chandler is making such widespread gains in sales, and enjoying such a successful and prosperous year.
For real performance, as well as style and comfort, I nominate Chandler. It ticks off the miles like an 18-jewel watch—and eats up distance at a pace that makes the famous charge of the Light Brigade seem like a slow motion movie!
And I like the way it stays on the job. No sick spells. No whining or whimpering. And the car lubricates itself from end to end the moment you press a plunger with your foot!
Just check up all I'm saying by seeing this car, and driving it yourself. I'm sure you'll like it.

BRIDGE ST. SCOUTS COMPLETE YEAR

First Belleville Troop of the Boy Scouts now 40 strong with pick numbering 30 has completed a most successful year in their new headquarters. The Community Hall at Bridge Street United Church. The troop which has functioned under the leadership of Mr. F. E. Mallot for the past five years, has of course seen a wide change of personnel, many having joined other troops and some leaving Scout work, but any depletion in the ranks has always been more than filled by new and enthusiastic members.

Mr. Wallace H. Robb, the cub master has done some exceptionally fine work amongst the boys in creating an intelligent interest in nature study and in character building which will probably be carried through life. Just now the boys are rejoicing in the possessing of the new troop flag, which will be carried for the first time on the parade to Bridge Street Church on Sunday evening, are eagerly anticipating the Scout camp at Moira Lake to open in July.

The Community Hall has been extensively used since the opening. Besides being headquarters for the Scouts, the Girl Guides and Jack Miner League, it has proved an ideal community centre for various other activities. The committee now, at considerable expense, being fitted up for such outdoor sports as tennis, basketball, volley ball and quoits.

ASTOW—TRACY

At the church of the Blessed Sacrament Saint Ste. Marie, on Tuesday morning, May 17, 1927, a quiet wedding took place when Miss Aileen Elizabeth Tracy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tracy, Belleville, became the bride of Mr. R. E. Astow of Detroit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fr. Sheehan.

HART—HOWARD

Bridge Street United Church aglow and fragrant with profusions of spring flowers, was the scene of a charming wedding at high noon today when Alice, daughter of Mrs. M. J. Howard, 20 Boswell Street, became the lovely bride of William Henry Hart, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hart of Belleville.

The bride, a beautiful picture in her wedding gown of white embroidered lace over white georgette, caught at the shoulder by a spray of the traditional orange blossoms, large white picture hat, white shoes and stockings and carrying a lovely imported shower bouquet of palest pink roses and lily of the valley, entered the church to the strains of the wedding march played by Professor V. P. Hunt, leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. Harold Howard. She was attended by her sister, Miss Hilda Howard, who was lovely in shell pink georgette with hat, hosiery and shoes to match, and Miss Ethel Hart, the groom's sister, who was picturesque in sand flat crepe, white hat and shoes and hosiery to match her costume. Each of the pretty bridesmaids were corsage bouquets of deep pink roses and lillie of the valley.

Mrs. Howard, mother of the bride, wore a handsome gown of navy georgette over sand with blonde shoes and stockings and hat to match her costume. Mrs. Hart, the groom's mother, was beautifully attired in black. Both Mrs. Howard and Mrs. Hart, mothers of the young couple were quaint old-fashioned bouquets of pinks. Mr. Frank Howard, the bride's brother, was usher. The groom was attended by Mr. Eugene Kember of New York. During the ceremony Miss Irene Baker sang a solo very sweetly.

Canadian Senior Golfers photographed just before sailing recently on the Canadian Pacific steamship Montrutus for Great Britain, where they will meet international veteran golfers in a series of matches. The players are, from left to right in the back row, F. J. MacKay of Sarnia; Ralph Connable and C. Parker, City; Dr. D. Backhouse, Dr. J. Sheahan, St. Catharines; Sir George Garneau of Quebec City; Dr. Bell-Irving, Vancouver, and J. D. Fraser of Toronto. Those sitting are, C. Stasser of Winnipeg; Mrs. F. A. Parker; George S. Lyon, 69 year old veteran who will captain the team; Gregor C. Huntsman and Dr. W. St. McQuay, all of Toronto.

Immediately after the ceremony the wedding party returned to the home of the bride's mother where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served from the table, lovely with spring flowers and centered by the huge wedding cake which the charming bride cut during the breakfast.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Hart left for a honeymoon to be spent at Atlantic City and New York, the bride travelling in a most becoming French hat and gown, the former of powder blue and the latter a chic combination of powder blue and smoke grey over which she wore a beautiful wrap of powder blue with ermine collar and carried a blue purse. Her shoes and stockings were of smoke grey. After the honeymoon the young couple will reside in Montreal where Mr. Hart holds an important position in the C.N.R. office.

The gifts received by Mr. and Mrs. Hart were unusually numerous and beautiful testifying to their popularity amongst a host of friends. A pretty tribute was paid the bride in the decorating of the church by the Choir of Bridge Street, of which she was a member.

TRAFFIC IS TIED UP BY LOAD OF HAY

Traffic was tied up for a short time on Front street about 10.30 this morning when a huge dray, loaded with hay, endeavoured to turn up the alley by Doyle's Drug Store. The rear was blocked by a parked automobile and for a short time confusion reigned, many cars coming up behind the hay rig not being able to pass. Sergeant Arthur Harman straightened matters by sending the hay wagon around the block again and requesting the driver of the parked car to remove his automobile.

Shades of grey, particularly the deeper than medium ones, are being featured by a leading Fifth Avenue firm.

PLAY TOO HARD OVER WEEK-END

London, June 25.—Lord Dawson of Penn, King George's physician, believes lack of British business men exert themselves too much during their week ends.

Lord Dawson thinks that men who work five and one-half days a week in offices often need rest more than golf and other vigorous exercise on Saturday afternoon. He suggests that many office men might do well to ride, rather than walk so much. He advises tired business men to ride home Saturday afternoon, take a good rest, and delay their golf playing until Sunday.

"Too much physical effort after continued mental effort often produces dyspepsia and headache," says Lord Dawson of Penn. "Rest and light food do more to keep a business man in trim than too vigorous exercise."

SOVIETS TO FILM UNKNOWN PAMIR

Tashkent, Turkestan, June 23.—A Soviet motion picture expedition has started for the Pamir mountains to film the practically unknown life of that region.

The caravan carrying the expedition plans to travel a thousand miles by mountain paths and the Pamir "Oving Ice" or artificial suspended footways, crossing the whole of the Pamir and following the boundaries of China, India and Afghanistan.

An effort is to be made to photograph several tribes inhabiting these regions and particularly a tribe inhabiting the mountains of the western Pamir who are said to be descendants of troops of Alexander the Great, lost during his campaign in India.

DELORO FINALLY DEFEATED BY POINT ANNE 3-1

Visiting Pitcher Walks Two In Eighth and Errors Score Them

BOND'S GREAT CATCH

Cement-Mixers Manage To Take Champs Into Camp

It's been many a moon since the Point Anne club defeated Deloro on the ball field but they accomplished that little feat yesterday afternoon on the cement-makers diamond. It's tak en the suburbanites a long time to send the smelters home on the short end of the score and right joyously they celebrated the event yesterday. The score was 3-1 and although the homesters did not earn all of their runs they worked hang-tie Dinnie, the hard-luck lad that has been dogging their trail for the preceding four games disappeared yesterday.

It's the best thing for the Bay of Quinte League that the Point Anne Club broke into the win column. Previously they had dropped every game to date and the fans in that locality were becoming somewhat discouraged.

The Point Anne Club was rearranged somewhat and the combination worked perfectly.

"Sunny" Green was sent behind the bat and "Sonny" Goyer went to the mine lines as coach and general advisor and it was "Sonny" who went up to the plate hitter in the eighth and helped to win the game. —1; 4-0

Instead, the Pointers see who had performed the bulk of the pitching this year was sent in again and was at last rewarded with a victory.

Alex Weir was shifted to second base and "Bub" Gaulin was placed in charge of the hot corner. "Jerry" Hurley has secured an excellent position which will prevent him from further participation with the ball club and Hutchings was substituted at right field and "Bub" Maracle took left field. - -

It was nip and tuck scoreless game until eighth inning when two bad errors on the part of Jimmie Quinn the peppery catcher from the North Country sent Point Anne into the lead and in the ninth Manager Elliott's clan made a feeble effort to come back but their attempt at a rally was nipped in the bud.

A New Arrival

"Jinky" Woods erstwhile graduate of Peterboro Junior ranks was sent to the hillock and he made an auspicious start that twisted fairly wise ball although finally it was his wildness that cost him the game. Woods sent seven men to first base via the free ticket route and two of these crossed the plate in the fatal eighth. Woods will be given much work when the treacherousness of opposing batters in the City of Quinte League.

Frank Bennett's co-workers managed to get him out of bad holes after bad holes and although the Deloro crowd were going to do some damage Two lightning double-plays around the keystone sack helped the stellar champions considerably and sent the visitors back home straining from a sore defeat. Woods struck out seven batters as compared with three to Bennett, but his erratic pitching eventually cost the pastime.

Point Anne who have been falling down in the pinches left seven men stranded on the paths while Deloro had but two remaining on the cushions

Art Quinn was the only batter to chalk up more than one hit and the Queen's star goal-tender collected two hits, both of them sharp singles.

Bond's running shoe string catch of Blakely's drive in the third inning was the smartest fielding feature con tributed by either team.

"Hec" Boudreau also captured a long drift by "Sunny" Green when he made a circular catch. Some unsavory references were made to Ken Colling's umpiring in the ninth when Boudreau the last man up was called out on what appeared to be a high ball.

The Point aggregation had a nice chance in the fourth inning, when they populated the paths but Josh Maracle dropped one into Art Quinn's waiting hands. It was at this juncture that Frank Goyer who batted fairly hot in t pinch should have gone in.

Deloro got their lone run in the first inning after Quinn singled and later scored on "Bunny" Green's wild throw to third. It might be mentioned here that Green caught a bang-up game and his versatility makes him a valuable man on any ball club.

FAULKNER GETS THIRTEENTH WIN

New York, June 25.—The Toronto Maple Leafs gave the Bloons a set-back at Buffalo yesterday when Lefty Faulkner, mound ace, registered another victory, his thirteenth of the year, by a 3 to 2, score. Faulkner not only dazzled the Bloons from the box, but practically won his own game when he rifled a two ring homer over the right-field fence with a man on first base in the fifth inning. Chapley Hugh, former Bloon, also whistled a homer over the same spot in the ninth inning.

Rallying for six runs in the seventh inning, Newark beat out a one-run leading lead and piled up an advantage never overcome to take the first of he series at Reading today, 8-4. Nolan nd Elliott hit for the circuit, both lows coming with the bases unoccupied.

George Earnshaw whitewashed Jersey City at home this afternoon, allow ing them six well-scattered hits, while Baltimore got to Slicker Parks for three uns in the first two innings and coasted to a 3 to 0 victory.

HAMILTON DOCTOR HELD

Hamilton, June 22.—Dr. W. C. Bvekman was charged, with manslaughter in connection with the death of twenty year old Agnes Heslop following an illegal operation.

DETROIT MAKES IT 2 STRAIGHT OVER SOX

New York, June 25.—Detroit made it two straight at Chicago yesterday by lonmerstue out at 9 to 4 victory. The visitors collected 16 hits for a total of 26 bases, giving Red Faber off the hill in the sixth inning. Hip Caldwin managed to keep Chicago's hits well-scattered, and was given perfect support by two snappy double-plays breaking up promising Sox rallies.

St. Louis won at Cleveland in a fast well-played ten-inning game, 2 to 1, evening the series. Winners of the Browns and Shuste of the Indians both pitched good ball. The winning run was scored on singles by Schulte and O'Neill and Gerder's sacrifice fly.

Hollis Thurston drove in three runs for Washington at Boston today and aided the Senators materially in defeating Boston, 5 to 3, in the first game of the series. In addition to pitching sterling ball Thurston made two singles and a double, each hit bringing in a runner.

EARL SMITH SUSPENDED

New York, June 25.—President John A. Heydler of the National League, today fined Earl Smith, catcher of the Pittsburgh club, $500 and suspended him for 30 days from June 18 for what the League executive termed "a vicious and brutal assault on a player of a rival playing club."

Smith has been under indefinite suspension since he assaulted Manager Dave Bancroft of the Boston club in a game at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, last Saturday.

GIANTS SPLIT WITH PHILLIES

Cardinals Advance By Taking Measure Of Cincinnati

Philadelphia, June 25. — The things that might have been are futile topics of conversation, but it's hard not to mention a few bright bubbles that broke yesterday afternoon when the Giants split even with the Phillies in a doubleheader. Instead of winning both games as they should have done they seemed to have until the end of the chapter was written.

When McGraw's mighty maulers broke out in a rash of hitting in the eighth inning of the second game and took command of a two-run lead it looked as though they were on their way to meritorious deeds.

They had won the first game, 7 to 3. If they won the second they would have a winning streak of four games which is something in itself to cheer about in these turbulent times. Better than that, they would have gained four victories in two days, having beat en the Braves twice on Thursday.

It looked as though these highly delirious things were about to come to pass, but on Sunger, acting in a relief role, faltered in the last of the ninth when the Phills tied the score and fell in the tenth, when they won, 6 to 5.

The Cardinals advanced to within one game of the league-leading Pirates by defeating the Cincinnati Reds at St. Louis Friday 9 to 1 eleven innings, for their fifth straight victory. Bill Sherdel held the visitors to six hits.

Charley Root stopped the Pirates with several hits yesterday while Chicago won at Pittsburgh 4 to 2, in the opener of a two-game series. Timely hitting enabled the Cubs to pile up a three-run lead before Cuyler put a home run into the right field stands in the sixth inning.

After being touched for ten hits in the early innings, Henry Wertz, young Boston right-hander, finished up by retiring 15 Robins in order as the visiting Braves defeated Brooklyn 5 to 2.

HARVARD BEAT YALE

New London, Conn., June 25.—Harvard University this evening won the inter-varsity sculler eights rowing race from Yale University for the first time in seven years.

Yale spurted badly at the finish of the 4½ mile race and succeeded in cutting Harvard's lead to half a length. The official times were: Harvard, 22:25 1-2; Yale, 22:29.

Earlier in the day Yale won the freshman and junior eights events from the crimson.

Gained In Health And In Weight

New Given All the Credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

When a young girl becomes pale, complains of exhaustion at the least exertion, has dizzy spells, headaches or stomach trouble, she should know that these are some of the many symptoms of anaemia, which means that her blood is thin and weak. In such conditions there is the most urgent need for a tonic that will promptly restore the missing qualities to the blood and thus bring back health and strength. For this purpose there li no tonic can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Thousands of weak and ailing girls have found new health and happiness through this medicine. Miss Gladys V. Bond, Kentville, N. B., used this treatment, successfully, and says:—"I cannot praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too highly for the good they have done me. I was in a condition of very poor health, suffered from severe headaches and nervousness. My appetite was poor, and very little exertion would leave me tired out. On the advice of a friend I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In a few weeks I began to feel better, my appetite improved, and the headaches were less frequent. I continued the use of the pills until I had taken six boxes by which time I felt as well as ever, and I gained in weight from 98 pounds to 114 pounds. For this reason I advise all weak girls to try this medicine."

Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness and stomach trouble. Take them as a tonic and cultivate a resistance that will keep you well and strong. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CATCHES BIG FISH

Kingston, June 25. — William E. Holtz, of Owego, a Summer visitor at the Thousand Islands while fishing for black bass in the St. Lawrence River, off Oak Island shoal Wednesday, hooked a forty-pound muskinonge. Members of the Presbytery, met at Knox Church Manse in camera to consider the question and following the call's presentation by Rev. Gordon H. NOT TO SHOW "BIG PARADE" TO HUNS

Berlin, June 25.—An experimental showing of the great pacifistic anti-war picture "The Big Parade" at a private showing in a Dresden audience was asked by the producer here Monday three inches in diameter, film company, the Paramount—the German organization films negotiations, and performed on the advisability of loaning the film in Germany.

The vote, 194 in favor, and 31 against was considered by the sponsors of the film as indecisive, in view of the disproportionately small number of votes cast in the total audience. The film which was shown without cuts, mainly depicted those who saw it, although it was said that here in the theatres gripped the horrors a war that have come a spontaneous outburst of applause.

The divergence of opinion is illustrated by one comment: "Let us have peace and over until wars cease," while another comment was "Never in Germany."

Three showings were booked in Trenton, N.J., within a week.

The picture had been introduced in Oklahoma to

SINICAL SADIE SEES

William St., from Bridge North is a disgrace to Belleville.

When is the Mayor going to make public the report on the milk investigation?

AN INTELLECTUAL TREAT
The entertainment of an idea.

STARS AND STARS!
You meaner beauties of the night,
You common people of the skies,
What are you when the "Eastern Stars" arise?

The Comet is rushing on us at a terrific rate.

Sinical Sadie says that considerable danger to Belleville is now averted since the "Eastern Stars" have dispersed.

WHAT THE COCKTAIL SHAKER IN WALKER'S HARDWARE WINDOW THINKS ABOUT—

I dont like this place very well. I'm too darn conscious amongst all these thermos bottles. Now if there had been a flask or two it wouldn't have been so bad. Any way I'm lonely and —thirsty.

I wonder why Cliff or Charlie doesn't take me home?

Wonder which one of the fellows who signed Ackerman's paper will buy me!

Wonder if Harry Ackerman knows what I'm for!

Wonder if all the "Roughs and Toughs" have jeep me!

I like the men who stop to look at the Thermos bottles :?: but most of all I love the women who caress me with their eyes.

But no one knows how dry I am! I want a home.

JUST IN PASSING

"There's not a cheaper thing on earth,
Nor yet one half so dear;
'Tis better than dividend birth,
Or thousands gained a year;
It thakesh poverty content."

To sorrow whispers peace;
A gift it is that Heaven has sent
For mortals to increase.
What may this wondrous spirit be,
This power unheard before,
This charm, this bright divinity?
Good temper, nothing more."

—SWAIN.

TOM THUMB.

Darius Abner Alden, who as Tom Thumb for forty years amused thousands of citizens-young and old-in all the Atlantic recently died in Los Angeles in his 84th year. Alden was only 42 inches in height. He retired from circus life; ten years ago. Alden was a skilful glass-blower, which trade he learned as a youth. His death, the result of an internal hemorrhage, followed an illness of about three years. His wife, aged 82, was only 42 inches in height. The other members of Alden's family were all of normal stature. There have, of course, been several Tom Thumbs, mythical and otherwise, dating back to the time of King Arthur. The "Tom"Thumb" whose death is now recorded travelled with the famous Barnum and Bailey circus

ENGLAND'S OLDEST SCHOOL

Founded in the year 627 by Paulinus Peter's School, York, is to celebrate its 1,300th year of unbroken school life at the end of June. It is claimed that the school's records date farther back than any other school. The school has a regular succession of head-masters from the year 669 to the present day. Guy Fawkes was a scholar, and the land on which the present school stands was purchased from him. Four of the gunpowder plot conspirators were educated there. Although old records have been searched, it cannot be definitely established that Dick Turpin went to this school, but old legend has it that he stole Black Bess from the headmaster after he had been flogged by him. There are records which tell how certain boys played football in church, and how the ring leader was sentenced to have "Six yer kern (strokes) with a byrchen rod." About 1850 the rules for football at the school made it permissible for a player to trip up the man with the ball, but players were forbidden to stand on the goalpost to intercept the ball. A new block of buildings is to be erected as a memorial, and the Archbishop of York is to attend the 1,300th anniver sary celebrations.

Let Me Tell You

Everything beneath a carpet should be flat.

Spinach will be found to have a richer deeper colour if the water is given to the plants at intervals.

A pad made of newspaper makes a good polisher for mirrors.

Mice detest the smell of a fire lighter, and if one is place in any position in the house they will not come near it.

A small quantity of salt sprinkled on the top of coal when the fire is made up will make it burn brighter and last longer.

Rubber requires water as much as grown up persons. When they are feeling ill a few teaspoonfuls of water will often quieten them.

The Rind of a Lemon

In using the rind of a lemon for flavouring purposes be careful not to use the white pith. It is only the yellow part that holds the oils; the white often imparts a bitter taste.

Threading a Needle

Sometimes one wants to use thick wool with a fairly thin needle, and has a difficulty in threading the latter. This is solved thus: Take a piece of cotton, put the two cut ends together, and through the loop which will be formed place the wool. Thread the needle with the cotton, pull, and it will be found that the wool will come through without any further trouble.

To Test Milk.

To test milk stir it and pour it into a perfectly dry tumbler. Then into the cream and leave undisturbed for 24 hours, when a line will appear between the two. Before the milk is added to the cream it should be well stirred, as the cream rises to the top.

Don't's For Hot-Water Bottles

To prolong the life of a rubber hot-water bottle don't fill your bottle to the top. Don't let the water be quite boiling; after all, boiling water gradually disintegrates rubber, and a full bottle stands no chance; the joint as the top will be affected, and the interior will become spongy sooner than it should the bottle will also stretch. Don't fill the bottle up before the air has been pressed out. Don't cuddle it when boiling it, or your tender skin may puncture the rubber. Don't use it without a cover, which prevents the moisture escaping at the stopper, causing it to deteriorate. Don't hang it up by a tape round the neck; invert it so that it can drain during the day.

PRESENT-DAY FASHIONS

"How much longer are the present fashions going to last?" "Why, how much longer are women going to be clumsy, flat, and square?" writes the Margaret Mordecai in the "Woman's Magazine." "If one suggests to a Frenchwoman that anything is out of unbecoming, she replies, 'Mais, c'est la mode!' And the argument is ended. It is a regrettable fact that in the matter of other nations are so often prone to follow her example.

"Now one looks out of the window on a city street, and sees a regiment of women marching past, practically in uniform, old, middle-aged, and young women, grown and half-grown girls, all dressed alike! Little pointed hats on their heads hard and unfeminized, shapeless mackintosh frocks or clumsy fur coats, and a forest of legs in flesh coloured stockings! Some thick, some thin, a few well-shaped—but so few that one wonders why the secret which has been so well guarded through the ages was endowed with such a mysterious charm, should now be so ruthlessly revealed!

"Had the beauties of the Renaissance been thus gowned and hatted, we should have no portraits of them. No great Master would have deigned to paint a woman thus attired, and in a thinking on her soul a woman without eyes or hair, showing nothing but her nose and her teeth.

"Women in the past kept their mouths shut at least while their portraits were being painted, but now every feminine photograph or picture in an illustrated paper has the mouth open as wide as possible to show the teeth. This idea doubtless originated in the fertile brains of the makers of dentifrice and tooth paste. An excellent advertisement! And a pleasing thought that so many women have good teeth—but it is still not necessary to show them all at the time."

Poems Old And New

GREY DAYS, GOLDEN DAYS
A grey day on the moorland, and a grey day in the dale,
The spirit of a stricken year in the moaning of a flail;
A mist that makes the barnyard a grey wet world apart,
And yet the day is golden in a grey old heart.

June sunlight in the barnyard, and a merry milking song,
Diamonds on the duck-pond where the thirsty cattle throngs,
Young laughter down the white road that led me to the years,
And yet the day is dimming in a mist of tears.
Thomas Moult, in the Windsor Magazine.

YOU AND I A-MAYING
BY MINNIE LEONA UPTON

You and I a-Maying in the lovely lightsome weather,
Bright air, and blue sky, and clouds a-sailing free!
All the little breezes have gayly broken tether,
Just to dance along the way, dance with you and me!

You and I a-Maying—was there such a morning!
Gold gleam, and bird song, and all the air a-thrill!
Never wore the meadow such a radiant adorning,
Never lay there such a light on every happy hill!

You and I a-Maying—and the busy world behind us!
Hard rules, and hard sense, and all their doleful pack!
All the Lords of Workday shall never hope to find us—
They may walk, and smile or frown, till we wander back!

Ten Ways of Being a Bad Parent

1. A parent is bad whose imagination is colored by an uncritical belief in the vague rumors of scandal about young people. Such parents have no sense of proportion, are ready to accept the worst because it fits in with their theories. They are the largest contributing factor to the breakdown of reputation, even of their own children.

2. A parent is bad who accepts "fate" blindly and cannot see behind present handicaps the background of latent strength.

3 A parent is bad who does not realize that with adolescence comes a tremendous pull of loyalty toward friends outside the family group.

4. P or a parent to become prematurely stabilized, so that he loses a sense of proportion and cannot distinguish between major and minor values, is to become a bad parent.

5 A parent who makes a faulty characterization of a child is likely to produce bad results.

6. A parent may be bad if the goal placed before the children is too immediate and too easy, or is so concerned with money and "comfort" that the children become bored with life.

7. A parent is bad who is a parent only sporadically, and then usually at the wrong time.

8. A parent is bad who cannot shield a child from premature exposure to adult anxiety or perplexity.

9. A parent is bad who builds up in the child a feeling of inferiority.

10. A parent is bad who will not let a child grow up; who does all the talking; makes all the decisions, and meets all the issues.—Miriam Van Waters, in The Survey.

FIRES OF FRIENDSHIP

"The heart of every house is its fireside," says a writer in the "Ideal Home."

"Round the fireside the whole life of the home seems to circle, flowing from it, circling back to it, finding here a beginning and an end. You can feel the fireside drawing you from the moment your foot crosses the threshold of the home, see the embers beckoning to you, hear the whispered invitation of the flames. Instinctively you turn towards them, finding in them somehow a reason for your presence here, an excuse for delay.

"A fire is the best host in the world Every crackle of the flame is rich in welcome, Jolly and hospitable, familiar and sympathetic. Full of a quiet under standing that is surer than mans own It seems that in the glow your own thoughts are reflected back, but now they are other people's thoughts as well a whole brotherhood of thoughts. In the flicker of red and orange and mauve-blue, in the play of light and shadow on the hearth, there is a complete friendliness and peace.

"You can sit here in silence, knowing at last the comradeship of silence sit and dream, sit and plan, sit and read, sit and remember, sit and be happy, doing nothing at all. Restfulness is the keynote of the ever-retiring fire. Your eyes follow the thousand leaping movements, and find them one by one. So home, when you have played guest to other men's firesides, go home and study your own. Is it a friendly hearth, generous and ungrudging? Can you sit beside it, lazy amongst cushions or curled cat-like o mike floor? Is it a fireside that seems to have confidences, to call for boks and lamplight, music and china's soft chink? It is, in short, the fireside of a home? Make a friend of your fire, my friend, and your fire will make friends for you."

DANGER ALOFT.

Jock Cameron was a highly skilled workman in a new aircraft factory. Therefore, it happened one day that Jock was asked if he would care to accompany the works aviator on one of his trial flights in a machine. Jock, after some hesitation, agreed to do so. During the flight the aviator asked how he was enjoying it. "To tell the truth," answered the Scot, "I was rather be on the ground." "Tut, tut!" replied the flying man; "don't be afraid. I'm just thinking of looping the loop." "Don't dae that!" cried the now nervous Jock. "I've some siller in my wee pocket, an' I micht lose it!"

PAINS ALL OVER BODY

Two More Cases of Feminine Illness Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Barrington, N. S.—"I had terrible feelings, headaches, back and side aches and pains all over my body. I would have to go to bed every month and nothing would do me good. My husband and my father did my work for me as I have two children and we have quite a big place. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then got a little look about it through the mail, and my husband sent to Easton's and got me a bottle, and then we got more from the store. I am feeling fine now and do all my work and am able to go out around more. I tell my friends it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that makes me feel as well."—Mrs. VICTOR RICHARDSON, Barrington, Nova Scotia.

Dull Pains in Back

St. Thomas, Ont.—"I took four bottles of Lydia E. After taking the Vegetable Compound and using Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash I am feeling better than I have for the past seven years, and advise my friends to take it."—Mrs. F. Why Torture The Little Ones

Mothers, do you think it fair to torture your little ones by forcing them to take ill-tasting oils when they need a laxative medicine? Don't you find that the child's dread of these medicines often do more harm than good?

Baby's Own Tablets are the modern substitute for these nauseous doses. They are the very medicine the child requires and are so pleasant to take that they are as easy to administer as a glass of water. They are the perfect remedy for all the minor ailments of little ones, and are absolutely guaranteed from injurious drugs.

Baby's Own Tablets accomplish all that castor oil and other bad-tasting remedies can do, in fact they accomplish more as they do not leave the child exhausted from its struggle against taking medicine. They relieve teething pains, banish indigestion and constipation, break up colds and simple fevers and promote healthful, refreshing sleep. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The surplice line is becoming to so many women that it is becoming more stylish every day. No longer confined to gowns for afternoon, this mode now plays a prominent part in both daytime and evening frocks for the younger women. Here it is used in a charming sleeveless frock of crêpe de Chine that might be worn at almost any hour of a summer day. The light-hued side of the waist travels leftward until it becomes a girdle around the back of the frock, ending finally at the right hip in a soft flutter. Here four irregular panels begin their journey across the front, furnishing a graceful movement when the wearer turns.

Abandoning Babies
For A New Young Love

"My mother has consented to care for my two children and pass them off as my brothers, if I wish to marry again," says Josephine.

She says it quietly, coolly—

And as I listen to her, little shivers of ice scoot up and down my spine. Her own little boys—the little babies she cuddled in her arms, whose tiny, helpless hands clung to her fingers, whose innocent eyes searched her face with the long, long gaze of babyhood.

Her own little lads—to be "passed off as brothers!"

And this lad—this boy of twenty-one whom she, a divorced woman of thirty, intends to deceive and marry after she has transformed her babies into "brothers"—what of him?

And yet she says she "loves!"

DEAR ELSIE:

I am a woman of thirty and have two sons, six and eight years old. Last year my husband left me to care for my two sons. I immediately got work and have been working ever since. I met a fellow at work nine years younger than I. I am in love with him and he with me. He wants to marry me. But will I be doing right?

He does not know that I have children or have ever been married. Does he have to know this?

My mother has consented to care for my children and pass them off as my brothers.

Recently I met my ex-husband several times, and he wants me to come back and start all over again but I know can never have the same feeling for him for he hurt me terribly. The difference between him and this other fellow is so pronounced.

Please tell me, shall I give up the other man? Many people have told me to do so but I could not of life and marry this fellow, but will I enjoy life by disowning my own children?

JOSEPHINE.

Will you enjoy life? I do not know. I can no more analyze your psychology, Josephine, than I could analyze the reaction and desires of a sea serpent. To me you are as strange, as terrible, as monstrous a distortion as any creature with icy blood which ever was spewed forth from the black caverns of the ocean floor.

I cannot tell what such a woman as you might feel. I will not even try to sit in judgement on you. But I can tell you how a normal woman would feel at the very thought of doing what you are about to do.

Before a normal woman would give up her little boys she would be torn limb from limb! And she would smile as she was torn, my dear. Wise, is such a woman, those babies would be the crowning glory of all her life. She could no more hide the fact of their existence from as utter than she could deliberately crush the breath from her own body. Every beat of her devoted heart would send the story of their dearness pulsing in her veins.

And if, by some unspeakable tragedy her little boys should be taken from her, and she should be forced to go in to marriage without them, the days would be a desert for that mother and the nights a hell. She would wake with the feeling of their clinging bodies in her arms and the scent of their sweet, warm flesh in her nostils. She would weep, moaning, calling—

Oh, what is the use of even trying to tell you what motherhood means to real women?

But this many penetrate even your cold speculation. For you, mother-hood means nothing. Then Low dare you marry another child and assume the responsibility of mothering a bus band? For, remember your only chance of happiness if you marry this boy will lie in your ability to be a mother to him.

The secret of all successful wifehood is mother love. And, in your case, it is even more important. You will be beginning to be an old woman while he is still a young man. Only by your tenderness can you hold him.

YOUR TENDERNESS!

Maybe you are blinded for a little while by passion and lulled in your confusion. Then listen. Believe me when I say that no devil could ever devise a torture which would cause you more agony than the act you are contemplating will cause you, if there be a single drop of decent womanly blood in your veins.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Put a little vinegar in a skillet after frying fish or onions and the odor for taste will vanish.

If you will thread your needle before cutting the cotton from the spool and make the knot at the ready-cut end, the thread will not curl up and knot when sewing.

After a rug has been cleaned do not allow anyone to walk on it for from twelve to twenty-four hours. When it is dry it should be cleaned with a vacuum cleaner or a broom to remove the lint.

In using meat in soup be sure to place the meat in cold water before using and gradually bring it to a boil.

Clothes should be rinsed well, because soap combined with lining will cause rust spots. If the soap is not altogether pure, when combined with a starch, it will yellow the clothes; if washing soda is used and is not thoroughly rinsed out, the fibre will be weakened when heated by the iron; colored clothes will nerfer have a clear bright look, and white clothes will never be pure white, unless rinsed well and often.

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN

by Mildred Harbour

With a second brief bow to Sybil, apparently accomplished without looking at her, he turned and strode away.

"Dr. Maxwell is perfectly wonderful!" declared Miss Medbury, looking after his erect figure, with an obviously flattering heart. "He gives his services to the Home and he's performed some wonderful operations that have saved some of our children from being handicapped all their lives. Isn't it splendid of him—when he has one of the biggest and most exclusive practices in New York? But they say he'll turn down a rich patient for a charity case any time, if he thinks the charity case needs him."

"Really?" Sybil's red mouth was accentual. She looked deadly bored.

"Don't you think he's wonderfully attractive?" pursued Miss Medbury, with a sigh.

"I think he's wonderfully conceited," said Sybil shortly.

Miss Medbury, looked crestfallen, but for once, she had no chance for a reply. Dick Sheldon, driving in at that moment, hailed Sybil and, springing from his car, hastened to her side.

Miss Mayhury who had been weaving a romance between Dearborn and his beautiful "secretary," had her dreams dashed by Sybil's enthusiastic welcome of the newcomer.

Sybil was glad to see him. She needed Dick to turn her thoughts away from the odious Dr. Maxwell and his disagreeable airs.

As for Dick, he gazed at her, surrounded by her city, but admiring, small-girl throng, with his heart in his eyes.

"You look like a modern Madonna," he whispered to her, as he grasped both her hands. "Sybil, you've no idea how beautiful you are with children around you."

She was driving away in young Sheldon's car, when Dr. Maxwell returned from the beach. He removed his hat and bowed to her, but there was a tiny, ironical smile on his handsome face, as if he fully understood the situation and was a trifle wearied by having an old story repeated so many times.

CHAPTER 51.
FRESH FIELDS AND PASTURES NEW

As the weeks passed, Sybil decided that Oliver Dearborn had apparently accepted his defeat. She didn't hear from him, but, by keeping in touch with "Beatrice" and Miss Medbury, she learned that he was still quite "wonder ful."

He didn't dare be, otherwise. Poor Dearborn, lived in hourly dread that Sybil's money would get out. He knew he'd be the butt of endless laughter, if he have spent thousands of dollars to prepare a summer home for a beautiful young woman, only to find oneself the host of a horde of city waifs! And that for a man who prided himself on his shrewdness, his wariness, his cautiousness! It was humiliating, and frightening—from a financial point of view, which was also a consideration to Dearborn.

His supposed generosity, of course, did not pass unnoticed. The Board of Trustees of the Home voted a public statement of thanks. He was highly praised by other charity organizations receiving benefactions. But he received also many letters of protest and remonstration. Even his estranged father club-mates came to him, one after another, and said:

"That boy Archy Dearborn got very, very drunk last night. He and a couple of Trustees of the Home created a public disturbance. Better look after him, or he'll get into more of that stuff you can count on me for a donation."

Dearborn, writhing inwardly, was forced to smile and depreciate his own goodness, while he read between the lines and very piquancy of the accusations in years. He decided to deal with all his heart, and yet he had to admit that his own infatuation had led him open to just such a catastrophe. He cursed himself for ever getting into such a humiliating mess.

Most of all, he had to see the same thought. He didn't care a fig his supposed interest in the little boys' home. Miss Medbury was there to see to it that he didn't. When, on the first day appointed for his regular visit, he failed to show up, she telephoned him. He pretended to be feeling ill, but the excuse threw her into such a flutter, and she made so many requests to be allowed to "do something" that he was tormented for fear they'd come charging into town. Fortunately for his club didn't admit women, but he had alarming visions of her seeking the place.

So, toward evening, he sends a telephone message and went down. After that his visit was a punctilious affair, and, though he dreaded the ordeal, he experienced a shamefaced glow when he encountered the honest delight in the little face grouped around him. It was a novel sensation, new and very pleasant to him.

But there was only wrath in his heart for Sybil. He wondered how he could have been such a fool as ever to have found her beautiful—as ever to have wanted her—the scheming, malicious little hussy! He never want ed to see her again.

All of which Sybil guessed, and it troubled her not at all. She had fin ished with Oliver Dearborn. He had served his purpose in allowing her to make a fool of him. She was already looking around for fresh game, and Dick Sheldon was closest at hand.

While she kept him dangling, neither definitely accepting or refusing his proposal of marriage, she was casting about for the best way to hurt him. It wasn't easy to devise a means for destroying Dick, she discovered. He was a nice boy and possessed neither the vanity of Serge Patton or the pretentiousness of Oliver Dearborn. He wasn't a libertine, like Arthur Winslow or an old reprobate, like Dan Brady. But he did love her with his perpetual declarations of affection, and he wasn't particularly clever, for all his boyish enthusiasm. His conversation outside of his love-making was all about the army and aviation and his ambition to be chief of staff some day.

And one day, while she struggled with her reluctance to add him to the list of her victims, he said naively: "You've no idea how ambitious I am, Sybil. Why, I mean to get anything I want in my path. Some people it's hard to stick at an ideal, but by Jove I'm doing it. Once down south," he flushed a trifle, "there was a girl who nearly fooled me. I thought an awful lot of her—I was only a kid then—but I'd already made up my mind as to what I was going to be, and you know, in the army a wife can help you or ruin you. Well, this girl was just a shy little thing who was frightened to death if she had to give just a little party, and I—I broke with her. It nearly killed her," he admitted ruefully, and with a certain irrepressible pride. "She raised an awful fuss I felt like a yellow dog, but I wasn't going to ruin my career at the start, just for her."

He looked at Sybil, appealing for sympathy, and she smiled back at him in apparent understanding, but she was saying to herself:

"I knew it! Men are all alike!"

When he had left her, she sat for a long time, staring into space.

One day, the following week, she was to lunch with him. It was his first leave from the field, after a steady session of flying in preparation for a grand inspection by officers from Washington the following week-end.

Just before noon he rang her up from Mineola.

"Sybil, beautiful, I'm frightfully cut up, but I'll have to break our engagement. The inspection has been set forward, and we're in a frenzy of preparation out here. There'll be no leaves granted until the big parade is over. Will you dine with me next Saturday evening, instead?"

Sybil was thinking fast. Afterward she told herself that her plan didn't spring full-born from her active brain at that moment; she claimed that she only wanted to test her power over him.

"Oh, Dick!" she protested reproachfully, "I—I wanted to see you specially this evening to—to ask your advice about something—I'm frightfully worried—can't you possibly manage to "Impossible, I'm afraid. Leaves simply don't get given."

"But couldn't you slip off for a while, without any one finding out."

He laughed.

"Remember what I told you about discipline."

"Yes. But, Dick, I'm really sick out. I'm frightened. Oh, I can't tell you over the phone, but I believe my life is in danger. Won't you come?"

SINCLAIR'S

A-lvice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am in my early teens. I go with a crowd of boys and girls about my own age, all seem to be very unpopular. Each girl of the crowd has a boy friend, except me.

I am not pretty and I know this is a big drawback. Some of the other girls are not pretty either, but they are a none the less popular I am not allowed to have boys call at my home as yet, but neither are the other girls.

I am always left out I swimming parties, even though I am a very good swimmer. Isn't left out of everything. Do only looks count?

Please help me in my loneliness.

HEARTBROKEN.

HEARTBROKEN: No, "looks" are not the only means to popularity. It frequently happens that the belle of a b'll is a girl with no especial claims to physical excellence.

Personality is infinitely more important than mere prettiness. Be gay and natural. Dress in good taste. Develop all of your capabilities. In short make yourself an interesting companion and people will surely seek you out.

That is advice that will probably be more useful to you a few years from now. But it never hurts to know what the the ingredients of personality. At the moment, however, just try to lose your self-consciousness. Don't try to hard to be popular.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl of sixteen and am in love with a young man my age. He has asked me to marry him, but my father says no. I marry a man if I love him, but don't want to disobey my father.

Please give me some advice.

WORRIED.

WORRIED: You are much too young to think of marriage now, my dear, and I am certain your father realizes this. Give up all thoughts of marriage, go about with your friends and have a jolly good time. Then, when you are older and more mature you can face the problem competently

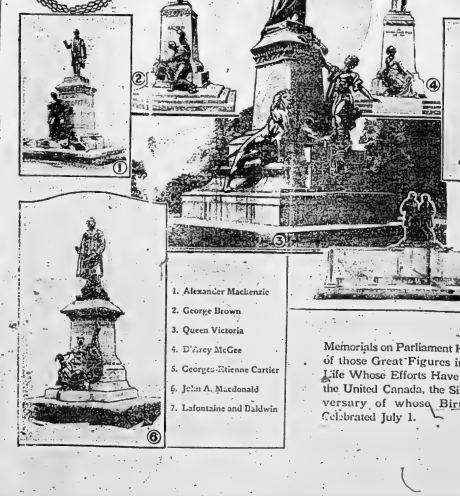

As for the man of forty whom you say your father wishes you to marry—dismiss the thought. In all probability your father has suggested this mere ly to discourage you from getting married now. No man who has the welfare of his daughter at heart would suggest that she plan to spend the rest of her life with a man more than twice her age.

BETHANY PEOPLE BID FAREWELL UPON DEPARTURE

Over eighty friends of Mr. and Mrs. Casey gathered at their home in Bethany on Tuesday evening, June 21st to say farewell to them on the eve of their leaving for their new home. Though deeply touched by the demonstration of their neighbours alarm at their leaving their midst and feeling keenly the fact that they were about to sever connections with valued friends of years, Mr. and Mrs. Casey proved themselves ideal hosts and a happy evening was spent by all present during which the following address was read to the host and hostess.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Casey:

Your departure from our midst brings to mind those lines of Longfellows poem, "They shall fold their tents like the Arabs and as silently steal away". We were scarcely ably to realize the fact, that you were going until you were gone. So we have just followed you to your new home tonight to spent a social hour with you, and to express our sincere regrets that owing to ill-health, you have been obliged to retire from the more active duties of life, and that this meant leaving our neighbourhood. We shall indeed miss you in our homes, in the W. M. S. and in the Church. You have been jolly, good comrades along the pathway of life and we are sorry to lose you from our midst. We are glad you are not so far away, but that we shall be able to see you quite frequently. And now we ask you to accept this lamp, hoping that it will be a constant reminded to you both of your many friends at Bethany and that its rays may ever brighten the pathway before you.

Signed on behalf of your friends at Bethany,

W. Bradshaw.

Although taken by surprise Mr. and Mrs. Casey hardly responded their appreciation of the kindness shown and hoped to meet them all in many future social gatherings.

A Railway Safety Device

The Safety Department of the Canadian National Railways has introduced a safety device which can be installed on hand cars and motors to prevent derailments. The device consists of four metal brackets placed in front and rear of the wheels, as shown in the illustration, two of the brackets horizontally and vertically.

Exhaustive tests were made with a gasoline car to which three brackets were attached, a speed varying from ten to thirty miles an hour, and it was clearly demonstrated that those brackets held the car intact on the rails.

COAST CURRENTS ARE FATHOMED

Bottles Dropped At Different Points Aid To Geologists

Vancouver, B.C., June 24.—Captain B. Crawford, secretary of the big motorship Anangi, plying between here and Australia, has done much more perhaps than an navigator now operating these waters to ascertain the nature of the Pacific Ocean's currents.

For more than twenty years, Captain Crawford, who was the sobriquet of "the bottle skipper", has been carrying out the practice of dropping bottles overboard at different points on his run, bearing a paper showing the longitude and latitude of the place where the bottle was deposited.

These fragile craft, borne along by the current, are later picked up at sea or where they strand on shore, the location of their discovery is recorded and forwarded to government hydrographic headquarters. Many scores of Captain Crawford's bottles have been reported so. Three were picked up only recently, one recording a drift of 2150 miles in fifteen months. The bottles may have made fast time, one drifted 1450 miles in thirteen months, while another made 700 miles in seven months—as they may have lain on the shore undiscovered for a month before being picked up.

One of the bottles was found among the coral reefs of one of the Drake group of islands. Another was found on one of the Caroline Islands, and the third was picked up on the Oregon coast.

GOT HIS REFUND

After four years, P. A. Meyer got his dupe. He put 10 cents too much in the fare box of a San Francisco car and asked for a refund. The conductor took his name and address. The company mailed him two tickets to cover the amount. That was four years ago. Meyed had moved. The tickets started with him, finally catching him in Honolulu. Then the company received a letter from him at a Manila address. The tickets he sent back had expired and he asked for new ones. They went to his son in San Francisco, thereby closing the case.

DOGGEREL THAT BROUGHT PRICE

London, June 24 (C.P.)—The original manuscript of "Lipilus's "Absent-minded Beggar,"—a song which in the days of the South African War had a vogue which was not equalled by that aroused by "Tipperary" in the Great War—has been sold here at auction for £39. The manuscript also bears the music, written and signed by Sir Arthur Sullivan.

How the "Absent-minded Beggar" came to be written is an interesting story. The Daily Mail, which incidentally offered Kipling £1,000 to act as its war correspondent in South Africa, an offer which was declined, wanted a song to further its appeal for funds to assist the families of Reservists and others serving in the South African War. The Mail commissioned Kipling to write the same, at a fee of £250, and also secured Sullivan to get it to music for a fee of one hundred guineas.

According to the late Kennedy Jones, who was Northcliffe's right-hand man for many years on the Mail, when Kipling produced his verses there was an office consultation as to whether they should be used for the purpose intended or merely printed as a topical war item. Kennedy Jones compared the utter doggerell or lisese mes wun "Recessional," which was inspired by the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria. However, the Mail decided to go ahead, but at once found themselves in another difficulty. Sullivan had the "Absent-minded Beggar" before him for several days, and then came to the Mail office with the confession that he was completely at a loss for rythm or metre for such verses. He begged to be excused from his contract.

Kennedy Jones, especially amongst the men who worked for him, would be the last to be suspected of any genius for harmonic fluency, looked at the words again for a few moments. "Why," he said, "they run on the lines of the air to 'Tommy Atkins'" (another well-known soldier song of the period.) Jones hummed the tune to Sullivan. "Eureka," assped Sullivan. Within a couple of days he was back with the music completed.

The song brought in over a quarter of a million sterling for the benefit of soldiers' dependants.

"I Now Enjoy a Good Meal"

What stronger statement can anyone make who has suffered from Indigestion

Renzyme, the new scientific treatment for indigestion is making many friends in this community. It is so absolutely different from anything else and so prompt in affording relief that it makes its way by sheer force of merit.

This new treatment is after the nature of insulin, since it supplies to the stomach the active principle which brings about the digestion of the food, just as insulin carries on the work of the pancreas.

Again it is like insulin because it is taken from the digestive organ—the stomach of animals and after suitable preparation administered to the human stomach.

Digestion is brought about in the stomach by means of digestive juices, which attack the food in the stomach and break it down into ingredients which can be absorbed by the blood.

For one reason or another, these digestive fluids become dried up and you suffer from indigestion. The active principles of the digestive fluids are known as enzymes. By introducing new enzymes to the digestive fluids of the stomach, you positively remove the cause of indigestion.

This is exactly what this new discovery, which is known as Renzyme, does. It supplies enzymes to the digestive fluids and therefore immediately restores their effectiveness in digesting food in the stomach.

Someone has said that the soul of man is in the pit of his stomach. One thing certain, one cannot accomplish much or enjoy life while suffering from indigestion.

For centuries scientists have sought relief from stomach troubles. All sorts of drug combinations have been tried without affording more than temporary relief.

Now the problem has been solved by the discovery of Renzyme. It is only after years of work in the laboratory and almost endless experiments that this product has been perfected in a form that will keep indefinitely when bottled.

The merit and effectiveness of Renzyme has been thoroughly established in hundreds of cases and medical doctors who have watched its action in chronic indigestion are most enthusiastic in its praise.

It is nature's relief for indigestion. It is immediately effective and cannot fail because it transfers from one stomach to another the active principle which brings about digestion of the food.

ONTARIO FLOWED WITH ALCOHOL

Records Reveal Huge Quantities Entered Province Under Cover

St. John N.B., June 24.—Records of the United States government which were examined by Auditors for the Royal Customs commission, revealed the fact that a group operating through Niagara Falls has moved thousands of gallons of American alcohol into Canada. From 1923 to 1926 it is estimated 150,000 gallons of this American alcohol crossed into Canada by the underground route. According to A. E. Nash, commission auditor, who gave some indication of what has been found during the sitting here today, the documents show that Max Wortzman, with a Toronto address was the biggest single importer of this alcohol. Counsel for the Commission had attempted to sub-poena him during the Montreal sittings. Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., stated, but had been unable to locate him, his bank account however, was investigated and showed transactions from 1923 to 1926 of $1,500,000 the quantity of smuggled alcohol which Wortzman dealt in was estimated at 80,000 gallons.

Victoria, B. C., June 23.—The moving picture industry of southern California is taking heavy toll of the old sailing ships of the North Pacific. The latest acquisition is the Lirio de Agua, who will wind up a somewhat picturesque career at sea by being used as a setting for one of Joseph Conrad's sea stories to be filmed shortly by a Hollywood company.

SOVIETS' TRADE WITH DOMINION WAS NOT LARGE

Canada Chiefly Exported Agricultural Machinery To Russia

Washington, D.C., June 22 (Canadian Press).—In view of Canada's severance of trade relations with Russia, the newly published story of trade between the Union of Soviet Socialistic Republics, prepared by the Soviet information Bureau, is of interest. It says:

Pre-war trade between Russia and Canada for the period of 1909 to 1913 amounted to $1,777,000. The import of Canadian agricultural machinery and farm implements was the predominating item in this total. Russian exports consisted chiefly of raw furs and small quantities of apparel and household goods. The latter were destined for Russian settlers in Canada, due to their Conservative tastes.

From 1917 to 1921 trade relations between Canada and the U.S.S.R. were interrupted by the blockade.

In 1921 tank cars, for the sum of $610,000, were bought for the Soviet oil fields of Gromy. In the course of the next two years trade relations between Canada and the Soviet Union had not yet been established properly.

In 1924 the Soviet Union, owing to the failure of its crops, bought large quantities of wheat and flour in Canada for the sum of twenty million dollars. Besides this $422,956.00 worth of other Canadian goods were imported into the Soviet Union during the same year.

The Official Agency and Trade Delegation of the Soviet Union established in Montreal in 1924, for Canada, at that time, signed the Trade Agreement that was concluded in 1921 between Great Britain and the U.S.S.R. With the establishment of normal trade relations between the two countries, the turnover of foreign trade has been growing year by year.

Gum-Dipping
A Firestone Contribution to Economical Travel

The greatest enemy to tire life is not the chopped-up road, the broken pavement or the harsh grind of rough city streets—but heat, which is created by internal friction. Heat not only weakens the fabric, but also softens the rubber and causes blowouts and tire failures.

Firestone chemists and engineers knew that if they could find a way to eliminate this destructive heat and internal friction, the mileage-giving qualities of tires would be greatly increased. Such a method was found and called Gum-Dipping.

The Gum-Dipping process is one of Firestone's contributions to economize travel—it insulates and impregnates every fibre of every cord with rubber, reducing internal friction and at the same time binding the cords together by a stronger union of rubber, thus giving greater strength and flexibility to the tire.

Firestone dealers everywhere—familiar with Gum-Dipping and its advantages—will gladly explain how thousands of extra miles are built into Firestone tires by this exclusive method. Take advantage of the Gum-Dipping process to lower your tire costs this year.

Ontario leads in Practice of Road-building Science

Don't apologise for Ontario roads. The day is past when they do not compare with those of any other Province or State.

Road-building to carry modern traffic is a new science. It has been developed by practical effort, and in this development Ontario has taken a leading part.

In addition to the intelligent study and experimentation of the Highway Department engineers, a host of county engineers have devoted themselves not only to following the best practices in road-building but to perfecting new methods and practices and letting fellow-engineers know of them.

It was in Ontario that the practice of putting on gravel or crushed stone in thin layers was first proven to be more economical as well as more safe to drive. "Feeding the road" it is called. The practice has spread beyond Canada and now is followed in many of the United States.

Ontario Highway Department engineers developed the asphaltic mixed macadam which is a hot asphalt mixed with gravel or crushed stone. In ten minutes after being laid it is hard enough for traffic. Detours are not necessary while this construction is being put down. It is safe to predict that other Provinces and countries will avail themselves of this discovery at an early date.

It's Motor-picnic weather now

Do you know any better outing for your family than a motor-picnic? Is there anything more enjoyable or health-giving than a day or a half day in the country, by stream or lake or in some cool and shady wood?

The automobile keeps the family together. The motor-picnic furnishes enjoyment for all.

Not far from where you live are beautiful nature spots. Perhaps you will have to go off the main highway to find them. It is worth while following some unfrequented road that leads to placid lake or limpid stream.

Highways have been made safe

You can help to keep them safe

In building the highways every consideration has been given to the safety of those who use them.

The greatest factor for safety now lies in automobile drivers themselves. When you go on the road, see that your brakes, lights, and steering gear are in good condition.

When you are on the road, practice caution at spots where danger may arise. Watch the warning signs for cross roads, railroads, or other dangers. Be careful in villages or where pedestrians are using the road. Be courteous in traffic.

The increased speed limit does not lessen one degree the responsibility of the driver for caution and courtesy on the road.

CENTENARIAN IN FINEST HEALTH

Walkerville, Ont., June 24.—(Canadian Press)—Mrs. Zoe Grodin of Amherstburgh, who is possibly the oldest woman in Canada celebrated her 105th birthday on June 21.

In 1822, a year after Napoleon died at St. Helena, when the Iroquois war whoop rang through the forest clear rings of haunted Quebec, there was born to Louis Brodeur and his wife a baby girl, Zoe.

Hon. Louis Brodeur is a direct descendant of her father.

When Zoe was 12 years old, her parents trekked by Ox cart from Quebec to Amherstburgh, a journey which occupied three months, and at Amherstburgh Zoe Brodeur has lived ever since. Eighty-four years ago she married Louis Grodin, who lived long enough for them to celebrate their golden wedding. Zoe's mother lived to the age of 94, while her father died at the age of 101.

To-day she recalls a century's events and her hearing is good. She can read and sew without glasses. She never had any children, but she and her husband adopted two boys. She has always smoked a pipe and still enjoys it. The facility with which she can switch from French to English is hard to understand by the strictly one-lanuage person. She speaks calmly of her death which she knows must soon come, and says it does not matter if one has lived well.

For the past thirty-four years she has lived with her niece, Mrs. Israel Mayville. At present she is at Granville with a grandson-by-adoption—on a visit.

BOOKS OF LIVY AND SAPPHO MAY BE DISCOVERED

Naples, June 18 (Canadian Press)—Excavations now under way at the buried city of Herculaneum are expected to bring to light many archeological treasures, possibly including the long-sought books of Livy and some of the missing odes of Sappho. Historians and students of literature, as well as archaeologists, are thrilled by the imminence of such finds and interest in the work of research is intense throughout the civilized world.

In the year 79 A.D. Mount Vesuvius inundated the sister cities of Herculaneum and Pompeii with molten lava. Pompeii yielded up her buried treasures years ago and her name became a household word, but Herculaneum has retained its more intriguing secrets for the scientists of today.

Nineteen years ago an international syndicate was proposed which was to supply funds for scientific excavation but the scheme waned to a premature death. The lost town lay undisturbed until a few weeks ago when King Victor dug the first shovelful of earth in this latest sortie against the past. The present undertaking has a strong backer in the person of Mussolini.

In the excavation of Pompeii the method employed was tunnelling, with the consequence that the old magnificos were undermined and reduced to a state of ruination which Vesuvius and the centuries had failed to bring about. The operations now in progress are being conducted in a different manner, the plan being to dig down from the present surface to the old street level. Thus, when the excavation is completed, the buildings of Herculaneum will be seen as they existed before the great eruption, adding greatly to the value of the work.

For man reasons this is considered to be one of the most important archeological undertakings of recent times. Wall paintings, pottery, mosaics, statues and other remains will certainly be brought to light in abundance, while the digging out and restoring of buildings of the first century anno dominl will in itself constitute a most valuable achievement. It is stated authoritatively that it will be possible to disinter the entire city.

One of the most interesting phases of the work is supplied by the belief that the last books of the Roman Historian, Livy, and certain odes of the Greek poet, Sappho, which are unknown to scholars of today, lie waiting beneath the wreckage of Herculaneum. Livy was a prolific writer but only a small portion of his work has been preserved to modern times.

INDIAN POLES CENTURIES OLD

Victoria, B.C., Jun 21.—Many of the red cedar totem poles that now stand as truths to tell the past at hill-deserted Indian villages along the British Columbia coast are more than four centuries old, in the opinion of the Canadian Timber Company, a prominent lumberman and a student of Indian lore.

While other parts of the boleslatter disappeared many years ago, two large totem poles still stand at the entrance of what was once the tribal headquarters of an Indian tribe at Kyuquot, Vancouver Island, Mr. Johnson says. He believes that the poles were hewn from giant trees that probably were standing in the days of old prior to the Norman invasion and conquest of Britain, for the trees must have been several centuries old when they were cut.

The poles are carved with the customary Indian designs of the period, the figures representing persons and animals and supernatural beings believed to be associated with the generation of the family to which they were erected.

PERSONALITY IS BIG FACTOR IN BROADWAY JOBS

New York, N. Y., June 18.—Jobs in Broadway show shops are won by personality, and the stage struck small town girl or boy has a chance.

This is the observation of Chamberlain Brown, who keeps in his files the records of thousands of actors and actresses.

It is true that talent and training are important factors. But most of the jobseekers, Brown asserts, possess one or both, in varying degrees, so that in the final tryout it is personality, like the voice with a smile, that wins.

Brown is one of New York's best known casting agents. For nearly 15 years the hopes of would-be Thespians and the expectation of "stars" have centered his office, sometimes to be gratified with a job or contract, other times to be met with familiar words, "We have nothing for you today."

Several instances of beginners who have won through perseverance were cited by the man who supplies shows with their casts.

A young man came to me. I took his name and asked where I could get him later. He said he lived on Broadway. I was astonished, but it was true.

"He looked as if he hadn't eaten that day. I offered him a small sum of money but he refused it. 'I just want the opportunity to act,' he said. He was not in a movie studio that wanted extras. Now he is regularly employed by the same motion picture company and is on the way up.

Brown unfolded a "typical" letter that he had just received from a girl in a little Tennessee town. It was penciled in round, school-girl script. He wanted to know how she could get on the stage and how much she could earn.

"I learn quick and am just about one of the best looking girls there is around here," she added.

"What will you do with this letter, knowing it?" Brown was asked.

"Oh, no. Like others of its kind, it will be answered with a request for her photograph and further specifications regarding her talents. When the correspondence sounds encouraging and the picture shows personality, I invite the writer to come to see me if possible. Now and then I find them. For instance, a girl who wrote a good deal like this one, came to see me. She thought she had the talents of a great artist. I sent her to a vaudeville theatre for a tryout. She went through a monologue that she intended to be serious. It was so funny, although she didn't know it was, that the manager gave her a week's engagement. She has been playing in vaudeville ever since."

There are just as many stage struck girls and boys as ever, if enquiries addressed to Brown are an indication. Many years persons, not content with writing to him, besiege his office. They and all kinds of actors, actresses, vaudeville performers and motion picture players, wait outside his door for a chance to put in their applications.

"They lie in wait for me and almost prevent me from going downstairs when the office is closed," Brown said. And each is heard by Brown himself.

"Some try and go to pieces," he continued. "I tell them not to be discouraged if they have talent. And they keep around, always hopeful that tomorrow will bring them a job."

"Do the beginners expect too large a salary? No, there isn't much trouble over terms. They are too anxious to succeed."

ESKIMOS GUESTS OF VANCOUVER

Vancouver, B. C., June 22.—Two youngsters from the Arctic circle have been the guests of Vancouver lately. Joe and Pete, full-blooded Eskimos from Herschel Island came south with Bishop Stringer and will go north again soon to take a course at the missionary school at Carcross, Yukon where some of their countrymen are studying.

It was the first visit of Joe and Pete to a city and they marvelled at what they saw. Joe is sixteen and Pete fourteen, and until a few months ago they were accustomed to the semi-barbarous life of the Arctic frontier their home an ice hut and their most familiar means of transportation a dog team or kyak.

When they return to their own land they will not live in ice huts they say. They have seen too much of the world to make it possible for them to go back to the conditions of their own country they will live in wooden houses like one of the settlements and go in for trading, as well as do their part in spreading the Christian gospel among their own folk.

While airplanes, automobiles, dirigibles liners amazed them, yet they found greater amusement in their observations of the women down here. Joe and Pete agree, "They are all so different. In our country they look the same and dress the same—but here they are very different.

PURE ICE CREAM
AN IDEAL HOT WEATHER FOOD
Moores' Make Noted For Good Quality And Flavour

Feeling the heat now that it is here at last? Most of us are, for it has taken a long time to come and we're certainly not used to it.

But here's a tip for you, on the ideal summer diet—and it's pure ice cream. Not just any ice cream, but the best—and that's the kind made at Moores on Front street in the Anglo-American building.

It is a significant fact that the firm which made it possible for you to buy this summer food at a cheaper price is the firm which is turning out the best ice cream in the city. And you'd it isn't funny, for with the public demonstrating by their patronage that can they believe Moores Ice Cream to be better, it is to be expected that it would be cheaper.

But cheaper, not because made with inferior ingredients; on the other hand Moores Ice Cream is made from pure cream and fresh fruit flavors, and can stand a test with any ice cream made at any price, but it is cheaper, because the volume of business done permits a lower price.

No better food than pure ice cream such as this can be found for summer The whole family likes it, its cheap yet most nourishing, and takes no trouble to prepare and serve. You can give it the children and be sure they're eating the best food obtainable.

MARKED TREND TOWARDS BETTER STORE FRONTS

Decoration Work Of A1 Sign Studio Is Distinctive

A-1 SIGN

Notice how many of our Front St merchants are painting up these days and generally improving the appearance of their properties and of the street.

Noticeable too, is the fact that most of the painting and decorating work being done just now in the city is of a higher class and more artistic in nature than has been the case in the past. Those ugly loud colors that seemed just to "hit you in the eye" are giving place to attractive colors, which are really a treat to the eye and express well in many cases the nature and quality of the business conducted by the firm.

One of the chief reasons why this is so is the fact that merchants now days are realizing that it pays to leave the color scheme largely in the hands of an experienced sign-man or decorator. They realize that his business is painting and decorating and that his training makes him the logical man to know what colors will be best adopted for your place.

The A-1 Sign Studio at 140 Front street, Fred Smythe, Manager, has been responsible for an immense improvement in the appearance of Belleville store fronts in the past two or three years. Both in sign painting and also from from painting it has been turning out work distinctly better and different than what has been obtainable in this city in the past.

A phone-call to 636 will put you in touch with this high class sign painting organization.

NEW DODGE SIX NOW ON DISPLAY IN BELLEVILLE

Dodge "Senior Line" Has Every Fine Car Feature

Today marks one of the most important events in Dodge Brothers history —the introduction of the first model of the company's new line of five to six cylinder motor cars. The car put on display today by Bartley and Legge, Front Street local Dodge Brothers dealers is a four-door sedan—an impressive looking vehicle which is said to possess a truly remarkable motor.

Within a few weeks two additional body types, a four-passenger coupe and a new type of cabriolet roadster, will be the new line of "sixes."

Elaborate preparations for the advent of the six cylinder cars have been made by Dodge Brothers. Each local construction work was begun on one of the largest factory buildings in the world and throughout the winter and spring was rushed to completion.

Actual production of the six cylinder line was started early in May. The initial production rate was about 50 cars a day. This has been rapidly stepped up from week to week and daily output is now running approximately 200. By the end of June when the two additional body types will be in production, it will run fully 300 cars a day.

Senior Line is Impressive

While the Senior Line embodies nothing fakish, either in construction or performance, it is presented by Dodge Brothers at the last word in comfort and performance for cars in or near this price class. Beauty of design, exceptional performance, style and comfort of interior appointments, and ease and economy of operation are major attributes.

Crankshaft Heavier Than in Similar Motors

One of the most impressive features of the motor is the extremely heavy crankshaft and unusually large bearing area. The crankshaft is machined all over and weighs 69 pounds. Heavier than is used in any other engine of similar capacity, it is supported by seven extra large bearings. This fact, combined with exceeding rigidity results in a smoothness of operation that is said to be excelled by no car, regardless of price.

The motor is of the L-head type, chosen by Dodge Brothers engineers because of the simplicity of the valve mechanism and relatively infrequent need of adjustment. The bore is 3 1-4 inches and the stroke 4 1-2 inches, with 223.68 cubic inches displacement. Its taxable horse power is 25.35, N. A. C. C. rating.

The crankshaft bearings and connecting rod bearings have greater areas than are found in other motors of this capacity.

Efficient Carburetion System

The carburetion system used in the latest type, designed to secure maximum efficiency in fuel economy and power.

Single Plate Type of Clutch Used

A single plate type of clutch is used. Its design is similar to that used on many of the highest priced cars such as Hispano Suiza, Pierce Arrow, Marmon, McFarlan, Locomobile, Pierpont, Sunbeam, Daimler, Rozenberg and the British Rolls-Royce. It is exceptionally easy and quiet to operate.

Four Wheel Hydraulic Brakes

All cars in the Senior Line are equipped with the most advanced design of Lockheed four-wheel, internal expand ing, hydraulically operated brakes. The hydraulic system is automatically replenished and requires attention only at long intervals, possibly every seven or eight thousand miles.

The springs are of chrome vanadium steel and are semi-elliptic in type. The front spring length is 37 inches and the rear 55 1-2 inches. The rear springs are underslung.

Bartley and Legge Local Dodge Dealers will be pleased to demonstrate the New Dodge Six.

CITIZENS HERE ENJOY LOW DRY CLEANING RATES

Sprague's Are Turning Out Work That Satisfies Everyone

Dropping around here and there a few days ago to see the state business was in locally in various lines, we happened to land into Sprague's Cleaners and Dyers of Front Street, and it was one spot where business was sure good.

You've likely heard how, a few months ago, Sprague's decided to lower Dry Cleaning prices in Belleville and by a larger turnover and smaller profit, give the patrons, men and women alike, the benefit of a real saving. Well, they lowered the cleaning rate to exactly one dollar on gents suits and ours, ladies' dresses gowns coats, etc. (plain) and promised to continue the low rate as long as the local public showed them they wanted really to save money on their cleaning.

That was three or four months ago Sprague's still have the one dollar rate in effect—indication enough that they are giving the public real value and satisfactory work. If you haven't tried Sprague's service and benefited by their lower rates, get in line and phone today.

GROWING DEMAND FOR GERM-FREE AND CLEAR ICE

Graham's Ice Used By More Each Week—Is Cheaper

Again comes the time for the use of ice and again the question crops up, just what does all this talk about the need for care in selecting the ice to be used amount to?

It is an undisputed fact that ice made from impure water of lakes and rivers, may carry into your home germs just as if the water itself were brought into the house. Contagious disease may easily be spread in this way, and the householder can not exercise too much care in the selection of pure ice. Graham's Ice is made on the premises from pulest water, and is guaranteed pure and clear in every way No possible chance for disease germs to lurk in it and perhaps your food and your drinking water. Moreover Graham's Ice is so packed in dry sawdust that as the ice melts the drain pipe of your refrigerator is left clean and hard. Moreover it costs no more than ordinary ice but on the contrary, because it is harder, it is actually cheaper. These are the reasons Graham's business doubled last season

THIRTY-SIX HOUR ENDURANCE TEST

Gene Garbutt And Roy Salisbury Start Long Vigil At Garage

Talk about perseverance! How would you like to sit thirty six hours with but one cushion separating you from the cold pavement, all for the privilege of buying a Used Car?

But circumstances alter cases, and it that our happening on the Automobile Master Six worth about two hundreds dollars, and through the simple process of sitting at an Garage inside it "soft" in which all you had to do was sit on a cushion and draw down about $5.50 per hour for the next thirty six hours?

Messrs. Gene Barbutt and Roy Salisbury, two local young men, thing so. At eight o'clock last evening, enticed by an offer of the Sale by selling that one at $1.98, took their positions at the door and patiently began their long vigil through the night, and the endurance test is still in progress, to terminate at 8 A. M. to-morrow when the doors open to Tuesday buyers.

Buying a car on shares may not originality work out very well, but buying it on a thirty six hour vigil makes it better, for the shift system possible makes the task a whole lot easier.

The two young men report that about 12.30 Sunday evening another "hopeful" appeared with blankets, but —with the stand occupied—all hope was blasted, and he moved along. Came yet another couple in the small hours of the morning, and these like the others saw the $1.98 car take wings and fly, for its a straight case of first come, first served.

And with the car at the above price they'll be given five gallons of gas, if you please. Worth waiting for, don't you think?

BRITAIN SUGGESTS RESTRICTIONS OF ARMAMENTS IN CAPITAL CRUISERS

Consul General Outlines Proposals To Geneva Conference

SECOND WEEK

Japanese Promise To Make Reply On Problem Tonight.

Geneva, June 27.—British hopes that fresh instructions from Washington would enable the United States delegation to come into line with them as regards the question of limiting the size of capital ships and the size and gun calibre of cruisers had not been fulfilled when tri-partite naval conference began its second week to-day.

It is emphasized what the United States is for, is the limitation of the tonnage of all auxiliary craft, whereas all that Great Britain has yet proposed is the restriction on the designing of future capital ships and cruisers and restrictions as to their armament with no approximate tonnage limitation yet suggested. The Japanese, who also had a holiday over the week-end, remained silent as to their intentions, but they promised to divulge something definite to-day.

The Consul General outlined the British suggestions as follows:

Reduction in the tonnage of Capital ships to thirty thousand tons and the limitation of size of the guns from sixteen inches to 13.5 inches, extension of life of capital ships from twenty to twenty six years.

Equal start by all powers in construction of the new capital ships.

Construction by Great Britain and the United States of fifteen ten-thousand ton cruisers.

SPECIAL SERVICE AT TABERNACLE

Flower Sunday was celebrated at Tabernacle United Church, the Tabernacle United Sunday School. J. E. Walmsley Supt. conducted the scholars on Canada and Confederation.

He said sixty years ago the settlers of the Dominion were just emerging home from the fields of carnage.

Some of freedom for the slaves had ended, but the military forces were in a menacing attitude. Thus a wide million loose and lawless men were wanting other words to conquer, but the government of Canada took a wiser way of conquest. They passed an Act permitting Canada to become a State of the Union.

The Fenian Raid was another gesture of that fact. Fenianism had no effect of helping to consolidate opinion in favor of a confederation of the various Provinces of Canada into United we stand—divided we may fall, was patent to all. This fact Confederation took place on July 1, 1867, we are celebrating the union of those wise leaders of that day.

The Dominion of Canada, as this one has been called, is looked by the worlds best and last chance. There is no other hope elsewhere to conquer; no other places for homes so alluring on God's earth. Her broad acres conceal enormous unused agricultural land than is to be had in the whole of the United States. Her forests, and forest products are just beginning to go to every land and are the envy of many. Her gold, lead and silver mines lead the world in produc-ed for the coming generations. Her fisheries are the envy of the nations and their products abound in the waters of the Atlantic on the east, and

Thursday at noon is the latest that entries will be received for the event and those wishing to take part are cautioned not to delay too long in getting in their entries in order that they may avoid disappointment because they posted their entries too late.

JUBILEE SERVICE WELL ATTENDED AT BRIDGE ST.

Alan Sprague, Youthful Local Orator Occupies Pulpit

O guard our shores from every foe; Plant peace our borders bless; With prosperous time our cities crown Our fields with plenteousness.

An enormously large congregation featured the Patriotic Day Service held in Bridge Street United Church last night, a service held in commemorate Canada's Diamond Jubilee, 1867-1927, and typical of peace and prosperity. The service was divided into four messages: a Message of Unity, a message of Loyalty, a message of peace and a message of Brotherhood. Inspiring addresses were given by Dr. F. E. Malott, Bridge Street Pastor, and Mr Alan Sprague, Belleville's youthful orator. Mr. Sprague's address in particular was most appropriate, speaking on her Country" Canada, the fairest of all Britain's great dominions. The rendition of Elgar's "Land of Hope and Glory," or sometimes known as "Pomp and Circumstances," by the Bridge Street choir, was also very appropriate to this service.

Alan Sprague took as his subject "Canada's achievements since Confederation."

SOCRATES

SUNSHINE

The Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls and other exponents of the out-of-doors are enjoying benefits of life in the open. They see the things of the world in a new light and understand nature better. They meet friends in the same cause, swap stories and form congenial companionships. Every student of the big out-doors gets new object lessons, makes new resolves and forms new links of character with the day of sunshine.

Sunshine is the test of summer time. It ripens the grain and fruit and gives strength to the camper. All nature has a smiling face when the sun causes the plants to grow, the flowers to open and the fruits to mature. Sunshine induces youth to get out, amid the fields and forests, drink in the pure air and enjoy the healthfulness of exercise in the open.

There are profits in sunshine that one does not always reckon on when planning an outing in the open. It creates beauty and attractiveness and thereby adds to efficiency and usefulness. It helps in fitting one for future work and inculcates a desire for keeping young in order to continue enjoying the playfields of youth days. There are countless benefits to be derived from mingling with the all-outdoors. The sun paints smiles on the cheeks of humanity in ineradicable lines.

FRIDAY'S CELEBRATION

Belleville, along with nearly every other urban centre in the vast Dominion of Canada, will celebrate the 60th birthday of this youthful nation in the form of a day of sports and parades next Friday. Aside from the few who have attended the Committee meetings there has been little active interest taken in the enterprise. It is established rule in Belleville that a certain class of citizens band themselves together in almost any undertaking while others remain at home and read the accounts in the daily press of the progress being made. The Jubilee Celebration is an event of extraordinary importance which requires the whole hearted support of every true blooded Canadian.

Chairman Charlie Hanna has worked unceasingly toward the success of the venture and he has surrounded himself with an able committee of assistants, yet, the arrangements are far from complete and additional aid is always needed in a project of this nature. Only five days remain in which to get things in readiness and no time can be lost.

A feature of the proceedings will be a parade of the school children with patriotic addresses and songs with a chorus of three thousand voices under the direction of V. P. Hunt.

The celebration will continue throughout Saturday and Sunday, winding up with a Thanksgiving Service on the armouries lawn in which the Clergy of the city will assist.

Canada's Celebration is worthy of our best efforts—let us make it such.

JUBILEE WEEK

Canada will mark the 60th anniversary of Confederation this week and every town and village from Cape Breton to Vancouver will celebrate in some way or other the glorious event.

Generally, the Celebration will be marked by a program of sports, carnivals, etc., but, when one stops to consider the question, The fact still remains that more stress should be laid on the patriotic end. Will the children of today retain a lasting impression of this renowned day if the real spirit of Confederation is not taught them?

Do we readily realize the sacrifices that our forefathers had to make in order that we might enjoy our every day privileges, and are we carrying on in the manner that our predecessors would have us do? It is food for thought, and a problem that might well be considered.

P. C. MacLaurin is a recent talk to the Belleville Y's Men Club, struck a new note when he expressed the opinion that every day, of this year should be a Jubilee Day with the British flag displayed as a mark of loyalty to those who have gone before.

FINDING FAULT

Fault is about the only thing that can be found where it does not exist. The fault-finder looks through blue spectacles. The defect is in his vision. Psychology has pretty thorough ly established the fact that ghosts are creations of the subjective mind—and fault-finding is very much like ghost-seeing. You see blurs and blotches which, if properly traced, will be found to begin and end their actual existence in your own eye or stomach or liver. There is nothing else we can look for with so much certainty of finding it in fault and trouble.

If anticipation did not go more than half way to meet troubles most of them would miss their way and never get near you.

They say that one of the things you cannot make or alter is environment—that it is fixed, inflexible, and that you are its slave. That is a pessimistic lie.

The man who thinks the world is full of good people and kindly things is much richer than he who thinks to the contrary. Each man largely peopled the world for himself. Some men live in a world peopled with princes of the royal blood; some in a world of paupers and privation. You have your choice.

To our moods the world is a looking glass. It smiles back at us if we smile; if we frown it frowns.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

She—Do you love me for myself alone?

He—Absolutely. I've got no use for your family at all.

A bright youth undergoing examination for admission to one of the Government departments, found himself confronted with the question:

"What is the distance from the earth to the sun?"

Not knowing the exact number of miles, he wrote in reply:

"I am unable to state accurately, but I don't believe the sun is near enough to interfere with the proper performance of my duties if I get this clerkship."

He passed the examination.

CANADA'S JUBILEE

Full-flushed with youth and inborn loveliness,
Fair stands our Canada: The light of morn
Dwells in her eyes. Her robes are robes of Peace;
Rich fold on fold enwraps her tender form.
A day of growth—but sixty suns—had kissed
Her virgin brow, and lo, her lutelage is over, and she is crowned with nationhood,
The Bride of Honor and an Empire's pride!
High-minded statesmen nobly planned and built,
And opened wide her doors where Freedom still
Can live, unfettered as the seas that break
Upon her sounding Nova Scotian shores.
Where Justice and her Laws uplift a voice
Mightier than Niagara, where wealth
Of Beauty, spread by Nature's lavish hand,
Gleams from her everlasting snows, or roams
With native ease through soft primeval shades
That fringe her silent lakes and deep-toned streams.
Dominion-wide, fresh bounties clothe her plains,
And honest toil a golden harvest reaps.
Hail, Mother, hail! Our youthful Homeland hail!
Hands clasped in thine, we pledge thee fealty.
Come weal, come woe, foreman bold With naked steel our birthright we hold.

At the strains of the bridal chords from Lohengrin, the lovely bride, who was given away by her uncle, appeared in a gown of white taffeta, the full skirt with taffeta trimmings, above which the slender bodice was fashioned quaintly. Her soft tulle veil was crowned with a wreath of orange blossoms and pearls. Her bridesmaid, Miss Reta Wright wore a gown of flesh georgette with self-considered lace trimming and also a bandeau to match and carried a bouquet of Columbia roses. Dr. Bruce Harry acted as groomsman.

Women's News and Views

CAN'T ONE BE DECENT AND MERRY AS WELL?

"It doesn't pay to be decent!" sniffs Clara. She's the only girl in the staff of five who doesn't paint or pet or do other horrid, unwomanly things."

There's petite blonde Patty—beautiful mouth, enameled with scarlet paste.

There's lovely, languid Lucille, who looks like a warm, creamy rose, but who floats off in the rest room for a cigarette between letters.

There's demure little Freda with the baby blue eyes, but the lashes are so thick with mascara around those baby eyes, and the knees beneath her scanty skirts are dimpled and bare for all the world to see.

Three naughty little girls who laugh all night and yawn and giggle by day, who spend all their money faster than they make it, and buy the most extravagant clothes.

And yet, according to Clara, who never paints or smokes, or dances, nice men, clamor for their company and would gladly marry any one of them!

"It doesn't pay to be decent," sniffs Clara, with a wistful note of envy in her throat. How wonderful it would be to be courted and admired! How sweet to be asked to parties! Yet in all the four years that Clara has worked in the office not one of the men has asked to take her out.

I'l might as well be the paper on the wall for all the attention they pay me,' she cries, and then her wistfulness turns to anger. "But if I have to do things that I think are wrong, like painting and petting, then I'd rather not be asked out," she snorts.

"Nobody appreciates a decent girl."

What do you call "decency," Clara? NOT using rouge? NOT rolling your stockings? NOT smoking in the rest room? NOT jazzing? Is that what you call decency?

But that sort of decency simply means NOT doing things. If that's your idea of decency, then it is no wonder that you have no magnetism or exert no charm. You might indeed "as well be the paper on the wall" if your idea of a "nice girl" is simply a girl who doesn't do unnice things.

It is quite possible for a girl to be modest and refined and clean, and yet be as merry and mischievous as a little chipmunk, and as gay as a rainbow. And to have loved dancing taken away by the scorn! Only you may be sure that she will never achieve this by sulking off in a corner and sneering at the make-up on the other girls and wallowing in self-righteousness.

You've got to snap out of it and do your stuff, young lady, if you want to be wanted. Laugh and the world laughs with you, frab and you crab alone, even if you have an 18-carat soul. And, if you don't know it, the other girls are correcting the sweethearts not because they are bad, but because they are happy and friendly. Because they deliberately cultivate their own wit and charm, because they really make the world a merrier, easier place to live in for those who know them. That is why they are popular.

But what have you to give, besides criticism? What have you done to prove the unselfish attractiveness and friendliness of your own face? A face is meant to use. How are you using yours?

Stop and think about these things, Clara.

WHAT'S NEW

(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Paiou's white coat with black stitching is very smart.

The feminism of Turkish women was demonstrated recently when several thousand Constantinople mothers came carrying babies on their arms agitated for the opening of a male physician from the directorship of the "Drop of Milk" of the nation's pioneer baby health station, and the return of their favorite baby specialist, Dr. Safie Ali, Turkey's first woman doctor.

Paris notes that grey has replaced black in the favor of the well dressed woman, for it is now the shade which stands out above all others as the smartest of all, though it is not the most popular color, for in a well-dressed gathering, the underlying note is navy blue, but it is the curtain against which stand out the best-dressed women, those who are gowned in grey.

Paris reports that there are indications that the sports vogue has reached its peak, not that our frocks are decrease, but it means rather that the smart Parisienne has become a little weary of jumping into an informal frock at the slightest prompt and that if for no better reason than to vary the landscape, she is evincing a decided penchant for the more formal types, according to the races.

Worn her scarf became entangled in an electric clothes wringer, Mrs. J. Mathesie, of Evansville, Ind., was strangled to death.

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN

By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 52
The Nose

After her startling declaration over the phone to Dick Sheldon that she believed her life to be in danger, Sybil deliberately rang off, leaving that young man frantically signalling the operator at his end of the line, and cursing under his breath as being cut off.

The phone rang again, after a minute or two, but Sybil curled up on a couch in a negligee, smiled a serene little smile at the instrument and left it unanswered.

"If he really cares a scrap for me, that ought to bring him charging into town," she reflected complacently "He'll think the line is cut—that I'm already murdered, perhaps."

She chuckled.

"Let's see now how much his vaunted fidelity to duty and ambition is worth. One girl suffered because of it but I have an idea she is going to be avenged."

She rang for Hilda and gave her permission to spend the afternoon and evening with her friends in Jersey.

"I shan't be going out—it's too fearfully hot. So you might as well get a breath o' country air."

She watched Hilda depart. Lying on the couch before her opened window she could feel the warm breath of the hot sun. Its winding drives reflected back the sun's rays with a brilliance that hurt her eyes. She thought of the little orphans splashing in the cool surf, at Oliver Dearborn's expense, and congratulated herself anew on her success with that gentleman.

After awhile, as she mused beside the window, a novel lyly forgotten in her lap, she became aware of a solitary pedestrian, who strolled casually along on the opposite side of the street in the indifferent shade of the park wall. It occurred to her that he had passed more than once, while she lay there; she recognized the same figure because he wore a gray shirt that drawn down to shade his eyes, and he always looked across the street toward her apartment-building.

She watched him for a time and saw that he always turned at the corner and retraced his steps. Obviously he waited or watched for some one.

"My impression neighborhood, has a new suitor," Sybil chuckled "and he waits till the coast is cleared of the Jewel John."

When a patrolman strolled by on his beat, the solitary pedestrian slipped into the park entrance until the officer had passed." Then he emerged again and began to walk as aimlessly as before.

But Sybil did not see that. She had gone to the pantry to get a glass of lemonade, and she had forgotten about the man. After that, confident that she would have a caller, and that caller would be Dick Sheldon, she bathed and donned a cool frock of Quaker grey crepe. Its demureness made her dusky beauty all the more provocative. There was a hint of p rosy flush to the pearls she clasped around her throat that matched the faint reflection of the crimson of her lips.

Her toilette was barely completed when the door-bell buzzed. She answered it, to find, as she had known she would, Dick Sheldon on the threshold, flushed, breathless, anxiety written eloquently in his eyes.

"Oh, you did come after all!" cried Sybil softly.

"How could help it, after what you said—or rather what you left unsaid?" he caught her hands. "Sybil, what is it? What has happened to frighten you?"

"Come into the drawing room." She led the way into the room, cool and dim, fragrant with the scent of flowers.

"Has some one been annoying you?" he demanded. "Whatever did you mean by saying your life is in danger? Who has dared to threaten you?"

Her answer was not what he expected. She laughed softly, tremulously.

"You did come, Dick! And you said it was impossible to get leave."

"It was impossible—it is!" he cried impatiently. "But I'd have gone mad out there at the field, not knowing what was happening to you. Central cut us off, and I couldn't get your number back, so I watched by chance and simply skipped. I'll take my dose of Heaven knows what will happen to me be added bitterly. "Tell me quickly what threatens you, Sybil. I've got to get back to the field at the earliest possible moment."

That didn't please her at all.

"And leave me here all alone!" she cried, in pretended dismay. "Dick, you can't do that, regulations or no regulations. Hilda's gone to the movies and there's no one I can ask to protect me."

Dick came close to her and took her by her slim shoulders. His young face was very stern.

"Sybil, is this—has it anything to do with that—that incident last winter? You know the one I mean," he added as her eyes met his blankly. "The time I brought you home from the theatre, and there was a man in your apartment. Has he threatened you, has he some claim on you?"

"I thank the Lord, Brutus, for the word" murmured Sybil, softly to herself.

Dick had himself given her an idea She nodded gravely.

"There's a man whom I—I treated rather badly, I'm afraid." She was thinking of Arthur Winslow, as she spoke. "He hates me. He's tried to force his way in here, time and again she went on more glibly. "Once he did—that time—" she was recklessly using Dick's phrase now, "that time you speak of. Now he swears that he'll kill me, if—if I don't marry him. Of course, he's quite crazy, no sane man would threaten such a thing just because a woman—well jilted him."

"You don't know your power, Sybil" Dick declared bitterly. "Oh, I know you don't mean to be cruel, but you exercise such a charm on men that's positively dangerous. You get a man crazy; he forgets everything but you —just as I forgot my duty this afternoon—"

That was music to Sybil's ears. She wanted to be reassured of her power, on the occasion of her ability to deceive.

Suddenly Dick, who had taken to pacing the room, halted abruptly.

"Sybil! What is he like, this man? Where does he live? You know there's a chap—sallow, thin-faced, with a gray shorn hat over his eyes—out in front While I was parking the car, he was loitering across the street. He started to cross, and I met him squarely face to face. He was coming here apparently, but, when he saw I was coming too, he hurried away. Sybil, was that the man?"

Sybil, recalling the solitary pedestrian who had aroused her curiosity a while back, laughed softly to herself. Luck was with her. She was overjoyed at surprise.

"How easy men are!" she thought "They find the noose themselves and put it around their own necks."

What could Dick Sheldon do now?

A-vice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE

Last Summer a young man visited our home. He only stayed two weeks and I made a remark that I didn't care for light-haired boys she is light and I secretly loved him, and he said: "I guess there is no chance for me, then." When he left he promised to return. Then two weeks later I left home and he wrote to me and told me he was coming. But my mother wrote him and told him I left town, so he never came. I haven't seen him since. I have written to him three times, but all letters were returned to me saying "not here."

Please tell me what to do.

WAITING IMPATIENTLY.

WAITING IMPATIENTLY: I suggest that you write to him and learn this young man's address. You might write to the post-office of his home town and ask whether he left any forwarding address. Then you can write him and invite him to visit again. It seems too bad that people can allow a real friendship to be broken over little things.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl sixteen years of age and am deeply in love with a man 20 years my senior. However, my father objects to my going with him and demands that discontinue our friendship immediately. It would break my heart to do this and I am asking your advice as to whether to obey my father or not.

HEART-FAILURE.

HEARTFAILURE: You must ask your father for the reason that he objects to your friendship with this young man. It may be that he has merely taken a personal dislike to your friend and in this case you can convince him that the young man's character is above reproach he said that he is unfair in his attitude. But if your father really feels that your friend is not worthy of you—if he has learned something about him to his discredit—then you must be guided by his advice.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I would like to know how to entertain a boy friend when I ask him to come in and stay a while.

SALLY.

SALLY: It isn't necessary to worry about entertainment, Sally. If the young man is sufficiently interested in you to want to prolong the "agony" he'll stand for a little more chatter. Of course, you might serve some light refreshment—but outside of this your own charming presence should be entertainment enough.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Why isn't it proper for a girl eighteen or nineteen to go with a man who is near thirty? Maybe you can give me a few pointers on this subject.

DOUBTFUL B.

DOUBTFUL B: It is not improper for a girl of nineteen to accept the attentions of a man of thirty. Miss B. However, I don't advise it usually because it is very seldom that you find two people so far apart in age who have the same interests. And unless you have tastes and interests in common with a young man, a real friend ship is impossible.

Back was so Weak Could not Turn in Bed

A study of symptoms enabled this lady to obtain complete relief from Kidney troubles.

This letter describes a remarkable experience which Mrs. Landry had with Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Because of their assistance on both the liver and kidneys these pills frequently relieve complicated ailments which puzzle the family doctor. This point is well illustrated in this case.

Mrs. Pasela Landry, Gracieville, Richmond Co., N.S., writes:

"After the birth of my first child, my back was very weak and kept getting worse, until it was so bad that I could not turn in my bed without help. I consulted five doctors, but to no avail. One day a friend gave me Dr. Chase's Almanac, in which I read of cases similar to mine being successfully relieved by the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and started to take them. I was so broken down and depressed that I felt I did not care to live, but after taking the pills I began to feel better and better and kept on taking them until I had obtained thoroughly relief. I would not now be without them and always keep a full supply of all Dr. Chase's Medicines on hand, as in a small country place, where often it is extremely difficult to get a doctor in case of need, Dr. Chase's Medicines often successfully fill the gap."

REV. H. B. KENNY BIDS FAREWELL

Church and the present religious prejudices in which a Roman Catholic would not enter a Protestant Church, a Protestant would not enter a Roman Catholic Church, an Anglican refuse to worship with a United congregation, a United congregation not wishing to worship with the Anglican Church people will be subjugated fulfilling Paul's promise of "Neither Jew nor Gentile" and the true Gospel predominate.

Mr. Kenny's Farewell

At the conclusion of the sermon Rev. Mr. Kenny, laboring under the stress of emotion at severing active ties with his beloved congregation with whom he has labored for the past eight years, rose and in a really masterly manner delivered his farewell address.

Four years ago I received an unsought call to become pastor of this church, for a second term. Since coming there has been happy relations of churches and ministers. What shall I say of these ministers? Much in every way if I had opportunity, for I have enjoyed fellowship with them. Not a few Roman Catholics have shown to me their friendship. To all of these I tender heartfelt thanks, and rejoice in the complete and sympathetic understanding among the clergy of all denominations during these years. I trust the splendid unity and concord will remain undisturbed in future years.

The record of this second pastorate is before you, and I am willing to submit to the judgment of His chastening it. The commendable part is due to your love and loyalty and unfailing enterprise. So far as there are deficiencies I take any share that falls to me with a charmed spirit I have never ceased to remember the solemn trust you reposed in me when you summoned me to this church for a second pastorate. I have loved you with an never failing love, and have given to you my very best in the pulpit and out of it.

Much more should I rejoice on this occasion, after another four years, which could not fail to recall to you my weaknesses, to find a tenderness of treatment and appreciation, than will ever be engraved on my heart. Some of those who welcomed me, and were equally considerate and kindly are now in their dwelling place beyond. We think of them as being a larger part of our fellowship. The church in heaven and on earth is one.

If any one were to ask me for the outstanding feature of this church, I should say, "Your love for the Tabernacle". I have observed how you have driven together for the faith of the gospel in a perpetuity of toil, and have marked with pride any success or attainment.

I have coveted your good will, respect and commendation, and I rendier the hope that you entertain right feelings towards me. Numberless expressions confirm me in this hope, and I assure me of benefits you have received, which to me are a real heritage. I do not desire any future in my life or years that will break the ties of the past.

In preaching I have found no comfort in a more affirmative position and I believe that any preacher who is tempted to seek refuge in mere negation is guilty of cowardice. Sometimes you may have thought me outspoken, but it stood me in hand to speak boldly the things to God. Successful preaching depends upon those positive elements. I have emphasized that love for Christ means service. If only Christ is more real to you through my preaching I am repaid. I have greatly as Evangel which revolves the return of the whole many to his Maker and the ordering of that life by the pattern of Christ. I have urged that you wait in silent supplication for the Divine incoming which changes your utterances with an authority no human voice can command. The sermons preached cannot be unsaid, nor said over again in some other way. I feel that they had been better said, but I trust they still challenge your minds to the highest reaches, and summons your hearts to the loftiest outgoings, that your with may be quickened to the noblest endeavors.

In my pastoral visitations, which take so much out of a man, I have learned that men and women need comfort and help, and have taken from your hearts, and have tried to give return to you in the plenitude of grace. May your lives in Christ abound more and more in unity, in sincerity and in truth.

The true end of life is not pleasures but blessedness that comes by way of sorrow and self sacrifice, as well as paths of pleasantness and peace.

The Worshipful Masters of the local organizations are Eureka A. L. Bush, Belleville, Victor H. Graves, and Moira W. H. F. Ketcheson.

The pulpit was surrounded with a beautiful display of flowers which added greatly to the appearance of the church

The Sermon

Dr. Malott took his text from the fifth chapter of Amos, 8th verse: "And the Lord said unto me what seest thou? And I said a plumb line. Then said the Lord, Behold I will set a plumb line in the midst of my people Israel. I will not again pass by them any more."

Dr. Malott pictured Amos, the shepherd prophet coming to the great carnival in Samaria where the people had gathered to worship and bring offerings. Amos, a coarse uncouth individual was a ready contrast to the scene with a message to these people shippers. He felt that God had sent Israel, I will not again pass by them any more."

Dr. Malott pictured Amos, the shepherd prophet coming to the great carnival in Samaria where the people had gathered to worship and bring offerings. Amos, a coarse uncouth individual was a ready contrast to the scene with a message to these people shippers. He felt that God had sent him who had grown rich and were rapidly leaning toward a life of luxuries and riotous living. An increase in immorality was noticed yet still the people were punctual in attending the shrine Amos had noticed these things and desired to call them back to reality and on his appearance he resembled the Master in the temple, fearless without a single ally. He was told to get out that he didn't belong there and he found it necessary to commit his message to writing. In the manuscript he outlined three visions, a devastated land with the harvests destroyed by locusts, and secondly a terrible drouth. He declared that these had both been prevented by his prayers which he had offered.

Continuing, the speaker said Amos reminded them of a vision of God, standing with a plumb line on a wall, which was the people of Israel and which they undermained by their sins.

Two important things have a great bearing on humanity, Dr. Malott said, these are agriculture and architecture Man is a planter as well as a builder and architecture was formerly associated with religion and the plumb line was used as a symbol.

"Amos' truths are truths for today," Dr. Malott said, "and we are all builders of a nation and are celebrating the 60th anniversary of Confederation and as we look into the future it is well to think of some of the things making for national greatness. As individuals we are building our characters and must be careful of the soil that we choose.

"Jesus Christ is the rock upon which we must erect our lives and it is He, the great architect, from whom we must accept our directions.

"As the Magna Charta is the foundation of the British Empire so Jesus is the foundation of our character building.

Suitable Materials

Dr. Malott stressed the necessity of choosing a variety of materials which must be collected from many sources. We must be careful of the books that we read, the people we meet and innumerable other things.

"The teachings of the Masonic Order lead to this end and we must bear in mind that it is a gradual process to bring ourselves to that state of perfection that it should be. The Masonic Degrees each unfold something more lasting and firm. There is no appeal from the plub line and if we cannot stand the test we should immediately start over again. If our lives do stand the test there is that comfort and satisfaction that cannot be found elsewhere."

The prosperity of the country does not depend on the natural resources but the quality of its citizens, remained Dr. Malott, in closing. "We must have the standards which are found in the Holy Book in the process of our character building."

CLUB IS FORMED FOR LADY AVIATORS

Chicago, Ills., June 25.—Six women flyers of Chicago have organized a club for women who wish to learn air navigation under competent—and masculine—tutelage. There are no dues and the club will have no profits, explained Mrs. E. Lewis Campbell, president.

"The sole purpose of the club is to interest amateurs," Mrs. Campbell's husband heads the Chicago Flying Club.

JUBILEE SERVICE WELL ATTENDED

"These achievements are the reason for our celebration this year," stated the speaker, in opening "We are with pride today-the light of Canada catching the other nation's eyes. It is for the youth of Canada to build a super Canada It was Canada's duty at one time to show the world what a great country she was"

The speaker told of the first day of Confederation The first tie to bind the people of Canada was the Canadian Pacific Railway."

The youth who made such a fine showing in the recent Canada-wide oratorical contest enthralled the congregation with his wide scope and his knowledge of his country. He traced Canada's development from the Confederation days to the present He spoke of the advancement in education in this country as one of its greatest achievements.

"In literature and art our education has borne fruit Also in science and inventions we may point with pride to some of Canada's great men. Canada is the one link between England and the United States

Mr. Sprague told of Canada's bravery and steadfastness in the last great war, and how the war glorified her and made her conspicuous among nations. Canada's nationhood was first recognized in 1911 when Canada sent a delegate to the League of Nations.

"As we look into the future," stated the young orator, "we may see Canada as the son of a mighty British Empire. It is only we, ourselves, that can make this future possible"

Dr. Malott

Dr Malott, minister of Bridge St. United Church, in a few short words told what message the carillon bells at Ottawa would broadcast to the world on July 1st. The messages are unity, loyalty, peace and brotherhood.

Dr. Malott traced the pre-Confederation days when all provinces were united all under one government.

The speaker told of the union of churches fostered by this union of Provinces

(1) "Unity is the leading thought in our national life."

(2) "No dominion in the British Empire has been more loyal or faithful to the motherland than Canada."

(3) "Canadians are peace-loving folk. Our men can't fight when the necessity arises as was shown in the last great war."

(4) "Brotherhood. We are a religious folk. The religious life of Canada is young and vigorous."

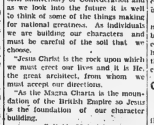

Since Confederation the churches of Canada have all combined in missionary work, carrying the message of brotherhood to the world.

Lord of the nations, thus to You

Our country we commend;

Be Thou her refuge and her trust,

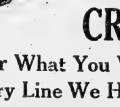

Her everlasting Friend.

IRELAND HAS THE DANCE CRAZE TOO

Dublin, June 25.—The craze for dancing has extended all over Ireland even to remote rural districts.

Imported "dances" are largely displaced the old traditional Irish rincer facing. In Cork carnivals it is made that the Irish dances are treated as a joke, and one member of the Borough Technical Committee proposed to make Irish dancing ai compulsory as the Irish language, while another suggested that ai dance every third dance at least should be Irish.

CONFEDERATION AND AFTER

Sixty Years of Progress

Toronto, June 27.—In honor of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation, the Canadian National Railways Friday night inaugurated a new fast train between Toronto and points in old Ontario, to Vancouver and the Pacific coast. The train is most appropriately named the Confederation, and not only will it provide an important and residential link between the East and the West but it will also provide for the first time a direct service between British Columbia and Eastern Canada via Brandon and Regina. Previously, Canadian National Trans-Continental trains have operated directly from Winnipeg to Saskatoon and, therefore, the Confederation will place these two important cities of Western Canada on the main line train running to and from the East. The Confederation, on its initial run, will carry letters from Mayor Thomas Foster of Toronto to the Mayors of Winnipeg, Brandon, Regina, Saskatoon, Edmonton and Vancouver, felicitating them upon the inauguration of the new train and announcing the pleasure which the citizenship takes in having the opportunity of vending greetings by it to the chief executives of these sister cities. Many Foster pointed out that the "The inauguration of this very fine additional service by the Canadian National Railways is evidence of the increased growth of trade and travel between Toronto and the Pacific Coast which I sincerely trust will continue to the mutual advantage of our cities.

The Confederation will adequately express, in a transportation way, the marvelous strides which the Dominion has made during the last six decades. The train itself is the last word in modern railway development and fully expresses the excellence and luxury of railway operation, but also the progressive management of the National system. In the motive power can be visualized the advancement made in locomotive construction from the old-timer era which marked the Confederation period, to the present day. While the all-steel equipment writes yet another page in Canadian industrial achievements. The Confederation is, as it were, a monument of steel to the workmanship of Canadian craftsmanship, illustrative of the spirit which has marked the progress of the Nation, not alone in name nor in equipment. The Confederation expressive of Canada's Jubilee year. In the title of the sleeping and observation compartment cars are yet to be found another link with the first days of a national railroad and their designation is such that 'will recall the outstanding figures among the Fathers of Confederation and other important milestones in the life of the nation. Thus, the train which left Toronto Friday night had sleeping cars bearing the honored names of "Macdonald", "Cartier", "Tilley" and "Fisher", while the observation compartment Library car was known as the "Fort Frontenac", in memory of the gallant, fighting governor of New France who founded Fort Frontenac upon the present site of the City of Kingston. The selection of this car on the initial run of the Confederation was a happy one, particularly in view of the fact that Kingston, since time had the distinction of being the fascinative event of the Canadas. The Confederation, linked together the pioneer days of the Canadas with the Diamond Jubilee year. In other ways, the Confederation marks the development of the Dominion and Canadian industries. The equipment, which is the product of Canadian plants and Canadian workmanship, likewise, is illustrative of industrial achievement and progress. The latest in design and new features in the transportation world nothing has been over looked which will afford comfort to the patrons of the Canadian service. Among the special duties being provided for the disposal of waste paper blades, something which will appeal to the heart of every man. Lighting and ventilation of the cars are also features which have received special consideration; while the compartment-observation library, buffett cars contain many innovations and are provided with latest radio devices. There are so arranged that passengers in compartments and the drawing room may enjoy the entertainment in the privacy of their own reservations, while the machine itself is so built, in that the finest of reception is assured. This latter development in the art of radio reception marks a new step in railway construction and doubtless will prove to be an important feature, particularly in view of the popularity of radio on modern trains.

In the dining cars other important improvements are to be noted. These are chiefly to be found in the complete tents and compactness of the kitchen and pantry. The actual cars are some what longer than those of the previous standard type and this additional space has been utilized to increase the efficiency of the service. The traveller, however, will probably note the radical change in the fittings, these are of exodized silver. There has also been added change in the uniform of the waiters, they being attired completely in white. During the Diamond Jubilee celebration, special and attractive menu cards have been provided which will show on this page a reproduction of the Fathers of Confederation in a design featuring the arms of the Dominion, while inside a brief article will tell of the importance of the various provinces in the development of the Dominion, the whole while form a handsome souvenir of this important event in the annals of the nations. Time, it will be seen, will be the inauguration of this new train, the Canadian National Railways have made a presentation to Canada's most important historic event and one which from utility of purpose marks not only the progress made by the Dominion from its inception but also pays a lasting tribute to the development which is characteristic of the spirit of the Canadian people.

GERMAN HORSE TO UNITED STATES

New York, N.Y. June 23.—Laufjunge, the great German greyhound owned by Baron von Lyncker, has been shipped to the United States for extensive competition in this country. After getting thoroughly acclimated the German hound will be entered against the leading timber toppers of North America, probably in the Saratoga Jumping Stakes and the new $15,000 Grand National Steeplechase on the closing day of the Belmont Park autumn meeting. Laufjunge won the Berlin Grand Hurdle race last week.

Backers of the new Belmont Park chase declared it will draw others of the best jumpers of the European continent and England.

BELLE THEATRE

What constitutes Paradise exclusive of the traditional pearly gates, the gold paved streets the harmonious harps? Is short a more mundane paradise just (or two, where three is decidedly a throng. Would a man guess a small cottage with someone waiting at the gate when he gets home from work? Is it the same for a woman, or would she guess jewels and fine clothes and plenty of leisure?

You'll find the answer at the Belle Theatre to-day, where Richard Dix as the opulent young bachelor, Steve Porter, is entertaining as capably as is his wont in his newest Paramount offering "Paradise for Two." The Dix troubles are many in this comedy-drama. And the worst one of all is the one that causes the most laughter For Dix is possessed of an uncle Howard (more than capably played by Edmund Breese) who has a heavy hand on the Dix inheritance. Things begin to hum when Uncle Howard registers disapproval of Richard's wild parties, by cutting off the allowance with the information that there' is no more money till he gets married and fulfils the terms of a will to that effect.

But let's not spoil the story by telling it all. It comes out right in the end, yes, but it has an unusual twist to the ending.

TORONTO DIVIDE WITH BUFFALO

Steeters Took Both Ends Of Double Bill From Orioles

Buffalo, June 27.—Andy Cohen Day, in honor of the league's leading swatsmith, who celebrated here yesterday with the Bisons and Maple Leafs in a division of the double bill. Both contests were decided by a single run with Toronto tagging the opener, 4 to 2, and the Bisons reversing the tables in the seven-inning second fracas, 6 to 5. Bill Hubbell won the second game for the Bisons with two smashing doubles. Del Bissonette smashed his thirteenth and fourteenth home-runs to take the league leadership in this department. Cohen was presented with a handsome diamond ring and a floral horseshoe by local admirers.

Jersey City took both ends of a double-header at home, conquering the Baltimore Orioles by scores of 6 to 5 and 3 to 2. In both instances the game was won in Jersey City's last time at bat. In the second inning, during the nightcap Umpire Finnerup was bombarded with pop-bottles and straw hats when he called first baseman Monohan of the Jerseys out at the plate. At the end of the game Finnerup was escorted from the field by mounted policemen.

A three-run rally in the eighth inning gave Newark its fourth straight victory at Reading, 8 to 7. The Keys rallied for the counter in the eighth and Davis hit a home-run in the ninth but could not overcome the lead.

The Syracuse and Rochester clubs divided a double-header at Syracuse. The Stars won the first game 9 to 1. Eddie Dyer registered his sixth straight victory. The Tribe took the second game 8 to 8, winning on a two-run raid against Poole in the sixth inning. More than four hours were required to play the games.

NATIONALS PLAY IN DELORO WEDNESDAY

The Nationals and Deloro will make a fourth attempt to meet each other in the Bay of Quinte League on Wednesday of this week on the northerners' diamond. All three previous games have been washed out by rain and the managers are looking forward to fine weather on Wednesday. The locals have had a long lay-off which will not do them any good. The Deloro team were forced to bow to Point Anne last Friday and the race may develop into an interesting one before many weeks. Mr. Elliott is almost sure to send Bill Ralph to do the hillock while "Hoot" Gibson is apt to be Manager Mill's choice to do the gunning. There is a lot of speculation as to the outcome on Wednesday's game.

VANCE DAZZLES GIANT HITTERS

Brooklyn, June 27.—The onrushing Giants, who for the past week have been moving forward with great haste, caught their come-tails on the end of Dazzy Vance's mighty right arm at Ebbets Field yesterday afternoon and the result was so ludicrous that some 22,000 folks who witnessed the spectacle went home in convulsions. Facing the Giants' ace at a time, the dazzler grazed their whiskers, flicked their ears, folded them up in the middle and in the end counted home with the Robins to a 7 to 1 victory that Brooklyn somehow never could have enjoyed so thoroughly at anyone else's expense except the Giants.

Per John McGraw it was another one of those disastrous Sunday afternoon excursions that have come to be a source of great torment to him. This one probably was worse than any of the others, for not only did he see Dazzy Vance make his crack hitters look as though they were chasing a flock of bumble bees through a barn door with brooms, but he also saw his recently acquired roundmonde, Larry Benton, take a beating that must have been even more of a shock.

The Pirates waged a fierce battling attack against the best of the Cardinals' pitchers at St. Louis yesterday and took the series opener, 9 to 3. The Pirates' victory strengthened their hold on first place position by one and one-half games over the Cardinals.

Cincinnati won the first game of their home series with Chicago by 8 to 5. Cincinnati won mainly because Logue refused to crack under some very loose fielding by his teammates. Cincinnati had five errors, four of which counted in the five runs scored by Chicago.

MEN FLY FURTHER THAN ANY BIRDS

New York, N.Y., June 25.—Birdmen have surpassed the non-stop flight distance of birds, says Dr. Leon J. Cole, of Yale, curator of birds at the Bronx Park Zoo.

The factory-made wings that carried Colonel Lindbergh 3,610 miles to Paris and Clarence D. Chamberlain and Charles A. Levine 3,905 miles to Germany permitted man to relieve the flights of Alaskan plovers "holders of the non-stop flight record among the feathered species.

The longest flight of plovers have been from the Aleutian Islands to Hawaii, a distance of about 2,400 miles, Dr. Crandall asserted.

YANKS WON AND LOST YESTERDAY

Lou Gehrig, Two Homers Behind Ruth—Chisox Defeat Tigers

New York, June 27.—The Yankees lost the first game of the double-header at the Stadium yesterday and then, rounded beyond the limits of human endurance, turned on the Athletics and smashed them right before the eyes of 61,000 such clients, breaking a losing streak of three games. The scores were 4-2 and 7-3.

G. Herman Ruth played in neither game. His right knee has been giving forth twinges which are said to be a great deal like the symptoms of Demosaid's knee.

Not even the fact that Louis Gehrig hit his twenty-second homer in the second game made up for his earlier defeats. This put him only two paces to the rear of rival Ruth but carping critics pointed out that a single at various outings in the first game would have been worth several homers in the second when the Yankees were rich with runs.

The White Sox drove Earl Whitehill off the hill in the seventh inning at Chicago, and defeated Detroit 9 to 7. The visitors chased Thomas to the showers in the sixth inning. Connally, the succeeder, pitched bright ball thereafter. Whitehill blew up in the box seventh and Barrett's triple cleared the bases which were filled. Lil Stoner went to the rescue, but was touched for one hit and contributed a wild throw himself which helped put Chicago in the lead.

The Senators made it three straight over Boston at Washington, 8 to 7. Goslin and Myer connected for homers, the former also getting a double and the latter, recently traded to the Red Sox by the Senators, a double and a single. Johnson, who started for Washington, was relieved in the fifth, but was given credit for the victory.

The Indians and St. Louis Browns split a double-header and the series as well at Cleveland. In the first game Uhle returned to the box behind Stewart 2 to 0 in a pitchers' battle, in which both allotted four hits. Buckeye was batted from the box in the second game, the Browns winning 7 to 3. Parnell accepted 13 chances at second base in the final battle.

How to tame balky FORDS

DOES your Ford start with a neck-snapping jerk? Does it stop with nerve-wracking uncertainty? Does it roar and buck when you go into reverse?

If it does, don't blame the Ford, but blame yourself for using the wrong kind of oil. For, 90 percent of the time, balky action in a Ford is caused by incorrect lubrication.

Here is the reason. In the Ford car the same oil must lubricate both the motor and the transmission. But ordinary motor-oils fail as transmission lubricants. The bands slip,—and grab,—and slip again. Then you get the chatter that causes uncertain control,—jerky brake-action.

But there is one oil—Veedol Forzol—a different kind of oil—that is made expressly for Fords. It correctly lubricates the Ford transmission as well as the Ford motor. It prevents destructive chatter,—assures smooth control and smooth brake-action.

Always ask for Veedol Forzol by name where you see the orange and black Veedol Forzol sign.

COLD WEATHER HARMS POULTRY

British Columbia Inspector Prophecies Scarcity of Chicks

Victoria, B. C., June 24.—The severity of the present spring will strike a hard blow at the poultry industry of British Columbia, according to J. R. Terry, chief poultry instructor of the provincial government. Mr. Terry estimates a 40 per cent mortality among the young chicks hatched this spring as a result of the cold, damp season. According to him, the season has been the worst in his experience from the standpoint of the poultry industry.

"Nature does not have to produce a balance sheet, and a heavy toll will probably be taken all through the chief poultry districts," said Mr. Terry. "Many of the losses are preventable. Much of the trouble is no doubt due to beginners' purchasing far too many chicks for a start. The result is heavy losses through inexperience in feeding and care."

LAUDER AT LAST MET WITH HOOTS

Liverpool, June 25.—Sir Harry Lauder, noted Scottish comedian, has at last had the experience of appearing before a hostile audience.

Sir Harry recently made a public utterance to the effect that there are many young men in England drawing the dole who have never worked and did not intend to work.

The statement met with the disapproval of many of the British working class and his appearance at Birkenhead Hippodrome was greeted with hoots and jeers.

The tallest trees ever known have been found in Victoria, Australia, over 400 feet.

RUSTLING DAYS ARE RECALLED

Williams Lake, B.C., June 24.—Cattle rustling days of the Lost West were recalled here when Grover Orlando Hance, of Hanceville, was charged before Judge Calder with stealing and killing steers belonging to Cuscna Spencer, of the Chilo ranch. The Spencer brand is a combination 72 on the left ribs and left hip, and places where it should appear had been cut out of hide produced in court and alleged to have been found on the Hance premises. The ears also had been cut off the head, so the earmarks could not be identified.

The accused claimed that the steer had belonged to his mother and that the partners missing from the hide had been cut out for the purpose of preparing it for rawhide.

The case was dismissed. Judge Calder said he did not believe that the steer killed by Hance had belonged to his mother or himself, but he was not prepared to accept the identification making it the property of Spencer. The identification was made by Indians.

SPIKE WILD RUMOR RELATING TO AIRMENS' DISCOVERY

Army Plane Hops Off In Golden Gate Flight --- Local Infantry Undergo Annual Inspection

GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS DISCREDIT STORY OF MISSING FRENCH ACES

Frank James Alleges Discovery Of Nungesser And Coli

WITHOUT FOUNDATION

Investigation Leads To Belief That Tale Is Another Hoax

Chicoutimi, Que., June 28.—Rumors that Nungesser and Coli the missing French airmen were found in Northern eastern Quebec were declared to be false by M. Rane manager of Price Brothers here this morning. No trace can be found to any town of Caliquet bay ran "Ghost Lake" be located.

Quebec, June 28.—C. C. Piche of the province of Quebec government forestry department frankly discredited the rumor that Nungesser and Coli had been found alive on the shore of Ghost Lake, as claimed in an untraced message sent out by "Frank James".

Mr. Piche said he did not know of any Ghost Lake and the fact that the message could not be traced to its source inclined him to the belief that the rumor was groundless.

A Weird Story

Toronto, June 28.—Rumors were current here this morning that the two missing French fliers, had been discovered alive in Quebec. These rumors have appeared to have been based on a message alleged to have been sent by "Frank James" of Seattle Washington to the Hon. Charles Stewart at Ottawa saying the fliers had been found forty rods inland from the North shore of Ghost Lake 80 miles north and slightly east of the town of Caliquet in north eastern Quebec.

It is said that "Mr. James" message added that both fliers were alive but badly needed medical attention. Their plane had crashed. Both the Canadian Press and the Associated Press are investigating this rumor, which so far has no authoritative grounds.

Ottawa, June 28.— Hon. Charles Stewart has received a message from "Frank James" stating that French fliers have been found as indicated, but the message so far has merely added additional mystery to that of the unfortunate French airmen. Nothing is known here of "Frank James" nor his department, has yet been able to locate the spot where they are supposed to have been found.

KIWANIS HEAR OF CONVENTION

Secretary George Griffin Given Fine Welcome In Memphis

Kiwanians at their regular weekly meeting today at the Queens were treated to an interesting report by Secretary George Griffin of his recent trip to Memphis, Tennessee, Belleville delegate to the four day Kiwanis Inter national Convention in the Southern city.

Secretary George was enthusiastic in the way southern people received the delegates by the Memphis Club, and in other cities visited by them in their journey through the three six-teen States. Some conception of the Kiwanian wonderful growth the second floods was gained by the visitors, as ented cities of hospitable welcomes, and deserted lids were everywhere in evi ence.

The local secretary journeyed as far South as New Orleans in his two weeks trip, and vividly described the efforts made there to save the city—itself four feet below sea level—from the rag ing floods.

Among visitors today at the Club were Prince Gagarin, of Russia, who spoke briefly on the Russian situation, and Simon Rosgetti, known as Canada's Lavigne Barnum, whose remarkable solo were a rare treat for Kiwanis.

ST. ANDREW'S CH. GARDEN FESTIVAL

Home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Muir, Foster Ave., Scene of Event

The beautiful grounds surrounding the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Muir, 302 Foster Avenue, presented a lovely sight yesterday afternoon and evening when the ladies of St. Andrew's church entertained at a most successful and well attended garden party. Red, white and blue lanterns interspersed by Chinese lanterns were strung about the fine old trees and when evening fell the latter glowed and glimmered in a most fascinating manner.

Ranged about the lawns the ladies had decorated lovely booths, each carrying out a pretty scheme of its own. Mrs. S. Holmes took charge of the home cooking both with its variety of tempting home-cooked articles. Mrs. Weaver and Mrs. R. J. Muir were in charge of the ice cream booth and Mrs. Cameron and Mrs. Wallridge supervised the serving the delicacy to the tables. At the candy and flower booth, Miss H. Waters acted as convenor and was assisted by Mrs. Bewis and Miss M. Kennedy.

Miss M. Waters and Miss Middleton were in charge of the "Made in Canada" booth which proved a very attraction and which enjoyed rapid sales of the many articles offered. Mrs. and young convenors of the C.O.L.T. Fish Pond of which Mrs. R. S. Hill was in charge and a steady line of customers waited to enjoy the sport and receive one of the pretty gifts.

All in all it was a real success and Mrs. Muir proved most delightful hosts to the scores who dropped in during the afternoon.

PRINCE'S DANCING SELDOM EQUALLED IN BELLEVILLE

Prince Alexis Glovsova and Signor Georgius Rosetta, Canada's leading baritone enthralled the large audience that packed the Belle Theatre last night.

Prince Gagarin and Ajaria Glovsova furnished such dancing that is seldom seen in Belleville, graceful in the extreme. Their Apache dance was exceedingly well received by the audience and the sole dance by the Prince and his partner were brilliantly executed.

One could hear a pin drop when Georgius Rosetta started to sing and the glorious notes poured from his throat. He was repeatedly encored, and the rich baritone voice was heard several times.

The motion picture, Richard Dix's "Paradise for Two," has a few days in a few tears and is a fairly good picture.

ONE CHAIN IS BROKEN

A correspondent sends in a copy of what is known as a "good luck chain letter." Almost everybody is familiar with this nuisance. You receive it from an anonymous "friend," and he asks you to—but the particular letter speaks for itself. It reads as follows:

This letter was sent to you by a friend. Do not break the chain. Copy it and send it to four persons within 24 hours, to whom you wish good luck. The chain was started by a British officer in Flanders, and should go round the world nine times. If you break the chain you will have bad luck. On the fourth day after sending it you will have good luck. So please copy and send it to four friends so as not to break the chain. A Friend.

The correspondent in question says that this is the third letter of its type he has received within recent months. He denounces it as a humorless nuisance and says he takes very great pleasure in breaking the chain.

Similar letters have more than probably been received by others. They are usually written by semi-illiterate persons to whom it is clear writing is a painful process. It is incredible that more than one person here and there pays any further notice to this elementary piece of nonsense. It is a concession to the worst kind of superstition because it appeals purely to those shadowy fears which haunt the dark places in the minds of the intellectually under-developed.

The chain letter silliness probably began during the war when clear-thinking was at a premium and many minds were a prey to alarming suggestions. At all events the thing ought to be stopped. Such rubbish belongs to the waste-paper basket.

"AU REVOIR"

As was announced in last evening's press, Belleville will, in the course of a few days lose two of her worthy and upright citizens in the persons of Messrs. N. P. North and the Rev. H. D. Kenny. It is with deep feelings of regret that these two residents find it necessary to forsake the city of Belleville to depart for other parts of the Province. Both have been in our midst for eight years and during that time they have taken a deep interest in matters of civic and community interest and their opinions have been both valued and sought.

Congratulations are due Mr. North who has received an appointment as Superintendent of the Hornepayne Division of the Canadian National with headquarters in the far distant north. Those who have worked under Mr. North here have found him to be a most courteous and obliging official and no greater tribute can be paid to a man than by those directly associated with him as, generally speaking, it is in his business dealing that he displays his real qualities. An ardent sportsman Mr. North was honored with the vice-presidency of the Central Ontario Rugby League, having taken a prominent part in sporting circles. The very best wishes of his many Belleville friends go with him in his new and richly deserved office and it is to be hoped that Mr. North's associations in this city will be a fond and cherished memory. Mrs. North too will be missed as she was an active member of the bowling and other ladies' organizations.

Ill health has forced the Rev. H. B. Kenny to relinquish his duties at the Tabernacle United Church and in his farewell sermon Mr. Kenny expressed his regret at having to retire from active service. During his pastorate here the Tabernacle Church has prospered and built itself, and Mr. Kenny is to be no small way responsible for the success attained.

YEARLY CONTRACTS

Farm labor is finding employment nowadays on a twelve-month basis and engaging on a yearly contract After a two-weeks' trial, if satisfactory, the immigrant is signing up for the summer and winter, and the employer cannot discharge the man without cause. This may not be the most desirable method but there seems little hope of getting help for the summer months, and then turn the man loose in the fall to winter as best as he can.

The situation creates another economic problem for the farmer. If extra labor is retained for the winter month there must be some remunerative job or provided—something that will bring the employer a few extra dollars each week. Chopping is an established winter job on most farms, but waiting on a herd of dry cows or throwing grain to a flock of hens that have no intention of laying before spring is not the way to keep extra labor busy from December till April.

Methods and pursuits differ greatly in the various districts and localities of Eastern Canada but in a broad way one can recommend more attention to winter dairying, stepping up the poultry till it becomes an important branch of live stock production, hauling manure to the fields where practicable making repairs to tools and implements, laying up a fuel supply, and otherwise busying oneself at jobs that yield a revenue and prepare for the rush of the summer season. There are farmers aplenty who have reorganized their business on this basis and it is from them that one can best learn what to do and how to do it.

A SUMMER RAMBLE

Those merry hours
In early June when Earth laughs out,
When the fresh winds make love to flowers,
And woodlands sing and waters shout
When in the grass sweet voices talk,

And strains of tiny music swell
From every mossy cup of the rock,
From every nameless blossom's bell.

Beneath the plants and breathing things,
The sinless, peaceful works of God,
I'll share the calm the season brings

And on the silent valleys gaze,
Winding and widening, till they fade
In yon soft ring of summer haze.

One tranquil mount the scene o'er looks—
There the bushed winds their sabbath keep
While a near him from trees and brooks
Comes faintly like the breath of sleep.

Not Necessary To Diet

The process of digestion in the stomach depends entirely upon the supply of gastric or digestive fluids. The active principles of these fluids are known as enzymes. Digestion can only be actually and lastingly relieved by increasing the enzymes in the stomach.

Now this is exactly what Ronzyme does. It supplies enzymes to the digestive fluids and therefore immediately restores their effectiveness in digesting the food in the stomach.

Relief is obtained promptly. You do not need to diet. You are soon convinced that Ronzyme helps you as no other treatment has ever been able to do.

Mr. John Sector, 647, St. Urbain St., Montreal, Que., writes: "For years I have been suffering with stomach disorders and consequently never able to enjoy my meals. However, I am glad to inform you that I have found in your preparation the 'RENZYME' an extraordinary digestant and I notice that you claim for your preparation the power of rejuvenating the stomach and I must say you are absolutely correct. You are to be congratulated in your efforts to bring to the General Public and the suffering stomachals, something that is so effective. I am a constant user and will certainly recommend it to anyone desirous of obtaining the healthy functioning of the stomach."

You can obtain Ronzyme from your druggist at $1.50 a bottle, or it will be sent to you, postpaid, on receipt of price, if you mention this paper. The Ronzyme Laboratories, Toronto, 2, Canada

UNPATRIOTIC MOTORIST

An unfortunate incident, proving the lack of respect an isolated few have for the Flag has been brought to the attention of the press by Mr. Wallace Havelock Robb. On Sunday, Mr. Robb stated, while the Confederation Flag borne by Glen Luffman, Alan Dawson and Charles Barber, was being carried up Bridge Street enroute for the patriotic service at Bridge Street United Church a motorist dashed up the street and with no regard for the safety of the little Cubs of the Flag attempted to crowd the children off the road. In fact brushed one of the little fellows off the curb. Mr. Robb's keen patriotism, love of fair play and loyalty to the Flag was immediately aroused and jumping in front of the boys he hailed the motorist's career. Several mothers standing about the street at the time asked Mr. Robb to bring this unfortunate occurrence to the attention of the press in the hope that it might serve as an example and instill a little patriotism to those who sometimes forget.

RUSSIAN PRINCE GUEST OF ROTES

W. S. Herrington, Napanee, Tells of Hardships of Early Settlers

Two men prominent in different walks of life were the guests of the Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon yesterday. The one was a member of the one-time Royal House of Russia and the other was Walter S. Herrington, K. C., of Napanee.

Prince Alexis Gagarin, who is at present trying to earn an honest living on the vaudeville stage in a few words thanked the Rotary Club for their hospitality and praised the ideals of the Club, stating that if Russia had had something like that matters would be better in the land now.

Walter S. Herrington told of the early settlements of this part of the country, and of the life of the tarly Empire Loyalists.

He also told of the real hardships suffered when they broke away from the thirteen crown colonies on the other side of the line.

Mr. Herrington in an interesting way pointed out the development of the law in this section of the country, and the administration of justice. He told how there were no lawyers or no doctors here for a long time, and concluded his address describing life and homes of those early settlers.

WILL DISCUSS PACIFIC ISSUES

Institute of Pacific Relations To Meet In Honolulu July 16th

New York, N. Y., June 28.—The chief things to be discussed at the meeting of the Institute of Pacific Relations in Honolulu from July 15 to 29, were outlined in an interview recently by Dr. Henry Suzzallo, formerly president of the University of Washington, and well-known on the Coast for his grasp of the problems surrounding the various races and nations that live on Pacific shores. How immigration is a problem as we in the world in general Dr. Suzzallo said was made evident by the fact that half the population of the world is in countries bordering on the Pacific.

"The Institute of Pacific Relations," Dr. Suzzallo said, "meets in Honolulu in July not to legislate or to make resolutions. Its purpose is merely frank and unofficial, between citizens of the ten countries bordering or having interest in the Pacific, the great areas of the future. We can make it peaceful areas. A living democratic tradition that men are civilized enough to find common ground for differing interests through frank discussions. The Institute of Pacific Relations has to bring out all the issues between the British, Chinese, Japanese and Americans, and the solution of each—to find out what each race thinks of the other and what can be done to make us all pull together, for sooner or later we've got to."

Dr. Suzzallo pointed out how this international meeting was different from others.

"In the first place, it isn't bossed by any one nation, or by a group of nations, as most of them are. We have "for every nation has its say in running the institute, labor leaders, ecclesiastics and women's club leaders meet both formally and informally to look at all sides of Pacific questions. They must be looked at from every point of view if we are to understand them at all.

"The Chinese and Japanese look at the institute from a point of view different by from the Americans, and this we shall try to understand. At the Honolulu meeting, for want to know WHY they think as they do, and they want to know why we think and act as we do.

LABOR AND PATIENCE PRICE OF SUCCESS

A great, golden voice pealed out over New York. The air waves caught and cast it in ever widening circles, farther and farther into the night. Over the city roofs, over the reaches of the Hudson, across the quiet fields, rippling, swooping, winging its joyous way to the high, silver stars, the great voice went. And thousands, "listening in" felt life grow richer and sweeter because Schumann-Heink was singing.

Singing after sixty-five years of life and fifty years of service on the stage.

Fifty years of service—working all the time. Taking a voice that was but a merry, vagrant thread of music at first, and turning it slowly into the great golden cable of sound that can tie the hearts of the world together.

Fifty years of work—cold discovered mornings of work, irritable, rebellious noons, fagged, discouraged nights. And then the morning again. Work when she longed to weep. Work—over and over and over.

What price Schumann-Heink's voice? A dollar or so to you who sit and listen. Fifty years of drilling and drudgery to the woman whose music you hear.

Some price that! How many of our modern young dreamers are willing to pay that price for success?

Our world is full of talent. Perhaps there has never been so much talent as there is today. It isn't hard to find the reasons. Life is more colorful, education is broader and easier to obtain, art expression receives rich reward. All these things conspire to fan the "divine spark" that smoulders in most hearts. Nearly every young person you meet wants to write, act, paint, sing, dance or seek some other form of artistic expression. And nearly all of them have received some training along the desired line. Budding geniuses are thicker than mosquitoes in this year 1927.

But still the ranks of accomplished craftsman performers be greater when the final reckoning is taken? I doubt it. The genius buds easily, but it very, very rarely is willing to pay the price for growth.

Mary gets wonderful marks in Eng lish all through Hi and writes a perfectly corking story for the college paper. This is followed by the acceptance of a little skit by one of our national magazines. Forthwith all the home folk declare that Mary is going to make Bernard Shaw look to his laurels. But O. B. S. doesn't worry. Mary is through—right there Her young enthusiasm is going to wit on the report of her first production. She's far too busy discussing the theory of writing to ever get down and do any of it. Success might be Mary's but she won't pay the price.

The truth is that Mary and all the rest of the near-geniuses are firmly convinced that there shouldn't be any price to pay, that Fame and Fame's goods! Drudgery, monotony, self-sacrifice and denial, patience, perseverance—all these things are Old Stuff. Self-expression, a snappy line, punch and personality ardor and audacity they're the things that crash the gates of the Hall of Fame.

Look over the biographical sketches of those who have won fame. Take authors, artists, stage celebrities and the like. In practically all of these you will find a tale of early hardship of struggle for recognition, of threatened failure and despair. It was always the patient labor that finally unveiled, not the sudden flare of genius Success was won by work, work, work! Fame and fortune are set upon hills. They must be climbed.

FAME WITHOUT FATIGUE—that's their slogan, and they sincerely believe it because much of their training has led them to believe it.

A grand little slogan—but just try to do it, dearies!

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN

By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 53

The Phantom Fear

ing the park. Dick Sheldon followed ing they ark. Dick Sheldon followed her.

The solitary pedestrian was still there, lingering in the shade of the entrance.

"I'll go out and settle him," declared Dick.

Sybil grasped his arm.

"You'll do nothing so recklessly. Why, he might shoot you."

"I'm not afraid," said Dick scornfully. "Any bounder who'll threaten a defenceless woman is not worth consideration."

"No, no!" protested Sybil, clinging to him.

"But, Sybil, I can't stay here all afternoon. I'm a.w.o.l. You don't seem to understand the consequences. If I'm found out. Let me call the police then—put you under official protection."

"And have a story in the papers! Never!"

He fell to pacing the room again, pulling out his watch every few minutes. His young face was distraught.

But he didn't leave her.

The afternoon passed slowly. Dick talked in jerky sentences, between long silences.

"Any other time, there might be some hope for me. But, with that infernal inspection by the Washington staff coming so soon, regulations are tight as a drum at the field today.

"Then girl" flashed Sybil scornfully "if your career means more to you than the safety of the woman you profess to love—go! I don't want a craven for a husband!"

"But, Sybil," he cried distractedly, "it—it's my duty. I'm an officer in the army. How can I break my solemn oath, when it's my duty to be at my post?"

"I have told you to go!" she said glonily.

He flung himself beside her and tried to gather her in his arms.

"And I won't go, while the girl I love is in danger."

Toward twilight, when they looked from the window again, the man who had loitered opposite, had gone.

"Of course," said Dick gloomily, "he might have known he'd get discouraged as long as my car remained out in front. He probably knows me by sight, has seen us together. He won't try anything until he thinks I've gone."

Sybil looked at him curiously.

"What shall we do now?"

He drew himself up with an effort glanced at his watch again, and shrugged.

"I'll have been missed at retreat. We'd better go somewhere to dine. No use starving, even if judgment will soon be at-hand."

"Dick!" moaned Sybil faintly.

She really did feel a bit remorseful, but, remembering the girl in the south who had suffered because of the ambitious young man beside her, she hardened her heart.

"Maybe you'll escape detection," she comforted him.

His wry smile dispelled such a hope.

They went out to dine at a quiet, up-town restaurant. Young Sheldon was moody and distrait, but Sybil had never been so sweet, so tender, so provocative. Occasionally, he forgot everything but her alluring presence during that stolen hour.

When they returned from dinner, he entered the building with her. At the doorway, they almost collided with a shadow—a shadow that lurked and disappeared quickly, but not before both of them had recognized the grey shoddy hat over half-hidden but watchful eyes.

Dick had turned to dart after the loiterer, but Sybil caught him firmly by the sleeve.

"No, no, Dick! Please—no scene, for my sake."

It was useless anyway. The shadow was gone. The street was empty, except for pedestrians who were hurrying about their business.

"He's returned," said Dick. "That settles it. I'll have to stay in town tonight."

Sybil looked startled.

"You can't stay here, Dick," she said sharply.

"I'll get a room in the apartment hotel next door," he told her wearily. "They take transients. I've been there before. There's a room with a bay window that overlooks your doorway. I'll stand guard all night."

"You're ruining him—sure as Fate" said Sybil's conscience. "If he's away from the field without leave all night, there'll be no hope for him."

But she refused to heed the voice.

"Dear, faithful Dick," she murmured aloud.

He caught her in his arms.

"You'll have to remember me after this," he said, between his teeth. "That is, if I'm not in Leavenworth. I told you once that I wouldn't let anything—anything—interfere with my ambition to have a clean, brilliant army record. Well, you've made me take back those words. For you, I'm risking disgrace."

His arms dropped from her and he turned away, his mouth very stern.

"Lock the door behind me," he told her more calmly, "and don't open it, under any circumstances. Be sure your kitchen is locked, too. And remember, I'm right next door, and I'll keep awake all night. If your rascally friend tries to slip in through the front entrance, I'll be after him before he can get up-stairs. I'll warn your janitor to be on the watch, too."

He went away reluctantly, after telling he that he'd take his car to a garage overnight.

It seemed to Sybil that he'd hardly gone before her bell rang. He'd forgotten something, of course, she thought.

But, as she hurried to answer the ring, she had a premonition that it was not Sheldon at the door.

Who then was her late caller?

More and more hesitantly, for a reason she couldn't fathom, in view of the fact that he'd been living a pure fabrication all the afternoon and evening, she approached the door, laid her hand on the knob, and slowly opened it.

WHAT'S NEW

(From a Woman's Standpoint)

That there seems to be no decline of the bobbed hair vogue in Paris, in spite of reports to the contrary from New York debutantes.

That Callot at a recent Paris fashion show featured creamy yellow with soft tone hats and beige kid is being much seen.

That lace dresses are fairly popular, but nearly all of one type now in Paris, the skirt with flat tiers and the long-waisted bolero corsage.

That Kasha, silk-and-wool tricot, and broadcloth are endorsed by Jenny in new models, while an ensemble features a coat of beige Kasha, ordered with snakeskin and worn over a Kasha skirt and silk-and-wool tricot blouse which further carries out the reptile theme and black broadcloth forms the neck band over a frock of satin marocain, the coat being appliqued with fur.

A-dvice to Girls

By Annie Laurio

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am twenty-two years old and am in love with a young man five years my senior. I met him while going to college. Now, it is about a year and a half since I first saw him, and we've been corresponding regularly for about a year. Several times he has told me in his letters that he loved me very much. He has on fitting occasions, given me beautiful gifts, although we are not what you would call officially engaged.

His home is a hundred and twenty-five miles from my home, and he has promised many times that he would come down to see me, but it seems something hinders him. He has a car, or he could come any Sunday when it's nice.

My parents have not met him and I've not met his and I think it's about time they met each other.

He wants me to come down there and he promises to take me home.

What shall I do?

ELSIE.

ELSIE: It would not be right for you to visit this young man, Elsie. You must write him and tell him that you want him to call and that until he does you cannot see him. Perhaps you can arrange to have him stay for a week-end, in which case it would be best for your mother to invite him. After this, it would be quite all right for you to visit at his home if his mother invites you. But don't go until he calls first.

1.—Equalization of Hydro.

2.—Medical survey for placing doctors in thinly populated portions of Ontario.

3.—Medical Inspection and Dental Inspection.

Mrs. Jackson finished her address by giving a paper on The Home Maker.

Miss Ethel M. Chapman of Toronto gave the next address which was very interesting and instructive on Institutes, particularly among the juniors, and enumerated different ways by which the girls could earn money among them being to raise chickens and to go into gardening. She spoke of the charitable work being done by some of the girls who take the sewing course given by the department and who alter garments for needy families. Others had helped to do cleaning where there had been illness. Miss Chapman said that the Government was looking after the health of twenty-seven places in British Columbia by providing a doctor. Historical Research has been taken up by some districts and the speaker advised the ladies to find out all that they could about the history of their locality.

The meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the national anthem.

Don't your Mother know that Cod Liver Extract will put pounds of good healthy flesh on your bones in just a few weeks?

Tell her every druggist has it in liquor-coated tablet form now so that in just a few weeks she can help you get back your appetite—make your body stronger—your feet nimble and your mind keener.

BELLE THEATRE

Dix's popularity did not start with the screen. Previous to his entering into the line of the celluloid, he was well-known as an actor on the legitimate stage. After graduating from the University of Minnesota, Mr. Dix, a native of St. Paul, decided on a theatrical career. He first trod the boards as a member of the cast in support of William Faversham in "The Hawk." For some time he played leads in stock and was for two and a half years a member of the Morosco Stock Company in Los Angeles. It was but a short step to the studios of Hollywood. His success in films was instantaneous, and since that day, his climb to fame has been rapid. His work will long be remembered in the pictures he has made since his connection with Paramount. Such pictures as "The Vanishing American," "The Lucky Devil," "Womanhandled," "Let's Get Married," "Quarterback" and now "Paradise for Two" have insured his popularity with the public at the Belle today.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Pirons of the Capitol last night were treated to one of the best plays to take of the Imperial Players in their night weeks run in Belleville. Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde in their offering for the first three days of the week and to say that this well known story is thrilling and extraordinarily well presented by these capable players is putting it mildly. If you enjoy something that is different, a play that provides thrills galore, that keeps you on the "edge of your seat" then see this one. You'll enjoy it as much or more than any of the Imperial Players offerings so far in this city.

OnO the screen, Hotel Imperial starring Pola Negri, another story dealing with the Great war, depicts well military life and is a thoroughly interesting story portrayed by a good cast.

SICK ABED EIGHT MONTHS

After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Could Do All Her Work and Gained in Weight

Melfort, Saskatchewan.—"I had inward troubles, headaches and severe pains in my back and sides. I was so sick generally that I could not set up and I was sick eight months. I was unable to attend to my baby and could not do my housework. She told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking two bottles I could get up and dress myself. I also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine. When I first took the medicine I only weighed seventy-eight pounds. Now I weigh twice as much. I'll get well and stay well as long as I live and can't sleep I always take another bottle of the Vegetable Compound. I find it wonderfully good for female troubles, and have recommended it to my neighbors. I will be only too glad to answer any letters I receive asking about it."—Mrs. William Brooks, Box 608, Melfort, Saskatchewan.

YANKS ENTRENCH SELVES AT TOP

White Sox and Cleveland Divide Double-Header

New York, June 28.—Rather tame doings at the Stadium yesterday after two previous days of storm and stress. The Yanks won in what is technically known as a walk, and the Athletics, losing by 6 to 2, took up a previously prepared position some nine games to the rear and southwest of the champions.

A small washday crowd pressed fitfully through the proceedings, which were highly conducive to unbroken slumber. In the first inning Paul Combs hit a homer, and in the fourth Lazzeri hit another with a man on base. Any customer who wanted to go to sleep after that could do so with out regretting it the remainder of his life.

The pitching of Dutch Reuther was so smooth and high powered that Connie Mackmen receded rapidly before him and the game was played to the amazing time of one hour and forty-seven minutes. Until the ninth, the Athletics had annoyed Mr. Reuther for no runs at all and had made only five hits, and it looked as if the former Dutch-tub of Pittsburh was safely on his way to his fourth shut-out of the season.

The White Sox and Cleveland divided a double-header at Chicago, the first hammering out a 7 to 2 victory in the first game, and the Indians turning the tables on them in the second encounter, 12 to 4. Lyons was master of the Indians in the first game, but southpaw Bert Cole, and his relief pitcher Charley Barnabe, were shelled for 10 hits. U. S. was at Boston in 1849.

BRITISH CONSOLS GOLF TOURNEY AT KINGSTON

The British Consols Golf Tournament will be played again this year at the Cataraqui Golf and Country Club at Kingston on Wednesday, July 6th, and a large entry is expected as this Cup is for competition and open to all members of the various Clubs in Eastern and Central Ontario. It is a 36 hole match and the maximum handicap allowed is 20. Following the competition there will be a dance at the Club House. Quite a number of local golfers intend to enter as it is the major golfing event in this part of Ontario.

GIANTS HELD TO FIVE BINGLES

Cardinals Pound Pittsburgh Pitchers Hard and Win 7-5

Philadelphia, June 28.—A blaze that started in the Phillies' inflammable ball park was quenched no more completely by a single fearless fireman than the Giants were quelched by Weeping Claude Willoughby here yesterday afternoon.

It took one squirt from an extinguisher to put out the flame, while the fans howled hopefully, "Let it burn." It took just about so much effort for Mr. Willoughby to shut out the Giants, 6 to 0, while the celebrated sluggers howled for mercy.

The five hits made by the Giants off Mr. Willoughby were few, but they made use of the majority of their number. Of the majority of their nine, acquired off Bill Clarkson and Burleigh Grimes.

The Cardinals pounded four Pittsburgh pitchers for eleven hits at St. Louis yesterday and won, 7 to 5, thus advancing to within a half-game of the league leadership.

Flint Rhem allowed the visitors nine safeties, but not more than one to an inning, except in the sixth, when a single double and home-run brought in three runs.

Frankie Frisch got two hits and stole his twenty-second base yesterday after noon. Bottomley got two doubles and a single.

The Chicago Cubs avenged themselves yesterday for the defeat they received from the Reds on Sunday by walloping two Red pitchers to win the second game at Cincinnati, 11 to 4.

Cincinnati, true to scoring form, brought over one run in the first inning, but then waded away to the seven th before striking a run of three more scores.

Mays lasted until Chicago filled the bases in the seventh inning and drew in two runs, after which Kolp took the rest of the route. The Cubs mit for four runs in the third and piled up their remaining counters in the eighth and ninth.

A gas heater explosion caused $5000 damage to Acme Hotel, Chicago.

While fishing near a dam in East Clair, Wis., 5-year-old James Pape was drowned.

ROCHESTER DEFEAT NEWARK BEARS 10-6

New York, June 28.—Rochester gained an even break on the series by winning at Syracuse, 10 to 6. Thormahlen and Stout were the only effective pitchers. Thormahlen relieving Horne, stopped the Blues and Stout faned two men in the ninth, relieving Haid. Eddie Onslow, first baseman and captain of the Tribe, was put out of the game in the fifth for using abusive language to Umpire Gaston.

Newark made a clean sweep of the five-game series at Reading by taking the final game today, 11 to 2. The Newark team slammed out 19 base-hits, including triples by Elliott, Colas and Rickin. Bill Moore pitched the second victory of the series. He bowed to Kress in the first of the series.

SOFTBALL TONIGHT

At 6.15 this evening on the High School Grounds the Intelligencer softball team and the Grads will hook up in an exhibition game. A good fast game is assured and a good crowd will likely attend. The Grads are a fast bunch of young players and gave the newspapermen a trimming some time ago but tonight the Intelligencer boys are out for a win. A meeting was called for last night at the Y.M.C.A. to try to form an Industrial Softball League but only two representatives were present and nothing was done. It is getting late and if something is not done soon the long summer evenings will be over and a goodly lot of the popular past time will be lost, something ought to be done and done soon.

A picture made from minute pieces of pasteboard cards by a London house maid has been presented to Queen Mary. The picture represents a bouquet of flowers and leaves, topped by a blue butterfly, and was recently on show at an art exhibition.

No person — man, woman or child, can do his or her best work if suffering from eye strain. The discomforts that result therefrom prevent the proper performing of duties, and operate against ones success. A brief examination here will reveal the exact condition of your eyes.

Joe Wright Jr. Defeats Collett English Carsman--Army Aviators Complete Honolulu Air Journey

PACIFIC FLIERS COMPLETE AIR VOYAGE SAFELY

'Arrived In Honolulu Shortly After Six This Morning

2400 MILE TRIP

Maitland and Hagenberger Greeted By Island Army Officers

Honolulu, June 29.—Army Fokker monoplane carrying Lieutenants Maitland and Hagenberger arrived here from SanFrancisco at 6.22 a.m. today. The army fliers who left Oakland at 7.09 a.m. yesterday, finished the trans' Pacific flight in 25 hours, 43 minutes.

In their flight of approximately twenty-four hundred miles, Maitland and Hagenberger completed the longest trans Oceanic flight ever accomplished.

The landing was made on the rain soaked field. The huge plane lasted the entire length of the field, then circling, came back to the front of the review stand, where the highest army, Navy and Civil authorities on the island were waiting to extend congratulations to the fliers.

Warmly Welcomed

Crowds who were on way to their home hurriedly returned to the field, and went wild with enthusiasm as the plane stopped.

Throughout their long flight they had been reported seen only once by the steamer Sonoma, 750 miles from California. The army fliers came in through the bright sunshine that had cleared away the rain and the gloom of last night that shrouded their landing place.

Thousands who had waited through the long night had begun to disperse when the aviators came through the haze to a triumphant landing.

The course this year will be the same as that of last year, from the Rossmore Beach to the Government dock at Bellevue and not in Victoria Park, as reported in one of the celebration announcements.

Quite a number of candidates have been in training for this event and it is fully anticipated that the time for the course this year will be much better than on the initial occasion.

BABY BAPTIZED IN 60-YEAR-OLD ROBE

Jean Edith, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert L. Wiley, was baptized at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert L. Wiley, Murray, on Sunday, June 26th, Rev. Richard Street, of Stockdale, officiating. The lovely baby wore a very long christening robe of hand embroidered Irish linen, the work of her great Grandmother, the late Mrs. Edward Golden, of Clones, Ireland, who embroidered the robe sixty years ago for the childs great grand aunt, now Mrs. Alex Gordon, of Hanley, California, for her christening and it was later worn by the baby's grandmother, Mrs. W. D. Nickle, of Manoir. The beautiful dress with its low cut neck line and embroidered shoulder caps taking the place of sleeves, the latter caught back by blue ribbon bows, was embroidered in the old-fashioned spraying and the front panel was formed by tiny hand run tucks. The lovely heirloom is in perfect preservation and highly prized by the family.

MRS. NORTH IS MADE RECIPIENT

Silver Flower Basket Presented To Departing President

To say farewell to Mrs. N. P. North, Pine street, the 1927 management and ladies' bowling teams of the C. H. I. gathered at her home last evening and in the course of the happy hour spent, on behalf of the ladies, Mrs. Orne, winning Captain, presented a beautiful silver flower basket to Mrs. North who has been President of the League for 1927. Mrs. Jordan read an address expressing the appreciation felt by the bowlers for Mrs. North both as a fellow player and as President and the widespread regret felt amongst them at her intended departure to make her home in Hornepayne where Mr. North has been appointed to the responsible position of Superintendent of the C. N. R. of this division. Though quite unaware that such a delightful presentation was to be made, Mrs. North responded most gracefully to the address and thanked the ladies for their kind thoughts and generosity assuring them that the beautiful basket would be one of her most highly prized possessions, a constant reminder of some of the happiest hours of her life in Belleville.

JOE WRIGHT WINS FIRST HEAT OF DIAMOND SCULLS

Argo Star Defeats English Oarsman By Two Lengths

RACED IN RAIN

Toronto Boy Conceded Even Chance Of Capturing Laurels

Henley-On-Thames, Eng., June 29.—Joe Wright Jr., Canadian sculler, won from T. D. Collett, the English oarsman, by two lengths in their heat for the Diamond Sculls this afternoon.

Wright did the mile and 550 yards in eight minutes, forty-nine seconds, considerably better than the times recorded by J. Beresford and G. Oyer in winning their respective heats previously.

Wright and Collett rowed in the pouring rain. Collett showed poor form, rowing with a dropping head. He pulled well but there was little power behind his strokes. When the race started Wright failed to make any impression along Regatta Island and as the pair reached Fawley, Collett began to forge ahead. Before the mile post was reached, however, Wright made some gain on Collett's half length lead.

Here a great struggle commenced. Wright looked as if he might crack he pulled dangerously near to the booms, and only the shouts of spectators prevented him from crashing into them. In the last 250 yards Wright pulled better, reducing Collett's lead. A little distance from winning post the Canadian passed his opponent, and as the latter stopped rowing, Wright's boat drifted past finishing at the post two lengths in front.

BEER BY GLASS IN MANITOBA

Winnipeg, Man., June 29.—Sale of beer by the glass in licensed premises under Government Control appeared to be assured for Manitoba today, following a referendum held yesterday in conjunction with the provincial election. It was a case of country versus cities and cities on the result of incomplete returns, appear to have won.

The returns today still were far from complete, but a large majority from the cities in favor of the beer is sufficient to assure the passing of extension regulations. In towns and rural districts a vote of beer by the bottle with "cash and carry" system was favored.

CONFEDERATION BABY

Files Reveal Birth of Daughter To Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Scholes, July 1, 1867.

Confederation Day, 1867, meant more to Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Scholes, of this city than the long looked for union of the provinces of Canada, because, according to the old files of the Intelligencer a daughter was born to them on that day.

Mr. Scholes was for many years a business partner of Mr. George Wallbridge, of this city, in the grocery business, later moving to Toronto where he had since died.

The Intelligencer was unable this afternoon to ascertain whether "Belleville's Confederation Baby" is still living and what her present address is. If any reader can furnish any information about this lady will they kindly communicate with this office.

RETURNS BY AIR

Conveys Best Wishes To Maitland In Radio Message

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., June 29.—Commander Richard E. Byrd and his three man crey took off on their long delayed scientific air expedition to France in the monoplane America at dawn to-day.

The great three motored Fokker took the air at 5.45 o'clock, Eastern daylight time.

The plane passed Cape Cod at 7.22 according to a radio received here from Commander Byrd. The Commander reported it "misty and rainy, all well," the speed of the plane was estimated at 106 miles an hour. Report from Prince Town Mass., says plane, believed to be America, passed at 7.20.

He who runs may read the name of the America and there will be little doubt of her identity when the trans-Atlantic air voyage has passed. The name of the triple-motors monoplane appears on the plane's side in huge let ters of red, white and blue and may be read at a great height.

The ship is all lettered up, but none of the decorations approaches the name in size. "The word "Peace" appears with an olive branch decoration and "U. S. Air Mail," is announced, Designation N X-206 and A. T. C, the words of commander Byrd "America, Trans-Oceanic Company," are shown just as for North American. "Air" is for "Experimental" and "206" the license number.

Beat Lindy's Time

Louisburg, N. S., June 29.—The America left the coast of Nova Scotia at 1.30 Eastern Daylight Time and headed out to sea for New Foundland. Commander Byrd flew directly over the town at a comparitively low altitude. At that time the America had been in the air 8 hours and six minutes and had covered approximately 880 miles.

Byrd beat Lindberghs time over Nova Scotia by one hour and five minutes.

Halifax, N. S. June 29. —America passed over Martin river, forty miles from Louisburg, at 1.30 Eastern Daylight Time, this morning. Commander Byrd was flying very high. The thick fog is reported off the coast with little or no wind. At 91.35 the plane was sighted at Bedford, nine miles from this city.

Halifax, N. S., June 29—Shortly after nine o'clock Eastern Daylight Time an intercepted message from Commander Byrd stated he was still out of sight of land, flying at an altitude of 9,000 ft. a mile. He added weather was getting chilly.

Message picked up at Boston at 8.41 said the America was half way between Cape Cod and Yarmouth, N. S.

Halifax, N. S., June 29.—Messages from Commander Byrd to Floyd Bennett and conveying the fliers best wish es to Lieut. Maitland, who flew from San Francisco to Hawaii, arriving today were picked up here. The mess ages said wind does not help at the surface.

Boston, Mass., June 29.—(Byrd)—At 9.29 Eastern Daylight Time, radio message America, intercepted here, said it was flying very high and calm.

Metighan, N. S., June 29,—(Byrd)—Plane flying very high and calm sighted shortly after ten o'clock Eastern Daylight Time. It was headed in the direction of Halifax.

Will Fly Back

CITY SWEEPER ARRIVES HERE

Demonstration Will Be Given On Victoria Ave

The new city sweeper has arrived and was unloaded at seven o'clock last evening and driven to its temporary home, Raynor's Garage. The sweeper is of Elgin make, manufactured in Elgin, Illinois and the brush is at what a first glance looks like the back of the machine, but in reality is at the fore the radiator being in the rear of the machine. The Elgin Company sent a man along with the machine to teach the city employees how to drive it, and will remain here for a few days

"I expect to have a little demonstration late this afternoon, "Mr. Charles Campbell, City Engineer, stated to the Intelligencer to-day. "We will probably try the sweeper out on Victoria Ave.

Mr. Rose who li in the milk business was driving east on the highway returning home from collections with numerous cans of milk as a cargo when the accident happened. Passing motor cars sighted the upturned car and Mr. Rose was taken to his home while wreckers this morning brought the car to the city for slight repairs necessary.

SIGNS DESIGNATE TOURIST CAMP BY NIGHT AND DAY

Speaking of signs there are a large number of new signs in evidence in Belleville. Motorists will now have to watch their step coming into the town. Avenue a sign of "Stops" test ify to the fact that the car must be brought to a full halt. Then on the west side of the river are also a number of "stop" signs recently erected.

The City tourist camp boasts two brand new signs, the one pointing east and the other west stating the fact that the "Quinte Tourist Camp" is right there. The billboards are brilliantly lighted at night by electric lights.

Nearby on Front Street this morning stopped and fascinatedly watched an expert sign painter design and letter the new Loblaw Groceterias store pointer. And on the highway on the west hill snowy white signs point out the fact that tourist accomodation may be procured inside every other house. Also on the east side of the McLaughlin Motor Car Company, an expert sign painter was busy to-day with fit brushes painting an Indian's head on the brick wall as an advertisment of the new Pontiac Motor Car. TODAY'S THOUGHT

—PROUDE.

FLORAL AVENUE

Belleville possesses many beauty spots and especially at this season of the year is the city remarkable with its flower beds and well-kept lawns.

The average pedestrian on Bridge Street, East, is apt to pass by, unnoticing the veritable Garden of Eden with which he is surrounded.

The property owners on Bridge street take the greatest of pride in maintaining their lawns, boulevards and flower gardens at the highest pitch of excellency. They vie with one another in the art of beautifying the outward appearance of their palatial residences.

It is unfortunate that the tourist traffic could not be routed by Bridge street as those of other cities who are passing through really miss a section that could compare favorably with that of any other thoroughfare in any Ontario centre.

Major A. L. Johnston, through constant labor has a choice collection of flowers and his display of peonies and iris attract the eye.

St. Thomas' lawn is another spot that is wonderfully well kept and preserved, and reflects great credit upon the caretaker who has spent hours in the work of maintaining its present appearance. In this instance there are many more on Bridge street that one might mention.

The flower garden at the Canadian National north depot, which has been transformed from a rubbish heap to a thing of beauty, is a source of pride to Supt. "Dan" McMillan who was in the main responsible for the change.

The residence of L. B. Cooper on Moira street, west, is a horticulturist's paradise with its many beautiful flowers.

Port Hope, St. Thomas, Guelph and other Ontario cities claim the distinction of being the "prettiest town in Canada," but Bellevillians may point with pride to her many beautiful residences and gardens and rest assured that we do not need to visit foreign fields in order to get our tastes for beauty satisfied.

STOP STREETS

A multitude of motorists appear to be blind or seized with that ever-lasting mania for "speed—more speed," judging from the manner in which many of them obey the signs denoting "Stop Streets" prominently displayed at the various intersections throughout the city. An accident was narrowly averted at the corner of Charles and Bridge streets, the other afternoon following the failure of a driver to momentarily halt before turning into the main thoroughfare, and cases of this kind are occuring every day. The signs were not placed there at all ornament, but as a means of curbing the number of increasing motor accidents, and a minute lost is much better than a possible fatal crash. The City Council made an excellent move when the signs were erected and car drivers must be taught to observe them.

DIVORCES

A London cable carries the interesting information that since the ban on the publication of details of divorce cases in Great Britain there has been a large increase in the number of divorces, and particularly in the number of "undefended actions." During a six weeks' term which has just ended, London judges dealt with a total of over 700 divorce cases, over 625 of them being undefended.

This increase affords no positive proof that publicity is a check to divorce. It is a fact, however, that publicity has the effect of keeping people out of divorce courts; nobody except the most callous relishing the publication of details of a personal and discreditable character. So that it may well be that when the British Parliament put a ban on the reporting of divorce cases it checked one evil only to promote another.

ATTRACTS ATTENTION

Apart from what it may achieve in promoting national unity, the Diamond Jubilee Celebration is bringing Canada a magnificent world advertisement. All the leading newspapers of the United States are vieing with each other in devoting columns of space to the Dominion. The New York Times has already carried a number of lengthy articles dealing with Canada's progress and possibilities; the Christian Science Monitor has evinced similar interest; and the New York Herald-Tribune is getting out a special Canadian number for July 1.

And so in Great Britain. All the British newspapers and reviews are printing despatches and articles about the celebration, while the London Times, with its usual interest in every thing that concerns the Empire, has turned out a special Canada number which also contain at least one hundred thousands words about the Dominion. It is, by long odds, the best review and survey of Canada and Canadian affairs that we have ever seen in any outside publication, and its benefical effect is bound to be enormous. The money voted by the Government for the celebration was certainly a good investment.

THE FUTURE

O vague unknown that stretches far,
And ever far before me,
I wonder what your mysteries are,
And what happiness you hold me.

I long to unlatch that hidden veil
That hides the future, guards it ever;
But in its duties it does not fail,
And I can glance behind it—never.

—Wife—John, dear, I felt I must come to the office. I suddenly had such a longing to see you.
Husband—Did you bring the bill as well?

—Mother (reprovingly)—When I was young girls never thought of doing the things they do today.

SAVES CHANGING RECORDS

Revolutionizing all previous standards of the perfect in such instruments as Orthophonic automatic victrola device has been placed on the market, which electrically run will play twelve selected records for 53 consecutive minutes. The beautiful instrument of hand carved walnut and resembling a splendid piano, is equipped with an apparatus which automatically changes the record just played, tages it carefully to another portion of the instrument and replaces it with the next record desired, the whole process so strikingly human that one almost rubs ones eyes to make sure he is not dreaming and seeing and hearing what has now been accomplished. WHEN CANADA REACHED AS FAR AS LOUISIANA

Those who have studied botany may have noticed certain plants described as "Canadensis" or "Canadense" which are not found in Canada at all. This is explained by the fact that when botanical terminology was fixed, Canada included practically all the territory east of the Mississippi down as far as Louisiana. Both before and since Confederation the territorial boundaries of Canada have experienced remarkable changes, and there is no more fascinating phase of the evolution of Canada from a colony into the present vast self-governing Dominion than the history of that invisible border-line within which is enclosed the territorial heritage of the Canadian People.

As a contribution to the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation, therefore, a brochure dealing with this aspect of Canadian History which has been issued by the Bank of Montreal should be both timely and welcome to students, adult and junior and to the general public. With much of this history the Bank is itself directly associated, for it was founded when Canada territorially centred solely around the St. Lawrence system and rivers formed its chief highways. In those days, railways and ocean steamships were unknown, and the Bank itself provided the colony's first organized system of finance and its first domestic currency.

"The Birth and Growth of Canada" is the title of the booklet. The story begins in the 16th century, when, after Spain had claimed parts of North and South America, the French and English came to claim their share in the vast new world which till then had been hidden from the knowledge of the people of western civilization. The explorations, colonizations and conflicts of these two great nations as affecting the spheres of influence of both on this continent are sketched from the time when the representatives of each roamed at will in the mysterious unknown of a country whose limits neither knew, until the interest of each man centred in a portion which became crystallized under the name of Canada. The latter, as has been mentioned, reached westward to the centre of the continent and southward to Louisiana. For this prize the two great nations ultimately became locked in deadly conflict, and to the daring adventurers and heroic pioneers of both, the new nation which now claims as its homeland practically the whole of the northern half of this continent owes its heritage. This fact is recognized in the Booklet, by two chapters headed respectively, "Our Heritage from France," and "Our Heritage from Britain."

How, from the vast territory originally claimed, Canada shrank to a small colony in the St. Lawrence Valley, and then expanded east and west and north into a unit larger than the original, is a story that is told graphically and succinctly in the booklet and each stage in the process of Canada's changing borderline is illustrated by maps that form an interesting and valuable series.

Few realize how vast have been the changes in this borderline within the memory of people still living. For instance, sixty years ago the four original Provinces of the Canadian Confederacy contained 350,188 square miles of land and inland waters ,where as now the land and water are of Canada is estimate at a grand total of 3,967,123 square miles. Within the present year, the border-line of Canada has undergone a further change following the Privy Council's judgment on the Labrador Boundary. The history of each is given.

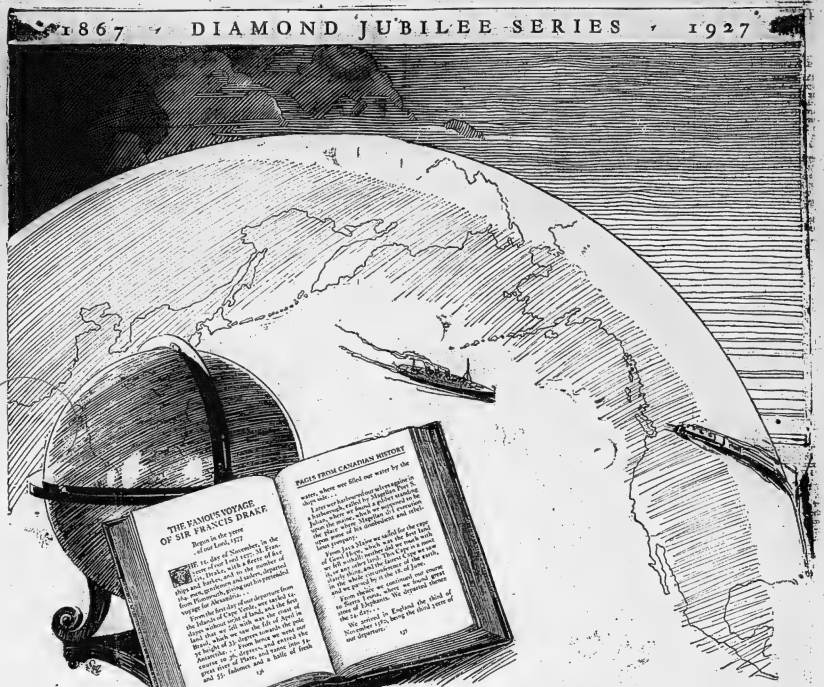

Summing up the territorial heritage of Canadians, the booklet says, "Rich in every form of material wealth, in fertile soil, in minerals, in forest, fish and fur, in water-power and coal, in railways, roadways and waterways, it is rich above all in the quality of its human population, drawn chiefly from the kindred stocks of Britain and of France. It is a land peculiarly fitted by its bracing Northern climate to breed one of the strongest races in the human family. Already, the energy of its nine millions, a handful of humanity spread over no vast an expanse, has lifted Canada to third place among the exporting nations of the world. With the great human reinforcements which may now confidently be expected, the Canadian people look forward to a growth and prosperity far exceeding the wonderful progress of these sixty years.

SHOES SOLD FOR SUM OF $1000

Paris, June 25.—Rumors that one exclusive shoe designer recently sold one pair of shoes for 25,000 francs or $1,000—are causing ripples of astonishment in the dress world.

The shoes, said to have been purchased for a foreign client, had heels of real gold with a rich encrustation of semi-precious stones, reports quotes this as the highest price paid for shoes without precious stones on them.

1867 DIAMOND JUBILEE SERIES 1927

WITH all their faith and all their foresight, the Fathers of Confederation cannot have even imagined, sixty years ago, the world influence that their new-made country was destined to exert in the twentieth century.

Their chief concern was to keep the Provinces together, to preserve their integrity, to bind them, with tracks of steel and cords of understanding, into a great nation. But the effect of their accomplishment, of the unification and opening up of this vast territory, has been felt to the ends of the earth. The Canadian Pacific, at first a means of bridging the Continent, has spanned the world—and spanned it for Canada!

Its ships, laden with the silks, the spices, the fabrics of the Orient, transfer their cargoes to its trains which race across the continent to reload their precious freight into fresh vessels bound for Great Britain or Europe under the same Company flag. In every port and commercial city of the world are to be found Canadian Pacific representatives seeking and obtaining business for Canada, to be handled by Canadian ships and trains.

The regular sailings of the ships are supplemented by those of cruising vessels carrying passengers on pleasure or education bent, and flying the House Flag in every quarter of the globe. This traffic enhances the trade of Canada, gives employment to more than 80,000 workers, consumes a huge volume of supplies, mainly of Canadian origin.

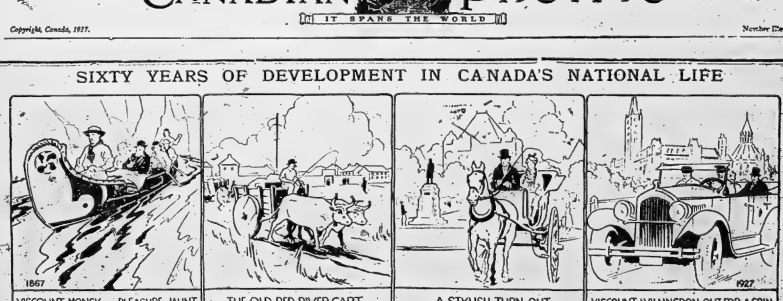

But more important even than this is the world outlook that it gives to the Canadian people, the influence that it gives to Canada in world affairs.

HORNBLOWER IS STILL EVIDENT

Bipon, Eng., June 28.—This ancient Yorkshire cathedral town still has no official hornblower, who, every night, wet or dry, carries out the old ceremony of setting the watch. The watch has been set daily for more than 1000 years. Records show that the custom started before the time of Alfred the Great, who incorporated the town in 886.

The note of the horn in olden days signalled the setting of a watch, or guard, over the town. The horn—blown or still carries out the old-time custom. Clad in a quaint, three-cornered hat square of the city sheriff before hat, he takes up a position in the marketplace o'clock every night. He stands listening. The cathedral clock chimes the hour, and before the sound of the last note has died away he raises his horn to his lips and sends out a long mournful blast. Marching to the four corners of the square he repeats the melancholy sound at each of them.

60TH YEAR OF CANADA'S GREAT MOTOR CONCERN

Diamond Jubilee Year Of General Motors Corporation

Although the automobile is a development of the last decade or two it is a paradoxical fact that the most important automotive concern in Canada will celebrate its jubilee this year. For it was in 1867 that Robert McLaughlin, a young farmer of Durham County, Ontario, began to devote himself to the manufacture of carriages and sleighs.

That was laid the foundation of the McLaughlin Carriage Company, which later became the McLaughlin Motor Car Company, and with the addition of other units, formed the nucleus of the present huge firm of General Motors of Canada, Limited. It is a striking thing that one of the sons of the original founder of the McLaughlin business should be at the present time the President of the company which is the monument to his enterprise.

The story of the rise of the McLaughlin Business is the typical romance of most pioneer firms, of a desperate struggle against the competition of scores of small business serving only their immediate localities. It was the McLaughlin policy to make goods wisely and that the best" which through the years established the company in many a national status. The first thing heard of young McLaughlin's products outside the village of where in 1876, he had established a factory, was when an exhibit of his carriages and sleighs was made at a United County Fair at Roxannaville in 1877. McLaughlin's three vehicles all took first prizes, and laid the foundation of his wide reputation.

In 1879, to ensure better shipping facilities and more regular supply, the business was moved to Oshawa. There with a hectic interval when after total destruction by fire the firm operated from Gananoque, the McLaughlin Carriage Company grew and prospered every working day of the year.

BELLE THEATRE

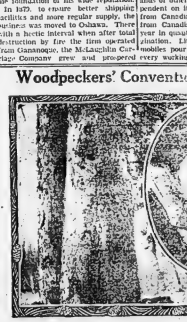

"The Queen of La Salle" is the latest thriller starring Mix as Tom Mills, leader of his own home rangers who becomes a dare-devil while fighting in France.

Romantically for the bears of the Yellowstone is one continuous feast, with real ruin banquets morning, noon and night, every time the hotel kitchen scraps from the various hotels are dumped, last time observers of the park found their appetites revived when the Mix chuck wagon arrived on location in the park.

The bears soon caught the scent of food cooking in the open and soon gathered at the edges of the clearing where the wagon was located. They prowled around the tents and the kitchen, indicating they were satisfied they could make a little change in their diet. Occasionally one of the more adventurous would approach the chuck wagon and stand on his hind feet to sniff the chowning goodies longer but when the lone 4-dream vehicle rose the road. After many furious endeavors the McLaughlin-Motor Car Company was formed in 1907, and "Car of the Standard Car" was put on the market.

So successful was the new venture that in 1915 the entire business interest was sold, and another motor manufacturing unit the McLaughlin Motor Company of Canada, substituted in its place. One after another further lines were added until now General Motors of Canada manufactures Cherolet, Oldsmobile, Oakland, McLaughlin-Buicks, LaSalle and Cadillac automobiles, Yellow Coaches and General Motors trucks.

The original staff of three men has grown until the industry that Mr. McLaughlin founded employs about four thousand five hundred men and women in the offices and factories, with thousands of others throughout Canada dependent on it for a livelihood. Wood from Canadian forests and minerals from Canadian mines are used each year in quantities that beggar the imagination. Literally hundreds of automobiles pour off the assembly lines

Woodpeckers' Convention

In one of his lectures delivered at the Banff Springs Hotel, Dan McCowan, the well-known Canadian naturalist, tells a wonderfully interesting story concerning a bird convention held in the Canadian Pacific Rockies during the fall of 1926. At that time the new Banff Springs Hotel was under construction and large numbers of structural steel workers were employed in riveting the fabric around which a dream palace had been evolved. There was the loud clanging of steel as the heavy girders were lifted and raised into place. Winches rattled and engines bloned incessantly. Above all other sounds rose the staccato "rat-tat-tat" of scores of riveting hammers.

Far up the Forty Mile Valley of the Bow this sound was borne; it reverbered from cliff and crag on grey Mount Rundle. It shattered the silence in the deep green woods that clothe the valley and the mountain slopes.

Throughout this extensive forested area around Banff and Lake Louise, many woodpeckers are to be found in all seasons of the year. To these feathered foresters came the sound of the riveters at work; it was interpreted by them as the noise of a host of tree loving birds, hammering and drilling in the bark and timber of Douglas Fir and Spruce. Instinctively they hastened to the scene of the disturbance, and with a keen eye and enterprising members of the tribe indicated a army of tree-infesting grubs and that there would be a feast for all who could get there in time. Summons broadcasted so clearly.

The bird convention was a large black plumaged bird with crest of bright red on head and throat, flew through the woods like a fiery torch and could be seen miles to who with his loud and raucous cry. Also there was the handsome downy boaer birds in the ancient order of woodpeckers, clinging to the bark of trees and with heads adant, hammered copiously to this strange drumming of hammers on steel.

Such an assemblage of Woodpeckers had never before been seen in the valley of the Bow. The woods seemed alive with birds of this breed. Unlike most conventions held at Banff, this one could hardly be termed a success. No doubt the birds were disillusioned and deeply disappointed that the promised land did not materialize. Nevertheless there must have been compensation for the number of family re-unions made possible by the call of the hammers that fashioned the framework of a great castle in the heart of the Rockies.

CONFEDERATED STORES

When the Fathers of Confederation met sixty years ago to organize the scattered provinces into one strong whole, they acted on the same principle which is prompting the Canadian Department-Stores Limited to-day.

They knew that several states existing independently, with no organized interests to link them together could never be as efficient as a Dominion of federated provinces with one central Federal Government to deal with matters that influenced them all.

In sixty years we have proved them right, and the nation that was founded in Ontario and Quebec now spreads from ocean to ocean—a recognized power in world affairs.

We believe that, as the Dominion of Canada succeeded, so the Canadian Department-Stores Limited must succeed in their aim of better values, and ultimately form a great confederation of chain stores reaching from Halifax to Vancouver

HOW CAN ONE GAGE LASTING AFFECTION?

By ELSIE MARLOWE

Are you as affectionate as the man you are going to marry? Or less so? Do you like to show your love in a thousand little caressing ways, or does it bore you to pet and talk about love?

These are not silly questions. They are vitally important questions—the most important of all questions which should be asked before marriage. Beatrice is asking them today.

DEAR ELSIE:

I am engaged to a fine man but it is understood that we won't be married for a few months. We have been engaged for some time. Within the last few weeks my fiance seems to have changed. He is not as affectionate as he used to be. He used to caress me at one time, insisting that I sit on his lap. And how he did linger over his good-night kiss! But now it's a case of "take a chair and sit near me," and "it's getting late, don't keep me." In fact I feel that my affection is not being reciprocated.

I feel very badly about it. I certainly love my sweetheart, Elsie. I know he doesn't go with anyone else, as he spends all his time with me. And he seems anxious to get married. When I speak to him about it, he always says—"I'm tired." "Let's discuss it later," or "we don't have to talk of love all the time." These statements are certainly without foundation. Surely if a girl loves a man enough to marry him, she will want to be car essed once in a while.

My sweetheart has never been intensely affectionate, but these last few months have been the limit. I wonder if it is because he feels so certain of me that he doesn't think it is necessary to show me any affection. Do you suppose this difference will adjust itself after marriage?

BEATRICE.

Will this difference adjust itself after marriage?

We usually think it will, Beatrice. But it seldom does. And hereby hangs the secret of countless wrecked marriages.

"She hasn't a very loving nature," muses Bill of his Bess, "but that's all right. Women aren't naturally affectionate." As soon as she's married she will learn to be more demonstrative."

"He's so dreadfully cold and formal. And I do like a little show of love," whispers Phyllis of her Phil. "But I suppose that won't matter. The important thing is that we share the same mental interests. And he is so kind and good and honest, even if he hasn't fiery kisses me. I'm sure we will be happy."

They're both pitifully, hideously wrong. The chances are about 999 out of 1000 that neither Bill nor Bess nor Phyllis nor Phil will be happy, if they marry under such conditions.

Bill is all wrong in his estimate of woman nature. Affection is as natur al to most women as it is to men. Love burns just as warmly in a woman's heart, and the need of expression is just as great. Once upon a time it was considered improper for a young woman to "show her feelings," and she was forced to veil her nature. That is no longer so. Our present code allows the girl to be as frank and affectionate as a boy.

If a modern girl seems cool and "stand-offish" it is safe to conclude that she IS cool and stand-offish and will remain so after marriage. She may be an admirable comrade in every other respect, but she'll never be a harmonious mate. And all the "mental interests" in the world won't make up for that fundamental lack.

The same thing applies to a man, Beatrice. Your young man may be a good provider, but if he can't provide you with the essential emotional response which your loving, healthy nature craves you had better not marry him.

These are solemn, sacred facts. Every girl and man should be made to consider them before entering marriage.

A Soldier's Wound is Healed at Last

For years this ex-service man had suffered with a running wound which Army Surgeons and regular medical practitioners failed to heal. It is only natural that he should now be enthusiastic about the healing power of Dr. Chase's Ointment for he has obtained complete relief by its use. Read his letter.

Mr. Samuel Susman, Looms Alta., writes:—"I had been bothered with a running wound for the last seven years and was treated by Army Surgeons and Civil Practitioners, but could get no relief. I was in despair, thinking that all my life I must be content to suffer my lot. I had a brother who knew about Dr. Chase's medicine and on his advice I started using your Ointment. I obtained excellent results from this and am now finally relieved. I have nothing but praise for Dr. Chase's Ointment and would recommend it to any ex-service man troubled as I was with a running wound."

Wherever there is irritation of the skin or a sore which refuses to heal you can depend on Dr. Chase's Ointment to afford prompt and lasting relief. 60 cents at all dealers, or The Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN

By Mildred Barbour

THE FINGER OF COINCIDENCE

When Sybil opened the door, a man with a gray slouch hat stood on the threshold. The solitary loiterer!

He was rather short of face. The sharpness of his nose and chin suggested a rodent, and his eyes, under the low slouch, were bright as a rat's.

He threw a quick look over his shoulder, as if to reassure himself that the coast was clear, and, before Sybil could close it, he entered and clicked the door sharply behind him.

"What—how dare—?" Sybil was beginning.

"Is there any one here with you?"

"Yes," fibbed Sybil quickly. "I have a caller. What do you want? Who are you?"

The unwelcome visitor swore under his breath. "Say, I gotta see you." His voice was scarcely above a whisper. "Where can I talk to you? I don't want nobody to hear us."

At the flashing indignation in Sybil's eyes, he whispered—

"Ted. I've got a message from your brother Ted."

Sybil whitened, but she said wearily, "Come in. I told an attendant, when I said some one was here. What have you to tell me about my brother?"

"Whew! It's hot as the hinges of hell right, after the day I've had, hanging around in the blasted sun, waiting a chance to get to you. I thought the gink with the bus would never go. When I strolled over, I saw you was at home, 'cause Ted had told me where your apartment was. But I was afraid to come in until I was sure the road was clear. The bulls mightn teamed up with you, now that they know you and Ted are kin."

Sybil's eyes widened.

"What are you talking about?" she demanded sharply.

"It's like that," he explained patiently, fanning himself with his hat. "Ted got to South America all right—see? But the mugs got tipped off some how that he and this Ted Bloan that had got into that little trouble out west were one and the same guy—see? It seems like they can extradite a gink for that particular job, so Ted had to go in hiding. He can't earn any money and he's plumb busted. He wants cash bad, but he's afraid to write to you, cause they've found out all about him and his family, and may maybe know you kin him here in New York, before he beat it. So he wrote to me, he was together some—and asked me to touch you to help him out of a hole. The bulls aint after me," he explained hastily, "but still and all, I don't crave to get mixed up with 'em. That's why I wanted to be sure of the lay of the land before tackling this job with you. And that fellow with the car—I seen him with you here 'at the door, so I'm sure-did have my post."

Sybil had listened with growing distaste. Was she never to hear the last of her worthless brother? She wondered. Her first impulse was to send the unpleasant messenger about his business. But, as he talked on, she doubted the wisdom of that course. Ted would only send others to interview in his behalf. And the less the scandal and disgrace which her ratller effort had circumvented, would break. All her sacrifice would have been in vain and there was her mother. How dreadfully she would feel! And Ted couldn't be left to starve in a foreign country, while he cowered in hiding from the detection of justice.

"Can you get money to him?" she asked her dingy caller.

"Sure," he grinned knowingly.

"What assurance have I that it will ever reach my brother?"

For answer, he hauled a grimy piece of paper from his pocket and showed it to her. The letter, cleverly and ambiguously worded, lest it fall into the wrong hands, was unmistakably in Ted's handwriting.

"I had a hunch you'd think it was a crooked game, so I didn't burn this here letter till now," said the man, touching a match to it and watching it shrivel in a brazen ash-tray.

He gave a sigh of relief.

"I'll bring you the letter Ted writes back, saying he got the dough."

It was the best that Sybil could hope for. If Ted's emissary chose to keep the money, she had no redress.

"I'll get it from the bank to-morrow—what I can spare," she told him, with a sigh. "How shall I reach you?"

"I'll be kind of lingering at the entrance. You can slip it to me in an envelop, as you pass by. Don't come from the front. The type of shirt," his eyes swept the Quater gray crepe, "that patronizes that joint."

Sybil, with a relieved sigh, rose and indicated that the interview was terminated.

"You'd best go quickly," she told her caller, "The young man who was here this afternoon has only gone to put his car in a garage. If he returns and you leaving here-do' she finished the sentence with a shrug.

He winked broadly.

"I get-chal Jealous, eh? Well, say, that guy's in luck!"

Plushing with fury, Sybil snapped "Go quickly!"

She fairly banged the door on his heels. Then she sped to the window, after a hasty glance at the clock which warned her that Dick must even now be returning from the garage to the place next door where he was to pass the night.

If he and that creature should meet!

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

If the potatoes you bought for winter use are not quite sound, add a slice of lemon to the water in which they are boiled. It will prevent them from discoloring and give them a better taste.

One-inch pieces of felt or thin pieces of cork fastened on a door frame will prevent the summer screen door banging against it.

If flour is used as a substitute for cornstarch when sugar is used mix the sugar and flour thoroughly together and the flour will not curdle.

A little turpentine on a cloth used to wipe over the floor of your clothes closet will serve as a warning to moths. Closet and bureau drawers may be treated in like manner.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young lady in my twenties, and have lived in this city for three years and have never become acquainted with any young people. As a result I have no men friends. There happens to be a gentleman in an adjoining county that I have heard a lot about. I would like very much to become acquainted with him, but I do not know how to go about it. I do not know anyone he is acquainted with. Can you help me?

A. O. J.

A. O. J. If you do not know any acquaintance of this young man, there is no way in which you can arrange an introduction. But there is no reason why you should remain friendless. If you have lived in your city for a number of years, you should know of a few clubs (perhaps connected with your church or social center), whose members would be willing to welcome you to their midst. Join these clubs and in this way you will widen your circle of acquaintances. Then, perhaps, you will meet someone who knows the desirable gentleman whom you wish to meet—and your difficulties will be at an end.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

My fiance naturally does not want me to go out with other young men, but I know he calls up other girls, and once while I was away, took another girl out.

Do you think this fair?

SIS.

SIS: No, I don't think this is fair, my dear. And you must make your fiance realize that he has no right to go about with other girls as long as he insists that you limit your friendships.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young girl in my teens and am in love with a man in the thirties. However, he does not seem to take the least bit of interest in me.

What can I do to win him?

ANXIOUS.

ANXIOUS: If this man is not interested in you, you must realize how futile your wish is, my dear. Certainly you do not want to humiliate yourself by pursuing someone who doesn't ask for or appreciate your friendship. Make up your mind to forget this man or else you will be unhappy.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl of eighteen and have been keeping company with a young man twenty-years of age. He is engaged to another girl who is in college. He seems to like me and the other girl also.

Should I drop his company or not?

DAISIES.

DAISIES: If you feel that this young man is really fond of you there is no reason why you should drop him. But if you think that he is merely wasting time until his fiancee returns from college, you should have too much pride to play second fiddle.

I am against the theory of martyrdom. If you love this man and another girl loves him—each of you has a right to his friendship. It may be that he will learn that it is you, and not she, who will make him happy—and until his fiancee comes home you ought not to give him up. Every man for himself and may the best man win!

BLONDE STENO. TOOK THE NOTES

Orleans, France, June 28.—A blonde stenographer taking notes of the Maid of Arc fete day sermon in Holy Cross Cathedral here upset all the religious traditions of the old city which the "Maid of Orleans" delivered from the English in 1429.

Father Sanson, noted Oratorian preacher, was responsible for the change. Formerly, the sermon to be pronounced on the saint's own day was prepared in advance, printed and distributed to all the bookstores and news stands of the city. At the moment the preacher mounted the pulpit, the text was displayed in store windows so all, who either could not find room in the cathedral or who got up too late to attend the solemn high mass, might read it.

But Father Sanson does not believe in "advance copy" or "handouts" for a work of the spirit, nor did he desire to submit his sermon in advance. After a discussion with Mgr. Gouzens, the new archbishop, it was agreed that the preacher of the day should speak "night unseen," but that the typewritten transcript of his sermon should be distributed about town as soon as possible after the service.

RAKES CHURCH OVER THE COALS

San Francisco, Cal., June 27.—"The New Testament" is a book written by a lot of chumps who were thick in the head," declared Rev. William Norman Guthrie, rector of St. Mark's in the Bouverie, New York, in addressing the national congress of the Protestant Episcopal Church recently. Denominationalism, foreign missionaries and other things orthodox were given some vigorous treatment by Rev. Mr. Guthrie.

"Protestantism," he said, "is dead as the dodo. It has to paint itself red to look interesting. Christianity has lost precious things—things Greek, Egyptian and Roman. We must recover our connections with the primitive. Christianity must recover Jesus.

"You can't shoot Christianity into the people of the Orient either with bullets or dogmas.

"I don't believe in foreign missions. I don't expect you to agree with me. I don't want people to agree with me.

"We Christians are about as unchristian as any people on earth. If we realized how unchristian we are we would be profoundly humble. You may ask if I believe in Christianity. That depends on what you mean by Christianity.

"If you mean the reincarnation of the historical Christ in the Man-God, my answer is yes. But if you mean the scholasticism of the year 250 A.D., or the formulism of the Nicene Creed my answer is no. God never intended anything like that.

"The New Testament was written by a lot of chumps who were thick in the head. They were thickheads, but their thickness served Christ, for He was a genius and knew how to make them serve.

"If we continue to behave as we do behave, I don't see any reason why Chinese or any other foreign race should adopt Christianity."

NEW AIR ROUTE NOW EXTENDED

Berlin, June 28.—The German Luftbansa (Commercial Aeroplane Transportation Company) announces the extension of the Berlin-Moscow route to Teheran, Persia, as a consequence of an agreement between the Russian Air Transit Company and the Persian National Aeroplane Company. This will enable Persian planes to fly as far as Baku, on the Caspian Sea. Thus passengers will be able to go from Berlin to Teheran by changing planes twice—at Moscow and Baku.

The Luftlansa also announces the opening of the Breslau-Berlin-Stockholm route. The time for this journey by air will be nine hours, whereas by ship and rail it takes 32 1-2 hours.

ITALIANS WANT LESS EXPOSURE

Rome, June 28.—The relation of bathing suits to morality is one of the courses of study being conducted in Italy under the auspices of the National Federation of Catholic Men. The Federation hopes to equip Catholic fathers and mothers to serve as amateur directors in cooperation with police vice squads.

By means of lectures given to heads of families in each parish, defining the ultimate limits of bodily exposure permitted by law, it is hoped to maintain high standards of "decency" on Italian beaches this summer. The system already has borne fruit in numerous arrests at various resorts, particularly along the Genese Rivera.

2100 Miles in hottest Weather ~Without adding a Pint of Oil

ONE of the finest bits of claim-proving for Marvelube Motor Oil reported to date is a record-breaking run of 2100 miles made last summer by Mr. G. J. Rathbone, Manager of the Brown Wire Specialty Co., of Hamilton.

Mr. Rathbone, using Marvelube Heavy in his 1926 Oldsmobile Coach, completed this long trip under very trying conditions, without changing or adding to the oil in his engine.

He describes his experience as follows:

"I filled my car with Marvelube when starting on my vacation, and travelled 2100 miles, mostly in the States, where the heat was intense, at some points as high as 110° in the shade.

"I added no oil whatever during the 2100 miles, and when I finally drained the oil it was in such splendid condition that the Service Station didn't want to take it out."

This steady grind of over two thousand miles through intense atmospheric heat offered a searching test of Marvelube's ability to "stand up" and retain its lubricating body. An ordinary oil would have "broken down" and caused serious inconvenience to the driver and damage to the motor.

The success with which Marvelube passed this test is proved by Mr. Rathbone's report on the condition of the oil when the crank case was finally drained.

You do not need to break records to prove Marvelube's high quality. Breaking records is a hazardous pastime—dependent as much upon the perfect mechanical fitness of your car as the quality of the oil you use. But you can be sure of satisfaction and economy of upkeep from your car under normal conditions by using Marvelube regularly and changing oil every 500 miles, as recommended by most lubrication experts and car manufacturers.

CANADIAN LADY EDITS FAMOUS MEDICAL VOLUME

World Tribute To Late Sir William Astor By International Association

Montreal, June 29. (C.P.)—Bulletins issued by a scientific society are seldom human documents calculated to appeal to the lay reader. Yet "Bulletin No. IX" of the International Association of Medical Museums, a second impression of which has just left the presses, is essentially that. It is the sincere tribute of the medical profession the world over to the memory of one of its most distinguished members, and one of the most widely-known Canadians,—the late Sir William Osler. This is no technical work, "to be valued only by university medical libraries, for each of the 130 appreciations and reminiscences which it contains is a personal expression of affectionate admiration penned by a friend of colleague. These brief sketches bring before the reader scores of apparently insignificant incidents which would be omitted from a conventional biography, but which combine to give a sympathetic portrait of this great man, appreciable by every reader within whom the instinct of hero-worship is present.

Nine new papers are included in this second impression, and also a memoir, "The Healer", by the Canadian poet, Marian Osborne. The new articles are by Drs. J. B. McConnell, F. G. Finley, Harry Marshall, L. G. Rogatre, A. M. Pashay, Kate Campbell Mead and W. Grant Stewart, and Sir E. Sharpey-Schafer and Lawrason Brown.

It is interesting to note that the exacting task of editing this volume has been accomplished by a Canadian Woman physician, Dr. Maude E. Abbott. Dr. Abbot, who is a graduate of McGill University, has earned confidential-wide reputation as a pathologist. She is secretary of the International Association of Medical Museums.

The generous reception accorded the memorial volume on its first appearance a year ago is but another evidence of the warm affection in which the memory of the late Sir William Osler is held not only by the medical profession, but by the lay public. Dr. Abbot remarks.

"The many tributes, simple and unassuming as they are, have sprung direct from the experience and the hearts of those who knew and venerated and loved him," she writes in a foreward to the second impression. "And the note of restrained hero-worship here revealed strikes an answering chord in all to whom the best ideals of the profession are dear. For there emerges, from every page of this kaleidoscope of memory, the pattern of honesty and integrity thought, broad humanitarianism of purpose, unkindling love of his fellows and unselfish power of sympathy, which, linked with that passion for truth in detail and unwavering capacity for work that was real genius, together made up the character of the man we knew as Osler."

Important sections of this "bulletin" contain a classified and annotated bibliography of Osler's writings and a bibliography of writings about Osler. There is also a valuable series of papers dealing with the great physician's activities against tuberculosis.

This unique memorial which has been in preparation since the death of Sir William Osler eight years ago is now published by the school of his graduation and the home of his library, McGill University.

KANSAS FARMERS HAVE NEW FOE

Topeka, Kansas, June 27.—Electricity generated by dust and high wind storms on the western sweep of Kansas prairie has been added to the foes of the Kansas wheat crop.

Reports of "electrocution" of thousands of acres of growing wheat this spring have been given countenance by the state weather bureau here and by the division of agriculture of the Kansas State Agricultural College at Manhattan.

"It is a pretty well founded theory," said S. D. Flora, state weather observer, in correcting on the reports. "During dry seasons the dust carries charges of electricity. Wire fences and windmills are charged and the electricity will give off sparks half an inch long. I have no knowledge that growing plants will give off sparks. After such disturbances growing wheat fields turn brown and the wheat dies. The after-effects are similar to those of a severe frost."

ENGLAND HAS A "DIRTY BLUE" COLOR

London, June 28.—Colonel Lindbergh's remark that he recognized Ireland who he reached it on his New York-Paris flight because it was mountainous, started talk here of how England looks from the air. The newspapers have been asking the aviators about it.

One flyer said London has a "dirty dull blue" color when seen from the air. He declared seaside towns are much whiter looking than inland ones.

TIRPITZ NEARLY LOST WHISKERS

Copenhagen, Denmark, June 23.—Admiral von Tirpitz's famous whiskers barely escaped a serious singeing in a midnight fire at the ermak Icebreaker several nights ago.

The former Commander of the German Fleet was visiting his daughter, who is the wife of the German Minister to von Hassel and helped fireman put out the blaze.

CANADIAN NAT TRAIN MARKS A NEW RAIL ERA

Winnipeg, Man., June 27.—The Confederation, the new trans-continental train of the National System, reached Winnipeg this morning from Toronto, carrying a full complement of passengers enroute to Vancouver and intermediate points and it also brought the official greetings of Mayor T. Foster of Toronto to the City of Winnipeg. The Confederation on its maiden trip carried also a representative party of newspapermen from the various centres in Ontario and it was on one of these passengers that the message of Mayor Foster to Mayor Webb was entrusted for delivery. Mayor Webb was present at the Union Station to meet the visitors on their arrival and there was a large gathering of railroad men headed by A. A. Tisdale, Assistant to the General Manager Western Region, R. Creelman, Passenger Traffic Manager and A. Wilcox, General Superintendent of Transportation Western Region.

THREE INJURED

Ottawa, June 28.—Three men were injured, one seriously, when a coach, driven by Joseph Caron, 194 Main street, Hull, was side-swiped by a limousine driven by the Japanese Consul-General, Nankichi Matsunaga, 306 Metcalfe street, on the Aylmer road in front of the Royal Ottawa Golf Club, about 6.30 o'clock Sunday evening.

Ingham, Wolverhampton and Crewe are "dirty sepia" in color.

KILLED BY CAR

Oshawa, June 28.— Stepping out from behind cars parked on Olive avenue on Saturday near midnight, Jane Richards, 117 Church street, was struck by an unknown motorist and received injuries from which he died in the Oshawa General Hospital on Sunday evening without regaining consciousness. The injured man was dragged several feet and the driver of the car, switching off the lights sped westward on Olive avenue turning at Albert Street.

LINDY MADE A GLORIOUS FIGHT

New York, June 28.—Lieut. Walter Hinton, who helped to make the first trans-Atlantic flight, knows nothing in the whole history of aviation to equal Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's achievement in remaining awake against the constant drone of his motor during the New York-Paris flight. His opinion appeared in a copyright article by Robert H. Davis in the New York Sun.

Theorizing that all human beings are pitched in a musical key, Lieutenant Hinton says, "an aviator attunes his engine in his own key, to a vibration that is reciprocal and delicate, not only to his car but to his whole being.

"The result, a perfect octave, is maximum achievement. In the case of Lindbergh that is where his greatest danger lay. In resisting the correspondence attack upon his subconsciousness in remaining awake and drawing upon all his alert faculties for that length of time, the latter suffer being the most exacting, he was obliged to fight a five hundred pound bellowing motor with his 32 ounces of heart.

"There are countless examples of equal bravery in the development of science, but his accomplishment sets him apart from all the rest. He took a chance, but behind the seeming risk was a mental and spiritual equipment equal to the motor and the wings upon which he flew."

Lieut. Hinton was pilot of the United States navy's NC-4 which li flew from New York to Newfoundland, thence to the Azores, Portugal and England in 1919. He also was a member of a party of three United States navy balloonists who were lost for several days in Northern Ontario before they reached a Hudson Bay Company post, in 1920.

KIDNEYS NEED LOT OF WATER

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and lazy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Broadcasting Canada's Confederation Jubilee

The picture map above gives a comprehensive idea of the most extensive tie-in of radio stations ever attempted in Canada and possibly in the world. The tie-in links 19 radio stations, with CNRO at Ottawa as the key station and Marconi beam station CF at Drummondville which will re-broadcast on a short wave-length to the British Broadcasting Company in England, which in turn will broadcast to European receiving stations. By means of this tie-in of Canadian radio stations the world will hear not only the special Jubilee radio programmes on the evening of July 1st, but also will listen to the initial peal of the carillon in the tower of the Tie-in Services approximately $3,000,000 of equipment and if undertaken on a commercial basis would have cost approximately $1,000,000 more to establish.

CONFEDERATION AND AFTER

Sixty Years of Progress

A TALE OF MINING

During the latter part of the nineteenth century and the first part of the twentieth century romance and adventure in Canada have been those associated mainly with prospecting and mining. The early discoveries of gold and silver in Nova Scotia, Quebec and parts of Ontario did not create any great amount of excitement, and results, as compared with present day output, were unimportant. Following the great gold rushes of Australia and California, came that of British Columbia in 1858 and subsequently that following the more momentous discoveries in the tributaries of the Fraser River in Cariboo. Subsequent minor excitement occurred over finds in Omineca, Cassiar and in 1869 in Atlin. Cariboo alone has yielded about $60,000,000 of placer gold and B.C. altogether between $75,000,000 and $80,000,000. Perhaps the richest discoveries ever made were in Yukon, beginning in 1896, and nothing since the Australian excitement so stirred the imagination of the English-speaking world. Dawson, the centre of the district, and well within the Arctic Circle, became a modern city of thousands of inhabitants, with all the conveniences and highlights of a cosmopolitan centre. The glory of placer mining, subject to possible new discoveries, with all its romance, adventure, hardships, its high hopes and its many tragedies, is now a thing of the past.

Lode-mining, responsible for the present output of over $240,000,000 and ever increasing production, is a comparatively recent industry. Its importance was only beginning to be recognized in 1886, when the first statistics of mining in Canada began to be systematically collected and tabulated. That year the output was valued at a little over $10,000,000, and the fact that in coal, copper, silver, gold, nickel, lead, zinc, asbestos and structural materials production has increased twenty-four times since then is a piece of romance in itself, and in the line of prospecting and developing adventure would furnish many volumes of truth quite as interesting and exciting as an equal quantity of the best fiction. Though today prospecting is following in the paths of more scientific methods of discovery, and perhaps with more satisfactory results, and although the old-fashioned prospector with his hit and miss methods of following up float to its source and staking many more "dry" holes that real deposits is fast dying out, much of the success of mining has been due to his relentless pursuit of wealth in the wilds of Canada and struggling and undergoing hardships and risks that he would not in any other pursuit expose himself to.

It was in the way of adventure, coupled with a good deal of chance, that the nickel-copper mines of Sudbury, the silver-Cobalt mines of the Cobalt district, the rich gold fields of Porcupine and Kirkland Lake, the gold per gold at Bourn, the discoveries at Pas, the coal in Crowsnest Pass, and the many finds of copper-gold, silver, lead, and zinc mines in Southern British Columbia, on Vancouver Island, at Anyox, at Stewart and in Atlin in B.C., have been made possible. The prospector is now bringing to his aid science, being instructed by mining experts, automobiles—in addition to old-fashioned dog sleds, horses and canoes, —and aeroplanes. He has also radio and wireless to assist. The capitalist is now using diamond drills to determine the depth and extent of his ore and the latest and most economical processes for treating it, making is possible to utilize profitably large bodies of very low-grade quality. In these ways during the last ten years the area of exploited mineralized territory has been tremendously increased and the output proportionately so. Incidentally, Nova Scotia leads in the production of coal, Quebec in asbestos, Ontario in gold, silver and nickel, and British Columbia in copper, lead and zinc. Incidentally, Ont. mining is now the third industry in importance in Canada, and the story of its development since, especially, 1886 the most interesting in our industrial annals. Canada's future as to the extents of its mineral is problematical, but we have reason to conjecture that it is only on the verge of its possibilities.

AFRICAN BELLES WILL STOP THEIR ODIOUS HABITS

Dakar, Senegal, June 28. — Lip-stretching, nose-piercing, and teeth-filing, long practised by the beauties of France's African colonies, have at last fallen under the ban of the law.

From now on the Government of the Third Republic will punish such disfigurations with jail sentences ranging from two to five years. A decree to that effect, duly signed and sealed, has just been promulgated.

Parents of "beauty specialists" who add and abet disfiguration will incur even greater penalties. From five to ten years' incarceration is the sentence "in the shade," as the French say, if they push beautification work beyond the legalized powder puff and lipstick stage.

For a long time France tried moral suasion to dissuade its indigenous subjects from the practice of deformation.

Grown Up Together

THE year 1867, which witnessed the birth of our Dominion, saw the beginning of the institution known today as General Motors of Canada, Limited.

While the Fathers of Confederation drew up the historic documents which welded the scattered colonies into a united country—Robert McLaughlin, the founder of this company, was building his first carriages in an obscure Ontario village.

Since then, the infant Dominion has attained to the full power of nationhood—and, from its humble origin in a village blacksmith shop, General Motors of Canada has become a vast industrial enterprise, progressing as Canada has progressed, expanding as Canada's need for transportation has increased.

And now, on the sixtieth birthday of our nation and our organization, General Motors stands with Canada, still upon the threshold of our greatest possibilities—still with the brightest vistas of the future opening up before us.

INTELLS LOSE TO GRADS 5-2

High School Boys Better With Willow In Pinches

The Intelligencer team lost a closely fought game of soft-ball to the Grads on the High School Ground last night by a 5-2 score. This is the second time these teams have met this season and the second victory for the Grads, who are ex-High School boys, who have moulded themselves into a smart aggregation.

Dan Donahue was on the pitching end for the newspaper lads and twirled bang-up ball with the exception of the sixth when the visitors scored three runs on a circuit drive by Percy Cole. Cook was on the receiving end for Intelligencer.

Vince Napkin was in good form for the Grads and turned back several via the strike-out route. Townsend looked after the catching for the Grads.

Colling pulled two or three sensational catches in left field for the Grads and also hit three times in four trips to the plate.

The Intelligencer team were weak with the willow which cost them the game, their fielding was of the top notch variety, "Ab" Wonnacott in left field for the ink-slingers made his initial bow to the fans and was applauded time and again as he came in to grab screeching line drives and cut off runs. "Ab" played bang-up ball throughout the piece.

Both the umpires gave the utmost satisfaction and will be welcomed back in future games.

GIANTS FAIL TO MAKE HITS COUNT

Mitchel, Phillies' Spit-Baller Subdues McGraw's Maulers

Philadelphia, June 29.—It now appears as though the Giants have changed their minds about going south where in particular, at least for the present. A few days ago they seemed ready to pull up and make a flight toward the upper regions of the National League, but with the team batting better than even on the season's activities.

This distressing state comes about as the result of their timid attack, baffled by one Clarence Mitchell, the Philadelphian, who held the Polo Grounds sluggers at arm's length until his temperamental teammates had hammered out enough runs to make things safe for the afternoon.

After that position had been reached, Rogers Hornsby hit his fourteenth home run of the season with a man on, which made the score 7-3, but didn't change the ultimate result.

The last time Mitchell faced McGraw's mighty maulers he shut them out with three hits. He didn't do as well this afternoon, but Henry did much, much worse.

The Giants accumulated a dozen safe blows, here and there, but that was but the resemblance they either made more runs, they were too much here and there. Only in the eighth inning did they do any sustained hitting. In that frame, Roush singled, Hornsby hit his homer and Harper and Taylor singled, but the last named pair didn't score.

It was like that all afternoon. No one hit when runners were on the bases, and any one seemed able to solve Mr. Mitchell's mysterious spitter when the bases were unoccupied. Specially if there happened to be two out.

The Reds presented a new front to the enemy and with success. The visiting Chicago Cubs fell before the onslaught 8 to 1 giving the Reds two games out of the three played at Cincinnati. Zitzmann, an old hand at the chucking post in the National League was at the pitching position, supplanting Pee Wee Wanninger who is now in the minors back to St. Paul.

ATHLETICS STAGE EXCITING FINISH

Lena Blackburne, Former Toronto Star, Comes Through In Pinch

New York, June 29.—With the score 9 to 0 in favor of the Yankees at the start of the ninth inning yesterday the pastime was considered as good as over. The customers began looking around for the nearest exits, the Yanks gathered up their hats and put them on the bag and Mr. Phil Schenck, the diamond ground-keeper, started to unravel the hose that he might sprinkle his lawn. Then the fun started. No sooner had Mr. Schenck had laid a hand to the hose than the an Athletic batter singled. The next man tripled, the next five singled, and before Miller James Huggins could put out the fire eight Quakers had scored, the tying run was on first base and a homer would have won the game.

The Yanks won out, 9 to 8, and Mr. Huggins set a new world record by holding his breath for ten minutes. He was revived only with great difficulty after the game and was reported to be still purple in the face at a late hour last night.

Lena Blackburne who 12 years ago starred as a White Sox infielder, played the hero role at Chicago by defeating Cleveland 8 to 7 by a thrilling 9th-inning finish. With the tying run on second base and one out, Blackburne inserted himself as a pinch hitter for Cole, in the absence of Manager Schalk who had been put off the field by Umpire Owens for protesting a decision. Lena cracked a single which sent Peck home from second tying the score. Hodlin replaced Shantz and Shealey greeted him with a single which sent Blackburne to third. Simmons followed with a long fly to Jacobson which scored Blackburne with the winning run.

Irvin Crowder was the hero as Washington shut out Boston, 4 to 0. Crowder held the Red Sox to two hits, both singles, and his double to left centre in the third inning scored Goslin after first two runs. It was the tenth straight defeat for the Bosox.

The Tigers captured both ends of a double-header from the St. Louis Browns at Detroit, taking the first game, 9 to 3, and the second, 6 to 3. The Tigers won the opening contest by virtue of left-hander Zachary and Falk, freely, and they annexed Wingard with a three-run rally in the eighth at the expense of another left-hander, Wingard. This attack on Wingard settled a pitchers' battle between him and Rip Collins.

STARS BEATEN SINGLE-HANDED

Orioles Lose Fourth Straight To Newark Bears—Skeets Win

New York, June 29.—Blackie Carter, slugging Bisons outfielding emulated Mears, Ruth, Gehrig, Lazzeri et al, to beat the league leading Orioles single handed at Buffalo yesterday. He crashed three homers on a line over the left field fence to account for seven runs. The score was 12 to 7. All of Carter's homers were registered off Sylvester Johnson, Black right-hander of the Stars.

Carter usurped the hero role in the pitch spot of the game when in the seventh round Bissonnette was purposely passed to get Blackie, who had previously cracked two homers. The visitors were leading, 9 to 6, but Carter immediately whistled his third circuit drive of the game far and wide over the left field fence to clinch matters once and for all. Carter drew a pass on his fourth time to bat, getting credit for a perfect day.

Newark handed the Orioles their fourth consecutive defeat at Baltimore 6 to 5. With the score at four-all in the eighth Beard replaced Earnshaw on the mound and hits by Macklin, Hawks and Davis gave the visitors their two winning tallies. The Birds threatened again in the ninth when Mabel hit a long home-run and Porter followed with a double.

Reading's ninth inning rally fell short, and Jersey City moved out the Keys on the first of the Reading series, 6 to 5. Reading scored three runs in the final frame, Barbee hitting a homer as a pinch hitter with Quellich on first.

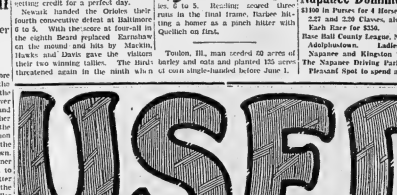

Toulon, Ill., man seeded 62 acres of barley and oats and planted 125 acres to corn single-handed before June 1.

Sixty Years of Canadian National Progress

IN 1860, the Grand Trunk Railway, now a part of the Canadian National Railways, comprised 872 miles of track. Today, Canadian National embraces 22,548 miles of line, the largest railway system in America, touching every important Canadian city; fleets of steamships that carry Canada's ensign and products to every quarter of the globe; Dominion-wide express and telegraph services; a chain of distinguished city hotels; resort hotels and bungalow camps, and an Industrial Department to foster the location and development of new industry.

The development of Canada and the Canadian National Railways is interwoven closely. As one grew, so did the other, mutually dependent.

Before even the memorable year of Confederation, portions of the present-day Canadian National had attracted world-wide attention to themselves and to the then-struggling young country. The construction of the original Victoria Bridge for the Grand Trunk Railway and its opening by the Prince of Wales in 1860, focussed the eyes of Nations on Canada as perhaps no preceding event had ever done.

Canada, being a land of vast distances, the railway was seen to be the key to her future expansion and prosperity. Indeed, the Grand Trunk Railway had long been the dominating factor in Canada's growth to date. It had opened up the then known parts of Ontario and Quebec to settlement and had tapped the country's resources from the International Boundary at Sarnia to Riviere du Loup.

In Confederation year, the dependence of national growth upon rail communication became even more strikingly evident, the construction of the Intercolonial Railway being insisted upon by the Maritime Provinces as a condition of entry into the Dominion.

Thus, within a single decade, Canadian National was linked with two of the greatest events in Canada's history, and helped make Confederation an accomplished fact.

Since then, Canada and the Canadian National have developed hand in hand. Mile upon mile of new track was laid in Quebec and Ontario; new towns and industries sprang into being; new lands were opened to cultivation. The sister country to our South was brought into intimate communication with us, commerce was stimulated, capital attracted, immigration fostered.

Then the west called and the Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk Pacific Railways opened up vast areas of fertile prairie to the settler; rich Pacific timber and mineral lands were made to yield their wealth; scenic wonderlands were made accessible and a new route afforded to Canada's Pacific Coast. The Transcontinental Railway, from Winnipeg to Quebec, connected this great west with the eastern provinces.

Wherever it was needed, the railway appeared, a typical modern instance being that of the Rouyn Mining District, the development of which is made possible by Canadian National service.

CANADA'S FINEST RESORTS

Whatever your vacation preference, you will find it served by Canadian National, whose lines reach Canada's finest mountain, seaside and lakeland resorts. Among them are — Jasper National Park, 5,300 square miles of rugged Canadian Rocky Mountain splendour; the flower-decked Pacific Coast; Minaki the beautiful, on the Winnipeg River; the Highlands of Ontario; the Laurentian Mountains and the Lower St. Lawrence in quaint old French-Quebec; and the seaside and woodland havens of the Maritime Provinces.

HOTELS OF DISTINCTION

Seasoned travellers are enthusiastic over Canadian National hotel service. Whether at a resort or camp, or at one of the all-year hotels, they find their every need anticipated and efficiently catered to in an environment of gratifying, yet unostentatious, comfort and luxury.

INDUSTRIAL OPPORTUNITIES

The Canadian National Industrial Department has taken a leading part in placing the facts as to industrial opportunities in Canada before prospective entrants and in inducing and helping them to locate and prosper here. Canada, with its cheap and plentiful power, desirable sites and stable labour conditions, affords unique opportunities for industrial location and growth. The expanding domestic market is supplemented by tariff preferences which bring to the whole of the British Empire open to Canadian manufactures.

CANADIAN NATIONAL STEAMSHIPS

Palatial passenger steamers ply the Pacific Coast from Vancouver and Prince Rupert to Alaska and Queen Charlotte Islands. The Canada-British West Indies passenger and freight service, implements the Canada-British West Indies trade treaty, and has been largely augmented as a result of this arrangement. Trade and traffic between Canada and the Islands is growing rapidly—another instance of the close relationship between the Dominion and her railways. World-wide freight service is operated by the Canadian Government Merchant Marine in conjunction with Canadian National Railways.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

Not all the noblest songs are worth one noble deed.

A. AUSTIN.

FRIENDS

Friends are people who have seen each other at their worst and can still tolerate each other. It is commonly assumed that as relations are born to one and friends are of one's own making there is a premium on friends. The unfortunate part about this is that while people are not responsible for their relations they are responsible for their friends, a responsibility that is often disregarded.

Friends are supposed to be people to whom one may turn for help in time of need, and yet a true friend is never supposed to impose upon his friends. Often "friends indeed" strike from their lists of friends those "friends in need."

Though not always available in a crisis, friends are exceedingly conscientious about the minor functions of their office. They seem to us unflattering things others say behind our backs and make us the butt of jokes, criticisms and admonitions.

Friendships are, so to speak, acquaintances which have "taken." Or perhaps it is more correct to say that friendships represent a survival of the fittest, for few persons can long survive the punishment friendship imposes.

There are some things that can be said for friendship and friends. One need not live in deadly fear of insulting them, nor must one forever be striving to make an impression upon them. And at all times one feels free to impose upon them.

A friend in need may be a friend indeed, but the worst sort of enemy is the friend who has turned against you.

"SPRUCE UP"

Mayor Wilmot has issued a request to citizens and merchants generally to decorate their homes and residences during the Jubilee Celebration and as yet many of them have failed to comply with the request. Tourists will be favorably impressed with our city if we show that we are in keeping with the spirit of the occasion of Canada's 60th Birthday.

Already many homes, especially in the residential districts, are draped in flags and bunting, but the business section is in a large percentage barren of the decorative effect.

Belleville will be invaded tomorrow by people from all parts of the country for the celebration and in order the impression of our city a lasting one.

The local celebration is not to such a large scale as that being attempted by other cities in this locality, but the decorations should not interfere in this respect.

If your home or store is not already strung with the usual form of decorations do it tonight or early tomorrow morning before the crowds line the city streets.

AN ATHLETIC MARVEL

Joe Wright, the Argonaut rowing star of Toronto, upset the calculations of the leading English rowing critics by disposing of Collett the great British marvel who was conceded a big advantage over the Canadian oarsman.

Canadians from Halifax to Vancouver are pulling for the Toronto boy to retrieve the laurels once captured by Lou Scholes.

The Diamond Sculls is the world's premier rowing classic and Joe Wright will receive a welcome that will equal that given Lindbergh. George Young or any other celebrity of the present age, should the young sculler go through undefeated.

Joe Wright comes of a family of oarsmen, his father was a famous coach and an older brother was a member of the Argonaut crew in former days. Best of all, Joe Wright is a Canadian and whether athletic-inclined or otherwise one cannot help but admire the efforts of this young colleague-barer of this great Dominion.

Always some important thing I've left behind.

An my annual vacation,
In a state of consternation,
I remember that I didn't lock the door.
Then it strikes me that perhaps
I forgot to turn the taps
Off, and all the water's running on the floor.

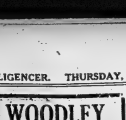

In my wild and quiet uncouth rush,
Sure enough I leave my tooth-brush
Behind me on the bedroom washing-stand;
Hear my mad and angry hissing
When I find my razor missing,
And my nice new yellow gloves are not to hand.

Year by year I seem to get a little worse instead of better;
My mind is full of holes and simply rotten,
Now again I'm by the ocean,
Are you any sort of notion
What it is that I have stupidly forgotten?

Though my memory's distressing,
Just felt once it is a blessing;
I have never been so happy in my life.
Here I am all on my own-some Feeling not the least bit lonesome,
Though I quite forgot to bring along my wife!

TO WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Mrs. Wilson's Experience a Guide to Women Passing through the Change of Life

Hamilton, Ontario.—"I have taken several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I cannot speak too highly of it as I was at the change of life and was all run-down and had no appetite. I was very weak and sick, and the pains in my back were so bad I couldn't do my work. I got very sad at times and thought I had not a friend on earth. I did not care if I lived or died. I was very nervous, too, and did not go out very much. A friend advised me to try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I did. I am a farmer's wife, and always worked hard until lately, and was in bed for two months. I began to feel like a new woman after the first bottle and I recommend it with great success, also Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills. I am willing to answer letters from women asking about your medicines, as I cannot speak too highly of them."—Mrs. EMMA WILSON, 471 Wilson Street, Hamilton, Ontario.

FINE RECORD OF CANADIAN FIRM

Now that Canada is celebrating her Diamond Jubilee, it is fitting to recall some of the outstanding examples of the vision, capacity and enterprise that have lifted this country of ours, in 60 short years, into a position of world prominence and recognition.

It is a truism that a nation is only as great as the individual citizens that go to make it up. The Hon. Peter Co-Larkin is a great man who has helped to build Canada in these years. Now holding one of the highest positions within the gift of his country—representative of the Dominion of Canada at the heart of the Empire—he is discharging his responsible duties there with the same wisdom, the same energy, the same unflagging determination that have always characterized his life.

The name "SALADA" is familiar to every man, woman and child in Canada. It is practically synonymous with tea. The Salada Tea Company, one of the greatest companies in the world and by far the largest in the Western Hemisphere, is the creation of the Hon. P. C. Larkin.

Founded in 1892, in two rooms at 25 Front Street, East, Toronto, the Salada Tea Company has now probably the three largest and finest ware houses in the world devoted solely to the merchanting of tea. These are located at Toronto, Montreal and Boston, U.S.A.

During 1926, over 47 million packages of "SALADA" Tea were purchased by the housewives of North America and much tea was also shipped to the West Indies, South America and many foreign countries.

STARK - WANNAMAKER

At Bridge Street Parsonage, yesterday, a charming wedding was solemnized when Verna Wannamaker of Hastings became the lovely bride of Lawrence Stark of Detroit formerly of Belleville. The bride who was attended by Miss Margaret Wilson of Madoc was attired in a becoming gown of white crepe, edged with handsome bead trimming and hat and shoes to match, while the bridesmaid looking lovely was similarly attired. Mr. Gordon Stark of Detroit, attended the groom.

The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful set of pearls and to the best man a handsome pair of gold cuff links.

Immediately after the ceremony the young couple left on a honeymoon to be spent in Detroit and Toronto and on their return they will make their home in Windsor.

O'BRIEN —O'BRIEN

A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterboro, when Margaret Anne, eldest daughter of Mrs. Winifred O'Brien and the late William O'Brien, became the bride of Dr. James Francis O'Brien, of Peterborough. Rev. F. Costello performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Dr. J. M. O'Brien, entered the church to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Hurley. She wore a lovely gown of ivory satin, faced crepe, made in period style, with long sleeves and bouffant skirt draperies. Pearl embroidery ornamented the bodice and outlined the points of the hem of the skirt, which was inset with motifs of point lace. A veil of Brussels lace was worn, made in spanish coronet style with garniture of orange blossoms. A string of pearls, white kid slippers with buckles of orange blossoms, white silk hose, and a bouquet of butterfly roses completed the bride's costume. Several pearls from Belleville attended the wedding party.

When you visit a family in Ireland you must kiss each member according to age or rank, beginning with the highest, and descending to the lowest not excepting the servants. On taking leave the order is reversed, the servants receiving the first kisses.

LAYING DIVORCE EVIL TO SMALL INCOMES

By ELSIE MARLOWE

"It's the lack of money that keeps the divorce court busy," says Edgar. Here is his letter:

EDGAR ELSIE:

How can anyone with a small salary expect to make a success of marriage? I have a friend who is contemplating taking the step this June on $125 per month. I call it foolhardy. I am making over £300 and I don't dare venture. Don't you think that it is lack of money that keeps the divorce court busy?

EDGAR.

So, you think that the dollar mark is the measure of success or failure in marriage, Edgar? How come? Some of our best divorces have been staged in mansions with butlers and French maids acting as corroborating witnesses. Which proves that your little argument is all wet.

Helen and Jack may live like love-birds on $25 a week. And Harry and Alice may stage a scrap a minute on $250 a week. It has happened. So it isn't money that puts the brakes on divorce, son. It's something bigger than that. Something money can't buy. It's tolerance and patience and forbearance and bigness and bravery and wisdom enough to keep the home fires burning.

Overweight check books may buy bouquets and opera boxes, ermine and sealskin coats but they can't buy happiness for anybody. Happiness is a product of the heart and the head—not the pay envelope.

Her birthday came—it also went! But hubby's flowers don't come at all. And now Marianne is beginning to doubt hubby's love. HOW CAN HE LOVE HER WHEN HE FORGETS HER BIRTHDAY?

DEAR ELSIE:

I am feeling so bad that I thought I would write to you for a word of cheer. I have been married just two years. Elsie, and already my husband has forgotten my birthday.

I had a birthday last week. Of course I expected he would remember her it. He hasn't even thought of it yet. I'm really terribly hurt. I hate to think that his love is waning, but, Elsie, you know that little things are the things that count in love, Elsie, do you think he still loves me?

MARIANNE.

Of course he loves you, Marianne. Only his love doesn't function by your road rules, that's all. You think love means a bunch of gardenias on your birthday. He thinks love means working hard and long so that you can have comfort and he can pay the rent and the insurance and buy you the gasoline. Ever stop to think about these things? Don't you think they can mean love just as much as a bunch of flowers?

Maybe it is the little things that count. I don't know. Personally I'd take the guy who forgets the gardenias but remembers to leave a check for the butcher on the first of each month. You can't eat gardenias, lady but what would you eat if you didn't pay the meat bill? If you look around you'll find that the woods are full of husbands who sit up nights on the porch but they let wife stall off the milkman when he comes to collect a three-months-old bill.

SO DON'T DOUBT YOUR HUSBAND'S LOVE JUST BECAUSE HE FORGETS FLOWERS ON YOUR BIRTHDAY! NOTICE SOME OF THE OTHER THINGS THAT PROVE HIS LOVE.

PROGRESS WOULD SATISFY HOWE

Toronto, June 30.—Joseph Howe, who at one time bitterly opposed Confederation and later supported it, would be well satisfied if he could look down on the Dominion today, with the progress that has been made. This sentiment is expressed by Sydney Howe, a son of this Nova Scotia statesman, in a letter from his home at Midlothian, Nova Scotia, to Premier G. H. Ferguson.

Big Demand For Renzyme

Druggists say that the merit of this new product makes it a quick seller.

Even though Renzyme is a drugless product and entirely different to the usual medicines found in a drug store, druggists are very enthusiastic in regard to it.

They recognize in it a natural treatment which cannot fail to afford relief and have found that their customers do not use it long before becoming absolutely convinced of its merits.

W. E. M. Cruthwaite, Druggist, St. Mary's, Ont., writes: "The sale of 'RENZYME' has been remarkable and no stomach medicine has been put across the counter with so little argument. Our experience has been once a customer tries it he will accept nothing else, as it seems to do the work."

"One of the most favourable points in selling it is the idea of no drugs which the public seems to take to. Our sales are gradually increasing and it has been gratifying to see it go across with so very little effort."

You can obtain Renzyme from your druggist at $1.50 a bottle or it will be sent to you, postpaid, on receipt of price, if you mention this paper. The Renzyme Laboratories, Toronto, 2, Canada.

A-vice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

I am in love with a boy who is handsome and blond. He has quite the most devastating personality I have ever encountered.

He comes from one of the best families in town and the only thing my parents have against him is that he drinks. But, oh, he is so utterly charming! Please don't tell me to forget him.

WORRIED.

WORRIED: Of course, there is nothing he is there is only unhappiness in store for you with a man such as he. Your parents realize this and you cannot blame them for discouraging your interest in the young man.

If he cares for you enough, he should be willing to be put upon a long period of probation. If he agrees tell your parents that it would be only fair to give him an opportunity to set himself right in their eyes.

SYBIL, TRAPPER OF MEN

By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 55.

CATASTROPHIE

A week had passed and Dick Sheldon was still at Sybil's side, waiting, harassed, and haggard for the man he believed betrayed her. He hadn't gone back to the flying field at all. In that week he had aged years.

Time and again he had said deeperately: "Sybil, I've got to go. I can't stay here any longer. Heaven knows it's probably no use here—but I can't I daren't. I won't miss the official inquiry, even for you!"

But then somewhere in the crowds on the streets, or in the lobby of restaurants, when they had met together, or when he took her home and returned to his own quarters in the building next door, his ragged nerves would play him false; his tortured imagination would make him believe he saw the sinister figure in the greyish-cloth hat.

So, he remained on guard, not daring to leave her alone, even though he was wrecking his career. There was no longer any need for Sybil to persuade him to stay. He didn't listen to her vague, petty protestations, and he turned a deaf ear to the accusations of the janitor and his wife that no suspicious characters had been hanging around. He was consumed with his desire to protect Sybil—even though he was wracked in soul and body by the terrible conflict between heart and duty.

And then, on the night before he was to go back to the field, the night before the inspection, he ran squarely into the man with the gray slouch-hat, outside the apartment-building. Ted's emissary wanted more money, and Sybil had given it to him. She got rid of him before young Sheldon arrived, but as she watched the man's departure, she saw the inevitable encounter from the window.

Dick stopped the fellow, anger showing in every line of his stiffened figure. The other man seemed to mutter something and tried to slip by the infuriated young officer.

Dick's arm shot out. His fist first caught the man off the point of the chin with a force that made him reel. But the fellow was agile, and he came back quickly.

The street, at that hour of a hot summer night, was deserted. The park was shielded by the foliage from the lobby of the apartment-building. The lobby was empty, and the elevator-man was sleeping. Only a few lights showed in the windows of the apartments above.

Dick leaned far out of her window, her own slim form clenched in excitement as she watched the men, who were scarcely more than shadows, swaying, twisting, panting, on the side walk below, when her quick eye caught sight of a policeman. Before she could utter a warning cry, she heard the quick tread of running feet, and a form bore down upon the combatants.

"Hey, youse!"

The hand of the Law descended firmly on Dick Sheldon's shoulder.

Startled, Dick slackened his hold on his opponent, who wriggled himself loose with a single swift movement, ducked around the officer, and fled. Quite evidently, as he had told Sybil, he didn't "crave to be mixed up with the cops."

"Hey," repeated the policeman, "what's all this about?"

Sybil strove to hear what Dick was saying, but his voice was too low. There was a brief argument apparent. If the officer's attitude became increasingly menacing. The end came when he took a firmer grip on Dick's shoulder and marched him away.

Sybil stared after them, wide-eyed. Dick was being arrested for disorderly conduct, undoubtedly—and he was an officer of the United States army, away from his post without leave!

She turned and groped for a chair, very slowly, the seriousness of the situation dawned upon her.

"Now I have ruined him!" she said to herself. "Then the old hatred of all men flamed up, and she could not repress her sense of satisfaction. "This is likely to be the worst havoc I have accomplished, so far," she added, with a little smile.

Old poem brought up to date: "Oft in the chilly night."

SOLAR ECLIPSE WELL OBSERVED

Astronomers Say Sight Most Brilliant Of The Century

Giggleswick, Yorkshire, Eng., June 29.—Tens of thousands of awed spectators in the locality belt of this morning's solar eclipse saw a magnificent sight, such as had not been witnessed in Great Britain in more than a hundred years. In many parts of the total fly zone counties of Lancashire, Cheshire, Durham and Yorkshire, spectacle was more or less marred by the mists and fleeting clouds but it was observed in perfection here, where a large crowd was assembled and where astronomical watchers made what were described as the best observations they have even been able to take.

Sir Frank Dyson, astronomer heading the Royal Observatory expedition, told the associated press today that this morning's eclipse was the most brilliant he had ever observed, and said that very accurate observations made may lead to new conclusions.

Sheer Frocks and Women's Hygiene

New way safer—discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

THAT filmy gowns and women's oldest hygienic problem now go safely together is a fact millions of women are learning.

Old-time sanitary "pads" with their worries and dangers are giving way to the utter protection of a new way called Kotex.

✓ Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton "pads," one may now dance, motor, go about for hours with never a doubt. Also deodorizes; thus ending all fear of offense.

Obtain at any store without embarrassment simply by saying "Kotex." Box contains 12. Be sure you get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

Drive the car that established 10 world records—

5000 miles in less than 5000 minutes!

The COMMANDER

A STUDEBAKER BIG SIX

Only by owning a Commander can you avoid taking Commander dust on hills and highways

FROM one Coast to the other, The Commander is smashing records of speed, records of hill climbing, and records of sales!

5000 Miles in Less Than 5000 Minutes

In a recent sensational test at Culver City, California, under the auspices of the American Automobile Association, Harry Hartz and three other noted pilots drove The Commander—a strictly stock, fully-equipped enclosed car—5000 miles in 4999 minutes, total elapsed time, establishing ten new world records!

This is better than mile-a-minute speed for 81 consecutive hours and 49 minutes—the fastest speed for the farthest distance ever attained by any stock car!

It is equivalent in stress and strain to 25,000 miles of ordinary driving. Yet in establishing all and each of the intervening world records, the only mechanical repairs necessary on The Commander were three grease cups (damaged in hasty greasing), and one spark plug.

The Commander Out-climbs All Other Cars

In Toronto, on April 26th, a stock model Commander Sedan carried

As Culver City, Cal. left

seven passengers up Pellatt's Hill in 30 seconds! Though the grade is 10%, and the rough road surface was wet, this powerful Big Six motor carried 1219 pounds one-tenth of a mile to the top in high gear! Then from a standing start in high gear, The Commander carried two passengers, weighing 379 pounds, over the crest in exactly 26⅘ seconds!

As an additional test of the abundant power of this quiet Studebaker, seven men were again carried up the hill at slow speed in high gear—the shifting lever was not touched nor the clutch slipped. Starting at the bottom at a speed of only 10 miles per hour, the stout-hearted engine hung on dogged-ly going over the top at 9 miles per hour! This slow speed in high gear, up a 10% grade with 1219 pounds of passengers.

These tests were made with a strictly stock Studebaker Sedan under the observation and timing of W. B. Hastings, Manager of Tests and Contests, Ontario Motor League and Canadian Automobile Association.

In Montreal, Too

In Montreal, on April 19th, a Studebaker Commander Sedan climbed the mile-long Mount Pleasant Avenue and Belvedere Road in 2 minutes, 58½ seconds! While accomplishing this feat the car carried two passengers, weighing 358 pounds, up an elevation of 433 feet!

Another Montreal test was on a 17% grade up Clarke Avenue, Westmount, near the famous ski

"Based on my experience driving my personal Studebaker Commander and in making the recent record run at Culver City Speedway with a Studebaker Commander strictly stock model, it is my opinion that it will maintain any given speed, up to sixty-five miles per hour, longer, more smoothly, and at less expense per hour traveled, for gasoline, oil and repairs, than any other stock automobile now being built."

Prices of The Studebaker Commander:

Other Studebaker Models from $1720 to $3365; Erskine Six Models $1365 to $1465.

jump. Here The Commander started in high at 23 miles per hour and climbed to the top at a speed of 15 miles per hour. Gears were not shifted, nor was the clutch slipped on this strictly stock Commander—yet it conquered a 17% grade in high.

T. C. Kirby, General Manager Montreal Motorists League, timed and observed these strenuous tests.

Such performance on hills is merely a dramatic demonstration of the smooth flow of abundant power built into every Studebaker by Canadian workmen.

What These Records Mean to You

You probably will never need mile-a-minute speed for 5000 miles—you may never want to enter a hill-climbing contest. But these remarkable records are proof of what we have demonstrated time and again on Studebaker's 800-acre Proving Ground—That The Commander in every phase of every-day driving will out-perform and outlive any other car, six or eight, selling for less than $3500.

Drive The Commander Yourself

The best evidence for you of the thrilling performance of The Commander is what the car will do in your own hands. Get behind the wheel of a Commander as our guest, without strings or obligation. Learn for yourself why the Studebaker Big Six now far out-sells the combined totals of all other cars in the world of equal or greater rated horsepower.

APPLY SAGE TEA TO DARKEN FADED HAIR

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with Sulphur and alcohol added will turn gray streaked and faded hair dark as a stately dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients. It is known as Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur Compound and can be obtained at all drug stores for only 75 cents a bottle.

While gray faded hair is not sinful we desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You can dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark; glossy soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

BELLE THEATRE

The ridin', shootin', shoutin' cow boys of the Tom Mix outfit and the broncho busters of Yellowstone National Park recently met in a rodeo to determine who's who among rough riders and when the dust had cleared away Frank Gushki, a Mixite, was declared the all-round champion. 'Nuf prize was Tom Mix' sombrero, which Dorothy Dwan wore during the contests.

Gushki is a gallant chap and after trying on the sixteen-quart lid, decided Miss Dwan made a better appearance in it than he did. He gave it to her.

The rodeo was staged in Yellowstone during the filming of "The Canyon of Light," Fox Films latest western thriller, starring Mix. It is now showing at the Belle Theatre.

Miss Dwan plays the feminine lead of Concha Dene. Don't miss it. j

CAPITOL THEATRE

Oh what a banquet for Belleville theatregoers in the coming weeks screen attractions, at the Capitol. Today, June 30th, for one day, will be presented Sir Rider Haggard's "She" starring beautiful Betty Blythe.

On Friday and Saturday will be offered Zane Grey's best story, "The Mysterious Rider" starring Jack Holt. Then on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the screen attraction will be "The Love Thrill" with Laura LaPlante and Tom Moore in the feature roles. This production has just played the Hippodrome, Toronto, and is reported to be one of the best pictures of the year.

Then coming after seven hits which the Capitol will present in the near future are "The Sensation Seekers" with Billy Dove; the "Waltz Dream", bigger than the "Merry Widow"; "Partners Four", "Captain Salvation", "Flesh and the Devil", "Twelve Miles Out" and 30 other big productions have all been contracted for to play at the Capitol besides special added stage attractions. Looks like a great season for lovers of good screen plays. If it's playing the Capitol you'd know it's good.

NATIONALS LOSE To DELORO 10-5

Smelters Hit Ball Hard In Second And Seventh Frames

ERRORS COSTLY

Gibson Started And Was Later Yanked In Favor Of Gerow

A new angle was cast on the Bay of Quinte League yesterday when the Belleville Canadian Nationals received the short end of a 10-5 score in their game with the Deloro team on the latter's diamond. The locals put up one of the ragedest games seen to date in the newly formed Intermediate circuit and certainly did not deserve to win on their performance yesterday. In the seventh inning the homesters were leading 10-1 but a spurt on the part of the Railroaders netted them four runs in the last two frames, three of these coming in the final chukker. However, the Deloro boys had piled up too great a lead and were still five runs to the good when the pastime was completed.

Young Flagler who turned in such a sparkling performance at Point Anne two weeks ago, made at least three glaring errors yesterday which did not help the locals' cause any. "Hoot" Gibson was sent in to do the running but the little right-hander was no mystery to Manager Smith's Provincial champions although the fault was not all his. Pilot Mills elected to derrick in the fifth in favor of Gerow who finished the pastime although the latter did himself into some hot water in the seventh when the smelters added four more to their string.

"Billy" Leal, the veteran of veterans, went to the hillock for the winners and his delivery was somewhat puzzling to the Nationals who could do little damage with it until the 9th and as soon as he started to waver Manager Elliott sent "Hoky" Woods to the youthful right hander to the box and he finished the piece.

Hagerman took the receiving end instead of Manager Mills but the latter installed himself behind the plate in the sixth.

Art Quinn, Boudreau and Brown were the sluggers for the Deloro nine with three hits each. Quinn cleared the bases with a long triple to left field in the third frame.

GEHRIG HOMERS; EVEN WITH RUTH

New York, June 30.—Lou Gehrig, the larruping laborer at first base for the Yanks, fashioned his twenty-fourth home of the season today and is now running neck and neck with Babe Ruth in the American's great home run derby. Louis and Herman are now as even as two and two, and it is the Babe's turn to worry.

Alarmed by the threatening gestures of his youthful rival, Mr. Ruth hastened out to the park today, taped his right knee in heavy bandages, climbed into his uniform and returned to the game. But it did him no good. All he could hit were singles and doubles—four of them. This obvious slump on the part of Mr. Ruth should be looked into.

The Red Sox, who are off on another of their inimitable leaner streaks, dropped their eleventh straight game while Herr Gehrig was hitting his homer and while George Pipgras was pitching the tidiest sort of ball imaginable. George held the tailenders to three hits, fanned six of them and let only one hostile get to first base in the last four innings.

The Senators knocked the Athletics out of second place when Goslin became of their home series, 8 to 5. Cochrane hit a homer in the eighth, scoring Simmons ahead of him. Thurston was effective for Washington and although relieved by Mayberry in the eighth was credited with the victory.

Chicago and Cleveland broke even in a double-header, the Sox winning the first game 5 to 3 and the Indians taking the second 8 to 6. Blankenship was the recent form in the opener, the White Sox bunching hits off Levsen and Smith for an easy victory. Heavy batting of pitchers, all of whom had a w...howing in the second, rolled out a hard time

CARDINALS RALLY, TO BEAT PIRATES

New York, June 30.—The Cardinals rallied in the eighth inning for five runs and evened the series with the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates by taking the final game yesterday, 10 to 8. The world's champions thus closed their home stand with twenty victories and nine defeats and took to the road only one-half game behind the Pirates. Each team used four day pitchers.

With the Cards one run behind, Manager Bob O'Farrell, who had been out since May 18 with a sore arm, took his place behind the bat to inspire his players. The Pirates added three more runs. Then in the eighth the Cards found their batting stride, slamming Yde for three singles and Kremer for a single and two doubles. Topocier's two-base hit brought in the winning run.

Philadelphia won the home series opener with Brooklyn today by 5 to 4.

The Reds and Chicago Cubs split the Cincinnati series two-all yesterday.

TORONTO TEAM HERE SATURDAY

Grads To Meet All-Stars In Evening Fixture At H. S. Grounds

Belleville softball fans will get a peep at one of the fastest men't teams that ever came out of the Green City when an all star aggregation, mostly composed of the Famous Players will meet the Grads, a fast squad made up of ex-High School boys. The all star team are playing in Trenton tomorrow and through the efforts of Jack Robertson, manager of the Grads, the Toronto team have promised to come here and play on the High School lot at 6.15 on Saturday evening. The Grads are a smart aggregation and will give the Allstars a run for their money. The locals have won every game played this season and are at the peak of their form right now. They will "trailer" Naphin to do the flinging with an outside chance of "Dan" Donahue assisting in the heaving end. Townsend will go behind the bat with "Jerry" Hurley at first base, Faulkner at the keystone sack, Cole at the hot corner and Ketcheson at short stop complete a fast inner division. Among the outfielders are Duff, Colling and Ross.

Geo. Bell who hung up a new record by striking out 21 in a recent game in Toronto is the Allstars ace in the box. Smith is their home-run king and Lasma who holds down shortstop is the fastest man in Toronto softball circles.

This is sure to be a real game and fans would do well to be on hand at the High School ground on Saturday evening at 6.15.
